(84)—Res judicata—Question in issue between plaintiff and defendant decided in former suit in which both parties were co-defendants.—The fact that a question in issue between plaintiff and defendant was formerly decided in a suit in which plaintiff and defendant were arrayed together on the same side as co-defendants does not, except under very exceptional circumstances, constitute that question res judicata. BISHONATH SINGH v. BISHESHAR SINGH, A.W.N. 1891, 34. [F., 16 A. 464; R., 26 A. 386.]

(85)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Adjudication as between co-defendants—Res judicata.—Whenever an adjudication between the defendants is necessary to give the appropriate relief to the plaintiff, there must be such an adjudication, and, in such a case, the adjudication will be res judicata between the defendants as well as between the plaintiff and defendants. But, for this effect to arise, there must be a conflict of interests amongst the defendants and a judgment defining the real rights and obligations of the defendants inter se. Without such necessity, the judgment will not be res judicata between the defendants, in any subsequent suit between them; in other words, if the relief given to the plaintiff does not require or involve a decision of any matter in contest between co-defendants, such co-defendants will not be bound as between themselves by any proceeding which may be necessary only to the decree the plaintiff obtains. AHMAD ALI v. NAJABAT KHAT, 18 A. 65=A.W.N. 1895, 156. (11 B. 216, F.) [F., 31 C. 95=8 C.W.N. 30, U.B.R. 1907, 2nd Qr., C.P.C. 5; Appr., 25 B. 74; R., 22 B. 245, 2 O.C. 303, 22 A. 386.]

(86)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13 (=s. 11, new Code)—Res judicata, as between defendants.—Where an adjudication between defendants is necessary to give the appropriate relief to the plaintiff, the adjudication will be as judicata between the defendants as well res between the plaintiff and defendants. But, for this effect to arise, there must be a conflict of interests between the defendants, and a judgment defining the real rights and obligations of the defendants inter se. Without necessity, a judgment will not be res judicata amongst defendants, nor will it be res judicata amongst them by mere inference from the fact that they have been collectively defeated in resisting a claim to a share made against them as a group. CHAJJU v. UMRAO SINGH, 22 A. 386=A.W.N. 1900, 120. (11 B. 216, 18 A. 65, A.W.N. 1891, 34, 15 M. 264, R.) [F., 36 C. 193=5 C.L.J. 611, U.B.R. 1907, 2nd Qr., Civ. Pro. Code, p. 5; R., 16 C.P.L.R. 42.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——6.—Parties—continued.

(87)—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=s. 11, new Code)—Res judicata between co-defendants—Construction of "Between the same parties."—S 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, does not preclude the decision upon any issue from operating as res judicata, merely because the issue is raised as between co-defendants, if the matter involved was directly and substantially in issue in a former suit, and the other necessary conditions are satisfied. (3 C. 551, 11 B. 216, 18 A. 65, 29 C. 707 R.) [R., 36 C. 193=5 C.L.J. 611, 5 C.L.J. 653, 13 C.W.N 217=9 C.L.J. 16=5 M.L.T. 274.] The words "between the parties" qualify not only the words "former suit," but the whole expression "in issue in former suit." MAGNIRAM v. MEHDI HOSSEIN KHAN, 31 C. 95=8 C.W.N. 30.

(88)—Res judicata—Finding as between co-defendants.—A finding between co-defendants unnecessary for the determination of the suit or the rights of the parties involved in the suit, cannot operate as res judicata between them. BAPU v. BHAVANI, 22 B. 245. [R., 5 Bom. L.R. 97.]

(89)—Res judicata—Co-defendants—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 13.—Where two persons are arrayed in a suit on the same side as co-defendants, there can be no adjudication in such suit which can bind them conclusively in regard to rights inter se. S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, distinctly requires that the former suit must have been "between the same parties:" and the word "between" in that section, must be understood to mean that the parties to be concluded by the former decision must have been arrayed on opposite sides in the suit in which the decision was passed SITAL PRASAD v. BANSIDHAR, A.W.N. 1882, 168. (12 W.R. 524, 4 A. 92, R.)

(90)—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Res judicata between defendants.—Where an adjudication between the defendants is necessary to give the appropriate relief to the plaintiff, there must be such an adjudication, and, in such a case, the adjudication will be res judicata between the defendants as well as between the plaintiff and the defendants. But, for this effect to arise, there must be a conflict of interests amongst the defendants and a judgment defining the real rights and obligations of the defendants inter se. Without necessity, the judgment will not be res judicata. NGA THET THA v. MI KYE GYI, U.B.R. 1907, Civil Procedure, 5. (11 B. 216, F.; 18 A. 65, 15 M. 264, 22 A. 386, 25 B. 74, 8 C.W.N. 30, 26 M. 337, 12 C. 580, R.)

(91)—Res judicata as between co-defendants.—The contention in this suit was that there had been a previous adjudication against the plaintiffs and the defendant jointly in favour of a third person who was decreed a share of the property in dispute as a joint family estate, and that such adjudication constituted res judicata against the present parties, the then co-defendants, on the point that the property was joint estate. But it was held that, for the previous judgment to have such effect, the adjudication therein as between the defendants must be shown to have been necessary for the grant of the appropriate relief to the plaintiff in that case. Without such necessity, which was not proved in this case, the judgment will not be res judicata among the then defendants, nor will it be res judicata against them by mere inference from the fact that they have collectively been defeated in resisting a claim to a share made against them as a group. RAMACHANDRA NARAYAN v. NARAYAN MAHADEV, 11 B. 216. [F., 140 P.R. 1890, 1 Bom. L.R. 303, 16 C.P.L.R. 42, 31 C. 95=8 C.W.N. 30, U.B.R. 1907, 2nd Quarter, C.P.C., 5, 33 M. 112=20 M.L.J. 369=7 M.L.T. 89=5 Ind. Cas. 760; Appr., 5 Bom.L.R. 97; R., 12 A. 506 =A.W.N. 1890, 128, 2 M.L.J. 203 18, A. 65=A.W.N. 1895, 156, 22 B. 245, 20 A. 81= A.W.N. 1897, 199, 1 O.C. 215, 25 B. 74, 22 A. 386, 30 B. 250=6 Bom. L.R. 995, 79 P.R. 1905=102 P.L.R. 1905, 97 P.R. 1910=142 P.W.R. 1910.]

Res Judicata—continued.

—— 8.—Parties—continued.

(92)—Plaintiff and defendant previously defendants in a suit—Finding on issue in that suit—Issue on that fact open to adjudication—Res judicata—Co-defendants—Issue.—An issue on a fact is open to determination as between the present plaintiff and defendant, although a finding on that fact has been arrived at in a former suit in which both of them were defendants. KHELUT CHUNDER GHOSE v. KISHEN GOBIND DEB, 16 W.R. 128.

(93)—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, Act XIV of 1882 (=s. 11, present Code)—Res judicata between co-defendants.—In a suit for declaration of title to a certain property, when the Court makes a declaration in favour of the plaintiff as to a certain share of the property and a declaration as to certain other shares in favour of some of the defendants (viz., defendants 4 to 6), the latter declaration is not binding on the other defendants. The declaration which the defendants Nos. 4 to 6 have obtained is superfluous and cannot injure the other defendants. RAJ NARAIN v. KHOBDARI RAI, 5 C W.N. 724.

(94)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13 Res judicata—Co-defendants—Suit for partition—Pleadings—Plea of self-acquisition not raised—Plea raised in a subsequent suit—Bar of plea.—A previous suit for partition of the plaint properties was dismissed without any reference to the question whether they were first defendant's self-acquisitions. In that suit the present first and second defendants were co-defendants. First defendant raised that plea for the first time in the present suit: Held, that the former suit did not operate as res judicata and did not bar the plea being raised in the present suit. PALLA MARUTHI v. SAGIRRAJU BANGARAJU, 6 Ind. Cas. 889=8 M.L.T. 220.

(95)—Plea of co-defendants in former suit—Whether binding as between them in subsequent suit.—Where there was no active controversy between the defendants in a former suit, either as to the factum or as to the validity of a deed of gift, and the gift was set up by both of them jointly with the object of defeating the suit of the then plaintiff, one of them would not be precluded in a subsequent suit from disputing the validity of the gift. RAMANUJA AYYANGAR v. NARAYANA AYYANGAR, 18 M. 374. [F., 25 B. 74 ; D., 29 M. 515.]

(96)—Civ.Pro.Code, 1882, *s.*13--Res judicata—Matter in issue between plaintiff and defendants and not between co defendants—Effect on right between defendants inter se.—In a suit on a mortgage, a decree was passed in favour of the mortgagee subject to the incumbrances of some of the defendants. The rights of the defendants inter se were not gone into. In execution of a decree passed in favour of one of the incumbrancers, the mortgaged property was sold. The present plaintiff, who was another incumbrancer, sued for a declaration that the above said sale was not valid, and for possession of the property, on the ground that he had priority over the other incumbrancer. The defendant contended that the claim was res judicata by reason of the decision first named above. Held that though, in the first suit, the question whether each of the defendants had mortgages upon the property was a matter in issue between the plaintiff and the respective defendants, there was no such issue between the defendants themselves. The question of priority was not gone into. Consequently, there was no res judicata between the co-defendants so as to bar the present suit. MUHAMMAD KUNI ROWTHAN v. VISWANATHAIYAR, 26 M. 337 =12 M.L.J. 471. [R., 36 C. 193=5 C.L.J. 6 11, U.B.R. 1907, 2nd Qr., Civ. Pro. Code, p. 5]

(97)—Assignor whether represents assignee—Parties claiming under—S. 11, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908.—The phrase "parties under whom they or any of them claim" contemplates a title not in existence at the date of the prior suit. A person who has assigned away his interests in certain property cannot represent his assignee in a suit relating to that property instituted after the assignmnet. A decision, in respect of property assigned, passed in a suit filed subsequently to the assignment, to which suit the assignee was no party, will not bind such assignee. MADU v. UMAR DIN, 26 P.R. 1893.

(98 & 99)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, expl. V—Previous bona fide litigation in respect of right claimed in common with others—Plea in bar to suit not taken in first Court, whether can be taken for first time in special appeal.—In this case, plaintiffs sued one H, R D his son-in-law

G. N. Das
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

Res Judicata—continued.

— 8.—Parties—continued.

and others, defendants, for a right of way alleged to have been closed by the defendants, and the lower Courts decreed the claim against the defendants. On appeal, it was urged that the plaintiff's claim was barred by expl. V of s. 13 of Act X of 1877 by reason of a previous decision in a suit brought by R D as plaintiff against one A N, defendant. Plaintiff then did not profess to sue on behalf of any person but himself, or to sue in any representative capacity. The decree therein was based upon the ground that, in the deed of sale by A N to R D of the land on which the latter was building, there was no reservation by the seller of any portion of the ground for a road, or, of any right of way, it being in substance the defendant's plea that there had been such a reservation. Under the circumstances, the decision was held to be no bar to the suit by operation of expl. V. s. 13 of the new Code. In order that a previous decision should be a bar under that section to the trial of a subsequent suit, it is, among other things, necessary that the former suit should have been between the same parties or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, litigating under the same title ; and, in the previous suit between R D and A N, it could not be held that they were persons litigating bona fide in respect to a right claimed in common for themselves and others, so as the previous decision should be a bar to a trial of the present suit in which the plaintiff desired relief chiefly against H as the true owner of the land over which the right of way was claimed. It was also doubted in this case whether the plea can be taken up on special appeal, seeing that the bar was not pleaded in the first, Court by any defendant and the case had therefore been tried out on the merits. HARGOBIND v. JOTHRAM, 59 P.R. 1879.

(100) — Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 13, 283 — Res judicata — Execution of decree — Objection to attachment — Suit to establish right of judgment-creditors — Subsequent suit by one of judgment-debtors to recover possession as against objector.—In the proceedings necessary to establish the validity of the claim to property attached or an objection to an attachment, under s. 278 of the Civ. Pro. Code, the judgment-creditor does not represent the judgment-debtor, so as to render a subsequent claim to the property attached a matter of res judicata as between the judgment-debtor and the objector. The doctrine of res judicata does not apply in India as between persons who were co defendants in the former suit. LALLA v. MANNU, A.W.N. 1890, 177. (3 A. 233, F.)

(101)—Suits on bond—First suit against one of several obligors personally—Subsequent suit to enforce joint liability of all executants—Res judicata.—S. 2 of Act VIII of 1859 does not bar the institution of a second suit to enforce a joint liability under a bond against the several obligors thereof, where, in the prior suit, the plaintiff had proceeded only against one of such obligors. In the first suit, the non-payment by one of the obligors under the bond was the cause of action, and he was the sole defendant therein, whereas, in the subsequent suit, the non-payment by all of the persons so liable was the cause of action and all such persons were made defendants. RAMANATH ROY CHOWDRY v. CHUNDER SEKHUR MOHAPATTUR, 4 W.R. 50.

(102)—Prior decision as to inclusion of demand in settlement of accounts—Denial as to execution of a document in subsequent suit—Estoppel.—Plaintiff sued to recover certain gold and silver jewels which his father had pledged to the defendant's father. The plaintiff alleged the existence of an account stated between his father and the father of the defendant and signed by the latter. The defendant denied the account stated and further alleged that the jewels had been returned. Prior to the present suit, the defendant had instituted two suits against the plaintiff for moneys alleged to have been due on certain documents from the father of the plaintiff to the father of the defendant. In each case, the present plaintiff (as defendant) pleaded that the demands had been included in a settlement of accounts and set out the particulars of a document alleged to have been executed by the plaintiff's father. Both the suits were dismissed for the reason that being included in the settlement, the demands sued upon no longer existed as causes of action. In the present suit, the Civil Judge considered that the defendant was estopped by the decree in the prior suits from disputing the document embodying the account stated. He further held that the document was of the same effect as a deed, and declared that the defendant was debarred from disputing any particular recital therein. Finally, the Civil Judge discredited the defendant's evidence as to the return of the jewels and gave a decree for the plaintiff. The defendant preferred an appeal to the High Court. Held that the defendant was not precluded by estoppel by decree or by estoppel by deed from advancing the plea set up by him. The precise issue in the prior suits was not whether the present document was true, but whether the then plaintiff's demand was included in an account stated. Consequently, there was no estoppel by decree. The present document evidencing the account stated was not conclusive evidence of a debt due and it was clearly open to the defendant to prove that the debt was not due. Held also that as the plea of the defendant as to the return of the jewels was not proved, the plaintiff was entitled to a decree in his favour. Under the law of British India administered in the mofussil, there is no distinction between specialties and other documents. The effect of res judicata discussed. TIRUMALA RAU SHAIB v. PINGALA SANKARA RAU, 1 M.H.C. 312.

(103)—Relief—Practice and Procedure.—A sued B as his agent and trustee in possession of certain lands, complaining inter alia that B had been dealing with the lands as if he were the owner and had hypothecated the same to C. In this suit, though B and C both were defendants, A's prayer was simply confined to recovery of possession. B and C pleaded that B was the owner of the lands. The hypothecation bond provided that if at the end of one year from its date the debt was not paid, C was to be at liberty to enforce his charge. No issue was raised as to the hypothecation bond; and the Court holding that B was agent, gave A an unfettered decree for possession. B alone preferred an appeal. In the meanwhile the year of the hypothecation bond expired, and C sued A and B to recover the debt and enforce his charge. The lower Courts held that the second suit was barred under expl. II to s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code: — Held, that the second suit was not barred, since C was not necessary party to the former suit, and though he was made a party no relief was sought against him. RAMDAS v. VAZIRSAHEB, 3 Bom. L.R. 179=25 B. 589.

Res Judicata -continued.

—— 8.—Parties—continued.

(104)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Res judicata—Trustees—Parties.—Where the plaintiffs in a former suit were H, R, L, and K, and the plaintiffs in the present suit O, R, and L, it was held that the former suit was not between the same parties as the latter, or brought by parties under whom the present plaintiffs claimed, and therefore, that the present suit was not barred by s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, whether some of the parties were trustees for the others or not. UMES CHANDRA ROY v. NABIN CHANDRA MAZUMDAR, 5 B.L R. 327 Note.

105)—Public processions—Right to take an idol in—Decision in former suit against some members of the same community—Prohibition to take out processions—No res judicata.—In 1828 certain members of the V community brought a suit and obtained a decree against the T community, prohibiting them to worship an idol in public and to take it out in procession in the streets of the village. The streets were subsequently vested in the Local Board. Some members of the V community now brought this suit for an injunction prohibiting the T community from worshipping or taking out the idol in procession in the streets. Held, the streets being public streets, the T community, as members of the public, had a right to take out their idol in processions. Held further, that the suit of 1828 was not a representative suit binding property or designed or framed for the purpose of binding for all time the T community. It was a suit against the wrong doers in their individual capacity and the decision on that suit did not operate as res judicata to the decision of that issue in this suit. SADAGOPA CHARIAR v. A. RAMA RAO, 4 A.L.J. 333, P.C.=11 C.W.N. 585=5 C.L.J. 566=17 M.L J. 240=9 Bom. L.R. 663=2 M.L.T. 204=30 M. 185=34 I.A. 93. [R., 32 M. 478=19 M.L.J. 617=1 Ind. Cas. 716, 32 M. 527=6 M.L.T. 285, 8 Ind. Cas. 175.]

Res Judicata—continued.

—— 8.—Parties—continued.

(106)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13—Suit in representative character — Claim to office in temple—Decision in favour of one sect—Subsequent suit by trustees of a shrine—Res judicata—Trustees not actually impleaded in the prior suit—Decision in execution proceedings in prior suit—Whether operates as res judicata in the subsequent suit.—In 1896 the members of T sect of a community sued the members of V sect, to have it declared that the right to Adhyapakam Office in a temple as well as in all the shrines attached thereto vested in the members of T sect. The plaintiffs and defendants in that suit represented respectively all the members of the rival communities under s. 30 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The plaintiffs were given the decree prayed for and, in the execution proceedings which followed that decree, it was held that a certain shrine was attached to the big temple. In the present suit, the members of V sect sued for a declaration to the Adyapakam Office in the shrine in dispute, and averred that this particular shrine was not attached to the big temple, the right to the office in which was adjudicated upon in the former suit. They also maintained that the decision in the previous suit as to the right to the office in the big temple as well as in the shrines attached thereto was not binding upon them, inasmuch as they were the trustees of the shrine in question and were suing in that capacity: Held, (1) that, in the absence of fraud or collusion, the decision in the prior suit, in which the rights of both sections of the entire community were adjudicated upon, operated as res judicata, and that the circumstance of the subsequent suit having been brought by plaintiffs as trustees of the shrine in question did not affect the operation of the law (27 M. 243, R.) (2) that the decision in the execution proceedings in the prior suit that the shrine in question was attached to the big temple was not res judicata, because the present plaintiffs were not impleaded actually as defendants in the previous suit. SRINIVASA AIYANGAR v. ARAYAR SRINIVASA AIYENGAR, 6 Ind. Cas. 229=8 M.L.T. 33=20 M.L.J. 546=33 M. 483.

(107)—Res judicata—Dismissal of a previous suit to which defendant was no party, effect of.—The plaintiff, alleging himself to be the duly appointed head of a mutt, sued to have it declared that a Court-sale of certain properties in execution of a decree passed against his predecessor was invalid as against his right as the present head. He had previously sued to obtain a declaration of his right to the Dharmakartaship, another claimant to that office being joined as defendant, and the present defendant not being a party. The dismissal of such previous suit was held not to bar the present suit as res judicata. RAMALINGAM v. THIRUGNANA SAMANDHA, 12 M. 312.

(108)—Limitation—Adverse possession—Res judicata.—A took and held possession of land adversely to B, and afterwards let it in patni to C; B brought a suit for possession against A and, having obtained a decree, attempted to execute it by turning C out of possession. Between the date on which A originally took adverse possession of the land and the date on which B attempted to turn C out of possession, more than 12 years had elapsed. Held that B's claim against C was barred by limitation and that C was not bound by the decree obtained by B against A, not having been made a party to the suit. MOHENDRO NATH MUKERJEA v. NAFUR CHUNDER PAL CHOWDHRY, 1 C.L.R. 531.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(109)—Partnership debt—Dissolution—Division of assets and liabilities—Subsequent decree against firm—Suit by one partner against another—Res judicata.—The parties to the suit were at one time partners in a trading firm, who, by a private arrangement between themselves, dissolved the partnership, and divided the assets and liabilities. A creditor of the firm sued all the partners and obtained a decree in spite of the plaintiff's plea that the particular debt sued for appertained to the defendant's share of the liabilities. The decree-holder in execution sold the joint property in satisfaction of his claim and the plaintiff then sued to recover from his partner his share of that property. Held that this suit was not barred by res judicata. MADHOO PERSHAD v. LALLJEE SHAHOO, 9 W.R. 557.

(110)—Partnership debt—Liability of partner for debts incurred during partnership.—A and B were partners. C supplied the firm with some goods, and brought a suit to recover their value from both A and B. A confessed judgment; but B pleaded non-liability on the ground that, in a suit between himself and A for settlement of partnership accounts, his liability was fixed at a certain amount, and that, as to the balance, he had been released and he is not therefore liable to pay the suit debt. Held, that as C was not a party to the partnership suit in which the liability of B was fixed at a certain amount, he was not bound by the decision and B remained therefore liable for the outstanding debts, unless he had caused his release from liability to be publicly notified before the goods were supplied by C. ROOLDOO MULL v. JOWAHIR, 90 P.R. 1868.

(111)—Suit by real owner against certified purchaser for declaration of title dismissed as barred by s. 317, Civ. Pro. Code—Subsequent suit by certified purchaser against real owner for profits—Suit not barred by rule of.—A judgment-debtor purchased, in execution of a decree against himself, lands belonging to him in the name of a third person and remained in possession. Sometime after, he brought a suit against the certified purchaser for a declaration of his rights as the real purchaser. The suit was dismissed as barred by the provisions of s. 317, Civ. Pro. Code. Subsequently, the certified purchaser brought a suit for rent and profits against the judgment-debtor. Held, this suit was not barred by the rule of res judicata, for the previous suit did not go into the merits of the case or consider rights of the parties. Hence the defendant could set up his beneficial ownership as a defence. GHAZI-UD-DIN v. BISHEN DAYAL, 2 A.L.J. 111 = A.W.N. 1905, 39 = 27 A. 443.

(112)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act V of 1908), s. 11 — Auction sale — Suit for possession — Res judicata.—J and his two minor sons purchased a certain property at an auction sale K. subsequently brought a suit against J alone for possession of a portion of the property and obtained a decree. D, one of the sons of J, later on brought the present suit against K to recover possession of the property on the basis of the sale certificate: Held, that the suit was not barred by res judicata. DAO DYAL v. KALI CHARAN, 14 Ind. Cas. 745.

(113)—Purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue—Not representative in interest of defaulting proprietor — Claim under paramount title.—An auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue does not derive his title through the defaulting proprietor; but he claims under a paramount title. So a decree in a suit against the defaulting proprietor to which neither the auction-purchaser nor his predecessor in title was a party cannot operate as res judicata against the purchaser. GADADHAR BOSE v. RADHA CHARAN PODDAR, 34 C. 868. (8 W.R. 222, 12 C. 82, F.; 2 W.R. 191, 14 W.R. 283, Diss.)

(114) — Res judicata — Auction-purchaser whether a successor in interest of defaulter.—An auction-purchaser of an entire estate for arrears of revenue cannot be considered to be the successor in interest of the defaulting proprietor so as to be bound by a judgment in a suit to which the defaulting proprietor was a party. KANTA PROSHAD HAJARI v. ABDUL JAMIR SADAGAR, 8 C.W.N. 676. [R., 9 C.W.N. 383.]

(115)—Previous suit for custody of defendant as plaintiff's wife—Finding that marriage not proved—Subsequent suit by another for custody of same defendant as his wife—Wife not estopped by previous finding—Res judicata.—B sued J the defendant, for the custody of J as his wife. That suit was dismissed on the ground that the marriage was not proved. Subsequently another person L brought the present suit against J and others to obtain custody of J as his wife. Denying that she was married to L, J alleged that she was B's wife at the time of the marriage alleged by the plaintiff. Held that the finding, in the former case against the marriage between J and B did not estop J from pleading, in the case brought by L, that, in point of fact, she was married to B at the time she was alleged to have gone through a form of marriage with L. Also L was not a party to the former suit by B and, therefore, as the parties to the present suit could not be said to have been the same as in the former suit, they were not bound by the decision in that case. MUSSUMMUT JIWANI v. LALL SINGH, 9 P.R. 1879.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(116)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Suit by member of family—Siut by Receiver for whole family.—A suit by a Receiver suing in the name of a whole family to recover the whole property, could not be barred by a previous decision disallowing the claim of a member of the family to a share in the property, as the issue in that suit was not technically the same as in the subsequent one. JUGUNNATH PERSHAD DUTT v. C. S. HOGG, 12 W.R. 117. [D., 34 C. 305 = 5 C.L.J. 270.]

(117)— Malabar tarwad — Personal decree against individual members—Suit to enforce liability on tarwad.—A previous decree for rent against individual members of a tarwad does not bar a subsequent suit to enforce the liability against the tarwad. GOVINDA v. MANA VIKRAMA, 14 M. 284.

(118)—Binding nature of a decree against karnavan on the other members of the tarwad.—The proposition that, in the absence of fraud or collusion, a decree against the head of an illam or tarwad is binding against the junior members, is not warranted by law. The question whether one person is bound or not by a decree against another is one of procedure (2 M. 328, F.) [Appr., 15 M. 333; R., 11 M. 157, 10 M. 9, 20 M. 129.] Every member of the tarwad is interested in the joint property and ought to be made a party or have notice under s. 30. [App., 15 M. 333.] Expl. 5 of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, does not refer to bona fide defences, but to bona fide claims. VASUDEVA v. NARAYANA, 6 M. 121. (6 C. 31, Appr.) [R., 20 M. 129, 24 B. 77, 16 C.P.L.R. 161.]

(119)—Malabar Law—Karnavan, negligence of—Suit by anandravans.—The anandravans of a Malabar tarwad, may recover or retain possession of tarwad lands, either by the express consent or sufferance of their karnavan. When fraud or breach of duty on the part of the karnavan is shown, his act must be treated as a fraud upon his power, and if the karnavan's conduct in a suit is negligent, if not fraudulent, the decision against him in that suit does not bind the anandravans. THENJU v. CHIMMU, 7 M. 413. [R., 10 M. 322, 20 M. 129.]

(120)— Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13, expl. (5) (=s. 11, expl. (6), new Code)—Joint Hindu family—Suit against two members—Second suit against third member.—A person is said to claim under another when he derives his title through that other by assignment or otherwise. A Hindu son, in a joint family, becomes entitled, by reason of his birth and in his own right, to a right which he can enforce against his father. He does not claim under his father within the meaning of the section. Accordingly, a decree obtained against the father and a son was held not to be res judicata in a suit against another son belonging to the joint family, on the same cause of action, where they neither had been sued nor defended the action as representatives of the family. RAM NARAIN v. BISHESHAR PRASAD, 10 A. 411 = A.W.N. 1888. 149. (5 B. 685, D.) [F., 29 A. 1 = 3 A.L.J. 644 = A.W.N. 1906, 242; R., 27 A. 37; D., 141 P.R. 1908.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(121) — Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13 — Res-judicata—Previous suit by member of undivided family dismissed—Subsequent suit by another member—No bar.—The plaintiff sued for maintenance of possession in respect of certain lands in respect of which he alleged that the defendant had disturbed and interfered with his proprietary enjoyment of them. At the time of suit, he had a brother and an uncle and it was found that he, his brother and his uncle formed a joint Hindu family. The plaintiff was a minor and brought the suit through his mother as guardian. It appeared that his brother and uncle had previously filed a similar suit against the same defendants in respect of the same lands and their claim to the lands was dismissed. Held that the present suit was not barred by the rule of res judicata by reason of the dismissal of the previous suit, which was res inter alias acta, that, as the plaintiff had not been made by a duly constituted guardian a party to that suit, the decree passed therein could not bind him and that Explanation V of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, did not apply to such a case, where each undivided member of a joint Hindu family had his own joint proprietary interest along with the rest in the whole of the joint family property. RAMANAND v. KOLESHAR, A.W.N. 1887, 217. [F., 10 A. 411.]

(122)—Suit on ikrar between brothers—Decree against one brother—Subsequent suit by the son of the brother, not barred as res judicata by prior suit under ikrar.—Five brothers executed an ikrar among them according to which certain talooks were to remain in the possession and under the management of one of them. The brother so appointed having refused to give the others their shares of the profits of the talooks, they sued and obtained decrees against him separately for the amount due by him to each of them. Subsequently the son of the managing brother sued one of the other brothers for the sums which his father had been compelled to pay, alleging that it was the defendant that was in possession. The lower Courts found in defendant's favour, holding that the suit was barred under s. 2 of Act VIII of 1859. Accepting the appellant's contention, the High Court held that the suit was not barred. The previous suits were decided against the plaintiff's father under the ikrar between him and his brothers, whereas the present suit was by the plaintiff, who was the son of one of the brothers on the allegation that, though his father had been made liable under the ikrar, still, as his father was not in possession of the property by virtue of it, and as that possession was wrongfully held by the defendant who appropriated the rents and profits, he was entitled to bring an action against the defendant for illegally detaining that for which he had been made liable to others. KHETTRONATH DEY v. GOSSAIN DOSS DEY, 7 W.R. 188.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(123)—S. 13, explanation (v), Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—"Right to relief claimed in common"—S. 26—"Right to any relief claimed" in previous suit essential to bar a claim as res judicata. —Plaintiff alleged that defendants Nos. 2 to 5 (brothers) were reversioners to the estate of the deceased uncle, M and himself, claiming as mortgagee and auction-purchaser of the share of the fifth defendant in the said estate, instituted this suit for partition and recovery of possession of the share from the hands of one S, the first defendant, who denied that the fifth defendant was a reversioner and set up his own title as the adopted son of the said M deceased. A previous suit had been brought by the then plaintiff (present defendants Nos. 2, 3 and 4) as reversioners, along with their brother (present fifth defendant) to the estate of said M, who was the divided brother of their father. The then plaintiff's brother (present fifth defendant) was impleaded as a defendant in the previous suit, on his refusal to join his brothers as a co-plaintiff and he remained ex parte in that suit. He, thus, figured then as a co-defendant along with the present first defendant, S, from whom it was sought to recover the entire estate of M inclusive of the fifth defendant's share. S had, then, set up the plea of adoption now put forward by him and the alleged adoption was declared invalid and that suit finally resulted in a decree in favour of the plaintiffs except as to the share of the present fifth defendant, their brother. In the present suit, accordingly, plaintiff contended that the first defendant, S, was estopped by the decision in the previous suit from again relying on the above adoption. In second appeal, the question referred for decision to the Full Bench was whether the present claim of S was res judicata. Held, the fifth defendant, under whom the plaintiff claims, was not interested in, nor did he derive any benefit from, the relief sought by the plaintiffs in the previous suit. He could not, under that decree, enforce any rights of his own. (3 M.H. C. 217, 7 B.L.R. Ap. 38, 13 C. 352, R. & F.) Further, with reference to the shares of the plaintiffs in that suit, it must be said that their brother impleaded by them as a defendant in that suit had no "right to any relief claimed" within the meaning of s. 26 of the Code and could not have been made a co-plaintiff therein. The previous plaintiffs, therefore, could not be held to have "litigated in respect of a right claimed in common" for themselves and their brother, the present plaintiff's vendor and the latter was not a "person interested in such right" within the meaning of explanation V to s. 13 of the Code. The fifth defendant and the plaintiff, his vendee and representative, are not barred by any decision in the previous suit and the first defendant's claim therefore, cannot be held to be barred by res judicata under said s. 13, explanation V of the Code. SOMASUNDARA MUDALI v. KULANDAIVELU PILLAI, 28 M. 457=14 M.L J. 404. (14 M. 324, Overruled; 18 M. 164, Not F.) [Diss., 102 P. R. 1907=78 P.W.R. 1907; Expl., 30 M. 447=17 M.L.J. 260=2 M.L J. 368; R., 57 P.R. 1907 =66 P.W.R. 1907, 7 M.L.T. 89.]

(124)—Hindu will.—A Hindu owner died leaving two nephews as his heirs according to Hindu law. One M, took possession of the estate alleging herself to be entitled to the same under a will made by the deceased. One of the nephews brought a suit against M, to obtain possession of one moiety of the estate, making his brother, who appeared to have refused to join as a co-plaintiff, a defendant in the suit. The Court dismissed the suit, finding the will to be genuine. Subsequently the other nephew brought the present suit for his share as the heir of the deceased. Held, that the suit was not barred by the findings of the Court in the previous suit of his brother, as the plaintiff was not a party to the suit, as he could not in any manner have availed himself of a decree in that suit to enforce a claim to his share. NOBIN CHANDRA MAZUMDAR v. MUKDA SUNDARI DEBI, 7 B L.R. 38=15 W. R. 309. [R., 21 M. 373, 28 M. 457=14 M.L. J. 404.]

(125)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Res judicata —Adoption pleaded against widow and again as against collaterals—Privity.—In a suit by a Hindu widow, the defendant pleaded that he had been adopted by her deceased husband, but this plea was found against. In a suit brought by the collateral heirs of the deceased against him, the defendant again raised the plea of adoption. The plaintiffs contended that the finding in the former suit being conclusive, the plea was res judicata. Held that, there being no privity in estate between the plaintiffs and the widow (as they could not be said to claim by, under, or through her), the judgment in the former suit could not be treated as conclusive between the present parties. FATTEH SINGH v. HAKIM SINGH. 82 P.R. 1874.

(126)—Plaintiff no party to the previous case —Decision in the previous case obtained against the widow, how far binding on the plaintiff—Adopted son—Misjoinder.—In 1893, R and B, fathers of the present defendants, J and G, alleging themselves to be the nearest reversionary heirs of one R. S., instituted two suits for a declaration that R. S. had died intestate and that his widow had only the estate of a Hindu widow in his property. Their cause of action was that the widow had propounded a will alleged to have been executed by her husband in 1890 whereby, if genuine, they were excluded from all chance of inheriting the property. The widow abandoned that will, but set up a will of 1876 in pursuance of which she had adopted the present plaintiff-appellant. The present defendants refused to make him a party to the suit. It was decided in that case that the will propounded by the widow was not proved and that the adoption, although true in fact, was invalid in law The plaintiff then brought this suit claiming the entire property left by R. S. as his adopted son and impleading all persons in possession of the property as defendants. The defendants pleaded the previous decision as res judicata on the question of plaintiff's adoption. They also pleaded misjoinder of parties and causes of action. Held, that the previous decision was not res judicata. The widow did not conduct the previous suit for the benefit of the plaintiff inasmuch as she set up an agreement with the plaintiff's father that he should not be entitled to possession of the estate till her death, and pleaded to the effect that she had full proprietary rights even after the adoption. It was clear that in the previous suit although she did all in her power to make out title for the present plaintiff which would exclude the defendants, she was determined to make it clear that she had lost nothing by the adoption. Therefore, under these circumstances, it could not be assumed as a matter of law that she had defended the suit as guardian of the present plaintiff and the judgment passed in the previous suit, as to the adoption, was not binding on the plaintiff. Held, further, that there was no misjoinder. The plaintiff's right to sue for the whole estate in one suit was not affected by the passing of the estate into the hands of other trespassers, and the plaintiff was not bound to trace the property to the different defendants; it was sufficient for him to show a complete cause of action after the adoption and then say that the defendants were in possession of the property. RADHA KISHEN v. JAMUNA PARSHAD, 9 O.C. 339. (32 I.A. 229, 3 M. I.A. 229, 16 C. 40, 7 M.H.C. 260, 24 C. 831, 25 M. 736, 27 M. 94, 9 M.I.A. 539, 11 C. 186, 6 O.C. 379, 7 M.H.C. 290, 29 C. 871, 23 B. 266, 16 A. 279, 6 C.W.N. 585, R.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(127)—Suit for possession against widow—S.2, Civ. Pro. Code, 1859.—Where, in a former suit by a person against his brother's widow, for possession as heir of his deceased brother, it was decided, among other things, that the widow took only a life-interest in certain properties, held, in a subsequent suit by his son as reversioner against the same defendant for having certain alienations made by her declared invalid, that the decision in the former suit, as to the nature of the interest the defendant took in her husband's property, was not res judicata, as the plaintiff did not claim as heir of his father, the plaintiff in the former suit, but as the heir and reversioner of his uncle, the deceased husband of the defendant. RUDR NARAIN SINGH v. RUP KUAR, 1 A. 734.

(128)—Hindu widow — Reversioner's suit after widow's death.—The failure of a Hindu widow, in a suit by her to recover her husband's estate in the hands of a stranger, will not bar a suit by a reversioner, on the widow's death, to recover the same property unless and until it is shown that the first decree was obtained after a fair trial of the right so as to bind not only the widow but also the reversioners. BRAMMOYE DASSEE v. KRISTO MOHUN MOOKERJEE, 2 C 222. [D., 11 B. 19; R., 5 Bom. L.R. 885.]

(129)—Suit though concerning absolute estate determined on ground personal to a Hindu widow—Decree in such a case not binding on reversioner.—When a suit, though concerning the absolute estate, is determined upon a ground personal to the widow—e.g., in a suit brought by her to recover possession of immoveable property appertaining to her husband's estate is dismissed on the ground of its having been alienated by her in favour of the defendant, in the absence of legal necessity being shown—the decree in such a case ought not to bind the reversioner. BRAJA LAL SEN v. JIBAN KRISHNA ROY, 26 C. 285. [Affr., 30 C. 550, P.C.; R., 36 C. 753.]

(130)—Res judicata—Hindu widow—Deed of gift—Parties to suit—Cause of action.—In 1862, plaintiff brought a suit against a Hindu widow and other defendants, in which he stated that certain properties, X, Y and Z, belonging to him, had been given to the widow for her life, for maintenance; and that she had alienated X and Y to the other defendants. The plaintiff prayed that the deed of gift might be delivered up to be cancelled; that possession of X might be given to him; and that any alienation of Y might be restrained. No further mention was made of Z; no relief was asked respecting it, nor any assertion made that the widow had improperly dealt with it, or that the defendants were in any way connected with it; and the suit was dismissed as regards Z. After the widow's death, plaintiff again sued, for possession of Z, parties who claimed under the defendants in the previous suit against the widow. Held, reversing the decision of the High Court of Judicature at Madras, that the second suit was not barred as on a cause of action which was res judicata. A suit for recovery of possession of immoveable property, is not barred by virtue of a previous suit, under s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, where the relief sought was to restrain defendants from committing waste. THE ZAMINDAR OF PITTAPURAM v. THE PROPRIETORS OF THE MUTTA OF KOLANKA, 2 M. 23, P.C.=3 C.L.R. 265=3 Sar. 850=5 I.A. 206.

(131)—Decree against remote reversioner—Subsequent suit by him as next reversioner on the presumptive heir predeceasing female holder.—The decree, in a suit by a Hindu widow and her son, who was the then presumptive heir to the property in suit, against a remoter reversioner, would not operate as res judicata, in a subsequent suit for possession by such remoter reversioner as next reversionary heir on such widow's son predeceasing her. RAMCHUNDER PODDAR v. HARI DASSEN, 9 C. 463.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(132)—Widow heiress-at-law of her deceased husband, not representing husband's estate, in the presence of the will left by him—Effect of decision obtained against widow.—Where a widow, though the heiress-at-law of a deceased husband does not represent the estate of the husband in a suit (for instance, where the latter has left a will appointing an executor), a decision obtained against her (the widow) will not operate as res judicata against the reversioners. CHUKKEN LAL ROY v. LOLIT MOHUN ROY, 20 C. 906. (9 M.I.A. 539, D.)

(133)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13, Expl. V—T. P. Act (IV of 1882), s. 85—*Mortgage—Suit for redemption—Suit to redeem by alleged karnavan of Malabar Tarwad—Subsequent suit for redemption by junior members--Bar of suit--*Res judicata — Karnavan disputing title of junior members.—The Karnavan of a Malabar Tarwad sued for redemption and obtained a decree. In ignorance of his suit and before he had obtained the decree, the junior members filed another suit for the redemption of the same property with the permission of the Court under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code. In the first suit, however, the karnavan did not implead the plaintiffs in the latter suit and even disputed their title as members of his tarwad. Held, that the second suit was not barred by reason of res judicata, and that Expl. 5 to s. 13 of Act XIV of 1882 did not apply. MARATTIL MOOSA v. NAMPOTAN KANDYIL, 8 Ind. Cas. 129=8 M.L.T. 445.

(134)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13—Joint Hindu family—Suit by one member for redemption—Second suit by other members.—The sons in a joint Hindu family governed by the Mitakshara become, by birth and in their own right, entitled to the family property. They can enforce this right against their father and do not claim under him within the meaning of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code. A person is said to claim under another, when he derives his title through that other, by assignment or otherwise. (10 A. 411, R.) Hence, where, in a previous suit for redemption brought by the father, the sons were not arrayed as parties, a second suit, by the sons, for the redemption of their shares in the property, would not be barred. SUNDER LAL v. CHHITAR MAL, 3 A.L.J. 644=A.W.N. 1906, 242=29 A. 1. [R., 29 A. 215=A.W.N. 1907, 25 ; Discuss., 7 A. L. J. 945.]

(135)—Civ. Pro. Code, (Act V of 1908), s. 11—Res judicata—First suit by subsequent mortgagee—Prayer for redemption of prior mortgage—No relief granted—Prior mortgagee party—Second suit by prior mortgagee—Not barred.—Certain property was mortgaged to G in 1890 and again to R in 1897. In 1897 R brought a suit on his mortgage admitting the prior mortgage and offering to redeem it. G did not appear. A decree was passed in favour of R but no mention was made of G's mortgage in the decree. The property was sold and purchased by J. The representatives of G then brought this suit for sale upon the mortgage of 1890. Held that the claim of the prior mortgagee having been admitted in the suit of the subsequent mortgagee, there was no occasion for him to appear and prove his claim and the suit is therefore not barred by the rule of res judicata. AJODHIA PANDE v. INAYAT ULLAH, 11 A.L.J. 57=35 A. 111=18 Ind. Cas. 21. (29 M. 84, (1912) M.W.N. p. 41, F. ; 24 A. 429, 30 M. 353, 31 A. 428, D.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(136)—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 2, and Act XIV of 1882, s. 13, Explanation V—Foreclosure proceedings under Regulation XVII of 1806—Suit for redemption after expiry of year of grace.—The land in suit was mortgaged by the father of the plaintiff to the defendants. Proceedings for foreclosure were taken in 1865, before Regulation XVII of 1806, was brought into force in the Punjab which was done in 1872. Kale Khan, a brother of the plaintiff, sued for the redemption of the mortgage after the year of grace had expired. On appeal, the Chief Court decided (21 P.R. 1870) that the suit was not maintainable in face of the foreclosure proceedings, but the mortgagee must bring a suit to complete his title, and that in that suit the plaintiff Kale Khan would be able to raise any objection to the foreclosure proceedings or any defence on the merits, which could be raised during the year of grace. In that suit, objection was taken for the defence that Kale Khan was only one of the four sons of the mortgagor and the others were not made parties. Kale Khan submitted that he would put in a Mukhtiarnama for his brother, the present plaintiff, or produce him in person, and stated that the suit was brought on behalf of the other sharers also and with their consent, but it appeared the present plaintiff never appeared in Court, and that no formal notice was ever served on him. Later on, the present plaintiff with others sued for a declaratory decree that the mortgage still subsisted, but the suit was dismissed and the Court remarked that if the plaintiff was not bound by the former decision (21 P.R. 1870), he could bring a suit for redemption. The present plaintiff brought a suit for redemption. Held, that the suit was not barred by the doctrine of res judicata as laid down in s. 2, Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, which governed the case, on the ground that the present plaintiff was not a party to the first suit and he had no notice of it. Held, further, that the suit for redemption by the present plaintiff was maintainable ; the Court observed that the foreclosure proceedings being merely ministerial and carrying no final judicial sanction, it is open to a mortgagor to bring a suit for redemption after expiry of the year of grace, and that he would be entitled to a decree, if he proved his claim on the merits, and that the foreclosure notice was for any reason not good or conclusive against him or for other sufficient cause. GURDITTA MAL v. SANDHI KHAN, P.L.R. 1900, p. 241=27 P.R. 1900. (75 P.R. 1883, R.)

Res Judicata—continued.

—— 8.—Parties—continued.

(137)—Suit for possession—Previous mortgage, suits to which plaintiff not a party—Suit not barred.—In a suit by the plaintiff to recover from the defendants his share in a house in their possession, it was found that in a previous suit on a mortgage created on the house two years previously, plaintiff had not appeared and joined to assert his claim, nor was made a party. Held that this alone would not prevent the plaintiff from having his claim to the house re-investigated now, though his reticence then may be a piece of evidence against his right. SADHU RAM v. HOSHNAK, 6 P R. 1866.

(138)—Decision against one heir—Effect on other heirs—Res judicata—Judgment—Strangers.—Independent title.—Decisions against one heir are not final or binding against other heirs. It is impossible in this country to admit the proposition that decisions against one person are in any way conclusive or binding against other persons who do not derive their title from such person and who come into Court upon an independent title or independent rights of their own. ABDOOL GUFFOOR KHAN CHOWDHRY v. GHOLAM NUJUF, 16 W.R. 298.

(139)—Mahomedan widow in possession in lieu of dower—Mortgage by widow—Suit by heir for possession — Res judicata. — A Mahomedan widow in possession of her deceased husband's property in lieu of her dower, made a mortgage of it. The plaintiff brought a suit for his share of the property as heir of the deceased on payment of his share of the dower debt, and for cancellation of the mortgage-deed. The suit was dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff was not entitled to possession until he paid the whole dower, as well as his share of the mortgage-debt which was found to be valid. The plaintiff now sued for possession of his share on payment of the whole dower and of his share of the mortgage-debt. The suit having been dismissed by the lower appellate Court as being barred by res judicata, held by the High Court that this decision was wrong. The present suit proceeded entirely upon the basis of the decree passed in the previous suit, and it was upon the basis of the conditions of that decree that the plaintiff brought the present suit. IMAM BAKHSH v. CHANDO, A. W.N. 1886, 69.

(140)—Parties claiming under—Negligence of guardian—"Gross negligence," what.—Where there are valid grounds for appeal, the omission by the mother who was the guardian ad litem of a minor to appeal was gross negligence. Every case must be judged by its own facts. Where there is such gross negligence, the minor is not bound by the decree. The Court has power to go into previous proceedings and find out whether the guardian was guilty of laches or fraud. AHMAD ALI SHAH v. AMIR SHAH, 35 P.R. 1898.

Res Judicata—continued.

—— 8.—Parties—continued.

(141)—S. 2, Act VIII of 1859—Res judicata—What constitutes, minority.—Before s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, can be pleaded in bar of a suit, it is necessary to show that the cause of action is the same as that which was heard and determined in a previous suit between the same parties or those claiming through them. The plaintiff in this suit was a minor when previous proceedings were taken, and he was not represented by a guardian ad litem. Though the proceedings were nominally either by or against him in conjunction with his father, he was never properly before the Courts so as to be enabled to exercise jurisdiction over his property or rights. The interests of his father are not the same as his ; and a natural guardian is not ipso facto a guardian ad litem of his infant. A decree passed against the infant and his father in such a suit could not therefore bind the infant, and he was not debarred from setting it aside when he attained his majority. KAUR SEIN v. MUSSAMUT SAMIRO, 66 P. R. 1873.

(142)—Parties claiming under — Guardian and minor.—A minor cannot, in the absence of any proper representation, be held bound by a suit, the very nature of which he is incapacitated by his non-age from comprehending or taking part in, unless duly represented. GURDIT SINGH v. MUSST. CHANDO, 38 P.R. 1897.

(143)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13—Res judicata—Minor defendant—Neglect of guardian ad litem.—The plaintiff sued the defendant under the guardianship ad litem of his mother. No order constituting her as such was passed by the Court. She filed a written statement but did not enter appearance afterwards and the case was decreed ex parte. An appeal by a person said to be a relation of the defendant was rejected. Held, that the minor defendant was not bound by the decree passed against him, for, he was not properly represented in the previous suit. MANGAL v. BUTA, 4 P.L.R. 1901. (22 C. 8 and 35 P.R. 1898, F.)

(144)—Reg. XXVI of 1793, s 3—Proprietors of estates paying revenue—Age of majority—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Common cause of acton and material issues.—It was urged by the special appellant in this case that plaintiffs were not proprietors under s. 3, Reg. XXVI of 1793, because they did not hold estates permanently settled paying revenue to Government and that, therefore, 18 years were not required to complete their majority. But the High Court concurred with the lower appellate Court in holding that s. 3, Reg. XXVI of 1793, does not contemplate any thing more than payment of revenue direct to Government without reference to whether the settlement of the estate was temporary or permanent. The other plea raised in this appeal, viz., that the case was governed by s. 2 of Act VIII of 1859, i.e., that it had been already decided and was consequently res judicata, was also held by the High Court to be untenable because, neither the subject-matter nor the cause of action in the two suits were identical, nor had the parties to the former suit actually contested any thing in that case which could be legally considered to be the same as the subject of contest in the present case. HURO MONEE DEBIA v. TUMEEZOODEEN CHOWDHRY, 7 W.R. 181.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(145)—Res judicata—Reservation of intervenor's right—Obiter dictum.—In a former suit against a party and his vendee, in which an intervenor was made a defendant, plaintiffs obtained a decree with a reservation of the intervenor's rights, but there was no distinct finding as to what those rights were, and no decree was made regarding them. Held that, the reservation being a mere obiter dictum, the decree was not res judicata in the present suit by a purchaser from the intervenor against the said vendee. BUKSH ALI v. NITTYANUND DOSS, 5 W.R. 227.

(146)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Res judicata—Defendant only an intervenor in previous suit—Purchaser wrongfully kept out of possession Title.—Where the defendant appeared in the former suit as an intervenor, and was made a party and plaintiff's claim was dismissed as against him, s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, does not bar a subsequent suit by the same plaintiff against the same defendant to recover possession on the ground of purchase from the admitted owners, the causes of action in the two suits being different. The mere fact that, in consequence of the wrongful act of the vendors, the purchaser cannot obtain possession of the property, does not in any way affect his title to it. MUSSAMUT TUKHEA v. DEO NARAIN SINGH, 24 W.R. 248.

(147)—Res judicata—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Suit against surety.—Where plaintiff has obtained a decree for rent in a suit in which defendant's surety from whom a bond had been taken was made a nominal defendant: Held that his present suit against the surety is not barred by s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, being on a bond never previously before a Court. RAMTANU ACHARJI v. KOMAL LOCHAN ROY, 3 B.L.R. App. 37=11 W.R. 407. [F., 9 C. 383=12 C.L.R. 577.]

(148)—Jurisdiction — Collector —Estoppel—Question referred not arising in case.—The Revenue Courts have no jurisdiction to try a suit for rent when the issue is not merely whether the defendant, by reason of his own possession or that of his agent, e.g., (one who holds for him benami), is in the position of tenant, and as such liable for the rent, but whether, by reason of his having a beneficial or equitable interest of some sort in the tenure, he is in equity liable to be charged with the rent. It was not the intention of the Legislature by Act X of 1859 to empower the Collector to try questions relating to rent depending upon equitable rights or liabilities arising from circumstances other than those of the relationship of landlord and tenant. If a Zemindar sues an agent for rent due from an estate, this is no bar to the Zemindar afterwards suing the principal for rent subsequently accrued due. But he cannot in the same suit sue both the principal and the agent: he must elect which of them he will proceed against. PROSONOCOOMAR PAUL CHOWDHRY v. KYLASH CHUNDER PAUL CHOWDHRY, B.L R. Sup. Vol. 759=8 W.R. 428=2 Ind. Jur. N.S. 327. [F., 9 W.R. 71, 11 W.R. 120, 11 W.R. 406, 18 W.R. 8, 18 W.R. 35, 9 C. 383; R., 11 B.L.R. App. 31 note=13 W.R. 390, 20 C. 116; D., 5 B.L.R. 234=14 W.R. 12, 16 W.R. 82.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(149)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act X of 1877), s. 13—Res judicata—Lessor and lessee—Ejectment suit by lessee.—After the dismissal of a suit for ejectment brought by B's lessee against the defendant, a second suit for ejectment was brought in respect of the same property by a person who obtained title to the property on the death of B. Held that the principle of res judicata did not apply, as a lessor cannot, within the meaning of s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, be considered a party claiming under his own lessee. RAMBROHMO CHUCKERBUTTI v. BUNSI KURMOKAR, 11 C.L.R. 122.

(150)—Ss. 101, 102, Act VIII of 1885 (Bengal Tenancy) — Decision by Revenue officer under Ch. X, Bengal Tenancy Act—Subsequent civil suit between same parties concerning title to land. —Res judicata. — A decision by a Revenue Officer under Ch. X, Act VIII of 1885, as to which of two persons claiming to be tenant ought to be recorded as such, held, not to operate as res judicata, in a subsequent suit in a Civil Court between the same parties with respect to the title to the land. PANDIT SARDAR v MEAJAN MIRDHA, 21 C. 378. (21 C. 38, R.; 17 C. 721, D.) [F., 8 C.W.N. 741.]

(151)—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), s. 106.—The plaintiffs initiated proceedings under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act against landlord and defendants Nos. 2 to 9 who claimed to be rival tenants of the land, to have their names recorded as tenants in the settlement proceedings. The Settlement Officer held that the plaintiffs were the tenants. The landlord did not appeal. In the appeal by the other defendants, Nos. 2 to 9, to the Special Judge making the plaintiffs and the landlord respondents, the Judge reversed the decision and held that defendants Nos. 2 to 9 were the tenants, and their names were ordered to be registered. Held, that the decision of the Special Judge was a decision between the plaintiffs and defendants Nos. 2 to 9, but not a decision between the plaintiffs and the landlord so as to operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit brought by plaintiffs to have their rights declared as tenants of the land. MOHUNT JAGAN-

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

NATH RAMANUJ DAS v. CHANDRA KUMAR BOSE, 5 C.W.N. 421. (21 C. 378, 12 C. 580, R. & Appr.)

(152)—Ijaradars — Occupancy ryots—Ejectment—Suit by zamindar for rent—Res judicata.—Certain persons holding an ijara from the zemindar sued to eject the ryots actually in possession of the lands in the zamindari. It was decided that the ryots had acquired a right of occupancy, and the plea that they were holding the lands rent-free was disallowed. In a subsequent suit by the zamindar to recover rent from the tenants, held that the former suit was binding on the parties, and had established the relationship of landlord and tenant between the zamindar and the tenants, empowering the former to collect rent from the latter. SUROOP SIRDAR v. MAHARAJAH BEER CHUNDER MANIKHYA, 25 W.R. 370.

(153)—Suit against one sharer by mistake—Release of the other sharer's share from attachment — Second suit against both sharers.—Where one only of two co-sharers of joint property, which had been pledged for a debt by such sharer, was sued, through ignorance of the position of affairs, and the other co-sharer was able, in consequence, to get her share of the property released from attachment in execution-proceedings, held a second suit by the judgment-creditor against both sharers, for the purpose of making the released share also liable for the debt, would not be barred as res judicata. NOBIN CHANDRA ROY v. MAGANTARA DASSYA, 10 C. 924. [F., 16 M. 449 ; R., 23 C. 302, 22 A. 307.]

(154)—Decision between ryot and co-sharers—Dispute between co-sharers—Evidence. A decision between a ryot and a body of co-sharers is no evidence as between the several co-sharers inter se. NOBIN CHUNDER DOSS v. NIMCHAND DOSS, 17 W.R. 191.

(155)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, expl. 5 (of 1877) —Co-sharers.—Expl. 5 to s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code would not make a judgment against a co-sharer, obtained in a suit to which another co-sharer was no party, binding against other in respect of common rights enjoyed by both in common property. The explanation would not also apply to a judgment under the repealed Code of 1859. HAZIR GAZI v. SONAMONEE DASSEE, 6 C. 31=6 C L.R. 516. [Appr., 6 M. 121; R., 16 C.P.L.R. 161, 6 A.L.J. 527.]

(156)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13, Exp. II—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 244, cl. (c).—G. A. (plaintiff) and A.B. were co-sharers in a village. In July 1880, A.B. made a gift of certain lands in the village to W (defendant). The latter sued the former for a declaration of her title to the lands. On the 21st October 1881, a decree was passed in her favour on the basis of a compromise, for certain other lands in the village in lieu of those originally given to her. After the death of A.B in November 1884, W brought a suit against her heirs and G.A. for possession of the land specified in the decree of the 21st October, 1881, and certain other lands specified in the deed of gift and on the 10th March, 1891, obtained a decree for possession of the lands specified in the decree of the 21st October, 1881. In that suit, G.A raised the question whether any rights which he might acquire under a partition between himself and the heirs of A.B, would be affected by any decree which W might obtain. The question was not tried. Before the suit last-mentioned was brought, the heirs of A.B. had applied for partition of the village as against G. A ; and, under the partition, a portion of the lands specified in the decree of the 21st October, 1881, was allotted to G.A of which he obtained possession in 1891 ; W., in execution of her decree, dated the 10th March, 1891, obtained possession of this land, G.A.'s objections having been dismissed. In February, 1896, G.A. instituted a suit against W. and the heirs of A.B. for possession of the lands allotted to him under partition. Held, that the question as to G.A.'s title to the lands was not res judicata under s. 13, expl. II, Civ. Pro. Code. Held that as the decree dated the 10th March 1891, was not passed against G.A., he must be deemed to have been released from the operations of that decree, and that he, therefore, ceased to have any interest or concern in the suit, and that when W. applied for the execution of that decree, G.A. was not a party to the suit in which the decree was passed, within the meaning of s. 244, cl. (c), Civ. Pro. Code. Held, therefore, that the suit was not barred by the provisions of s. 244, Civ. Pro. Code. Held, that W. held the lands, awarded by the decree dated the 10th March 1891, subject to such rights as A.B.'s co sharer G.A., might acquire in them on partition of the village. Held, therefore, that when the lands in dispute were allotted to G.A. under the partition. W. ceased to have any interest in them. WILAETI v. GULAM ALI KHAN, 2 O.C. 51. [R , 9 O.C. 65.]

(157)—Issue as to tenure of village—Suit by one against rest of village community—Determination of issue whether res judicata as amongst defendants—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Village lands, partition of—Suit claiming proprietary rights based on possession.—When a common question, such as the tenure of a village community arises between the members of a community, and one of such members sues the rest, the determination of such common question will not bind all the defendants as res judicata so as to bar the question being raised among themselves in a subsequent suit, unless they have been distinctly at issue on the point in the suit and acting as opposite parties, and the order made is one affecting the rights of the defendants among themselves. (D., 27 P. R. 1883, 57 P.R. 1907, 121 P.R. 1880.) A suit by a member of a village community Court which raised the question whether in the partition of a village, ancestral shares or possession should be the measure of right, is one of a nature whose cognisance by the Civil Court was not barred by s. 65, cl. 3 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act XXXIII of 1871. GHISA v. RANJIT, 121 P.R. 1880, F.B. [Appr., 99 P.R. 1905=46 P.L.R. 1906.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—continued.

(158)—Res judicata—Previous suit not between same parties—No bar.—A was recorded proprietor of certain land and B brought a suit to recover it from him and obtained judgment. It was found afterwards that C was recorded as proprietor. In a subsequent suit by C against B it was contended that as the claim had already been adjudicated upon, no fresh suit would lie. Held that the order in the previous suit was based on a misconception. It was therefore reversed as well as the order in the subsequent suit, and the case remanded for re-trial. LEHNA v. HUMEERA, 97 P.R. 1866.

Decree annulling illegal sale not—Secretary of State not a necessary respondent—See BEN. ACT XI OF 1859, ss. 3, 8, 33, 25 C. 833, P.C.=25 I.A. 151=2 C.W.N. 513.

Claim based on title for possession of immoveable property—Right of Benamidar to sue in his own name—Res judicata—See BENAMI TRANSACTION—GENERAL, 18 A. 69=A.W.N. 1895, 160.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 60, A.W.N. 1883, 9.

See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—REVERSIONERS, 8 A. 365=A.W.N. 1886, 129.

Hindu Law—Property held by widow as lifetenant—Decree against widow not binding on reversioner if collusive—Right of daughter as reversioner on alienation by widow—See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—REVERSIONERS, 8 A. 429=A.W.N. 1886, 153.

See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, A.W.N. 1893, 168.

Hindu Law—Estate in possession of widow—Decree in suit by some of the reversioners contesting alienation by widow, if res judicata against other reversioners—See HINDU LAW, REVERSIONERS, 22 A. 382=A.W.N. 1900, 118.

Between co-defendants—See HINDU LAW—WIDOW, 5 A.L.J. 367=A.W.N. 1908, 173=30 A. 394.

Decree for rent—Relationship of landlord and tenant—Res judicata—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—GENERAL, 10 Ind. Cas. 363.

Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Res judicata—Under whom they or any of them claim—Mortgagee not representative of mortgagor—S. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, must be interpreted as if, after the words "under whom they or any of them claim," the words, "by a title arising subsequently to the commencement of the former suit" were inserted—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, 8 A. 324=A.W.N. 1886, 101.

Suit for redemption instituted by the head of a joint family dismissed—Subsequent suit for redemption by other members whether barred by rule of—See MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION, 8 O.C. 233, B.

Res Judicata—continued.

——8.—Parties—concluded.

Decree against Karnavan—Suit by Anandravan—Res judicata—See PARTIES TO SUIT—ADDING PARTIES TO SUITS, 10 M. 322.

Partition suit—Parties in subsequent suit arranged on same side in previous litigation—Effect—See PARTITION—GENERAL, 7 A.L.J. 451=6 Ind. Cas. 692=32 A. 469.

Suit by mirasidars against co-mirasidars for partition—Former decree declaring impartibility of lands of village, binding nature of—See PARTITION—RIGHT TO PARTITION, 4 M.H.C. 285.

See POSSESSION—SUITS FOR POSSESSION, 7 O.C. 122.

——9.—Relief not granted.

(1)—Former suit—Relief sought and refused—Second suit.—A second suit does not lie for relief sought and refused in the former suit the decree wherein stands unreversed. SARDAR WASAWA SINGH v. AMIR, 79 P.R. 1887.

(2)—Decision on erroneous view of law—Res judicata.—A decision is no less a res judicata, because it may have been founded on an erroneous view of the law, or a view of the law which a Full Bench has subsequently disapproved. GOWRI KOER v. AUDH KOER, 10 C. 1087. [F., 1 C.W.N. 687, 28 C. 318, 14 C.P.L R. 109; R., 2 O.C. 261, 5 O.C. 181, 8 O.C. 37, 44 P.R. 1908; D., 1 C.L.J. 176=9 C.W.N. 466=32 C. 749.]

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 2, 7—Omission to suit for portion of claim.—The omission to sue for portion of a claim is fatal to a subsequent suit for the portion omitted. N.B.—In this case leave was granted to the plaintiffs to apply to the Court below for a review of the decree passed in the former suit. VYASRAV BALAJI v. SUBHAJI NARAYAN, 5 B.H.C.A.C. 173.

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 158—Dismissal of suit under this section, effect of—Gift of land out of holding to absentee relation—Whether shamilat included—Intention of parties—Status of full proprietor.—The dismissal of a suit under s. 158 of the old Civ. Pro. Code, operates as res judicata in respect of the right of the plaintiff to recover by any subsequent suit the property sued for in the first suit. The ancestors of the plaintiffs and defendants originally owned a joint holding in equal shares. The plaintiff's branch, however, remained absentees for a long time. Their suit to recover their half share of the holding and of shamilat was dismissed in 1891. In 1897 defendants voluntarily gifted about 29 beghas to the plaintiffs out of the original holding. This area constituted about 1/5th share of the whole holding. On a subsequent partition of the shamilat land, the area falling to the share of the holding was allotted to defendants without giving plaintiffs any share. Plaintiffs thereupon sued for possession of one-half share of the shamilat area allotted to defendants. Held (1), that plaintiffs were not entitled to one-half share, as their suit for the shamilat was dismissed in 1891; (2) that, in considering whether the gift to plaintiffs in 1897 included the corresponding share of shamilat, what the Court had to look to was the intention of the parties, and as the mutation proceedings showed that plaintiffs were restored to the position of full proprietors in respect of 1/5th share in the holding, they were ent tled to 1/5th share in the shamilat allotted to the holding. MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT IMAM KHATUN, 25 P.L.R. 1912 =37 P.W.R. 1912. (113 P.R. 1902, 34 P.L R. 1902, D.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——9.—Relief not granted—continued.

(5)—Suit to enforce a document—Decision relating to the document in a former suit between the parties.—Where the suit was brought to enforce a document, which was held in a former suit to have no effectual binding power over the estate in question and not to affect it in any way as between the parties, held that the suit was barred by the rule of res judicata. DURGA PRASAD LAHIRI CHOWDHURI v. SRIMATI SASHIBALA DEBI, M.W.N 1912, 73, P.C.=9 A.L.J. 165=15 C.L.J. 180=14 Bom. L.R. 177=16 C.W.N. 603=14 Ind. Cas. 463.

(6)—Appeal—Judgment conclusive--Pendency of appeal—Stay of execution—Review.—A judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon the same cause of action is conclusive between the same parties in a subsequent suit brought in another Court, notwithstanding the pendency of an appeal against it; but if the Judge passes a decree in the subsequent suit for the plaintiff, he may, upon application, stay the execution of it, until the appeal is decided, and if the decree in the former suit should be reversed, he may entertain an application for the review of his own decision in the subsequent suit. BULKIRAM NATHURAM v. THE GUZERAT MERCANTILE ASSOCIATION, LIMITED, 4 B.H C.A. C. 81.

(7)—Suit for possession—Proper issue left untried—Fresh suit — Special appeal.—In a suit to recover lands to which the plaintiff is entitled, if the Court gives him a decree for such lands without trying the proper issue, the proper course for the defendant is to appeal specially to the High Court and not to bring a fresh suit for the determination of the issue which was left untried in the former suit. JUGGESSUR NUNDEE v. CHUNDER GOBIND SINGH, 9 W.R. 524.

(8)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Suit for maintenance—Prayer for future maintenance, res judicata—Where a person entitled to maintenance not contended with asking for a declaratory decree has asked for a decree relating to future maintenance, he cannot thereafter bring a separate suit to recover arrears of maintenance even though the former decree omitted to specify any fixed date for the annual payment of such maintenance. VENKANNA v. AITAMMA, 12 M. 183. (7 M. 80, D.) [F., 22 M. 175; R., 4 M.L.T. 330.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——9.—Relief not granted—continued.

(9)—Expl. 3, s. 13, Act XIV of 1882, Civ. Pro. Code—Prior suit for possession and mesne profits—Ex parte decree for possession only—Subseqent suit for same mesne profits and for mesne profits for a subsequent period.—The decree in a prior suit for recovery of possession and for mesne profits prior to the institution of the suit awarded possession, but was silent as regards mesne profits. Whereupon the plaintiff brought a subsequent suit wherein he claimed both mesne profits prior to the institution of the first suit and also mesne profits for a period subsequent to that suit, held, that the claim for mesne profits prior to the institution of the first suit was barred. (17 C. 968, D.) [R., 21 A. 425=A.W.N. 1899, 153, 25 B. 115; D., 5 C.L J. 192=34 C. 223]. There is neither reason nor authority for saying that Expl. 3, s. 13, is meant only to bar so much of the claim as is expressly dealt with in the judgment but is not referred to expressly in the decree. If any matter is expressly dealt with in the judgment, the principle of res judicata would apply to it, notwithstanding that the decree does not refer to it expressly. If the object of Expl. 3 was merely to prohibit the trial in a second suit of an issue already tried and determined in a former suit notwithstanding the absence of any allusion in the decree to the matter so dealt with, Expl. 3 might as well have not been given. JIBAN DAS OSWAL v. DURGA PERSHAD ADHIKARI, 21 C. 252. [R., 21 A. 425=A.W.N. 1899, 153; 25 B. 115; D., 5 C.L.J. 192=34 C. 223].

(10)—Question advisedly left undecided in prior suit.—Where, in a prior suit, the Courts, finding themselves unable to come to a decision, by reason of errors of form in the frame of the suit, refrained from deciding the main point in the case and left it to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit properly framed, such question, having been advisedly left undecided in the former suit, could not be said to have been heard and finally decided within the meaning of s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and would not be res judicata. RAM CHARAN BUHARDAR v. REAZUDDIN, 10 C. 856. [R., 14 B. 31; 3 O.C. 273; D., 25 B. 115.]

(11) S. 13, Expl. 3, Act XIV of 1882 (Civ. Pro. Code)—Termination of suit by the plaintiff being allowed to withdraw it without leave to bring a fresh one, effect of—Expl. 3 of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, contemplates a decree being passed, which does not expressly grant the relief claimed. Where a suit terminated, by the plaintiff being permitted to withdraw it without leave to bring a fresh one, held, that it did not bar a subsequent suit in which the same matter was in issue. KAMINI KANT ROY v. RAM NATH CHUKKERBUTTY, 21 C. 265.

Res Judicata—continued.

——9.—Relief not granted—continued.

(12)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 97, proceeding striking off suit not a withdrawal under—Suit struck off without determination cannot bar subsequent suit as res judicata.—The previous decision which the defendant in this suit set up as estopping the plaintiff from proceeding with the present suit was not a decision in favour of the other party, but one merely recording that, as the process of the Court could not reach one of the defendants, the Court, for that reason, put an end to the suit. The defendant could therefore not avail himself of such judgment by way of a plea of res judicata, since there was no determination in favour of one party or the other. It was sought to treat the case as one of withdrawal under s. 97 of Act VIII of 1859, but, as plaintiff in that suit never withdrew from the suit either with or without the leave of the Court, s. 97 was held to have no application. LUCKHEE RAM DOSS v. JOY SUNKUR GOOHO, 7 W.R. 236. [R., 6 B. 482.]

(13)—Matter decided by lower Court, not dealt with by appellate Court.—When the decision of a lower Court is appealed to a superior tribunal, and that tribunal for any reason does not think fit to decide the matter it is left an open question, and the matter will not be res judicata in a subsequent suit. CHUNDER COOMAR MITTER v. SIB SUNDARI DASSEE, 8 C. 631=11 C.L.R. 22 [R., 5 C.L.J. 653; D., 4 N. L.R. 98.]

(14)—Special appeal rejected—Findings of lower Court—Effect.—In a special appeal, the general affirmation of a judgment below can only be on the points raised by the special appellant. By rejecting a special appeal, it does not follow that the High Court necessarily affirms all the other findings of fact or of law which the lower appellate Court may have incidentally come to. SHAIKH AHMED HOSSEIN v. MUSSAMUT BANDEE, 15 W.R. 91.

(15)—Res judicata—Question raised but not decided in previous suit—Title—Leave to bring fresh suit.—In a suit between A and B, a question of title was raised and decided in B's favour in the Court of first instance, but, on appeal, the Judge refused to go into it, saying that B might bring a fresh suit. Held that a subsequent suit by B raising the same question was not barred as res judicata. EMAMOODEEN SOWDAGHUR v. SHAIK FUTTEH ALI, 3 C.L.R. 447. (12 W. R. 43, P.C., D.) [R., 3 O. C. 273, 2 O.C. 303.]

(16)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 108—Ex parte decree, dismissal of application to set aside—Suit to set decree aside on ground of fraud, maintainability of.—An application made by the present plaintiff under s. 108 of the Civ. Pro. Code, to set aside an ex parte decree obtained against him by the defendant was dismissed on the ground of limitation. He thereupon brought the present suit for a declaration that the ex parte decree and the proceedings relating to it were null and void as having been obtained by the exercise of fraud. The decree of the Court of first instance dismissing the suit as not maintainable was set aside by the lower appellate Court, and the High Court agreed with the latter for the reason that the application under s. 108, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, has never been heard on the merits and that the special grounds for the present suit were never considered by the Court. DWARKA PRASAD v. LACHHOMAN DAS, 21 A. 389= A.W.N. 1899, 67. [R., A.W.N. 1902, 187.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——9—Relief not granted—continued

(17)—Suit on mortgage against Hindu widows and reversioners—Description of property.—In a suit by the father of the appellant on a mortgage against a Hindu widow, the mortgagor, in which the plaintiffs in the present suit joined as defendants on the ground that they were the reversionary heirs of the mortgagor's deceased husband, the mortgaged property was described simply as "Mouzah Bhatta." But in the schedule to the plaint, the property was described as "Mouzah Bhatta usli with dakhili," that is, "Mouzah Bhatta Kurim and Mouzah Mokundpore Bhatta." The present plaintiffs, the reversionary heirs of the mortgagor's deceased husband, sued the appellant for adjudication of their right to, and possession of, eight annas out of the entire sixteen annas of Mouza Mokundpore Bhatta and the appellant contended that the present suit was res judicata. Held that in the first suit the Court was called upon to adjudicate upon the property as described in the body of the plaint, and not as described in the schedule annexed thereto, and that the question in the present suit was not therefore res judicata. HET NARAIN SINGH v. RAM PERSHAD SINGH, 7 C.L.R. 404, P.C.

(18)—Arbitration — Refusal to file award—Validity of award—Decision as to—The refusal of an application to file an award is not a decision as to the validity of the award. MUHAMMED NAWAZ KHAN v ALAM KHAN, 70 P.R. 1891, P.C.=18 I.A. 73=18 C. 414=6 Sar. 26.

(19)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s, 13, Expl. III (=s 11 Expl. V, new Code)—"Relief claimed," meaning of—Res judicata—Suit for possession of land and for part and future mesne profits—Decree silent as to future mesne profits--Subsequent suit for same not barred.—The words "relief claimed" in Expl. III to s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code apply only to something which forms part of the "claim" strictly so called, i.e., something which the plaintiff may claim as of right, something included in his cause of action, 'and which, if he establishes his cause of action,' the Court has no discretion to refuse. The words do not include something which the plaintiff cannot in the suit claim as of right but can only claim in the sense of appeal to the discretion of the Court, and which the Court may refues in the exercise of its discretion on grounds of general expediency or otherwise, even if the cause of action is fully established. Where, therefore, in a suit brought for the possession of land, the plaintiff claimed past and future mesne profits, the mere omission of the Court to adjudicate as to the claim for the future mesne profits, will not, by reason of Expl. III of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, bar a subsequent suit for the future mesne profits accruing due after the institution of the former suit, because under s. 211, Civ. Pro. Code, it is purely in the discretion of the Court to grant or refuse such profits. RAM DAYAL v. MADAN MOHAN LAL. 21 A. 425, F.B.=A.W.N. 1899, 153. (17 C. 968, 21 C. 252, 4 B L.R. 113, 19 B. 532, 4 M. 308; R, 14 M. 328; Disc., A.W.N. 1884 159, Overruled) [F., 32 C. 128; R., 2 N.L.R. 91; D., 25 B. 115, 34 C. 223=5 C.L.J. 192, 30 A. 225=5 A.L.J. 192=A.W.N. 1908, 96.]

Res Judicata*—continued.

——9.—Relief not granted —concluded.

(20)—Ss. 13, 211, 244, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, —Recovery of possession of immoveable property and mesne profits, suit for—Decree—Mesne profits subsequent to date of suit, suit for.—S. 211 is not imperative or obligatory; it is merely discretionary. Under s. 211 of the Code of 1882, the Court, in a suit for the recovery of possession of immoveable property and mesne profits, can award mesne profits either up to the date of the institution of the suit or up to the date of delivery of possession. Where a decree, in a suit for land and mesne profits, is silent as to mesne profits between the date of the institution of suit, and delivery of possession, a separate suit will lie for such subsequent mesne profits. Such a suit is not barred by ss. 13 and 244, Civ. Pro. Code. MON MOHUN SIRKAR v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, 17 C. 968. (2 I.A. 219, 8 C. 178, 10 W.R. 486, 13 W.R. 15, F.B., 1 B.L.R. A.C., R.) [F., 19 B. 532, 21 A. 425=A.W.N 1899, 153, 32 C. 118. Cited, 29 P.R. 1902=83 P.L.R. 1902; R., 19 C. 615, 25 B 115, 15 M.L J. 462, 5 A.L.J 192=A.W.N, 1908, 96=30 A. 225; Diss., 24 B. 149; D., 21 C. 252, 5 C.L.J, 192=34 C. 223.]

(21)—S. 13, Exp. III, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, Claim for mesne profits, omission to grant—A subsequent suit for mesne profits for a period subsequent to first suit.—Where a claim for mesne profits for a certain period and for those subsequent to date of suit was asked for in the first suit between the parties and the Court omitted to grant the subsequent profits and the decree was silent as to it, a second suit for mesne profits for a period subsequent to the institution of the first suit cannot be said to be barred by the rule of res judicata contained in this section. G. S. HAYS v. PADMANAND SINGH, 32 C. 118. (17 C. 968, 21 A. 425, 19 B. 532, 14 M. 328, F.) [F., 2 N.L.R. 91.]

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908. s. 47,

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

See RIGHT OF SUIT—EXECUTION OF DECREE.

Res Judicata*—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings —continued.

(1) — Construction of decree — Erroneous orders.—Although a decree does not in terms give a certain relief, yet, if it is construed in orders passed upon it as having given that relief, it is not competent to the Court, on a subsequent application, to treat those orders as erroneous and put another construction on the decree. VENKATA NARASIMHA NAIDU v. PAPAMMA, 19 M. 54=5 M.L.J. 228. [F., 20 M. 289, 24 M. 683=11 M.L.J. 432; D. 17 M.L.J. 423, 48 P.R. 1900=P.L.R. 1900, p. 418.]

(2)—Res judicata—Dismissal of suit or execution application on merits and on other ground —Bar of subsequent suit or application as regards same right.—The dismissal of a suit or of an application in execution proceedings will operate as res judicata when such dismissal is consequent upon an adjudication of the right litigated between the parties. The fact that the dismissal of the application or suit was consequent not only upon the adjudication of the right litigated but also upon another ground, cannot entitle the parties to re-open the question of right thus adjudicated upon. VENKATAPPIAH v. JAGANNADHA RAO, 12 M.L.J. 24.

(3)—Execution of decree—Applications for execution of declaratory decree erroneously granted after notice—Subsequent application, whether can be objected to.—A decree declared that defendant was bound to pay plaintiff a certain sum per annum. Several applications were made by plaintiff for execution of the decree. All the applications were granted after notice to the defendant. On a subsequent application for execution, defendant objected that the decree was not capable of execution. Held that the previous orders had determined, whether rightly or wrongly, that the decree was executable. As the judgment-debtor had notice of the application on which those orders were passed, he was bound by them. SUBBARAMIER v. NAGAMMAL, 24 M. 683. (19 M. 54, 8 I.A. 123, 8 C. 51 F.) [R., 27 P.L.R. 1905.]

(4)—Application of principle of, to execution proceedings.—Although the use of the expression "Res judicata" in the case of execution proceedings is not strictly correct, orders in execution proceedings are governed by principles analogous to those of res judicata and are binding, if not appealed against, in subsequent proceedings on the same suit. Their binding force depends, not upon s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, but upon general principles of law. IBRAHAM BAMBALA v. IMAM DIN, U.B.R. 1907, Civ. Procedure, 1=14 Bur. L.R. 35. (3 A. 141, 173, 6 A. 269, 8 C. 51, 11 I.A. 181, U.B.R., 1897—1901, Vol. II, 252, R.)

(5)—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=s. 11, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908)—Res judicata in execution—Execution of decrees.—The plaintiffs obtained a money decree against T and D personally and as legal representatives of their brother S. In execution, plaintiffs sought to attach and sell certain lands of S, and though the defendants were served with notices, they failed to appear, and the Court, considering suo motu that the Dekhan Agriculturists Relief Act did not apply, ordered the sale of S's lands. T and D did not appeal within the time allowed but filed a suit for a declaration that S's lands were not liable to sale by reason of s. 22 of the Dekhan Agriculturists Relief Act. Held that the order to sell S's lands was final and cannot be set aside, and the present suit was res judicata by reason thereof. WAHDUMAL DHARAMDAS v. THARO, 3 S.L.R. 133=4 Ind. Cas. 478. (8 C. 51, 6 B. 64, 19 M. 54, 27 A. 148, F.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(6)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, Expl. II—Applicability of the rule of res judicata to proceedings in execution.—Where a person, on his own application, was joined as a respondent in an appeal, but failed to take any steps by way of defence, on the suit having been remanded for re-trial on the merits, whereas, if he had chosen to do so, he could have filed a written statement raising any defence which he had or thought he had, it was held not to be open to him to raise, on the plaintiff proceeding to execute the decree, such objections as he could have previously raised by way of defence in the suit itself. The case would fall within the principle of expl. II of s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Although s. 13 may not in terms apply, by reason of the matter not having been decided in another suit, still principle of law underlying s. 13 has to be applied to proceedings in execution of decrees. KISHAN SAHAI v. ALADAD, 14 A. 64=A.W N. 1891, 221. (6 A. 269, P.C., F.) [D., 19 B. 821.]

(7)—Execution of decree—Orders passed in the same application—Finality.—Orders, passed in the same application for execution between the same parties, are final so far as that application is concerned. Where, therefore, a District Judge, on appeal, disallowed all the objections raised by the judgment-debtor to the execution of a decree, and such order of the District Judge was not appealed against, his successor in office could not, on an appeal arising out of subsequent order of the lower Court in the same proceedings, reopen the question already decided by his predecessor and direct the disposal afresh of all the objections originally urged by the judgment-debtor. BALLABH SHANKAR v. NARAIN SINGH, 3 A. 173. [R., U.B.R. 1907, Civ. Pro. Code, 1=14 Bur. L.R. 35.]

(8)—Execution of decree—Res judicata.—An unappealed, and hence final, order, deciding that an execution application has been barred by limitation, will operate as a bar to execution upon a subsequent application for execution of the same decree. Quære.—Whether the principle of res judicata, as enunciated in s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, applies in all its generality to proceedings after decree? BANDEY KARIM v. ROMESH CHUNDER BUNDOPADHYA, 9 C. 65. [R., 14 B. 206.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(9)—Decision of Court in execution, nature of.—The decision of a Court in execution is res judicata between the parties. Where the very same contentions were raised, in a former application to execute the decree in question, before the Subordinate Judge, and were overruled, and the order was that the decree be executed, held, that as there was no appeal preferred against that order, it became conclusive. FUTTEH NARAIN CHOWDHRY v. CHANDRA NARAIN CHOWDHRAIN, 20 C. 551. (8 C. 51, R.) [R., U.B.R. 1907, 1st Qr., Civ. Pro. Code, p. 1=14 Bur. L.R. 35.]

(10)—Execution proceedings.—The legality of previous proceedings cannot be questioned in subsequent proceedings. Where a previous application for execution was made before a Court having jurisdiction to entertain it, and its decision was never reversed, held that such order could not be impeached in a subsequent application as not having been made in accordance with law. SHUJAAT ALI v. AJUDHIA PRASAD, A.W.N. 1882, 151.

(11)—Res judicata—Execution proceedings.—Where the question raised in the present execution proceedings was heard and adjudicated upon in previous execution proceedings, and no appeal was preferred from the decision then passed, held that the same matter could not be raised in the present execution proceedings. SHEO SAHAI v. NAJAF KHAN, A.W.N. 1882, 128.

(12)—Decree—Order rejecting objection to execution not appealed against—Re-opening question.—A person who has not appealed from an order rejecting her objection and directing execution of the decree to proceed, is not entitled to re-open a question already decided, and with reference to which she allowed her right of appeal to pass away. RANEE EMAMUN v. RANEE MORADUN, 5 W.R. Mis. 14.

(13)—Order to sell properties in certain order—Subsequent application not to sell property in that order—Res judicata.—Where, upon an objection to an application for execution of a decree, an order was made directing that the properties affected by the decree should be sold in a certain order: Held, that the same question could not be re-opened upon a subsequent application for execution to the same decree. MURLIDHAR v. GOMA, 5 Ind. Cas. 210=7 A. L.J. 401 (A.W.N. 1891, 33, F.; 4 A.L.J. 400, A.W.N. 1907, 163, A.W.N. 1897, 29, R.)

(14)—Execution of decree—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 244.—The principle of res judicata is applicable to execution proceedings in the same manner as to suits. Hence, where, upon an objection to an application for execution of a decree, an order was made under s. 244 of the Civ. Pro. Code, directing that the villages affected by the decree should be sold in a certain order, and that order remained unappealed, thereby becoming final, held, that the same question could not be re-opened upon a subsequent application for execution of the same decree, but that execution must proceed upon the basis of the order referred to above. NAGESHAR PRASAD SINGH v SRI NIWAS PANDE, A.W.N. 1891, 33.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(15)—Res judicata—Mahomedan Law—Effect of wife's conversion to Christianity—Her re-conversion to Muhammadanism—Execution of decree—Meaning of dissolution of marriage—Civ. Pro. Code, 1908, s. 11. — Where execution of a decree for custody of wife was refused on the ground that her conversion to Christianity dissolved the marriage, and the decree-holder again applied for execution, contending that his marital rights were revived by her re-conversion to Muhammadanism, and that the term used in the original text of Mahomedan Law in case of apostacy means suspension or separation and not dissolution : Held, that the decision in the previous litigation bars the subsequent application for execution and the new contention. In applying the rule of res judicata, words of the former judgment are to be used in their ordinary sense. Such words as " the marriage is dissolved" can only have one meaning in English viz., that the marriage tie has ceased to exist. IMAMUD-DIN v. NUR DIN, 59 P.W.R. 1910 = 6 Ind. Cas. 665 = 77 P.L.R. 1910. (85 P.R. 1906, F.; 132 P.R. 84, R.)

(16)—Ss. 13 and 244—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, —Decree against administrator—Execution of decree against administrator—Sale by administrator with sanction of Court under s. 257 A—Such decree and sale binding on successor—Fraud or collusion—Procedure in creditor's suit against administrator—Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), s. 7, cl. V.—Defendant brought a suit against the former administrator of a deceased person's estate in respect of a debt due from the estate and obtained a decree. In execution of the decree, the administrator executed a sale-deed conveying a portion of the deceased's estate in satisfaction of the judgment-debt, with the sanction of the Court under s. 257 A. The successor of such administrator brought the present suit in a First Class Subordinate Judge's Court, to set aside the decree obtained by defendant against the former administrator, as also the sale in pursuance of such decree in execution, alleging that they were not binding on her, and that the only remedy of the defendant was to apply for rateable distribution under s. 282 of the Indian Succession Act and not to apply for execution. It was found that neither the decree nor the sale was vitiated by fraud or collusion. Held, (1) that the position of an executor or administrator of a deceased person's estate is analagous to that of the Shebait of an idol; the administrators form a continuing representation of the estate and that, therefore, a decree had against such representative would bind his successor, in the absence of fraud and collusion. (2 I.A. 145, P.C. = 23 W.R. 253 = 14 B.L.R. 450, Appl.) (2) that though the proper way for executing the decree might have been to apply for rateable distribution, still, as the decree was, as a matter of fact, executed and the sale deed was obtained in execution, such execution and sale thereunder acquired the force of res judicata under ss. 244 and 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, in the absence of fraud and collusion, which did not exist in this case. Case in which it was pointed out that Mofussil Courts ought to treat a suit, by the creditor of a deceased person's estate against an administrator representing the estate, as an administration-suit and ask the plaintiff to amend the plaint on that basis. If the plaintiff is not willing to amend the plaint, and if the claim is proved, the Court ought to pass a decree simply declaring the existence of the debt and of the right of the plaintiff to obtain satisfaction thereof in due course of administration, so that one creditor may not have an undue advantage over another. A preliminary objection was taken, that no appeal lay to the High Court, on the ground that the claim was valued at Rs. 640 for the purpose of computation of Court-fees and that the suit being one for a declaration and consequential relief, was not excepted from the operation of s. 9 of the Suits Valuation Act, and that, although possession was sought for, that relief was prayed for as consequential to the principal relief of declaration and the setting aside of the sale. Held, that the suit fell within the scope of s. 7 of the Court Fees Act, and that the real value of the property being more than Rs. 5,000, an appeal did lie to the High Court. BAI MEHER BAI v. MAGEN CHAND, 29 B. 96 = 6 Bom. L.R. 853. [Expl., 32 B. 381 = 10 Bom. L.R. 519; R., 31 B. 73, 8 Bom. L.R. 885.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(17)—Execution of decree—Principle of res judicata as applied to execution proceedings—Succession certificate Act (VII of 1889), s. 4.—The principle of res judicata applies to prevent parties raising a second time in the same suit, or in the same execution proceedings, an issue, which, in that suit or in the execution proceedings in the suit, had been previously determined. The principle of res judicata does not depend for its application upon the question whether the decision which is to be used as an estoppel was a right decision or a wrong decision in law or on facts. A defendant respondent cannot avoid the application of the principle of res judicata by saying that he did not appear at the trial of the suit, and a plaintiff, who has got an ex parte decree, on proof of his title or on failure of the defendant to prove a defence, the onus of proving which was on him, cannot be deprived of the full benefit of the decree which he has obtained by the fact that the defendant did not appear in Court to protect his own interest. BEHARI LAL v. MAJID ALI, 24 A. 138 = A.W.N. 1897, 29. (6 A. 269, R.) [R., 5 O.C. 251; F., 75 P.R. 1905 = 193 P.L.R. 1905; D., 90 P.R. 1902 = 20 P.L.R. 1903.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(18)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 13, 158—Application for execution struck off for non-payment of talbana—Subsequent application for execution not barred.—Where an application for the execution of a decree is struck off the file on an adverse decision on law or on the merits, the order, if not set aside on review or appeal, will operate as res judicata. But where the application is struck off, merely because talbana has not been paid, or because some other step is not taken, the order does not bar a further application. BIJAI SINGH v. HAIYAT BEGAM, A.W.N. 1889, 163. [D., 12 A. 392, F.B.; Cons. 15 A. 49.]

(19)—Ss. 13, 278, 283, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Execution of decree—Res judicata—Attachment, objection against—Fresh suit.—The plaintiffs obtained a decree on the 19th December, 1899, against A. C., adopted son of H.S., and another against H. S. on the 29th June, 1900. On 21st May, 1900, before the second decree was passed, H. S. mortgaged his house to R.D.; H.S. died in October or November, 1900, leaving A.C., his heir and representative. On the decree-holder's attaching the house in execution of the second decree, the mortgagee objected, and his prior rights as mortgagee were recognised and his objection allowed on 5th February, 1902. In these proceedings, the prohibitory order directing the judgment-debtor A.C. to refrain from transferring the house recited that the order was issued as the first decree had not been satisfied and the mortgagee in objection stated that the house had been attached in execution of the first decree. The order allowing objection recited that "decree-holders obtained their decree on 29th June, 1900." No suit was filed to set aside the order passed on the 5th February, 1902. The decree-holders applied for execution of the first decree and again attached the house. The mortgagee again filed an objection which was allowed on the 13th November, 1906. On the 6th August, 1907, the decree-holders filed a declaratory suit attacking the mortgage. Held, that, since the order of the 5th February, 1902, was still in force against the plaintiffs-decree-holders, the suit must be dismissed. That the order was res judicata as regards the second decree, and it was equally valid and binding as regards the first one. RAM DAS v. MUL CHAND, 89 P.L.R. 1909=122 P.W.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 970.

(20)—*S.*13, Civ.Pro.Code, 1882—Judgment debt-declared insolvent—Application for execution of decree, dismissal of, for want of jurisdiction—Dismissal order not appealed against—Fresh application for execution—Res judicata.—An application for execution of a decree was rejected by the executing Court (Court of a District Munsiff) on the ground of want of jurisdiction inasmuch as the judgment-debtor had been declared to be an insolvent by the District Judge. No appeal was preferred against this order and it became final. There was a second application for execution, presented to the same Court, of the same decree against the same judgment-debtor. Held, that, in the face of the final decision, by the Munsiff, that his Court had no power to entertain such an application, a further application to the same Court to execute the same decree against the same judgment-debtor was barred by the provisions of s. 13 of the Code. NABI MUHAMMAD v. JWALA PRASAD, 27A.148=A.W.N 1904, 197=1 A.L.J. 572. [Appr., 3 S.L.R. 133.]

(21)—Execution of decree—Res judicata—Liability of judgment debtor to pay interest on decretal debt not contested until after several applications for execution had been made.—Where certain judgment-debtors allowed several applications for execution of the decree against them to be made, in which the decree-holders treated the decree as bearing interest, and orders were passed by the executing Court in accordance with those applications, Held, that the judgment-debtors could not, on a subsequent application for execution being made, object that no interest was payable under the decree. GHULAM MUHAMMAD KHAN v. NARAIN DASS. A.W.N., 1901, 32. (13 A. 564, 8 C. 51, R.; A.W.N, 1898, 164, D.)

(22)—Res judicata—Determination of rate of interest in execution proceedings—Rate of interest not to be questioned in subsequent proceedings—Where, after notice to the judgment-debtor, the rate of interest payable on the decree amount was fixed in the course of execution-proceedings, the rate so fixed could not be questioned by the judgment-debtor in subsequent proceedings. ALAYAKKAMMAL v. ARUNACHALA CHETTY, 12 M.L.J. 97.

(23)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13, Expl. III—Decree ordering possession and mesne profits—Execution application for both reliefs—Omission to grant one relief whether bar to subsequent application in respect of it.—A decree was passed for possession of land and mesne profits. The decree-holder applied for execution in respect of both the reliefs. The Court ordered delivery of possession and made no reference to the other relief prayed for. Subsequently, the decree-holder applied for realization of mesne profits. Held, that the decree granting the mesne profits was still in force and effect. Plaintiff was entitled to execute it so long as it was kept alive. The decree could not be superseded by the mere omission of the Court executing it to pass orders on a claim made under it. NITYANANDA GANTAYET v. GAJAPATI VASUDEVA DEVU, 24 M. 681=11 M.L.J. 313. [R., 92 P.R. 1902=16 P.L.R. 1903.]

(24)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 13, 108, 244, 255—Execution of decree—Mesne profits, assessment of—Mesne profits, decree for—Not proceeding in execution—Res judicata—What remedy open to defendant.—According to the direction contained in a decree, mesne profits were assessed in the execution department, and an ex parte final decree was made. The defendant then came in and applied in terms of s.244, Civ. Pro. Code (1882), alleging fraud on the part of the decree-holder, and asking that the enquiries into mesne profits may be re-opened. Held, that the final decree ascertaining mesne profits is res judicata between the parties until it is set aside, that, although the mesne profits were assessed by the executing Court, that procedure was not one in execution of any decree, for it resulted in a final decree being passed in continuation of the original suit, and that the remedy open to the defendant was by way of appeal from the ex parte decree, or by an application for review, or under s. 108 of the Code. SARAT CHANDRA ROY CHOWDHURY v. MAHOMED KHALIL MONDOL, 5 Ind Cas. 387 =11 C.L.J. 501.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(25) Ss. 13, 248, 273, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Mortgage decree, execution of—Attachment before execution by a decree-holder against the mortgagee—Attaching creditor, how should execute it—Mortgagee, substituted in place of—Irregularity, not affecting the jurisdiction of the Court--Acquiescence of the judgment-debtor, if cures it--Omission to prefer objection, if creates the bar of res judicata.—A mortgage decree is not a decree for money within the meaning of s. 273 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The proper procedure for a decree-holder attaching a mortgage decree is to ask for a sale of it, and, if he succeeds in being the purchaser, to apply for execution as purchaser of the interest of the mortgagee decree-holder. (16 B. 522, 6 C.W.N. 5, F.) Where a holder of a decree against a mortgagee attached the mortgage-decree before its execution, got himself substituted in place of the mortgagee decree-holder, executed the mortgage-decree, and sold the property in execution, and the sale was confirmed, and where the judgment-debtor did not object to the substitution, or to the execution of the decree by the substituted decree-holder, but allowed the execution to proceed, and pleaded payment to the substituted decree-holder. Held, that although there was an irregularity in the procedure, it was cured by the long acquiescence of the judgment-debtor and the judgment-debtor is estopped by his own conduct from upsetting the whole procedure. (2 I. A. 219, 31 C. 822, F., in principle.) That the judgment-debtor is also barred by the law of res judicata from putting forward his present plea, viz., that the substitution could not be made and that the decree could not be executed by the substituted decree-holder in the way he did it, which he ought to have taken as a ground of his defence when notice under s. 248 was issued on him to show cause why the decree should not be executed. (8 I. A. 123, R.) That the substitution of the decree-holder was merely an irregularity and not an illegality which did not affect the jurisdiction of the Court. JOGENDRA NATH BHATTACHARYA v. HIR-NAYAKUMAR MUHURI, 2 C.L.J. 499.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(26)—Sale of mortgaged property in execution of decree—Objection to execution of decree taken after part of mortgaged property sold under decree—Order absolute—Mortgage—Act IV of 1882, ss. 88 and 89.—In March 1889, the respondent obtained, against the appellant, a decree for sale of certain mortgaged property under s. 88, Act IV of 1882. The mortgaged property consisted of three villages, C and B, in the Fyzabad district and N in the Barabanki district. On the 6th May 1889, after the expiry of the period fixed for payment, the respondent applied to the District Judge of Lucknow for the execution of the decree by the sale of N, and for the transfer of the decree to Fyzabad in view to the sale of the two villages in that district. On the 20th March, 1890, N was sold under the order of the District Judge of Lucknow in execution of the decree. The two villages in the Fyzabad district were attached by the District Judge with a view to sale in execution of the decree. The two villages were thrice proclaimed for sale. On the 31st January, 1891, the appellant prayed that the sir land be exempted from sale. On the 6th June, 1891, he prayed for the postponement of the then impending sale. Proceedings in execution were stayed in August 1892, pending the disposal of suits brought by the appellant's brothers in connection with the attached villages. After the disposal of those suits, the respondent, on the 9th January, 1895, prayed that the proceedings in execution be revived and continued and the attached villages be sold. On the 10th April, 1895, the appellant presented a petition objecting to the proposed sale on the ground that the decree was not capable of execution, as the respondent had failed to apply for and obtain an order absolute for sale under s. 89, Act IV of 1882. The objection having been disallowed by the District Judge, the appellant preferred an appeal against the order of the District Judge. Held that, on the principle of res judicata, the appellant was precluded from objecting to the sale on a ground which he might have raised but did not raise against the order which was made by the District Judge of Lucknow for the sale of one of the mortgaged villages and against the orders which were subsequently made by the District Judge of Fyzabad for the sale of the remaining two mortgaged villages between 1890 and 1892. INAYAT-UL-RAHMAN v. SADIK HUSAIN, 5 O.C. 251 (B).

(27)—Hindu Law—Execution of decree—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 244—G. S., the head of a joint Hindu family, made a mortgage of some of the joint family property. The mortgagee brought a suit on the mortgage and obtained a decree against G. S., without making certain members of the joint family parties to the suit. After the death of G. S., the decree-holder made these members parties to certain execution proceedings. These members of the joint family subsequently brought a suit to have it declared that their shares in the joint family property were not liable to sale in execution of the decree on the mortgage made by G. S. Held that the suit would not lie. If the plaintiffs had raised no objections in the execution proceedings, their suit was barred by the principle of res judicata, while, if they had and their objections had been disallowed, their remedy was by appeal against the order disallowing their objections. LOCHAN SINGH v. SANT CHANDER MUKERJI, A.W.N. 1899, 24. [Diss., 21 A. 356 ; D., 21 A. 277.]

Res Judicata – continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings —continued.

(28)—Res judicata—Execution—Order.—A, B and C were the proprietors of an estate, and they partitioned it under a butwarra by which A and B got one share and C the other. In 1847, A mortgaged his share to B. In 1851, a boundary dispute arose between the proprietors the result of which was that C surrendered 51½ beegahs. B, the mortgagee of A, took possession of the beegahs so surrendered under an ekrarnama executed by A in order to secure the costs of B in the dispute. In 1874, A sued to recover possession of a moiety of the lands held jointly by him with B, alleging that his debts had been paid off by the usufruct while it had been held by B. A obtained a decree for possession and wassilat, no specific mention of the 51½ beegahs being made in the decree. In execution of the decree, B objected that he had been charged with wassilat of these 51½ beegahs which really formed no part of the decree. The objection was disallowed. In 1878, B sued to recover possession of the moiety of 51½ beegahs taken by A under his decree. Held that this matter, having been decided under s. 11 of Act XXIII of 1861 between the parties in execution of the decree obtained by A, could not be made the subject of a suit. KALI MUNDUL v. KEDAR NATH CHUCKERBUTTY, 6 C.L.R. 215.

(29)—Ss. 13 and 287, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Res judicata—Property described as a permanent tenancy in decree—Execution of decree —Sale of occupancy holding—Objection not raised in suit—Right of executing Court to question the saleability of property—Particulars of sale proclamation—Execution-Court, duty of. —The appellants, decree-holders, obtained a consent decree for payment of a certain sum of money and, in default, for the sale of certain properties. In execution of the decree, certain properties in the decree described as held by the respondent, judgment-debtor, on a permanent tenure, were put up for sale. The respondent objected to the sale on the ground that the properties were his occupancy holdings and were not saleable. The question was whether the Court executing the decree could entertain the objection as to the saleability of the property or whether it ought to have been raised in the original suit. Held, that the executing Court could not entertain the objection and that the judgment-debtor ought to have raised that question in the suit and, he having failed to do so, the matter became res judicata. (A.W.N. 1892, 5, F.) Per Burkitt, J.—If the execution Court should have reason to believe that the property, which was ordered to be sold, was an occupancy holding, it should enter that fact in cl. (e) of the proclamation as a warning to an intending purchaser that he might take nothing by his purchase. BASDEO PRASAD v. JUTHAN RAM, A.W.N. 1905, 138 = 2 A.L.J. 401, F.B. = 27 A. 684.

(30)—Limitation Act, 1877, art. 179—Execution of decree—Omission to plead bar of limitation—Objection to subsequent application—Res judicata.—In execution of a decree, an application was made more than three years after the prior application for execution. Execution was ordered after notice to the judgment-debtor. In a subsequent application for execution, it was contended that the above application could not save limitation, inasmuch as it was presented more than three years after the previous application. Held that it was not open to the judgment-debtor to raise the objection that the said application was barred, the matter being res judicata. LAKSHMANAN CHETTI v. KUTTAYAN CHETTI, 24 M. 669. [F., 31 C. 822 = 8 C.W.N. 672, A.W.N. 1905, 237 ; R., 24 A. 282, 47 P.R. 1906 = 86 P.L.R. 1907.]

(31)—Execution of decrees—Act X of 1877, s. 13 - Operation of res judicata, in proceedings in execution—"Suit" n s. 13, meaning of.—When, upon a time-barred execution application, a Court makes an order for execution, that order amounts to an adjudication by a competent Court that the application is not time barred and, although such adjudication may be erroneous, it is nevertheless res judicata, and unless the judgment-debtor appeals and obtains a reversal of the order, the order remains valid and binding, and it is not competent to any Court to re open the question in a subsequent proceeding. So also, the same effect must be given to a decision that an application is time barred, for, if a decision be valid and binding, although it may be erroneous, when it is given in favour of one party, it cannot be the less so, when it is in favour of the other party. A judgment-creditor, whose decree had been declared by a subordinate, but competent Court, to be time-barred, and who had acquiesced in such decision, or had failed to get it reversed in appeal, ought not to be allowed to go again to the subordinate Court with another application for execution, and ask that Court to determine that the previous decision, though perhaps confirmed by the High Court or the Privy Council, was erroneous and of no effect. A judgment-debtor who has once obtained a decision from a competent Court declaring the judgment against him to be dead, is certainly entitled to expect that, so long as that decision remains unreversed, he will not be further harassed by applications for execution. [R., 14 B. 206, 18 M. 482, 19 B. 675, 17 C.P.L.R. 178, 47 P.R. 1906=86 P.L.R. 1907, 14 C.W.N. 114=3 Ind. Cas. 47.] S. 2 of Act X of 1877, as amended by Act XII of 1879, declares that an order under s. 244 is a decree; and the term "decree" is defined to mean "the formal adjudication upon any right claimed or defence set up in a Civil Court, when such adjudication, so far as regards the Court expressing it, decides the suit or appeal. From this, it might be inferred that every proceeding which terminates in a decree (and a proceeding in execution is such a proceeding) is a suit within the meaning and intention of the Code. The rule of res judicata, therefore, applies in the case of execution proceedings. MANJUNATH BADRABHAT v. VENKATESH GOVIND SHANBHOG, 6 B. 54. [F., 6 B. 586; R., 22 M. 256, 26 B. 109=3 Bom. L.R. 565.]

Res Judicata*—continued.

——10 —Res judicata in execution proceedings —continued.

(32)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, *s.*373 (=O. XXIII, r. 1)—Execution of decree—Application of principle of res judicata.—If a judgment-debtor having had an opportunity, when a previous application for execution was pending, to take objection thereto on the ground of its being barred under s. 373, Civ. Pro. Code, failed to do so, he cannot be allowed, in a later application for execution of the same decree, to take such objection, on the principle of not going behind a proceeding in execution which has already been taken to be valid. SHER SINGH v. DAYA RAM, 13 A. 564=A.W.N. 1891, 164. (6 A. 269, 8 C. 51, 15 I.A 171, A.W.N. 1890, 9, R.) [R., 16 A. 390, A W.N 1901, 32.]

(33)—Res judicata—Execution proceedings,—When a Court, upon an application, has decided that the execution of a decree is barred by limitation, and that order has become final in consequence of no appeal having been preferred thereupon, such order will, upon a subsequent application made for execution of the same decree, operate as a bar to execution. (6 C. 203 =7 C.L.R. 61, 3 A. 141, 4 I.A. 127, 8 C. 51= 8 I.A. 123, R.) N.B.—In this case, the Court left open the question whether the principle of res judicata as enunciated in s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, applies in all its generality to proceedings after decree. KAZEE BUNDEY KARIM v. ROMESH CHUNDER BUNDOPADHIA, 11 C.L.R. 145=9 C. 65.

(34)—Execution of decree — Limitation.—Res judicata —Where an order for the execution of a decree is made by a competent Court, having jurisdiction to decide whether such execution is barred by limitation or not, such order although erroneous, must, if unreversed, be treated as valid. And it does not make any difference that the execution of the decree may have been actually barred at the date of the application for execution.

Res Judicata*—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

Where, therefore, of receipt oi notice under s. 248, Civ. Pro. Code, the judgment-debtors filed objections, but on the day fixed for hearing them, did not appear, and those objections were dismissed for default, held that they were estopped from pleading in a subsequent application for the execution of the decree, that the former application was barred by limitation at the time it was made; and this notwithstanding that the former application was afterwards struck off for non-payment of process-fees. SHEORAJ SINGH v. KAMESHAR NATH, 24 A. 282=A.W.N. 1902, 63. (15 A. 198, A.W. N. 1898. 96, D.; 8 I.A. 123, 24 M. 669, 28 C. 122, 15 A. 84, A.W. N. 1897, 29, R.) [F., 31 C. 822= 8 C. W. N. 672, A. W. N. 1905, 237, A.W.N. 1906, 70=3 A. L. J. 198; R., 27 P.L.R. 1905, 47 P.R. 1906=86 P. L. R. 1907; D., 10 C.W.N. 209=3 C.L J. 240.]

(35)—Execution of decree — Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 13, 647.—The law of res judicata does not apply in proceedings in execution of decree. (The Delhi and London Bank v. Orchard, 3 C. 47, P.C.=4 I.A. 127, referred to by Oldfield, J.). Where, therefore, the question was raised on an application for execution of a decree, whether the decree awarded mesne profits, and was decided in the negative, the decision was not final, and could be reopened in a subsequent application to execute the same decree. RUP KUARI v. RAM KRIPAL SHUKUL, 3 A. 141, F.B. [Reversed, 6 A. 269, P.C.; Cons., 6 B. 54; R., 9 C 65, U.B.R. 1907, C. P. C., 1=14 Bur. L. R. 35.]

(36)—Execution proceeding — Attachment of allowance—Erroneous decision in a point of law, if can have the force of res judicata — Cause of action – Civ. Pro. Code (1908), ss. 11 and 100.—Where a decision lays down what the law is and is found to be erroneous, it cannot have the force of res judicata in a subsequent proceeding for a different relief (11 C. L. J. 461, 13 C.L.J. 119, F.) But if it is a decision that is contrary to law, when that expression is used in the wide sense attributed to it, for example, in s. 100 of the Civ. Pro. Code, it may or may not have the force of a res judicata. A decision cannot alter the law of the land. BAIJ NATH GOENKA v. PUDMANUND SINGH, 16 C.W.N. 621=14 Ind. Cas. 124=16 C.L.J. 154=39 C. 848. (1 C.W.N. 687, 28 C. 318, R.)

(37)—Execution proceeding—Order permitting withdrawal of execution upon condition—Condition illegal and not bearing on any issue raised between parties—Subsequent application for execution—Right of decree-holder to disregard condition.—Where a decree-holder, having put up certain properties of the judgment-debtor to sale in execution of his decree, bid Rs. 600 for it, but failed to deposit the earnest money and then applied to withdraw the execution; and the Court, being of opinion that this was a dodge to avoid paying the earnest money, allowed the application, but subject to the condition that the same properties should be put up for sale, first at the next application for execution and the decree-holder must bid Rs. 600 for it: Held, that the Court had no power to make such an order and it was not binding on the decree-holder so as to preclude him from proceeding to execute the decree against the other properties of the judgment-debtor. The order did not operate as res judicata. JNANUDA SUNDARI CHOWDHURANI v. NOKULESSWAR ROY CHOWDHURY, 11 C.W.N. 236. (8 I.A. 123=8 C. 51, D.)

Res Judicata—continued.

—10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(38)—Execution proceedings, orders passed in —Orders not appealed against—Their binding nature—Res judicata—Decree—Application for execution — Withdrawal — Effect— Subsequent application for execution—Res judicata.—Orders in execution proceedings are, if not appealed from, binding on the parties to the suit in all subsequent proceedings in that suit on principles analogous to those of res judicata strictly so called. It is, therefore necessary to constitute a bar, that there must be a hearing and a final decision. [Appl., 32 B. 296=10 Bom. L.R. 374.] Where an application for execution of a decree is withdrawn by the decree-holder it must be treated as if it was not made at all and all matters in dispute therein were unheard and undecided. There could, therefore, be no res judicata in a subsequent application for execution in respect of such matters. HARI GANESH v. YAMUNABAI, 23 B. 35. [Appl., 32 B. 296=10 Bom. L.R. 374.]

(39)—Purchase pending attachment—Withdrawal of attachment, effect of.—The plaintiff having preferred a claim to certain property under attachment, it appeared that his title had accrued subsequently to the attachment, and his title, therefore, was declared to be void. Subsequently, the decree having been satisfied by payment and the attachment withdrawn, more than a year from the date of the claim being so declared void, the plaintiff sued to obtain possession on the title originally put forward. Held that the declaration that the plaintiff's claim was void could only be taken to mean that it was invalid against the claim of the attaching creditor, and that, on the withdrawal of the attachment, any right which the plaintiff might have acquired became valid. UMESH CHUNDER ROY v. RAJ BULLUBH SEN, 8 C. 279=10 C.L.R. 204. [R., 13 B. 72, 11 P.R. 1906=4 P.L.R. 1906; D., 29 M. 225=16 M.L.J. 136.]

(40)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 158—Execution proceedings—Dismissal of application for execution —Act VI of 1892, s. 4—By s. 4 of Act VI of 1892, nothing in Chap. VII or XIII of the Civ. Pro. Code, applies to execution proceedings. S. 158 being thus inapplicable to such proceedings, the dismissal of a petition for execution for default does not bar a fresh application. TIRTHASAMI v. ANNAPPAYYA, 18 M. 131. (15 A. 84, 18 B. 429 and 4 I.A. 127, F.)

Res Judicata—continued.

—10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(41)—Res judicata—Order disallowing objection—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code—Legal representative made a party—Objection of party disallowed.—Where an objection of a party in execution-proceedings is disallowed without any adjudication of the question raised by him, it cannot operate as res judicata. Defendant in the present suit obtained a decree against the brother of the present plaintiff, and, in execution, bought certain property in the name of a third person. In seeking to obtain possession, she was obstructed by the present plaintiff's brother who alleged that the person in whose name defendant alleged she had purchased the property was his benamidar. Defendant thereupon brought a suit against plaintiff's brother to have it established that she was the real purchaser. He put in his defence and issues were settled; but he died before the trial and so the present plaintiff was brought on the record as his brother's representative; the present defendant ultimately got a decree. But, in execution of such decree, the present plaintiff objected that he was entitled to a half share in some, and to the whole of some other properties, and that his deceased brother, in execution of the decree against whom defendant had purchased, had no right thereto. This objection being overruled, in execution, on the ground of the plaintiff's not having put it forward in the original suit in which he was brought on record as representative of his brother, plaintiff brought the present suit. Held, the plaintiff having contested the original suit in his representative capacity, was not bound to put forward the objection now put forward, nor did the order in execution disallowing his objection operate as res judicata so as to bar the present suit. GOURMONI DABEE v. JEGUT CHANDRA AUDHIKARI, 17 C. 57. (3 C. 47, Rel on; 6 C. 777, F.) [Appl., 17 C. 711.]

(42)—Execution of decree — Res judicata — Order not warranted by any issue raised before executing Court.—A Court executing a decree had before it the question, whether or not a sale in execution of that decree should be confirmed owing to the decree-holders, who were also auction-purchasers, not having filed a receipt, which they were ordered by the Court to file. The Court refused to confirm the auction-sale owing to the absence of the receipt, but at the same time directed that the decree-holders should not have power further to execute their decree. Subsequently, however, the executing Court passed an order to the effect that "the auction-sale which has been cancelled will be cancelled as before, and, if the decree-holders apply again, the property will again be put up." The decree-holders made a further application for sale; but to this it was objected by the judgment-debtor that the Court's previous order that the decree-holders could not further execute their decree operated as res judicata. Held, that the order thus relied on was superfluous and not warranted by any issue then before the Court, and did not operate as res judicata as to the right of the decree holders to execute their decree. NATTHU RAM v. MUHAMMAD ALI KHAN, A.W.N. 1895, 119.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(43)—Attachment — Dismissal of execution petition — Preliminary issue. — An attachment made after notice to the judgment-debtor is not discharged by the mere fact of the application for execution being subsequently dismissed for default of prosecution. A determination of one of the questions of law which may have to be decided before execution can be granted, is not an order in execution and cannot operate as res judicata unless it has been followed up by an order in execution. Nor need such a determination, in the absence of an order following it, be appealed against. Where an execution petition is withdrawn after the determination of one of the preliminary questions arising in the case, such determination is no more than the expression of the Judge's opinion and is of no effect for any purpose. VENKATAGIRI IYER v. SADAGOPACHARIAR, 14 M.L.J. 359. [D., 28 M. 355=15 M.L.J. 247.]

(44)—Ss. 13, 43, 647—(Civ. Pro. Code, 1882) — Execution proceedings—Judgment-debtor's objection—Certain property not included in objection by mistake—Second objection, whether barred.—A judgment-debtor objected to an attachment of certain property, but by mistake omitted to mention in his objection certain houses, in respect of which he filed another objection before sale: Held that the judgment-debtor could make the second objection and that s. 13 or 43, Civ. Pro. Code, was no bar to such objection. Held, further, that the objection by the judgment-debtor is a proceeding, taken in consequence of and as incidental to an application for execution by the decree-holder. LALA HAR PARSAD v. SETH RADHA KRISHAN, 2 Ind. Cas. 105.

(45)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13—Res judicata—Execution proceedings—Order passed after notice under s. 248, Civ. Pro. Code—No res judicata when such notice is silent as to relief prayed for.—When it is endeavoured to obtain execution of something not granted by the decree, mere notice to the defendant, that further execution is to be applied for will not be sufficient to make the order res judicata against him. And where the application is not for the execution of something which has been directed to be done by any decree or order, so as ipso facto to carry information as to what the claim made and the relief prayed for are, notice to the judgment-debtor without inserting the specific prayers will not render the order made upon such application res judicata. CHOCKALINGAM v. THE MADURA MEENATCHI SUNDARESWARER DEVASTHANAM, 5 M.L.T. 293. (30 M. 255, Appr.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(46)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2—Res judicata—Suits based on different causes of action—Several properties held under one title—Cause of action on dispossession—Decree for rent, effect of, on title to land—Rejection of claim in execution—Suit by claimant against third parties—Cause of action—Limitation.—The dismissal of a suit for possession of lands based on an alleged act of dispossession does not operate as a bar, under s. 2, Act VIII of 1859, to a different suit by the same person to recover other lands, based on a different act of dispossession, though the title set forth by the plaintiff in both the suits is identical. The title upon which a particular property is claimed does not constitute the cause of action. Where several properties are held by a person under one and the same title, a cause of action does not accrue to him with reference to them all, simply because he has been dispossessed of one of them on a particular date. A decree for arrears of rent against ryots does not affect the title to the property itself, the operation of such decree being restricted to the particular rent which it purports to cover. So a suit to establish the plaintiff's title to certain lands was held not barred under cl. 5, s. 1, Act XIV of 1859, by reason of its having been brought more than one year from the date of a rent-decree obtained by a third party against the ryots. Where the rejection of a claim in an execution case was not followed by the sale of the properties attached, a suit by the claimant in respect of the same properties, against a person other than the decree-holder, brought for quite a different purpose and upon quite a different cause of action, was held not barred by reason of its having been brought more than one year from the date of the order rejecting the claim. BOOA RUSSOOLEE v. THE NOWAB NAZIM OF BENGAL, 11 W.R. 382.

(47)—Decision in an execution case—Res judicata—Attachment—S. 67, T.P. Act, 1882.—If, in an execution case, a decision that a judgment-creditor cannot sell certain properties without bringing a separate suit is arrived at, such decision does not preclude him from attaching them in execution. Where a person who has obtained a decree for money with a charge on certain property attempted to bring the property to sale in execution, held, he could attach the property, but that if he wished to bring it to sale, he must bring a suit for sale on the charge under s. 67, T.P. Act. GOURI SUNKER PANDAY v. ABHOYESWARI DABEE, 25 C. 262. (22 C. 859, Expl.; 22 C. 813, R.) [D., 7 O.C. 314.]

(48)—Execution—Joint decree-holders—Payment to one of them—Final decision—Res judicata—Appeal.—Where an order recognizing the payment of a certain sum due on a decree to one of the holders of that decree, was made behind the backs of the other joint decree-holders, such order would not bind them. The other joint decree-holders would be entitled to agitate the question in a subsequent execution petition and would be entitled to appeal against any adverse order that might be passed against them. MOTI LAL v. IBRAHIM KHAN, A.W.N. 1883, 19.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(49)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Omission to raise a ground of defence in suit—No bar to raise the same in execution proceedings.—It is competent to a party to set up in execution proceedings a claim which might have been set up by him in the suit itself, but which he had omitted to raise by way of defence in the suit. Though the plea might have been set up as a ground of defence in the suit, yet, where it was not one that ought to have been then raised by the party, his omission to have raised the plea in the suit itself would not bar him, under s. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, from setting up such claim anew in the proceedings in execution. ATCHAYYA v. BANGARAYYA, 16 M. 117. [R., 19 A. 517.]

(50)—Proceedings to set aside auction-sale—Subsequent suit for recovery of property.—The fact that the minor-plaintiff, through his guardian, had actively intervened in a proceeding to set aside, on the ground of irregularity, an auction-sale of joint property belonging to himself and his father in execution of a decree against the father, would not preclude him from suing to recover possession of the property on the ground that it could not be sold for the satisfaction of such debts of the father as were not binding on the son. THE COLLECTOR OF MONGHYR v. HURDAI NARAIN SHAHAI, 5 C. 425=5 C.L.R. 112 on appeal 2 I.A. 26.

(51)—Sale deed relating to two plots of land—Deed as regards one plot held valid in execution proceedings—Suit relating to other plot—Validity of sale deed whether res judicata—Decision by executing Court, how far creates estoppel by res judicata.—In this case, plaintiff claimed certain land under a deed of sale, and both the lower Courts, holding the deed colourable, rejected the claim. In certain execution proceedings in another suit, plaintiff had intervened as claimant of the land then attached. That land he claimed by virtue of the very deed of sale now relied upon by him, in the present suit brought for the purpose of establishing his title to a different land covered by the sale deed. The above claim of the plaintiff in execution was allowed and, no suit having been brought within a year to dispute his right, that order became conclusive in favour of his right to the land then in litigation. The defendant in the present suit again pleaded that the sale was a colourable transaction and it was held that the order against him in the previous claim proceedings brought by the plaintiff could notr operate as res judicata so as to bar him from again contesting the validity of the sale deed. Although, between the parties, the orders to which s. 283 of the Civ. Pro. Code, refers, are, subject to the result of a suit, if any, conclusive, yet, such conclusiveness would obtain only as regards the particular property in dispute. Also, if the previous decision had been a final decision in a suit as distinguished from an execution proceeding, it would have created an estoppel by res judicata. DINKAR BALLAL CHAKRADEV v. HARI SHRIDHAR APTE, 14 B. 206 [R., 25 B. 202, 11 O.C. 220, 12 C.W.N. 739=9 C.L.J. 597=6 M.L.T. 363.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(52)—Dismissal of claim, in execution proceedings, to declaration of forgery of a deed, no bar to regular suit.—The dismissal of a claim, in execution proceedings, by the judgment-debtor, alleging that the sale deed, under which a portion of the decree was sought to be executed, was a forgery, is no bar to a regular suit to have it declared that it was a forgery. FAKHAROODDEEN MAHOMED AHSAN v. POGOSE, 4 C. 209=2 C.L.R. 573. (20 W.R. 305=2 C. 327=4 I.A. 66, referred to.)

(53)—Decree declaring plaintiff's hereditary deputy vatandarship—Execution for arrears of allowance—Attachment of income from defendant's vatan, removal of, on Collector's certificate under s. 10 of Bombay Vatandars' Act (III of 1874)—Second application for attachment, not barred by res judicata—Decree capable of execution apart from Collector's certificate.—The judgment of the District Court in this case dealt only with the plaintiff's right as a hereditary deputy vatandar, of which he sought a declaration, and pronounced in favour of it, while it rejected his claim for certain arrears of allowances. Though plaintiff was receiving monies for about ten years under the decree up to 1875, he did not get himself registered as a deputy vatandar under Bombay Act, III of 1874. An attachment by the plaintiff of the income of the defendant's hereditary vatandarship was raised by the Court on the Collector issuing a certificate for the removal of the attachment under s. 10 of the Vatandars' Act, III of 1874. Plaintiff's subsequent application to the Collector for cancellation of the certificate was also rejected. A fresh application for attachment filed in 1881 was rejected by the lower Courts, the Collector's certificate remaining uncancelled operating as a bar; but the High Court held that the decree was one capable of execution. The Collector's certificate under s. 10 of the Vatandars' Act, III of 1874, was exhausted in operating on the execution which it stopped, and the Court below should have dealt with the case apart from that certificate. GOPAL HANMANT DESHKA v. KONDO KASHINATH, 9 B. 328.

(54)—Execution application—Rejection.—The ejection of an application for the execution of a decree is not an adjudication within the rule of res judicata. HURROSOONDARY DASSEE v. JUGOBUNDHOO DUTT, 6 C. 203=7 C.L.R. 61. (3 C. 47=4 I.A. 127, F.) [R., 9 C. 65, 15 A. 84, F.B.; Not F., 14 C.W.N. 114=3 Ind. Cas. 47.] See, also, JEETOSHUR DHURN DEB v. FOOSEE SINGH, 1 Hay, 515.

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(55)—Execution of decree— Res judicata—Objections to execution dismissed for default of appearance—Subsequent application for execution.—The dismissal of a petition of objections to an application for execution of a decree for default of appearance, neither party having appeared on the day fixed for hearing, will not operate as res iudicata so as to bar the hearing of similar objections to a subsequent application to execute the same decree. SHAFAAT BEGAM v. HURMAT SULTAN BEGAM, A.W.N. 1895, 15.

(56)—Execution proceedings—Prior application claiming interest not awarded by decree—Failure to object to claim—Objection in subsequent proceedings—Notice on prior application silent on claim for interest.—It is open to a judgment-debtor to put forward his objection to a claim for interest not awarded by the decree, when the sale proclamation comes up for settlement, and it cannot be held that, merely because such objection might have been raised and an adjudication had at an earlier execution proceedings, the executing Court must, by its previous order to attach the property, be held to have decided to accept the claim of the judgment-creditor for interest not given by the decree (15 M.L.J. 7, F.) especially so, when the notice of prior execution did not at all mention the claim for interest, such prior order is, therefore, no bar by res judicata to the judgment-debtor subsequently raising the objection to the claim for interest. VIYATHAN SRIDEVI v. NEELAKANTA PATTAR, 17 M.L.J. 311.

(57)—S. 2, Civ. Pro. Code, 1859 —Court executing decree—Declaration by such Court as to legitimacy—Subsequent suit as to illegitimacy if barred.—An application for the execution of a decree, where the applicant was not upon the record when judgment was given nor when the decree was made, but subsequently to both, will not by itself make the applicant a party to the suit, and a decision by such Court on an issue as to such applicant's legitimacy will not be res judicata by a competent Court in a competent proceeding and will not, since it is made without jurisdiction, form a bar under s. 2, Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, to a regular suit later on, in which the said applicant's legitimacy is again put in issue. ABIDUNNISA KHATOON v. AMIRUNNISSA KHATOON, 2 C. 327 P.C.=4 I.A. 66=1 Ind. Jur. 172=3 Sar. 677 (on appeal from 20 W.R. 305). [F., 3 C. 371, 4 C. 209, 17 M. 399, 19 B. 328; R., 14 B. 206, 15 C.P.L.R. 69, 10 C.L.J. 396=3 Ind. Cas. 324=14 C.W.N. 752; Cons., 17 C. 711, F.B.; D., 18 M. 13.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings—continued.

(58)—Personal decree with a decree for sale—Application for personal decree dismissed—Execution of original decree against person.—Where a combined decree under ss. 88 and 90 of the Transfer of Property Act has been passed, it is not necessary to apply for a personal decree, after the sale of the hypothecated property. If such an application is made, any order passed on that is without jurisdiction and cannot supersede the decree as originally made and cannot operate as a bar to the decree being executed. SADHO SINGH v. MAHARAJA PARBHU NARAIN SINGH, 3 A.L.J. 606=A.W.N. 1906, 251=29 A. 12.

(59)—Execution of decree—Order for sale of mortgaged property in execution of simple money decree—Objection by judgment-debtor—Objection overruled—Appeal—Res judicata—Act IV of 1882, ss. 67, 99.—An ex parte order for sale of mortgaged property in execution of a simple money decree held by the mortgagees against the mortgagor, no suit for sale upon the mortgage having been brought, could not be taken as barring an appeal by the judgment-debtor from an order of the Court which passed the decree directing the Collector (who had allowed the judgment-debtor's objection to execution) to proceed with the sale. HYDER SHER KHAN v. HAR KISHEN, A.W.N. 1894, 16.

(60 & 61) -Limitation Act, XV of 1877, sch. II, art. 179, cl. (6)—Maintenance decree—Application for execution—Prior applications held barred—Effect.—A decree directed payment of maintenance annually on a specified date. It was passed in 1870 when Act XIV of 1859 was in force. There was an application for execution in 1873, which was within three years from date of the decree. The next application was not made till 1891. The Limitation Act then in force was XV of 1877. That application was dismissed as being time-barred. The present application was made in 1891. The lower Courts held that the question of limitation was res judicata by the previous decision and that the application was barred by lapse of time. Held, that the present claim was not res judicata, as the relief now claimed was distinct from that previously claimed. The prior applications were for money payable for different distinct periods. The former decisions could only affect the relief then claimed. Held also, that the present application was not barred by limitation. KUPPU AMMAL v. SAMINATHA AYYAR, 18 M. 482.

(62)—Barred decree—Order for execution by competent Court—Validity of.—Though the execution of a decree may have been barred at the time of the application, an order for execution, if regularly made by a competent Court having jurisdiction to try the question, is valid if unreversed. MUNGUL PERSHAD DICHIT v. GIRIJA KANT LAHIRI, 8 C. 51, P.C.=11 C.L.R. 113=8 I.A. 123=4 Sar. 249. [F., A.W.N.

Res Judicata —continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings —continued.

1882, 151, 7 A. 282, 19 M. 54, 24 M. 669, 24 M. 683=11 M.L.J. 432, 47 P.R. 1906 ; Appl., 6 B. 586, 8 A. 492=A.W.N. 1886, 156, 13 A. 564, 3 Bom. L.R. 416, 24 A. 282 ; R., 6 B. 54, 9 C 65, 6 A. 269=11 I.A. 37, P.C., 7 B 341, 9 B. 328, 11 C. 376, 13 C. 257, 11 B. 537, 14 B. 206, 15 B. 28, 15 B. 242, 13 M. 347, 20 C. 551, 15 A. 84, F.B., 16 A. 443, 89 P.R. 1894, 23 C. 374, 25 C. 789, 27 C. 210, 4 O.C. 333, A.W N. 1901, 32, 90 P.R. 1902, 31 C. 822, 1 C L J. 500, 2 C.L.J. 499, 3 C.L.J. 240=10 C.W.N. 209, 4 C.L.J. 573=34 C. 13, 14 C.W.N. 114, 47 P.R. 1906=86 P.L.R. 1907; D., 7 B. 316, 10 A. 51, 22 B. 83, 28 C. 122, 5 C.W. N. 80, 6 O.C. 44, 2 C.L.J. 384=9 C.W.N. 956, 11 C.W N. 236, 17 M.L.J. 201=2 M. L.T. 167=30 M. 255, 35 C. 1060=8 C.L.J. 193=12 C.W.N. 216, N. ; Rel., 14 Bur. L.R. 35=U.B.R. 1907, 1st Qr., Civ. Pro. Code, 1, 2 C.L.J. 584.]

(63)—In execution proceedings—Maintenance decree—Construction—Limitation Act, sch. II, art. 179, cl. 6.—Where a decree directs the defendants to pay maintenance at a certain rate per annum from the date of the plaint, 18th July, 1876, it was held that the proper construction of the decree was that payment should be made on the 18th July, 1877, and every subsequent year on the corresponding date ; and so the decree was one which "directed payment to be made on a certain date" within the meaning of cl. 6 of art. 179 of the Limitation Act. (12 B. 65, 14 M. 366, R.). In a petition for the execution of a maintenance decree, an erroneous decision on a point of law does not operate as res judicata, so as to bar a subsequent application to recover arrears of maintenance accrued due after the first application. AITAMMA v. NARAYANA BHATTAR, 17 M.L.J. 402=30 M. 504. [F., 18 M.L.J. 548=4 M.L.T. 233.]

(64)—Dismissal of judgment-debtor's objection on a former occasion without investigation, effect of.—The dismissal of an objection by the judgment-debtor to the execution of a decree on the ground of limitation cannot rightly be held to operate as a bar to its being urged when the decree-holder applies for execution again, when the previous objection was struck off without any judicial determination. HIRA LAL BOSE v. DWIJA CHARAN BOSE, 3 C.L.J. 240=10 C. W.N. 209. (A.W.N. 1898, 96, 28 C. 122, 6 A. 269=11 I.A. 37, R.; 8 C. 51=8 I.A. 123, P.C., 24 A. 282, D.) [F., 3 Ind. Cas. 47 ; R., 35 C. 1060=8 C.L.J. 193=12 C.W.N. 216; D., 1 Ind. Cas. 284.]

(65)—Execution—Order in previous proceeding not to be questioned at later stage—Res judicata—General principles—Doctrine not applicable when previous order made without notice to judgment-debtor—Application for delivery of possession of property purchased at execution sale—Limitation.—The doctrine that a decision at any stage of execution proceedings cannot be questioned at a later stage of the proceedings is based, not upon the ground that it is res judicata, but upon general principles of law, for if it were not binding, there would be no end of litigation. (8 C. 51, P.C., 11 C.L.R. 113, 8 I.A. 123, 6 A. 269, 11 I.A. 37, 7 A. 102, Rel. on.) But that principle is inapplicable to a case where the previous order was made without notice to the judgment-debtor and without knowledge on his part that execution proceedings were pending against him. In such a case, that order does not operate as a bar to the determination of the objection of limitation urged by him against the previous application for execution. An application for delivery of possession ought to be made within three years of the confirmation of the sale. MASZEM HOSSEIN MONDAL v. SARAT KUMARI DEBI, 5 Ind. Cas. 89. (8 B. 267, F.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——10.—Res judicata in execution proceedings —concluded.

(66)—Res judicata—Execution proceedings—Dismissal of application for execution for default —Plea of limitation.—The principle of res judicata does not apply to execution proceedings, unless the objection of the judgment-debtor on the previous occasion was disallowed on the merits. (8 C. 51 P.C., D.; 15 A. 198, R.; 11 C. 301, F.) When the execution application is dismissed for default and an objection by the defendant that the application was barred by limitation is also rejected the defendant can raise the objection on a fresh application. BHOLANATH DASS v. PRAFULLA NATH KUNDU CHOWDHRY, 28 C. 122=5 C.W.N. 80. (8 C. 51, P.C., D.; 11 C. 301, P.C., F.; 15 A. 198, R.) [F., 8 C.W N. 672=31 C. 822 ; R., 3 C.L J. 240=10 C.W.N. 209, 14 C.W.N. 114 ; D., 24 A. 282=A.W.N. 1902, 63.]

(67)—Res judicata—Act VIII of 1859, s. 2 —Limitation.—An order, rejecting a bona fide application for the execution of a decree, on the ground that the period allowed by law for execution has expired, is not an adjudication within the rule of res judicata or within s. 2 of Act VIII of 1859. DELHI AND LONDON BANK v. ORCHARD. 7 P.R. 1878, P C.=3 C. 47=4 I.A. 127=3 Sar. 721. [F, 6 C. 203; Rel. on, 17 C. 57 ; R, 3 A. 141, F.B., 6 B. 54, 9 C. 65, 15 A. 84, 18 B. 429, 10 Bom. L. R. 374 =32 B. 296, 14 C.W.N. 114 = 3 Ind. Cas. 47.]

Execution of decree — Res judicata—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, A.W.N. 1892, 5.

If applies when previous execution application different—See EX PARTE DECEEE, 15 C.W.N. 370, P.C.=8 A.L.J. 332=9 M.L.T. 380=13 C.L.J. 351=13 Bom. L.R. 367.

——11.—Miscellaneous.

(1)—Maintenance suit— Arrears of maintenance.—Where the cause of action is the same and the plaintiff has had an opportunity in the former suit of recovering that which he seeks to recover in the second, the former recovery is a bar to the latter action. To constitute such former recovery a bar, however, it must be shown that the plaintiff had an opportunity of recovering and but for his own fault might have recovered in the former suit that which he seeks to recover in the second action. BHIKABHAI v. BAI BHURI, 5 Bom. L.R. 396=27 B. 418.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(2)—Previous proceedings should be on record.—To give effect to a plea of res judicata based upon the ground that the questions in issue in a suit were formally in issue in probate proceedings, it is necessary that the probate proceedings should be in evidence. A judgment in the probate proceedings showing what the Judge understood to be the questions for decision, is not enough to make out the plea. The Court cannot give effect to the plea of res judicata unless it can say for itself that the matters now in issue were in issue in the probate proceedings. MIRZA KURRATULAIN v. NAWAB NUZHAT-UD-DOWLA, 7 Bom L.R. 876=9 C. W.N. 938=1 C.L.J. 594, P.C.=2 A.L J. 758=15 M.L.J. 336=33 C. 116=32 I.A. 244=8 Sar. 239.

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Res judicata—Appealable cases.--In appealable cases, a decision to be res judicata must have been given in a previous suit which the parties, according to the ordinary procedure, were entitled to take, as to fact and law, ultimately to the same (or corresponding) appellate tribunal to which the subsequent litigation, wherein the decision is relied on as conclusive, could be carried. VITHILINGA PADAYACHI v. VITHILINGA MUDALI, 15 M. 111. [Diss., 25 C. 571, 28 C. 78=5 C.W.N. 483; R., 17 M. 168, 17 M. 273, 18 M. 189, 2 O.C. 261, 54 P.R 1904, 29 M. 195, F.B.=16 M.L.J. 41=1 M.L.T. 25, 57 P.R. 1907=66 P.W.R. 1907.]

(4)—Res judicata—Judgment ambiguous.—In 1830, three persons A, B and C sold a taluqa to D, reserving to themselves a certain portion, subject to this condition that they were to pay no rent for this portion reserved, nor the Government revenue, which was to be paid by the vendee. The conditions of the sale deed were subsequently confirmed by an ikrarnama of 1831. Plaintiff, a purchaser of a part of the reserved portion, deriving title from the original vendors, sought to establish that the agreement between the original vendors and vendee was binding upon the defendant who derived title from the original vendee and that he was bound to indemnify him, the plaintiff, for the payment of Government revenue in respect of such portion of the reserved property as he possessed. The plaintiff did not put in the original deed and ikrarnama; he put in a decree of 1853 in a suit between the same parties in estate relating in a great degree to the same subject-matter, and relied upon it as an estoppel. The decree in favour of the original vendors was "for possession of the land, exempt from the payment of revenue and wasilat to the amount claimed by them." Held that the plaintiff failed to prove his case, as it did not appear definitely on the face of the decree, (a) whether it was adjudged that the claim to be indemnified for the payment of Government revenue related to the then impending settlement or to the next settlement or to any subsequent settlement, and (b) whether the effect of the judgment was simply to render the defendant therein, liable to indemnify the plaintiffs in respect of the reserved rent or whether the contract of indemnity was to be taken to run with the land. HERA LAL v. GONESH PERSAD, 11 C.L.R. 109, P.C=9 I.A. 64=4 A. 406=4 Sar. 342.

(5)—Several persons claiming easement or other right by one common title—Pasturage right—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, expl. 5.—Expl. 5 to s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code only applies to cases where several different persons claim an easement or other right by one common title, as for instance, where the inhabitants of a village claim by custom a right of pasturage over the same tract of land or to take water from the same spring or well. The explanation has no application to the case of a prescriptive right, claimed by a person individually in respect of his own house and premises and depending upon the length of time he had used the right, which such person and other inhabitants of the neighbourhood did not claim under one common title. KALISHUNKUR DOSS v. GOPAL CHUNDER DUTT, 6 C. 49=6 C.L.R. 543.

(6)—Right common to plaintiff and others—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, expl. 5.—The decision in a suit respecting a right common to the plaintiff along with others, will not be res judicata, in a subsequent suit in which the plaintiff along with others, not plaintiffs in the first suit, claims the same right, against the defendants in the first suit along with others, newly added as defendants, except as between the parties to the first suit. THANAKOTI v. MUNIAPPA, 8 M. 496. [R., 23 M. 28, 33 C. 905=10 C.W.N. 867; D., 6 C.W.N. 178, 16 C.P.L.R. 161.]

(7)—Res judicata—Decisions in previous rent suit—When res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13.—A decision in a rent suit is res judicata as regards the years in suit and the area admitted, but it does not operate as res judicata for all future time. But although the decision in a previous rent suit does not as a rule operate as res judicata, yet, in establishment of a formal contract, whether written or oral, between the parties finding by a rent Court that the rate of rent is as fixed by such contract, does operate as res judicata. SRINARAIN SINGH v. SUNDARABATI KUMARI, 6 Ind. Cas. 860 (1 C L.J. 248; 2 Ind. Cas. 11, 6 Ind. Cas. 860, F.)

(8)—Res judicata—Material irregularity—S. 11 of Act V of 1908—S. 70 (a) and (b) of Act XVIII of 1884, as amended by Act XXV of

Res Judicata*—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous —continued.

1889.—Held, that, throwing out a case upon a mistaken view of the rule of res judicata is even a good ground of revision, under s. 70 (a) of Act XVIII of 1884, as amended by Act XXV of 1899. Held, also, that an issue is not res judicata, if (a) it has not been finally heard and decided; (b) the parties were not the same—co-defendants do not fall within the category of "same parties," and (c) it was immaterial for the decision of the revious case. RAMAN v. CHARAN SINGH 42 P.W.R. 1910.

(9)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Suits in City Civil Court and High Court between same parties and relating to same matter—Suit in City Civil Court first instituted and adjourned with consent of parties to await disposal of suit in High Court—Res judicata.—Plaintiff instituted a suit in the City Civil Court to restrain the defendants from opening certain windows. Subsequently the defendants filed a suit in the High Court to restrain the plaintiff from interfering with their right to light and air through their windows. In both the suits, the acquisition of a prescriptive right to certain lights was the common issue to be determined The suit in the City Civil Court was adjourned from time to time with the consent of both sides to await the disposal of the suit in the High Court. After the High Court had delivered judgment, the suit came on for hearing in the City Civil Court. The plaintiff contended that as his suit was of prior date the decree of the High Court did not operate as res judicata. Held that the suit was res judicata, as the doctrine of res judicata, so far as it relates to prohibiting the re-trial of an issue, refers not to the date of the commencement of the litigation but to the time when the Judge is called upon to decide the issue. GURURAJAMMAH v. VENKATAKRISHNAMMA CHETTI, 24 M. 350. (11 A. 148, Appr. & F.) [R., 13 M.L.J. 134; 29 M. 333=16 M.L.J. 63, F.B., 33 C. 1101=10 C.W.N. 934=4 C.L.J. 149, A.W.N. 1908, 211.]

(10)—High Court—Jurisdiction—Small Cause Court—Res judicata.—The High Court cannot compel a Court of Small Causes to re-hear a suit dismissed by that Court on the ground of the same cause of action having been already heard and determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction. BROMO ROOP GOSSAIN v. ANUND MOYEE DEBIA, 7 W.R. 316.

(11)—Ex parte decree—Application for setting aside rejected—No appeal preferred—Fresh suit for setting aside ex parte decree—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 119.—In August, 1877, when Act VIII of 1859 was in force, an ex parte decree was passed against plaintiff. He applied to have it set aside, but his application was refused and he did not carry the matter further. He then brought the present suit, which was virtually to set aside the decree of 1877. Held, that the present suit of the plaintiff, which was virtually to set aside the decree of 1877, on the identical grounds which, had he appealed, he would have urged as his defence in the former suit, could not be maintained. AHMAD ALI v. MUMTAZ ALI, A.W.N. 1882, 4.

(12)—Administrator, suit by—Decree—Satisfaction—Sanction of the Court—Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 282.—The defendant brought a suit in 1888 against the then administrator of the deceased's estate, and obtained a decree. In satisfaction of the decree, the administrator executed a sale-deed of some property belonging to the deceased with the sanction of the Court obtained under s. 257-A of the Code of Civ. Pro. The management of the estate then passed into the hands of another administratrix, who brought a suit in 1901 to set aside the decree and sale thereunder:—Held, (1) that the decree obtained and the execution had against the former administrator in whom the aggregate of rights and obligations of the deceased were vested as the legal representative of the estate were binding upon his successor as long as that decree and sale consequent upon it were not the result of fraud or collusion; (2) in answer to the contention that the only execution of the decree allowed by law was that authorised by s. 282 of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, that whatever might have been the proper way of executing such a decree as a matter of fact, it was executed rightly or wrongly under s. 257-A of the Civ. Pro. Code: according to ss. 244 and 13 of the Code such execution bound the parties to the decree and all persons claiming under them; and the question was therefore res judicata. BAI MEHERBAI v. MAGANCHAND, 6 Bom. L.R. 853=29 B. 96. [Expl., 32 B. 381 =10 Bom. L.R. 519; R., 31 B. 73=8 Bom. L.R. 885, 11 Bom. L.R. 250.]

(13)—Award—Reference to arbitration out of Court—Application to file the award—Decree in terms of the award—Suit to set aside the decree. A reference to arbitration without the intervention of the Court resulted in an award, in accordance with which a decree was passed. A suit was then brought to obtain a declaration that the decree was invalid. The grounds on which the plaintiff based his claim were grounds which had previously been substantially raised and determined in the proceedings taken under s. 525 of the Civ. Pro. Code, on the application to the file the award:—Held, (1) that the order that the award be filed should be regarded as a decree, (2) that the points which the plaintiff relied on were matters which were directly and substantially in issue in a former suit and so could not be tried in this suit, under s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. MAGANLAL v. LALCHAND, 9 Bom. L.R. 259. [R., 9 Bom. L.R. 885.]

(14)—Practice of first examining defendant as a witness disapproved—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 13, 179 and 180—Indian Evidence Act (I of 1872, ss. 21, 92, 137 and 138—Pro-note—Liability under it of a person not a party to it—

Res Judicata*—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

Practice—Examination of witnesses—Interest on amount decreed and costs allowed—Judge prohibited from receiving private communication from a party to suit.—The plaintiff sued D. 1, the husband, and D. 2, the wife, for recovery of the amount due on a pro-note and cheque alleged to have been signed respectively by D. 1 and J, the brother of D. 2 in payment of certain accounts due to him on building agreement. Before the institution of the present suit, plaintiff filed a suit on the whole account in which the amount of both these documents were included. That suit was dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff, having taken from D. 1, a pro-note in settlement of the account had no longer a cause of action on the account itself. Defendant 1 denied execution of the pro-note sued on, alleging that his signature was forged. The plaintiff, on the contrary, alleged the documents to be perfectly genuine, and, as regards the pro-note executed by D. 1, sought to make D. 2 also liable on the allegation that it was signed for D. 2 by her husband D. 1, as her duly authorized agent, D.2 denied the allegation. Held, (1) that the dismissal either rightly or wrongly of previous suit on the whole account which included the amount of the cheque now sued on operated as res judicata under s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, and that on this account, part of the claim which is based on the cheque should fail. (2) That the evidence did not disclose that there was any such authority given by D. 2 to D. 1 to sign the pro-note as alleged by plaintiff. Obiter.—It is extremely doubtful whether any evidence would be admissible to show that D. 1, signed not only as a principal but also as an agent of a principal not named in the pro-note. Both under English Law, and Indian Law (see s. 92 of the Indian Evidence Act), such evidence would be inadmissible. (3) That the circumstantial evidence proved that the pro-note alleged to have been signed by D. 1 was in fact so signed and genuine. Practice.—(4) That it is not only illegal, but improper and unfair for Courts to permit the defendant, at the very outset of the case, to be put in the witness box nominally as plaintiff's witness to be cross-examined in the presence and hearing of the plaintiff, before the plaintiff is even called upon to go into the box and tell his own story. This practice generally prevalent, as it is in the Courts of this province, is much to be deprecated. It is certainly in accord with justice and equity that a party who has to defend a suit should hear what his opponent has to say before he is called upon for an answer, and it is only under exceptional circumstances that the opponent should be called at all as witness of the party who may be then putting his case before the Court. (5) That it is improper for a Judge to receive from any party to a suit, private communication in writing as to the special grounds of requiring production of certain documents, which communication is kept concealed from the opposite side. (6) That the following statement of

Res Judicata*—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

Defendant 2's counsel does not amount to a confession of judgment. "If the pro-note is established and receipt of consideration is proved Mrs. Max Mink does not wish to protract matters by disclaiming liability." In this case, interest at the rate given in the pro-note sued upon was allowed on the amount decreed and costs from the date of institution of the suit to the date of the decree and further interest at 6 per cent. per annum on this amount till payment. MAX MINK v. SHANKAR DASS, 116 P.W.R. 1908.

(15)—Agreement to undertake expense of litigation in consideration of receiving a share of land in dispute—Suit for cancellation of agreement—Cancellation refused by Court—Subsequent suit by plaintiffs for enforcement of the agreement—Res judicata—Mixed question of law and fact—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13.—An agreement was entered into between the plaintiffs and the defendants by which the plaintiffs were appointed the agents of the defendants to institute an appeal on behalf of the defendants at the expense of the plaintiffs themselves, the defendants promising to convey to the plaintiffs half the lands in dispute. The defendants succeeded in the appeal, and then sued for the cancellation of the agreement on the ground that it was not supported by consideration. The suit was decided against the defendants. The plaintiffs afterwards brought the present suit for the enforcement of the agreement. Held, that the judgment in the previous suit, being a decision on a mixed question of law and fact, was a bar to the present suit. Observations as to how far a decision on a question of law can operate as res judicata. MUAZAM SHAH v. ALAM KHAN, 44 P.R. 1908. (22 B. 669, 14 M. 312, 28 C. 323, 5 M. 304, 11 M. 393, 28 M. 517, 32 C. 749, 10 C. 1087, 1 C.W.N. 687, 26 M. 104, 15 A. 327, 55 P.R. 1896, 92 P.R. 1902, F.B., 28 C. 318, R.)

(16)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13—Suit instituted before Munsiff—Compromise-decree on appeal before District Judge—Application for review to have compromise-decree set aside—Decision if bars fresh suit before Subordinate Judge—Ground for setting aside compromise—Decree not raised in review—Fresh suit on such ground, if lies—Procedure for setting aside decree—Rule issued by the High Court—Discharge—Effect.—Plaintiffs had instituted three suits against the defendants in the Court of the Munsiff. Pending appeals preferred before the District Judge against the decrees of the Munsiff, a compromise was filed and decrees made thereon. The plaintiffs then applied for review of the decrees alleging that their pleader had no authority to agree to the compromise. The District Judge rejected the application on the ground that the pleader had the requisite authority. The plaintiffs obtained rules from the High Court against this order but they were discharged. Plaintiffs now instituted a fresh suit in the Court of the Subordinate Judge praying that the compromise and the decree made thereon be set aside on the ground that the pleader had no authority to compromise and that the terms of the compromise went outside the subject-matter of the suit. Held, that, in order to have the compromise-decree set aside, it was open to the plaintiffs to proceed either by way of suit or by an application for review, the latter being the more regular mode of procedure. (10 C. 612, F.) That the effect of the discharge of the rules issued by the High Court was to leave the order of the District Judge undisturbed; that the question regarding the pleader's authority to compromise was directly and substantially in issue in the proceeding for review and was heard and finally decided by the Court of the District Judge, which was a Court of jurisdiction competent to try the present suit. This suit in consequence is barred by the rules of res judicata. (25 C. 571, 28 C. 78, Rel. on.) An independent suit would not lie merely because a ground is alleged for setting aside the decree which was not taken in the application for review. The plaintiffs having elected to proceed by way of review, ought to have raised upon their application all the grounds upon which they relied for setting aside the decree. RAM GOPAL MAZUMDAR v. PRASANNA KUMAR SANIAL, 10 C.W.N. 529=2 C.L.J. 508.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(17)—Partition suit—Decree in a previous suit operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit.—In a partition suit the present plaintiff and defendants were defendants and had come to an amicable understanding among themselves and had agreed to divide the house in dispute equally between the plaintiff and the defendants. In accordance with that understanding a decree had been passed, on the 17th April 1889, directing that, on payment of Court fees, the plaintiff should recover the share assigned to him. Plaintiff did not pay the Court-fees and take possession of the house. In 1898 he brought the present suit to recover possession of half of the house on the strength of the old decree. Held, that the old decree operated as res judicata and the suit was barred. It was not open to the plaintiff, after his neglect for so many years and after he had lost his right to execute his decree, to bring a second suit for recovering possession of the house assigned to him. SONI v. MUNSHI, 3 Bom. L.R. 94. [D., C.W.N. 839.]

(18)—Limitation, Erroneous decision on.—An erroneous decision on a question of limitation cannot be treated as invalid, unless it be set aside in a way provided by law. GUNESSAR SINGH v. GONESH DASS, 25 C. 789. (8 C. 51, P.C., Rel. on.) [Affirmed, 33 C. 1178=10 C.W.N. 969=4 C.L.J. 177=3 A.L.J. 698=8 Bom. L.R. 719=16 M.L.J. 365.]

(19)—Right to honours in temple—Damages for invasion of right—Res judicata—In a suit by U against A to establish his right to receive certain honours in a temple as appertaining to his office of Officiating priest of the temple, and to recover damages for the invasion of his right, where it appeared that in a former suit by U's predecessor against A, the claim to sit at the right side of the idol at festivals had been admitted but the right to receive a cake on the same occasion had been disallowed, held that U's claim so far as it sought to establish his right, was res judicata. A. SRINIVASA DIKSHATULU v. ANANTHA CHARLU, 4 M.H.C. 349.

(20)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 2—Bar of subsequent suit, res judicata—Act XXIII of 1861, *s.*11.—Suit by the present plaintiff, as the disciple of a deceased priest, to recover from the defendant possession of the property allotted to the deceased under a compromise decree in a prior suit between him and the present defendant, and the claim was held to be liable to objection on the two following grounds, viz., (1) the plaintiff's right to sue for the estate in the character of the disciple of the deceased priest had been determined by a decree in a suit brought by him against the Nazir of the District Court who had been placed in management of the property under the provision of s. 9 of Reg. VII of 1827, and who then represented the then undetermined owner; (2) the property now sued for had been specifically awarded to the plaintiff's predecessor as against the present defendant by the said compromise decree between them. If the decree were not time-barred, the deceased or his legal representative could obtain possession of the suit property by means of execution proceedings on the decree, and the mere fact of such decree having become time-barred could not confer on the legal heir or representative any right to sue again for the estate or any part thereof. The present suit, therefore, was barred alike by s. 2 of Act VIII of 1859 and s. 11 of Act XXIII of 1861. SHIVALINGAYA v. NAGALINGAYA, 4 B. 247. [R., 25 B. 115.]

(21)—Possession, suit for.—In 1895, G brought a suit against T claiming to be confirmed in possession of certain property in virtue of his being a surviving co-parcener and asking for an injunction restraining T from obstructing him in the enjoyment of that property. This suit was dismissed, the Court holding that there was no co-parcenary. The same plaintiff being dispossessed of the property in the interim, brought a second suit for restitution of possession on the ground that he was the nearest reversioner. Held, that the claim in the second suit was constructively in issue in the first and was therefore res judicata. GUDDAPPA v. TIRKAPPA, 2 Bom. L.R. 872=25 B. 189. [Disappr., 13 M.L.J. 448; R., 31 M. 385, 11 Bom. L.R. 921; Not F., 26 M. 760; F., 6 Bom. L.R. 594.]

(22)—Profits, suit for—Past profits—Finding in the former suit—Sum not fixed—Second suit for the profits.—Where a claim for past profits is made in a former suit and inquired into and the finding recorded that there was a balance due to the plaintiff but no particular sum is fixed by the decree, no second suit for the past profits can be maintained by reason of the bar created by s. 13, Explanation III, Civ. Pro. Code. KACHU v. LAKSHMANSING, 2 Bom. L.R. 781=26 B 115. [D., 5 C.L.J. 192; R., 34 C. 223, 9 Bom. L.R. 1164.]

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(23)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13, Expln. 2—Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901). ss. 164 and 165—Suit for profits—Mode of collection.—A suit for profits by one co-sharer against another was dismissed in 1905 by the Assistant Collector as barred by the rule of res judicata. This decision was reversed by the District Judge who remanded the case under s. 562, Civ. Pro. Code. The decision of the District Judge was affirmed on appeal by the High Court. In second appeal, after remand, the plea of res judicata was again put forward, based upon certain decisions of the High Court, barring a second appeal in case of remand, under s. 562, Civ. Pro. Code, under the Tenancy Act, and also based upon two other decisions between the same parties, which had not been set up on the previous occasion. Held, that the decision of the District Judge became final and its effect was not nullified by the decisions subsequently passed as to the right of appeal. As to the other decisions, they, not having been relied upon before the District Judge as a ground of defence, could not be now set up under expln. 2 of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code. The appellant not only might but ought to have relied upon those decisions in the previous litigation. In a suit under s. 164 of the Tenancy Act, only the actual collections, made by the defendant, are to be taken into account in determining the amount of profits due. In a suit like the present, a plaintiff is not entitled to have profits calculated on what might have been collected or on the rates paid by tenants in other khewates, for lands of the same kind. This constitutes the distinction between a suit of this and one under s. 165, Tenancy Act. ABDUL RASHID v. ABDUL LATIF, 5 A.L J. 117=A.W.N. 1908, 68.

(24)—Res judicata—Suit for rent.—The judgment in a suit for arrears of rent, deciding against the tenant, who, while admitting his liability to pay the amount claimed, contended that it was the rent due for a larger area than that specified in the plaint, would bar a subsequent suit by the tenant to have it declared that the same amount comprised the rent due on all the lands held by him under the landlord. BUSSUN LALL SHOOKUL v. CHUNDER DOSS, 4 C 686=4 C.L.R., F B. [D., 21 C. 236, R., 1 C.L.J. 248, 57 P.R. 1907=66 P.W.R. 1907.]

(25)—Rent suit—Judge trying the question and giving judgment on the question "what is yearly rent"—Res judicata,—Where, in a rent-suit, the Judge tries the question and gives judgment on the question, "what is the yearly rent," and makes that the foundation of his judgment, that becomes res judicata between the parties. (19 C. 656, F.) Obiter.—Even if the judgment of the High Court in the prior suit did not operate as res judicata, in the prior suit, still it was some evidence of the rate of rent of the previous year.—Per Norris, J. BAKSHI v. NIZAMUDDI, 20 C. 505. [F., 1 C.W.N. 120, 4 C.W.N. 161, 6 C.W.N. 589.]

(26)—First suit for rent for one year—Abatement of rent claimed to a smaller extent and decided—Second suit for abatement of rent to a larger extent in the future barred—Patni lease.—The plaintiff brought this suit for the purpose of obtaining an abatement of her rent for the future for the lands of which the defendant had given her a patni lease and she claimed in this subsequent suit the precise measure of abatement, Rs. 155, which she had claimed in a former suit brought against her by the present defendant. Held that, as the principle of the entire question of what ought to be the permanent abatement of rent had been substantially determined in such previous suit, the question of abatement of rent determined in the former suit between the parties was res judicata as it decided the point not only for one year but for all future years. NOBA DOORGA DOSSEE v. FOYZBUX CHOWDHRY, 1 C. 202=24 W.R. 403. (15 B.L.R. 25 and 23 W.R. 282, F.) [Appr., 3 C. 383; R., 13 M. 287, 9 B. 75, 1 C.L.J. 248; D., 3 C. 271, 21 C. 236.]

(27)—Suit for rent—Rate of payable rent—Failure of plaintiff to prove rate claimed—Decree for a lesser sum, on admission by defendant—Res judicata.—On failure of the plaintiff, in a suit for rent, to prove the rate of rent claimed in the plaint, a decree for rent passed at the rate admitted by the defendants, which was less than that claimed, may or may not operate as res judicata. Whether the decree in that suit operated as res judicata and determined conclusively the rate of rent payable for the year in question in a subsequent suit for arrears of rent, at the rate claimed in the prior suit, can be determined by seeing whether the effect of the previous decision was that the plaintiff should recover from the defendants, the sum admitted by them to be due or that the sum admitted by them to be due was the proper amount of rent payable for the land in suit for the year or years in question. If it was to the latter effect, the decision in the prior suit will operate as res judicata, on the question of the rate of rent payable by the defendants. HURRY BEHARI BHAGAT v. PANGUN AHIR, 19 C. 656. (7 C. 298, 11 C.L.R. 483, R.) [F., 20 C. 505, 4 C.W.N. 43, 4 C.W.N. 161; Appr., 6 C.W.N. 589; R., 1 C.L.J. 248.]

(28)—Contest for title—Ghatwal and under-tenure—Decision Bindingness on under-tenure holder—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 13.—Where a decree, awarding to one of the parties money deposited in a Treasury by a third party, as the compensation for land taken by the latter for railway purposes, was based upon the right to the land as between a ghatwal and his under-tenure holders, the decree deciding that the under-tenure holder had been in possession by the mere sufferance of the ghatwal, the question of title having been directly and substantially in issue between the parties, held, the contest of title was conclusive between them under s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, so as to bar the under-tenure holder, in a subsequent suit by the ghatwal to resume the under-tenure as determinable at will, from contesting that the under-tenure was permanent. RAMCHUNDER SINGH v. MADHO KUMARI, 12 C. 484=12 I. A. 188, P.C.=4 Sar. 666. (On Appeal from 9 C. 411.) [R., 20 M. 269 ; D., 11 C.W.N. 525=34 C. 466.]

Res Judicata—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(29)—Rent suit—Suit for title—Res judicata, —The mere fact of the former suit, in which the question of title is determined, being a rent suit, does not prevent that determination from operating as res judicata in a subsequent suit brought for the establishment of title. RADHA MADHUB HOLDAR v. MONOHUR MUKERJI, 15 C. 756, P C.=15 I.A. 97=5 Sar. 211. [F., 25 C. 136 ; D., 24 C. 569, 6 C.W.N. 66 ; R., 18 B. 597, 17 A. 174=A.W.N. 1895, 47, 2 N.L.R. 94, 8 O.C. 37, 10 C.W.N. 820, 26 A. 447=A.W.N. 1904, 61, F.B.]

(30)—Res-judicata, constructive—Thak map, admissibility of—Possession, legal termination of, when physical control is doubtful or interrupted.—A putnidar brought a suit for assessment of rent in the Munsiff's Court on the ground that the tenant had encroached upon the adjoining lands of his landlord. The defence was that the lands in dispute were outside the ganti and comprised within his taluk. It was held that the disputed lands were within the ganti. A suit was then brought on the enhancement decree in the Subordinate Judge's Court for the recovery of rent. That suit was decreed ex parte and the decree was enforced in execution. Held, a suit brought in the Court of the Subordinate Judge, by the representative of the tenant, for recovery of the land, on the ground of its being included in the taluq, was barred by the principle of constructive res judicata. (31 C. 79, F.) Held, also, that the plaintiff could not be allowed to get rid of the decree passed twenty-four years before, and place himself in a position of advantage which he could not occupy, if he made a direct attempt to assail that decree. (29 C. 518=29 I.A. 104=6 C.W.N. 617, App.) An entry in a thak map that it was prepared in the presence of the representatives of certain parties is admissible in evidence. (7 C.W.N. 849, F.; 18 C. 224=17 I.A. 145, D.) As soon as a person is entitled to possession and enters in the assertion of that possession, or which is exactly the same thing, any other person enters by command of that lawful owner, so entitled to possession, the law immediately vests the actual possession in the person who so enters. BIDHUMUKHI DASI v. JITENDRA NATH ROY, 10 C L.J. 527=4 Ind. Cas. 442.

(31)—Mortgage decree—Execution of decree— Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13—In execution of a decree upon a mortgage by S and A, which was passed against the legal representatives of S and one only of the legal representatives of A, part of the mortgaged property was sold to H, while, as to the remainder, a compromise was effected, whereby it was saved from sale by H paying the decree-holders Rs. 474. H subsequently obtained possession of the whole of the mortgaged property ; and two suits were brought against him by the other legal representatives of A, for possession of their shares and the ejectment of H therefrom. H defended these suits on the ground that he stood in the shoes of S and occupied the position of one joint mortgagor, who had satisfied the other's debt by payment of Rs. 474, and that, unless and until the plaintiffs should pay their proportion of that amount, he was entitled to retain possession of the whole of the property mortgaged. These suits were dismissed in the lower Courts, but the High Court on appeal decreed them, merely observing that they were governed by the decision of the Full Bench in Jafri Begam v. Amir Muhammad Khan. (7 A. 822). H then sued those plaintiffs for Rs. 275 as the contribution which he alleged to be due by them in respect of the sum of Rs. 474. Held that the High Court in its former decision must be taken to have held that the plaintiffs in that case were entitled to an unqualified and unconditional decree for ejectment, and that the present claim was res judicata by reason of that decision. MAZHAR ALI KHAN v. HADI KHAN, A.W.N. 1889, 4.

(32)—Suit to enforce mortgage—Parties to suits—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code.—In 1883, the plaintiff commenced an action against his mortgagors on a bond dated 21st July, 1871, and obtained a decree. In 1888, the defendant brought a suit against the same mortgagors to enforce the mortgage of the 18th August, 1876 ; and obtained a decree for payment against the mortgagors. To this suit, the mortgagors and the plaintiff were made parties. The plaintiff held another mortgage over the same property under a deed, dated 7th February, 1874. In 1893, the plaintiff brought an action, to enforce the bond of 7th February 1874, against the mortgagors and the defendant. The defendant contended that in the suit of 1888 the plaintiff did not set up the bond of 7th February 1874, and that therefore the action was barred by s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Held, that the suit was barred as being res judicata. SRI GOPAL v. PIRTHI SINGH. 14 Bom. L R. 827 =24 A. 429, P.C.=6 C.W.N. 889=29 I.A. 118 =8 Sar. 293.

(33)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 13—Res judicata—Mortgage.—One of the heirs to the estate of the deceased Mahomedan mortgaged such estate to B. Subsequently another heir to the same estate sued the mortgagor for her share of the property, claiming by right of inheritance, and obtained a decree. Then her sister, also an heir, sued both the mortgagor and the mortgagee for possession of her share, and obtained a decree against the mortgagor, but, as against the mortgagee, her suit was dismissed. Both the sisters then sold their shares to the plaintiff who brought the present suit against the mortgagee for possession. Held that the question of the defendant's right to the possession of such shares as mortgagee was res judicata. MATADIN v. SADIK HUSAIN, A.W.N. 1882, 14.

Res Judicata*—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(34)—Suit on a mortgage—Prior mortgagee added as party but remaining ex parte—No issue about prior mortgage—Decree not reserving rights of prior mortgagee—Subsequent suit by prior mortgagee on his mortgage barred—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13.—Where in a suit on a mortgage, the mortgagor brought to the notice of the Court through his written statement the existence of a prior mortgage, and the prior mortgagee was made a party but he remained ex parte, and no issue was raised about the prior mortgage and the Court passed the usual decree for sale without reserving the rights of the prior mortgagee, a subsequent suit by the prior mortgagee on his mortgage was held to be barred by Explanation 2 to s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, as he could and ought to have raised the question of his prior mortgage in the former suit. KRISHNAMACHARIAR, v. SESHADRI AIYANGAR. 11 M.L.J. 333.

(35)—Mortgage suit—Redemption—Decree of redemption—Mesne profits—Separate suit.—In virtue of a redemption decree, the mortgagor paid the amount of the decree and took possession of the property in 1893. This decree was amended in appeal, by substituting a large amount of redemption money but no provision was made for the mesne profits from the date when the possession was transferred to the date of the payment of the additional amount. To recover these mesne profits, the mortgagee brought a fresh suit. Held, that the claim was res judicata as the question was one which arose directly out of the mortgage transaction which was the subject-matter of the litgation in the former suit; and was one that could and ought to have been advanced in it. VINAYAK v. DATTATRAYA, 4 Bom. L.R 492=26 B. 661. [R., 5 Bom. L.R. 97, A.W.N. 1907, 281=4 A.L.J. 763=30 A. 36, 30 A. 225=A.W.N. 1908, 96=5 A.L.J. 192.]

(36)—Purchase of the equity of redemption by first mortgagee—Sale of mortgaged property in execution of decree obtained by second mortgagee—Purchase by decree holder—Suit by first mortgagee for declaration of invalidity of auction sale, dismissal of—Suit for redemption by second mortgagee decreed—Suit for possession by second mortgagee—Plea by first mortgagee as purchaser of equity of redemption, to redeem second mortgage, validity of—S. 13, C.P.C.—The appellant, first mortgagee, obtained a decree for sale of the property upon his mortgage. The respondent then became the second mortgagee of the same property. In consideration of his decretal amount, the first mortgagee purchased the mortgaged property from the judgment-debtor and obtained possession of the property.

Res Judicata*—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

In a suit brought upon his mortgage, the respondent obtained a decree for sale of the property, notwithstanding the plea of his prior mortgage set up by the appellant. In execution of the respondent's decree, the property was sold and purchased by the respondent himself. The appellant, though a party to the respondent's suit was not made a party to any proceedings in execution nor to the order absolute for sale. Then the appellant brought a suit for a declaration of the invalidity of the auction-sale, which was dismissed. Recognizing the position of the appellant as prior mortgagee, the respondent brought a suit for redemption of the appellant's mortgage and obtained a decree in his favour. In execution of the above decree, the respondent obtained formal delivery of possession. As his application for mutation of names was opposed by the appellant, the respondent brought the present suit for recovery of possession of the disputed property. The contentions of the appellant were that, as his purchase was subsequent to the respondent's mortgage, he, as purchaser of the equity of redemption, was entitled to redeem that mortgage; that, as he was not made a party to the proceedings, which ended in the order absolute for sale and actual sale of the property, his right of redemption still subsists; that the Court below ought to have afforded him an opportunity to redeem the respondent's mortgage and that the decree for possession should have been made conditional upon his not redeeming that mortgage. Held, that the appellant was precluded from raising this contention and was not entitled to redeem. He might and ought to have raised this plea in the previous litigations and, having failed to do so, he was barred by s. 13, Expl. II, Civ. Pro. Code, from setting up a title to redeem. The effect of his omission to set up, in the previous suits, the defence which he now raised, was that it must be taken that the Court had refused in the previous litigations to recognise the right, which he now claimed. CHET RAM v. BARU MAL, A.W.N. 1905, 107=2 A.L.J. 278. (24 A. 44, F.B., Expl.)

(37)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 13, 106—Suit dismissed in defendant's absence on plaintiff's failure to adduce evidence—Fresh suit, if barred.—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, is no bar to fresh suit, when the previous suit is dismissed in the defendant's absence on the failure of plaintiff to adduce evidence. DOMA RAM v. RAGHU NATH PANDIT, 10 C.W.N. 40. (13 A. 53, R.)

(38)—Failure to include present claim in previous suit—Ground of title same—Defendant different—Properties comprised different—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 43.—Where, in a previous suit, the plaintiff has failed to include the present claim, he would not be barred from maintaining the present suit by s. 43, Civ. Pro. Code, where, though the ground of title on which the two suits are founded is one, the defendants are different persons and the properties comprised in the two suits are also different. DAMPANABOYINA GANGI v. ADDALA RAMASWAMI, 25 M. 736 = 12 M.L.J. 103. [R., 26 M.686, F.B., 13 M L.J. 479 = 27 M. 94, 6 O C. 379, 1 P.R. 1905 = 83 P. L.R. 1905, 9 O.C. 339, 31 M. 252 = 18 M.L.J. 238.]

Res Judicata*—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(39)—Plea of res judicata, not taken notice of, the decree or order on which it rested not having been produced —Where in one of the appeals, a plea of res judicata was taken on the ground that a ruling by the Judge in one application for execution ought to be held conclusive against the judgment-debtor in every other application for execution of the same decree, held, that the plea required no further notice, because the decree or order upon which it rested had not been produced. BISAMBHAR NATH v. NAWAB IMDAD ALI KHAN, 18 C. 216, P.C. = 17 I.A. 181 = 5 Sar. 619.

(40)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13 (=s. 11, new Code)—Judgment of British Court—Suit on, in Native territory—Cession of territory to British Government pending suit—Act XVII of 1886, s. 8. — While a suit founded on a judgment of a British Court was pending in the Court of Jhansi (Native State), the town was ceded to the British Government; held, with reference to s. 8 of Act XVII of 1886, that the suit might be continued in the British Court of Jhansi after the cession, and that s. 13 of the Code was no bar. SALONI v. HAR LAL, 10 A 517 = A.W.N. 1888, 183.

(41) —Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13 — Finding in previous judgment immaterial to decision of case.—D. B. and S. G. sued for ejectment of M. P. from a certain house claiming title thereto under a deed of gift from one B. K. the mother of D. B., who was alleged to be the widow of a separated Hindu to whom the house had belonged. Prior to this suit M. P. had brought a suit against B. K., D. B. and S. G. alleging that the house in question was the property of a joint Hindu family of which he was a member and praying for a declaration of his right to a one-sixth share therein. That suit was dismissed on the ground that the property was not joint, as asserted, but the Court of first instance recorded a finding that "the gift by a woman in respect of immoveable property even in favour of the next heirs must be held to be invalid, a woman having no such authority." In the subsequent suit this finding was relied upon by the defendant as constituting res judicata in his favour Held that the finding in question did not operate as res judicata. MADHO PRASAD v. DARYAI BIBI, A.W.N. 1895, 108.

(42) —Suit by some reversioners—Subsequent suit by other reversioners.—Where an action was instituted by two of the reversioners for a declaratory decree and for an injunction forbidding alienation of the moveable and immoveable property of the deceased, which was then in the possession of his widow, such a suit can only bar those two reversioners and cannot exclude the other reversioners from obtaining a declaratory decree in another suit, which will have the effect of protecting the reversionary interests of themselves and of their lineal descendants. CHAND KOER v. PARTAB SINGH, 16 C. 98 = 15 I.A. 156, P.C. = 5 Sar. 243. [R., 27 M. 588, 1 P.R. 1905 = 83 P.L.R. 1905, 58 P.R. 1905 = 59 P.L R. 1905, 8 O.C. 124]

Res Judicata*—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(43) — Will — Revocation—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=s. 11, present Code) Res judicata not made out —Case where a decree obtained against the defendant that the will was revoked, was held not to be res judicata in a suit against him brought by other plaintiffs, but was held to be admissible as evidence against him. BHITTO KUNWAR v. KHESHO PERSHAD MISSER, 1 C.W N. 265, P.C. = 19 A. 277 = 24 I A. 10 = 7 Sar 131. [Appr., 25 A. 546 ; Appl, 24 B. 591 ; R., 25 C. 522, F.B., 4 C.W.N. 63, 5 Bom. L. R. 230, 9 C.W.N. 402, 9 C.L.J. 597 = 12 C.W. N. 739.]

(44)—Res judicata—Question tried by Probate Court—Subsequent suit—Maintainability of suit —Declaration of revrsionary interest—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), s 42.—Where, in a contested application for probate the Court of Probate has held that a certain person was not the next reversioner of the deceased, and such finding has been affirmed on appeal, no suit by the said person to have it declared that he was such reversioner would lie. The previous judgment would bar the subsequent suit. Where the real object of the suit was not merely to get a declaration but also to protect the present interest of the plaintiff, the suit would not be barred under s. 42 of the Specific Relief Act. RAMNANDAN PERSHAD v. SHEOPARSAN SINGH, 11 C L.J. 623 = 6 Ind Cas 301. (6 C W.N. 912, F.) [R., 12 C.L.J. 185 = 14 C.W N. 924 = 7 Ind Cas. 126.]

(45)—Res judicata as to point of law—No bar when the subject-matter of second suit is different—Trustee under a will—Co-trustee, validity of the appointment of, by existing trustee.—One G.N. had been appointed as trustee under the will of A. G.N. died and his son and heir, K, succeeded him as trustee. S, the plaintiff-respondent, was appointed by K as a co-truster with him. In the present suit, S sought to enforce his rights as co-trustee entitling him to act jointly with the defendant-appellant, K, in respect of charities and trusts created by the above will. The question had to be decided whether the appointment of S as co trustee made by K was valid in law. It was urged on behalf of the plaintiff-respondent that the question of the validity of the appointment was res judicata by reason of a previous suit brought by the plaintiff against the first defendant and another for the purpose of setting aside certain fraudulent alienations of trust-property, since it had been rai ed and decided in plaintiff's favour in that suit. Held, the contention of the respondent as to res judicata was not sustainable, as the prior decision was one of a question of law and an adjudication upon a point of law, though binding upon the parties, in any future suit, quoad the same object-matter, is not conclusive even between the same parties when the subject-matter of the second suit is different. (5 M. 304, 11 M. 393, 22 B. 669, 26 B. 25, R. and F.) As to the above question of the competency of K to appoint S as his co-trustee, held, s. 73 of the Trusts Act does not extend to trusts, such as that created under the will of A in the present case, and, in the absence of a power to appoint trustee, under the will creating the trust or by virtue of some statutory provision, the existing trustee has no power to appoint any person as trustee either in his own place or to act jointly with him. The appointment by K was, therefore, not valid in law and could not confer on S any right to act as trustee. GOPU KOLANDAVELU CHETTY v. T. SAMI ROYER, 15 M.L.J. 466 = 28 M. 157 [R., 30 M. 461 = 17 M.L.J. 250, 44 P.R. 1908.]

Res Judicata*—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(46)—Civ. Pro. Code (1882), ss. 13, 43(=*s.*11, O. II, r. 2, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908)—Res judicata—Relinquishment—Specific performance of contract—Suit for possession—Defendant's name struck out in first suit.—Plaintiff had obtained a decree for specific performance of a contract of sale against defendants 3 to 7, and subsequently brought the present suit for possession against them, and the principal defendants in whose favour the former had executed a conveyance, although made parties, in the former suit, were at the request of the plaintiff subsequently removed from the category of defendants, held that the claim against both sets of defendants did not arise out of the same cause of action, the cause of action of the first suit being the refusal of defendants 3 to 7 to execute a deed of sale and the cause of action against the principal defendants in the second suit being the resistance to the plaintiff taking possession of the property conveyed to him, and the second suit was not barred by ss. 13 and 43, Civ. Pro. Code. It was not necessary under s. 27 of the Specific Relief Act to bring the previous suit against both the sets of defendants. ABDUL MAJID v. BOIDA NATH DHUR, 6 C.W.N. 314.

(47)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 13—Explanation V—Res judicata—Decree of a foreign Court—Bond executed in British India—Subsequent acknowledgment in a foreign territory—Decree in the foreign Court—Judgment by consent how far an estoppel—Partnership—Partner's power to change the joint liability of his co-partner into a joint and several liability—Estoppel.—The plaintiff lent, on the 6th July 1895, a sum of money to a partnership composed of defendants, some of whom resided in the Baroda (a Native State) territories and some in British India The money were borrowed in Ahmedabad (British territory), and the khata was signed there on behalf of the partnership by defendant No. 1 (a British subject). On the 25th April 1896, defendant No. 1, passed to plaintiff in Baroda an agreement reciting the above transaction and acknowledging the debt of Rs. 13,400. The agreement gave the plaintiff the power of taking the money from the firm's deposit of Rs. 33,732 lying in the Baroda treasury; and it also acknowledged the joint as well as the several liability of all the partners. On the 1st September, 1896, plaintiff and defendant No. 1, being in Baroda, referred the matter in dispute to arbitration, and on the day following took out on the award a consent decree from the Baroda Civil Court. In execution of this decree the plaintiff got, on the 6th December 1896, through the Baroda Court, Rs. 7,000 from the deposit in the Baroda treasury. Plaintiff then brought a suit in the Court of the First Class Sub Judge at Ahmedabad to recover the balance Rs. 6,909-4-0 with interest from all the defendants. The First Class Sub-Judge dismissed the suit and held that the suit against defendant No. 1 was res judicata, because the khata was merged in the agreement of the 25th April 1896 and the said agreement was merged in the decree of the Baroda Court and that the remaining defendants were liable for the debt jointly but not jointly and severally:—Held, (1) that the remaining defendants were liable to be sued because defendant No. 1 had no authority without the consent of his partners to change the joint liability of each partner, which was the ordinary incident of the partnership, into a joint and several liability; (2) that the principle of res judicata did not operate as a bar to the present suit, because the Baroda Court had no jurisdiction over the present defendants, who were British subjects and resided in the British territory; (3) that the defendants could not rely on s. 13, Explanation V, Civ Pro. Code, 1882, because that referred to bona fide claims and not to bona fide defences. A judgment by consent raises an estoppel just in the same way as a judgment after the Court has exercised a judicial discretion in the matter. LAKSHMISHANKER v. VISHNURAM, 1 Bom. L.R. 534 = 24 B. 77. [R., 22 A. 307.]

Res Judicata*—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(48)—Instalment-bond—Bond payable by instalments—Fraud—Defence—Limitation.—The defendant signed on the 4th June 1893 a Ruzu acknowledging Rs. 11,534-15-0 to be due by him to the plaintiff's firm. On the 19th June 1894, he paid Rs. 400 cash and a Hundi for Rs. 600 and for the balance Rs. 10,634-15-0 passed an instalment bond payable by yearly instalment of Rs. 1,000 each. The Hundi having been dishonoured, the plaintiff's firm brought suit No. 249 of 1895 to recover the amount of the Hundi from the defendant. The latter pleaded want of consideration and impeached the correctness of the accounts. The Court appointed a Commissioner to examine the plaintiff's accounts: and the Commissioner reported that the debt due was Rs. 3,016-3-0 and not Rs. 11,534-15-0 as stated in the Ruzu. Upon this the Court without going into other question raised by the defence, decreed the claim. In 1897, the first two instalments under the bond having become due, the firm sued the defendant (Suit No. 105 of 1897) to recover Rs. 2,000. The defendant admitted the claim, and the suit ended in a consent decree. The defendant then instituted Suit No. 412 of 1898 against the firm for cancellation of the instalment bond, alleging that it was obtained by misrepresentation and fraud, and was void in law and passed in respect of wagering transactions and nothing was due under it. The litigation went up to the High Court, which without giving any decision on the merits, dismissed the suit as time-barred. In 1902, the plaintiff sued to recover 3rd, 4th and 5th instalments under the bond. The defendant pleaded that the bond and prior Ruzu were obtained from him by fraud and misrepresentation and that the debt due was one arising from wagering contract unenforceable by law. The Subordinate Judge held that the defendant was barred by the decrees in Suits Nos. 249 of 1895 and 105 of 1897 from raising any of his contentions, and passed a decree in plaintiff's favour. On appeal, the District Judge held that the defendant was barred by res judicata from pleading that the bond was voidable for fraud or from pleading that the bond was void by reason of its consideration being a wagering debt. On appeal to the High Court:—Held, by Aston, J., that unless it be established that the pleas which the defendant had raised in the present suit and had not been allowed to prove, would, if proved in the Hundi Suit No. 249 of 1895, have reduced the amount actually due by him in June 1893 to less than Rs. 600 plus the Rs. 400 paid in cash, the decision in the Hundi suit could not operate as res judicata in respect of the said pleas, for the matter which might and ought to be made a ground of defence in the Hundi suit must be a ground of defence to "the claim actually made in the said former suit; (2) that the plea that the consideration for the instalment bond partly failed because of the reasons set up in the pleas aforesaid, would have been irrelevant in Suit 195 of 1897, unless by setting up these pleas and proving them the claim in that latter suit for Rs. 2,000 would have been reduced. Held, by Scott, J., that before the present suit was brought the issue as to consideration had not been raised except with reference to the Hundi and had been heard and determined in Suit No. 249 of 1895 with reference to that document alone. The defendant was, therefore, not barred by res judicata from pleading in this suit that the bond was no longer supported by consideration; (2) that the lower Court was wrong in holding that the defendant was barred by s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code from raising the questions of fraud or wager as vitiating the bond as a security for the payment of the remaining instalments. The issue in Suit No. 249 of 1895 was a sufficient issue for the disposal of the case on the Hundi and in that suit the defendant's liability under the Hundi was the only matter in issue; in Suit No. 105 of 1897, there was no hearing and disposal of any matter in issue: the provisions of s. 13 did not, therefore, apply; (3) that the fact that the defendant was, owing to the bar of limitation only, denied the specific relief of cancellation claimed in Suit No. 412 of 1898, could not prevent him from raising defences on the merits as a defendant in this suit. MINALAL v. KHARSETJI; KHARSETJI v. MINALAL, 8 Bom. L.R. 296=30 B. 395.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(49)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 13 and 344—Res judicata — Insolvency proceedings.— An application under s. 344 of the Civ. Pro. Code, is not a "suit" within the meaning of s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. (145 P.R. 1884, F.) The rejection of such an application is not a bar to a subsequent application on arrest at the instance of the decree-holder who previously caused applicant's arrest or at the instance of another decree-holder. RAM LAL v. LABHU, 122 P.L.R. 1903.

(50)—Partnership--Debt--Assignment.—M and A were partners in a trade, in respect of which a debt was due to H. After A died, the debt was settled between H on the one side and M and A's widow, as guardian of his minor sons, on the other. Both M and A's widow passed bonds to H, each for a moiety of the debt. H obtained a decree against M on his bond, which was satisfied, and he then sued A's heirs. The Court allowed the widow's objection that she was not competent to give a bond binding her sons personally, and of its own accord made M a defendant and passed a decree against M and A's estate. H assigned this decree to R, who applied for execution against M. The present suit was brought by M, against H and R to restrain R from executing the decree, alleging that, during the pendency of the above suit, H agreed with him that he would not get a decree against him, and, in the event of its being passed against him, he would not execute it. The plaintiff also claimed damages from H. The lower Court rejected the plaint, on the ground that the question in issue in the suit as between M and R was res judicata by reason of the decree in the previous suit, and that there was no cause of action for damages against H. Held, that the suit was not res judicata. MUKUND HARSHET v. HARIDAS KHEMJI, 17 B. 23. (11 B. 708, D.)

(51)—Civ. Pro. Code s. 13—Res judicata—Effect of expiry of limitation—Extinguishment of right.—In 1862, R purchased certain land in execution of a decree against D. In 1875, A applied for foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale to him of the land by D, dated the 29th June 1861. The mortgage was accordingly foreclosed. In 1877 R sued A to have the mortgage set aside on the ground that it was a fraudulent and collusive transaction. The suit was dismissed on the ground that it was barred by limitation. In 1880, A brought the present suit against R for possession of the land by virtue of the mortgage and foreclosure proceedings R pleaded that the mortgage was a fraudulent and collusive transaction. Held that this contention of R was not res judicata. His plea of fraud and collusion was not judicially disposed of in the suit by him in 1877, as required by s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Though R's claim to have the mortgage-deed cancelled was dismissed as beyond time, yet, he continued in possession. The determination of the period allowed only extinguishes the claimant's (R's) right, but does not create a right to the property for the opposite side (A). Hence, when the opposing side on any grounds contests with the party in possession, then it is necessary that the objections raised against the claimant be disposed of. DILSUKH RAI v. TIKA RAM, A.W.N. 1883, 100.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(52)—Different pre-emption suits regarding sale of same property—Appeal in one suit—Res judicata.—Where, with regard to the sale of certain property, three suits for pre-emption were instituted all questioning the amount of the price, and they were disposed of by one judgment awarding to the different sets of plaintiffs separate shares in the property on payment of proportionate amounts of the sale consideration which was put at a much lower figure than that claimed by the vendees, and the vendees preferred an appeal against the decree in one of the suits, held, that the decrees not appealed against did not operate as res judicata on the question of the sale consideration. JHAMAN v. BILAS KUNWAR, 1 A.L. 466.

(53)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act XIV of 1882, s. 13 —Right of pre-emption not set up in previous suit for redemption—If bar to suit for pre-emption.—The failure of a mortgagee to set up his right of pre-emption in a suit by the purchaser from the mortgagor for redemption, is no bar under s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code, to the trial of the mortgagee's subsequent claim for pre-emption in respect of the sale by the mortgagor. RAMCHAND v DURGA PRASAD, 26 A. 61, F.B. =A.W N. 1903, 196. (1 A 75, 1 A. 316, 3 A. 189, 20 A 516, Overruled; 11 M I.A. 50, 12 A. 234, R.) [R., 27 A. 78=A.W.N. 1904, 165= 1 A.L.J. 426, 55 P R. 1907=96 P.W.R. 1907= 65 P.L.R. 1908, 133 P.R 1907, F.B.=84 P. W.R. 1907=88 P.L R. 1908.]

(54)—Suit for redemption—Decree declaring right to redeem not executed, effect of.—A suit by a mortgagor, to redeem the mortgage is not barred by virtue of a previous decree, which declared the mortgagor's right to redeem, on paying a certain amount. The previous decree, should be regarded as a declaratory decree.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

SAMI v. SOMASUNDRAM, 6 M. 119. [Overruled, 25 M. 300; Diss., 19 A. 202; F., 15 M. 366, 24 A. 44=A.W.N. 1901, 194; Appl., 8 M. 478, R., 16 B. 243, 19 M. 40, 21 M. 18, 43 P.R. 1907=101 P.W.R. 1907=169 P.L.R 1908, 93 P.R. 1908, F.B.=164 P.L.R. 1908=133 P.W. R. 1908.]

(55)—Mortgagor's suit for possession of mortgaged property against trespasser after dismissal of similar suit by mortgagee in default—Waste land, presumption as to possession of.—The mortgagee of a village let some waste land to A to have it reclaimed and brought under cultivation. The defendants interfered with A and the mortgagee brought a suit for possession in which the mortgagor was impleaded as a defendant. The suit was dismissed on the mortgagee failing to put in an appearance. Subsequently the mortgagor brought a suit for possession of the waste land against the defendants. Held, that the decision in the former suit did not render the question res judicata. Held, further, that the mortgagor being in rent-collecting possession of the village, must be presumed, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, to be in possession of the waste land therein. SHEIK MUHAMMAD ALAM v. RAGHBIR SINGH, 9 O C. 33. (8 O.C. 177, F.)

(56)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 13 (Exp. II), 48 —Dismissal of former suit for sale of land as on mortgage—Subsequent suit to recover land as no usufructuary mortgage from defendants in wrongful possession.—A former suit by the plaintiffs to recover money alleged to be due under a mortgage, by sale of the land, was dismissed on the ground that the alleged mortgage was a purely usufructuary mortgage which contained no covenant to pay. In the present suit the same plaintiffs claimed as mortgagees, and alleged that the defendants (who were also defendants in the former suit) though they were let into possession as tenants, were setting up a title in themselves and refused to surrender the land, and prayed for a decree for possession of the land and mesne profits. Held, that the suit was not barred either by s. 43 or by s. 13, Expl. II, of the Civ. Pro. Code, the rights in dispute in the two suits being different. VEERANA PILLAI v. MUTHUKUMARA ASARY, 27 M. 102. (21 M. 91, Com.; 26 M. 760, Appr.) [F., 2 N.L.R. 94, 29 M. 153, F B.=16 M.L.J. 48; Appr., 15 M.L.J. 374; R., 55 P.R. 1907=96 P.W.R. 1907=65 P.L.R 1908, 31 M. 385.]

(57)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 13—Res judicata—New circumstances.—The mortgagor of certain property who, according to the terms of the mortgage, was bound to pay interest annually, sold the mortgaged property to A. The property was purchased in auction by B in execution of a decree against A; the balance of the proceeds of the execution sale, after satisfaction of the decree, amounting to Rs. 2,364, was appropriated by A. Subsequently, the mortgagees sued his mortgagor, as well as A and B, for the annual interest due to him under his mortgage, wherein it was held that A was primarily liable to satisfy the claim because he had appropriated the surplus proceeds of the execution sale, and the mortgaged property in the hands of B was only liable in case A failed to satisfy the claim. A paid several instalments of interest, and paid in Court subsequently the balance in his hands out of the Rs. 2,364, which was at once drawn by the mortgagee. In 1880, the mortgagee brought the present suit for the principal amount against A and B. Held that the property in the hands of B was liable and that the previous judgment did not operate as res judicata, as the position of the parties assumed an entirely different character when the first defendant paid in Court the surplus proceeds of the execution sale. RATAN RAI v. HANUMAN DAS, A.W.N. 1881, 139.

Res Judicata—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(58)—Release of same property from attachment under different decrees—Suits to set aside the orders—Act VIII of 1859 (old Civ. Pro. Code), ss. 2 and 7—Mortgage during infructuous attachment—Subsequent attachment and sale—Effect.—A suit to bring certain property, released from attachment on a claim, to execution sale, will not bar a second suit to bring to sale the same property, released from attachment in execution of an entirely different decree under a different order, there being, in no other respect than that the property to be sold is the same, any identity between the suits. It is not also incumbent upon the plaintiff to include both claims in one suit under s. 7 of the old Civ. Pro. Code of 1859. Principle laid down in 2 C. 152 held not applicable. [R., 14 B. 31.] Where property had been attached prior to a mortgage, under an ex parte decree which was set aside, the attachment being withdrawn, and the property was purchased under a subsequent attachment under a subsequent decree, the purchaser cannot set up his purchase as against the earlier mortgage. RADHANATH KUNDU v. LAND MORTGAGE BANK OF INDIA, LTD., 6 C. 559=8 C.L.R. 10.

(59)—Regular suit for attached property—Dismissal of suit not upon merits—Second suit, right of.—Where a regular suit for establishment of right to attached property was dismissed, not upon merits, but for non-payment of costs of service of summons upon the defendant's representative, after the death of the defendant, a subsequent suit for the same relief would be maintainable, as the order of dismissal is one made under s. 97, Civ. Pro. Code, and is no bar to a fresh suit BESSESSUR BHUGUT v. MURLI SAHU, 9 C. 163=11 C.L.R. 409. [R., 1 C.W.N. 24; D., 10 M. 272.]

(60)—Claim to property attached by plaintiff—Suit to establish right—Judgment-debtor not represented in suit—Dismissal of suit—Judgment-debtor's suit to recover property, not barred—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 13, 278, 283.—A suit by a judgment-creditor for a declaration that the property in question was liable to be attached as the property of his judgment-debtor the present plaintiff, was dismissed, the judgment-creditor not having appeared. In the present suit brought by the said judgment-debtor to recover possession of the property, the defendant contended that the dismissal of the previous suit operated as res judicata, barring the present suit under s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Held that the previous decree in the judgment-creditor's suit did not operate as res judicata, there being no evidence to show that the judgment-creditor, in the previous suit, represented the present plaintiff so that he might be regarded as a party to that suit. SHIVAPA v. DOD NAGAYA, 11 B. 114. [F., 15 C. 674; R., 13 M. 366, 16 B. 700, 17 B. 629, 22 B. 875, 25 M. 721=12 M.L.J. 411; D., 22 B. 640.]

Res Judicata—continued.

—11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(61)—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Res judicata—Estoppel—Evidence Act, s. 115.—G, having been defeated on a claim petition arising out of an attachment made by the present plaintiff, sued in 1900 the present plaintiff to establish title to the property attached. The suit was dismissed on a finding that the conveyance on which he founded the title, a sale by the owner, was fraudulent and not intended to convey any interest. The plaintiff now sued alleging that, after the dismissal of G's suit, he brought the attached property to sale and purchased it himself and obtained possession, but was dispossessed by the first defendant, who set up a mulgani tenure under G. Held, on the question whether the first defendant was bound by the decision in the suit of 1900, that the defence was not barred. It is not to be supposed that the Civ. Pro. Code, contemplates the adjudication between the parties to a suit of interests or other rights which are not theirs and are not represented by them. Consequently though the words "under whom they or any of them claim" in s. 13 are wide, there seems no difficulty in the way of restricting them so as to bind the party to the subsequent suit by the decision in the former suit only in respect of interests represented by the party to the former suit at the time of the suit. The test is, whether the interest is represented and if it be possible that the party represents in the suit an interest already vested in some one else, that person will be a privy. In a mulgani tenure, where the lessor alienated his interests to possession in perpetuity and reserved to himself only a right to receive a rent, he cannot be said to have represented the interest of the mulganidar in a suit between himself and the plaintiff. With reference to the question whether the defendant was estopped in a different way, the facts were these. In the former suit, the first defendant was a witness for G and he did not then or before the execution sale bring his mulgani interest into Court. It was held that this conduct, to create an estoppel, must be found to have misled the plaintiff. SESHAPPAYA v. VENKATARAMAH UPADYA, 5 M.L.T. 37. (8 A. 324, 22 C. 364, 4 C. 692, R.)

Res Judicata -continued.

——11. —Miscellaneous -continued.

(62)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13 —Res judicata — Order returning plaint for presentation to proper Court—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), s. 77, (3), (d), (h)—Suit for possession by landlord against transferee from occupancy tenant and trespasser.—The land in suit was held by one H.S., an occupancy tenant under s. 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act. On his death, it was inherited by his widow, who got her brother, J.R., entered as occupancy tenant of one-half, while the other half continued to be recorded in her own name, and remained in her possession. On her death, her half was mutated in the proprietors' names, but J. R. held possession of the whole. The proprietors brought a suit for his dispossession in the Court of the District Judge, but as J.R., was recorded occupancy tenant of one-half, the plaint was returned, and the plaintiffs, acting on the suggestion of the District Judge, sued in the Revenue Court for a declaration that J.R. was not such a tenant under s. 77 (3) (d) of the Punjab Tenancy Act and obtained a decree. They obtained possession also through the same Court, though there was no decree for it; but, on review, possession was restored to J.R. The plaintiffs then brought in the Civil Court the present suit for possession of the whole, reciting all the above facts. J R. pleaded inter alia that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction, and the suit was dismissed on the ground of res judicata under the previous order of the District Judge. Held, by Chatterji, Johnston and Rattigan, JJ., that the question of jurisdiction was not res-judicata, and that the claim in respect of one-half of the land, viz., that held by the widow of H.S. at the time of her death, which was mutated in plaintiff's names was cognizable by the Civil Court. Per Chatterji and Johnston, JJ.—The claim regarding the half recorded in J.R.'s name could be tried in the Revenue Court, and the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain it. Per Rattigan, J.—The whole claim was cognizable by the Civil Court. MULA v. GANDU, 16 P.L.R. 1903. F.B.=92 P.R 1902. [R., 57 P.R. 1907, 44 P.R. 1908, 45 P.R. 1907.]

(63) Tenant's suit against proprietor for possession—Decision in previous suit by proprietor against tenant on ground of invalid mortgage, whether res judicata —Unauthorised alienation by occupancy tenant by way of mortgage—Forfeiture.—The proprietor of certain land had previously sued both his tenant and the tenant's mortgagee for possession of the land on the ground that the mortgage was illegal under the provisions of s. 34 of the Tenancy Act, no offer having been made to him. The tenant disputed having made a mortgage at all, but the Court, holding that a mortgage had been made, passed a decree for possession in favour of the proprietor. The present suit was brought by the occupancy tenant against the proprietor for possession of his holding, but this suit was dismissed by the first Court on the ground that the former proceedings were a bar to it. Held that, at the time when the former suit was instituted, the tenant had no title to possession though he had obtained it at the time of the institution of the present suit, the tenant's title to recover possession having occurred only after the former suit had been decided and in consequence of the decision. Held also that that there is nothing in the law which renders the interest of an occupancy tenant liable to forfeiture merely by reason of an unauthorised alienation by way of mortgage. HIRA v. JIA, 54 P.R. 1884.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(64)—Former suit to redeem land—Defence of irredeemable Adimayavana tenure—Defence disallowed—Subsequent suit to recover Adimayavana allowance—Adimayavana explained—Presumption of perpetual grant of allowance charged on land—Remand to the lower Court when to be made—S. 562, Civ. Pro. Code.—Defendant had, in a previous suit, sued plaintiff to redeem certain lands held by plaintiff on Kanom, and the plaintiff, as defendant in that suit, pleaded that he had an irredeemable Adimayavana tenure in the lands. His contention was disallowed in second appeal, and a decree for redemption passed in favour of the defendant (the plaintiff in the previous suit). Defendant having redeemed the land, plaintiff brought the present suit to recover Adimayavana allowance. On the question whether the present suit is not res judicata, the High Court held that the decision in the previous suit, disallowing the plea of perpetual tenure, would not be a bar to the present suit to recover the (Adimayavana) allowance. The word Adimayavana implies an allowance given for service. Adimayavana as well as Anubhavam, when used with reference to tenure of land, will prima facie import an irredeemable tenure; but it may be used with reference to a specified money or grain rent charged on land, and, in that case, it will not imply any tenure in favour of the grantee. But if the amount of the grant is not specified, and if the terms indicate that only a fixed rent is reserved for the grantor, and the rest of produce is given as Anubhavam or Yavana then it may well be that the Court will treat it as creating an irredeemable tenure, so as to secure to the grantee the benefits intended for him by the grant. (29 M. 501, Expl. & F.; 27 M. 202, R.) The fact that an allowance has been enjoyed for many years and has been received during all that time out of certain lands with the acquiescence of successive owners, will justify the conclusion that there was a valid grant of perpetual allowance charged on such lands. Where an issue is an integral and vital part of the plaintiff's suit, and not a mere preliminary issue within the meaning of s. 562 of the Civ. Pro. Code, an appellate Court ought not to remand the suit to the lower Court but should call upon the lower Court to return findings on such other issues in the case as are necessary and decide the case itself. MANA VIKRAMA v. KARNAVAN GOPALAN NAIR, 30 M. 203.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(65)—Rent-suit—Question of title being raised in prior suit—Subsequent suit for title.—The decision of a question of title to land incidentally raised in a suit for rent does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit for declaration of title to, and for possession of the same land. SRIHARI BANERJEE v. KHITISH CHANDRA RAI BAHADOOR, 24 C. 569=1 C.W.N. 509. (11 C. 301, F.; 15 C. 756, D.) [R., 10 C.W.N. 820; D., 25 C. 136, 32 C. 891=1 C.L.J. 371=9 C.W.N. 728.]

(66)—Suits against promisors—Joint and joint and several liability, difference between—Suit for rent—Registered talukdars and purchaser of patni.—Where the obligation between promisors is joint and several, a decree obtained against one of them without satisfaction is no bar to a suit against another, though it would be otherwise if the obligation were single and undivided. (10 B.L.R. 200, 3 C. 352, R.) [R., 21 A. 301, 22 A. 307, 25 M. 736, 27 M. 243=14 M.L.J. 84.] The relationship between the registered talukdars of a patni and the purchaser of a share therein from them resembles that of joint and several contractors, so that a decree for arrears of rent against the former would not bar a subsequent suit against the latter if the prior decree is not satisfied with respect to the rent of that share. DHUNPUT SINGH v. SHAM SOONDER MITTER, 5 C. 291 =4 C.L.R. 501.

(67)—Ss. 13 and 562, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Suit in Rent Court for ejectment of defendant as tenant—Tenant's setting up ownership and dismissal of suit—Second suit in Civil Court for ejectment of defendant as trespasser—Former decision no res judicata—Remand order, legality of—Entire suit not disposed of on preliminary point.—Plaintiffs applied to a Rent Court to eject defendant alleging that he was their tenant. The Collector decided that the defendant was either the owner or a rent-free-tenant of many years' standing. Plaintiffs, thereupon, made an application to the Assistant Collector to have rent assessed on two plots. This application was refused on the ground that the defendant was in adverse possession of those plots. Plaintiff, now, sued in a Civil Court to eject defendant from the two plots mentioned above as well as from two other plots. The suit was dismissed on the ground of res judicata. Plaintiff appealed. The lower appellate Court held that the suit was barred by res judicata as regards the first two plots, and, as regards the other two plots, remanded the suit. Held, (1) that the order of remand was illegal. S. 562 authorizes a remand, only when the entire suit, and not merely a portion of it, has been disposed of by the Court below on a preliminary point. Applying that rule, the remand order was illegal (11 A. 488, Appl.) (2) the suit was not barred by res judicata so far as the first two plots were concerned; the present suit being one for ejectment of defendant as a trespasser, the Rent Court which decided the first suit was not competent to decide the second suit, which was one in ejectment. MAHESH PRASAD v. RANJOR SINGH, 27 A. 163=A.W.N. 1904, 202=1 A.L.J. 503. (15 A. 189, D.)

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(68)—Rent suit—Suit for the claim of rent for a particular year—Second suit for another year, on the ground of custom.—The plaintiff brought a suit against the defendant in 1898, inter alia, for rent in respect of betel-nuts for the year 1897-98. In his plaint he alleged that the defendants were liable to pay thal to him and he gave the value of the fruits and grain due to him as thal for the year 1897-98. He did not, however, then specifically allege that according to practice he was entitled to rent for every year. The suit was decided in his favour. In 1899, the plaintiff brought a second suit against the defendants to recover thal for 1898-99. The defendants objected to the suit as res judicata. Held, that the second suit was not barred as res judicata, because the first suit merely decided that thal was payable in respect of betel nuts for the year 1897-98 as alleged and claimed in the plaint and not according to practice. VISHNU v. RAMLING, 3 Bom. L.R. 450=26 B. 25. [F., 28 M. 517=15 M.L.J. 466.]

(69)—Res judicata—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s 13 (=s. 11, present Code)—Rent suit—Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, s. 51—Presumption—Weight of presumption.— A decision in a previous rent suit as to the amount of rent payable for certain years does not operate as res judicata in a suit for the rent of subsequent years, although it gives rise to the presumption under s. 51 of the Bengal Tenancy Act that the rent for subsequent years remains the same. (19 C. 656, 21 C. 236, 4 C.W.N. 43, R.) [F., 5 C.L.J. 92; R., 1 C.L.J. 248, 2 Ind. Cas. 11.] The weight to be attached to the presumption thus raised must depend on the conditions under which that decision was arrived at, that is to say, whether it was after an adjudication of the question of the amount of rent or rate of rent or not. MAHARANI BENI PERSHAD KOERI v. RAJ KUMAR CHOWBEY, 6 C.W.N. 589.

(70)—Res judicata — Landlord and tenant—Distress—Property distrained lost by fire—Suit by tenant—Subsequent suit by landlord.—The landlord distrained his tenants' crops for arrears of rent due to him for a certain fasli, whereupon the tenant instituted the suit to contest the claim of the landlord. When the suit was instituted, the crops which had been distrained had ceased to exist. The Assistant Collector, instead of dismissing the suit on the ground that the subject-matter of the distraint had ceased to exist, held in addition that the arrears of rent were not due. Held that the present suit by the landlord for the same fasli as in the previous suit was not barred as res judicata. RADHA PRASAD SINGH v. ANNU PANDEY, A.W.N. 1882, 50.

Res Judicata -continued.

— 11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(71) —Right to bring suit for enhancement or abatement, how far affected by decision in previous similar suit.—There is no provision in the Rent Law to the effect that suits for enhancement or abatement shall not be brought within a certain period after the determination of a similar suit on the same grounds; nor is there any provision in the Act throwing upon a plaintiff, in such a suit, the burden of proof as to a change of circumstances since the passing of the decision in the previous similar suit. CHEDA v. NUNHOO BEG, 2 N.W.P. 348.

(72)—Mutation proceedings — Persons not parties—Res judicata.—Ordering dakhil kharij does not constitute the matter res judicata, much less as against persons not parties to the mutation proceedings. HEERA SINGH v. JAGEER BEG, 3 P.R. 1868.

(73)—Res judicata — Civil Procedure Code, 1882, s. 13, Explanation I.—This was a claim by certain proprietors in a village, for a share of land recovered by suit by the defendants, other proprietors of the village on the death of an occupancy tenant, from persons who alleged themselves to be the tenant's representatives. It was urged in defence that the plaintiffs did not join the defendants in making the original claim when the defendants impleaded them as pro forma defendants they did not defend the suit but asserted their right to share in any land which might be recovered from the original defendants; some of the plaintiffs even gave evidence for the defendants in the previous case. The Divisional Judge dismissed the suit on the ground that the decree in the previous suit was a bar to the present claim. Held, that the judgment of the Divisional Court was wrong. There was no conflict of interests between the parties to the present suit, inter se, and explanation II of s. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, was not applicable. SHAIB SINGH v. SHER SINGH, P.L.R. 1900, p. 409=70 P.R. 1900.

(74)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act V of 1908), s. 11 —Res Judicata—Decree by Court not having jurisdiction to pass it—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 40, 44—Jurisdiction — Burden of proof—Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1908), s. 32 —Division of holding made with the consent of landlord—Not illegal—Suit to enforce an agreement to divide a holding—Not maintainable.—Per Tudball, J.—If a decree is made in a suit of such a nature that no Civil or Revenue Court could entertain it, it would be null and void, and no decision therein can operate as res judicata between the parties. If a party to a suit raises a plea that a certain decision does not operate as res judicata on account of its having been delivered by a Court incompetent to deliver it, the burden is on him to prove that the decree was passed without jurisdiction. Partition of a holding made by the co-sharers thereof with the sanction of the landlord is not an illegal act, and, if once made, could be maintained in a suit brought in a Civil Court for possession in case of dispossession by either party, and it cannot be said that a decree for possession in such a suit would be one made without jurisdiction. Per Piggott, J.—A suit to enforce an agreement, under which a certain occupancy holding had been divided, is not maintainable in any Court, by reason of the provisions of s. 32 of the Tenancy Act, 1901. (A.W.N. 1906, 274, 3 A.L.J. 735, 31 A. 348, 6 A.L.J. 343, 1 Ind. Cas. 594, R.) If an objection is raised to a suit that it is barred by s. 32 of the Agra Tenancy Act, 1901, and an issue is raised on the point and decided against the defendant, it is not open to the defendant to subsequently treat the decision as a nullity, and plead, under s. 44 of the Indian Evidence Act, in a subsequent proceeding, that it was passed without jurisdiction. BALADEEN KALWAR v. RAGHUNATH KALWAR, 6 Ind. Cas. 98. (12 M. 228, 21 B. 205, 26 A. 522, R.)

(75)—Res judicata — Decision by Revenue Court in a suit for resumption—Second suit for declaration of title—Wrong admission in plaint that certain persons were parties to a previous litigation not binding upon plaintiffs. Held, that, in a matter which fell within Chapter X of the Tenancy Act, the decision of a Revenue Court was no bar to a suit subsequently brought in a Civil Court on title, the provisions of ss. 199 and 201 of the Tenancy Act having no application to a suit against a muafidar.—Held, also, that, where there was nothing on the record of a previous suit to show that certain persons were parties to that suit either directly or by legal implication, a misstatement in the plaint, in a suit subsequently brought by those persons, that they were parties to the previous suit, was not binding on them. BACHCHI LAL v. MUHAMMAD MUJIDULLAH KHAN, 6 A.L.J. 527=2 Ind. Cas. 587.

(76)—Act XIX of 1873 (N.W.P. Land Revenue), ss. 112, 113 and 134—Partition—Imperfect partition—Res judicata.—The failure of one of the parties to an "imperfect partition" to raise a possible objection to the title of one of the other parties to the partition cannot have the effect of res judicata in a subsequent civil suit between the parties, as would be the case where there had been a "perfect partition" and a decision of the Court of Revenue under s. 113 of Act XIX of 1873. AISHA BEGAM v. ABDULLAH KHAN, A.W.N. 1899, 190. (18 A. 59, R.)

(77)—Previous suit for partition rejected on the ground of limitation—Second suit for partition by defendants.—In 1875, defendants 6 and 9 sued plaintiffs along with others, for their share in a part of family estate. The Subordinate Judge dismissed the claim on the ground that the property was impartible. On appeal, the District Judge held that the property was not partible in the sense that it could not be divided by metes and bounds, but that under an arrangement that had been arrived at by the parties previously defendants 6—9 were entitled to enjoy the property by rotation during certain years. The High Court on second appeal, held that the suit was barred by limitation. In 1901, plaintiffs brought a suit against the members of the family including defendants 6—9 for their share in the lands belonging to the family. The Subordinate Judge awarded the plaintiffs' claim ; but the District Judge dismissed it on the ground that it was barred by res judicata. Held, reversing the decree and remanding the case for decision on merits, that though the High Court's finding on the question of limitation in the first litigation proceeded on the ground of an agreement between the parties to enjoy the property by turns, yet whether that made the property impartible in the sense that the defendants in that suit could not ask for a partition by metes and bounds was a question which was not and could not be decided by the High Court so as to bind the defendants therein, since the finding that the plaintiffs in that litigation had lost their right to the property was enough to dispose of the case. MAHADEO v. VASUDEO, 5 Bom. L.R. 737.

Res Judicata—continued.

——11.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(78)—Suit for partition—Razinama decree —Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Res judicata.—A suit for partition of certain land having been withdrawn against the defendant entitled to a share, a razinamah decree was passed which, in effect, was only a declaratory decree. After the death of the decree-holder, his heir brought a suit for partition against all the persons entitled to shares in the land including the defendant against whom the former suit was withdrawn. The decree in the former suit, being only a declaratory decree, does not operate as res judicata to bar the suit by the heir. BEEMABAI v. YAMUNABAI, 13 M. 313.

(79)—Res judicata—Watercourse—First suit as to use of water—Second suit as to right to throw up embankment— Verdict — Effect.—A decision in a former case in which a mere question as to the use of the water in a watercourse arose, does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit in which the subject-matter is whether the defendants have a right to throw up an embankment and obstruct the water-way. The effect of verdicts, whether upon the parties or privies, must altogether depend on the question whether the same point was actually in issue in the two suits. MUNMOHUN SINGH v. AMRITNATH CHOWDREE, W.R. 1864, 167.

(80)—Res judicata—Cause of action — Right of way.—In a suit for removal of an obstruction to a right of way, the plea of res judicata which was raised in defence was held not sustainable, as the previous suit was dismissed on the ground that the road was a public one, and therefore no individual had a right to bring a suit with regard to it, and as the question of obstruction which was alleged to be the cause of action for that suit was not heard and decided. NUREEM MUNDLE v. BORAMDY SIRDAR, 25 W.R. 208.

Res Judicata—concluded.

——11.—Miscellaneous—concluded.

(81)—Injunction restraining use of door as way—Subsequent suit for closing door—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13—Res-judicata.—The plaintiffs in a previous suit against the defendants obtained a decree to the following effect :—" A decree be and hereby is given that the plaintiffs are entitled to an injunction restraining defendants using the new doors as a way to the plaintiff's lane and also restraining the defendants from using the four parnalas A.B.C.D, shown in plan in the judgment, for any purposes except rain water. It is further ordered that, if after this, they continue using any parnala, for escape of water from the privy, the plaintiffs can claim to have such parnala closed." The plaintiffs subsequently brought a fresh suit against the defendant for closing the door and one of the parnalas, and a decree was passed in their favour. It was contended for the defendant that the suit was not maintainable. Held that the suit was not barred by any rule of law, and that the questions in dispute must be regarded as res judicata. MUSSAMMAT JANNO v. RAFIK KHAN, 49 P.L.R. 1903=12 P.R. 1903.

Resolution.

Privileges attaching to a Government—See ACT OF STATE, 6 Bom. L.R. 131.

Respondent.

See PARTIES TO SUIT.

(1)—Who should be made respondent?—The party against whom some relief is claimed should alone be made respondent and it is needless to join other parties as respondents if against them no further relief is sought. A. CASPERSZ v. KISHORI LAL ROY CHOWDHRY, 23 C. 922, P.C.=1 C.W.N. 12=7 Sar. 31.

Suit for dissolution of marriage—Respondent, if competent witness—See ACT IV OF 1869, s. 52, 3 B.L.R. App. 6.

See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, O. XXII, r. 4, 11 C. 694.

Getting a decree against a co-respondent—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 20, 4 A.L.J. 772=A.W.N. 1908, 4=3 M.L.T. 176=30 A. 48.

Appeal — Withdrawal — Cross-objections — Application by, for extension of time to appeal —See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 16 B. 249.

Respondent —concluded.

See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—COSTS, 9 B.L.R. 460=14 M.I.A. 203.

In appeals to Privy Council, whether entitled to notice of transmission of records from High Court—See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—RE-HEARING, 19 A. 209=24 I.A. 49, P.C.

What is a proper service of notice on—See SUMMONS, 8 Bom. L.R. 757=30 B. 623.

Respondent, Death of.

See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL.

(1)—Civ. Pro Code, 1877, ss. 362, 368, 582, 587—Appeal by decree-holder — Death of one of several respondents during appeal—Legal representatives not brought on record—Abatement of appeal.—Where one of two respondents (judgment-debtors) died in the course of an appeal and the decree-holder (appellant) made no application under the provisions of the Code to bring the legal representatives of the deceased respondent on record, held that, by the combined operations of ss. 587 and 582 of the Civ. Pro. Code, the provisions of Ch. XXI of the Code extended to the present appeal and that the proper section applicable under the circumstances was s. 368 and not s. 362, and that accordingly the appeal abated under the last clause of s. 368 as amended by Act XII of 1879. SHEO GOPAL v. BISHEN SINGH, 30 P.R. 1880. [R., 113 P.R. 1882, 165 P.R. 1882, 133 P. R. 1884.]

Restitution.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, S. 144.

See RESTITUTION OF RIGHTS BY MOTION.

(1)—Restitution as between parties to proceeding, principle of.—The Court, in making restitution as between parties to a proceeding, is bound to restore the parties, so far as they can be restored, to the position they were in at the time when the Court, by its erroneous action, had displaced them from it. PARASURAMA AYYAR v. SESHIER, 27 M. 504. (10 A. 166, 27 M. 98, R.)

(2)—Restitution—Assignment of decree before appeal filed—Assignee executing decree—Decree reversed—Assignee no party—Restitution against assignee.—The judgment-debtor's right of appeal is in no way affected by any intermediate assignment of the first Court's decree. Even though the assignee is not brought on record, it is not open to him to question the decree that may be passed by the appellate tribunal. The doctrine of lis pendens applies to such intermediate assignment, even though it was made before the appeal was filed, and the judgment-debtor had knowledge of the assignment before he lodged his appeal. The judgment-debtor, from whom the assignee of a money-decree has realised the decretal amount in execution, is entitled to recover it back from him when the decree is afterwards reversed in the appeal, even though he was not brought on the record in appeal. Where a petitioner pursues a certain course to which the other side successfully objected and then takes to some other course, the other side cannot then be heard to say that the procedure to which he himself successfully objected was the proper procedure. Money obtained under an invalid procedure of Court must be treated as money had and received to the use of the person from whom it was received. The doctrine of restitution is based upon this principle. BAREDDI GOVINDAPPA v. BANDI HANUMANTHAPPA, 23 M.L.J. 513=M.W.N. 1912, 1152=17 Ind. Cas. 420.

Restitution —continued.

(3)—Restitution—Decree in favour of trustee reversed—Trustee's personal liability.—Plaintiff sued as manager of a temple and got a decree. On payment being made to him in pursuance of the decree, he handed over the proceeds to the temple committee. On appeal, the decree was reversed and an order for restitution was made. An application was made for execution of the order by his arrest. Held that the manager could not be arrested by way of execution of the restitution order. VENKATASAMI PILLAI v. KUPPAYEE AMMAL, 14 M.L.J. 377.

Revenue sale set aside—See MAD. ACT II OF 1864, s. 40, 14 M.L.J. 433.

Ex parte decree set aside on appeal and suit remanded—Right of successful appellant to—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 2, O. XLI, r. 23, ss. 144 (1), 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, 3 C.L.J. 181.

Execution of decree—Effect of reversal on appeal—Separate suit, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 47, 144 (1), 35 C. 265.

Right to—Under s. 583, Civ. Pro. Code, when applicant, being originally deprived of his property in an appeal before the High Court, is given the property on review—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 4 47, 144 (1), A.W.N. 1906, 171 3 A.L.J. 556= 28 A. 655.

Of mesne profits on restoration of possession to judgment-debtor lost in consequence of a Court-sale which was subsequently set aside — Maintainability of application for, under s. 583, Civ. Pro. Code—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908. s. 47, O. XXI, r. 92, ss. 144 (1), 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, 8 O.C. 254.

Application for—Of money realized in excess in execution—Subsequent amendment of decree —Limitation applicable to application for restitution—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XX, r. 6, ss.152, 47, A.W.N. 1905, 63=2 A.L.J. 169 =27 A. 485.

Of possession of property by Court under order of Appellate Court setting aside dismissal of objection to sale—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 90, ss. 144 (1), 141, 9 O.C. 101.

First lessee, giving up possession of land to subsequent lessee on receipt of compensation, —Such lessee becoming afterwards entitled to restitution of land by a decree of Court—Right of such lessee to postpone applying for restitution until mesne profits became sufficient to wipe off compensation money—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 4, 18 M.L.J. 39.

Restitution—concluded.

Execution in excess of decree—Power of Court to order—In execution-proceedings—Regular suit, necessity for—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—APPLICATION FOR EXECUTION AND POWERS OF COURT, 9 C.W.N. 381=2 C L.J. 537.

Appealability of order in execution determining rate of interest on—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 15 M.L.J. 247 =28 M. 355.

Reversal of decree—Right of restitution can be enforced in execution and not by separate suit—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, arts. 179, 182, 10 M.L.T. 568.

Possession under decree since reversed—Restitution of property with mesne profits, order for—See MESNE PROFITS—SUITS FOR MESNE PROFITS AND ASSESSMENT IN EXECUTION, 14 C 484.

Reversal or modification of decree—Of payment made under decree—Execution—Fresh suit—See REVERSAL OF DECREE, 7 A. 432= A.W.N. 1885, 67.

Restitution of Conjugal rights.

See ACT IV OF 1869, SS. 32, 33.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE.

See HINDU LAW—HUSBAND AND WIFE.

See HINDU LAW—RESTITUTION OF CONJUGAL RIGHTS.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—DIVORCE.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—DOWER.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—HUSBAND AND WIFE.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—MARRIAGE.

See SEPARATION DEED.

(1)—Restitution of conjugal rights, Suit for—Child-wife—Custom—Where it is the custom that a child-wife should remain away from her husband until a certain event occurs, a Court of Justice must not order her to go and live with her husband until the happening of the contingency, although the marriage is valid. SUNTOSH RAM DOSS v. GERA PATTUCK, 23 W.R. 22, [R., 25 W.R. 386, 28 C. 37.]

(2)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Incapability for sexual intercourse, how far a legal defence—Proof of legal plea essential for Court's refusing decree.—In a suit brought by the husband for restitution of conjugal rights, a plea by the wife that sexual intercourse with her is impossible owing to her incurable disease or physical mal-formation, is not in itself a good defence. It would be wrong to allow one of the parties to withdraw from the performance of the duties and obligations binding on that party on a ground which gives such party no just cause of complaint and of which the other party does not complain. In such a suit by the husband, the Judge cannot in his discretion refuse a decree for other causes than those which in law justify a wife from refusing to return to live with her husband, and he cannot abstain from passing a decree in favour of a plaintiff's spouse, merely because he considers that it would not be for the benefit of either side that the decree should be granted. In this case, the lower Appellate Court had found that there was no cruelty, but that the suit was brought by the husband as a counter-move to defeat the claim of the wife for separate maintenance and a considerable time after the wife had ceased to live in his house and because, when the wife left the husband's house last, she left it crying; and wrongly thinking that it had discretion to refuse a decree for the above reasons, dismissed the plaintiff's claim. The High Court, however, was of opinion that the above circumstances were not in themselves sufficient in law to justify the Court in refusing to pass a decree for the plaintiff. PURSHOTAM DAS v. BAI MANI, 21 B. 610.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(3)—Hindu Law—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Leprosy.—To a suit instituted by a Hindu husband to compel his wife to go and live with him in his house as his wife, the fact that he is, at the time of such suit, suffering from a loathsome disease, such as leprosy and syphills, is a good defence. BAI PREMKUVAR v. BHIKA KALLIANJI, 5 B.H.C.A.C., 209. [R., 16 B. 269, 25 B. 644, F.B.=3 Bom. L.R. 371.]

(4)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Custom—Chins—Husband suffering from leprosy.—According to the custom among the Chins, a husband is not entitled to a decree for restitution of conjugal rights, if he is suffering from leprosy and has not been cured. PA PAR v. NGA PO, 11 Ind. Cas. 783.

(5)—Restitution of conjugal rights, Suit for—Circumstances under which decree for restitution should not be granted.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights brought by the husband, the plaintiff's claim ought not to be decreed when it appears that there is imminent danger of the wife being subjected to bodily violence, if compelled to return to her husband. BEGUM v. KHUDA BAKHSH, A W.N. 1892, 77.

(6)—Strained relations between husband and wife—Apprehension of breach of peace—Decree not to be passed.—It is very incorrect for a Court in India to pass a decree for the custody of a woman's person, when the relations between the parties are of such a condition that it is obvious that a breach of the peace is likely to occur. MUSSAMMAT KARM JAN v. ABDUL JABBAR, 166 P.L.R. 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 475= 121 P.W.R. 1913.

(7)—Marriage not consummated—Breach of contract of marriage by wife—Husband entitled only to damages, not custody of wife.—Plaintiff married a girl of seven years of age. The marriage was never consummated. But the girl refused to live with the plaintiff and was at the time of suit cohabiting with another man. Under such circumstances, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled only to damages under the Punjab Civil Code, Chap. VI, para. 12, but not to custody of his wife. JEWUN v. SUNDHEE, 3 P.R. 1870. [D., 85 P.R. 1877, 79 P.R. 1880]

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(8)—Hindu Law—Restitution of conjugal rights, Suit for—Cruelty—Condonation—Separation.—Though a suit for restitution of conjugal rights is maintainable in law by a Hindu, the same state of circumstances which would justify such a suit, or which would be an answer to such a suit in the case of a European, may not be equally so in the case of a Hindu [R., 13 A. 126, 34 C. 971=9 C. W. N. 510=1 C.L.J. 283.] After a condonation, by the wife, of cruelty on the part of her husband, a much smaller measure of offence would be sufficient to neutralise the condonation, than would have justified the wife, in the first instance, in separating from her husband, though the act or acts constituting the offence must be of such a nature as to give the wife just reason to apprehend a renewal by the husband of his former course of conduct and a consequent danger to her personal safety. In this case, it was held that, where the wife had condoned her husband's cruelty and was living with him in reconciliation in her mother's house, a slap on the cheek by the husband was not sufficient to entitle her to resist a suit for restitution of conjugal rights and to sue for maintenance. Case in which the High Court, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, imposed a condition on the husband, seeking restitution, to the effect that he should secure a home to the defendant-wife, untainted by the presence of any persons of bad character. JOGENDRO NUNDINEE DOSSEE v. HURRY DOSS GHOSE, 5 C. 500=5 C.L.R. 65. [Appl., 28 C. 37; R., 10 B. 301, 28 C. 751= 5 C. W.N. 673; D., 31 P.R. 1908=76 P.W.R. 1908=152 P.L.R. 1908] See also MOONSHEE BUZLOOR RUHEEM v. SHUMSOONNISSA BEGUM v. JODANATH BOSE v. SHUMSOONNISSA BEGUM, 11 M.I.A. 551 and PAIGI v. SHEONARAIN, 8 A. 78.

(9)—Husband and wife — Hindu—Mutual separation—Restitution of conjugal right.—A Hindu husband and wife had been married, while the latter was a girl of about 13 years of age; she had cohabited with him for a few months, but was ill-treated and expelled by him in consequence of his having formed an illicit connection with his brother's widow, whom he had made an inmate of his house and had three children by her and was still keeping her as his mistress. The wife, ever since her expulsion by her husband, had been living with her father, and the husband had not contributed to her support. It further appeared that the dispute had been considered by a Punchait which adjudged a separation of the married couple. Thirteen years later, the husband sued to enforce restitution of conjugal rights. The learned Judges declined to make a decree in favour of the husband, having regard to the circumstances existing at the date of the suit. MOOLA v. NUNDY, 4 N.W.P. 109. [R., 4 B. 545, 9 C.W.N. 510=1 C.L.J. 283; D., 13 A. 126, 17 M. 235, F.B.]

(10)—Agreement at marriage not to take away wife from her parent's house—Whether opposed to public policy.—Suit by a husband for the custody of his wife L. The wife pleaded an agreement executed by plaintiff on his marriage, binding himself never to take his wife away from her parent's house or town under penalty of freeing his wife from the marriage tie. Held that such contracts were opposed to public policy, and that, as the girl was the lawful wife of the plaintiff, she was bound to live with him. MUSSUMMAT LAHORAN, SHEIKH NABBI BAKSH and MUSSUMMAT YAKINAN v. MADAR BAKSH, 20 P.R. 1878. [Doubted, 5 P.R. 1891; R., 15 P.R. 1900=P.L.R. 1900, p. 193.]

(11)—Separation deed—Restitution of husband and wife—Agreement to live separate—Agreement operates as a bar—Hindus.—An agreement between husband and wife to live separate, bars a subsequent suit for restitution of conjugal rights. PURSHOTAM v. BAI JADI, 2 Bom. L.R. 72.

(12)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Right to declaration of nullity of marriage.—It is competent to the Court, in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, to make a declaration of nullity of marriage, if the respondent shows himself entitled thereto. (Per Garth, C.J. and Wilson, J.). LOPEZ v. LOPEZ, 12 C. 706, F.B. [R., 17 M. 235, F.B.]

(13)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Neglect to perform usual ceremonies—Husband's rights.—Where a husband neglected to perform the customary ceremonies, before cohabitation as man and wife, till the wife attained the age of 19, but married a second time, whereupon the first wife, according to the custom obtaining in her community, married another man: Held, that the husband was not entitled to a decree in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights against his first wife. BOOLCHAND KOILTA v. JANOKEE, 25 W.R. 386. [R., 17 B. 400.]

(14)—Hindu wife married during infancy—Marriage not consummated—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights not maintainable by husband—Hindu Law—Later practice in Indian Courts.—The practice of allowing suits for the restitution of conjugal rights has no foundation in Hindu Law, under which such a suit would not be cognizable by a Civil Court. According, however, to the later practice of the Courts in India, introduced from the practice in England, when a married couple, after cohabitation, separate and live apart, either of them can bring a suit against the other for the restitution of conjugal rights. The parties to the present suit went through the religious ceremony of marriage when the defendant, the wife of the plaintiff, was a child of eleven years

Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

of age. Eleven years after such marriage, when the defendant had become a woman of twenty-two, plaintiff instituted this suit against her praying for an order of the Court compelling her to go to his house, that he may complete his contract with her by consummating the marriage. The Court was of opinion that it was a misnomer to call the suit one for restitution of conjugal rights, and that neither the law nor the practice of the Courts either justified the Court's making the order sought for by the plaintiff, or even justified the plaintiff in maintaining the present suit. DADAJI BHIKAJI v. RUKHMABAI, 9 B 529 [Reversed, 10 B. 301; Not F., 13 A. 126, A.W.N. 1891, 18.]

(15)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Hindu girl married during minority—Her denial or a refusal to consummate marriage.—Restitution of conjugal rights should not be decreed, and freedom of choice should ordinarily be allowed where a Hindu girl married during her minority denies the factum of, and refuses to consummate the marriage. MUSSAMMAT KALAWATI v. BUKHAN, 187 P.W.R. 1912=215 P.L.R. 1912.

(16)—Hindu Law—Restitution of conjugal rights—Minor wife—Decree, if minor an outcaste, only on restoration to caste and position as wife—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Validity and legality of marriage—Presumption—Actual celebration of marriage—Absence of consent of particular person—Effect.—A suit for restitution of conjugal rights is maintainable. (11 M.I.A. 551, 6 W.R. 105, 8 W.R. 467, 9 W.R. 552, 20 W.R. 50, 92, 23 W.R. 179, 5 C. 500, 1 B. 164, 10 B. 301, 16 B. 714, 23 B. 307, 8 A. 78, 13 A. 126, R.) Such a suit lies, even though the wife is a minor, provided she is of sufficient age to perform her conjugal duties. (11 M.I.A. 551, 23 W.R. 22, 178, 23 B. 307, 13 A. 126, R.) When a decree in a suit of this nature is passed directing the wife to return to her husband, what the law contemplates is that she should return to her position as a wife in the household. If the minor wife living with her relatives, has by her adulterous conduct lost caste, a decree for restitution of conjugal rights would be passed, only when the husband arranges for the restoration of the wife to caste and to her position as his wife. (11 M.I.A. 551, 5 C. 500, 8 A. 78, R.) [F., 28 C. 751=5 C.W.N. 673; R., 82 P.R. 1908=147 P.W.R. 1908.] Where, in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, the validity and legality of the marriage is one of the most essential points in issue, the Court is not entitled to presume, from the mere finding that the marriage was celebrated, that all the rites and ceremonies necessary to constitute a legal and valid marriage were performed. (12 W.R. 41, P.C.; 9 M. 466, R.; 12 C. 140, D.) A marriage having actually and properly been celebrated, the absence of the consent of the person whose consent ought to have been obtained, would not make it illegal or void. SURJYAMONI DASI v. KALI KANTA DAS, 28 C. 37=5 C.W.N. 195.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(17)—Suit for return of minor wife—Order to send back wife—Form of decree.—In a suit for the return of plaintiff's minor wife and certain jewellery from the illegal possession or keeping of defendant, the utmost that the Court can rightly do, if there is an occasion for an order of the kind, is to enjoin the defendant to abstain from putting any obstruction in the way of the wife returning to her husband. The Court has no authority to order the defendant to send back the plaintiff's minor wife and her jewels. LALL NATH MISSER v. SHEOBURN PANDY, 20 W.R. 92. [R., 28 C. 37.]

(18)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, there is nothing illegal in a decree directing the wife to return to her husband. KUROONA MOYEE DEBEE v. GUNGA DHUR SURMAH, 20 W.R. 50. [R., 28 C. 37.]

(19)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree.—The proper form of decree to be passed, in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights against a wife, and several others alleged to be detaining her from her husband, was one enjoining the wife to return to her husband, and the other persons to abstain from preventing her return. JAFFREE KHANUM v. IMDAD HOSSEIN, 2 N.W.P. 314.

(20)—Custody of wife, decree for—Form of decree—Wife's disobedience to such decree.—A decree, in favour of the husband in a suit for the custody of his wife, cannot order that the girl should be handed over to her husband, bodily; and disobedience of the wife to the decree makes her liable to imprisonment. ALLAH BUKSH v. ALLAH BAKSH, 15 P.R. 1876. [R., 35 P.R. 1894.]

(21)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree—Act VIII of 1859, s. 200—Construction.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, a decree that "the case be decreed awarding the plaintiff to take the defendant as his married wife" is in a form which has been declared to be erroneous. (6 W.R. 105, 8 W.R. 467, 11 M.I.A. 551, R.) Where, in such a suit, the decree contains an order to the wife to return to her husband's protection, such an order is not an order "for the performance of a particular act" within the meaning of s. 200 of Act VIII of 1859, and the decree is not enforceable by the mode pointed out in the said section. GATHA RAM MISTREE v. MOOHITA KOCHIN ATTEAH DOMOONEE, 14 B L.R. 298 =23 W.R. 179. [Diss., 1 B. 164; Appl., 28 C. 37=5 C.W.N. 195; D., 10 B. 301, 8 A. 149= A.W.N. 1886, 53.]

(22)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Decree, form of.—The following is the form of a decree in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights:—"That the defendant, the wife, do within a certain time (fixed) from the receipt of this order, return to cohabitation with her husband and live with him as claimed. That the other defendants be ordered to abstain from harbouring the wife or otherwise interfering with the rights of the plaintiff as her husband. PAKHANDU v. BISHESHAR, A W.N. 1882, 243.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(23)—Suit by husband to recover wife—Refusal to return to husband—Form of decree—How enforced in execution.—Where a husband seeks to recover the custody of his wife, the proper form of decree, when the marriage is proved, is that "the wife must return to her husband and live with him." Where, however, the wife was unwilling to return even when the Court was satisfied that he would treat her well, the proper order is to enforce obedience by imprisoning her in the Civil Jail, and not to direct the police to transfer the custody of the wife to the husband. MUSSUMAUT GOOLABEE v. GOORMOOKH SINGH, 7 P.R. 1868.

(24)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Description of decree to be passed.—Appellant urged that the lower appellate Court was wrong in having given a decree to the respondent for the recovery of the person of his wife, and the High Court, modified the decree as follows:—"That the plaintiff is entitled to his conjugal rights, and that his lawful wife be ordered to return to his protection." KOOBUR KHANSAMA v. JAN KHANSAMA, 8 W.R. 467. (6 W.R. 105, F.) [Cons., 23 W.R. 179; R., 9 B.H.C. 290, 28 C. 37.]

(25)—Decree in restitution suit—Separate house and maintenance to wife—Court's power to order.—In decreeing a suit for restitution of conjugal rights in favour of husband, the Court cannot impose on him the duty of providing his wife with a separate house and separate maintenance. CHIMIANLAL v. BAI NARMADA, 4 Bom. L.R. 820.

(26 & 27)—Conditions for grant of restitution—Conditional decree.—It is not competent to a Court, in passing a decree for restitution of conjugal rights, to impose certain conditions under which the restitution can be had. MOTILAL v. BAI CHANCHAL, 4 Bom. L.R. 107.

(28)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree—Enforcement of decree—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 200.—A decree for restitution of conjugal rights should be passed in the terms, that the husband is entitled to conjugal rights, that his wife do return to live with him and that her parents do not interfere in any manner to prevent her so doing. A decree for the restitution of conjugal rights may be enforced under s. 200 of Act VIII of 1859. RAM TAHUL v. MADHO, 2 Agra 111.

(29)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree—Enforcement of decree—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 200.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, the proper form of decree is a direction to the wife to return to cohabitation, which direction on disobedience by her may be enforced as provided in s. 200, Act VIII of 1859. MUSSUMAT IMAMUN v. MAHOMED MAJEED-OOL-LAH, 3 Agra 88.

(30)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree—Execution.—A wife cannot be delivered in execution as a chattel; but in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, it may be ordered that the wife do return to her husband, with which decretal order if she fail to comply, she may be dealt with under the provisions of the Civ. Pro. Code, relating to attachment for non-performance of acts decreed. MUSSUMAT TOOFEAH v. JUSSOUDA, 2 Agra 337.

(31)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Form of decree.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, the decree should simply declare that the plaintiff is entitled to the restitution and that the defendant (wife) be directed to go to her husband's house. To declare that the husband should get possession of the person of his wife is erroneous in form. FURZUND HOSSEIN v. JANE BIBEE, 4 C. 588. (6 W.R. 105, F.) [R., 23 B. 307.]

(32)—Decree for performance of a particular act—Execution of decree—Civ. Pro. Code (1859), s. 200.—When a decree directs the performance of, or abstinence from, a certain act, there must be clear evidence of disobedience by the person so directed, before the decree can be executed against him. When, in a decree for restitution of conjugal rights, the plaintiff's mother-in-law, who had been impleaded as a defendant, was directed to refrain from preventing the plaintiff's wife from returning to him, held, in an execution petition for attaching the property of the mother-in-law, that her action in permitting her daughter, who was of age, to reside in her home after decree did not constitute such interference, on her part, with the return of her daughter, as would justify execution against her. AJNASI KUAR v. SURAJ PRASAD, 1 A. 501.

(33)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Enforcement of decree—Policy of law—Plea of husband's cruelty—Criterion of cruelty justifying wife.—A suit for the restitution of conjugal rights is within the jurisdiction of Civil Courts, and a decree ordering such restitution is capable of being enforced under s. 200 of Civ. Pro. Code, 1859. (11 M.I.A. 551, 9 B.H.C. 290, F.) The policy of entertaining and enforcing such claims may be open to question, but so long as their jurisdiction is not barred by legislation, the Courts have no discretion in the matter. [F., 13 A. 126, 26 B. 269; R., 10 B. 301, U.B.R. 1897—1901, Vol. II, 488.] Where a Hindu husband sues for restitution of conjugal rights, the criterion of cruelty justifying the wife's refusal to return to her husband is, whether there is actual or reasonable apprehension of violence of such a character as to endanger her personal health or safety. Mere pain to mental feelings, e.g., an unfounded imputation upon a wife's chastity, however wantonly caused or keenly felt, is not, by itself, sufficient to constitute legal cruelty under the Hindu Law any more than under English Law. YAMUNABAI v. NARAYAN MORESHVAR PENDSE, 1 B. 164. [R., U.B.R. 1897—1901, Vol. II, 104, 4 Bom. L.R. 107, 9 C.W.N. 510=1 C.L.J. 283=34 C. 971.]

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(34)—Suit for—Decree declaring wife's rights to future maintenance and residence—Effect of—Whether relief can be claimed in execution proceedings.—In a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights a decree was passed in terms of an award between the parties. It declared the right of the husband to the restitution, and ordered the wife to return to him and live with him. It further declared that the husband should return certain ornaments, to her, and it also made provision as to her future maintenance and residence. Held, that the provisions as to maintenance and residence were merely declaratory; and no relief could be granted to her in execution proceedings. MUSAMAT LACHMIBAI v. KANIAMAL ASUDAMAL AND KANIAMAL ASUDAMAL v. MUSAMAT LACHMIBAI, 1 S.L.R. 184.

(35)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Decree—Execution—Civ. Pro. Code, s 200.—The question in this case was whether a Civil Court has power to commit a wife to prison on her refusal to obey the decree of such Court that she must live with her husband. Held that s. 200 of Act VIII of 1859 laid down the law by which such order could be enforced. If the Court was not assured of the good treatment of the wife it would not restore her to the husband, but being assured of that fact, it could give an order to the effect. Imprisonment in execution of a decree under Act VIII of 1859 for restitution of conjugal rights had been authorised by many previous decisions of Chief Court, and was in harmony with the opinion indicated in judgments of the Privy Council and of the High Court, N.W.P. MUSST. BEGUM KHATUN v. ABDUL KI, 2 P.R. 1871. (8 W.R.P C. 3, R.)

(36)—Decree for restitution of conjugal rights in Civil Courts—Effect of on previous order for maintenance obtained against husband n Criminal Court.—An order of a Civil Court for restitution of conjugal rights supersedes any previous order of a Magistrate for maintenance, if the wife should persist in refusing to live with her husband. In re BULAKIDAS, 23 B. 484. [F., 27 A. 483=A.W.N 1905, 54=2 A. L.J. 160; Appl., U.B.R. 1910, 34.]

(37)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Plaintiff's want of bona fides—Evasion of Magisterial order for maintenance—Whether sufficient to refuse restitution—Ill-treatment—Recent ill-feeling, ground in bar of right.—Where, in a suit by a husband for restitution of conjugal rights, it appears that he is entitled to restitution, the Court ought not to refuse to grant him a decree, merely because he instituted the suit to evade a magisterial order for maintenance against him. Where, in such a suit, the wife pleads cruelty or ill-treatment by the husband, plaintiff will be barred of his right only on proof of recent ill-treatment. The Court will not be justified in refusing restitution to the husband on the ground of his ill-treatment years ago, which had latterly been compounded. PEDAPATI DURGAYYA v. PEDAPATI MANIKYAM, 16 Ind. Cas. 808.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(38)—Not allowed where parties are of different castes.—A marriage between a Rajput and a Brahman girl is not allowed by Hindu Law; hence, one of the parties to such a marriage cannot sue the other for restitution of conjugal right. BAI LAKSHMI v. KALIANSING, 2 Bom. L.R. 128.

(39)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Hindu convert to Christianity—Convert's right to custody of children.—A husband who becomes a Christian will not be permitted to claim the person of a wife who remains a Hindu. If, in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights brought by a husband, the wife pleads that the husband, by change of religion, has placed himself in such a position that she cannot live with him without doing extreme violence to her religious opinions and the social feelings in which she has been brought up, and in the enjoyment of which she has been married, the plea would be a good plea. [R., 8 M. 169] The inherent right of a father to the custody of his children is a right recognized by the English as well as the Hindu law. Of this right, the father is not deprived by becoming a convert to Christianity, though he may have become "potit," degraded, according to the dictates of the Hindu law. MUCHOO v. ARZOON SAHOO, 5 W.R. 235. [R., 25 B. 551=3 Bom. L R. 89]

(40)—Excommunication from caste.—In a suit by the husband, who is excommunicated from his caste, for the restitution of conjugal rights against his wife, it is open to the latter to require that he should get himself readmitted into the caste, to which the parties belonged at the time of marriage, before she is compelled by the Court to go and live with him as his wife. BAI JINA v. JINA KALIA, 9 Bom. L.R. 451=31 B. 366.

(41)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Defence of exclusion from caste and cruelty.—Exclusion of a person from caste, by only a portion of the members of the caste, cannot be held in equity to operate as an exclusion from caste by the entire brotherhood, and would not give the wife of the person so excluded a good ground for resisting his claim for restitution of conjugal rights. Quære.—Whether exclusion by the entire brotherhood would be a valid defence to such a claim? A husband does not lose his right to the custody of his wife on the ground of cruelty, where it is merely shown that he and his wife had occasional quarrels, and that he had now and then struck her, and there is no proof of any actual violence of such a character as to endanger the personal health or safety of his wife, nor any reasonable apprehensions of it. MUSSUMMAT KAKO v. LACHMI NARAIN, 18 P.R. 1877.

(42)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act (XV of 1865), ss. 36, 40—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 200.—A decree for restitution of conjugal rights, under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, is enforceable only in the manner provided in s. 36 of that Act. Such provision is in substitution of, and not in addition to, the ordinary remedies provided by s. 200 of Act VIII of 1589. ARDESAR JAHANGIR FRAMJI v. AVABAI, 9 B.H.C. 290. [F., 1 B. 164.]

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(43)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights by Parsi husband—Separate living of wife, agreement in respect of—Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act (XV of 1865), s. 36.—In a suit by a Parsi husband for restitution of conjugal rights against his wife, it is competent to the defendant under s. 36 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act (XV of 1865), to plead in bar of the suit a previous contract by which the plaintiff had agreed to allow the defendant to live separate. KAWASJI v. SIRINBAI, 23 B. 279. [R., 2 Bom. L.R 845.]

(44)—Among Parsis—Delegates.—The question—what constitutes a lawful ground among the community of the Parsis for the refusal of the husband to live with his wife or vice versa—is one the determination of which lies within the cognizance of the delegates. To justify a refusal for the restitution of conjugal rights, the causes must be grave and weighty and such as to show a moral impossibility that the duties of married life can be discharged. HIRABAI v. DHANJIBHAI, 2 Bom. L.R. 845.

(45)—Mahomedan law—Dower, non-payment of.—After consummation of marriage, the non-payment of dower, even though proved, cannot be pleaded in defence of an action for restitution of conjugal rights. BAI HANSA v. ABDALLA, 7 Bom. L.R. 684=30 B. 122.

(46)—Mahomedan law — Suit by wife to recover her property in husband's hands—Admission by husband of receipt of property—Plea of purchase set up by husband—Onus on husband to prove bona fides — Mahomedan woman, bona fide purchase of immoveable property from, by stranger—Suit to set aside conveyance— Onus on plaintiff—Holding of lands benami, Court not to make every presumption against apparent owner—Act VIII of 1859, s. 7 —'Relinquish or omit to sue,' meaning of—Construction of statute—Test of distinct causes of action in suits—Mahomedan husband, competency of, to sue wife, for conjugal rights—Suit to be determined according to Mahomedan law—Reg. IV of 1793, s. 15—Defence of legal cruelty—Court's order in suit for restitution, enforceable only by imprisonment or attachment —Act VIII of 1859, s. 200.—This was a suit by a Mahomedan woman against her husband, after having left his protection, for recovering the value of certain company's papers and other personal estate, alleging that the above securities came to her hands whilst she was an inmate of his zenana, that they got into the possession of the husband and were detained by him. Her case was that the securities were entrusted to him for a particular purpose, viz., that of receiving the interest on them for her, and that, though they may have been indorsed, she never meant to transfer the property in them. The husband's case was that he purchased them from her on several occasions, and that, on their indorsement and delivery, he paid her the full value for them. With respect to the burden of proof, the judgment of the Courts below proceeded on the principle that, although the wife may have failed to establish affirmatively the precise case alleged by her, her husband, having admitted the receipt of the securities from her, was bound to show something more than mere indorsement and delivery; that the relation of the parties being what it was, it lay upon him to prove that the transactions which he set up were bona fide sales and purchases, and that he actually gave full value for what he received from her. Their Lordships of the Judicial Committee expressed that the above principle was a sound one and was in accordance with the long established practice of the Courts in India. Their Lordships, therefore, decided that the wife was entitled to the protection which, according to the authorities, the law gives to a purdahnasheen, and that the burden of proving the reality and bona fides of the purchases pleaded by her husband was properly thrown on him, and that the husband having failed to discharge this burden, there was no ground for disturbing the concurrent judgments of the Courts below. [R., 4 A. 462, 8 A. 267, 12 M. 380 ; D., 15 W.R. 329] In this case, it appeared that some immoveable properties of the wife had been conveyed by her to a person who purchased them bona fide. It was the wife that came into Court seeking to be relieved from the effect of her own conveyances, the execution of which she did not dispute, against one who, if not an absolute stranger, stood in no fiduciary relation to her, and it was, therefore, held to be upon her to establish her right to that relief. The habit of holding lands benami is inveterate in India ; but that does not justify the Courts in making every presumption against apparent ownership. [R., 18 W R. 132, 9 C.W.N 89. 6 C L.J. 472.] The words in s. 7 of Act VIII of 1859, namely, 'if a plaintiff relinquish or omit to sue for any portion of his claims,' include accidental or involuntary omissions as well as acts of deliberate relinquishment, and where the words of law are clear and positive, they cannot be controlled by any consideration of the motives of the party to whom it is to be applied, nor limited by what the Judges who apply it may suppose to have been the reasons for enacting it. The correct test in all cases of this kind is, whether the claim in the new suit is, in fact, founded on a cause of action distinct from that which was the foundation of the former suit. [Appl., 15 W.R 408 ; F., 2 C.L J. 490 ; R., 9 W.R. 1 F.B.=B.L.R. Sup 774, F.B., 12 W.R. 79, 3 N.W.P, 27, 8 B.H.C. 205, 20 W.R. 450, 1, A. 543, 2 M 352, 6 C. 142, 8 C. 483, F.B., 8 C. 819, 8 M. 520, 14 B. 31, 19 C. 372, 17 B. 573, 20 B. 469, 21 M. 153=8 M.L J 92, 23 B. 597, 25 M. 736=12 M.L.J. 103, 29 C. 543, 26 M. 760.] On authority as well as principle, it is competent to a Mussalman husband to institute a suit in the Civil Courts of India for a declaration of his right to the possession of his wife, and for a sentence that she return to cohabitation, and such a suit must be determined according to the principles of the Mahomedan law. Their Lordships expressed that, if cruelty in a decree rendering it unsafe for the wife to return to her husband's dominion were established, the Court might refuse to send her back. The Mahomedan law, on the question of what is legal cruelty between husband and wife, is not materially different from the English law and, according to both, there must be actual violence of such a character as to endanger personal health or safety or there must be a reasonable apprehension of it. [R., 7 B.H.C. 122, 9 B.H.C. 290, 23 W.R. 178, 23 W.R. 179, 1 B 164, 14 C. 276, 10 B. 301, 8 A. 149 F.B., 17 C. 670, 17 A. 126, 28 C. 37, 28 C. 751=5 C.W.N. 673, 25 B. 644 F.B., 4 Bom L.R. 820, 34 C. 971=9 C.W.N. 510=1 C.L.J. 283, 7 Bom. L.R. 602, 29 A. 222=4 A. L J. 60=A.W.N. (1907) 27, 31 B. 366=9 Bom. L R. 451.] In this case, their Lordships expressed their doubt whether, in such a case, under the new Act of procedure, regulating the Civil Courts of India, in the event of disobedience on the part of the wife to obey the order of the Court, he might be given over bodily into her husband's hands. They stated that the disobedience of such an order directing the wife to return to cohabitation would fall within s. 200 of the Code, so as to be enforcible only by imprisionment or attachment of property or both. MOONSHEE BUZLOOR RUHEEM v. SHUMSOONNISSA BEEGUM, 8 W.R P C. 3=11 M I.A. 551=2 Suther. 59=2 Sar. 259.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(47)—Mahomedan Law—Conjugal rights, suit for restitution of—Prompt dower, necessity for payment or tender of.—Held that where some of the dower must, in the absence of specification, be taken to be prompt, a suit by the husband for restitution of conjugal rights will not lie until so much of the dower as is prompt has been paid or tendered. ABDUL KARIM KHAN v. MUSAMMAT CHHOTI, A.W. N. 1906, 136=3 A.L.J. 432. (2 A. 831, F.)

(48)—Mahomedan law—Separation deed—Mahomedans.—According to the Mahomedan Law, it is not competent to parties contracting marriage to enter into a separation deed by which the husband consented that his wife might live with her parents: and in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights by the husband against his wife, who also pleaded non-payment of her prompt dower in bar of the suit, he would be entitled to a decree for restitution conditional on payment of the dower. ABDUL v. HUSENBI, 6 Bom. L.R. 728.

(49)—Mahomedan law — Suit to recover custody of wife—Prompt dower, Payment of—Condition precedent.—According to the Mahomedan law, a husband cannot compel his wife to return to him before he pays her the prompt dower that has been fixed, or which she is entitled to have in accordance with the average rate of dower granted to the females of her father's family, when there has been no stipulation that the payment of the whole dower shall be postponed and there is no reason for believing there was such a stipulation. MOULADAD KHAN v. WAZIR SHAH, 45 P.R. 1876. [Overruled, 164 P.R. 1889, F.B.; Diss., 5 P.R. 1891, 14 P.R. 1891; Doubted, 141 P.R. 1884.]

(50)—Mahomedan law—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Adultery of husband, whether valid defence.—A suit by a Mahomedan for restitution of conjugal rights was resisted on the ground that he was debarred from claiming conjugal rights by reason of his admitted adultery with common prostitutes. Held that the fact of sexual intercourse by the plaintiff with prostitutes during the absence of his wife, she having persistently for years refused to live with him, was not so gross a violation of the marriage contract as to disentitle him from claiming rights which otherwise he could enforce. MUSSUMMAT FAHIMULNISSA v. MAHOMED HUSSAIN, 41 P.R. 1878. (11 M.I.A. 551, R.)

(51)—Restitution of conjugal rights—Marriage of Muhammadan minor-girl by doubtful guardian—Husband taking second wife when the girl was about to attain her puberty—Effect of her repudiating marriage—Court not to help such a husband to take custody of his wife.—Held, that it is hard enough for a minor girl to be married without her own inclination being consulted. Moreover for her to find, just about the time of her attaining puberty, that her husband takes second wife, seems to be adding insult to injury and it is not a matter of surprise if she elopes and takes her abode with another man. In such a case the discretionary power of the Court should be exercised not to help the husband in taking custody of his wife, especially when it is doubtful that the girl has been given in marriage by a person competent, according to her personal law, to do so. Held, on review that, under such circumstances, it is a step of very doubtful policy to allow costs against her husband, and the parties should be left to bear their own costs throughout. MUSSUMMAT SAHIB JAN v. GHULAM HAIDAR, 111 P.W.R. 1912=15 Ind. Cas. 560.

(52)—Muhammadan Law—Shia—Husband and wife—Restitution of conjugal rights, suit for—Cruelty as defence—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Legal cruelty, criterion of—Husband charging wife with murder and prostitution.—The Civil Courts of India have succeeded to the duties which under the Muhammadan Law were discharged by the Kazi or at his instance by the umpires, and hence the Courts have the same jurisdiction. Cruelty on the part of a husband is a good and valid defence to a suit by him for restitution of conjugal rights, even where the parties are Muhammadan Shias. (11 M.I.A. 551, 8 W.R. P.C. 3, R.) The plea of cruelty would be allowed only in a case where the evidence establishes legal cruelty such as is demanded by the English Law in a suit for judicial separation. There must be actual violence of such a character as to endanger personal health or safety, or there must be a reasonable apprehension of it. (11 M I.A. 551, 8 W.R. 3. P.C., 2 A.L.J. 608, 10 B. 301, Rel. on.) A husband transferred some of his wife's property during her minority to his brothers. On attaining majority, the wife obtained a decree for possession of the property against her husband and his brothers. In execution of her decree for costs, she got a warrant of arrest issued against her husband. The brothers of her husband raided her house and beat her. The husband was living with his brothers : and he and his brothers were heirs to his wife. The husband in a letter charged his wife with the murder of her child and for prostitution. In a suit by the husband for restitution of conjugal rights with his wife ; Held, that there was ground for apprehension of danger to the health and safety of the wife; (2) that the object of the husband was not to resume happy connubial relations but to get his wife in his power with no friendly motive to her ; (3) that the facts established legal cruelty on the part of the husband, and, consequently, his suit for restitution of conjugal rights must be dismissed. JAFRA HUSAIN v. HUSAN ARA BEGAM, 13 Ind. Cas. 609 = 15 O.C. 159. (3 W.R. 93, 29 A. 222, 4 A.L.J. 60, A.W.N. 1907, 27 A.W.N. 1892, 77, Rel. on; 13 A. 126, 21 B. 610, 10 B. 301, D.)

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(53)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Dower—Mahomedan law. — By Mahomedan law a husband cannot compel his wife to return to him until he pays her the prompt dower fixed at the time of marriage. MUSSUMAT ZEBO v. JIWAN KHAN, 35 P.R. 1873. [Overruled. 164 P.R. 1889 ; Diss., 5 P.R. 1891, 14 P. R. 1891 ; R., 45 P.R. 1876, 118 P.R. 1880, 141 P.R. 1884, 119 P.R. 1885.]

(54)—Right to possession of wife—Muhammadan Law.—Upon principle as well as authority, there can be no doubt that a Mussalman husband may maintain a suit in a Civil Court for a declaration of his right to the possession of his wife, and for a decree that the should return to cohabitation. Such a suit must be determined according to the principles of the Muhammadan Law. ABDUL KADIR v. SALIMA, 8 A. 149, F.B. = A.W.N. 1886, 53.

(55)—Mahomedan Law—Marriage—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Stipulation as to residence—Wife's plea that exigible portion of dower was not paid.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights brought by a Mahomedan husband, the question, whether a stipulation, entered into by him at the time of the marriage with his wife to reside with her in her father's house, could in any case afford an answer to a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, was considered, but not decided, the wife's plea being rejected on the ground of want of definiteness in the stipulation itself. [R., L.B.R. 1893-1900, 655, 5 C.W.N. 673 = 28 C. 751, 1 L.B.R. 351.] Where, in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights by a Mahomedan husband, his wife pleaded that he had not paid the exigible portion of the dower due, held, upon the authorities, that the non-payment of prompt dower was not a sufficient plea in bar of such a suit, the marriage having been consummated. HAMIDUNNESSA BIBI v. ZOHIRUDDIN SHEIK, 17 C. 670. (8 A. 149, Appr.) [F., 30 B. 122 = 7 Bom. L.R. 684; Diss., 7 Bom. L R. 602.]

(56)—Mahomedan Law—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Cause of action—Payment of dower.—Under Mahomedan law, even after consummation with consent, a wife may refuse herself to her husband until her dower (prompt) has been paid, and so no cause of action could accrue to the husband for the restitution of conjugal rights until the dower was paid. SHEIKH ABDOOL SHUKKOAR v. MUSSUMAT RAHEEM-OON-NISSA, 6 N.W.P. 94. [Overruled 8 A. 149, F.B. = A.W.N. 1886, 53; F., 1 A. 483, 2 A. 831 : R., 141 P.R. 1884.]

(57)—Husband and wife—Mahommedan Law.—A Mahommedan wife cannot resist a suit for restitution of conjugal rights on the ground that her dower has not been paid. ABDOOLA v. AH WA, 1 L.B R. 145. (8 A. 149, 11 M. 327, F.)

(58)—Suit for restitution — Limitation Act (1877), art. 35—Madras Act III of 1873, s. 16—Agreement for present and future separation—Legality — English and Indian law — Public policy.—In this case a suit was brought, after a demand and refusal, for restitution of conjugal rights, in 1903, and that was compromised in 1904. By the compromise the parties agreed to live together "according to the custom of the world." The agreement further provided "If on any day subsequent to this and for any reason whatever you (the wife) should not like to live with me, but want to go away from me, I agree to give you Rs. 350." The parties never lived together after the agreement. The husband brought the present suit for restitution in 1907. Held, that, though art. 35, Limitation Act, 1877, would bar a suit for restitution if there has been a demand and refusal more than 2 years before suit (28 M. 436, 25 B. 644, 34 C. 79, R.) it is impossible to contend, after the above agreement, that the previous demand and refusal furnish the starting point for the running of time, and that, unless there is a fresh demand and refusal, time cannot run against the present claim for restitution. Courts should be strict in applying art. 35, according to the letter. Moreover it does not find a place in the new Limitation Act. The parties in this case being Hindus and Brahmins, the law to be applied in determining their marital obligations is the Hindu law. See s. 16 of Madras Act III of 1873. It may be doubted whether, under that law, any agreement between husband and wife to live apart from each other is valid. It may well be deemed to be forbidden by the Hindu law. (28 C. 751, R.) Even apart from the Hindu law, the agreement must be regarded as opposed to public policy and therefore not enforceable. (7 Bom. L.R. 602, R.) Even under the English law, an agreement providing for future separation is invalid, though an agreement for a present separation is enforceable. KRISHNA IYER v. BALAMMAL, 8 M.L.T. 314=8 Ind. Cas. 412.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

(59)—Limitation Act (1908), ss. 28, 29—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), ss. 2, 28. sch. II, art. 35—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights brought after expiry of limitation provided by the Act of 1877.—A right to restitution of conjugal rights is not one which is extinguished under s. 28 of the Limitation Acts of 1877 or 1908. The result of expiry of the period of limitation in respect of such right under the Limitation Act, 1877, is that the remedy only is barred and, as the portion of s. 2 of the same Act which enacts "that nothing herein contained shall revive any right to sue barred under that Act" not having been re-produced in the Limitation Act of 1908, a suit for restitution of conjugal rights when Act of 1908 was in force was maintainable, although it was filed after the expiry of limitation period provided by art. 35, sch. II, Limitation Act (1877). AYESHA v. FAIAZ HUSAIN, 9 A.L.J. 784=34 A. 412=16 Ind. Cas. 124.

(60)—Limitation—Suits for restitution of conjugal rights.—A suit by a wife for the restitution of her conjugal rights is barred by lapse of time when restitution has been demanded by her and refused by the husband, being of full mind, more than two years prior to the commencement of the suit. DHANJIBHOY v. HIRABAI, 3 Bom. L.R. 371=25 B. 644.

(61)—Husband deserting and abandoning his wife—Lapse of time—Husband not entitled to claim custody of wife.—Where it is clearly established that a Hindu husband for years past grossly failed to fulfil the obligations of giving his wife a home and of supporting her and her child, held, in the face of such desertion and abandonment, that the husband is not entitled to come forward and assert his rights as her husband and that a Court is not bound to decree a claim by such husband for custody of his wife. DHANI v. NARAIN SINGH, 82 P. R. 1908=147 P.W.R. 1908=8 P.L.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 650 (78 P.R. 1893, 95 P.R. 1898, 28 C. 37, 751, 29 A. 222, 11 M.I.A. 551, relied on; 25 B. 644, 28 M. 436, 34 C. 79, R.; 60 P. R. 1879, F.B., D.)

(62)—Husband and wife—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Suit filed with great delay—Neglect to maintain wife for a number of years.—When the wife leaves her husband's protection and lives with her parents for a long period (15 years), without the husband caring to bring her back or contributing to her maintenance or demanding her company, the husband is not entitled to a decree for restitution

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

of conjugal rights. MUSSAMMAT JIWANI v. MANGAL SINGH, 125 P.L.R. 1909=126 P.W. R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 974. (6 P.R. 1885, 95 P. R. 1898, R.)

(63)—Marriage, decree for consummation of, jurisdiction of Chief Court to pass.—Where a married woman has attained majority and her marriage has been solemnized but not consummated, the Chief Court has jurisdiction to decree consummation. CHOUGUTTA v. RAJUN, 13 P.R. 1869.

(64)—Right of suit—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Suit not maintainable by husband for recovering possession of wife—Decree declaratory of conjugal rights, mode of enforcement of.—A suit will lie in the Civil Courts by a husband against his wife for restitution of conjugal rights. This suit was brought by a husband against his wife and certain others, the parties being Hindus, to obtain his conjugal rights. On special appeal the two Judges differed on the point of law as to what precisely should be the relief to be granted to the husband: one of them being of opinion that bodily possession of the wife may and ought to be delivered to the husband, and the other holding that the decree could be a merely declaratory one, to be enforced in case of disobedience by attachment. The third Judge to whom the case was referred for opinion concurred with the latter, holding that no suit could be maintained by the husband for recovering possession of the person of his wife; but a husband can maintain a suit in the nature of a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights, for a declaration that he is entitled to his marital rights, and for an order that the wife do return to him and live with him. Such an order is an order "for the performance of a particular act" within the meaning of s. 200 of Act VIII of 1859, and if the wife refuses to obey it, the decree may be enforced, as that section provides, by the imprisonment of the wife or by attachment of her property, or by both imprisonment and attachment. CHOTUN BEBEE v. AMEER CHUND, 6 W.R. 105=1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 317. [F., 2 Agra 111, 8 W.R. 467, 9 W.R. 552, 17 W.R. 13, 23 W.R. 179, 4 C. 588; R., 8 W.R. 23, 9 B.H.C 290, 1 B. 164, 28 C. 37.]

(65)—Decree for recovery of person of wife—Restitution of conjugal rights—Jurisdiction.—Civil Courts cannot pass a decree for the recovery of the person of the wife, the proper order in all such cases being an order for the restitution of conjugal rights. MELARAM NUDIAL v. THANOORAM BAMUN, 9 W.R. 552. [R., 5 C.W.N. 195=28 C. 37.]

(66)—Hindus—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights, if maintainable—No distinction between 'restitution and institution' of conjugal rights—Such suits, not discredited by Legislature—Discretion of Court, exercise of—Question of delicacy, how far to be considered by Courts.—The Civil Courts in India have, since a long time, been entertaining suits for the institution or restitution of conjugal rights, in the case of natives, whether Hindus or Mahomedans; and this jurisdiction is a well-established one. It may however be remarked that although no text may be found in the Hindu Law books which provides for the King ordering a husband or wife to return, there is also no text to be found forbidding or deprecating compulsion. The duties appertaining to the relationship of husband and wife have always been the subject of caste discipline, and therefore, with the establishment of a systematic administration of justice, the Civil Courts would probably and almost necessarily assume to themselves the jurisdiction over conjugal rights as determined by Hindu Law, and enforce them according to their own modes of procedure. [R., 13 A. 126, 23 B. 307, 28 C. 37=5 C.W.N 195, 28 C. 751=5 C.W.N. 673.] The gist of an action for restitution of conjugal rights is that married persons are bound to live together, and that one or other has withdrawn himself or herself without lawful cause. Consummation being unnecessary by Hindu Law as it is in the case of English Law, to complete the marriage, it necessarily follows that, whether the withdrawal or 'substraction' as Blackstone terms it, be before or after consummation, there has been a violation of conjugal duty which entitles the injured party to the relief prayed for. It may be that, owing to the practice of infant marriage in this country, there may be a custom for the infant wife after the celebration of the marriage, to return to her own house until she arrives at puberty, and in view of the above custom the Court would not order the wife to join her husband until she was of mature age. But this has nothing to do with the general legal right, and in any case, where the girl has long past the age of puberty. [R., 18 B. 327.] It cannot be said that suits for restitution of conjugal rights stand discredited in this country. On the contrary, notwithstanding the express wish of Markby, J., as expressed in 1875 in 14 B.L.R. 298 to regard the decree for restitution of conjugal rights as a mere declaration of rights, the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, so far from treating the suit as a discredited one, or giving effect to Justice Markby's views, provides in express terms by s. 260 for the enforcement of such a decree by imprisonment or attachment of property or by both. The Courts in India would be exercising a wrong discretion if, in such suits it takes into consideration that the infant wife has had no voice in the choice of her husband or has never adopted her guardian's choice, and refuses to grant relief to the husband on this ground. If it does so, it would be virtually disregarding the precepts of Hindu Law, which treats the marriage of daughters as a religious duty imposed on parents and guardians, and looking at the matter from the purely English point of view, which sees in marriage nothing but a contract to which the husband and wife must be consenting parties. [R., 21 B. 23, 21 B.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

610.] As to the objection that for the Court to compel a Hindu wife against her will to join her husband for the purpose of consummation, would be more than ordinarily revolting to delicate feelings, it was held that the Civil Courts having assumed jurisdiction, cannot draw fine distinctions between a woman who has never lived with her husband and is averse to joining him and one who has lived with him and perhaps acquired a physical or moral loathing for him and objects to returning. It may be admissible that the law should not adopt stringent measures to compel the performance of conjugal duties; but as long as the law remains as it is, Civil Courts cannot with due regard to consistency and uniformity of practice (except perhaps under the most special circumstances) recognise any plea of justification other than a martial offence by the complaining party. DADAJI BHIKAJI v RUKMABAI, 10 B. 301. (U.B.R. 1904, 4th Quarter, Buddhist Law—Marriage, 5, 31 P.R. 1908=76 P.W.R. 1908=152 P.L.R. 1908, R.)

(67)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Wife not within jurisdiction—Cause of action.—The plaintiff and defendant were husband and wife. The former sued the latter for restitution of conjugal rights in Court T, within whose jurisdiction the plaintiff resided but not the defendant. The defendant contended that the Court T had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. Held, that the Court had jurisdiction to entertain the claim. The cause of action in a suit by a husband for restitution of conjugal rights arises from the duty of the wife to reside with her husband, unless he has been guilty of some matrimonial offence which justifies her, in the eye of the law, in living apart from him. As the cause of action consists in the wife absenting herself from her husband's house without his consent, it must be deemed to arise at his house only. LALITAGAR KESHARGAR v. BAI SURAJ, 18 B. 316.

(68)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Jurisdiction, no money value can be attached for—Privy Council, appeal to—Action of parties concerning valuation of suit—A suit for restitution of conjugal rights and possession of a wife is not one to which any special money value can be attached for the purposes of jurisdiction. (13 C. 232, F.) [R., 31 C. 849=8 C.W.N. 705; D., 28 A. 545=3 A.L.J. 266=A.W.N. 1906, 99, 34 C. 352=5 C.L.J. 400=11 C.W.N. 458.] The action of the parties cannot affect the question of jurisdiction. In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, no appeal lies to the Privy Council, as of right, although the suit was valued above Rs. 10,000 and the valuation was relied on by the defendant. MOWLA NEWAZ v. SAJIDUNNISSA BIBI, 18 C. 378.

(69)—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Appeal from decree of Recorder of Rangoon—Burma Courts Act (XVII of 1875), s. 49.—The proviso in s. 49 of the Burma Courts Act amounts to an express declaration that it is a condition precedent to the right of appeal from

Advocate High C
Jammu & Kashm
Srinagar.

Restitution of conjugal rights—continued.

the Recorder's Court that the suit shall be one, which has an amount or value capable of being estimated in money, and that that amount or value shall fall within certain specified limits; so that an appeal from a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights, which is incapable of being valued, will not lie from a decision of the Recorder. [F, 18 C. 378; D., 5 C.L.J. 400=11 C.W.N. 458=34 C. 352; R., 31 C. 849=8 C.W.N. 705, 3 A.L.J. 266, F.B. =28 A. 545=A.W.N. 1906, 99.] Where the suit is one not capable of being valued, the affidavit put in by a party, in which he professes to place a pecuniary value on the society of his wife, against whom he claims restitution, cannot alter the real nature and character of the suit. GOLAM RAHMAN v. FATIMA BIBI, 13 C. 232.

European British subjects resident in Native State, suit for divorce arising between, within jurisdiction of High Court, Bombay—Petition in India against wife—Indian Divorce Act, IV of 1869—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights instituted in England by wife—See ACT IV OF 1869, s. 2, 10 B. 422.

Suit for—Valuation of suit—Appeal—Jurisdiction—See ACT XII OF 1887, ss. 20, 21, 11 C.W.N. 458=5 C.L.J. 400=34 C. 352.

See BUDDHIST LAW—DIVORCE, U.B.R. 1897-1901, Vol. II, 37.

See BUDDHIST LAW—HUSBAND AND WIFE, U.B.R. 1872—1892, 391.

Ill-treatment and desertion — See BUDDHIST LAW-MARRIAGE, U.B.R. 1904, 4th Qr., Buddhist Law, p. 5.

Suit for, whether lies.—See BUDDHIST LAW, MARRIAGE, U.B.R. 1909, 1st Quarter, Buddhist Law.

Decree for—Detention of wife in prison—Discretion of Court—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 33 (1) and (2), 10 Ind. Cas. 177.

Suit for—Court-fee — Appeal—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, art. 17 (vi), 8 A.L.J. 889.

See HINDU LAW—MARRIAGE, 17 W.R. 522.

Suit by a Parsee wife against her husband for—See JURISDICTION — ECCLESIASTICAL JURISDICTION, 4 W.R.P.C. 91=6 M.I.A. 348.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, s. 23, arts. 31, 35, 120, 13 A. 126=A.W.N. 1891, 18.

Cause of action—Limitation—See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, s. 23, sch. II, arts. 34, 35, 16 B. 714.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, art. 35, 28 C. 37=5 C.W.N. 195.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 23, 16 B. 715, Note=P.J. 1883, 124.

Apostacy—Effect upon marriage—Maintainability of suit for—See MAHOMEDAN LAW—MARRIAGE, 7 A.L.J. 956=7 Ind. Cas. 342.

Restitution of conjugal rights—concluded.

Suit for—Valuation of suit—Jurisdiction—See SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887, ss. 8, 9, 12, 3 A.L.J. 266, F.B.=A.W.N. 1906, 99=28 A. 545, F.B.

Suit for— Valuation — Jurisdiction — See SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887, ss. 11, 21, 11 Bom. L.R. 1352=4 Ind. Cas. 836.

Suit for— Jurisdiction— See VALUATION OF SUITS, 6 Ind. Cas. 636=14 C.W.N. 929

Restitution of rights by motion.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 144.
See RESTITUTION.

(1)—Execution of decree—Assignment of decree for costs—Costs realised by assignee—Decree reversed in appeal—Costs cannot be recovered by way of execution—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 583.—Certain appellants in the High Court obtained from that Court a decree dismissing the plaintiffs-respondents' suit with costs. That decree for costs was assigned by the decree-holders, and the assignee took out of Court in execution thereof the money which had been paid in satisfaction of it by the judgment-debtors. Subsequently, that decree was reversed by the Privy Council, and the plaintiffs obtained a decree in their favour with costs in all the Courts. The aforesaid assignee was not included as a party to the appeal to the Privy Council although the appellants therein had notice of the assignment. Held that the plaintiffs could not, merely by virtue of and in execution of the order of the Privy Council, obtain restitution from the assignee of the amount of costs paid as above stated. (19 A. 136, R.) [R., 24 A. 288; D, 28 A. 337=3 A.L.J. 110=A.W.N. 1906, 43] S. 583, Civ. Pro. Code, does not apply to a case such as the one mentioned in para (1). The section only applies to parties to the proceedings in the suit and in the appeal and does not apply to assignees of interests of the parties to the suit when those assignees have not been made parties to the suit or the appeal. SADIG HUSAIN v. LALTA PRASAD, 20 A. 139=A.W.N. 1897, 222, [F., 5 C.W.N. 426.]

(2)—Civ. Pro Code, 1882, s. 583 (Cf. s. 144 (1), new Code)—Reversal of decree of lower Court—Refund of money—Interest.—Where a decree is reversed on appeal and the successful applicant is entitled under s. 583, Civ. Pro. Code, to recover any sum, which, before the decree of the Appellate Court he had been obliged to pay in execution of the decree of the lower Court, he is also entitled to receive interest on the sum so recoverable. PHUL CHAND v. SHANKAR SARUP, 20 A. 430=A.W.N. 1898, 100 (7 A. 432, 8 A. 262, 18 A. 262, 9 M. 506, A.W.N. 1888, 287, R.; A.W.N. 1897, 76, Diss.) [Appr., 21 A. 1.]

(3)—Decree reversed on appeal—Restoration of benefit obtained under original decree Civ. Pro. Code, s. 583—Right to mesne profits and interest.—The respondent had obtained a decree cancelling the lease granted to the appellant's assignor and directing him to give up possession of the leased land to the respondent and pay her certain sums for mesne profits, etc. She executed the decree and obtained possession and realised the moneys awarded thereby. On such decree having been set aside subsequently on appeal, the present appellant sought for restitution under s. 583 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and he was held entitled to be put in that position which he would have occupied if the decree had never been passed and executed. He was, therefore, allowed the mesne profits which he would have received between the date, when he was ejected in execution of the decree and the date of the expiration of the lease. HARDAT v. IZZAT-UN-NISSA, 21 A. 1=A W.N 1898, 153. [20 A. 430, Appr.]

Restitution of rights by motion—concluded.

Restoration of appeal.

Appeal dismissed for default—Application to restore the appeal also dismissed for default—Second application for the same purpose—Appeal—Review—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 115, 141, 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, 7 P.L.R. 1900.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, rr. 17, 19, s. 105, 24 A. 464=A.W.N. 1902, 136.

Application for, dismissed for default—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 19, A.W.N. 1898, 155.

Application to restore appeal dismissed for default—Evidence of sufficient cause for restoration—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 20 A. 266=A.W.N. 1898, 34.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 2 M.I.A. 181, 2 M.I.A. 441.

See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—DISMISSAL OF APPEAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION, 7 M.I.A. 16=11 Moo. P.C. 305=1 Sar. 590.

Restoration of suit.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XVII, rr. 1, 2, 2 C.W.N. 490.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 9, O. XVII, r. 3, s. 104, O XLIII, r. 1, A.W.N. 1893, 44.

See NOTICE, 18 B. 59.

See SUIT, 14 C.W.N. 558=6 Ind. Cas. 13.

See WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT, 2 Agra 158.

Restraint of legal proceedings.

See CONTRACT—ILLEGAL CONTRACTS.

(1)—Agreements for.— An agreement the object of which is to stifle a prosecution, e.g., to compound an offence which cannot by law be compounded, is against public policy and cannot be recognised in any way by a Court of law. DALSUKHRAM v. DE BRETTON, 6 Bom. L.R. 73=28 B. 326.

Restraint of trade.

See CONTRACT—ILLEGAL CONTRACTS.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 23.

Restraint of trade—concluded.

(1)—Contract Act, s. 27—Contract in restraint of trade—Cancellation of—Cause of action.—C' wife when unmarried entered into a contract with the defendant to superintend the millinery and dress-making part of his business, remaining in his service for three years. When two years of this period had elapsed, a marriage having been arranged between the two plaintiffs, the defendant allowed her to cancel this agreement on her entering into a new one by which she bound herself to refrain from entering into any business as a milliner or dress-maker on her own account or with any person or persons for a period of three years, in the Punjab, and she also agreed to pay a sum of Rs. 10,000 as penalty in the event of breaking this portion of her agreement. Plaintiffs sued to have the contract cancelled. The defendant, admitting that the above contract, so far as it purported to be a general undertaking, on the part of the plaintiff not to trade in the Punjab, in her line of business, was void under the Contract Act, contended that with regard to the defendant having freed her from liability in respect of her agreement to serve him for three years, it was a contract to pay him Rs. 10,000 on the occurrence of a lawful act on the part of C's wife, viz., the setting up of a trade by her as a milliner. He further contended that the present suit would not lie, no cause of action having arisen. Held that under s. 27 of the Contract Act, the contract was void because it was in restraint of trade, as it allowed the plaintiff to set up in trade only on condition of paying Rs. 10,000. Held also that though it was true that the defendant absolved the plaintiff from one year's service according to her covenant, and that he had not been shown to have held out any threats of attempting to enforce this agreement, yet the position of the plaintiff was such that to discover whether, without incurring dangerous liabilities, she could establish a millinery business or attempt to do so, was of the first necessity to her. And where, in such a case as this, an instrument ought not to be used or enforced, it was against conscience for the party holding it to retain it, since he could only retain it for some sinister purpose. Held therefore that a suit would lie for the cancellation of the agreement. COOKE AND WIFE v. RUSSELL, 29 P.R. 1874.

Restraint on alienation.

(1)—Restraint on alienation—Policy of the law.—The policy of law as to restraints on alienation considered with reference to the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. VYANKATRAYA v. SHIVRAMBHAT, 7 B. 256.

(2)—Validity of condition as to—Void and inoperative condition—Sale in execution of decree of such interest.—Held that, where a decree of a Settlement Court was based on a compromise which contained restrictions as to alienation, such conditions were void and inoperative. Held further that, where such a decree stood in favour of the judgment-debtor, his right was transferable and could be attached and sold in execution of decree against him. GAYA DIN SINGH v. SYED MUMTAZ HUSAIN, 10 O.C. 136. (4 O.C. 163, F.)

Restraint on alienation—concluded.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION, 4 B.L.R. O.C. 265, Note.

See HINDU LAW—WILL, 24 C. 406.

Will—Gift of rent and profits—Disposition of corpus—and partition—Construction—See HINDU LAW—WILL, 7 M.L.J. 184.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—GIFT, 6 M.H.C. 356.

Restraint on anticipation.

Decree passed against separate property of married woman—Attachment—Income of property subject to restraint—See ACT III OF 1874, s. 8, 17 M.L.J. 363=2 M.L.T. 322=30 M. 378.

Resulting trust.

See TRUST.

(1)—Resulting trust.—Resulting trust is not a mere expectancy or contingency under s. 266 (k) of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. Resulting trust in favour of a person passes on his insolvency to the Official Assignee and becomes vested in him. ANTAO v. ARDESHIR, 1 Bom. L.R. 303.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 16, 2 C.P.L.R. 45.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 10, 8 C. 788 =11 C.L.R. 370.

Statute of frauds, applicability of, in the case of Parsis, under Will, necessity of taking probate—See PARSIS, 6 B. 363.

Resumption.

See RESUMPTION, RIGHT OF.

Resumption, Bengal Land Revenue.

See BEN. ACT VII OF 1862.

Resumption, Right of.

1.—GENERAL.
2.—EFFECT OF RESUMPTION.
3.—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.
4.—MISCELLANEOUS.

See BEN. REG. XIX OF 1793.

——1.—General.

(1)—Resumption of land by zemindar—Evidence of title—Local inquiry.—In a suit by a zemindar to resume and assess lakheraj land, the plaintiff must give some evidence of his title to the property in dispute before the Court can order any local enquiry. BABOO RAJKISSEN MOOKERJEE v. BABOO JOYKISSEN MOOKERJEE, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 119.

(2)—Resumption by Zemindar—Purchase at subsequent sale in execution by Zemindar--Judgment in previous resumption suit, inadmissible in evidence against auction purchaser.--Plaintiff sued for lands as originally belonging to a lakheraj holding of his ancestor, which had been resumed by the zemindar who, as holder of a decree, caused a sale of the lands as the lakheraj of his debtor, at which sale defendant became the purchaser. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that plaintiff's possession was not proved, but the lower appellate Court gave the plaintiff a decree, finding, upon the strength of a copy of the judgments in the previous resumption suit, that plaintiff's title was proved, and, upon other evidence, that plaintiff's possession was shown. The defendant appealed specially, contending that, as she was an auction-purchaser, and no party to the Zemindar's resumption suit, the judgment in that suit could be no evidence against her, and that the plaintiff had obtained a decree from the lower appellate Court without any evidence of his title at all. Held that the lower appellate Court should have found plaintiff's title proved on legal evidence before a decree was pronounced in his favour. The resumption judgment might be binding as against the decree-holder, who was the same person as the zemindar ; but it could be no evidence of plaintiff's title as against an auction-purchaser, who was no party to the resumption suit. MOHA MOYA DOSSEE v. JOODISHTIR DEB, 10 W.R. 112.

Resumption, Right of—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(3)—Suit for—Plea of service in lieu of land—Burden of proof.—Where, in a suit for resumption of certain lands, the defendants pleaded that the grant was burdened with service, held, the burden of proving such service, or the grant burdened with such service, lay on the defendants, and that the enjoyment of the land for 40 years will not shift the burden of proof. VISUESWARA NISSENKA BAHADUR v. GORLA BUDARADU, 8 M.L.T. 82=7 Ind. Cas. 401. (7 M. 268, 14 M. 365, 26 M. 403, R.)

(4)—Land settled by Government—Resumption—Purchase of such land—Title—Opinion of Revenue Officer.—Where a person purchases an estate settled by Government after resumption, his title thereto must depend upon the resumption-decree, any opinion of the Deputy Collector to the contrary notwithstanding. SHIB RAM DOSS v. SUDANUND SURMAH, 17 W. R. 557.

(5)—Wajib-ul-arz -Recognition of right to resume—Previous grant—Re-grant to muafeedars.—Where it is admitted that the right of the rent-free holder had existed for many years before the date of the wajib ul-arz, the mere recognition of the defendant's right to resume, contained in that document, does not amount to a re-grant to the muafeedars so as to give to the plaintiff a new starting point from which his right to resume should date. DAYUM KHAN v. TUNSOOKH RAI, 2 Agra 189.

(6)—Lakhiraj land not resumable by defendant Talukdar, Competency of zemindar to resume.—In this suit for resumption the defendant pleaded that the lands claimed were within his Shikmee taluq and consequently, the plaintiff had no right to resume them. The High Court found that the defendant derived his tenures from the zemindar represented by the plaintiff and that he paid the rent to the plaintiff. As Shikmeedar, therefore, defendant held rent-paying lands from the plaintiff and paid rent to him. As a dependant taluqdar, however, he was not entitled to resume any lakheraj land within the limits of his dependant tenure; but the fact of his holding such tenure could not deprive the zemindar of his right to resume the land if the defendant who held both as shikmeedar and lakhirajdar failed to make out his title as lakhirajdar. JUGUNNATH GOSSAIN v. MR. J.G.N. POGOSE, 4 W.R. 42.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(7)—Right to resume lakheraj lands—Limitation.—In respect of a suit to resume land and dispossess the lakherajdar, if the time for instituting the suit is run out in the lifetime of the father, the right to sue is lost to the heir. NOBI BUKSH v. MUSSAMUT AMATULLA, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 132.

(8)—Act XI of 1859, ss. 11, 13, 54—Reg. II of 1885, s. 3—Limitation—Lakhiraj—Adverse possession.—Where a grant of a lakhiraj was made subsequently to the 1st December, 1790, the cause of action founded on the proprietor's right to dispossess the grantee under s. 10, Reg. XIX of 1793 arose immediately after the passing of that law, and no suit could be maintained upon it after the 1st May, 1853, (i.e.) 60 years after the date when it first arose. KASHINATH KOOWAR v. BANKUBEHARI CHOWDHRY, 3 B L.R.A.C. 446=12 W.R. 440.

(9)—Reg. XIX of 1793, s. 10—Suit for resumption of lakheraj—Exemption from limitation—Onus on plaintiff to prove creation of lakhiraj subsequent to 1790.—This suit was commenced in December 1861, plaintiff alleging that he was a dur-putnidar, that there was a certain quantity of land, part of his mal lands, held by the defendant under the false pretence that it was lakheraj. The defendant pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation, and the question had to be decided whether or not it was so barred, assuming that the grant was subsequent to the 1st December 1790, and it was held that if the suit was one falling within s. 10, Reg XIX of 1793, such suit for resuming an invalid lakheraj subsequent to 1st December 1790, would be exempt from limitation. In such a case, it is the plaintiff that must prove that the case is one falling within s. 10 of Reg. XIX of 1793 so as to show that it is excluded from the law of limitation by the words "and no length of possessions shall be hereafter considered to give validity to any such grant," etc. Plaintiff must prove his allegation that the land which is held by the defendant and which he claims to be lakheraj, is part of the mal land of the plaintiff. If he prove that fact and show that it was assessed to the public revenue at the time of the decennial settlement, it may be presumed that the right under which the defendant claims to hold as lakheraj commenced subsequently to the 1st December 1790, unless the defendant gives satisfactory evidence to the contrary. The lower Courts were wrong in having held that the onus was upon the defendant and the case was therefore remanded to be tried by the first Court with reference to the above opinion of the High Court. SONATON GHOSE v. MOULLVIE ABDUL TURRUC, 2 W.R. 205 [F., 2 W.R. 303; R., 2 W.R. 302, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 148, 9 W.R. 181, 24 W.R. 447, 25 W.R. 209; D., 4 W.R. 53.]

(10)—Reg. XIX of 1793, s 10—Reg. XLIV of 1793, s. 8—Land granted by zemindar "rent free" for public purpose - Rent—Revenue.—A zemindar by a sunnud in 1850 (after reciting that there was no water in talook A, and that, the river being at a distance, great inconvenience was felt for want of water, in consequence of which desertions took place in the village) granted to B, 22 bigas of land rent-free, stipulating that B should dig a tank on the land, and continue to distribute water. In a suit to annul the grant, on the ground that it was valid under s. 10, Reg. XIX of 1793, held by the majority of the Court (dissentiente Levinge, J.), that grants of land made by zemindars free of rent are void under the provisions of that enactment. But further held by the majority of the Court (dissentientious Trevor, J. and Loch, J.) that the grant in question was valid, the reservation of a right to the use of the water by the tenants of the zemindaree being a benefit of service in the nature of rent reserved to the zemindar; and that the grant was therefore either not one of those intended to be dealt with by s. 10, Reg. XIX of 1793, or was one which the zemindar was empowered to make by Regulation XLIV of 1793. PIZIRUDDIN v. MADHUSUDAN PAL CHOWDHRY, B.L.R Sup. Vol., 75=2 W.R. F.B., 15. [Appl., 25 W.R. 245; Expl., B L.R. Sup. Vol. 774=9 W.R. 1; D., 3 W.R. 177.]

(11)—Religious endowment — Manager — Right of resumption—Invalid lakhiraj land.—The manager of a religious endowment appointed simply to look after the service of an idol and to expend certain allowances derived from the rents of certain villages upon it has no power or authority to sue for resumption of invalid lakhiraj land. NOBIN CHUNDER ROY CHOWDHRY v. PEAREE KHANUM, 3 W.R. 143.

(12)—Resumption of lakheraj land—Taluqdars.—Taluqdars have no legal right to sue for resumption of areas containing more than 100 bighas of land. GOPAL CHUNDER ROY v. OODHUB CHUNDER MULLICK, W.R. 1864, 156.

(13)—Lakheraj lands, extent of right of Government to resume, as agent for zemindar—Burden of proving land being mal when so claimed.—Plaintiff, a lakherajdar, sued for the reversal of an order of resumption passed by the Board of Revenue. It appeared that the Revenue Authorities had renounced any right of Government to resume as the paramount power, and were only acting as private agents of the zemindar, and could thus do no more than the zemindar, i.e., claim to resume lands under, but not above, 100 beeghas, in extent, whereas the area in suit was admittedly more than 100 beeghas. The defendant, the zemindar, contended on appeal that the lower Court had thrown the burden of proof on him wrongly. But the High Court was of opinion that the burden was rightly put by the lower Court on the defendant. Plaintiff sued for declaration of right to certain land as rent-free. He filed a sunnad of a date before the Company's accession, which was admitted by defendant. He was found to have possession of the area, 5,032 beeghas, for declaration of title to which he sued, and this was not disproved. The defendant's plea was that the sunnad, though good for 310 beeghas, was good for no more, and that the rest of the land belonged to his zemindaree; and this it was clearly for the defendant to prove. RAM LOCHUN SIRKAR v. DEENONATH PAUL, 2 W. R. 279.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(14)—Resumption of lakheraj-lands, suit for —Onus of proof.—In a suit for resumption of lakheraj lands, although the documents on which the defendant bases his title may be found to be forgeries, it is for the plaintiff (if he is not estopped by the terms of his patta from resuming the lakheraj) to show that the lands held by the defendant are rent-paying lands, and that, if the defendant holds them as lakheraj, he does so on a grant of date subsequent to his patta. KEDARNATH MOOKERJEE v. UNODA DEBIA, 1 W.R. 25.

(15)—Resumption of lakheraj lands.—When land in extent beyond 100 beeghas is admittedly held by a lakherajdar, the presumption is that it is held under one grant, and that it is resumable by Government, and not by the Zemindar. In order, therefore, to rebut the presumption, it is necessary for a zemindar suing to resume under these circumstances to show that the land, though beyond 100 beeghas in extent, is held under different sunnads. RAJAH JOGENDRONARAIN ROY v. HURRY DOSS ROY, W.R. 1864, 145.

(16) —Lakheraj land — Rights of zemindar— Resumption and assessment.—A zemindar is not entitled to the resumption and assessment of invalid lakheraj lands of more than 100 beeghas and covered by one sunnad, when the power to resume is one vested in the zemindar by law. BEER CHUNDER JOOBRAJ v. UMAKANT SEIN BAHADOOR, W.R. 1864, 232.

(17)— Resumption of lakheraj lands by zemindar—S. 30, Reg. II, 1819.—A zemindar's right to resume lands in excess of 100 beeghas (as invalid lakheraj under s. 30, Reg. II, 1819) can be declared to be barred only when it is shown that the lands are held under a sunnad in excess of 100 beeghas, or under different sunnads, each in excess of 100 beeghas. MAHOMED MUNSOOR v. UMBICA CHURN ROY, W.R. 1864, 132.

(18)—Resumption of lakheraj land—Under Reg. XIX of 1793.—Under Reg. XIX of 1793, a zemindar can sue for resuming invalid lakheraj lands exceeding 100 beeghas held under several sunnads, if any one of them singly is not for more than 100 beeghas. MRS BARBARA AMEENA JOHN ELIAS v. MOONSHEE MAHOMED PEEZEER, W.R. 1864, 2.7.

(19)—Suit for resumption—Question of validity or invalidity of lakheraj—Quantity of land not subject of decision.—Plaintiff, a zemindar, having obtained a decree for resumption of certain lands against the defendant, a lakherajdar, now sued for a kabuleut for the rent of those lands. The defendant's answer was that the extent of the lands had been wrongly stated by the plaintiff; that she held less land than that for which the plaintiff demanded rent. The lower Court refused to enquire into the plea of the defendant, because, in the resumption suit, she had raised no objection relating to the quantity of land in her possession. Held on second appeal, that the lower Courts were clearly in error. They should have tried the issue as to what quantity of lands defendant held, and given a decree for the plaintiff to that extent of lands only. MURRIAM BEBEE v. BEER CHUNDER JOOBORAJ GOSSAMEE, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 35.

(20)—Suit for resumption Evidence of possession during period only few years short of 1790—Presumption in favour of lakheraj holding prior to such period.—Where the defendant, in a suit for resumption, gives evidence of possession for a period only few years short of 1790, it is competent to the Court to infer from collateral facts and other evidence a possession prior to that period. Since such presumption when well-founded constitute good evidence, the lower Court was right in having taken it that the defendant had proved that he had held the lands as lakheraj from a period prior to 1790, so that the plaintiff's suit was clearly barred, as he was not an auction purchaser within twelve years from the date of suit. HEERA MONEE DEBEA v. LOKENATH MUNDUL, 2 W.R. 135. [Appr., 5 W.R. 191.]

(21)—Reg. II of 1819, s 30—Act X of 1859, s. 28—Lakheraj—Resumption — Revenue and Civil Courts—Jurisdiction —The plaintiff, the purchaser of a putnee lease, sought to obtain a declaration of his mal right by setting aside an alleged rent-free tenure in certain lands held rent-free from the time of a former talookdar, alleging that he had called for the defendant's documents; and, as the defendants refused to produce them, the plaintiff instituted in this suit before the Collector under Reg. II of 1819. The defendant pleaded a lakheraj title from before 1790. The suit was referred to the Civil Court under Bengal Act VII of 1862, and the plaintiff obtained a decree. On appeal by the defendant.—Held that, prior to the passing of Reg. II of 1819, under their ordinary jurisdiction, the Civil Courts were competent to entertain regular suits by zemindars for declaration of their right to resume revenue illegally alienated subsequently to 1790, and for possession of the land rent-free under grants of titles which had their origin subsequently to 1790. Held by Trevor. J., Seton-Karr, J., and Glover, J., that such suits were unaffected by the passing of Reg. II of 1819, s. 30, which related only to resumption of lakheraj existing prior to 1790 Norman, C. J., Phear, J., and Jackson, J., dissenting, held that, since the passing of Reg. II of 1819, regular suits for the resumption of all tenures held rent-free, in which the defendant alleged a valid rent-free grant, have been instituted and down to the passing of Bengal Act VII of 1862, might have been maintained or referred to the Collector under s. 30 of that Regulation. Held by a majority of the Court, (dissentientibus Trevor, J., Seton-Karr, J., and Glover, J.) that the jur isdiction of the Civil Court to try this cause was not affected by s. 28 of Act X of 1859. SONATON GHOSE v MOULVI ABDUL FARAR, B.L R. Sup. Vol. 109=2 W.R. 91. [F., 2 W. R. 258, 7 W.R 470; Appr., 8 B.L.R. 566, P.C.=14 M.I.A. 152=20 W.R 459: Appl., 16 W.R 173; R., B L.R. Sup. Vol. 162, 4 W. R. 53, B.L R. Sup.Vol. 774=9 W R. 1, F.B., 8 B.L.R App. 85, Note=15 W.R. 474, 8 B L. R. App. 87, Note=15 W.R. 440, 21 W.R. 447, 8 C. 230, 16 C. 449; D., 34 C. 223=5 C.L J. 192.]

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(22)—Release of small extent of land by Government to benefit cultivator, no bar to resumption by proprietor as invalid lakheraj —The mere fact of Government releasing land under 50 beeghas in extent, as a boon to the cultivator, is not per se a bar against the zemindar seeking to resume it as invalid lakheraj. MRS. B. O. ELIAS v. BROHMO MOYEE BURMONEE, 2 W.R. 42.

(23)—Suit among lakherajdars—Right of resumption.—One lakherajdar cannot maintain a suit for resumption against another and force the defendant to prove his title. KAEM KHAN v. MUSSAMUT BIBEE SAHEBAJAN, 7 W.R. 362.

(24)—Act X of 1862, sch. B, s. 11, cl. (d)—Lakheraj-lands—Suit for resumption—Stamp—"Revenue" meaning of—Rent to Zamindar.—A suit for the resumption of lands claimed to be held as lakheraj falls under cl. (d) of s. 11 of sch. B of Act X of 1862, under which clause the suit should be valued at eighteen times the aggregate annual rents payable by the ryots. The word "revenue" in cl. (d), s. 11, sch. B, Act X of 1862, must be read as meaning revenue or rent to Government, or to a zemindar, or to any other person. GOPEE MOHUN MOJOOMDAR v. J. B. MACKINTOSH, 9 W.R. 395.

(25)—Reg. I of 1793 s. 8, cl. 4—Ghatwalle lands whether liable to resumption.—The question for decision in this case was touching the validity of a claim made by the East India

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Company to resume, for the purposes of Revenue assessment, certain beeghas of land forming part of the zemindary of the Rajah of Khurruckpore. The lands sought to be resumed were of ghatwalee tenure, and the main question therefore was, whether lands of that description were liable to be resumed as under Reg. I of 1793, s. 8, cl. 4, relating to thannah or police establishments. Special commissioners appointed for the purpose passed a final judgment in favour of Government, resting their decision on the grounds that the lands were in reality lands granted for the police establishments and were to be considered and treated as provided for in cl. 4, s. 8, Reg. I of 1793. From the above decision the present appeal was brought to the Privy Council, and their Lordships advised that the decision complained of ought to be reversed. The lands in question were not lands properly coming under cl. 4, s. 8 of Regulation I of 1793; they were a part of the zemindary of Khurruckpore and were included in the settlement for that zemindary and covered by the jumma assessed upon it. With respect to the costs of the proceedings, their Lordships directed that the respondents should be ordered to re-pay to the appellant all the costs that they had received from him under orders of Judges below, and should also be ordered to pay to him all his own costs of the proceedings including those of the appeal to the Privy Council. The claim of the Government had been wrongly persisted in by them after the several decisions against them by their own officers acting as Judges; further, the decree in their favour had been finally obtained upon grounds different from those on which it was originally sought, and the appellant had been exposed to a long and most expensive litigation. RAJA LELANUND SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL, 4 W.R. P.C 77=6 M.I A. 101. [F., 9 C 187=9 I.A. 104; R., 6 W.R. 199, 13 B L.R. 124, 20 W.R. 154, 3 C. 251, 8 C. 620=11 C.L.R. 285, 10 C. 677, 9 B. 198, 5 Bom. L.R. 983, 12 C. W.N. 178, 34 C. 753=5 C.L J. 583=12 C.W. N. 193.]

(26)—Resumption by Government of a jaidad tenure—Suit by representatives of grantee—Jurisdiction of Municipal Courts—Arms and ammunition, claim to.—Maharajah Scindia granted a Jaghire to a Begum S on a Jaidad tenure, i.e., a grant of a certain district and the revenues thereof, on condition of the grantee keeping up a military force to be employed in the service of Scindia, whenever called upon. The whole administration of the Jaghire including the exercise of Civil and Criminal jurisdiction therein vested in the grantee, who exercised a sort of delegated Sovereign authority. On Scindia's authority being ceded to the East India Company, the grantee of the Jaidad tenure entered into a treaty with the Company, under which she was to hold the tenure under the Company during her life-time. As long as she was alive, British law and jurisdiction were excluded from her dominions. After her death, the Regulation Law was introduced therein by order of the Governor-General, under Act XVII of 1836. Since the death of the Begum, the Government, acting in the Political Department resumed the Jaghire and seized the arms and ammunition of the Begum. The representatives in interest of the Begum claimed in this suit the Jaghire and to hold the same free from the payment of any revenue to Government. They also claimed, in another suit, the arms and ammunition seized by the Government. The defence was that the suits were not maintainable in the Civil Courts on the ground that the resumption and seizure were acts of state. Held, the resumption was not an act of state, because it was not the seizure by arbitrary power, of territories, which up to that time, had belonged to another Sovereign State. On the contrary it was the resumption of lands previously held under the Government under a particular tenure, upon the alleged determination of that tenure; the possession being taken under colour of a legal title, which was a title in the Sovereign Power, to resume and retain, or to assess to the public revenue all lands previously held rent free. If by continuance of the tenure or other causes a right be claimed in derogation of this title of the Government, that claim, like any other arising between the Government and its subjects, would prima facie be cognizable by the Municipal Courts of India. (1 M.I.A. 476, D) Held, upon the evidence, that the plaintiffs failed to establish their title to claim the lands in this suit. It appearing in evidence that the Begum had purchased the arms and ammunition and there appearing nothing to disprove her title thereto, a decree was given in favour of the plaintiffs for the value thereof with interest. FORESTER v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE, 12 B.L.R. 120, P.C. =18 W.R. 349=I.A. Sup. Vol. 10=3 Sar. 1 =1 P.R. 1872. [R., 6 Bom. L.R. 131; D., 12 B.L.R. 167, P.C.=18 W.R. 389.]

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(27)—Mokurruree tenure—Death of grantee—Resumption.—There is nothing in the nature of a mokurruri tenure granted in perpetuity which renders it capable of resumption, if there be no known heir of the last holder. MIRZA HIMMUT BAHADOOR v. BANEE SOONEET KOOER, 15 W.R. 549.

(28)—Resumption of Numuk Sayer Mehals. —Resumption, by Government, of Numuk Sayer Mehals (Saltpetre duty estates) upheld; the sunnuds of the Subadar of Bahar, the ruling power previous to the Company's accession to the Dewanny, purporting to grant this Government revenue as mocurrary istimrary at a permanent fixed rent, being declared forgeries. Quære.—Whether the Numuk Sayer mehals, being a Sayer right, was not wholly abolished by Ben. Reg. XXVII of 1793, and the Bengal Government, in their Sovereign character, had not an absolute right to resume? GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL v. NAWAB JAFUR HOSSEIN, 5 M.I.A. 467=1 Sar. 472.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(29)—Jaghir — Resumption — Alienation by grantee.—A Zamindar cannot seek to resume a jaghir on the ground of its alienation by the grantee so long as there are heirs male of the grantee in existence. The transfer by the Jagirdar did not interfere with the exercise of the Zemindar's right of resumption when there would be no heirs male of the grantee in existence. He would be entitled to recover possession notwithstanding this alienation if at some future time it should so happen that there were no heirs male of the original grantee. RAJA RAMESWAR NATH SINGH v. HARALAL SINGH, 1 B.L.R.A.C. 170. [R., 1 C.L.J. 557.]

(30)—Khamar lands—Claim to possession of lands as khamar lands, dismissal of—Action for resumption—Necessity of proof of alleged grant with its time and terms.—The prayer in this plaint was to declare that the village in question was a portion of the mal lands of the plaintiff's zemindaree; and that the lakhiraj title set up by the defendant may be set aside and possession awarded to the plaintiff. The lower Court dismissed the case of the plaintiff on the ground that he had failed to establish that he or his ancestors ever held possession of the village for the last 60 years from the year 1803, when the claim of his ancestors to obtain certain rents of the village brought against the husband of the defendant was dismissed for want of proof. The plaintiff was bound to prove that the village had been given for maintenance of the husband of the defendant as alleged by him and was such as he had a right to resume after his death. Plaintiff was not authorised to ask for the resumption of any maintenance grant whatsoever, without showing its nature and conditions and the relationship of the party to whom it may be said to have been originally granted. MAHARAJAH NEELMONEY SINGH DEO BAHADOOR v. RAJCOOMAREE THAKORANEE, 2 W.R. 171.

(31)—Purchase of Nuzzool land from Government—No condition as to resumption—Resumption by Government whether legal.—Appellant purchased from Government a piece of Nuzzool land to erect shops on it, but did so only on a part, leaving the other part vacant, with a trench on it. This portion was resumed by Government and sold on the ground that the trench was likely to become a nuisance. Appellant thereupon sued for the recovery of the sale proceeds from Government. Held, that he was entitled to recover, there being no stipulation entitling Government to resume in certain events, and no proof of abandonment by appellant to entitle them to do so. PIAR SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT, 6 P.R. 1868.

(32)—Resumption by istemrardar in Ajmere of sub-taluk — Custom not established.—An alleged custom, entitling a Patwi Rajput Chief an istemrardar of an ancient and impartible taluk in Ajmere, to resume a sub-taluk, which was granted generations back, on the ground of the last holder having died issueless and without adopting, was held not established. RAO BAHADUR SINGH v. JOWAHER KUAR, 10 C. 887, P.C. = 11 I.A. 75 = 4 Sar. 540.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(33) - Grants for tanks—Validity—Resumption—Grant of road—Public purpose—Assessment.- Grants for tanks are invalid and are resumable by the zemindar. Rent cannot be assessed on land granted for a road which is used annually for the Ruth Jattra (which is a public purpose). HURREENARAIN GOSSAIN v. SHUMBOONATH MUNDUL, 1 W.R. 6.

(34)—Claim of Government to julkur of a navigable river not forming portion of settled estate—Reg. II of 1819—Resumption.—Reg. II of 1819 is not the Regulation under which Government must proceed when claiming julkurs of navigable rivers not forming portions of settled estates. All such cases are cognizable only in the ordinary Court and the Government must go into the Court as an ordinary litigant; first, because of the total absence of the words "julkurs" in any of the Resumption Regulations, either before or after Regulation II of 1819; and secondly, by reason of the difference in the nature of the claims between one to take possession of julkurs and one to resume lands. THE COLLECTOR OF MALDAH v. SYUD SUDUROODEEN, 1 W.R. 116. [R., 2 B. 19.]

(35)—Suit for resumption—Plaint—Amendment—Refusal—Subsequent application to amend—Remand.—A suit was brought under s. 30 of Reg. II of 1819 to resume certain lands held rent-free, on the allegation that they were part and parcel of the plaintiff's permanently settled estate illegally alienated and held by the defendant as lakhiraj since the Permanent Settlement. The plaintiff was offered by the Court time and opportunity to amend his plaint and supplement his evidence. He refused to do the latter supposing that he had sufficient evidence to sustain his case, and elected to go to trial on the record as it stood. The Court found that the plaintiff failed to give any proof that the lands in dispute were at any time part of his permanently settled estate. Now, he wanted to have the case remanded in order to produce further evidence. Held, that this is mere trifling with the Court and cannot be permitted and that the appeal should not be remanded. NOBBO LALL KHAN v. MAHARANEE ODHEERANEE NARAINEE KOOMAREE, 3 W.R. 5.

See ACT XXIII OF 1871, 2 B. 346.

Grant of permanent gunti-tenure—By Government and temporary settlement with heirs of former proprietor—Effect on right of lessee under grant—Parties — See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1879, s. 10, 30 C. 811, P.C. = 7 C.W.N. 601.

Settlement officer not entitled to resume and assess lands held as lakhiraj—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, 20 C. 577.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

See PUN. ACT XXVII OF 1868, s. 5 (4), 7 P.R. 1887.

Grove land—See U. P. ACT XVII OF 1876, 2 O.C. 73.

Grant by way of endowment to religious institution liable to—See U. P. ACT XVII OF 1876, ss. 52, 53, 2 O.C. 295.

Grant, resumption of—Grant held rent-free under judicial decision—See U. P. ACT XVII OF 1876, ss. 52, 53 and 55, cl. (a), 4 O.C. 252.

See U. P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 30, 95 (c), 7 A. 191 = A.W.N. 1884, 331.

Grant by Government to compensate for—Of rent-free land—Pension—Liability to attachment—See ATTACHMENT — SUBJECTS OF ATTACHMENT, 8 C.W.N. 665.

Of lakhiraj land—See BURDEN OF PROOF—LANDLORD AND TENANT, 8 C. 230 = 10 C. L.R. 41.

See BURDEN OF PROOF—LANDLORD AND TENANT, W.R. 1864, 8, 9 W.R. 454.

Resumption of land, in cantonment—See CANTONMENT, 7 Bom. L.R. 735 = 30 B. 137.

Effect of—Chowkidari Chakran lands—See CHOWKIDARI CHAKRAN LANDS, 9 C.W.N 571 = 1 C.L.J. 303.

Lands held under amaram tenure—Stoppage of performance of military service—Reasonable notice necessary before resumption of lands—See EJECTMENT, SUIT FOR, 23 M. 262.

Title—Resumption chittas, evidentiary value of—See EVIDENCE—MISCELLANEOUS, 14 C. 120.

See GHATWALI TENURE, 5 W.R. 292.

See GRANT—GRANTS FOR MAINTENANCE, 22 W.R. 225.

See IMPARTIBLE ZEMINDARI, 5 C. 113 = 4 C.L.R. 181, on appeal 8 C. 199 = 8 I.A. 248, P.C.

Resumption of inam—See INAM, 6 Bom. L. R. 364 = 28 B. 305.

See INAMDAR, 1 B.H.C. 22.

See JAGHIR, 2 P.R. 1892, Rev.

See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS, 6 O.C. 383.

Service tenure, Suit for—of—Landlord and tenant—Res judicata—Dispensing with service—Enhancement of rent—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—TENANT'S LIABILITY FOR RENT, 14 M. 365.

Landlord and tenant—Village in zamindari entered as Jaghir in accounts of permanent settlement—Zamindar, if entitled to resume—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—MISCELLANEOUS, 1 M.H.C. 355.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——1.—General—concluded.

Grant of lands for service of private nature—Resumption of lands after discontinuance of service—Notice to quit in respect of certain lands—Sufficiency in respect of other lands—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—MISCELLANEOUS, 13 M.L.J. 209.

Maintenance—Grant of lease—Limitation—Resumption of grant—See MAINTENANCE, 3 C. 793.

See MAINTENANCE, 5 C. 113=4 C.L.R. 181, on appeal, 8 C. 199=8 I.A. 248, P.C.

Of maintenance grant—See MAINTENANCE GRANT, 3 C.L.J. 521.

By Government of portion of lands mortgaged, and subsequent sale to mortgagor—Equity—Waiver—See MORTGAGE—SALE OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY, 5 C.L.R. 227.

Circumstances telling against right of permanent occupancy—See PERMANENT TENURE, 8 M.L.T. 258=7 Ind. Cas. 202.

See POSSESSION—SUITS FOR POSSESSION, 11 W.R. 227, P.C.

Suit for possession by adjudication of right to settle—Of land by Government—Jurisdiction—Right of suit—See POSSESSION—SUITS FOR POSSESSION, 13 B.L.R. 118, F.B.=21 W.R. 327.

Suit for unlawful—Suit for damages for unlawful resumption by Government—See RIGHT OF SUIT—MISCELLANEOUS, 1 Ind. Jur. O.S. 48.

Mokhassa tenure—Right of mokhassadars to hold land irrespective of performance of services—Right of zamindar to dispense with services and resume land—Burden of proof in suit for ejectment—See SERVICE INAM, 26 M. 403.

See SERVICE TENURE, 70 P.R. 1868.

See SERVICE TENURE, 5 B.L.R. 529, P.C. =14 W.R.P.C. 28=13 M.I.A. 438.

Of estate by Government—Political tenure—Mixed estate of saranjam and inam—See SERVICE TENURE, 17 B. 431, P.C.=20 I.A. 50.

Resumption of land—Notice—See SERVICE TENURE, 8 M. 72.

See WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 18.

——2.—Effect of Resumption.

(1)—Landlord and tenant — Resumption—Right to settlement — Transfer— Consent of Zamindar.—M and his four brothers held a tenure (alleged to be lakhiraj of ten bighas of land. The zamindar brought a suit for resumption of this land as part of his mal estate, and succeeded in getting three bighas declared liable to pay rent. After this decree was obtained, M and his brother sold the whole tenure of 10 bighas as lakhiraj to the plaintiff and then took a lease of the land as ryots from the purchaser.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——2.—Effect of Resumption—concluded.

Subsequently, the zamindar took execution of the decree he had obtained for costs in the resumption case, and in execution attached and sold M and his brothers' rights and interests in the three bighas of land which had been declared to be mal. These rights were bought by R and P. After this, the plaintiff sued M and his heirs for rents. The defendants objected that part of the land, viz., the 3 bighas, had been taken out of their possession by R and P, and they prayed the Court to make these parties defendants. This was done, as the plaintiff admitted their possession. R and P denied plaintiff's right to any rent from them, that there was no relation of landlord and tenant between them, nor had they ever agreed to pay him rent, and that they paid rent to the zamindar, held that the utmost right that M. and his brothers had in these 3 bighas after the resumption suit was the right to settlement, and that this was a personal right which could not have been transferred to a third party except with the consent of the zamindar, and that, as no relation of landlord and tenant existed between the parties, the execution purchasers ought not to have been made defendants, and that they could not in this suit be made liable to pay rent to the plaintiff. MOHESH CHUNDER BHUTTACHARJEE v. ROMANATH DUTT, 20 W.R. 7.

(2)—Resumption decree, conclusive nature of—Administrative order of Settlement Officer, open to jurisdiction of Civil Court.—According to the rulings of the Sudder Court, a decree for resumption is final and conclusive in respect to a resumed mehal, so that a Civil Court shall not declare that to be free from assessment which a Resumption Court declares liable to assessment. The above law, however, is confined entirely to what is decreed in the actual decree by the Resumption Courts, and does not extend to what is subsequently administratively done by a Settlement Officer. The proper distinction is that the decree of the Resumption Court as to the liability of the resumed mehal to be assessed with a Government demand is final. But the subsequent dealing by the Settlement Officer, with alleged proprietary right and claims to land, not being land mentioned in the resumption decree, is not final, but open to the jurisdiction of the Civil Court. MAHOMED GAZEE CHOWDHRY v. LAUL BEBEE, 10 W.R. 103. [F., 22 W.R. 48.]

See ALLUVION—LAND INUNDATED AND REFORMED, W.R. 1864, 273.

Resumption of inam—Relation between inamdar and tenants not affected—Right of inamdar to eject tenants—See INAMDAR, 9 B. 419.

See SALE—SALE FOR ARREARS OF REVENUE AND CESS—PURCHASERS, RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF, 5 W.R. 191.

Resumption, Right of—continued.

——3.—Practice and Procedure.

(1)—Reg. XIX of 1793, s. 9—Resumption-decree—Suit for rent—Right of suit—Reg. II of 1819.—A person who has obtained a decree in a resumption suit has no locus standi, as holding lands, to bring suits for rent until he takes steps under the provisions of s. 9, Reg. XIX of 1793, to have the revenue fixed by the Collector, and the defendant consents to pay the revenue required of him. The rule which should be followed in determining in what manner and under what regulation the assessment of resumed lakhiraj estates should be conducted is first to ascertain whether the existence of the lakhiraj prior to 1790 has been decided by the decree for resumption between the parties or not. It cannot be presumed that every case instituted under s. 30, Reg. II of 1819 dealt with an estate which was held lakhiraj prior to 1790. The assessment must be conducted under s. 9, Reg. XIX of 1793. If the question has not been decided by the resumption decree, it is still an open question, and must be decided before the assessment is commenced. POGOSE v. SYUD EKRAM HOSSEIN, 15 W.R. 483. [Appr., 24 W.R. 447.]

(2)—Decision in resumption proceedings—Effect.—The fact of a revenue officer, in resumption proceedings, having released lands on the ground that they formed portions of a parent estate which had been assessed under the decennial settlement is no proof that such lands were at any time regarded as rent free. SHEIKH TOUJOH HOSSEIN v. JUDOO SINGH, 25 W.R. 505.

(3)—Resumption suit — Ex parte decree—Service of summons — Decree, effect of, on defendant not served.—Where, in a resumption suit, summons was issued after the death of one of the defendants and his representatives were not made parties, and an ex-parte decree was passed, held that the decree was infructuous as against such defendant, even through the summons was affixed to the gate of his house. Held also that the decree was not binding on any defendant who was not served with summons. MOHESH CHUNDER SEIN GUPTA v. DHUN MONEE DOSSEE, 17 W.R. 357.

(4)—Reg. II of 1819, s. 15—Notice—Failure of party to appear before resumption officer.—Where the resumption-officer, as directed by s.15, Reg. II of 1819, supplied the plaintiff with a copy of his reasons for considering the lands in question liable to resumption, and subsequently, in the absence of the plaintiff, who failed to appear either in person, or by agent, declared the lands liable to assessment, held that, as the plaintiff was not present, it was not possible for the officer to give him the warning mentioned in s. 16, and the omission to give the warning, under such circumstances would not render the proceedings illegal. BURODA KANT ROY v. THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE SOONDERBUNS, 13 W.R. 180.

(5)—Presumption of invalid lakhiraj, suit by Government for, under Reg. II of 1819—Intervention of zemindar.—In this suit for presumption of invalid lakheraj brought by the Government, under Reg. II of 1819, the zemindar, apprehending that his interest might be affected by the decision of the Collector declaring the lakhiraj lands to be more extensive than they really were, intervened by petition. It was held that, in any view of the case, he had an interest which justified him in so doing; for, even assuming it to be true that the Collector's report as to the extent of the land subject to revenue, was not binding on the zemindar, and that he had a remedy against such a proceeding in another Court, still he had clearly an interest in averting an erroneous decree being made to his prejudice, the creation of prima facie evidence prejudicial to himself, and the necessity of resorting to the Civil Courts to remedy an evil already inflicted. MOHARAJAH MOHESHUR SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, 3 W R.P.C. 45=7 M.I.A. 283=1 Suther. 325=1 Sar. 645.

(6)—Lakhiraj held before 1790—Resumption—Limitation.—When a lakhiraj tenure is alleged to have been held before 1790, the validity of the grant is not open to consideration, but only the existence of the tenure before 1790. SAGORE MONEE DOSSEE v. BIPRO DOSS DEY, 1 W.R. 249.

(7)—Possession under genuine deeds—Assessment—Resumption.—Possession by the tenant under apparently genuine deeds would entitle him to resist assessment by the zemindar, unless the zemindar is in a position to show that the tenant has paid him rent. Otherwise, the zemindar must bring a regular suit to resume the lands. MATUNGINEE DEBEA v. MAHOMED alias BOOREE MEAH, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 29.

(8)—Jurisdiction—Mal estate—Suit for declaration—Decree of Resumption Court.—A suit will not lie to have certain lands declared as part of the plaintiff's mal of a formerly settled mal estate, which land has been declared by a resumption Court to be liable to assessment as a resumed rent-free tenure held on invalid title, and brought after such resumption on the rent-roll as an estate totally separate from plaintiff's. BISHONATH DUTT v. FOOL CHAND BIRJOBASHEE, 5 W.R. 22. [Appl., 22 W.R. 48; D., 10 W.R. 103.]

(9)—Resumption—Finality of decree of Resumption Court—Necessity for notice to parties not in possession—Decision of Resumption Court—Jurisdiction.—A decree of a Resumption Court as to the liability of a resumed mehal to be assessed with the Government demand is final. A person not in possession need not be given notice of resumption proceedings or be made a party thereto. A Civil Court has no jurisdiction to interfere with a decision of a Resumption Court as to the proprietary rights and claims to land mentioned in proceedings before it. RAMCHUNDER SHAHA v. THE COLLECTOR OF MYMENSINGH AND PUBNA, 22 W.R. 48.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

——3.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(10)—Resumption of parent estate—Rights of howaldar within estate. — The Resumption of a parent estate does not nullify a howaladar's existing rights, or deprive him of the benefit of the presumption under s. 16, Act X, 1859. MOOTHOORANATH GUNGOPADHYA v. SHEETA MONEE, 9 W.R. 354.

(11)—Etmamee tenure — Subsequent settlement, effect of.—No subsequent settlement of a mehal in which an under-tenure (etmamee) was created before and was in existence at the time of the Decennial Settlement, could invalidate that tenure under the Revenue Law. Any resumption of lakhiraj lands has simply the effect of declaring that such lands are liable to be assessed to the revenue of the State, but it does not go the length of destroying any sub-tenure existing in it before resumption. ABDOOL ALI v. RAM GUTTY, 12 W.R. 128.

(12)—Maafee land—Resumption—Assessment —Ex-maafeedars in possession— Right to profits.—Where a maafee land after resumption has been assessed and left in the possession of the ex-maafeedars, they and not the lumberdars of the village would be the persons entitled to make the collections of profits, in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary. DAL CHUND v. MUSST. SEETA KOONWER, 2 Agra 152.

(13)—Lessees of Turruf and Nowabad lands, rights of, not affected by presumption and settlement by Government.—In this suit for a kabuleut brought by the plaintiff, a purchaser of a Nowabad talook sold for arrears of rent, it was held that, if the defendants had continued to pay rent to the parties from whom they got their lease so long as they continued to hold both the turruff and the Nowabad lands, the mere fact that Government resumed and separately settled the Nowabad lands with the Turrufdars, will not injure the rights of the defendants, the ryots, nor affect the presumption arising from the payment of a uniform rate of rent for 20 years. All that the plaintiff, the purchaser could claim would only be that the defendants should give them kabuleuts for their proportion of the rent assigned on the Nowabad lands which they had hitherto paid to the Turrufdars. HURO DOSS RAHA v. TRAHEERAM PAUL, 6 W.R. Act X. Rul. 15.

(14)—Act XI of 1859, s. 37 — Sale for arrears of revenue—Rights of purchaser—Incumbrances — Resumption decree—Lakhirajdars—Dispossession—Permanent settlement—Cause of action—Revenue sale—Ownership.—A purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue claiming under paramount title under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859, acquires the estate free from any incumbrance which had accrued upon the estate from the laches of the former proprietors exactly in the same way as he would have acquired the estate free from any incumbrance created by a sale, lease, or mortgage by the former owner. [Appr., 22 C. 244; Rel. on, 3 C.W.N. 13; R., 14 A.L.J. 136.] The effect of a decree in a resumption suit is not to destroy the proprietary right of the lakhirajdars. That proprietary right would continue unless and until they should be dispossessed in due course of law. The former proprietors obtaining a permanent settlement stand in a very different position from a person acquiring a new right by the settlement. A cause of action—a right of suit to recover possession—accrued to the former proprietors by their ouster before the date of the settlement. No new wrong is done to them, and no new right accrued to them in consequence of their obtaining a permanent settlement. In the absence of any proof to the contrary, the purchaser at a revenue sale must be assumed to be the owner. THAKOOR DASS ROY CHOWDHRY v. NUBEEN KISHEN GHOSE, 15 W.R. 552.

(15)—Resumption of lands and fresh settlement by Government, whether can conclusively prove absence of charitable trust.—It was contended for the defendant in this case that, inasmuch as Government resumed the property in 1838 and 1841, and made a fresh settlement with the plaintiff, no allusion being made in the settlement to the existence of any endowment, this showed that no endowment did, in fact, exist at the time, and that, by reason of the settlement with him, he had got the title to the land absolutely free from all trust. The High Court was, however, of opinion that the fact of the estate being declared not to be lakhiraj, i.e., the resumption proceedings did not relate to any question of trust as regards the plaintiff and the endowment of which he was the shebait. The lands were held on a trust prior to the resumption proceedings and there was nothing to show that they were not liable to that trust. The only question decided by the Government officer in resuming the land was that those who claimed the land as lakhiraj had not been able to prove that the land was held under any such religious or charitable trust as would debar Government from resuming it. RAJAH LEELANUND SINGH BAHADOOR v. ISHURE NUNDUN DUTT JHA, 8 W.R. 316.

(16)—Purchase of land from rent-free holder —Liability to pay rent or revenue—Ryot—Resumption by Government.—The plaintiff's ancestor had purchased certain land from parties who were at the time rent-free holders of the mouzah in which the land was situated. Those partieson the resumption of the maafee tenure were admitted by the Government to a proprietary settlement of the mouzah. The sale made by them to the plaintiff's ancestor being therefore neither invalid nor illegal, held that the resumption of the maafee tenure of the mouzah by the Government, did not and could not affect the proprietary right which the plaintiff's ancestor had previously acquired by purchase in the land which had not been assessed with revenue by the Government. This being so, the plaintiff was not liable to be called upon to pay either rent or revenue, and could not be regarded as a mere ryot, and the zemindar of the mouzah could have no right to treat him as such. SHEIKH AHMED v. GUNAISH PERSHAD, 2 Agra 9.

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

—3.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(17)—Resumption of land and new settlement —Payment of rent by tenant—Rate.—In respect of lands resumed and newly assessed, the tenant must pay rent at the rate at which it had been assessed by the Settlement Officer. And in such a case, the tenant has no right to a notice under Act X of 1859. WOOMANATH ROY CHOWDHRY v. DEBNATH ROY CHOWDHRY, 14 W.R. 471. [Commented on, 16 W.R. 153.]

(18)—Mortgage—Lakhiraj land usufructuarily mortgaged—Resumption.—On the resumption by Government of property granted in Zurepeshghee lease, if the mortgagee does not either call in his money or make a fresh payment, the presumption arises that he assented to receive the profits minus the Government revenue as security. JOY PROKASH NARAIN v. RADHA KISHEN, W.R. 1864, 227.

(19)—Lakhiraj—Resumption by Government —Under-tenant — His right not destroyed.—When a lakhirajdar has entered into a contract with a tenant, whether for a term or in perpetuity, both parties are, in strict law, bound to the conditions of the contract. Therefore, the mere resumption of the lakhirajdar's tenure by Government, that is, the mere fact that that tenure has been rendered liable for the payment of revenue, cannot of itself, as a matter of law, dissolve the contract entered into by the two parties. The under-tenant may determine the tenancy if he thinks fit or he has a right to be maintained in his holding if he accepts to pay the Government revenue. FURSAL BANOO v. AZEEZUNNISSA BEEBEE, 3 W.R. 72. [Cons., 16 W.R. 35=8 B.L.R. 197.]

(20)—Resumption and re-grant of Inam lands —No title to lands acquired by grantee—Attachment placed on village by Government, limited to exemption from assessment.—In this case the plaintiff sought to recover possession of land described by him as mirasi land belonging to the Waikar family, on the ground that, on the death of the original grantee of that family from the East India Company, the property was attached by the Government, but ultimately granted to the plaintiff. The plaintiff's claim was dismissed on the ground that the effect of resumption under the above Act was to leave the right to the land in the possession of the Inamdar untouched and the attachment placed by the Government on the village inam and saranjam property should, therefore, be regarded as limited only to the assessment. Held further that the District Judge was wrong in having held that the proceedings of Government in 1873 and 1876, by which the plaintiff was recognized as the representative of the Waikar family, and the whole estate, saranjam and inam was directed to be continued to the plaintiff as such representative, were acts of State. The Waikars were merely subordinate though powerful saranjamdars and had not the status of an independent Sovereign. HARI SADASHIV v. SHAIK AJMUDIN, 11 B. 235. [R., 6 Bom. L.R. 131, 29 B. 480=7 Bom. L.R. 497.]

Resumption, Right of*—continued.

—3.—Practice and Procedure—concluded.

(21)—Resumption of saranjam lands by Government, effect of—No distinction between Regulation and Non-regulation Provinces.—As in the case of inam lands, so also, in the case of saranjam lands, resumption by Government means only the discontinuance of exemption from payment of public revenue, leaving the inamdar or saranjamdar, who is in occupation of the land, to retain possession so long as he pays the assessment imposed thereon, i.e., his occupancy rights are not affected. The rule applies primarily to Regulation Provinces, but it is the same also, unless the contrary is proved, in the case of Non-regulation Provinces. GANPATRAV TRIMBAK PATWARDHAN v. GANESH BAJI BHAT, 10 B. 112. [R., 11 B. 235, 29 B. 415=7 Bom. L.R. 439, 29 B. 480=7 Bom. L.R. 497, 32 B. 432=10 Bom. L.R. 531, 34 B. 232=11 Bom. L.R. 1333.]

(22)—Reg. X of 1793, s. 19—Zemindar suing for resumption when not limited to time.—A zemindar seeking to resume invalid lakhiraj land under s. 19 of Regulation X of 1793 is not to be limited to time, provided that he could prove that, at some time subsequent to the Decennial Settlement, the land sought to be resumed was part of his mal estate and had paid him rent. GOPAL CHUNDER SHAHA v. BHABO TARINEE DOSSEE, 7 W.R. 240.

(23)—Suit for resumption—Costs.—One of the fundamental rules in respect of costs is that a party getting his costs and asserting his rights to a portion of the property claimed by the plaintiff in a suit to which there are numerous defendants only gets his costs on the value of the right asserted by and released to him. So, in a suit for resumption against several defendants, the plaintiff is liable to each defendant in costs only to the extent of the value of the interest enjoyed by him in the lands released to him, andnot upon the aggregate claim of the plaintiff. HUREEHUR MOOKERJEE v. ABDOOL HUQ KAZEE, 1 W.R. 97. [R., 2 W. R. Mis. 45.]

—4.—Miscellaneous.

(1)—Illegal resumption by Government—Liability to account.—The Government having seized certain chur lands and dispossessed the proprietor in possession, and having entirely failed to establish any claim for assessment or resumption during the period of attachment following the dispossession of the proprietor, Held that the Government must be regarded as a wrong-doer for the whole period, and must account to the proprietor for all the collections made by its officers up to the time of the restitution. SURNOMOYEE v. COLLECTOR OF RUNGPOR, W.R.F.B. 4=Marsh 13, 1 Hay 37.

Resumption, Right of*—concluded.

——4.—Miscellaneous—concluded.

(2)—Act X of 1859, s. 28—Maafee land—Resumption proceedings—Mortgagee not a party.—Where a maafee land was resumed with the mortgagor's consent and in the resumption proceedings under s. 28 of Act X of 1859, the mortgagee was not made a party, the bona fide character of the resumption proceedings may be questioned by the mortgagee or transferee from him. SHEIKH TOOLUN v. OOMAN SHUNKER, 2 Agra 117. [R., 6 O.C. 110.]

(3)—Limitation — Lakhiraj. — Limitation bars a suit for resumption even of a questionable lakhiraj, of which the lakhirajdar's ancestors are proved to have been in possession before 1790. MUNEAH LALL BABOO v. MULKESSUR BANERJEE, 1 W.R. 297.

(4)—Resumption—Lakhiraj—Limitation.—A party who is sued for recovery of possession of certain lands by others claiming to hold the same as resumed lakhiraj settled with them, if he succeeds in establishing his possession of the disputed lands for more than 12 years previous to the suit, notwithstanding the decree of the Resumption Courts, is entitled to the benefit of limitation. RUNGLOLL SAHOO v. MUSST. BONESHUN, 1 W.R. 109.

(5)—Resumption of lakhiraj tenure—Act X of 1859, s. 28—Invalid tenure—Burden of proof.—A suit for resumption of a lakhiraj tenure under s. 28, Act X of 1859, will not lie upon the ground that the tenure is invalid, but merely upon the ground that the lakhiraj was granted after 1st December, 1790; and the onus probandi in such case is on the plaintiff. MAHARANEE INDERJEET KOONWAR v. CHOKEN SAHOO, W.R. F.B. 81.

(6)—Suit by zemindar for resumption—Allegation of jungleboore tenure—Onus on zemindar.—Plaintiff sued as zemindar to cancel and resume an alleged hereditary jungleboore tenure. Although the defendant and his ancestors had for many years been in possession of the lands without paying rents, the plaintiff asserted that they had held the lands only in lieu of wages and not under any hereditary rights. Plaintiff, however, failed to produce any evidence whatever beyond the admission that the lands were within his zemindary, and the High Court held that, according to the decisions, that was not sufficient to start his case, and the Courts below therefore were right in having rejected his claim. RADA KISHEN SINGH v. BISHAMBHUR SINGH PUTTUR, 6 W.R. 130.

Retrial.

See REMAND.

(1)—Appeal—Loss of record—Appeal determined without record.—Where, in a pre-emption suit, the record of the case was lost, and the appeal by the pre-emptor, on the ground that the actual price of the property was less than the price entered in the sale-deed, was decided by the lower appellate Court in the absence of the record, holding that the price entered in the deed of sale must be taken to be the actual price of the property, but the record was found before the appeal was heard by the High Court, held that the objection to the lower appellate Court's decision that it was not based on evidence should be allowed, and that the appeal should be heard now that the records had been found. MANGAL PRASAD v. KALWANTA, A.W.N. 1881, 26.

Retrial—concluded.

(2)—Decision following ruling of High Court—Privy Council subsequently holding different view—Rehearing.—Where the decision of the lower Court was given implicitly following the judgment of the High Court in a similar case which had come before that Court in appeal, and subsequently the Privy Council overruled the said decision of the High Court, the party is entitled to have his case reconsidered upon the Ruling arrived at by the Judicial Committee. BANEE PERSHAD v. RADHA PERSHAD SINGH, 15 W.R. 143.

(3)—Evidence taken at ex parte hearing.—Evidence taken in the absence of a defendant at an ex parte hearing cannot be used against him on a retrial. RAM BAKSH LAL v. KISHORE MOHAN SHAHA, 3 B.L.R. A.C. 273=12 W.R. 130.

(4)—Disposal of on preliminary point—Reversal of decree on appeal, and irregular remand of case under s. 562, Civ. Pro. Code, 1877—Power of succeeding Judge to retry preliminary point.—Where, on appeal in a suit dismissed on a preliminary point, the District judge reverses the lower Court's decision on such point, and remands the case under s. 562 (though irregularly) for the trial of a certain issue, it is not competent for his successor, when the case comes up again in appeal, to retry and decide such preliminary point. SURAJ DIN v. CHATTAR, 3 A. 755=A.W.N. 1881, 55. [R., 32 M. 318; Appr., 14 A. 348.]

Ex parte decree against defendant—Power of appellate Court on appeal from to remand—Suit for—Retrial—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1882, ss. 562, 564, 23 M. 445=10 M.L.J 61.

See DAMAGES — MEASURE AND ASSESSMENT, 5 C. 283=4 C.L.R. 473.

See PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1882, ss. 37, 38, 69, 20 M. 358=7 M.L.J. 140.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, PRESIDENCY TOWNS, JURISDICTION OF—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 15 M. 179.

Retrospectivity of Acts.

See STATUTES, CONSTRUCTION OF.

(1)—Retrospectivity of Acts, rule as to.—A statutory prohibition could have no reference to transactions which had been completed before the Act came into force. LALA HURRO PROSHAD v. BASARUTH ALI, 25 C. 909.

Retrospectivity of Acts—concluded.

(2)—Rule as to.—Statutes are, prima facie, deemed to be prospective only; "Nova constitutio futuris forman imponere debet, non praeteritis." DOOLUBDASS PETTAMBERDASS v. RAMLOLL THACKOORSEYDASS, 5 M.I.A. 109=7 Moo. P.C. 239 = Perry O.C. 232=1 Sar. 403.

(3)—Construction of Statutes—Retrospective effect.—It is not in accordance with sound principle of interpreting Statutes to give Statutes a retrospective effect. MAHOMED ABDUS SAMAD v. QURBAN HUSAIN, 26 A. 119, P.C.= 31 I.A. 30 = 8 C.W.N. 201=8 Sar. 593=6 Bom. L.R. 238. [R., 31 A. 557=10 C. L. J. 297=14 C.W.N. 59, 7 Bom. L.R. 618.]

(4)—Law relating to procedure.—Changes of law relating to procedure have retrospective effect. BALAKISHNA PANDHARINATH v. BAPU YESAJI, 19 B. 204.

(5)—Procedure—Change of law—New Act to apply.—Where a new Act has come into force after the institution of a suit, that Act will apply to matters of procedure. SEVAI ROWTAN v. THE TAHSILDAR OF PERIAKULAM, 6 M. L.J. 122. (3 M. 98, Rel. on.)

(6)—Legislation—Substantive rights—Procedure—Pending suit.—It is a general rule that when the Legislature alters the rights of parties by taking away or conferring any right of action, its enactments, unless in express terms they apply to pending actions, do not affect them. But there is an exception to this rule, namely, where enactments merely affect procedure, but do not extend to rights of action. VEDAVALLI NARASIAH v. MANGAMMA, 27 M. 538.

Act conferring new right—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 174, 14 C. 636, F.B.

See BOM. ACT V OF 1886, s. 2, 21 B. 118.

See BOM. ACT VI OF 1888, s. 31, cl. 2, 17 B. 289.

See MAD. ACT III OF 1895, s. 21, 14 M.L.J. 340.

See PUN. ACT I OF 1900, 53 P.L.R. 1901 =39 P.R. 1901, 153 P.L.R. 1901=4 P.R. 1902, 88 P.L.R. 1904=90 P.R. 1904, F.B.

See U.P. ACT I OF 1869, ss. 13, 14, 22, 26 A. 393, P.C.=8 C.W.N. 699=31 I.A. 132=1 A.L.J. 384=7 O.C. 248.

Act V of 1894, retrospective effect of—See EXECUTION OF DECEEE--EFFECT OF CHANGE OF LAW PENDING EXECUTION, 21 C. 940, F.B.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 171, 6 B. 26.

See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, s. 19, 3 C.W.N. 483.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1908, s. 17, 18 B. 92.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1908, s. 50, 6 B. 495.

See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, ss. 111, 116, 20 B. 759.

"Return," Doctrine of.

Mahomedan Law—Widow's right to "return" of deceased husband's estate — See MAHOMEDAN LAW—INHERITANCE, 11 C. 14.

Mahomedan Law—Widow's rights—The doctrine of Return—Rights of Crown—See MAHOMEDAN LAW—INHERITANCE, 3 C. 702 =2 C.L.R. 46.

Re-union.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE.

See HINDU LAW—PARTITION.

Reuter.

Mistake of, in transmitting message—Effect —See SALE—GENERAL, 8 M.L.T. 353=8 Ind. Cas. 291.

Revenue.

See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS.

See SALE—SALE FOR ARREARS OF REVENUE AND CESS.

(1)—Government revenue and public cesses.—Revenue and the public cesses constitute a standing encumbrance and first charge upon the land subject to them. CHATRAPUT SINGH v. GRINDRA CHUNDER ROY, 6 C. 389 =7 C.L.R. 456. [Disc., 30 C. 778=8 C.W.N. 357.]

(2)—Muafidar—Assignee of Government revenue—Assigned revenue not first charge—Rent—Act XII of 1881 (N. W. P. Rent Act), ss. 93 (i), 171, 177—Act XIX of 1873 (N.W.P. Land Revenue Act), s. 16.—Revenue, which has been assigned by Government, is not a first charge on the land. It must be considered as rent only. A Muafidar or assignee of revenue, has neither the rights nor the powers of Government in respect of the mode of recovery of such revenue. He must adopt the procedure laid down in the rent Act for the recovery of rent. BITHAL DAS v. HARPHUL, 6 A. 503=A.W.N. 1884, 176. [R., 23 A. 5=A.W. N. 1900, 173.]

(3)—Assignment of revenue for maintenance of mosque—Increase in revenue—Effect.—The revenue payable by certain zemindars to the Government was released in favour of the muafidars; the descendants of the person who founded a mosque agreed that they would pay anually to those entusted with the management of the mosque, for its support, half the amount of revenue payable by the zamindars. At the recent settlement of the villages, the amount fixed as revenue was increased. Held that the increase was merely for the purpose of fixing a standard by which certain cesses were to be paid by the zemindar, and the muafidars were not entitled to any increased revenue. The persons entrusted with the management of the mosque were therefore only entitled to the sum originally fixed. MUHAMMAD SADIK v. ZAHUR HUSAIN, A.W.N. 1881, 63.

(4)—Arrears of Revenue—Revenue, suit against co-sharer for arrears of — Rent Act (Oudh), s. 108, cl. (16)—Assessment of Revenue

Revenue—continued.

upon under-proprietary tenure— Settlement officer, entries in khewat made by—Under-proprietor, liability of, to pay revenue—Estoppel—Land Revenue Act (Oudh).—The appellant, who was the lambardar of an eight annas share in a certain village, purchased a two annas share from the respondent's father by a deed dated July 20th 1875. The material portions of the deed were to the effect that vendor had sold all his two annas share to the appellant with the exception of four plots of sir 'lagani fi bigha ek rupia,' four plots of bagh-land 'bila lagan,' and three plots of grazing ground 'bila lagan' that the purchaser was to enjoy proprietary possession over the whole two annas share generation after generation, and the vendor was to pay the rent of the excepted lands year by year; that if the vendor wanted to sell or mortgage the excepted lands kept in his possession, he has to sell or mortgage to the purchaser and not to any other person, but he retained power to make a gift or shankalap of them; and that if he gave them to any person that person would be bound to pay the rent. For about twenty years the vendor and after him the respondent paid Rs. 5-10-0 rent to the appellant for the excepted plots at the rate of Re. 1 per bigha. The village then came under settlement and the Settlement Officer formed the excepted plots into a sub-patti and assessed them at Rs. 18. The respondent objected to the assessment but unsuccessfully. He was shown in the khewat, prepared at the new settlement, as the proprietor of the plots in question, and he attested the correctness thereof. The appellant brought a suit against the respondent under cl. (16) of s. 108 of the Rent Act for recovery of arrears of revenue at the rate assessed by the Settlement Officer. The respondent contended that he was not a co-sharer of the appellant but an under-proprietor, who, by reason of the terms of the deed of 1875 was not liable to pay rent at a higher rate than Rs. 5-10 per annum. Held, that the respondent by his action in the Settlement Court was not estopped from denying that he was a co-sharer in the Mahal or that he was liable to pay the revenue assessed upon the plots. Held, that a Settlement Officer, acting under the Oudh Land Revenue Act, cannot, by making entries in the Khewat or otherwise, convert a proprietary into an under proprietary right or vice versa. Held that, having regard to the provisions of the deed of sale, the parties intended that the vendor should retain a heritable and (except as provided in the deed) a transferable right of property in the plots for which he should pay rent; in other words he was to be an under-proprietor. Held, therefore, that the respondent was not a co-sharer of the appellant, and the suit as brought against him failed. JADUNANDAN PERSHAD v. BRIJ BHUKHAN, 5 O. C 70.

(5)—Revised settlement on land with one person for himself and as trustee for another—Subsequent purchase of zemindari rights from Government, rights of old proprietors not affected by—Purchase not covering corpus of property.—Plaintiff, a purchaser of the rights and interests of K, sued, in right of his purchase, for a share in a certain resumed property. After the first permanent Settlement made by the Revenue authorities with K and another, the defendant Z representing himself to be the heir of K and a purchaser from the other got the Collector to make a revised settlement with him. Held, agreeing with the Court of first instance, that the revised settlement did not destroy the rights of K in the property. The revised settlement though made with the defendant alone must be regarded as a settlement made for himself and as trustee for K. So K or any one representing him had a right to claim from the defendant whatever share or interest K was entitled to. The subsequent purchase of the rights of Government cannot confer on the defendant a right to ignore the previously existing rights of the owners. He purchased not the corpus of the property but the right to receive the Government revenue assessed upon the property from the proprietors. MAHOMED NAZIR v. ZAHOOR-UL-HUQ, 2 W.R. 6.

Revenue—continued.

(6)—Act XIV of 1859, s. 1, cls. 15, 16—Mehal—Butwara—Payment on account of Government revenue—Cause of action—Limitation.—Plaintiff in 1842 purchased B's share of an ijmale mehal while a butwara was going on in the mehal, and the several sharers paid in what they thought due from themselves on account of Government revenue. In 1864, plaintiff asked for the suplus payment as per an account stated dated March, 1857, by which it had been ascertained that there stood a balance in his favour. The Collector refused the application, saying that the money was not in the treasury, having been drawn out by certain judgment-creditors of B. Plaintiffs then, in 1867, sued to recover. Held, that cl. 16, s. 1, Act XIV of 1859, applied to the case, the plaintiff's cause of action accruing from the date of the adjustment of the accounts. Held also that the payments not being deposits, but simply moneys paid over in a certain number of years to meet uncertain demands on account of Government revenue, the Collector could not be regarded as a "depository" in the sense of cl. 15, s. 1, Act XIV of 1859, but was in the position of a person receiving money on account subject to adjustment. GOBIND CHANDRA v. THE COLLECTOR OF DACCA, 3 B.L.R. App. 57=14 W.R. 491.

(7)—Act IX of 1847—Scope—Alluvion.—Act IX of 1847 applies only to a subject which was gained from the sea or from rivers by alluvion or dereliction, not to land seemingly gained from another proprietor by the mere changing of a river's course. When the land so possessed is found by a comparison of the new map with the old map to be in excess of what he had previously been possessed of as constituting his zemindari, the Government is empowered to make an addition to the Jama which is payable by him in respect on the zemindari. All orders that may be made by Government in this matter are, by the words of s. 6, rendered final, that is, as regards the person whom they may directly affect, namely, the zemindar. But they do not take away the right of the proprietor from whom the land was gained to seek by suit in a Civil Court to recover his property from the hands of those who are keeping it from him. THE COLLECTOR OF MOORSHEDABAD v. ROY DHUNPUT SINGH BAHADOOR, 15 B.L.R. 49=23 W.R. 38. [R., 2 B. 19.]

Revenue—continued.

This circular lays down New Annual Return (Table VI.) regarding demand and collection of land revenue. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 12 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular directs Judges to inform Collectors whenever any Civil Court attaches and appoints a manager for landed property paying revenue to Government. Civ. Cir No. 9, dated 12th May 1870, 13 W.R. Civ. Cir. 15.

This circular gives a direction for filling up Return No. 9 as to abatement of revenue. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular directs that all excess payments of revenue or rent are to be excluded from Return No. 31. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 3.

This circular deals with the amount of revenue written off as matter of right to be shown in Table IV, Return No. 10, separately from amount remitted as a matter of grace. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir, p. 8.

This circular makes an addition to cl. 1, s. 12, Ch. VIII. of Board Rules, regarding payment of revenue of lands. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 9.

This circular amends cls. 2 and 3, para. 2, s. 12 of Board Rules, regarding payment of land revenue. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. . 10.

This circular expunges Return No. 28 regarding land revenue, and amalgamates it with an amended form of Return No. 41. Rev. Cir, No. 6, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir, p. 10.

This circular cancels s. 7, Ch. XVIII of Board Rules—Substituting new rules for them—Regarding annual Land Revenue Report. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 11.

This letter circulates Financial Department and Bengal Office Resolutions regarding curtailment of expenditure in consequence of the then apprehended scarcity in Bengal, and the serious loss of revenue consequent thereupon. Civ. Cir. Memo. No. 20, 20 W.R. Rules & Ors. of the H.C., p. 25.

This circular directs that the value of revenue abated as compensation for land taken for public purposes, has to be credited and entered in Table V. of Return No. 10 Rev. Cir. No. 2, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular prescribes the latest date for payment of revenue of small estates. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 4.

Revenue—continued.

This circular prescribes the proper way to account for revenue received in one District for an estate transferred to another District. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

Sale of tree in respect of arrears of revenue—Tree immoveable property—Procedure in sale of moveable and immoveable property—See ACT I OF 1868, 59 O.C. 228.

Exemption from—See BOM. ACT II OF 1863, s. 6, cl. 2, 1 Bom. L.R. 528.

Remission by Government—Effect on superior and inferior proprietors—See C.P. ACT XVI OF 1889, s. 49, 11 C.P.L.R. 106.

Assignment of Government revenue—Rights of assignee—See MAD. ACT II OF 1864, 7 M. 258.

Liability for revenue of all fields included in patta—Claim for release of one field on tender of proportionate kist, validity of—See MAD. ACT VIII OF 1865, ss. 2, 25, 37, 8 M. 130.

Liability of mortgagee without possession of share in mahal for payment of—Person interested in payment of money which another is bound by law to pay - Contract Act, s. 69—See U.P. ACT XVII OF 1876, s. 108, 4 O.C. 369.

Superior proprietor—Contract for, with inferior proprietor—Effect—Enhancement of—See U.P. ACT III OF 1901, ss. 76, 77, 6 A.L.J. 733=3 Ind. Cas. 538.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, ss. 69, 70, 6 A. 67.

Payment of Government revenue by person in wrongful possession of land—See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, ss. 69, 70, 7 A. 660=A.W.N. 1885, 176.

One co-sharer making payment of Government revenue for another— Charge—See CO-SHARERS—GENERAL, A.W.N. 1886, 269.

Payment of arrears of—By one of the co-sharers—Effect — Charge on share of other co-sharers — Equiry — See CO-SHARERS — GENERAL, 14 C. 809, F.B.

Revenue matters—Mandamus—Jurisdiction of High Court—See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—CALCUTTA, 11 B.L.R. 250.

Hindu law—Hindu widow — Mortgage by Hindu widow—Legal necessity— Payment of Government revenue--Nature of proof of necessity required—See HINDU LAW—WIDOW, A. W.N. 1893, 163.

Grant of right to collect—Ownership of tank, if also granted thereby—See INAM, 6 M.L.T. 242=19 M.L.J. 470=32 M. 456=3 Ind. Cas. 456.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, A. W.N. 1881, 59.

Suit for redemption—Mortgaged land sold for arrears of — By Native Chief—Rights of purchaser against mortgagor and mortgagee—Revenue Jusisdiction Act X of 1876—Bombay Land Revenue Code Act V of 1879—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 17 B. 681.

Revenue—concluded.

Suits affecting — Liability to pay public revenue—Acts of executive officers—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 2 M.H.C. 167.

See LAMBARDAR, A.W.N. 1888, 248.

Hindu widow—Payable for estate of—Lambardar's right to recover money paid for—Decree against assets of widow in the hands of her representative—See MONEY PAID FOR BENEFIT OF ANOTHER, 18 A. 471=A.W.N. 1896, 154.

Mortgagee compelled to pay Government revenue payable by mortgagor—Mortgagee's remedies—See MORTGAGE—ACCOUNTS BETWEEN MORTGAGOR AND MORTGAGEE, 20 A. 401=A.W.N. 1898, 90.

Sale of property by executor for paying debts—Mortgage of same for paying Government revenue—Priority of title—See MORTGAGE—MISCELLANEOUS, 8 C. 79=9 C.L.R. 173=10 C.L.R. 113.

Mortgagee making payments to save mortgaged property from being sold for arrears of—Lien—See MORTGAGE—MISCELLANEOUS, 31 C. 975.

See BEN. REG. XIX OF 1793, s. 10, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 75=2 W.R. F.B. 15.

Liability to pay Government revenue—See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 2 C. 141, F.B.

Lambardar or co-sharer—Claim to set off for revenue paid—See SET-OFF, 1 A. 135, F.B.

Suit for contribution by co-sharer who had paid whole Government Revenue—See SMALL CAUSE COURT, MOFUSSIL, JURISDICTION OF—GENERAL, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 675=2 Ind. Jur. N.S. 155=7 W.R. 377.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 42, 19 M. 292.

Acts for protecting revenue — Construction of clauses imposing penalty — Tests — See STATUTES, CONSTRUCTION OF, 16 C. 436.

Transfer of proprietary right when vendor undertakes to pay land revenue—Recovery of sum due on account of land-revenue, suit for, by lambardars against co-sharer—Covenants affirmative and restrictive—Covenants annexed to the ownership of the property sold by the vendor—See VENDOR AND PURCHASER—MISCELLANEOUS, 6 O.C. 184.

Revenue Administration.

This circular deals with the errata in Memo on Revenue Administration of Bengal, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 6.

This circular deals with the errata in Memo. on Revenue Administration for Bengal, 20 W. R. Rev. Cir. p. 8.

Revenue Agents.

This circular warns officers to guard against Revenue Agents practising as Mookhtears without renewing their certificates in that capacity. Crim. Cir. Memo. No. 8, 22 W.R. Rules & Ords. of the H.C. p. 18.

This circular prescribes a form for statement of Renewal of Revenue Agent's Certificate Rev., Cir. No. 5, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 3.

This circular deals with ch. XII, Addendum, "Revenue Agents" Rev. Cir. No. 5. 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 9.

Admission of — Effect upon client—See LAMBARDAR AND CO-SHARER, 1 Ind. Cas. 975=7 A.L.J. 90.

Revenue Agents, Mukhtars and Pleaders.

See ACT XX OF 1865.

Revenue Arrears, Sales of land for.

See ACT I OF 1845.

Revenue Authorities.

This circular cancels C. O. No. 5 of 1870 and No. 2 of 1875, and substitutes amended rule as to suits connected with estates in charge of the Revenue Authorities. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 24 W. R. Rev. Cir. p. 3.

Suit to recover house-site in Burma—Necessity for reference to—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to recover house-site without such reference—See BUR. ACT IV OF 1898, ss. 11, 15 and 41, 3 L.B.R. 50.

Revenue Board.

Power of Revenue Board—Commissioner—See SETTLEMENT—MISCELLANEOUS, 3 B.L.R. App. 82.

Certificate by Head-quarters Deputy Collector that documents are exempt from duty—Reference by Revenue Board to High Court—See STAMP ACT, 1899, s. 57, 25 M. 752.

Revenue Circulars.

This circular prescribes certain alterations in the Test Table of Table III, Return No. 31, Rev. Cir. No. 2, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 3.

This circular prescribes a new heading "Nominal Remission" to be opened in Return No. 10, Rev. Cir. No. 3, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 6.

This circular prescribes that the rate per acre of each denomination of soil is to be entered, in addition to the rate per beegha, in Abstract Statement No. 20, Rev. Cir. No. 1, 21 W. R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

This circular expunges part of Circular Order No. 3 of May 1872, regarding settlements, Rev. Cir. No. 3. 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

This circular states how "Sale Proceeds of Waste Papers" and certain other particulars are to be shown in Table V, of Return No. 10. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 9.

Revenue Circulars—continued.

This circular directs that Register No. XXVI should show how, and when, lands the property of Government have been acquired. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 13.

This circular deals with alterations made in Return No. XXXV. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 22 W. R. Rev. Cir. 2.

This circular requests District Officers to intimate to proprietors, &c., whenever their estate has been transferred from the towjih of one district to that of another. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 10.

This circular draws attention to Financial Department Resolutions of 5th December 1873 and 19th June 1874, which require Commissioners to inspect periodically all revenue treasuries, and points out how those Circulars are to be carried out. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 10.

This circular makes an addition to Circular Order No. 11 of November 1872. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 13.

This circular enjoins the preparation by Collectors of briefs of cases which are appealed to the High Court. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 17.

This circular publishes revised rules for the supply of copies of, and information respecting, Papers and Documents in Collectors' Offices—Register No. 62 cancelled. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 18.

This letter circulates slips of directions contained in Circular Order No. 3 of November 1874. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 29.

This circular requests local officers to make themselves acquainted with the facts, in respect to the intervention of parties having rights between the zemindars and the cultivators, before recommending in future any remission of revenue to Zemindars upon condition that the ryots should participate in it. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 34.

This circular states that revised forms of Return No. XII, and Register No. 65 have been prescribed. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 37.

This circular prescribes certain alterations and additions to Return No. XXXI. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 37.

This circular deals with various alterations in s. III, Ch. XIX, page 266. Board's Rules, and cancellation of Circular No. 20 of 1871. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 40.

This circular alters heading of Return No. VI-B. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 5.

This circular draws attention to a Notification as to the duty chargeable on the counterpart of an instrument. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

Revenue Circulars—concluded.

This circular deals with the modification of Test Table. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 18.

This circular deals with Indents for Forms. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 18.

This circular deals with a Corrigendum. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 25.

This circular deals with District Superintendent of Police—Excise duties. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 7.

This circular deals with return of surrendered rowannahs. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 8.

This circular states that Interportal steamers are exempted from Rule 6, s. V, Chapter V. Rev. Cir No. 2, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 11.

This circular states that Return No. VIB is to be submitted in future to Legal Remembrancer. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 11.

This circular states that Atraffee rowannahs, challans, and boat-notes are not to be sent to Board's office. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 12.

This circular prescribes certain revised rules relating to the "Fund for the Improvement of Government and certain temporarily-settled estates." Rev. Cir. No. 1, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 15.

This circular deals with the New Hydrometer Tables. Rev. Cir. No. 9, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 23.

According to this circular the limit of Tari possessed or sold is raised from 4 to 12 seers. Exception as regards Pachwai. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 24.

This circular deals with Corrections in Return No. X. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 29.

Revenue Commissioner.

Revenue Commissioner can hear appeal from an order passed by Collector in execution proceedings transferred to him under s. 320, Civ. Pro. Code—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 68, 70, 71, 7 Bom. L.R. 682.

Revenue Court.

See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS.

See RES JUDICATA — COMPETENCY OF COURT.

See SALE—SALE FOR ARREARS OF REVENUE AND CESS.

(1)—Judgment of—Suit for declaration that judgment was not binding on plaintiff.—No suit can lie to declare that the judgment of the Revenue Court was not binding on the plaintiff, who was a party to it. THIRUVENGADAM PILLAI v. T. RAMANUJULU NAIDU, 8 M.L.T. 380=7 Ind. Cas. 874.

Revenue Court—concluded.

(2)—Jurisdiction—Kabuliat.—A suit by a ryot to set aside the judgment of a Revenue Court passed in a suit by the zemindar against the ryot to obtain a kabuliat, cannot be maintained in a Civil Court. SONATAN ROY v. ANANDA KUMAR MOOKERJEE, 2 B.L.R. App. 31=11 W.R. 96.

(3)—Revenue Courts—Open days—Plaint.—Revenue Courts have no authority to specify certain days on which plaints shall not be received. GOBIND KUMAR CHOWDHRY v. HARGOPAL NAG, 3 B.L.R. App 72=11 W.R. 537.

(4)—Landlord and tenant—Act IV of 1840—Cl. 6, s. 23, Act X of 1859—Ejectment—Jurisdiction.—The Civil Court has no jurisdiction, in cases of ejectment between landlord and tenant, although the ejectment might have taken place in pursuance of an order of a Magistrate under Act IV of 1840. Courts of Revenue only have jurisdiction to hear such cases, which must be brought under the provisions of cl. 6, s. 23 of Act X of 1859. MUTHOORANAUTH KOOND v. SAMIRUDEE MOLLAH, 1 W.R. 42.

Regulation XVII of 1827—Within contemplation of — Mamlatdars' Court regarded as Revenue Court—See BOM. ACT XVI OF 1838, s. 1, cl. 2, 14 B. 372.

Payment by tenant of nazarna under threat of ejectment—Suit for compensation by tenant —Jurisdiction of—to entertan suit—See U. P. ACT XXII OF 1886, ss. 17, 108, (cl) 9, 8 O. C. 200.

Jurisdiction of—Illegal ejectment by landlord—Recovery of land by under-proprietor—See U. P. ACT XXII OF 1886, s. 108, cl. (10), 8 O.C. 174.

Decision of a, on question of title, has the same effect as the decision of a Civil Court as regards appeal—See U.P. ACT III OF 1901, ss. 199 and 200, 4 A.L.J. 53=A.W.N. 1907, 6=29 A. 160.

Suit for ejectment in—Question of title decided by—Decision becoming final—Effect—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 11, Expl. VI, 8 A.L. J. 341, F.B.

Right of Hindu widow to claim partition in a—See HINDU LAW—WIDOW, 9 O.C. 53.

Vacation — See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 9 P.W.R. 1908, Rev.

Order of—Containing adjudication upon question of title—See PARTITION—MISCELLANEOUS, 6 O.C. 372.

See RENT, SUIT FOR, 3 O.C. 65.

See RES JUDICATA—ESTOPPEL BY JUDGMENT, 7 B.L.R. 673=15 W.R. P.C. 30.

High Court's powers of revision against orders of—See REVISION—GENERAL, 14 O.C. 38=9 Ind. Cas. 747.

Revenue Courts, Oudh.

See U.P. ACT XVI OF 1865.

Revenue free grant.

(1)—Revenue-free grant—Sharers mentioned in recommendation, but not in order of Government —Civil Court—Jurisdiction.—The question in whose favour Government intended to make a revenue-free grant, where sharers are mentioned in the recommendation, but not in the order of Government, is one which cannot properly be determined by a Civil Court but by Government alone. MUHAMMAD SHAH v. FATTEH-ULLA-SHAH, 122 P.R. 1880.

Revenue Jurisdiction, Bombay.

See BOM. ACT X OF 1876.

See BOM. ACT XV OF 1880.

Revenue Officer.

See SETTLEMENT OFFICER.

Preparation of record of rights under Beng. Act VIII of 1885—Power of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 102, 21 C. 38, F.B.

Power of—to make survey and prepare record-of-rights without order of Government—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 104 to 108, 117, 118, 119, 145, 158, 189, 30 C. 339=7 C.W.N. 33.

Forest officer not a Revenue officer—See BOM. ACT V OF 1879, s. 3, 20 B. 803.

Restriction of summary jurisdiction in case of ejectment—See C.P. ACT XVII OF 1889, s. 92, 16 C.P.L.R. 70.

Nature of proceedings by a—See U.P. ACT III OF 1901, ss. 4 (9), 46, 13 O.C. 198.

Premature closing of Government channel by Revenue officer—Negligence and no malice—Loss to Government raiyat—Liability of Revenue officer—See DAMAGES— DAMAGES, SUITS FOR, 24 M. 36=10 M.L.J. 249.

Forest officer not—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 20 B. 764.

See SANCTION TO PROSECUTE, 22 B. 936.

Revenue-paying Estate.

Suit for partition of—In a Civil Court—Power to appoint Commissioner—Partition how effected—See PARTITION—SUITS FOR PARTITION—JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT IN, 23 C. 679.

Revenue-paying Estates, Partition of.

See ACT XIX OF 1863.

Revenue, paymentin kinds.

(1)—Payment of Revenue in kind—Order insisting payment of Revenue in cash—Absence of order in the settlement.—In the absence of an order at the time of settlement, the proprietors cannot insist upon paying revenue in cash where they have always before settlement paid in kind. PUNDIT MOTEE LAL v. UTTRA, 7 P.R. 1867, Rev.

(2)—Payment of Revenue in grain unenforceable without proprietor's consent—Order as to payment of Revenue an administrative act open to revision.—A Jagirdar cannot enforce payment of his revenue in grain without the proprietor's consent. Orders as to payment of revenue held to be administrative and open to revision. MULLIK FUTTEH SHER KHAN v. MULLIK SHER BAHADOOR KHAN, 6 P.R. 1868, Rev.

Revenue payment in kinds—concluded.

Revenue Records.

Official records — Evidentiary value—See EVIDENCE—GENERAL, 22 M.L.J. 393.

Wrong entry in—Suit for possession by partition of shamilat lands — See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, Art. 120, 151 P.L.R. 1906.

Revenue Recovery.

See ACT I OF 1890.

Revenue Recovery, Madras.

See MAD. ACT II OF 1864.

Revenue Recovery, Madras (Amendment).

See MAD. ACT III OF 1884.

Revenue Register.

See BUDDHIST LAW—GIFT, L.B.R. 1872—1892, 44.

Extracts from—Proof of custom—Evidentiary value—See CUSTOM, 4 S.L.R. 88.

Revenue Resumption, Bengal Land.

See BEN. ACT VII OF 1862.

Revenue Sale.

See SALE—SALE FOR ARREARS OF REVENUE AND CESS.

Revenue Sales, Bengal Land.

See BEN. ACT XI OF 1859.

See BEN. ACT VII OF 1868.

Reversal of Decree.

(1)— Reversal or modification of decree—Restitution of payment made under decree—Execution—Fresh suit— Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 244, 583.—The effect of an appellate Court's decree reversing or modifying an original decree is to direct restitution of any sum paid under the latter decree which is disallowed by the appellate decree, and the recovery of such sum is a question of execution, and cannot form the subject of a separate suit. And interest can be awarded in execution on the amount to be recovered. JASWANT SINGH v. DIP SINGH, 7 A. 432=A.W.N. 1885, 67. (L.R. 3 P.C. 465, R.; 7 A. 170, D.) [F., 15 M. 203; R., 9 M. 506, 111 P. R. 1892, 18 A. 262, 20 A. 430.]

(2)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 350—Appellate Court—Error in valuation or claim—Appeal.—An error in the valuation of a claim is not an error, defect, or irregularity, which affects the merits of the case, and an appellate Court is restrained under s. 350 from ordering the reversal of a decree on account of any such error which does not also affect the jurisdiction of the Court which originally tried the suit. RAMESSUR DYAL SINGH v. RAJ KISHORE SINGH, 13 W.R. 325.

Reversal of Decree—concluded.

Execution of decree—Reversal on appeal—Power of Court to award restitution—Jurisdiction of executing Court—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 144 (1), 13 B. 485.

On appeal by one defendant—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 4, Marsh 281=2 Hay 288.

Right to recover the land sold and not simply the sale proceeds—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 5 M. 106.

Reversionary Interest.

(1)—Interest of reversioner — Property.—A reversionary interest, although a contingent interest, is property, and can be sold in execution of a decree. GAUR HARI DUTT v. RADHA GOBIND SHAHA, 7 B.L.R. 343, Note=12 W.R. 54. [Overruled, 7 B.L.R. 341.]

Reversionary interest of grantor liable to attachment and sale—See ATTACHMENT—SUBJECTS OF ATTACHMENT, 10 A. 462=A. W.N. 1888, 200.

Injury, to — Smoke nuisance, whether amounts to —See NUISANCE, 3 S.L.R. 30=1 Ind. Cas. 958.

Reversioner.

See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—REVERSIONERS.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.

See HINDU LAW—REVERSIONERS.

See HINDU LAW—WIDOW.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ARTS. 140—144.

(1)—Alienation by life-tenant, not valid against reversioner.—An alienation of property by a life-tenant is invalid as against one who is entitled as reversioner. TIRUMALATHAMMAL v. VENKATARAMANAIYAN, 2 M.H.C. 378.

(2)—Decision about reversionary rights — Effect —A decision in a suit by one claiming as reversioner against the widow and a person in whose favour a will was made by her, as to the reversionary right of the plaintiff, is binding only on the parties to the suit and will not affect the inheritance after the death of the widow. JAIPAL KUNWAR v. INDAR BAHADUR SINGH, 26 A. 238, P.C.=31 I.A. 67=8 C.W.N. 465=6 Bom. L.R. 495=14 M.L.J. 149=8 Sar. 625.

(3)—Decree against representative for time being of inheritance—Reversioner's right to set aside decree—Fraud.—A mere reversioner or other person prospectively entitled is not ordinarily permitted to set aside decree against a

Reversioner—continued.

the representative for the time being of the inheritance, except on the ground of fraud. YETCHANEN NAMBUDRI v. SIVA RAMA PATTER, 1 M.L.J. 390. (9 M. 473, F.; 8 M. 484, D.)

(4)—Reversioner's interest—Contingent—Spes successionis — Transfer— Value of interest—Relinquishment—Registration--Registration Act (III of 1877), s. 17 (b).—The interest of a reversioner in an estate in the hands of a widow is not a mere spes successionis ; it is at the least a "contingent" interest ; for on the death of the widow it would fall to the reversioner by operation of law. It is a tangible interest derived from the common ancestor and not to be defeated except in the special case of a sale by the widow for necessity. Therefore, the reversioner's interest can validly form the subject of a relinquishment. (30 B. 304=7 Bom. L.R. 742, D.) The present value of a reversioner's interest can be ascertained. (25 C. 778, R.) A relinquishment of a reversioner's interest of the value of Rs. 100 or upwards requires compulsory registration. KHAIRTI v. MATAB, 214 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind.Cas. 211=135 P.W.R. 1911.

(5)—Hindu Law—Adoption by widow—Custom—Reversionary heirs, consent of—Reversioner present at adoption—Estoppel.—It is not an indisputable proposition of law that wherever the Mitakshara school of Hindu law prevails, a widow may validly adopt if she obtains the consent of her husband's kinsmen as a substitute for her husband's authority ; and an adoption by a widow, if otherwise invalid, is not validated if made with the consent of the reversionary heirs. Among the Hindus of the Aziwal caste (resident in Delhi) there is no valid and binding custom by which a widow can validly adopt by her sole act in the absence of authority from the husband ; and the mere presence of a reversionary heir at the adoption of a boy by a widow, will not estop him from afterwards claiming the property after the death of the widow. KIDAR NATH v. BANARSI DAS, 62 P.R. 1880. [Appr., 198 P.R, 1882.]

See ABANDONMENT OF TENURE, 43 P.R. 1901.

Appeal by alienee of Hindu widow—Suit by reversioner—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 4, Marsh 113=1 Hay 339.

Nature and extent of reversioner's interest in ancestral property—Whether his interest affected by full owner's crime or absconding—See CRIM. PRO. CODE, 1898, ss. 87 and 88, 19 P.W.R. 1908, F.B.=18 P.R. 1908=156 P.L.R. 1908.

Right of, to claim standing crops on death of tenant for life—See CROPS, 14 C.P.L.R. 89.

Declaratory suit by, when a female intervenes —See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB—ALIENATION, 3 Ind. Cas. 284.

Compromise by next reversioner—Remote reversioner bound by compromise—See CUSTOMS —PUNJAB—ALIENATION, P.L.R. 1900, p. 536.

Reversioner—continued.

See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—ALIENATION, 61 P.L.R. 1901.

Right of a, to sue for share of another — See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 143 P.W.R. 1910.

Doctrine of equity in England—Applicability to India—See EQUITY, 11 A. 57=A.W.N. 1888, 296.

See ESTOPPEL—STATEMENTS AND PLEADINGS, 1 N.W.P. 65.

Right of setting aside alienation by a widow —See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION, 1 Bom. L. R. 201.

Assent of, necessary to validate the alienation made by a widow—See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION, 2 Bom L.R. 820=25 B. 129.

Liability of, for trade debts incurred by Hindu widow—See HINDU LAW—DEBTS, 3 Bom. L.R. 738=26 B. 206.

Claiming on the death of a widow, limitation applicable to—See HINDU LAW—WILL, 1 Bom.L.R. 607=23 B. 725.

Enfranchisement of land as personal inam in favour of Hindu widow—Title of reversioners—See INAM, 25 M. 424=12 M.L.J. 89.

See JURISDICTION — GENERAL, 98 P.R. 1886.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT — MISCELLANEOUS, 15 C.P.L.R. 89.

Suit to recover property—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 118, 1 Bom. L.R. 799=24 B. 260.

Right to set aside an adoption—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 118, 2 Bom. L.R. 495.

Entitled to possession on the death of Hindu female, limitation applicable to—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 141, 2 Bom. L.R. 106.

Will—Bequests to dharam void as indefinite —Claim by—To undisposed of property—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 141, 21 B. 646.

Suit by—For possession—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 141, 9 C. 934, F.B.=13 C.L.R. 372.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 141, 12 C. L.R. 548.

Possession adverse to the female adverse to the—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, arts. 141, 142, 144, 41 P.R. 1903.

Declaratory suit to set aside alienation—Dismissal of suit—Appeal by some only of the plaintiffs—Declaration should be granted only on appellants' right—Reversioners not joining appeal to be excluded—See MAHOMEDAN LAW —LEGITIMACY, 190 P.L.R. 1908.

Rights of—To open and work mines—Rights of grantor or his lessee to work and appropriate the minerals during the continuance of the life estate—See MINES, 2 C.L.J. 20.

Reversioner—concluded.

Suit by—To declare invalidity of several alienations by widow — See MISJOINDER OF CAUSES OF ACTION, 7 B. 289.

See MORTGAGE—MISCELLANEOUS, 13 P. L.R. 1902.

One of several reversioners taking possession of whole property—Suit by other reversioners for their shares after 12 years—Limitation—See POSSESSION—ADVERSE POSSESSION, 6 Ind. Cas. 695.

See RES JUDICATA—GENERAL, 20 C. 79, P.C.=19 I.A. 234.

Decree against remote—Subsequent suit by him as next reversioner on the presumptive heir predeceasing female holder—See RES JUDICATA—PARTIES, 9 C. 462.

See RES JUDICATA—PARTIES, 1 A. 282, 82 P.R. 1874.

Suit by some—Subsequent suit by other reversioners—See RES JUDICATA—MISCELLANEOUS, 16 C. 93.

Suit for possession under Will—Will found invalid—Suit for declaration of reversionary heirship—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 42, Illustration (e), A.W.N. 1881, 93.

Hindu reversioner's contingent right—Assignment of such right—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 6, 25 C. 778.

Transfer of reversionary right—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 6, 9 Ind. Cas. 243.

Reverter, Doctrine of.

Doctrine of—See HINDU LAW — REVERSIONERS, 5 Bom. L.R. 833.

Review.

1.—GENERAL.
2.—GROUNDS FOR REVIEW.
3.—JURISDICTION TO REVIEW.
4.—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.
5.—REVIEW AFTER TIME.
6.—REVIEW BY JUDGE OTHER THAN JUDGE IN ORIGINAL CASE.
7.—REVIEW WHEN LIES.
8.—WHAT QUESTIONS CAN BE RAISED ON REVIEW.
9.—MISCELLANEOUS.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, S. 114.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLVII, rr. 1—9.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.

——1.—General.

(1)—Review of judgment—General principles.—The provisions of the law as to applications for review are one distinct matter. To rehear after the success of such applications is another matter. When a party applies for a review of judgment, it must be shown that there is good and sufficient cause for granting the review, before he can be heard to argue that the decision is erroneous. In so showing cause, no point can be reviewed which has been already discussed and decided on the original hearing of the appeal; no new point, not received at the hearing of the appeal, can be argued on the application for review. BHAWABAL SINGH v. MAHARAJA RAJENDRA PRATAP SAHOY BAHADUR, 5 B.L.R. 321=13 W.R. 157.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(2) — Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 623, 630 — Review of judgment. — It is lawful for a Judge or a Bench in admitting an application for review to define and limit the points on which the case shall be re-heard. Admission of a review does not ipso facto re-open the whole case. DHANRUP MUL v. SIRDAR HIRA SINGH, 158 P.R. 1889. (10 B.H.C. 360, Diss.; 5 C. 89, 9 C. 209, 11 M.I.A, 487, R.)

(3)—Review—Sufficient reason—Order under erroneously assumed circumstances—Receiver, Appointment of—Subsequent rent decree obtained by owner—Application by Receiver—Court not restricted to grounds mentioned in application for review—Application may be granted in part—Decree when set aside should be wholly set side—Civ. Pro. Code (Act V of 1908), O. XLVII, r. 1 —It is the plain duty of every Court to recall an order when it is apprised that the order has been made under an erroneously assumed state of circumstances essentially different from the true state of things. (14 M.I.A. 40, 7 B.L.R. 186, 6 C.W.N. 710, 6 C.L.J. 662, 3 M.L.T. 41, Rel. on.) When a receiver is appointed to an estate, the estate vests in the Receiver and thereafter the Receiver is the only person competent to prosecute suits and to obtain decrees. Therefore, where, after the appointment of a Receiver, the owner obtained a decree for rent: Held, that the decree ought to be set aside on an application for review by the Receiver. (34 C. 305, 5 C.L.J. 270, 6 Ind. Cas. 270, 14 C.W.N. 653, R.) A Court, in dealing with an application for review of judgment, is not restricted to the ground mentioned in the application: the Court has wider powers and is competent to enlarge those grounds on oral application, if it is satisfied that there was a proper case on the merits for so doing and granting the review. (11 M.I.A. 487, 9 W.R 23, Rel. on.) An application for review of a judgment may be granted in part. (12 C.L.R. 64, 9 C. 209, 13 C.L.R. 285, Rel. on.) When a decree is set aside on the ground that it was made in favour of a person who at the time had no subsisting title, the entire decree should be set aside. BHUBANESHWARI KOER v. AJODHYA SINGH, 11 Ind. Cas. 102=15 C.L.J. 339.

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 628—Review of judgment—Discretion of Court—Applications for review not to be dealt with too technically.—Applications for review of judgment are matters to a great extent within the discretion of the Court to which the application is made, but such discretion, in case of the application being granted, is subject to appeal. In dealing with applications for review, Courts should not be too technical, but should look to the substance of the application rather than the form in which the application is made. CHIRANJI v. MOTI RAM; A.W.N 1898, 33. (3 I.A 221 and 16 A. 390, R.) [Overruled, 20 A. 523, F.B.]

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(5)—Review—Admission of application for review, Objection taken to, in appeal—Terms of the order admitting the review, discretion of Court as to—Irregular procedure in hearing case in review—Power of appellate Court in dealing with—Code of Civil Procedure, ss. 623 and 626—Court-fee, how calculated when appellant seeks to escape payment of a sum decreed against him and to recover a sum from respondent.—When the admission of an application for review of judgment is not challenged on any of the grounds stated in s. 626 of the Code of Civil Procedure, it cannot be challenged in appeal at all. A Judge, who hears the case in review, is not bound by the terms of the order admitting the review, whether the order was passed by himself or by another Judge, and, if the procedure adopted by him in hearing the case in review is irregular, it is the duty of the appellate Court on appeal to decide the case upon its merits. (11 M.I.A. 487, 12 C.L.R 64, 10 B.H.C. 360, 9 C 209, F.) When an appellant in his memorandum of appeal seeks to escape payment of a sum decreed against him and also to recover from the respondent a sum named therein, the Court-fee should be calculated on the sum decreed against him plus the sum sought to be recovered. MUSAMMAT BASANTI v. BADRI, 7 O.C. 345.

(6)—Application for review—Duty of Court.—An application for review ought to be rejected, if no matter is brought to notice which might not have been brought before the Court, when the appeal was heard. (Per Phear, J.) The Court is bound to administer the law as it is, and to take notice of a Full Bench decision applicable to the case whether it is referred to or not by the pleaders. (Per Mitter J.) THE COLLECTOR OF TIPPERAH v MUSSAMAT MAFEZUNNISSA BIBI, 5 B.L R. 341, Note. [Appr., 5 B L.R. 321.]

(7)—Act VIII of 1871, s. 76—Review—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 38.—Every Court has so far the power to revise its own decision as may be necessary for the purpose of making that decision in terms which accord with the intention entertained at the time it was passed, e g., to correct verbal errors, or otherwise to make the decree an accurate expression of the judgment intended. But an inferior Court of limited jurisdiction does not possess the general power of revising its own decision. A District Judge has no power to review an order passed under s. 73, Act VIII of 1871. In the matter of the petition of HADJEE ABDULLA, 10 B L.R. 394 =19 W R. 303. [F., 20 W.R. 284.]

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(8)—Decree and judgment not at variance—Power to amend—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 206.—Where the judgment and the decree were in agreement with each other, no order under s. 206, Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, could be passed amending the decree. The proper course in such a case would be to apply for a review of judgment first, and then to have the decree brought into conformity with the judgment. TEJ SINGH v. DIP CHAND, A.W.N. 1882, 72.

(9)—Amendment of decree—Alteration of decree—Order for interest added to decree—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 377.—Where, after the decree of a Subordinate Judge was confirmed on appeal, and an appeal to the Privy Council had been presented by the party, the decree was amended by adding interest to the decree-amount, held that the Subordinate Judge was right in treating the omission as a mistake which it was within his power to correct. [F., 20 W.R. 11, 11 B.L R. 363; R., 8 A. 519.] Merely adding to the decree an order that it was to bear interest from its date is not an act done by way of review of judgment. ZUHOOR HOSSEIN v. MUSSUMAT SYEDUM, 11 W.R. 141=11 B.L.R. 367, note.

(10)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376, 377, 378, 380—Final order—Construing Act.—An order rejecting or admitting a review is not final, but the Court may, in the exercise of its discretion, admit a second review even after a prior order rejecting it. Applications for review dismissed for mere default may be re-admitted like appeals dismissed for default. Seton-Karr, J., contra. NASIRUDDIN KHAN v. INDRONARAYAN CHOWDHRY, B L R. Sup. Vol. 367=5 W R. 93. [F., W R. 1864, 91, 7 W.R. 464, 15 C. 432, 30 C. 619; R., 6 W.R. Mis. 118, 1 C. 197=23 W. R. 438, 34 C 677=11 C.W.N. 803=6 C L.J. 84; Expl., 2 C 131, P.C.=3 I.A. 221=26 W. R. 50, 26 B. 485.]

(11)—Provisions of Civ. Pro. Code relating to reviews of judgment—Proceedings under Beng. Act VII of 1868 and VII of 1880—Power to review.—Those portions of the Code of Civil Procedure which confer the power to review a judgment and regulate the exercise of such powers, have not been extended to proceedings under Bengal Acts 1868 and 1880. A Court has no inherent jurisdiction to review an order which, at the time it was made, was rightly made. LALA PRAYAG LAL v. JAI NARAYAN SINGH, 22 C. 419. (2 C.L.J. 308, R.) [F., 34 C. 677 =11 C.W.N. 803=6 C.L.J. 84; R., 30 C. 619, 2 C.L.J. 306]

(12)—Of judgment—Duty of counsel.—The abandonment by a counsel of a ground of appeal cannot subsequently be admitted as reason for granting a review of judgment. If reviews were allowed on such grounds, the whole administration of justice throughout the country would be open to uncertainty, and one review might on these grounds be had after another. HEEKAJEE BURJORJI v. NANABHOY, L. B. R. (1872—1892), 183.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(13)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 624—Application for review, when deemed to be made—Application made to successor of Judge who delivered judgment.—Under s. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, the mere presentation of the petition praying for a review is not "making an application for review" within the meaning of it on a reasonable interpretation of the section. The application is made when the petitioner moves the Court to bring its mind to bear upon the merits of the petition for review. And it is only when that is done for the first time in respect to the successor of the Judge who delivered the judgment, the application is made to the successor within the meaning of the section. AZIZUDDIN v. BADARUDDIN, 134 P.R. 1884. [R., 97 P. R. 1885, 6 P.R. 1887, 7 P. R. 1894; F., 85 P. R. 1906.]

(14)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 624, 626, 627—Application for review of judgment—"Made" in s. 624, meaning of.—The successor of the Judge who originally had the application for review of judgment before him has jurisdiction to dispose of it. Where a petition for review of judgment is presented to the Judge who passed the judgment complained of, and that Judge, instead of rejecting it at once as he might do under s. 626, Civ. Pro. Code, orders it to be entertained, and the opposite party to be called on to show cause why it should not be allowed, the subject has been necessarily reconsidered by the Judge and he has brought his mind to bear upon the merits of the application; and the application for review may fairly and reasonably be held to have been "made" to the Judge who passed the original decision within the meaning of s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, so that his successor in office has, under the circumstances, jurisdiction to dispose of the application for review, the omission of the ministerial officers of the Court to carry out the Judge's order and issue notice to the opposite party in no way affecting that jurisdiction. DIWAN SINGH v. JOWAHIR MAL, 97 P.R. 1885. (10 C. 80, F; 4 A. 278, Diss.; 7 M I.A. 283. 134 P.R. 1884, R.) [R., 6 P.R. 1887.]

(15)—Application for review of judgment—Meaning of "made" in s. 624.—An application has been made in the sense in which the word is used in s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, to the Judge who delivered the original judgment, if such Judge has so applied his mind judicially to it as to have ordered notice to issue to the opposite side to show cause against the application being granted TULSI RAM v. RAM LAL, 97 P.R. 1885, Note. (10 C. 80, 97 P.R. 1885, F.)

(16)—Review—Point once argued.—A point previously argued cannot be argued in review. GANGAPERSAD v. THE AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK 5 B.L.R. 340, Note. [Appr., 5 B.L.R. 321.]

(17)—Decree—Proceedings to set aside decree obtained by fraud—Review—Suit for declaration of right to set aside decree—Right of suit.—The proper course for a party desiring to set aside a decree passed against him by a competent Court, which he alleges to have been obtained by fraud, is to apply to the Court which passed the decree to review and alter it, and not to bring a suit for declaration of his right by setting aside such decree. MEWA LAL THAKUR v. BHUJHUNJHA, 13 B.L.R. App 11 = 22 W.R. 213. [Diss., 3 C.L.J. 119; F., 10 C. 612; Cons., 10 C.L.J. 420 = 13 C.W.N. 1197 = 2 Ind. Cas. 129; R., 10 B. 338, 5 C.W.N. 559, 34 C. 83; D., 4 A.L.J. 392 = A.W.N. 1907, 112 = 29 A. 418.]

(18)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act X of 1877), s. 629, ground of objection under—Admission of review, insufficient cause for—Appellate Court, Power of, to consider objection as ground of appeal—Judgment on razinamah—Fraud, allegation of—Application for review—Power of Court.—An objection that there was no sufficient cause for the admission of a review which has been granted, is a ground of appeal which may be considered by an appellate Court when the final decree in the suit is under appeal, notwithstanding this ground of objection is not specifically mentioned in s. 629 of the Civ. Pro. Code. A Court is competent to consider an application for review of judgment passed on a razinama alleged to have been obtained by fraud, and it is not bound to refer the applicant to a regular suit to set aside the decree JOWAHIR SINGH v. KHAN SINGH, 47 P.R. 1880.

(19)—Decree, if may be set aside as fraudulent, on proof that it was based on perjured evidence—Res judicata, bar of—Review of judgment upon newly discovered evidence showing previous evidence perjured.—A decree obtained in a suit cannot be set aside in a subsequent action brought for that purpose, on mere proof that the previous decree was obtained by perjured evidence. If evidence not originally available comes to the knowledge of a litigant and he can show thereby that evidence on which a decree against him was obtained was perjured, his remedy lies in seeking a review of judgment. But the rule of res judicata prevents him from reagitating the matter on the same materials, or on materials which might have been laid before the Court in the first instance. MUNSHI MOSUFUL HUQ v. SURENDRA NATH RAY, 16 C.W.N. 1002 = 15 Ind. Cas. 893 (14 C.W.N. 695, F.; 38 C 936, 15 C.W.N. 1010, 29 M. 179, Diss.; L.R. 10 Ch. D, 327 (1879) 3 Ch. App. 203, 1867, 67 L.J.R.Q.B D 301 (1898), relied on; L.R. 10 Q.B.D. 295, (1882), L.R. 25 Q B. D 310, (1890), 9 D. 210, (1884) L.R. (1898), 2 Q B. 36, R.)

(20)—Review of judgment, condition for granting.—A Judge admitting a review on the ground of discovery of new evidence must first satisfy himself on legal evidence that the applicant has brought himself within the section, in other words, must insist on the fact of the applicant's ignorance or inability being strictly proved. NUDARCHUND BHOOYA v. REEDOY MUNDUL 11 B L.R. 424. Note = 17 W.R. 458. [F., 18 W.R. 413, 18 W.R. 316.]

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(21)—Review—Discovery of new matter—Strict proof of allegation—Appeal—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 626, 629—Grant or rejection of application for review—Appeal.—Applications for review on the ground of discovery of new evidence must be strictly proved. The order of the Judge rejecting such an application is final; but where such an application is granted, the order may be appealed from, and the appellate Court must decide whether the allegation that the new evidence was not within the knowledge of the applicant, when the decree was passed, has been strictly proved, for otherwise the right of appeal in such a case would have no meaning. AHED KHUND KAR v. MOHENDRA LAL DEY, 6 Ind. Cas. 320. (6 C.L.J. 5, 31 B. 331, 11 C.W.N. 721, 4 A.L.J. 461, 2 M.L.T. 435, 9 B.L.R. 671, 17 M.L.J. 347, Rel.; 12 B. 171, 22 C. 3, 22 C. 984, 24 C. 878, D.)

(22)—Review of judgment—Documentary evidence, Discovery of new and important—Evidence of doubtful character - Discovery of new evidence, when may be good ground for review of judgment—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623.—An application for a review of judgment cannot be granted merely on the ground of the discovery of new and important evidence, which could not be produced at the time when the decree was passed. The applicant has to show that, after the exercise of due diligence, such evidence could not be produced at that time. The new and important documentary evidence contemplated by s. 623, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, is evidence which itself might have had effect upon the judgment, had it been produced in the suit, and not evidence, which it is very doubtful, would have had such effect, and which requires to be supplemented by oral evidence before such doubt can possibly be removed. BAKAR ALI KHAN v. ANJUMAN ARA BEGAM, 5 O.C. 59.

(23)—Review, application for—Grounds.—It is not sufficient for an applicant for a review of judgment to prove that he was not aware of the existence of a document filed by the other party, but he must also show that he diligently made enquiries to ascertain its existence and found that it was not available. SEETANATH GHOSE v. SHAMA SOONDUREE DOSSIA, 14 W.R. 26. [F., 16 W.R. 7.]

(24)—Question of general importance—Grant of review—Practice.—Where a point sought to be raised in review had not been argued by either party, the Court may itself take up the point and give its opinion, where the question is not merely one between the parties, but is one of great general importance to the public. SULLEMAN HUSSAIN v. THE NEW ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION, LIMITED, 15 B. 267. [Cons., 15 B. 376.]

(25)—Point sprung upon litigant in lower Court — Application for review.— Where a litigant asserts that a point has been sprung upon him in the lower appellate Court, his proper course is to apply to that Court for a review, because, the whole matter might be set right by an application to that Court, and the ground alleged, if established, would be a good ground for review. GANGA PERSHAD SAHU v. MAHARANI BIBI, 11 C. 379, P.C. = 12 I.A. 47 = 4 Sar. 621. [R., 3 C.L.J. 545, 33 C. 1323 = 10 C.W.N. 986.]

(26)—Conflicting decisions—Review—Authority discovered since decision.—An application for a review of judgment will not be allowed on the ground that the decision of a Division Bench of a High Court is at variance with the decision of another Division Bench of the same High Court. It is no ground for re-opening a case which has been fully argued, that the diligence of a pleader has discovered since the decision, an authority in his favour. NOBEEN KISHEN MOOKERJEE v. SHIB PERSHAD PATTUCK, 9 W.R. 161.

(27)—Effect of review after filing of appeal.—In this case, a High Court passed a judgment on the 20th April, 1870; an appeal was filed thereon in May following. In August of the same year, the original judgment was reviewed by the High Court, and the judgment on review was transmitted to the Judicial Committee along with the records of the appeal. No appeal had been preferred against the judgment on review. Under the circumstances, the Privy Council recommended the confirmation of the original judgment without prejudice to the judgment on review. TOONDUN SINGH v. POKHNARAIN SINGH, 1 I.A. 342 = 3 Sar. 390 = 22 W.R. 199.

(28)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Review of judgment by lower Court after filing of special appeal.—Where a special appeal has been admitted against a judgment of the lower Court, the latter's admission of a review of that judgment would be without jurisdiction. LALLMUN v. MANICK CHUND, 1 Agra 133.

(29)—Review of order (rejecting application to admit special appeal).—The Court declined, in the absence of some satisfactory explanation, to entertain an application for a review of an order rejecting an application to admit a special appeal. In the matter of the petition of BARMUTOLLAH, 10 B.L.R. 156, Note.

(30)—Special appeals—New rules—Right to review.—The new rules which regulate the admission of special appeals do not and cannot take away an unsuccessful applicant's right to apply for a review. Such application may be made for the review of an order as well as of a decree. The application for review may be made without notice to the other side. JOY KOOMAR DUTTA JHA v. ESHAREE NUND DUTTA JHA. 10 B.L.R. 155 = 18 W.R. 475. (17 W.R. 484, F.)

(31)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 375, 376—Review—Appeal.—If a review of judgment be applied for in proper time, and before an appeal has been preferred, the Judge is not prevented from proceeding upon the application for review by the subsequent presentation of appeal, and he has full power, and is bound to proceed with the application for review. Quaere:—Whether a review can be admitted by a lower Court after an appeal has been preferred ?. BHARAT CHANDRA MAZUMDAR v. RAMGUNGA SEN, B.L.R. Sup. Vol 362=5 W.R. 69. [Rel. on, 12 C.W.N. 885=8 C.L.J. 2, Note; Expl., 16 W.R. 112.]

Review—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(32)—Appeal—Pendency of application for review.—If a party presents an application for review of judgment within the ordinary period limited for appealing, the time occupied by the Court in disposing of such application will not be reckoned among the number of days limited for appealing, but will be added thereto, and a memorandum of appeal presented within such extended period will be received as put in within time. In the matter of the petition of BROJENDER COOMAR ROY, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 728, F B.=7 W.R. 529. [F., 15 W R. 61, 22 W R. 79; R., 8 B. 260, 30 C. 155=6 C W.N. 737, 3 C.L J. 545=33 C. 1323=10 C.W.N. 986; D., 15 W R. 152.]

(33)—Review—Order on review—Appeal.—When a review is granted, the order on review is a fresh judgment and an appeal lies against such order. MASSUMAT PREM KOUR v. PUNJAB SINGH, 3 P.R. 1873. [R., 31 P.R. 1875.]

(34)—High Court—Revision—Order refusing to grant review—Whether such order can be revised.—The High Court has power to entertain a revision petition against an order refusing to grant a review. PERIA MADI v. THOMMAI VESUVADIA FERNANDEZ, 2 M.W.N. 1911=252=10 M.L.T. 283=12 Ind. Cas. 172. (26 A. 572, R.)

(35)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act X of 1877), s. 629—Second application for review, admissibility of, when fresh grounds are adduced—The object of the last clause of s. 629, Civ. Pro. Code, which provides that "no application to review an order passed on review or an application for review shall be entertained" is merely to prevent the repetition of the same grounds for review in subsequent applications which had already been once fully considered and disposed of; the prohibition in the clause does not prevent the admission of a second review of the original order when some fresh ground is advanced in support of such an application, which the applicant was not in a position to adduce in a former application. JAI GOPAL v. JOWAHIR, 107 P R 1883. (6 P.R. 1878, R.) [F., 57 P.R. 1892; R., 57 P.R. 1892.]

(36)—Review of judgment—Error in granting review—Fresh evidence—Reversal of decree on technical ground—Error affecting merits.—The Munsiff dismissed a suit. Afterwards he issued a rule calling upon the defendant to show cause why a review of judgment should not be granted. The defendant showed cause, but his objections were overruled; the review was granted, both plaintiff and defendant adduced new evidence, and a decree was given for the plaintiff. On appeal, the Subordinate Judge reversed the decision on the ground relied upon by the defendant, viz, that the plaintiff had not established that, with due diligence, he could not have brought forward in the original trial the evidence upon which the application for review was passed. Held, on special appeal, that the fact of the defendant having adduced fresh evidence in the Court below did not debar him from objecting before the Subordinate Judge that the review was wrongly granted because the order admitting it was final. The lower Appellate Court was not justified in reversing a decision of the Court of first instance for a technical error, unless that error has affected the decision of the case on the merits. PRAN NATH BHADOORY v. SREE KANT LAHOREE, 2 C.L.R. 257.

(37)—Jurisdiction—Review of judgment by Subordinate Court, pending appeal—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623—Application of—Merger, of lower Court's decree in appellate decree.—Held, that a Subordinate Court is competent to review its judgment, on an application put in before any appeal has been preferred, at any time after the appeal has been preferred, but before it is decided (a). "S. 623, Civ. Pro. Code, only applies to cases in which an appeal is pending when the application for review is made." (b) When once the appellate Court has decided the appeal, the only decree in existence is that of the Appellate Court, and the Subordinate Court is not competent to review its own decree, which, having merged, no longer exists. JAGAN NATH v. DEVI DAS, 25 P.R. 1904 (5 W.R. 59, F.B., 12 C.L.R. 64, F.; 7 W.R. 166, Cit.; 32 P.R. 1896, 59 P.R. 1900, D.; 59 P.R. 1900, R.)

(38)—Appeal against decree passed on review—Jurisdiction of Court, admitting review—Review, application for—Civ. Pro. Code, O. 47, rr. 1 (2) and 7.—Held, that a decree passed on an application for review of judgment is appealable on the ground that the Court which admitted the application for review had no jurisdiction to do so. UJAGAR v. RAM SAHAI, 14 O.C. 108. (7 O.C. 299, F.; 27 M. 602, R.)

(39)—Review of judgment—Application for review filed before filing of appeal, Jurisdiction of Court regarding—Procedure as regards application for review—Code of Civil Procedure, s. 623.—S. 623 of the Code of Civil Procedure means that a person considering himself aggrieved by a decree or order cannot apply for a review of judgment, if either he himself has appealed or any other person has appealed on a ground common to the appellant himself or any other person has filed an appeal to which he has been made a respondent and in which he can, under s. 561 of the Code or otherwise, present to the appellate Court the case on which he wishes to apply for review. The respondent sued for possession of property detailed in a list attached to their plaint which consisted of two parts. The Subordinate Judge overlooked the second part of the list and passed a decree for possession of the property in the first part only. The title to all the property in the list was the same. On June 15th, 1900, the respondent applied for a review of judgment. On July 3rd, the appellant filed an appeal in the Court of the Judicial Commissioner. On April 25th, 1902, the appellant's appeal was dismissed, and on April 30th, 1903, his application for leave to appeal to His Majesty's Council was dismissed. The Subordinate Judge then took up the application for review and modified the decree so as to make it include the property in the second part of the respondent's list. Held, that the order of the Subordinate Judge was made with jurisdiction and was right. As a matter of practice, however, if, after an application for review has been filed, an appeal is filed on a ground common to the appellant and the applicant or an appeal is filed in which the applicant can file objections under s. 561, Civ. Pro. Code, the Court, to which the application is made, should decline to proceed with the application, until the appeal has been heard, and, when the applicant has been made a respondent and can obtain the relief which he requires by means of objections under s. 561, it should require him to file such objection. SARJU PERSHAD v. SHEO CHARAN LAL, 7 O.C. 299.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(40)—Appeal after review—Grounds of appeal not confined to grounds urged on review—Mortgagee's right to plead title of mortgagor when latter does not appear to defend it.—One Tek Singh died leaving a widow. She gave his son-in-law, Charat Singh, possession of lands left by her husband. After the death of Charat Singh, Sujjan Singh had the lands entered in his name on the strength of his adoption by Charat Singh. A part of the land was mortgaged by Sujjan Singh for Rs. 1500. Samand Singh, a collateral of Tek Singh, brought a suit against Sujjan Singh and the mortgagees for the possession of land mortgaged claiming it as next heir after Charat Singh. Samand Singh having died during the pendency of the suit, his sons who were brought upon the record as plaintiffs, obtained a decree in their favour, which was passed ex parte as against Sujjan Singh. The appeal of the mortgagees was at first dismissed, but on review the Divisional Court made the decree for possession conditional on the payment to the mortgagees of Rs 700 by the plaintiff. On appeal to the Chief Court filed by the mortgagees, it was contended, on behalf of the plaintiffs-respondents, that (1) Sujjan Singh not having appealed, it was not open to the appellants, mortgagees, to urge that the respondents are not entitled to possession on payment of the full amount of the mortgage-money, and (2) that appeal would only lie on the grounds urged for review. Held that (1) the mortgagees are entitled to set up any defence which furthers their own case, and to plead that, at the time the mortgage was made, Sujjan Singh's title was good, and they can defend their title on that ground, whether Sujjan Singh for his own reasons fails to fight the case or not and that (2) grounds of appeal cannot be confined to the grounds urged on review. MANGAL SINGH v. GURDITTA, 10 P. L.R. 1900.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(41)—Review—Revision—Order rejecting an application for review of judgment—Final—Application of new or old Code of Civil Procedure—S. 629 of old Code and r. 7 of O. XLVII of new Code—S. 70 (1) (a) of Punjab Act, XVIII of 1884.—Held, that under s. 629 of Act XLV of 1882, an order rejecting an application for review is final, which means that such an order is neither subject to appeal nor revision. (26 A. 572, 31 B. 381, R.) Held, also, that the use of the words "not appealable" in r. 7 of O. XLVII of the new Code (which no doubt differ from the word, "final" as used in s. 629 of the old Code) cannot help the petitioner, inasmuch as the application, presented before the new Code came into force, is governed by the old Code. SEWA DAT PERSHAD v. KARM CHAND, 35 P.W.R. 1911=10 Ind. Cas. 725.

(42)—Review—Order granting—No appeal against—O. XLIII, r. 1 (w), O XLVII, rr. 4, 7 (i), Civ. Pro. Code, 1908—The District Munsif, following the Full Bench decision reported in 32 M. 1, decreed compensation for improvements according to the rates provided in the Marupat. But, on an application by the defendants after the date of the decision in 34 M. 61, he granted a review of his judgment on the strength of that decision. The plaintiffs appealed against the order granting review to the District Court which set aside the order. Held by the High Court, in revision, that no appeal lay against the Munsiff's order granting review and that the District Judge had no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal. (11 C.L. J. 161, Rel.) An order granting review can be appealed against only on one of several grounds mentioned in O. XLVII, r. 7 (i), Civ. Pro. Code, 1908. THOLAN v. KUNHIKUTTY, 24 M.L.J. 93.

(43)—S. 629, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=O. XLVII, rr. 7, 9, present Code)—Judgment, Review of—Appeal from order granting review.—An appeal does not lie from an order granting a review of judgment, except in the cases set forth in s. 629, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. MAHABIR PRASAD v. NATHIN THAKUR, 1 C.W.N. 338. (12 B. 171, R.)

(44)—S. 629, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Order for review can be challenged, when?—Appeal.—In general final appeal, an order for review cannot be challenged save upon the grounds stated

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

in s. 629, Civ. Pro. Code. BARODA CHURN GHOSE v. GOBIND PROSAD TEWARY, 22 C. 984. (22 C. 3 and 12 B. 171, F.) [F., 24 C. 878 ; R., 33 P R. 1902=24 P.L.R. 1902, 27 M. 602=14 M.L.J. 321.]

(45)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 588, 629—Order granting review—No second appeal.—S. 588 does not allow a second appeal against an order under s. 629, since such an order is not itself a decree. PAPAYYA v. CHELAMAYYA, 12 M. 125. (11 C. 296, F.)

(46)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 629—Application for review of judgment, order passed on--Appeal.--Where a lower appellate Court passes an order under s. 629 of the Civ. Pro. Code (1882), in an appeal preferred, not against the order allowing a review, but against the original decretal order itself, which the Court of first instance amended on the application for review, such order is appealable.—Semble.—S. 629 of Civ. Pro. Code (1882) prima facie applies to the Court which has passed the original decree, but it would be properly deemed to apply, according to its spirit, to an order by the appellate Court. BALANATHA v. BHIVA NATHA, 13 B. 496.

(47)—Review of judgment—Effect of order on review—Appeal from original decree.— Where an application for review of judgment is granted, and an order passed thereupon, the original decree is superseded. Held, therefore, that, where the original decree was modified upon review by the Court which passed it and an appeal was filed from the original decree, and not from the order upon review, the appeal could not be heard, inasmuch as the decree under appeal had ceased to exist. BRIJBASI LAL v. SALIG RAM, 9 A. L. J. 183=34 A. 282=14 Ind Cas. 472. (A.W.N. 1890, 144 and 28 A. 240, F.; 30 A. 479, D.)

(48)—Order on review affirming previous judgment, not an order rejecting petition for review—Appeal.—Plaintiff having obtained a decree in the Court of a Tahsildar, the defendant applied for revision. The Court, after hearing the applicant, issued notice to the opposite party fixing a day for the re-hearing of the suit and after hearing the parties affirmed its prior judgment. It was held (Melvill, J., dissenting) that the fact that the Court, on the ground that the applicant had not produced new evidence, affirmed its first judgment, and rejected the application, cannot constitute the order one merely rejecting the application as contemplated by s. 378 of Act VIII of 1859 After the admission of the review there must always be a re-hearing and a new judgment, whether the judgment be in accordance with or different from the original judgment, and from such judgment there would be an appeal. Ss. 378 and 380 must be read together and construed to mean that, if the Court find upon the application of a party that there is reasonable ground for holding its prior judgment to be erroneous, or for other good cause, that a review is necessary, it shall grant the application ; but that the opposite party by service of notice must have the opportunity of being heard in support of the prior decree. When notice has been served and the case comes on for re-hearing, the judgment of the Court, whether affirming, cancelling or modifying the former judgment, and whatever may be the form of words employed, is a new judgment, from which an appeal may be preferred. SOWAYA v. PIR BAKSH, 31 P. R. 1875.

(49)—Arbitration—Award—Review of judgment passed on award—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 522, 623—Appeal, not review, excluded by s. 522.—The wording of s. 522 of the new Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, is very different from that of the corresponding s. 325 of Act VIII of 1859, for, whereas the latter section expressly declared that a judgment given according to an award was to be final, the new law merely excludes an appeal, a provision which by no means excludes the admissibility of a review. Had the Legislature intended to prescribe any such exclusion, it may be naturally assumed that, in framing s. 623 and in making its terms applicable to decrees or orders from which no appeal was allowed by the Act, a provision to that effect would have been inserted. Construing the section according to the language employed in it, its provisions are as applicable to decrees passed in accordance with awards as to any other decrees from which no appeal is allowed by the Code. BUTA v. GUNI DAS, 111 P.R. 1881.

(50)—Act XI of 1865, s. 21—Review—Small Cause Court—Deposit—Instalment.—A defendant in a Small Cause Court who applies for a review of judgment with the only object of obtaining an order for payment of the debt by instalments, need not deposit in Court the amount of the decree. MULCHAND JETHASHA v. KILKA VARDHVAN, 5 B.H.C.A.C. 70. [R., 2 N.L.R. 23.]

(51)—Review of judgment—Small Causes Court --Provincial Small Causes Courts Act, s 21--Act VIII of 1859, s. 376.—S. 21 of the Small Causes Courts Act precludes a Small Causes Court from entertaining a review of its own judgment under s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859. REFERRED CASE NO. 11 OF 1873, 7 M.H.C 225.

(52)—Act XI of 1865, s. 21—Deposit of decree amount—New trial - Review of judgment.—The provisions of s. 21 of Act XI of 1865, regarding deposit upon application by a defendant for a new trial, do not extend to an application for review of the judgment of a Small Cause Court under s. 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI v. SULLUR, 60 P.R. 1881. (29 P.R. 1879, F.B., R.)

(53)—Review granted after ninety days—No sufficient cause for delay shown.—The Privy Council quashed an order granting a review and all subsequent proceedings taken thereunder, on the grounds that the review was applied for more than ninety days after the judgment, that the Judge granting the same had not shown that it was proved to his satisfaction that there was sufficient excuse for the delay in the presentation of the application, and that the granting of the review and all subsequent proceedings taken thereunder were erroneous and illegal. LUCHMAN SINGH v. SHUMSHERE SINGH, 2 I.A. 58=14 B.L.R. 373=3 Sar. 437.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(54)—Review of judgment—Delay.—Where the presentation of a review petition is delayed, an order admitting the petition without stating that the Judge was satisfied that there was good reason for the delay in presenting the petition, could not stand. NOLITA MOHAN ROY CHOWDHRY v. DENONATH MOOKERJEE, 11 B L.R. 427, Note.

(55)—Appeal to Privy Council—Rule of 1838 —Review of judgment.—An order rejecting an application to review a judgment passed on appeal is not an order made on appeal, from which an appeal lies to the Privy Council, under s. 39 of the Charter of the High Court. When an application to review is rejected by the High Court, the six months allowed for appeal to the Privy Council run from the date of the judgment and not from that of the order rejecting the review. SOUDAMINEE DOSSEE v. MAHARAJA DHEERAJ MOHOTAB CHAND BAHADUR, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 585=6 W.R. Mis. 102. [F., 30 C. 679; Appr., 1 B.L.R. F.B. 1=10 W.R. F.B. 1; R., 6 C. 22=6 C.L R. 575.]

(56)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 363, 377, 378—Review—Just and reasonable cause—Appeal—Full Bench Rulings.—An appeal lies from the order of a lower Court deciding what is just and reasonable cause for admitting an application for review after the prescribed period of 90 days has elapsed; and an appellate Court has power to look at the reasonableness or sufficiency of the cause assigned for admitting such review. Ss. 377 and 378 of Act VIII of 1859 must be read separately; the words "whether for rejecting the application or granting the review shall be final," applying solely to the application under s. 378 and not to the application under s. 377; and the latter section relates only to the question of the time at which the Court is first asked to review its judgment. A new exposition of the law by the High Court is not a just and reasonable cause for not having applied for a review within the period of 90 days; but, when a review has been properly granted, the case should be governed by any new exposition of the law which may have been laid down since the date of the original decision. SHAMACHURN CHUCKERBUTTY v. BINDABUN CHUNDER ROY, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 892=9 W. R. 181. [Appr., 10 W.R. 26, 2 B.L.R.A.C. 184, Note=10 W.R. 178, 13 W.R. 120, 8 C. 700; R., 11 W.R. 22, 56, 197, 430, 12 W.R. 94, 12 W.R. 154, 8 B.H.C.A.C. 44, 17 W.R. 163, 18 W.R. 286.]

(57)—Appeal—Calculation of period allowed—Reasonable ground for enlarging time—Review.—A petition of appeal is presented in time, if presented within the time limited for appealing, exclusive of the time during which the application for a review of judgment was pending. The petition of appeal should be presented immediately after the application for a review is rejected. NABBO KISSEN SINGH v KAMINEE DASEE, B.L R Sup. Vol 349=2 W.R Mis. 35 =Bourke A.O.C. 38. [F., 15 W.R. 71; R., 33 C. 1323=3 C.L.J. 545=10 C.W.N 986]

(58)—Explanation for delay in presentation of, insufficient when based on new allegations first made in special appeal.—As a reason for the Court's excusing the delay in the presentation of the application for review, in this case, the applicant alleged that soon after the decision to be reviewed, he was engaged in collecting instances of a special custom of adopting a daughter's son among the Brahmins of the country. Such a custom, however, was set up only as a new case on special appeal and had not been raised in the Courts below. The High Court held, under the circumstances, that no sufficient reason had been assigned on behalf of the petitioner for excusing his delay, that there was no reason to suppose that the best case that could be made for the plaintiffs had not been made in the Courts below, and that, unless upon very strong grounds and under very special circumstances, the Court would not generally permit a party to set up, during special appeal, any new case not set up for him in the Court of First Instance or of Primary Appeal. GOPAL NARHAR SAFRAY v. HANMANT GANESH SAFRAY, 6 B. 107. [R., L.B.R. 1893—1900, 518.]

(59)—Application to sue as pauper—Review—Limitation.—Where an application to sue as a pauper was rejected as barred by the Statute of Limitation, and an application for review of the order was granted, and the pauper plaintiff's suit was decreed, held, that the application for review not having been made within 90 days of the order to which it referred, and no just and reasonable cause having been shown for the delay, the application could not be entertained, and the Court's decision in the suit was without jurisdiction.—Quære:—When a Court refuses to allow a plaintiff to sue as a pauper, can an application for review of that order be entertained? MAHOMED GAZI CHOWDHRY v. SRIMATI DULLAB BIBI, 5 B. L R. 318, Note=11 W R. 22. [Diss., 5 B.L. R 316=13 W.R. 439; R., 18 W.R. 286; D., 5 B.L.R. 316.]

(60)—Appeal—Dismissal for default—Review.—Where an appeal was dismissed for default for non-appearance of the appellant, and no application to set aside the order was made within 30 days, the order became final, and was not open to review. FOUJOO SINGH v. MEHTAB SINGH, 100 P.R. 1867. [F., 92 P.R. 1868.]

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(61)—Jurisdiction—Appeals filed beyond time—Excuse for delay—Lower Court's discretion.—The High Court is competent to look into the grounds given by a Judge for admitting an appeal after the period limited by the Civ. Pro. Code. Held, re a decision of the full Bench in 9 W.R. 181, to the effect that a new statement of the law by the High Court was not a sufficient excuse for the delay in applying for a review of a judgment, that it is still less an excuse for delay in appealing against a judgment. MOWRI BEWA v. SURENDRA NATH ROY, 2 B.L.R.A.C. 184, Note=10 W.R. 178 [F., 10 B.H.C. 397, 8 C. 251; Appr., 51 P.R. 1871; R., 13 W.R. 120, 6 B. 304, 23 B. 513; D., 2 B.L.R.A.C. 181.]

(62)—Civ. Pro Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 623—Review—Rules of the High Court, Appellate side—Decision on review application by a single Judge, when the judgment sought to be reviewed was pronounced by a Bench—Prayer in review not asked for by respondent by way of cross-appeal.—Where the respondent to an appeal applied for a review of the Appellate Court, in respect of matters about which he did not appeal or file a memorandum of objections against the decree of the Court of first instance; Held, that, as the review asked for was a review of the judgment of the Court of Appeal, confirming the decree of the Court of first instance, nothing that was done or left undone while the matter was in the Court of Appeal can prevent a party from applying for a review of the judgment of the appellate Court, provided his application is made on any of the grounds mentioned in the Code. An application for review of a judgment passed by a Bench of two Judges of the High Court can be heard and finally decided only by a Bench of Judges, and not by a single member thereof, though it is competent for the latter to direct the application for review, i.e., to direct that the judgment be reviewed ARAYALPURATH RANDU PURAYIL KUNHI MAYAN v. KAUTILAT CHEEKILADEN AHMAD KUTH HAJI, 2 Ind. Cas. 204.

(63)—Court fee Review, application for—Application presented on ninetieth day—Eighty-ninth day, holiday—Court Fees Act, s. 14, sch. I, arts. 4 and 5—Limitation Act (1877), s. 5—General Clauses Act (X of 1897), s. 10—General principle.—An application for review of judgment presented on the ninetieth day, as the previous day was Sunday, should be stampted with a fee leviable on the plaint or memorandum of appeal. (9 C.L.R. 479, 9 M. 134, R; 6 W.R. 19, 12 W.R. 24, F.B., 4 B.L.R. 32, F.B., Expl.) To such cases under the Court Fees Act, s. 5 of the Limitation Act of 1877 has no application. S. 10 of the General Clauses Act being applicable only to Acts of the Governor General in Council and Regulations made on or after the 14th January, 1887, is inapplicable to such cases. The general principle that a party may be taken to have done an act within the prescribed time, if he has done it on the first day the Court is open after the expiry of the holidays within which the prescribed time terminated, is inapplicable in view of s. 14 of the Court Fees Act. SAYERA BIBI v. BHUTNATH HALDAR, 115 C.L.J. 505=15 Ind. Cas. 465.

(64)—Review of judgment—Court-fee.—The stamp fee on an application for review of judgment must be calculated on the amount which would be obtained, if the review were granted, and not necessarily on the whole value of the suit. PROCEEDINGS, 16TH JANUARY, 1872, 7 M.H.C. App. 1. [Not F., 6 A.L.J. 215=31 A. 294=1 Ind. Cas. 209.]

Petition for review—Stamp-presentation—See 14 W.R.H.C. Rules, p. 11.

Unsuccessful wife not entitled to alimony pending appeal nor for period in which she is seeking review of judgment—See ACT XV OF 1865, s. 33, 17 B. 146.

See BEN. ACT I OF 1895, ss. 19, 32, 33, 30 C. 619=7 C.W.N. 433.

Special Judge—Power of—See BOM. ACT, XVII OF 1879, s. 53, 15 B. 650.

Of first Court's order—Contrary conclusion—Finding that party to suit is agriculturist—District Judge — Assistant Judge—See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, ss. 73, 74, 19 B. 113.

See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, s. 74, 19 B. 116, F.B.

Agency Rules, No. XXXI—Order of agent in execution—Decree—Appeal to High Court—See MAD. ACT XXIV OF 1839, 26 M. 266.

Sale for arrears of revenue — Dismissal of application to set aside sale—Review by Collector of his own order—Madras Revenue Recovery Act—See MAD. ACT II OF 1864, 6 M.L.T. 177=3 Ind. Cas. 463=33 M. 65=19 M.L.J. 725.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a) (b), 170 P.L.R. 1903.

Second application for—Disagreement of the Civil and the Revenue Courts—Sufficient cause for delay within Limitation Act, s. 5—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, ss. 77 (3) (k), 82, 9 P.R. 1905 (Rev.)=65 P.L.R. 1906.

Order granting review, when appeal is pending—See APPEAL—GENERAL, 27 M. 602.

Court acting as arbitrator by consent of parties—Decree—Review—Remand—Appeal—See APPEAL—GENERAL, 9 Ind. Cas. 296.

Order on application for—when appeal lies from—See APPEAL—ORDERS, 12 B. 171.

Order granting review of judgment, appeal from—See APPEAL—ORDERS, 22 C. 3, 24 C. 878.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Appeal against an order admitting review—Maintainability of review—See APPEAL—ORDERS, 12 O C. 151=2 Ind. Cas. 834.

See APPEAL—ORDERS, 18 A. 44=A.W.N. 1895, 151.

See APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 2 B.L.R. A.C. 264=11 W R. 145.

Agreement to be bound by Court's decision on local inspection—Award — Review — See ARBITRATION—GENERAL, 38 C. 421.

See CIV.PRO. CODE, 1859, ss. 119, 148, 158, 6 M.H.C. 262.

Of judgment—Limitation—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1859, s. 377, 2 A. 287.

Insolvency proceeding—Setting aside of ex parte order—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1882, ss. 103, 350, 623, 7 C.L.J. 268.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 101 P.L.R. 1901=63 P.R. 1901.

Order passed on review of previous order in execution proceedings—Appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XLVII, rr. 7, 9, 5 Ind. Cas. 483.

Power of lower Court to review its wrong order—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Interference by the High Court—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 115, 31 M. 414=5 M.L.T. 221.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 115, 17 B. 514.

Order rejecting application for—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 115, O XLI, rr. 7, 9, 26 A. 572.

Order rejecting application for—Revision—See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, s. 115, O. XLVII, rr. 7, 9, 1 A.L.J. 298=A.W.N. 1904, 130=26 A. 572.

The ground for amending a decree on review must be something which existed at the date of the decree—See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, ss. 115, 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, 4 M.L.T. 86.

See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, ss. 115, 114, O. XLVII, rr. 1, 7, 9, 21 A. 152=A.W N, 1899, 1.

Appeal dismissed for default—Application to restore the appeal also dismissed for default—Second application for the same purpose—Appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 115, 141, 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, 7 P.L.R. 1900.

Court overlooking an important plea—Review—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 151, 26 P.L.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 545.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 152, O. XX, r. 6, 22 M. 364.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, rr. 2, 3, O. XV, r. 4, A.W.N. 1883, 171.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Of judgment — Whether available, when other remedies open—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, rr. 3, 4, s. 114, O. XLVII, rr. 1, 2, 33 P.R. 1909=44 P.L.R. 1909=31 P.W.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 900.

Application for—Of judgment without prior application to set aside dismissal order—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 8, s. 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, 26 C. 598.

Application for—Of an ex parte order by the legal representatives of a deceased party, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 13, s. 114, O. XLVII, rr. 1, 7 and 9, 9 O.C. 35.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 13, O. XVII, r. 2, 35 C. 1023.

Setting aside ex parte decree—Review of judgment—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 13, O. XLVII, r. 1, 12 Bom. L.R. 886=8 Ind. Cas. 616.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XV, r. 4, s. 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, A.W.N. 1887, 105.

Application to restore appeal made after expiry of thirty days—Application treated as—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908. O. XVII, r. 3, O XLI, r. 19, s. 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, 7 P.L.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 482=124 P.W.R. 1910.

Omission to decree partition—Correction of judgment—Review—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XX, r. 3, A.W.N. 1881, 57.

Not necessary when wrong words inadvertently used in judgment in describing property in suit—Corrections may be made on application under s. 202 of Civ. Pro. Code—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XX, r. 3, O. XLVII, r. 1, s. 114, 40 P.L.R. 1908=49 P.W.R. 1908.

Review of judgment—Application to bring decree into conformity with judgment—See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, O. XX, r. 6, ss. 152, 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, A.W.N. 1893, 123.

Application for—on the ground of fraud of a decree against a minor on compromise by guardian, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, r. 7, s. 114, O. XLVII, rr. 1, 2, 3 C.L.J. 119.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 4, s. 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, 86 P.L.R. 1904=47 P. R. 1904.

A Court has no jurisdiction for reviewing its own decree, after dismissal of appeal therefrom—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 11, s. 114, O. XLVII, r. 1, 4 C.L.J. 566.

Refusal of power of appellate Court—See CIV PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 27, 9 Bom L. R. 671=11 C.W.N. 721=6 C.L J. 5=4 A.L.J. 461=31 B. 381.

Order of appellate Court directing additional evidence to be taken before itself—Subsequent order sending back case to Munsiff for taking evidence—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, rr. 27, 28, s. 99, O. XLIII, r. 2, s. 108, O. XLVII, rr. 7 and 9, A.W.N. 1887, 145.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Order granting review—Appeal when lies—Power to interfere with such order on revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLIII, r. 1 (n), O. XLVII, r. 7 (a) and (b), s. 115 (c), 49 P.W. R. 1911.

Of award—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, sch. II, rr. 20, 21, 9 C. 575.

Dismissal of suit—Neither party responsible for—Appeal and review, costs of—See COSTS —SPECIAL CASES, A.W.N. 1881, 9.

By a Chamber Judge, of Taxing Master's decision—See COSTS—TAXATION OF COSTS, 9 Bom. L.R 983=32 B. 262.

Application for—Court-fees payable on—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, s. 7, sch. I, arts. 4, 5, 4 B. 26.

See COURT FEES ACT, s. 14 and sch. I, arts. 4, 5, 9 C.L.R. 479.

Application for review affecting only portion of decree—Court fee—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, sch. I, s. 5, arts. 4, 5, 6 A.L.J. 215= 31 A. 294=1 Ind. Cas. 209.

Of judgment after 90 days—Necessity for full stamp—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, sch. I, art. 4, 7 C.P L.R. 111.

Of judgment, application for—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, sch. I, arts. 4, 5, 2 O.C. 302.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, sch. I, arts. 4, 5, 91 P.R. 1895.

Review of judgment—Suit in forma pauperis —Non-liability to Court-fee—See COURT FEES ACT, sch. I, arts. 4 and 5, 20 A. 410.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, sch. I, art. 5, A.W.N. 1898, 212.

Financial Commissioner's power of reviewing his predecessor's order—See CUSTOMS - PUNJAB—ADOPTION, 3 P.W.R. 1908, Rev.

Nature of the remedy—See DECREE—ALTERATION OR AMENDMENT OF DECREE, 15 C. 211.

See DECREE—DECREE, CONSTRUCTION OF, 5 N.W.P. 134.

Right to challenge validity of decree in—See DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 2 C.L J. 508.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE—APPLICATION FOR EXECUTION AND POWERS OF COURT, 15 B. 370=P.J. 1890, 336.

Decree admitted to be fully satisfied — Mistake—Review—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 5 Ind. Cas. 148.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, A.W.N. 1899, 17.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Application for setting aside ex parte decree — Period of limitation expired — Right to obtain review of judgment—Review when can be asked for—See EX PARTE DECREE, 13 Ind. Cas. 318.

Of judgment—Grounds for admission—Subsequent ruling of High Court—See FULL BENCH RULINGS, 6 A. 292=A.W.N. 1884, 89.

Order of a District Judge under s. 7 of the Guardians and Wards Act, whether open to—See GUARDIAN AND WARDS ACT, 1890, ss 7, 47, 48, 143 P.R. 1906=12 P.W.R. 1907 =105 P.L.R. 1907.

Petition for—Heard by four Judges of the Agra Sudder Court—All four Judges equally divided in opinion The same heard by the Chief Justice of N W.P.—See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—CALCUTTA, 15 W.R.P.C. 16=6 B.L.R. 283=13 M.I.A. 585.

Of judgment—Mistaken admission on a point of law, when constitutes a ground for—See HINDU LAW—STRIDHANAM, 6 N.L.R. 3= 5 Ind. Cas. 426.

Jurisdiction to try question of competency of Court granting - Of judgment—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 5 O.C. 104.

Judgment—Senior Judge of Division Bench rejecting review — Appeal — See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865—CALCUTTA, s. 15, 4 B.L.R.A.C. 10=12 W.R. 459.

Difference of opinion between Judges in—Ground for appeal—See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865—CALCUTTA, s. 15, 10 C. 108=13 C.L.R. 285.

Refusal by a single Judge of High Court to review appeal judgment of Divisional Bench, whether appealable—See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865—CALCUTTA, s. 15, 9 C. W.N. 502.

See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865 —MADRAS, s. 15, 9 M. 253.

See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865 —N.W.P., s. 27, 11 A. 176=A.W.N. 1889, 27.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 4, 4 B.L R. 32, F.B.=12 W.R. 21.

Whether presentation of an application for—Is a 'sufficient cause' for delay in presenting an appeal—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss 4 & 5, 3 C.L.J. 545=10 C.W.N. 986=33 C. 1323.

When application for, is bona fide—Whether sufficient cause for not appealing within time —See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 10 C.L. J. 39=2 Ind Cas. 961.

Appeal—Exclusion of time taken up with—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 15 C. 242.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 14 M. 81.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 5, 13 C. 62.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Rejection of review application—Subsequent delay in filing petition for revision—Effect—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 5, 140 P.L.R. 1911=10 Ind. Cas. 129.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 5, 183 P.R. 1888.

Time occupied by—Exclusion of—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 14, 30 C. 532=7 C.W.N. 550.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, arts. 181, 182, 10 M. 66.

Judgment not providing for costs of preparation of decree in partition suit—Application to the Court for such costs, nature of—Application for amendment of decree, nature of—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ART. 182—GENERAL, 10 C.L.J. 467= 3 Ind. Cas. 391.

Jurisdiction of Court to—Its own order when an appeal can be laid—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ART. 182—APPLICATION IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW, 1 M.L.T. 113=28 M. 396.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ART. 182 — PERIOD FROM WHICH LIMITATION BEGINS TO RUN, 5 W.R. Mis. 45, 4 A. 137=A.W.N. 1881, 152.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ART. 182 — STEP-IN-AID OF EXECUTION, 16 W.R. 266.

See LIS PENDENS, 56 P.R. 1896.

See MINOR—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS, 19 B. 571.

See MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION, 5 C.W.N. 83.

See PARTNERSHIP—SUITS RELATING TO PARTNERSHIP, 5 W.R. P.C. 76.

Procedure when decree omits to provide for payment of Court-fee due to Crown—See PAUPER APPEALS, 13 A. 326=A.W.N. 1891, 97.

Of judgment, wrongly so called — High Court, when would interfere—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, A.W.N. 1881, 105.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 16 B. 511.

See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—CONCURRENT JUDGMENTS ON FACTS, 6 B.L.R. 648, P.C.=15 W.R. P.C. 23.

See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—SPECIAL LEAVE TO APPEAL AND TO DEFEND APPEAL, 27 C. 333, P.C.=27 I.A. 79=4 C. W.N. 203.

Of judgment of Small Cause Court—See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1865, s. 21, 6 B L.R. 388.

See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1865, s. 21, 6 B.L.R. 390-N.

Review—continued.

——1.—General—concluded.

Application for—S. 25, Act IX of 1887—Powers of High Court—See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 25, 5 M.L.T. 73=19 M.L.J. 56=2 Ind. Cas. 488.

See RECEIVER, 21 B. 328.

Review of order on review—Second review — Whether allowed—See RES JUDICATA—GENERAL, 25 P.W.R. 1911.

Review of consent decree refused—Fresh suit, if lies—Res judicata—See RES JUDICATA—ADJUDICATIONS, 13 C.W.N. 1197=10 C.L.J. 420=2 Ind. Cas. 129.

Decree passed on compromise entered into by pleader—Application for review of compromise-decree on the ground that pleader had no authority to compromise—Rejection of application—Fresh suit to set aside compromise-decree, whether maintainable—See RES JUDICATA—MISCELLANEOUS, 10 C.W.N. 529=2 C.L.J, 508.

See RES JUDICATA—RELIEF NOT GRANTED, 4 B.H.C.A.C. 81.

Point not raised in the lower Court even in an application for a review, whether can be raised in revision—See REVISION—GENERAL, 8 M.L.T. 85.

See REVISION—GENERAL, 45 P.L.R. 1901 =54 P.R. 1901.

District Judge can, under s, 73, Village Courts Act, 1892, review Village Munsiff's decree—See SANCTION TO PROSECUTE, 6 A.L. J. 796=6 M.L.T. 98=10 Cr. L.J. 437=3 Ind. Cas. 966.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, MOFUSSIL—JURISDICTION OF—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE OF, 13 M. 178, F.B., 8 C. 287=10 C.L. R. 275.

Order setting aside order granting review Second appeal from—See SPECIAL OR SECOND APPEAL—APPEAL AGAINST ORDERS WHEN LIE AND WHEN NOT, 24 C. 319.

Review petition allowed to be presented to the lower appellate Court when it is discovered on second appeal that there is fresh evidence—See SPECIAL OR SECOND APPEAL—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 5 Bom. L.R. 615=28 B. 4.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 4 M. 217.

Review when lies—See SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1860, ss. 5, 6, 1 A. 287.

See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 2 B.L.R.A.C. 181=11 W.R. 56, 5 B.L.R. 316=13 W.R. 439.

For costs—Court-fees on value of whole suit, necessity for—See VALUATION OF SUITS, C.W.N. 292.

Review—continued.

——2 —Grounds for Review.

(1)—General principles—Decree, setting aside of, can be only by application for review or by suit—There are only two courses provided by the Civ. Pro. Code, for the setting aside of a decree; and they are (1) a review under s. 623, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882; or (2) a separate suit under s. 11. MIRALI RAHIMBHOY v. REHMOOBHOY HABIBHOY, 15 B. 594. [R., 19 B. 571, 3 C.L.J. 119, 37 P.R. 1903, 13 C.W.N. 1197=10 C.L.J. 420=2 Ind. Cas. 129.]

(2)—Review when can be granted—Old points and new points.—As to granting a review, all that the Court has to consider is, whether it is necessary to correct any evident error, or is otherwise requisite for the ends of justice; and a review may be granted on points already discussed and decided at the original hearing of the case, as well as on new points. KALU bin BHIWAJI v. VISHRAM MAHWAJI, 1 B. 543. (6 B.L.R. 126, F.)

(3)—Review—Nature of the remedy.—It is only where a party is affected and bound by the order reviewed against, and when he has a right to be heard in the matter, that he can apply for review, but not otherwise. SIRDAR ROY v. RAMESWAR SINGH, 15 C. 166.

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—Review of judgment—"Any other sufficient reason."—This section gives a much more extended power of review than that existing in England. The words "or for any other sufficient reason" mean that the reason must be one sufficient to the Court or to the Judge before whom application for review is made, and are not limited to the discovery of new and important matter or evidence, or the occurring of a mistake or error apparent on the record. Whether or not there is in such cases "any other sufficient reason" may depend on a question of law, or upon a question of fact, or upon a mixed question of law and fact. AMIR HASSAN v. AHMAD ALI, 9 A. 36 (3 I.A. 221, R.) [R., U.B.R. 1892—1896, Vol. II, 153, 11 C.P.L.R. 41.]

(5)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—"Any other sufficient reason"—Omission to give notice—Application for review—Notice to show cause—Right to begin.—Where a notice of reference to a Full Bench was not given to the respondent, and, in consequence, the respondent was absent at the hearing, a review of the Full Bench was granted, on the ground that the absence of the respondent at the hearing came within the words "any other sufficient reason," in the section. The party opposing an application for review of judgment has the right to begin, where a notice to show cause why the application should not be granted has been issued to him. GHANSHAM SINGH v. LAL SINGH, 9 A. 61, F B.

(6)—Review of judgment, on application made within 90 days—Appeal.—A Court has the power, for any reasons that it may consider good and sufficient to grant a review; and if the application is made within 90 days, the Court's estimate of those reasons cannot be interfered with by an appellate Court. The procedure does not change merely because there is a change (during the 90 days) of office incumbents. MUSSAMUT MONTOORA v. ABLAK ROY, 11 W.R. 197. (9 W.R. 181, F.B., 10 W.R. 42, D.) [R., 8 B.H.C. 44.]

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(7)—Review of judgment—Time—Further investigation—Grounds—Time for obtaining copies.—An application for a review of judgment, if presented out of time, can be admitted only when there is special and sufficient cause for the delay. Nor can it be admitted merely for the purpose of having a further investigation in the absence of anything to show that the further evidence sought to be adduced, might not have been produced at the original trial. The time for obtaining copies of judgment should not be allowed in applications for review. JHUBHOO SAHOO v. MUSSAMUT JUSODA KOOER, 17 W.R. 230.

(8)—Application for review of judgment—Want of jurisdiction not pleaded in lower Courts, whether could be admitted by Chief Court as a good ground for review.—This was a suit on the part of a reversioner to set aside a mortgage by a widow. In the lower Courts, no plea of want of jurisdiction was advanced by either party, but after the plaintiff's appeal to the Chief Court had been dismissed by a Judge in Chambers, the plaintiff, for the first time, in an application for review of judgment, urged the ground that the first Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit. Held, without deciding whether the plea advanced was correct or otherwise, that it was not one to be admitted at the stage of second appeal, especially having come as it did from the plaintiff himself. MARATIB KHAN v. MUSST. MOUJO, 94 P.R. 1882.

(9)—Reviews when grantable—Fresh evidence—Act VII of 1859, s. 355.—Where the lower appellate Court admitted a review with the object of taking into consideration a material issue which it had omitted to consider at the trial: Held that, having admitted the review on grounds independent of fresh evidence, it was competent for the Court, under s. 355, Act VIII of 1859, to admit fresh evidence, if required, to enable it to pronounce a satisfactory judgment, or for any substantial cause. BIHARI LAL NANDI v. SRIMATI TRAILAKHOMAYI BARMANI, 3 B.L.R. A.C. 346=12 W.R. 223. (3 B.L.R. A.C. 210, App.; 11 M.I.A. 345, 1 W.R. 228, 378, R.) [R., 12 W.R. 461, 11 C. 139.]

(10)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Dismissal of suit and special appeal—Discovery of new evidence thereafter—Application for review of judgment—Court to which application to be made.—Where, after the dismissal of a suit for want of evidence and the confirmation thereof in special appeal, the wanting evidence was discovered, the plaintiff could not apply to the High Court for a declaration that the Court of first instance was at liberty to take into consideration the fresh evidence. If, under s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859, the plaintiff was entitled to obtain a review of judgment, the proper Court to apply to was the Court in which the suit was brought. Ex parte BASHIYAGARULU NAYADU, 1 M.H C. 254. [F., 6 B. H.C.A.C. 68; Appr., 18 M. 480; R., 9 W.R. 301.]

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(11)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376 & 378.—If an important document, filed with the plaint and affecting the merits of the case, is not taken issue upon and is ignored by the Judge, a review under Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 376 and 378 may be granted. MAHADEVA RAYAR v. SAPPANI, 1 M. 396.

(12)—Application for review—New evidence —Admissibility.—Documents which were available to a certain person and which he might with diligence, have obtained and filed at the time of trial, cannot be admitted in evidence on his application for review of judgment. BROJENDRO COOMAR ROY CHOWDHRY v. MR. J.P. WISE, 19 W.R. 130.

(13)—Review—Grounds.—In applying for a review, it is not sufficient for the applicant to make an affidavit that he was not aware of the existence of a document filed by the other party; the law requires that he also showed due diligence and made inquiries to ascertain its existence, and found that it was not available. SITA NATH GHOSE v. SHAMA SUNDARI DASI, 8 B.L.R. App. 37 Note=14 W.R. 26. [F., 8 B.L.R. App. 34=16 W.R. 7.]

(14)—Review—New evidence—Applicant to have no previous knowledge of existence.—Where a review is applied for on the ground of the discovery of new evidence, the applicant must satisfy the Court that the evidence tendered was not within the knowledge of the applicant, or could not be adduced by him at the time when the decree was passed and that it is prima facie evidence in the case. RAMDHAN CHUCKERBUTTY v. JAINARAYAN PANJA, 8 B. L R. App. 36, Note=12 W.R. 536. [F., 8 B. L.R. App. 34=16 W.R. 7.]

(15) — Proof that evidence was not before available.—Before a review can be granted upon the ground of the discovery of new matter, it must be stated in the petition and proved that the new matter was not within the applicant's knowledge, or could not be adduced at the time when the decree was passed. DWARAKANATH CHOWDHRY v. KISHENLALL CHOWDHRY, Marsh 553=2 Hay 650.

(16)—Nature of evidence—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 376.—The new evidence referred to in s. 376, Act VIII of 1859, is evidence that would probably alter the decision of the Court. The affidavit on which an application for review is grounded must state what the new evidence to be relied on is: in such an affidavit, no reliance can be placed on a statement of belief of good defence on the merits, but the facts to be relied on as such must be set out. DHUNSOK DASS v. HURRY BABOO, Bourke O. C. 115.

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(17)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 376 —Review—Evidence not available—Legality of admission of review — Special appeal — Rent suit for sum below hundred rupees—No adjudication—Ben. Act VIII of 1869, s. 102.—Suit for rent.—During the pendency of the suit, the plaintiff applied to the Court for a postponement of the case, on the ground that the copy of certain Jumabundee papers for which he had applied to the Collector had not been obtained. The Court, having refused the application, gave a modified decree. Plaintiff obtained a review of judgment after he got the copy and a decree was passed in full. The District Judge, on appeal, holding that the review had been wrongly admitted, inasmuch as the application for adjournment did not mention that the plaintiff was previously unacquainted with the fact of the existence of such document, reversed the review decree and confirmed the original decree. Held that, under s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859 a party, who discovered new matter or evidence which was not within his knowledge or could not be adduced by him at the time when such decree was passed, could apply for a review of judgment. In the present case, the plaintiff did not apply on the ground of having discovered new matter or evidence which was not within his knowledge, but on the ground that he knew of the existence of the new matter or evidence, that he applied for a copy of it, that the Collector did not furnish him with a copy in time to file it. Therefore, under s. 376 of the Code, the review was properly admitted. In the above case, a special appeal lay to the High Court, though the sum claimed was less than Rs. 100, as the District Judge had not come to any determination at all on the erroneous supposition that the review was improperly admitted. GOOR DYAL ROY v. DEKA NOONYA, 22 W R. 446.

(18)—Ground other than error of law or discovery of new evidence.—Order under Registration Act, 1871 — Under the Civ. Pro. Code of 1859, it was competent for a Judge to entertain an application for review on grounds other than error of law or of discovery of new evidence. N B.—In this case the Officer admitting the review was different from the one who passed the order sought to be reviewed. An order rejecting an application for registration, under s. 76 of Act VIII of 1871, was one in the nature of a "decree" so as to admit of a review. In the matter of the petition of HADJEE ABDOOLLAH, 2 C. 131, P. C.=3 I.A. 221=26 W R 50=3 Sar. 221. [Disc., 6 C. 236=6 C.L.R. 549, 2 M. 10; Appr., 10 M.L.J. 134; D, 15 C. 166; R., 9 A. 36.]

(19)—Review of judgment—New document—Discretion. — A review of judgment on the strength of a new document not produced at the first hearing, can be allowed even though the applicant fails to satisfy the Court upon legal evidence that the existence of that document was not known to him then, especially when there were several other grounds for admitting such review. HURO GOBIND PAL v. HURO SOONDAREE CHOWDHRAIN, 18 W.R. 316.

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(20)—Permission to withdraw second appeal—Review on new evidence discovered-Civ Pro. Code (Act X of 1877), s. 623—The last paragraph of s. 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code, indicates that it is the pendency of an appeal preferred by the party and nothing else, which stands in the way of his application for review. It is however just and reasonable and in accordance with practice that a party who has discovered fresh evidence, soon after he has presented his second appeal, should be allowed by the High Court to withdraw such appeal, so that he may apply for a review to the lower Court which alone could consider his new evidence. PANDU v. DEVJI, 7 B 287. [R. 30 B. 625=8 Bom L.R. 842; D., 18 M. 480.]

(21)—Judgment of Chief Court on second appeal—Subsequent discovery of new evidence by respondent—Application for review—Civ. Pro. Code, Act X of 1877, s. 623.—Under s 623 of Act X of 1877, a review can be granted of a judgment passed upon a second appeal, on the ground that the respondent has discovered new and important evidence since the decision of the appeal, his inability to produce such evidence before not arising from any want of due diligence on his part. Neither the terms of s. 623 nor any provision in Ch. XLII of the Code precluded the Court from granting an application by a respondent for review of the decree passed on second appeal based on the ground of discovery of new evidence. In the case of respondent in second appeal, the question does not arise on his application for review of the judgment passed by the Court of second appeal, which would arise if a similar application were made by the appellant, viz., whether the grounds stated in the application would be admissible as grounds of appeal under s. 584 of the Code. The appellant who is dissatisfied with the decree of the lower appellate Court would only ask for the interference of the Court of second appeal on those grounds; he can only urge them on the Court which passed the decree by applying to it for review of judgment. A respondent who has got a decree in his favour, in the lower appellate Court, could not apply to that Court for review of judgment as he could not say that he considers himself aggrieved by the decree. If the existence of the new and important evidence which would have supported the decree of the lower appellate Court was unknown to the respondent at the hearing of the second appeal notwithstanding exercise of due diligence by him, and has become known to him only after the decree of the lower appellate Court has been reversed, the decree by which he is aggrieved is that passed by the second appellate Court, and his only means of getting such evidence heard is to apply to that Court for review under s. 623.

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

LALA MAL v. GULAM MUHAMMAD, 145 P.R. 1882, F B.

(22)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—Review—Discovery of fresh evidence—Power of High Court to review its judgment in second appeal.—Per Subramania Aiyar, J.—It is open to the High Court to entertain an application for review in a second appeal on the ground of discovery of fresh documentary evidence, even if it were otherwise, where the order granting the review is granted after notice to the other party, the order cannot be said to be ultra vires and is binding on the party against whom it is passed.—Per Davies, J.—The High Court cannot entertain an application for review of its judgment in second appeal on the ground of discovery of new and important evidence GULAM MAHADE v. RAMAKRISHNA MUDALIAR, 10 M L J 134.

(23)—Special Appeal—Discovery of new matter—Review—Practice—Withdrawal of special appeal—Review by lower Court.—The High Court, when sitting in special appeal, has not ordinarily any power to determine questions of fact. Where the Court is asked, on review of its decree made in special appeal, to set aside that decree on the discovery of new evidence, it could not make use of that new evidence, for the purpose of altering any of the findings on questions of fact by the District Court. Nor would the discovery of new evidence subsequently to the making of the decree of the District Court be any ground of special appeal, although it might be a good ground for an application to the District Court for a review of its decree, provided no special appeal shall have been admitted by the High Court. Where the new evidence, on which the review is sought is evidence of facts which might affect the jurisdiction of the Court in special appeal, such a case would be peculiar and possibly might constitute an exception to the general rule which we have now laid down. Quære:—Whether the Court ought, in such a case, to review the decision made in a special appeal? Pleaders should be careful to advise their clients not to prefer special appeals where the proper remedy is an application to the District Court for a review of its judgment. When new evidence is discovered, the proper course for the appellant to adopt is to ask leave to withdraw his special appeal, and to apply to the lower Court for a review of its judgment. NANABHAI VALLABHDASS v. NATHABHAI HARIBHAI, 9 B H C. 89. [F., 9 B.H.C. 238, 7 B. 287; R., 28 B. 4=5 Bom. L.R. 615, 30 B. 625=8 Bom. L.R. 842.]

(24)—Special appeal—Discovery of fresh evidence after admission—Proper procedure—Review.—Where fresh evidence is discovered since the admission of a special appeal, the proper course is to dismiss the special appeal, in order to enable the special appellant to apply for a review of the lower appellate Court's judgment. PANDURANG SADASHIV v. MORO VASUDEV, 6 B.H.C.A.C. 68. [Diss., 9 B.H.C. 89.]

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(25)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 335—Additional evidence, admission of, in appeal —Discretion of Court—Review.—Under s. 335, Act VIII of 1859, an appellant is not entitled to produce additional evidence, but the appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, admit it. The proper course for the appellant, where his application for the admission of additional evidence is rejected, is not to prefer a special appeal to the Judge, but to apply to him for a review of his order. RAM LALL v. RUNG LALL, 17 W.R. 47.

(26)—Admission of review—Grounds—Error —Additional evidence.—An error by a Judge as to the subject of a certain dagh in a Government Halabadee chitta, is sufficient to justify him in entertaining a review. Held further that, at the time of review, the applicant may produce additional evidence which was not originally necessary to prove his claim. GUNESH RAM SURMAH v. ROHINEE DOSSEE, 14 W.R. 236.

(27)—Review of judgment—Error on point of law, whether sufficient ground.—An error on a point of law is a sufficient ground for review of judgment. KOH POH v. MOUNG TAY, 10 W. R. 143.

(28)—Second appeal—Review of judgment in second appeal—Error of law—Erroneous finding of fact—Jurisdiction— Buddhist Law—Husband and wife—Husband or wife dealing singly with joint property - Presumption —A review in second appeal might be granted if there is an error of law on the face of the judgment, or, where the decision of the Court has proceeded upon a mistaken view of the law. (14 C 627, F.) A review should not be granted for the purpose of allowing the parties to re-argue the case upon the evidence upon the chance of throwing doubt over the decision already passed. (24 W.R. 186, 25 W.R. 324, F.) A Court of second appeal has no jurisdiction to entertain a second appeal on the ground of an erroneous finding of fact, however, gross and inexcusable the error may seem to be, where there is no error or defect in the procedure. The finding of the first appellate Court upon a question of fact is final, if that Court had before it evidence proper for its consideration in support of the finding. (18 C. 23, F.) Where the parties, a Buddhist husband and wife, begin by acting jointly with respect to the property owned jointly by both, it is a question of fact as to whether the wife or husband was a consenting party when dealing singly with the same property hereafter. In cases where they are still living together, the presumption would be that one was acting as agent for the other. The presumption is, therefore, that the wife consents to the acts of her husband as long as the marriage continues, but this presumption may be rebutted. R M M.S. SOOBRAHMONIAN CHETTY v MA HNIN YE, L B.R. 1893—1900, 568 [R., 1 L B.R. 11, 3 L.B.R. 66, L.B.R. 1893—1900, 575; D., 2 L.B.R. 324.]

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(29)—Act X of 1877, s. 623—Error in law in judgment whether sufficient reason for review—Erroneous grant of review—Appellate Court if competent to reverse decree passed on review—Error not affecting merits of case or jurisdiction of Court.—It cannot be laid down, as a matter of law, that an application for review made upon the ground of error in law in the judgment to be reversed, is not based upon a sufficient reason for review within the meaning of s 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code, so as to justify a reversal of the final order passed upon review. Even if it be conceded that the proper procedure in order to correct a positive error in law is by way of appeal rather than review, and that an order admitting a review for this purpose, is for the above reason erroneous, still as it is an error not affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court, it is contrary, to the express prohibition in s. 578 of the Code, for an appellate Court to reverse the decree subsequently passed merely on the ground that the application for review ought not to have been granted. HIRA v. MUSSAMMAT MALO, 128 P.R. 1881.

(30)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—Review on ground of error in law—Maintainability.—The Court has jurisdiction to entertain an application for review of judgment on the ground that the judgment was wrong in law. MUTHUSAMI PILLAI v. SRINIVASIER, 12 M. L.J. 194.

(31)—Review—Evident error or omission—Special appeal—Grant of review—New evidence —Mode of hearing.—If the Court to which an application for a review of judgment is made be of opinion that the review desired is necessary to correct an evident error or omission, or requisite for the ends of justice, and if there be matter before it upon which it may come to that opinion, an order admitting the application cannot be the subject of special appeal In the trial of a case after it has been re-opened by the admission of an application for review, the Court can admit evidence which has come to the knowledge or within the reach of the applicant since the first hearing. It is not necessary that the new evidence so admitted must be sufficient per se to show that the previous decision is wrong or such as to cause overpowering balance of evidence. The Court should consider the case with the new evidence in the same way as the case would have had to be considered before, i.e., the case is to be heard as if it were being originally heard with the material then before the Court. SAHABJAN BIBEE v. SYUD SUFDAR ALI, 22 W.R. 258.

(32)—Judgment based on overruled decision —Sufficient ground for review—Where a decision was based on a case reported in the I.L.R. series but which had been overruled by a Full Bench before the date of the decision, though it was reported subsequently, there was sufficient reason for a review of the judgment, particularly when the effect of the judgment was, on a technical point, to go against what the lower Courts had found to be on the merits of the case. KOOAR LALL v. RUKMA BAI, 11 C P. L R. 41. (9 A. 36, 14 C. 627, 7 M. 307, 10 M. 357, F.)

Review—continued.

— 2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(33)—Practice - Omission to try point urged—Mistake—Review—No special appeal.—Where a Judge refuses to try a point which he ought to try and which was urged before him, that will be a very good ground for special appeal. But where there is an omission to try any point from mistake, the non-decision on that point forms no good ground for special appeal. The proper course is to apply for review to the Judge, and if he refuses to admit a review, an application to the High Court may be made. J. P. WISE v. HURO LALL GIREE GOSSAIN, 16 W.R. 150.

(34)—Practice—Omission by Court to try point urged—Duty of pleader—Review.—When a point is urged before the Judge and the Judge has omitted to try it, it is the duty of the vakeel who urged that point before the Judge to go before him after the decision and to point out to him that he has omitted to decide the point. If necessary, an application for review may be filed. The Judge can then determine that point and pass orders upon it. HUSSUM ALI CHOWDHRY v. NASSIROODDEEN, 16 W.R. 134.

(35)—Decision quite wrong in principle—Review of such decision.—A review can be asked of a decision which is absolutely wrong in principle. DULA SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH, 1 P.R. 1872, Rev.

(36)—Review—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Oral application for enlarging grounds for review.—Upon an application for review of judgment before the Sudder Court, the written grounds for review impugned the correctness of the decision of the Court below, on grounds that related solely to the immoveable estate, and not to the moveable estate also in question in the suit. Held that, notwithstanding the terms of s. 378 of Act VIII of 1859, it was competent to the Judges, by whom the order allowing the application for review was made, to enlarge those grounds, on an oral application, by including moveables, if satisfied that there was a proper case on the merits for so doing. Even if the Court below had been wrong in its procedure, its miscarriage will not prevent the Judicial Committee from deciding the question touching the disposition of the moveable estate on its merits. The Judges of the Sudder Court admitting an application for review were competent to make a qualified order, leaving in the Court which was to review the decision, a discretion as to the extent to which the review should be carried. BHUGWANDEEN DOOBEY v. MYNA BAEE, 9 W.R P.C. 23 = 11 M.I.A. 487 = 2 Suther. 124 = 2 Sar. 327. [F., 9 C. 209, 12 C.L.R. 64; Rel. on, 11 Ind. Cas. 102.]

(37)—Ex parte decree—Review—Non-service of summons proved by defendant.—Where the defendant against whom an ex-parte decree was passed appeared before the Court earlier than 15 days after service of process for enforcing judgment, and swore that no summons had been served on him in the case which led to the ex parte decree and that although he had entered into a contract with the plaintiff to pay rents for the mehal, yet that the contract had been broken by the plaintiff himself, held, that good and sufficient reason had been shown for the defendant's previous non-appearance, and that there had been a failure of justice. Held, further, that as this evidence was given in the presence of the Mookhtears of both sides, and as the Court ordered that the case be entered in the register of reviews, there was a proper admission of a review in the case. ANUND MOYEE DOSSEE CHOWDHRAIN v. ANUND SOONDUR MOZOOMDAR, 13 W.R. 237.

Review—continued.

——2.—Grounds for Review—continued.

(38)—Rent—Decree for rent on basis of decree for kabooleut—Subsequent reversal of latter decree—Remedy by review.—On the basis of a decree for a kabooleut, certain rent suits were decreed in favour of the plaintiff. Subsequently, the decree for kabooleut was reversed on appeal. Held, that the remedy open to the defendants was by way of review to the Court of first instance. MORAREE MOBAJUN v. MAHOMED AKMOL. 22 W R. 161.

(39)—Review, when not grantable—Arguments and facts already placed before Court—Review—Grounds for.—A review is not to be sought upon the arguments and facts already placed before the Court, and upon which judgement has been given, nor should it be allowed on a new point not taken at all at the first hearing, though full opportunity existed for doing so. JANAB ALI v. CHANDI CHARAN DEY, 5 B.L.R. 334, Note = 11 W.R. 202.

(40)—Special appeal - Judgment— Review—Grounds—New point—Patni, Sale of—Separate lots—Legality—Reg. VIII of 1819.—It is not sufficient ground for a review of judgment passed on special appeal that the point on which the Court's judgment was based was not raised in the lower Courts, and, especially where the question was raised pointedly in special appeal and the respondent had plenty of time to meet the statement therein. Under Reg. VIII of 1819, a putnee cannot be sold in separate lots, even though the sale is made on the same day. HERBERT COWELL v. MOHADEB MUNDUL, 17 W R. 182. [Appl., 20 W.R. 275.]

(41)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Application for review—Ground.—A Court cannot entertain an application for review on the ground that, if the facts had been better or more fully placed before the Court, the conclusion would have been different. Nor is a subsequent decision of a question of law by the Privy Council in another suit a ground on which a review can be granted. JADUB RAM DEB v. RAM LOCHUN MUDDUCK, 19 W.R. 189.

(42)—Review—Discovery of new evidence—Inquiry as to discovery.—A Judge has no power to review his judgment on the ground of discovery of new evidence of the existence of which the plaintiff was not previously aware, where it does not appear to have been any inquiry as to whether or not the plaintiff could and ought to have produced that evidence before. NUBOKISHOR BISWAS v. JADUB CHUNDER SIRCAR, 20 W.R. 426.

Review—continued.

—2.—Ground for Review—continued.

(43)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623—Review of judgment—Second appeal—Discovery of new and important evidence.—The High Court on second appeal had decided that a mortgage was void, on the ground that the mortgaged property was, on the date of its execution, subject to an attachment in execution of a decree. The plaintiff-appellant sought for a review of the judgment on the ground of the discovery of new and important documentary evidence showing that on the date of the mortgage the property was not subject to any attachment. Held, that the application could not be entertained, inasmuch as the ground relied upon could not be successfully relied on in the second appeal itself. RARU KUTTI v. MAMAD, 18 M. 480. [F., 10 M.L.J. 134, 31 M. 415.]

(44)—Judgment passed on special appeal—Discovery of material evidence since judgment passed—Review—Unsustainability.—An application for review of a judgment passed on special appeal, upon the ground of the discovery of material evidence since the judgment was passed on special appeal, cannot be entertained, as the ground taken in the application for review could not be successfully relied upon in the special appeal itself. JACKAMMAL v. PALNEAPPA CHETTY, 5 M.H.C. 464. [F., 10 M.L.J. 134 ; Appr., 9 B.H.C. 89 ; R., 18 M. 480.]

(45)—Review of judgment—Grounds.—Where the object of an application for review was to tender as evidence fresh matter, but the petition was unverified and supported by no proof of the kind referred to in 3 B.L.R. App. 35 N. held, that the review could not be granted. KHELUT CHUNDER GHOSE v. PRANKISTO DAY, 11 B.L.R. 428, Note=12 W.R. 411.

(46)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Review—Discovery of new evidence—Proof.—A Munsiff's order granting a review without proof that the new evidence tendered was not available before, was held to be illegal, as well as the decision of the lower appellate Court confirming that order. UMRAO THAKUR v. GAKUL MANDAL, 8 B.L.R. App. 34=16 W.R. 7. [F., 17 W.R. 230, 17 W.R. 458 ; R., 18 W.R. 15.]

(47)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 378—Review—Fresh evidence.—A Judge ought not to admit a review for the purpose of receiving fresh evidence in the suit, except upon being satisfied by legal evidence that such fresh evidence was not known to the applicant, or could not have been obtained by him, at the time of the original trial. NAFFAR CHAND PAL CHOWDHRY v. D. SANDAS, 8 B.L.R. App. 35=10 W.R. 432. [F., 12 W.R. 461, 16 W.R. 7=8 B.L.R. App. 34 ; R., 17 W.R. 458.]

(48)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 876—Special appeal—Discovery of fresh evidence—Review.—After the disposal of a special appeal by the High Court confirming the decision of the lower appellate Court, the appellant applied to the High Court for a review of the judgment passed in special appeal, on the ground of discovery of new evidence. Held, that that was not a sufficient ground for asking for a review of a special appeal, although that might be a good ground for asking the lower Court, which deals with the facts of the case, to admit a review of its judgment. PANCHANAN MOOKERJEE v. RADHA NATH MOOKERJEE, 4 B.L.R. A.C. 213. [F., 5 M.H.C. 464, 18 M. 480, 4 Ind. Cas. 809=6 A.L.J. 979=32 A. 71 ; Appl., 9 B.H.C. 89.]

(49)—Application for review—Discovery of new evidence—Proof of such discovery since the first hearing—Review granted without such proof, appealable as contrary to law—Competency of Judge to reverse decision of predecessor, only on palpable error committed by latter.—The law allows a Judge to review his own judgment or the judgment of his predecessor on any sufficient ground. Where the ground of the application for review is the discovery of new evidence, it is a condition precedent to the acceptance of that evidence that the applicant for review should satisfy the Court that the new evidence sought to be adduced was not within his knowledge, or could not be adduced by him at the time of first trial. Unless, therefore, at the time of granting the review, the Court is satisfied that the new evidence could not have been adduced at the first trial, such application could not be legally granted. Consequently, it is not competent to a Court, when the application is based on the discovery of new evidence, to dispense with proof that the new evidence was not within the knowledge or the reach of the applicant at the time of the first hearing ; and if a Court does re hear a case when an application has been granted without such proof, it is a valid ground of appeal, both regular and special, that the judgment arrived at upon the review has been arrived at contrary to law. Except on such clear and palpable error committed by his predecessor, no Judge is competent to reverse the decision of his predecessor on a matter of fact on the selfsame evidence. So, when any evidence is adduced as affording a ground for preferring an application for review and the Judge finds that the new evidence is not sufficient per se to show that the decision of his predecessor is wrong, on the matter of fact, or that the new evidence if thrown into the scale, would not create an over-powering balance of evidence on the side of the party on whose behalf the application is made, the Judge's proper course is to refuse the application. SHUMSHER ALI KHAN v. RAMCHUNDER GOOPTO, 2 W.R. 174. [F., 16 W.R. 7; R., 17 W.R. 458; D., 18 W.R. 15.]

Review—continued.

——2.—Ground for Review—continued.

(50)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 378—Review—Fresh evidence.—A Judge ought not to admit the review for the purpose of receiving fresh evidence in the suit except upon being satisfied by legal evidence that such fresh evidence proposed to be adduced was not known to the applicant or could not be obtained by him at the time of the original trial. NUFFUR CHAND PAUL CHOWDHRY v. A.D SANDES, 10 W.R. 432. [F., 12 W.R. 461; R., 16 W.R. 7, 17 W.R 458.]

(51)—Review — Discovery of new proof—Chowkeedaree and census returns—Descriptions of boundaries — Evidentiary value of.—The mere discovery of new proof is not in itself a ground for admitting a review. Chowkeedaree and Census Returns and descriptions of boundaries in the deeds of strangers even if the property adjoins are very unsatisfactory, if not wholly worthless, as evidence. MUSST. RADHEY KOONWER v. AJOODHYA PANDEY, 3 Agra 69.

(52)—Evidence—Judgment inter partes, admissible but not conclusive—Review—Special appeal—New evidence—Review of judgment passed in special appeal.—A judgment inter partes may be received in favour of a stranger as against a party thereto, not as concluding such party but as evidence for what it is worth. The High Court cannot admit a review of a judgment passed in special appeal, merely on the ground that new evidence to prove a fact has been discovered. BHYRUB NATH TOEE v. KALLY CHUNDER CHOWDHRY, 16 W.R. 112. [F., 9 B.H C 89, 18 M. 480.]

(53)—Review of judgment, Ground for—Error in law—Mistaken view of law.—If there is an error in law on the face of a judgment, or if it is shown that the decision of the Court had proceeded upon a mistaken view of the law, that is a ground for review of judgment, if it is necessary for the ends of justice that the judgment should be reviewed. In this case, however, a review was refused on the score of absence of danger of miscarriage of justice, without seeing whether there was any error in law or not. SHARUP CHAND MALA v. PAT DASSEE, 14 C 627. [F., L.B.R. 1893-1900, 568, 124 P.R. 1906=97 P.L.R. 1907; R., U.B.R. 1892—1896, Vol. II, 153, 11 C.P.L.R. 41.]

(54)—Review of judgment—Reason for applying for review—Error in fact or law—Grounds of appeal—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 623—A review of judgment cannot be granted on grounds which are virtually gounds for appealing from the judgment. SHEO RATAN v. LAPPU KUAR, 5 A. 14.

(55)—Institution of two suits in same Court—Judge taking different views in deciding them—Review—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—Appeal.

Review—continued.

——2.—Ground for Review—continued.

—The fact that a Judge, in whose Court two suits were instituted, in deciding one of them, took a view of the facts contrary to that which he had previously taken in the other, is no ground of review, but the matter should be left for appeal. MAHAMAD SHAH KHAN v. MAHAMAD YAR KHAN, A.W.N. 1885, 123.

(56)—Review—Conflicting decisions—Authority discovered since decision.—An application for a review of judgment will not be allowed on the ground that the decision of a Division Bench of a High Court is at variance with the decision of another Division Bench of the same High Court. It is no ground for re-opening a case which has been fully argued, that the diligence of a pleader has discovered, since the decision, an authority in his favour. NOBEEN KISHEN MOOKERJEE v. SHIB PERSHAD PATTUCK, 9 W.R. 161.

(57)—Conflicting decisions—Reference to Full Bench on review.—An application for review will not be admitted in order that the case may be set to be argued before a Full Bench, on account of the conflict of decisions of the High Court on questions of fact. FERGUSSON v. THE GOVERNMENT, 9 W.R. 158.

(58)—Precedents not cited at hearing—Such precedents no ground.—Production of authority, not brought to Court's notice at hearing, is no ground for grant of review. ELLEM v. BASHEER, 1 C. 184=24 W.R. 382. [R., 6 C. 236=6 C.L.R. 549]. See also, ROY MEGHRAJ v. BEEJOY GOBIND BURRAL, 1 C. 197=23 W.R. 438.

(59)—Erroneous decision on immaterial point.—When an issue which decides the case on the merits has been found in favour of either party, a review of judgment will not be granted, merely because there has been an erroneous decision on a point affecting an issue which, in consequence of the finding, has become immaterial. RAKUB DOSS v. SOORAJ MULL, Bourke O.C. 131.

(60)—Review—Re-arguing case upon evidence—Documents, admissibility of—Order of review questionable in special appeal—A review can be given only for certain particular reasons, and it cannot be given merely for the purpose of allowing the parties to re-argue the case upon the evidence, upon the chance of eventually throwing doubt on the soundness of the decision already passed. Whether certain documents already admitted as evidence were admissible as evidence or not, is not a point which can be urged in review. An order granting a review in a case where there is no ground upon which a review can legally be granted, cannot be considered as final, and such an order may be questioned in special appeal. KOLEEMOODDEEN MUNDUL v. HEERUN MUNDUL, 24 W.R. 186.

(61)—Review of judgment—Pleader's neglect in conduct of appeal.—Reviews are not granted merely to supply defects on the part of pleaders in their conduct of appeals. If a remand was necessary in an appeal and the pleader neglected his duty to ask for it, this neglect would be no reason why the judgment should be reviewed. PROSUNNONATH DUTT v. JUDOONATH PAUL, 9 W.R 589.

Review —continued.

——2.—Ground for Review —continued.

(62) —Review of judgment —Improper neglect to examine witness —Objection not raised in regular appeal —An objection that the evidence of a witness was not taken in the lower Court when the defendants applied to have him examined, is no ground for a review of judgment, if this objection was not raised when the case was argued before the Court in regular appeal. MUNSHAD BIBEE v. BABOO LUCHMEEPUT SINGH, 9 W.R. 129.

(63) —Registration, Plea of—Not urged at original hearing or in lower Courts—Review. — Where the plea that registration protected a tenure was not urged at the original hearing or in both the lower Courts, and it was found that the title so registered had been procured fraudulently, held, that such plea could not be admitted as a proper ground for review. RAM CHUNDER CHOWDHRY v. HURISH CHUNDER CHOWDHRY, 19 W.R. 196.

(64)—Review of first appellate Court's judgment—New defence set up—Defence if admissible.—Where in the first Court the defendants set up the plea of exchange which was found against them and decree for possession was given to the plaintiffs and on appeal the Judicial Assistant dismissed the appeal the defendants still insisting upon their title by exchange, and, on a subsequent application for review by the defendants wherein they set up an entirely new defence, the Judicial Assistant allowed the defendants' new plea and dismissed the plaintiffs' suit and this order was upheld by the Commissioner, the Chief Court reversed the orders of the Judicial Assistant and the Commissioner and restored the decree of the first Court, holding that there was no sufficient ground for admitting the application for review. GUNDA SINGH v. TABA, 28 P.R. 1880.

(65)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376 and 378.—A review, on the sole ground of injustice having been done, ought not to be allowed under ss. 376 and 378 of Act VIII of 1859, though the wordings used in the sections, viz., "other good and sufficient reason" (s. 376) and "otherwise requisite for the ends of justice" (s. 378) are general and confers a wide jurisdiction. If the review is asked for in reference to the conclusion of fact drawn from the evidence, it should not be granted simply upon the same evidence. RAMAN v. KARUNATHA THARAKAN, 2 M. 10. (2 C. 131, Disc.)

(66)—Act X of 1877, ss. 281, 283—Claim to property attached in execution, order rejecting claim—Review of order excluded by s. 283.—The effect of the last sentence of s. 283 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, was to exclude review of an order passed under ss. 280, 281, or 283 of Act

Review—continued.

——2.—Ground for Review—continued.

X of 1877, the only remedy being by way of suit. In re BANWARI LALL, 143 P.R. 1879, F.B..

(67)—Review—Grant of review without legal reasons—Legality of judgment on review.—Where a review was admitted without sufficient legal reasons, the judgment passed on review was passed without jurisdiction and could be set aside on appeal. SYUD FUZZUL HOSSEIN v. ENAYET ALI KHAN, 22 W.R. 268.

(68) —Review—Act XXVII of 1860—Refusal of certificate—Grounds for review of order.—Where an apolication for grant of a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 was refused on the ground that the applicant had not proved his relationship to the deceased, a review of the order could not be granted, unless the applicant proved that he was ignorant of the evidence which he wanted to let in subsequently or showed that the evidence could not be produced when the application was first heard. NISSA BIBEE v. ABDOOR RUHMAN, 18 W. R. 413.

(69) —Application to appeal in forma pauperis —Limitation—Review—Finality of order.—An application to be permitted to file an appeal in forma pauperis having been rejected, the petitioner appealed for a review of that order. Held that the order rejecting the application to be permitted to file an appeal in forma pauperis was final, but that the appellant might file an appeal on a full stamp. BHAG SINGH v. GHUSEETA MULL, 73 P.R. 1868.

(70)—Act XI of 1865, s. 21—Re-trial—Review of judgment—Small Cause Courts.—By s. 21, Act XI of 1865, all decisions and orders of a Small Cause Court are final except in the two instances stated therein; and by s. 47 of the same Act, the provisions of the Civ. Pro. Code are only applicable to suits and proceedings of Small Cause Courts where no special provisions exist in the Act, as is evident from the use of the words "except as hereinafter provided" in that section. And, as a special provision for a new trial has been made in s. 21 of the Act, the provisions of the Civ. Pro. Code, for review of judgment do not apply to Small Cause Courts. GOOLAB SHAH v. LUCHMAN DASS, 70 P.R. 1867. [Overruled, 29 P.R. 1879.]

(71)—Small Cause Court—New trial — Review.—The decrees of Small Cause Courts are both final as regards appeal, and final as regards the Court passing them, save so far as applications for new trials may be granted. An application to vary a decree is not an application for a new trial, and a Small Cause Court cannot review in any other way an order previously made by it. RUTTAN SINGH v. DARMODY, 4 P.R. 1876.

Grounds for—Erroneous decision as to jurrisdiction—Discovery of important document—Revision against order rejecting petition for review when lies. See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 25, sch. II, art. 29, 195 P.L.R. 1911.

Review—continued.

—2.—Ground for Review—concluded.

See RULE TO SHOW CAUSE, 3 B.H.C. A. C. 49.

Admission of unstamped document by first Court on payment of duty and penalty—Power of appellate Court to review—See STAMP ACT, 1879, ss. 3, 50, 12 C, 64.

—3.—Jurisdiction to Review.

(1)—Mofussil Courts—Review of judgment—Jurisdiction.—The inferior Courts in the Mofussil have no jurisdiction to review their own judgments except under the circumstances and with the limitations set forth in the Civ. Pro. Code. BURRA FAKEER DOSS BEERA v. FAKEER DOSS BEERA, 20 W.R. 180.

(2)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 626—Powers of Court on review.—The defendant was ordered to pay Rs. 40 as costs. On his application for review of the order as to costs he was directed to pay over Rs. 100 additional to the plaintiff. Held, that, in the absence of an application for review by the plaintiff, the order of the Court was ultra vires. MUHAMMED ALI v. MUSAMMAT SARDAR BEGUM, 73 P.L.R. 1901.

(3)—Review of judgment in favour of some parties only.—Review can be granted only as regards parties applying or appearing. DOORGA PERSAUD GHOSE v. GREESH CHUNDER BOSE, 1 W.R. 222. [R., 6 C.L.J. 226; Cons., 24 A. 383; D., 25 C. 155=1 C.W.N. 652.]

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, Ch. XI—Second review of judgment on application of same party.—A Court has no jurisdiction to grant a second review of judgment on the application of the same party under the Civ. Pro. Code. VENCAMA SHETTY v. PAMOO SHETTY, 5 M.H.C. 323. [R., 15 C. 432.]

(5)—Review of judgment, Second application for admissibility.—A second application for review of judgment can be admitted, although a first application has been rejected as being founded on insufficient grounds. FUKHEEROODDEEN v. KALACHAND SIRDAR, 1 W.R. 287.

(6)—Application for review of judgment, dismissal of, for default—Second application for review, maintainability of.—The second appeal in this case was preferred on the grounds that the Principal Sudder Ameen was wrong in reviving the application for review which had been struck off for default, the Code of Procedure nowhere providing for the exercise of such power by the Appellate Court, and that, if the Court below had no power to restore the application, the judgment pronounced by it was illegal, and must be reversed, and the decision of the former Principal Sudder Ameen restored. The High Court held that the order subsequently admitting the petition of review was a just and proper one, inasmuch as the former Principal Sudder Ameen had committed a grave error in his judgment in stating that the petitioner had not filed certain material documents bearing on the merits of the case, whereas they were actually on the record. The order reviving the application for review was not contrary to law. There is no provision in the Code of Procedure for or against such a proceeding and the authorities support the position that "under the law a second application for review can be admitted." NEEDOO MONEE DOSSEE v. SARODA MONEE DOSSEE, 2 W.R. 61.

Review—continued.

—4.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(7)—Second review of judgment, not allowed by law—First review neither appealed against nor shown to be wrong.—A second review of the judgment sought for in this case was refused on the ground that such an application was not contemplated by the law itself or by the decisions. The previous order in this case in favour of the judgment-debtor had not been appealed against or shown to be in any way improper, incorrect, or illegal; and, while it existed it could effectually bar the decree-holder. TARANATH ROY v. RAJBULLUB BHUNJE, 7 W.R. 464.

(8)—Review, admission of, after time—Just and reasonable cause to be proved.—A party applying for a review beyond time must show, in order that the application may be heard, just and reasonable cause to the satisfaction of the Court for not having preferred such application within the limited period of 90 days; and where a Court entertains an application for review beyond time, though the applicant has not shown just and reasonable cause for the delay, the Court acts without jurisdiction and its order is null and void. MUSSUMMAT FATTO v. LASHKAR KHAN, 101 P.R. 1876, F.B. (2 I.A. 58, F.)

(9)—Suit dismissed for default—No application for restoration—S. 623, Civ. Pro. Code.—Where a suit has been dismissed for default, and the party has allowed his right under s. 99, Civ. Pro. Code, to have his case restored, to be barred, the Court has no jurisdiction under s. 623 of the Code to reinstate the case. KOILOSH MONDOL v. NABADWIP CHANDRA KAR, 2 C.W.N. 318. [R., 33 P.R. 1909, 4 N.L.R. 166; D., 26 C. 598.]

(10)—Reference on review—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 28—Deposit of moveables—Suit for recovery of moveables, or their value—Limitation Act, XIV of 1859, s. 1, cl. 15.—The Chief Court may consider a reference made on review covered by s. 28 of Act XXIII of 1861. In a suit against a depositary of moveables for the recovery of the moveables or their value, Held that, if the limitation for the suit be three years, the period must be reckoned from the date of demand and refusal. But it would seem that the Receiver might be regarded as a depositary, and thirty years would be the limit to an action against a depositary. GYAN CHAND v. MOHUMDA, 23 P R. 1872.

Review—continued.

——3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(11)—Appeal from original decree—Dismissal for default in depositing costs for paper-book—Application under Rules of Calcutta High Court—Cl. 15, Letters Patent—Limitation.—Per Petheram, C.J., Prinsep and Ghose, JJ.—An application for re-admission of an appeal dismissed for default in putting in costs of preparation of paper-book is not an application for review of judgment. Under s. 627, Civ. Pro. Code, a single Judge of the High Court cannot dispose it of. When such an application is disposed of by a single Judge, it seems an appeal, under s. 15, Letters Patent, will lie therefrom. Per Prinsep and Ghose, JJ.—Such an application is not one, under s. 588, Civ. Pro. Code, but one under the Rules of the Calcutta High Court, and as such, is not governed by art. 168, Act XV of 1877. RAM HARI SAHU v. MADAN MOHAN MITTER, 23 C. 339. [Overruled, 24 C. 350=1 C.W.N. 21; R., 9 Bom. L. R. 508=32 B. 1.]

(12)—Decree of Subordinate Judge for costs—Confirmation by High Court—Finality—Successor of Subordinate Judge—New construction of decree by.—A decree of a Subordinate Judge in respect of costs, which is confirmed on appeal to the High Court, is final. Consequently, an Officiating Subordinate Judge is not competent to put an entirely new construction upon the decree after the decision of the case by his predecessor. BABOO JUGGUR NATH SINGH v. AFZUL KHAN, 17 W.R. 130.

(13)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 206—Applicability—Decree under Act X of 1859—Review—Appeal—Jurisdiction.—S. 206 of Act VIII of 1859 which prohibits settlements out of Court is not applicable to decrees passed under Act X of 1859. A Deputy Collector is not competent to review his order passed in execution of a decree. A Collector acts without jurisdiction in receiving an appeal from an order passed in execution. RAJAH PROTAB CHUNDER SINGH v. KANAYE LAL DOSS, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 7.

(14)—Decision of Deputy Collector—Review of judgment—Decree against one of two defendants—Appeal to make other defendant liable—Review of judgment—Reversal of decree.—A Deputy Collector is not competent to entertain an application for review of the judgment of his predecessor. Where, in a suit against two defendants, the plaintiff, who has obtained a decree against one of them, appeals to the Judge to make the other defendant also jointly liable, the defendant against whom the decree was given may, in the meantime, apply for a review of judgment, and the decree also may be reversed. LALJEE MUL v. BABOO DHUNPUT SINGH, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 94.

(15)—High Court Rules—Dismissal of appeal for default to deposit costs for preparation of Paper-book—Remedy—Ss. 558, 623, 626, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882.—Under Civ. Pro. Code, there are only two ways known to the law by which a judgment and decree of a Divisional Bench of the High Court can be set aside in India. These two methods are described in ss. 58 and 623 of the Code. The only mode of setting aside a decree of a Division Bench of the High Court dismissing an appeal for default in depositing costs of preparation of the Paper book under the rules of the High Court, is by an order under s. 626, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. FATIMUNNISSA v. DEOKI PERSHAD, 24 C 350, F.B.=1 C.W.N. 21. (23 C. 339, Overruled.) [R., 3 C. W.N. 24, 32 B. 1=9 Bom. L.R. 508.]

(16)—Review after determination of special appeal—Clerical error—Jurisdiction—Review to modify substance of judgment—Review to alter award of costs.—A lower appellate Court has jurisdiction to review its own judgment for the purpose of correcting a mere clerical error, even after a special appeal from its decision has been heard and decided. [F., 14 W.R. 438, 8 A. 519 =A.W.N. 1886, 182; R., 11 W.R. 511, 20 W.R. 111.] Where the ground of review goes to the substance of the judgment (e.g., to alter an award of costs) and does not merely seek a rectification of the decree so as to make it to accord with the judgment, a lower appellate Court has no jurisdiction to grant a review of its own judgment after a special appeal from its decision has been heard and decided. OOMANUND ROY v. MAHARAJAH SUTTISH CHUNDER ROY, 9 W.R. 471.

(17)—Review, sufficiency of grounds for—Discretion of Court—Finality of order admitting review—Application for re-hearing of case decided ex parte before execution process—Plea not raised before lower appellate Court if permissible in special appeal—The question of the sufficiency of the grounds for admitting a review of judgment is one for the discretion of the Court admitting the application for review, and the order of the Court upon the point would be final under s. 13, Act VI of 1862 (B.C.) The defendants in this case having applied for a re-hearing of their case that had been decided ex parte, before any process for execution of the decree was carried out, it was held that they were within the time allowed by law for the purpose and that the Court had not acted illegally in reviving the suit. Although, as a general rule, no plea can be allowed to be taken on special appeal which has not been taken before the lower appellate Court, yet, there are cases of exceptions in which such rule ought not to be enforced. LAL MOHUN SEIN v. ANUND CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY, 4 W.R. Act X, Rul. 3.

(18)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 623, 624, 626—Review.—Where an application for review of judgment has been presented to the Court under s. 623, Code of Civil Procedure, on grounds other than those mentioned in s. 624, and notice has been ordered to the other party to show cause against the application being granted, and the Judge is transferred before the hearing, his locum tenens has jurisdiction to hear and finally determine the application for review. RAMASAMI v. KURISU, 13 M. 178, F.B. [D., 7 P.R. 1894.]

Review—continued.

3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(19)—Review of judgment, if barred by preferring appeal against it.—An appeal made against a judgment is no obstacle to the judgment being reviewed by the Court which passed it. RASH BEHAREE SINGH v. KOONJ BEHAREE SINGH, W.R. 1864, Mis. 31. [Cons., 11 W.R. 511.]

(20)—Review of judgment—Appeal against decree--Competency of Court to proceed with review.—The only question in this appeal was whether the principal Sudder Ameen was right in having proceeded with a review after an appeal had been filed against the very decree, and the High Court held that it was competent to a Court to proceed with a review in such a case and decreed the appeal reversing the decision of the Zillah Judge. SYED AZUDOODMEEN HYDER v. KHAJAH ABDOOL KUREEM, 6 W. R. 110. (5 W.R., 59. F.B., F.)

(21)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377—Review presented after time—Reasonable cause for not preferring within time—Appeal by one of several defendants—Other defendants may apply for review.—Plaintiff sued to recover possession from the two defendants who had ousted him, adding other persons as co-defendants. He prayed for wassilat and costs against the defendants who had dispossessed him. One of the pro forma defendants objected to the plaintiff's executing the decree against him but his objections were disallowed. Within three months from this, the said defendant presented a petition to the first Court for review of the original decree, which was admitted and the case restored to file. On appeal, the Judge set aside this decision, holding that the Principal Sudder Ameen had no power, after an interval of five years from the date of the original decree, to admit a review. The High Court, on special appeal, held that the first Court was right in having held that there was reasonable cause for not preferring the application for review within the time limited so as to bring the case within s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859. The defendant appellant had no reason to suppose that a decree for wassilat against the "defendant," in the cause would be executed against him when he was not the person against whom the plaintiff sought for wassilat in the original plaint. As soon as he found that the decree was to be executed against him, he came into Court by petition for review to get the decree corrected, and he had very good reasons for not having come into Court till then. The fact that one of the several defendants in a suit has preferred an appeal against the decision in it does not preclude any of the other defendants from his right to apply for a review. BUNKOO LAL SINGH v. BASOOMUNISSA BIBEE, 7 W.R. 166.

Review—continued.

3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(22)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Judgment appealed from, lower Court not competent to review—Judgment passed on review, appeal not entertainable against, by lower appellate Court.—After the judgment of the Munsiff had been appealed against, the Munsiff entertained an application for review and gave the appellant a decree, and this order was afterwards upheld by the Principal Sudder Ameen on appeal, Held that the Munsiff had no power to review his judgment, and that all the proceedings taken since the date of the first order on appeal were without jurisdiction and consequently illegal. Under s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859, the Munsiff had no authority to review his original order, inasmuch as that order had been the subject of an appeal to a higher Court, and had been decided on appeal. Equally the Principal Sudder Ameen had no power to take up the case on appeal from the Munsiff, and try it on its merits, there having been no jurisdiction in the Court of first instance, and no amount of subsequent enquiry into the merits of a case can cure the original want of jurisdiction. BROJONATH KOONDOO CHOWDHRY v. JUMEEROONISSA BIBEE, 7 W.R. 218.

(23)—Reg. XXVI of 1814—Admission of application for review—Removal of inability to review without permission of superior Court—'Further appeal' in s. 4, meaning of—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377, scope of.—The sole question in this appeal was whether the Court below, in admitting to review the judgment in appeal passed by a former Judge in 1848, was wrong in law. The Judge's competency to admit the review was denied: 1st.—Because the previous permission of the High Court had not been obtained in accordance with the law before 1859; 2nd.—Because, a special appeal having been admitted in this case, the review was barred. 3rd.—Because, more than 12 years having elapsed during which time the defendants had been in quite possession, all further proceedings were absolutely barred. With regard to the first of these objections, it was contended that Reg. XXVI of 1814, s.4, applied, and that, although the Regulation had been repealed, yet, under the principle of s 387, Civ. Pro. Code, the present case must be dealt with as a suit pending at the time when the Code came into operation, and, therefore, governed by the law previously in force. The High Court was however of opinion that s. 387 had no bearing on the question. The proviso contained in the latter part of the section merely maintains the rights of parties to pending suits in reference to the procedure of the suits and does not affect the enlarged powers given to certain Courts or the restraints removed by the Code. Whereas, by the law previously in force, the subordinate Courts could not review their judgments without the permission of a superior Court, the Code removed that inability, and the removal extended to suits past and pending as well as future. On the second question whether the previous admission of a special appeal barred the review; it was held that an applicant for review of a judgment passed in 1848 can claim to be governed rather by the terms of the old law, XXVI of 1814, viz., "from which decree no further appeal may have been admitted by a superior Court," and the words "further appeal" in s. 4 of the Regulation include both a special or second appeal described in s. 2, cls. 1 and 2 of the same Regulation, and also a summary appeal mentioned in cl. 3, s. 3. It was therefore held in the result that nothing in the proceedings in special appeal barred the application for review in this case. Upon the third objection, it was clear that there was no quiet possession in good faith by the defendants so as to bar the suit by limitation. The Limitation Act, XIV of 1859, is wholly silent on the subject; and s 377, Civ. Pro. Code, assigns no limit to the time, after the expiration of 90 days, at which the application for review may be filed on the stamp-paper prescribed for plaintiffs, provided that the applicant can satisfy the Court that there was just and reasonable cause for the delay. In the present instance, cause was shown for the delay; the Judge took evidence as to its truth, and, after full consideration, decided that the cause had been made out. The order of the Judge thereon granting the review was final and could not be disturbed unless it be shown to be contrary to law or usage having the force of law. JOOGUL KISHORE SINGH v. OOGUR NARAIN SINGH, 8 W.R. 483.

Review—continued.

—3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(24)—Act X of 1859, s. 78—Suit for arrears of rent—Deposit of rent by tenant during pendency of suit--Review after special appeal.--When a tenant is sued for arrears of rent, although he may have brought the rent into Court during the suit, he is nevertheless liable to have a decree passed against him, inasmuch as the arrear was due when the suit was instituted. He is also liable to pay interest upon it up to the date when it was brought into Court, and the costs of suit. A District Judge is not competent to hear a review in a case after a special appeal has been admitted by the High Court. BABOO SHEO NATH SINGH v. RAM THUL RAE, 1 N.W.P. 97.

(25)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376, 377—Special appeal admitted—Review—Delay in applying for review—Special appeal pending.—The mere fact that a special appeal has been preferred and admitted in the High Court against the decretal order of a lower appellate Court, prevents any party to the suit, no matter whether or not he be the party who preferred the special appeal, from having the right, under s. 376, Act VIII of 1859, of applying to the lower appellate Court for a review of the judgment. [F., 14 W.R. 438; R., 11 W.R. 511, 12 C.W.N. 885.] Where an application for review of judgment is not made within 90 days and absolutely no reason is given for the delay except the fact that a special appeal has been pending in the meanwhile, it was held that the pendency of a special appeal would not be "a just and reasonable cause" for the loss of time, such as the Court to which the application is made is bound to arrive at, under the provisions of s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859, before it can entertain the application at all. L. T. LUCAS v. W. STEPHEN, 9 W.R. 301=5 Wym. 195. [F., 8 B.H.C.A.C. 234.]

Review—continued.

—3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(26)—Special appeal from judgment—Review after disposal of appeal—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 376—Admission of special appeal, what is.—Held that a Judge was right in refusing to entertain an application for a view of his judgment, after a special appeal from that judgment had been admitted, tried, and disposed of. The words "special appeal shall have been admitted" in s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859, refer to cases which have got beyond the inchoate stage of appeals, and in which it had been shown prima facie that there were errors in law. RAJ DHAREE LALL v. MAHADEO SINGH 11 W.R. 511. (5 W.R. 25, F.B.; D., 9 W.R. 301 & 471, F.)

(27)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Admission of special appeal, meaning of—Review after dismissal of special appeal—Discovery of new evidence.—If a special appeal is presented to the Court and is registered, it must be considered as having been "admitted" by the Court within the meaning of s 376 of Act VIII of 1859. It is none the less admitted, although the Court might have rejected the application for the admission of special appeal, if it had examined the application in the first instance and without admitting it.—Per Loch, J.—When a petition for the admission of a special appeal is once registered, and the notices have been served, and the records have been sent for, the special appeal must be considered as admitted. Where, after the dismissal of a special appeal by the High Court, the special appellant applied to the lower appellate Court for a review of its judgment on the ground of the discovery of fresh evidence, the lower appellate Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the application for review. (9 W. R. 301, 9 W.R. 471, R.) In the matter of the petition of JADUNATH MOOKERJEE, 6 B.L.R. 333.

(28)—Dismissal of special appeal—Review—Discovery of fresh evidence — Jurisdiction.—When a special appeal has been dismissed, an application for review of the judgment of the lower appellate Court, on the ground of the discovery of fresh evidence, can be entertained by the lower appellate Court. In the matter of the petition of GANGABISHEN SAHU, 6 B.L.R. 334, Note.

(29)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 375—Effect of—Special appeal—Admission--S. 25, Act XXIII of 1861.—The effect of s. 375 of Act VIII of 1859 is that, if the party dissatisfied with the judgment of the lower appellate Court chooses to appeal on questions of law, upon a state of facts as found by it, to the High Court, he is precluded from afterwards making a new case by going back to the first Court and asking it to alter its finding of facts. Under s. 375 of Act VIII of 1859, if a special appeal is not rejected or returned for the purpose of being corrected but is registered, it becomes, upon such registration, a case pending in the Court. In other words, it must be taken as having been admitted. Special appeals, if duly stamped and drawn up in the mode prescribed by s. 374 of Act VIII of 1859, are not the less "admitted" within the meaning of the words as used in s. 376, because they are received and registered as a matter of course under the rules and practice of the High Court, without the power conferred by s. 25 of Act XXIII of 1861 being exercised. JODOONATH MOOKERJEE v. PUNCHANUND MOOKERJEE, 14 W.R. 438.

Review—continued.

——3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(30) - Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 376, 378—Review of District Judge's judgment after admission of special appeal—Cancellation of order admitting special appeal. — After a special appeal had been admitted, the special appellant withdrew it with permission to apply for a review of the lower appellate Court's judgment. His application for a review was refused by the District Judge on the ground that the law did not allow a review of a judgment against which a special appeal had been admitted. The High Court, to remove the difficulty raised by the District Judge, reviewed and cancelled its own order admitting the special appeal and directed that a review should be again applied for. NARAYAN bin SIDOJI v. DAVUDBHAI valad FATEBHAI, 9 B.H.C. 238. (9 B.H.C. 89, F.) [F., 7 B. 287; R., 30 B. 625=8 Bom. L.R. 842.]

(31)—Withdrawal of suit—Permission to bring fresh suit asked for but not recorded through inadvertence--Review. -Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 97. —Where the plaintiff put in a petition asking to be allowed to withdraw his suit and to have permission given to him to bring a fresh suit, but that permission was not recorded on the petition through inadvertence, and the Munsiff subsequently made an order giving plaintiff the permission. Held that this was an order in the nature of a review of the original order and that there was nothing to prevent the passing of such an order. PEAREE MOHUN DUTT v. GOOROODOSS DUTT, 20 W. R. 401. [Cons., 9 C.P.L.R. 3.]

(32)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 5 & 623—Act XI of 1865.—Held that a review lay of decrees or orders of Small Cause Courts constituted under Act XI of 1865 under Chapl XVII, Civ. Pro. Code, 1877. SITA RAM v. HUKM SINGH, 29 P.R. 1879, F.B.

(33)—Mofussil Small Cause Court—Review of judgment.—A Mofussil Small Cause Judge may entertain an application for a review of judgment under the Code of Civil Procedure. ISAN CHUNDER BANERJEE v. LUCHUN GOPE, KEMP v. PREM NARAYAN SINGH, 5 C. 699=5 C.L.R. 539.

Review—continued.

——3.—Jurisdiction to Review—continued.

(34)—Punjab Act XXVIII of 1868, ss. 2, 19—Suit for ousting occupancy tenant on payment of compensation—Price of hereditary tenure—Jurisdiction value—30 years occupation necessary to exempt tenant from liability to ejectment. —The valuation of the subject-matter for the purpose of jurisdiction of a suit for ejectment on payment of compensation under s. 19 of the Tenancy Act, should be computed on the value of the hereditary right of occupancy, the price which the tenure would fetch if put up to sale, and not the sum which the landlord has to pay to buy the tenant out under s. 19 of the Act. The operation of the last clause of s. 19 of the Tenancy Act cannot be limited to those tenants only who can prove a continuous separate holding for 30 years by themselves or by their immediate ancestors. The clause is applicable as well to the case of a tenant who can show a continuous occupation for thirty years by himself or by his immediate predecessor, as to a case where the periods during which the two have held, the one immediately following the other, together amount to thirty years. BUTA SINGH v. PUNJAB SINGH, 28 P.R. 1879.

(35)—Act XIX of 1865, s. 22 and Act IV of 1866, s. 13—Financial Commissioner and Chief Court, not competent to review decisions of each other—Financial Commissioner's power to review his own decision.—The classes of suits specifically provided for in s. 13 of Act IV of 1866 are not "business" transferred to the Chief Court within the meaning of s. 13 of Act VII of 1868. The Chief Court has consequently no authority to hear petitions for review of the decisions of the Financial Commissioner given under s. 13 of Act IV of 1866; nor, on the other hand, has the Financial Commissioner power to review the decisions of the Civil Court passed before the settlement may have commenced, or, before his investment by the Local Government with powers as a Court of final appeal. Moreover, whether the Financial Commissioner has power to hear petitions for review of his own decisions after the settlement operations have been declared at an end by notification in the Gazette, would depend on the terms of the notification investing him with power to hear appeals. DEVI DITTA v. GHUSEETA, 38 P.R. 1869. [F., 5 P.R. 1881; D., 16 P.R. 1871.]

(36)—Financial Commissioner's order—Review—Acts XXVII and XIX of 1865.—The Judicial Commissioner until Act XXVII of 1865 was passed could have reviewed a judgment of the Financial Commissioner given in his judicial capacity before those functions were taken from him by Act XIX of 1865, and the Chief Court which took the place of the Judicial Commissioner could also do so. (38 P.R. 1869, D.) BIJJA SINGH v. NAMDAR, 16 P.R. 1871. [D., 5 P.R. 1881.]

(37)—Order of Financial Commissioner during settlement, Chief Court not competent to review.—The Chief Court cannot entertain an application for review of an order of the Financial Commissioner passed during a settlement of land revenue. NIAMUTULLA v. KAIMUDIN, 5 P.R. 1881. (38 P.R. 1869, F. ; 16 P.R. 1874, R.)

Review—continued.

——3.—Jurisdiction to Review—concluded.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 20 W.R. 101.

——4.—Practice and Procedure.

(1) — Review, application for — Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 374. — All applications for review of judgments should be drawn up in the same manner as applications for the admission of special appeals, i.e., they should set forth concisely the grounds of objection to the decision of which a review is sought, without argument or narrative, and such grounds should be numbered consecutively. MAHADAJI RAMCHANDRA v. VITHAL VISHVANATH, 1 B.H.C. 185.

(2)—Review—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Oral application for enlarging grounds for review.—Upon an application for review of judgment before the Sudder Court, the written grounds for review impugned the correctness of the decision of the Court below, on grounds that related solely to the immoveable estate, and not to the moveable estate also in question in the suit, Held that, notwithstanding the terms of s. 378 of Act VIII of 1859, it was competent to the Judges, by whom the order allowing the application for review was made, to enlarge those grounds, on an oral application, by including moveables, if satisfied that there was a proper case on the merits for so doing. Even if the Court below had been wrong in its procedure, its miscarriage will not prevent the Judicial Committee from deciding the question touching the disposition of the moveable estate on its merits The Judges of the Sudder Court admitting an application for review were competent to make a qualified order, leaving in the Court, which was to review the decision, a discretion as to the extent to which the review should be carried. BHUGWANDEEN DOOBEY v. MYNA BAEE, 9 W.R. P. C. 23=11 M.I.A. 487. [F., 9 C. 209, 12 C.L.R. 64 ; Rel. on, 11 Ind. Cas. 102.]

(3)—Review of judgment—Observance of preliminaries—Presumption.—The Court will presume that the proper preliminaries have been observed in admitting a review, and unless anything appears to have been contrary to law, it will not set aside the decision. AKKUL SAHOO v. ABDOOL GUFFOOR, 18 W. R. 15.

(4)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Finality of order of review.—The terms of s. 378, Act VIII of 1859, declaring that the order granting the application for review shall be final, only means that the grounds on which a review is held to be necessary may not be called in question. F. GEORGE v. HAMILTON BROWN AND CO., 4 N.W.P. 74.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(5)—Order rejecting application for review, finality of—Practice of High Court.—Under s. 378 of Act VIII of 1859, an order rejecting an application for review of a judgment passed by the Court is final. No second application as for re-consideration of such an order should be received in the office, but the party should, in such cases, be referred to the Bench receiving motions. KANTO LALL SINGH v. BROJO LALL SINGH, 3 W.R. Mis. 3.

(6)—Mistake—Correction—Power of Court.—An application for review of judgment was made and the case was re-heard with the result that the review was rejected. Subsequently a second application for review was made and it was admitted by mistake. The Court later on discovered the mistake and rectified it by rejecting the second application. Held that the Court was competent to do so, notwithstanding the admission of the second appeal. NUND LAL PODDER v. DEBNATH CHOWDHRY, 3 W.R. 191.

(7)—Grant of review on particular ground—Discretion of Court as to rehearing.—On the grant of a review on a particular ground, the Court has a discretion to rehear the whole case or only on the particular ground. HURBANS SAHYE v. THAKOOR PURSHAD, 9 C. 209. [F., 7 O.C. 345 ; R., 158 P.R. 1889.]

(8)—Power to reverse order of co-ordinate Court.—A Court has no power to reverse an order of a co-ordinate Court which has determined the precise question, after a suit has proceeded to its conclusion in pursuance of that order. PALAVARAPU MUTTANNA v. CHANDURI NARAPPA, 2 M.H.C. 349 [R., 3 M. 26].

(9)—Order admitting review, Duty of Court to give reasons for.—The Principal Sudder Ameen had admitted a review in this case without assigning any sufficient reason for so doing. The High Court, observing that he was wrong in not having thoroughly gone into the merits and given reasons for having come to a different conclusion to that which he had formed in his previous judgment, remanded the case to the lower Court with instructions to try the appeal as if it had come up for hearing for the first time. ANUND MOYEE DOSSIA v. KALEE KOOMAR ROKHEET, 6 W.R. 18.

(10)—Order rejecting application for review, Court bound to keep record relating to.—An application for review of judgment is an application which the law permits parties to make and on which, they are entitled to have an expression of the judicial opinion of the Judge. It would therefore be most irregular for a Judge to reject an application for review without recording any order upon it, and, as the Judge did in this case, without making any record of the application itself, of which it was his duty to preserve a memorandum. In re SHUMBOONATH BAROOREE, 6 W.R. Mis. 108.

(11)—Review of judgment—New points raised in review — Procedure— Agricultural land—

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

Building of homestead—Right of occupancy.—Both the parties to a suit for recovery of possession of certain land treated the land as agricultural only, although the plaint described the land in question as partly bastoo and partly agricultural. Both the Court of first instance and the lower appellate Court held that the plaintiffs had obtained a right of occupancy, as they had held the land for upwards of twelve years. The lower appellate Court granted a review and reversed the decree on the grounds (1) that as the plaintiffs had stated in their plaint that the land in question was bastoo and agricultural, it was therefore impossible that it could be ryoti land of such a nature as the plaintiffs could acquire a right of occupancy in it and (2) that, as the suit was merely for turning the tenant out of his holding, the rule as to one year's limitation applied. Held that the two points taken on review ought not to have been entertained, without sending the case back for trial of fresh issues, and giving the plaintiff an opportunity of rebutting the fresh case set up by the defendant. Held further, that the first ground was not a good ground for review, and that one year's limitation did not apply, as the questions in the case were essentially questions of title. If, when the plaintiffs first took the land, it was agricultural, and if they afterwards built a homestead upon it, and turned a portion of it into a garden, without any objection being made by the landlord, that would not alter the nature of the holding or prevent the plaintiffs from acquiring a right of occupancy. KHOKESH MAHOMED v. MAHOMED TAKEE, 10 C.L.R. 106.

(12)—Review of judgment—Refusal to grant review — Observation of Judge — Splitting of cause of action—Successive suits for property purchased in different names—Act VIII of 1859, s. 7.—A mere refusal to grant a review of judgment cannot alter the judgment sought to by reviewed and the decree founded upon it, and nothing which the Judge says with reference to his refusal to grant the review can be binding so as to alter such judgment or decree. [R., 6 C. 142, 1 Bom. L.R. 76=23 B. 597, 15 C.L.J. 258.] A person, who brought a suit in respect of property purchased in the name of G which he claimed to be joint property in respect of which he was entitled to a share, is not precluded by s. 7 of Act VIII of 1859 from bringing another suit in respect of other property which he has bought in the name of M at another time, inasmuch as the claim to property purchased in the name of M is no part of the claim arising out of the cause of action in respect of the other property. RAMHURRY MONDUL v. MOTHOOR MOHUN MONDUL, 20 W.R. 450 [R., 6 C. 142, 1 Bom. L. 76=23 B. 597, 15 C.L.J. 258.]

(13)—Act X of 1877, ss. 3, 629—Review—Second application for review.—An application to review an order passed on an application for review cannot be entertained under the last clause of s. 629 of Act X of 1877. S. 3 of the Act saves only the procedure prior to decree in suits or appeals instituted before the new Act (X of 1877) came into force. It does not save the old procedure in regard to applications for review of judgment or any other procedure subsequent to decree. KHARAK SING v. PANJAB SING, 6 P.R. 1878. [D., 107 P.R. 1883.]

(14)—Civ. Pro. Code. (Act VIII of 1859), ss 98, 376 and 378—Confession of judgment by agent holding general power of attorney how far binding on principal — On 24th February 1877, A sued B to establish his right to the office of Diwan of a Khangah and to share in the management of the institution, as being a hereditary right. On 7th March, before the summons was served, B's general agent or C filed an 'Ikbaldawa' or confession of judgment admitting plaintiff's claim, and a decree was passed in A's favour. On the 29th March, B applied for review of judgment, on the grounds, 1st, that the ikbaldawa had been accepted and judgment passed before the date fixed for hearing; 2nd, that the ikbaldawa had been filed without B's consent or authority. Held (1) that C had no authority, merely by virtue of his power of attorney, to file a confession of judgment, unless it could be shown that he had been expressly or impliedly authorized by B to do so; (2) that under the Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), even a decree by consent may be set aside, if the attainment of the ends of justice require it. ABDUL MAJID v. FAZL HAQ, 55 P.R. 1878. (37 P. R. 1877, F.)

(15)—Civ. Pro. Code—Review—Notice to decree-holder essential.—Under the Civ. Pro. Code, no order of review can be made without previous notice to the person in possession of the decree which is to be reviewed. ZAHUR-UD-DIN v. NUR-UD DIN, 14 M.L.J. 7, P.C.

(16)—Procedure — Application for review—Admission—Hearing—Notice.—A case should not be decided on the mere admission of the application for the review. The Court should by law, after the admission of the application for review, fix a day and give notice of it for the hearing of the case so admitted to be reviewed. PARBUTTY v. KHOOBUN, 3 W.R. 134.

(17)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Admission of review without notice, effect.—The admitting of a review without notice to the opposite party is not a mere irregularity but is a defect wholly vitiating the proceeding itself and, in no way binding on that party. S. 378 of the Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859) expressly provides that no review of judgment shall be granted without previous notice to the opposite party to enable him to appear and be heard in support of the decree of which a review is solicited. MUSSAMUT GOLABOO v. RAM DYAL SINGH, 8 W.R. 304.

(18)—Review—Notice to opposite party—No objection—Admission of new evidence—No proof of inability to produce such evidence earlier—Special appeal.—Where a review of judgment was allowed after notice to the opposite party and without any objection on his part to the admission of fresh evidence, the opposite party cannot be permitted in special appeal to take objection that the applicant for review did not prove that the new piece of evidence was not within his knowledge and could not be produced at the time when the decree was passed as was required in 20 W.R. 84, F.B. RAM JOY GOOPTU v. SREEMUTTY JUGODESSUREE, 22 W.R. 399.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(19)—Suit for redemption, valuation of, for purposes of jurisdiction— Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (XVII of 1879), consent once given to disposal under provisions of, whether could be withdrawn—Review by Special Judge under Act necessity of notice to concerned parties.—The proper valuation of suit for redemption is not the amount mentioned in the mortgage-deed but the amount actually remaining due on the mortgage, or claimed on it by the mortgagee. It is rather that amount and the rights connected with it which form the real subject of contention in a mortgage suit. The measure of the value of the subject-matter in contention is the sum which will have to be paid for the recovery of possession of the property. Per Birdwood, J.—Under the Court Fees Act, the valuation of a suit for redemption is estimated according to the principal amount expressed to be secured by the instrument of mortgage; but the rules contained in that Act are not to be taken as necessarily a guide in determining the value of the subject-matter of a suit for any purposes for which the Act does not provide, as, for example, for purposes of jurisdiction. In the present case, the amount of the mortgage claim not having exceeded Rs. 110, the suit was one in which consent could be given by the parties to application to it of the special procedure provided by Act XVII of 1879. And the consent given by the defendants' pleader to the disposal of the matter under the provisions of the said Act could not be withdrawn after the hearing had begun and proceeded to a certain stage on the footing of that consent. Held also that the Special Judge who had been appointed under the Act should, before granting review of the decree passed by the Subordinate Judge, have given sufficient notive to the party in whose favour the decree was passed. RUPCHAND KEMCHAND v. BALVANT NARAYAN, 11 B. 591. [Diss., 14 C.P.L.R. 154; F., 13 B. 489, 14 B. 19.]

(20)—Review—Review admitted by deciding Judge—Trial by new Judge.—Where a case is admitted to review by the deciding Judge and tried afterwards by another Judge, the new Judge ought to try only the point directed by the order of review. HURRO CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY v. RAMKISSORE CHUCKERBUTTY, W.R. 1864, 141.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(21)—Res judicata—Question decided by Judge—Competency of succeeding Judge to re-open the same.—Where once the Subordinate Judge who first tried the issues relating to res judicata in the case held that the claim was not affected or barred by that rule, his successor who had only to try the remaining issues on the merits of the case was not competent to re-open the question again. If he differed in opinion from his predecessor on that question he might record his opinion. But under any circumstances he should record his opinion on the merits also. SALAHMUNISSA KHATOON v. MOHESH CHUNDER ROY, 16 W.R 85.

(22)—Review—Power of succeeding Judge—Additional evidence—Contribution—Per capita or proportionately.—The plaintiffs and defendants were co-sharers in certain joint property. In respect of that property a suit had been preferred by all these parties together and had been dismissed with costs. The costs so imposed having been levied from the plaintiffs, they filed this suit for contribution. The Subordinate Judge passed a decree ordering the defendants to contribute per capita in equal shares. An application was then made to the Subordinate Judge who succeeded the last Judge to review that judgment. He admitted the review and called for some additional evidence in order to satisfy himself as to what their respective shares were. He then held that the parties were liable for the contribution according to their respective interests in the property and not simply per capita. Held, on appeal, that (a) the Subordinate Judge was legally competent to admit the review and call for the evidence if he thought that the interests of justice required it, and that (b) the assessment was perfectly correct. SHAIKH MURDEN ALI v. SHAIKH TUFUZZUL HOSSEIN. 16 W.R. 78.

(23)—Review—Re-opening point for which no review is applied for.—When a Judge grants a review on one point, he is not justified in re-opening another question, and giving a fresh decision on a point which he has already decided finally, and on which no application for review is made. BYJNATH SAHOY v. WUZEER NARAIN, 24 W.R. 427.

(24)—Judgment of Sudder Court, application for review of, not entertainable by High Court.—This application was made to the High Court to admit a review of a judgment of the late Sudder Court rejecting a special appeal. The application was based on the discovery of new evidence. Held that it should have been made to the Court of original jurisdiction and not to the High Court. As the Sudder Court merely rejected the special appeal and could not and did not look into the evidence, it was not for the High Court to receive any application for the admission of a review based on the discovery of fresh evidence. RAO BANEERAM v. NEWAZ BIBEE, 8 W.R. 511.

(25)—Review—Certificate by pleader who did not appear originally—Rejection of appeal.—It is the duty of a pleader to advise his client that the proper person to consult as to whether there are grounds for a review in a case where an appeal is rejected, are those who appeared originally in the appeal. If those persons refuse to certify the review, he should also abstain from doing so. TOOG ONUG v. THE BRITISH INDIAN STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, LTD., 24 W.R. 430.

Review—continued.

—4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(26)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 623, 625—Application for review, copy of decree or order or judgment whether should accompany.—An application for review of judgment is perfectly legal, although it is not accompanied by a copy of the decree, order or judgment sought to be reviewed. In the absence of any specific provision to the contrary in the Civ. Pro. Code, it is not competent to a Court to impose on an applicant for review, the burden of procuring such a copy which, in most cases, might be superfluous, as the original record would be in the Court moved to review its order. WAJID ALI SHAH v. NAWAL KISHOR, 17 A. 213, F.B.=A.W.N. 1895, 61. [R., 2 O.C. 302.]

(27)—Review of judgment—Time—Further investigation—Grounds — Time for obtaining copies.—An application for a review of judgment, if presented out of time, can be admitted only when there is a special and sufficient cause for the delay. Nor can it be admitted merely for the purpose of having a further investigation in the absence of anything to show that the further evidence sought to be adduced might not have been produced at the original trial. The time for obtaining copies of judgment should not be allowed in applications for review. JHUBHOO SAHOO v. MUSSAMUT JUSODA KOOER, 17 W.R. 230.

(28)—Question of costs, appeal not preferable solely in respect of—Application for review of judgment—Time for filing—Suit for mesne profits by guardian—Minority.—This appeal had been preferred solely on a question of costs and the High Court, following 2 W.R. 33, held that such an appeal will not lie. Where the Dusserah vacation intervened between the date of a judgment and the time allowed for filing a petition for review, and the application was filed on the re-opening day after the vacation, held, that the application was in time, the holidays being considered as dies non. In a suit for possession and mesne profits brought by the guardian of a minor, held, that mesne profits for more than 6 years may be awarded. CHOONULAL MISSER v. PATROO DEO, 6 W.R. 19.

(29)—Appeal—Limitation—Deduction of time occupied in review—Illegal omission of Court.—The plaintiff got a decree against the defendants in the Court of the Tehsildar of Amritsar on the 23rd January, 1872 and on the 24th idem, the defendants presented a petition for review of judgment. On the 26th, the Tehsildar recorded an order that the plaintiff should be summoned. No date was fixed for the further hearing of the petition and on the 19th April an order was passed dismissing the application for review, the defendants not having put in an appearance meanwhile. The defendants appeared to the Deputy Commissioner, but the appeal was dismissed because it was out of time. Held that, as the Court receiving the application for review disregarded one of the fundamental principles of the Civ. Pro. Code, viz., that the parties interested in a matter before the Court should have due notice of the time appointed for hearing, consideration should be paid to the hardship sustained by the appellants owing to the laches of the Subordinate Court, and the time lost in the proceedings connected with the application for review should be allowed to the defendants, though, ordinarily, the time occupied in applying for a review could not be deducted from the period allowed for preferring an appeal. CHUNDA v. MIHAN, 35 P.R. 1872.

Review—continued.

—4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(30)—Order on review of judgment — Final decree—Appeal in such suit—Limitation—Grant of review on ground of clerical mistake in judgment, not to be construed as amendment of decree.—An order passed on an application for review of judgment, in any way modifying or altering the original decree on however minor and insignificant a ground, becomes the final decree in the suit. [R., 3 C.L.J. 188, 9 C.W.N. 605.] For purposes of an appeal from the decree in such suit, limitation runs from the date of such order passed on review. [R., 22 M. 364.] Where a petition for review of judgment was allowed on the ground of a clerical mistake in the original decree, though, under the circumstances, it might have been rejected and an application ordered to be made under s. 206 of the Civ. Pro. Code for amendment of decree, such order, having been distinctly made on review, could not be so treated and was the final decree in the suit. JOYKISHEN MOOKERJEE v. ATAOOR ROHOMAN, 6 C. 22=6 C.L.R. 575. [R., 5 C.W.N. 192, 28 C. 177.]

(31)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 630—Review—Appeal—Extent of review.—The fact that, subsequent to an application for review, an appeal has been preferred against the decree, does not preclude the Court from dealing with the review. [11 B.L.R. 423, F.B., R.] Where a Court grants a review on a particular ground, it is not barred, under s. 630 of the Civ. Pro. Code, from rehearing the whole case, but has a discretion to define the extent to which the review should be carried out. THACOOR PROSAD v. BALUCK RAM, 12 C.L.R. 64. (11 M.I.A. 487, R.) [R., 25 P.R. 1904, 7 O.C. 299, 7 O.C. 345; D., 14 M.L.J. 321=27 M. 602.]

(32)—Jurisdiction—High Court — Review — Modification of appellate decree in same suit—Effect on decrees not reviewed—Where, in a suit to set aside alienations, the plaintiff having succeeded partly in the first Court and wholly in the appellate Court, the defendants preferred special appeals, and, these appeals having been dismissed, two of the defendants applied for review of judgment, the High Court could not, where the modification of the decrees on review was not on grounds common to all the defendants, modify the decrees in which there were no applications for review and thereby prevent the execution of those decrees. MUSSAMUT PEGOO JAN v. MULLICK WAIZOODDEEN, 18 W.R. 464.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(33)—Review—Order granting application for, final—Portion of order finally disposing of case as on re-hearing, open to appeal.—The respondents in this case objected that the order appealed against was merely an order granting an application for a review of judgment, and that, by s. 378 of Act VIII of 1859, such an order was final and not open to appeal. But it was held that the order happened to be not only an order granting a review, but was also an order disposing of the case on a re-hearing. Although so far as it merely granted the application, it was not open to appeal, yet, so much of it as went beyond that, and disposed of the matter finally, as on a re-hearing, was a distinct and separate order open to appeal in the ordinary manner. AHMUD HOSSEIN JAN v. SHARBANUND TEWAREE, 6 W.R. 301. [F., 13 W.R. 138.]

(34)—S. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Review—Special leave to appeal—A Judge granting a review is bound to put his reasons on record as required by s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, but his failure to do so cannot by itself be a sufficient ground for the admission of an appeal. The requirement is rather a direction to the Judge how to act when he has decided to grant the application than a condition of granting it. THAKUR SHANKAR v. BALVANT, 2 Bom. L R. 596=27 C. 333=27 I.A. 79=4 C W.N. 203 =7 Sar. 686.

(35)—Admission of review by remaining Judge of Bench—Review—Appeal.—Where a review has been admitted by the remaining Judge of the Court who heard the case originally, it is not open to the opposite counsel, on the rehearing of the appeal, to question the propriety of the order for admission. The Judge or Judges who hear the case originally, if they are in Court when the application comes for hearing, are the only Judges who can review the order passed by them. If the order admitting the review is wrong, the error cannot be rectified by the Bench appointed to hear the appeal which has been already restored to its original number in the file. MESSRS. JARDINE SKINNER AND CO. v. DHUN KISHEN SEIN, 13 W.R. 82.

(36)—Application for review—Order rejecting application—Appeal.—No appeal lies to a superior Court from an order rejecting an application for review on the ground that the application was made many years after the passing of the original decision, and that no just or sufficient cause for the delay had been made out. BANEE RAM v. HOSSEIN ALI, 11 W.R. 184.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(37)—Application for correction of decree—Dismissal—Appeal from order of dismissal.—Where a lower appellate Court to which an application was made for the correction of a decree which was alleged to differ from the judgment, treated the application as one for review and refused it on the ground that no just or reasonable cause was shown for the delay in discovering the alleged mistake, held that no appeal lay from the order of refusal. NOBIN CHUNDER CHOWDHRY v. GRIDHAREE LALL, 11 W.R. 264.

(38)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376 and 378—Review of judgment—Appeal.—Though the order granting a review of judgment is final and unappealable, objections to it can be urged in an appeal against the decision passed on review. Where a Court of appeal granted a review of judgment on the grounds that the appellate Court had failed to inspect certain very material documents that it had summarily discredited, and that it had misappreciated the evidence—Held, that the order granting the review was within the discretion vested in the Court by law. ABDUL RAHIM v. RACHA RAI, 1 A. 363 (11 B.L.R. 423, R.)

(39)—Review—Grant of review on improper or insufficient grounds—Interference by High Court.—The High Court on appeal will not interfere with the grant of a review though the ground on which the review was granted was improper or insufficient. GURUMURTHI NAYUDU v. PAPPA NAYUDU, 1 M.H.C. 164.

(40)—Review—Opening of original case—Fresh evidence—Upholding of former decision—Appeal.—The lower Court had granted the review sought for and re-opened the original case and had gone on even to take fresh evidence; and, the fresh decision of the lower Court passed thereon having to be treated as a decision passed on the original case, and not on the application for review, the High Court ruled that, under such circumstances, an appeal would lie to the Judge. RUGHOONATH ROY v. ANUNDO PAURAY, 10 W.R. 387.

(41)—Review—Additional evidence in appellate Court at review-stage.—A lower appellate Court should not allow points to be explained away in the review-stage by admitting additional evidence. TEKAET KHOOD NARAIN SINGH v. TOOLSEE ROY, 15 W.R. 9. [R., 2 C.L.J. 431; D., 24 W.R. 188.]

(42)—Review—Incomplete decree on proofs on record—Tender of further evidence by opposite party.—The plaintiff sued the defendant to recover rent, and he made it a part of the relief which he asked for in the plaint that the defendant, in case of non-fulfilment within fifteen days of the decree, should be ejected. A decree was, in the first place, given to the plaintiff only for the rent. The plaintiff thereupon applied for a review on the ground that no der had been made in respect of his praye for ejectment. The defendant then made a further application that he should be allowed to call witnesses to prove his pottah. Held, that the plaintiff's case before the Munsiff, when he applied for the review, was that he was entitled, upon the allegations and proofs on the record, to the full relief which he had asked. It was not open to the defendant then to repair his laches by citing witnesses whom he ought to have called and might have called at the trial. BANEE MADHUL LAHA v. SHAHZADA PAKARTUR, 20 W.R. 225.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—continued.

(43)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Review—Special appeal from decision passed after review—Impropriety of order granting review not to be questioned—In a suit for ejectment, the plaintiff put in a document which he described as a lease of the land. The Munsif, M, held that that document created a mortgage and gave defendant a lien on the land and that plaintiff could not recover the land except by a suit for redemption. He, therefore, dismissed the claim in the form in which it was brought. Plaintiff then instituted a suit to redeem in another Munsif's Court when the Munsif D decided that the deed in question created a sale, and not a mortgage, and threw out the claim to redeem. This decree was affirmed in appeal. Plaintiff then applied to the Munsif L, the successor to M, to review the previous decree of his predecessor, and L admitted a review, re-heard the case, and decreed that the land should be restored to the plaintiff. This decree was affirmed in appeal by a new District Judge. In a special appeal preferred against this decision—Held that the act of the Munsif L, in admitting a review of his predecessor's decision, on the ground of the result of the suit for redemption, which had been instituted in conformity with the direction of that predecessor, was of a very questionable character, and that it was not competent to the Court in special appeal to enquire into the propriety or impropriety of the order made by the Munsif on that occasion, as the order granting the review was final. DHUNKA DEVLA v. HIRA RAMLA, 4 B.H.C.A.C. 57.

(44)—Special appeal—Order granting review—Irregularity.—The Full Bench ruling in 20 W.R. 84, in which it was held that a special appeal did lie to determine whether, in an order granting a review, there had been any irregularity, and that the word "final" in s. 378, Act VIII of 1859, had to be taken only to exclude an appeal at the time, but not to prevent the appellate Court from considering afterwards the legality of the order admitting the review as well as any part of the case, applied to cases in which a regular appeal was preferred on the ground that the admission of the review was not justified by the evidence before the first Court, and the Judge was not precluded from looking into the whole facts of the case. JOY KISHEN MOOKERJEE v. PURBUTY CHURN GHOSSAL, 22 W.R. 183.

Review—continued.

——4.—Practice and Procedure—concluded.

(45)—Review—Omission not pointed to lower appellate Court—Special appeal—Costs.—Where a plaintiff, when he applied to the lower appellate Court for review, failed to point out an omission on the part of that Court, he is not entitled to the cost of a special appeal to have it corrected. RAM GUTTY SURMAH v. ABDOOL ALI, 20 W.R. 73.

(46)—Review—Special appeal—Application heard by remaining Judge of Division Bench—Admission—Re-hearing—Court fees—Under valuation—Refusal of leave to appeal to Privy Council.—The main question in dispute was as to the nature of the lease under which the defendant held the plaint property. The High Court on special appeal held that the lease was not hereditary. The effect of this decision was to reverse the decree of the Court below. Subsequently, the defendant applied for review of judgment and the application for admission of review was heard by only one of the two Judges constituting the Division Bench, inasmuch as the other Judge had by that time left the Court. The review having been admitted was heard by the remaining Judge and another Judge of the High Court. The Bench so constituted held that the lease was hereditary. Thereupon, an application was made by the plaintiff before the same two Judges for a review of this judgment and upon that application notice was issued to the defendant. The case was then re-argued and the Judges held that a sufficient ground for the admission of a review had not been made out by the plaintiff and dismissed the appeal. Held that there was a re-hearing of the case and the dismissal was of the appeal on the merits and not the application for the admission of the review. Where property worth Rs. 10,000 was undervalued and Court fee paid on the low valuation, the Court refused to grant leave to appeal to the Privy Council. LEKHRAJ ROY v. KANHYA SINGH, 18 W.R. 494. [Affirmed, 3 C. 210, P.C.]

See APPEAL—ORDERS, 5 W.R. Mis. 58.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, ss. 6, 28, sch. I, arts. 4, 5, 12 A. 57 = A.W.N. 1889, 197.

See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 17, 5 P.R. 1894.

——5.—Reviews after Time.

(1)—Review—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 623—"Sufficient reason"—Construction.—The words "sufficient reason" in s. 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code, should receive a liberal construction and should be construed so as to do substantial justice to the parties. GOPAL CHUNDER LAHIRY v. SOLOMON, 11 C. 767. [R., U.B.R. 1892—96, Vol. II, 153.]

(2)—Application for review of judgment—Time for—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—"Sufficient reason"—What amounts to Privy Council decison on question of fact in another suit—Pendency of appeal in High Court.—A decision of the Privy Council passed in 1871 with regard to a question of fact in another suit, or the pendency of the appeal in the High Court, is no "sufficient reason" within the meaning of the expression as used in s. 367 of Act VIII of 1859, for not having preferred an application for review of a judgment within the limited period, viz., 3 months from the date of the decree. BOLAKEE LALL v. MONJEE LALL, 17 W.R. 163.

Review—continued.

——5.—Review after Time—continued.

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 376—Review when granted.—The discovery of new evidence may make it proper to grant a review under s. 376, Act VIII of 1859. But the circumstances must be very special—the more so when the application to review is made many years after the date of the decree—and the evidence discovered must be of a clear and conclusive character. HEERA LALL GHOSE v. RAM TARUCK DEY, 23 W.R. 323.

(4)—Review of judgment, Ground for—Subsequent Full Bench decision.—Where a plaintiff, unsuccessful in his first suit before the High Court, made an alternative claim in a second suit, and, upon a reference of the question in suit, a Full Bench unanimously decided that the course taken by the plaintiff in the second suit was wrong and that that in the first was right, the High Court would be justified in reversing the former judgment on review and carrying into effect the decision of the Full Bench. JONMENJOY MULLICK v. DASSMONEY DASEE, 8 C. 700. (7 W.R. 405, 9 W.R. 102, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 892=9 W R. 181, D.) [F., 13 B. 330.]

(5)—Final decision between parties—Close of Court's jurisdiction except for execution—New trial when could be held for the same matter.—When once a Civil Court has passed a final decision between the parties, it loses jurisdiction over the suit, except for the purposes of executing the decree, and it cannot hold a new trial of the same, unless, for some reason within the Procedure Act, the first trial appears to have been unfair between the parties. SULEET MOHUN ROY CHOWDHRY v. SOWTRA BEBEE, 10 W.R. 42. [Expl., 11 W.R. 197.]

(6)—Dismissal of suit—Review—Appeal—Reversal of judgment in review—Remedy of decree-holder.—The first Court, having dismissed a suit, granted a review of its judgment and decreed the suit even though the plaintiff did not afford proof to the satisfaction of the Court that such evidence was not within his power to produce at the time of the suit. The lower appellate Court dismissed the suit holding that the petition of review was improperly admitted contrary to the Full Bench ruling in 11 B.L.R. 423. Held, that the lower appellate Court was right in interfering with what the first Court had done illegally and without jurisdiction, and reversing the judgment so obtained. In answer to the decree-holder's contention that he would have no remedy as regards the objection by which the suit was first dismissed by the Munsiff, held, that the plaintiff might make an application to the lower appellate Court for leave to appeal against the judgment first pronounced, and that it was entirely within the discretion of the lower appellate Court to admit the appeal or not, regard being had to the mistaken proceedings which followed upon the petition for review. MR. C. G. D. BETTS v. BONSI MUNDUL, 25 W.R. 343.

(7)—Review of judgment—Time—Further investigation—Grounds—Time for obtaining copies.—An application for a review of judgment, if presented out of time, can be admitted only when there is special and sufficient cause for the delay. Nor can it be admitted merely for the purpose of having a further investigation in the absence of anything to show that the further evidence sought to be adduced might not have been produced at the original trial. The time for obtaining copies of judgment should not be allowed in applications for review. JHUBHOO SAHOO v. MUSSAMUT JUSODA KOOER, 17 W.R. 230.

(8)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 376—Review—Executor—Legatee—English and Indian Law.—The plaintiff's suit was decreed as prayed for, though a certain issue was decided against him. Subsequently the defendants applied for review of judgment and the Court admitted the review and dismissed the suit as barred by limitation. Thereupon the plaintiff applied for a review of both the former and present judgment, although the application as to the former judgment was barred. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to have both the judgments reviewed, as he had not been aggrieved by the first decree and as only the second decree was adverse to him. An executor is not under any obligation under the Indian law as he is in England, to shed his character of executor before he can appear in his new character of legatee. MUSSAMUT BAGOOJAN v. CHOWDHRY ZUHOORUL HUQ. 13 W.R. 69.

(9)—Reg. XXVI of 1814, s. 4—Admission of application for review—Removal of inability to review without permission of superior Court—'Further appeal' in s. 4, meaning of—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377, scope of.—The sole question in this appeal was whether the Court below, in admitting to review the judgment in appeal passed by a former Judge, in 1848, was wrong in law. The Judge's competency to admit the review was denied, firstly, because the previous permission of the High Court had not been obtained in accordance with the law before 1859; secondly, because, a special appeal having been admitted in this case, the review was barred, thirdly, because more than 12 years having elapsed during which time the defendants had been in quiet possession, all further proceedings were absolutely barred. With regard to the first of these objections, it was contended that Reg. XXVI of 1814, s. 4, applied, and that, although the Regulation had been repealed, yet, under the principle of s. 387, Civ. Pro. Code, the present case must be dealt with as a suit pending at the time when the Code came into operation and, therefore, governed by the law previously in force. The High Court was however of opinion that s. 387 had no bearing on the question. The proviso contained in the latter part of the section merely maintains the rights of parties to pending suits in reference to the procedure of the suits and does not affect the enlarged powers given to certain Courts, or the restraint removed by the Code. Whereas, by the law previously in force, the Subordinate Courts could not review their judgments without the permission of a superior Court; the Code removed that inability, and the removal extended to suits past and pending as well as future. On the second question, whether the previous admission of a special appeal barred the review; it was held that an applicant for review of a judgment passed in 1848 can claim to be governed rather by the terms of the old law, Reg. XXVI of 1814, viz., "from which decree no further appeal may have been admitted by a superior Court," and the words "further appeal" in s. 4 of the Regulation include both a special or second appeal described in s. 2, cls. 1 and 2 of the same Regulation, and also a summary appeal mentioned in cl. 3, s. 3. It was therefore held in the result that nothing in the proceedings in special appeal barred the application for review in this case. Upon the third objection, it was clear that there was no quiet possession in good faith by the defendants so as to bar the suit by limitation. The Limitation Act, XIV of 1859, is wholly silent on the subject; and s. 377, Civ. Pro. Code, assigns no limit to the time, after the expiration of 90 days, at which the application for review may be filed on the stamp paper prescribed for plaints, provided that the applicant can satisfy the Court that there was just and reasonable cause for the delay. In the present instance, cause was shown for the delay; the Judge took evidence as to its truth, and, after full consideration, decided that the cause had been made out. The order of the Judge thereon granting the review was final and could not be disturbed unless it be shown to be contrary to law or usage having the force of law. JOGUL KISHORE SINGH v. OOGHUR NARAIN SINGH, 8 W.R. 483.

Review—continued.

—5.—Reviews after Time—continued.

(10)—Review—Effect—Procedure.—Where a suit is admitted to review, it becomes, in all respects, a new one between the parties, and its decision will be guided by the precedents then in force; and if there exists a Full Bench Ruling at that time which was contrary to other rulings on the same point, the Court is bound to follow it. ALLAD MONEE DOSSIA v. JOY SUNKER ROY, 7 W.R. 408. [R., 6 A. 292=A.W.N. 1884, 89.]

(11)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 377—Review of judgment—Limitation.—An application for review of judgment cannot be granted after the proper time, on grounds which should have been but were not, urged at the hearing of suit, unless just and reasonable cause were shown to the satisfaction of the Court for not preferring it within the time allowed by law. MADHO DAS v. RUKMAN SEVAK SINGH, 2 A. 287.

Review—continued.

—5.—Review after Time—continued.

(12)—Review of judgment, application for, after long delay—Delay to be explained.—A Court commits an error in law if it assumes that it is sufficient for a party applying for review after 90 days to account only for omitting to apply within that period. Though the admission of a review applied for after the prescribed period lies in the discretion of the Court, still an error in the principle governing the exercise of that discretion is an error of law which may be urged in special appeal. In determining whether such discretion should be exercised in favour of an applicant who is out of time, it is incumbent upon the Court to take into account the additional period, which has been allowed to elapse after the prescribed period, when it is considerable in point of duration, and to determine whether it is satisfactorily explained. HYAT v. RAHIM-UD-DIN, 114 P.R. 1876.

(13)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Review—Second application—Petition for review presented after 90 days—Reason for delay.—Under s. 378, Act VIII of 1859, no second application for review of a judgment can be entertained after the dismissal of the first application. An application for review of judgment presented after the prescribed period of 90 days from the date of the decree, should be rejected unless the delay is satisfactorily accounted for. KASHEENATH ROY v. LUCHHEE NARAIN CHATTERJEE, W.R. 1864, 91.

(14)—Review if grantable after ninety days—Power of Court—S. 28, Act XXIII of 1861—Extortion, Charge of—Civil Court, Jurisdiction of.—A Judge has power to grant a review of a judgment, notwithstanding that a period exceeding ninety days has elapsed. Where the possibility was that a Judge might feel some difficulty on a point of law when he came to determine a case upon review of judgment, held that he might refer that point of law for adjudication by the High Court under s. 28, Act XXIII of 1861. Civil Courts have jurisdiction to entertain charges of extortion. RAMGUTTEE DOSS v. GHOLAM AHMED KHOUDKAR, W.R.F.B. 84.

(15)—Review of predecessor's judgment—First application rejected—Second application after 90 days.— A Judge acts without jurisdiction in admitting a second application for review of a judgment passed by his predecessor after the expiry of 90 days from the rejection of the first application, without a finding of any just and reasonable cause for such admission. SREENATH CHOWDHRY v. KRITTATTO MOYEE DOSSEE, 18 W.R. 286.

(16)—Review—Application made out of time—No reason shown for delay—Jurisdiction.—

Review—continued.

——5.—Review after Time—continued.

Where an application for review of judgment is clearly out of time and no reason for the delay is shown at all, the Judge has no jurisdiction to grant a review; if he grants it under such circumstances, all the proceedings taken subsequently are without jurisdiction and bad. GOUR PERSHAD SURMAH v. ANJUB ALI, 24 W.R. 294.

(17)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377—Petition of review—Limitation—Permission of Court.—Under Rule 1 of the 1st of May 1863 and under s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859, a petition of review ought not to be admitted after the time prescribed in that section, without the leave of the Court or a Judge. OMRAO SINGH v. MONGULA BEBEE, 3 W.R. 113.

(18)—Review, Admission of, after time—Just and reasonable cause to be proved.—A party applying for a review beyond time must show, in order that the application may be heard, just and reasonable cause to the satisfaction of the Court for not having preferred such application within the limited period of 90 days; and where a Court entertains an application for review beyond time, though the applicant has not shown just and reasonable cause for the delay, the Court acts without jurisdiction and its order is null and void. MUSSAMMAT FATTO v. LASHKA KHAN, 101 P.R. 1876.

(19)—Application for review of judgment, made after 90 days—Sufficient cause for delay to be established.—The order of a Court admitting a review should show or state that it was satisfied that there were good reasons for the delay in presenting the petition of review. The review in this case, having been admitted after the expiration of 90 days without any just or reasonable cause having been shown to the satisfaction of the Court for not having preferred the application within the limited period, the order admitting the review and the subsequent proceedings thereon were set aside as illegal. (Pundit, J., dissentiente). GUNGANARAIN ROY v. GONOMONEE, 8 W.R. 184. [Appr., 14 B.L.R. 373 = 2 I.A. 58; R., 9 W.R. 181, F.B.]

(20)—Review—Application presented after time—Reasonable cause for delay—In this case, no reason was assigned, in the application for review presented to the District Court, for the delay in its presentation, nor had the Judge in his order allowing the review, made any reference to the subject. A special appeal had been preferred by the defendant to the High Court, but the time so occupied was held not to constitute a just and reasonable cause for the delay. Further, there was beyond the above period, a delay of more than two years altogether unaccounted for. The High Court therefore held that the Judge had no jurisdiction to admit the application for review and that all that had been done under it must fall to the ground. FAKIRA v. BASAPA M. SHETTI, 8 B. H.C.A.C. 234. [F., 8 B. 263.]

Review—continued.

——5.—Review after Time—continued.

(21)—Review, application for, after time—Just and reasonable cause for delay—Appeal.—An order granting a review moved for after the time allowed by law, without any adjudication as to the goodness and the sufficiency of the cause of delay, is illegal; and an appeal lies as to the sufficiency of the cause of delay. KRISTO GOBIND JOARDAR v. JUGOBUNDHOO SIRCAR, 12 W.R. 94. (9 W.R.F.B. 181, R.)

(22)—Review of judgment several years old—Delay—Ground of review—Decision of Privy Council—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377.—It would give rise to considerable confusion and great inconvenience if suits which were considered to have been finally disposed of could be opened by review after the lapse of several years from the date of decree, upon the ground that, in some other suit, the Privy Council had come to a different decision. PANCHANAN BOSE v. GURUDAS ROY, 9 B.L.R. 187 = 18 W.R. 317. (3 B.L.R.A.C. 287, Doubted.)

(23)—Application for review after 90 days—Just and reasonable cause—Appellate Court, powers of.—Lindsay, J.—The Chief Court has authority to consider every act of the lower Courts previous to the decree and it can legally consider whether just and reasonable cause for the delay in presenting an application for review has been shown. A new exposition of the law by the High Court is not a just and reasonable cause for not having applied for a review within the period of 90 days, but when the application has been granted on good cause shown, then the exposition of the law laid down since the date of the judgment sought to be reviewed may properly govern the case. Two cases in which plaintiffs were proprietors of the same village and the defendants, two brothers, were filed together, were heard on the same days, rested on the same point and evidence in one was held good in the other. While one case was fought on up to the Chief Court, in the other defendant held back waiting for the decision in the case of his brother and believing his case would be decided according to the decision in his brother's case. His application for review was filed before the judgment of the Chief Court was given. Held by Campbell and Boulnois, JJ. (Lindsay, J., dissenting) that the Deputy Commissioner was quite justified in being satisfied that the cause assigned by petitioner for filing his application for review after 90 days was just and reasonable. HURREE SING v. MUKHA, 51 P.R. 1871.

(24)—Cognate cases—Appeal to Privy Council—High Court reversing its own decision—Application for review of judgment—Lapse of time.—An application for review of judgment of three out of five analogous cases decided by the High Court, the judgment in two of which had been reversed by the Privy Council, made after the lapse of more than 90 days from the date of the judgment of the High Court, but made within ninety days from the Privy Council decision was granted under the circumstances of the case. Where of five cognate cases which one decision of the High Court governed, two were appealed to the Privy Council, and the decision was reversed, the High Court reversod its own decision in the rest. SUTTO SURRUN GHOSAL BAHADOOR v. TARINEE CHURN GHOSE, 12 W.R. 154 = 3 B.L.R. A.C. 287. (9 W.R.F.B. 181, Dist.; 3 W.R. 1, R.) [Appr., 13 W.R. 439; Diss., 18 W.R. 317.]

Review—continued.

—5.—Review after Time—continued.

(25)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377—Review—"Just and reasonable cause" for delay--Subsequent Full Bench decision.—An application for review of a judgment passed 3 years previously, was found to be a renewal of an application made within the time limited for that purpose by s.377 of Act VIII of 1859. The only justification for the delay was that a judgment of a Full Bench had since that date laid down the law in conformity with the contention made by the petitioner in his former petition of review. Held that this fact did not constitute a just and reasonable cause within the meaning of s. 377, and that the Court ought not, merely on the ground of the Full Bench decision, to admit a petition for the purpose of interfering, in review, with a determination of the law by a competent tribunal which was come to before that decision was given. DWARKANATH DOSS BISWAS v. MANICK CHUNDER DOSS, 9 W. R. 102. [D., 13 W.R. 82, 8 C. 700, 11 C.P.L.R. 41.]

(26)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 377—Application for review after 90 days—Subsequent different construction of law by High Court, no excuse for delay.—In this case, the lower appellate Court admitted a review after the period of 90 days prescribed by s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859 had expired since the original case was decided. The only cause shown for not having preferred the application within time was that, prior to the admission of the review, the High Court in another case had laid down the law in a different manner from that in which the lower appellate Court had laid it down in the decision admitted to review. Held that the new construction of the law might be a ground for review, but would amount to no execuse for not having applied in time. PRAN KISHEN BHUTTACHARJEE v. BUKSHEE CAZEE, 10 W.R. 26. (9 W.R. 181, F.B. at p. 185, F.)

(27)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 378—Decision eight years old—Review.—A review may be granted in 1862 of a decision of 1854, and the order admitting the review is final under s. 378, Act VIII of 1859. MAHADEO LALL v. LALLA GOUR PERSAD, W.R. 1864, 232.

(28)—Review of predecessor's judgment--Application made beyond 90 days from date of decree—Procedure—Decision regarding admission of review.—In this case, there was no proper decision as to the admission of the application for review, because the Principal Sudder Ameen had admitted a review of the judgment of his predecessor without deciding whether there was just and reasonable cause for the delay in the application for review which was presented after 90 days from the date of the decree. He should not have admitted the application merely because, in his opinion, the evidence was such as to lead to a different conclusion, since he was not an appellate Court competent to revise the decision of his predecessor. The judgment of a preceding Judge cannot be reviewed merely because the succeeding Judge would have recorded a different judgment. If any new evidence is offered, the applicant is bound under the law to show that it "could not be adduced by him" at the trial, before the review could be admitted for the re-consideration of such judgment. DOOKHOO PASEE v. SHAIKH MAHOMED HOSSEIN, 6 W.R. 98.

Review—continued.

—5.—Review after Time—continued.

(29)—Application for review of judgment—Subsequent decision of High Court or Privy Council modifying law or practice, not sufficient ground for admission of review after limited period.—The party who applied for review in this case failed to show any cause whatever for not having preferred his application within the limited period. He relied upon a new interpretation that had been put upon the law relating to the matter decided in the suit. It was, however, held that, though it might be a good reason for preferring an application at the present time, it could be no reason for not having preferred such application in the past. It is not consistent with law or reason that questions which have been long ago finally decided by competent tribunals are to be re-opened at any period of time, however remote, in consequence of a decision either in this Court or in the Privy Council which is supposed to modify the law or practice which prevailed at the time of such decisions. ONOOP CHUNDER PAUL v. EKKOWREE SINGH, 6 W.R. 167. [R., 7 W.R. 166, 11 C.P.L.R. 42.]

(30)—Rejection of first application for review—Second application based on construction given in a subsequent Full Court decision, to be made within 90 days from such decision.—A previous application for review of a judgment of the Division Court, which had been made within 90 days from the date of the judgment, was rejected. On the ground that a Full Court subsequently sitting in appeal had put a particular construction on a "teep" or Indigo contract, a second application for review was presented. It was contended for the applicant that inasmuch as an application had been made within 90 days from the date of the original decree, he was not bound to show just and reasonable cause to the satisfaction of the Court for not having preferred his second application within 90 days from the date of the judgment of the Full Court sitting on appeal under s. 15 of the Charter; but the High Court was of opinion that the applicant was bound to make his application within 90 days from the date of the decision of the Full Court, and, there having been no just and reasonable cause shown for the delay beyond that period, rejected also the second application for review. FORBES v. SHAIKH DYANUTTOLLAH, 10 W.R. 415.

Review—continued.

——5.—Review after Time—continued.

(31)—Ss. 376, 377, Act VIII of 1859—Admission of review of judgment after 90 days—Discretion of first Court under s. 377, Civ. Pro. Code, lower appellate Court not competent to interfere with.—In this case, the Principal Sudder Ameen reversed the decision of the Sudder Ameen admitting a review. The application for the review had been presented more than 90 days from the date of the original decree, and the Sudder Ameen exercising the discretion vested in him by s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859, granted a review, and it was not competent to the principal Sudder Ameen to interfere with the exercise of such discretion. It is the duty of the Judge of the Court to whom an application for review has been made to satisfy himself, not only of the existence of proper grounds for questioning the prior decision but also of the existence of just and reasonable cause why the application was not made within the limited period; and where he is not satisfied on the latter point, he ought to dismiss the application without reference to any other question. SHAIKH BURA BOODHOO v. KOYLASH CHUNDER NUNDEE, 6 W.R. 99.

(32)—Application for review—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), s 5—Pendency of appeal not sufficient ground for delay in applying for review—Applicant's ignorance of legal effect of judgment, not sufficient excuse for delay—Small Cause suit—Interlocutory order—Appeal — The application for review in this case was presented long after the prescribed period; the District Judge however granted the review, being of opinion that there was sufficient cause for the delay in the circumstance that an appeal by the applicant was all along pending. The High Court held that the application for review should not have been admitted after the long delay for which there was no sufficient excuse. The mere pendency of an appeal or a second appeal would not constitute "sufficient cause" within the meaning of s. 5 of Act XV of 1877. Nor can the Court allow an applicant for review to plead his ignorance of the legal effect of the judgment as a justification of his delay, for, that would be exposing the decree-holder to the possibility of a review for an indefinite period. GULAM HUSEN MAHAMED v. SAYAD MUSA MIYA HAMAD ALI, 8 B. 260.

(33)—Reversal of decree in another case—Ground for admitting review after time—Review after 90 days—Appeal.—Where an application for review of an order in execution of a decree was made more than 5 months after the date of the order, and not within 90 days as required by the Code, and the only ground upon which the review was sought was that, in the execution case of another person, but apparently upon the same decree, the decision which proceeded apparently upon the same ground as the decision in this case, had been reversed by the High Court. Held that the reversal by a Court of appeal of any decree or order in another case is no ground for admitting a review after the expiration of 90 days, and that the order admitting a review under such circumstances was open to appeal and should be set aside. ROY GOODUR SUHAYE v. ACHEBUR LALL, 13 W.R. 120. (9 W.R. F.B. 181, F.; 12 W.R. 184, R., 2 B.L.R. 183=11 W.R. 56, D.) [R., 17 W.R. 163.]

Review—continued.

——5.—Review after Time—concluded.

(34)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 376, 377—Special appeal admitted—Review—Delay in applying for review—Special appeal pending.—The mere fact that a special appeal has been preferred and admitted in the High Court against a decretal order of a lower appellate Court prevents any party to the suit, no matter whether or not he be the party who preferred the special appeal, from having the right, under s. 376, Act VIII of 1859, of applying to the lower appellate Court for a review of the judgment. [F., 14 W.R. 438; R., 11 W.R. 511 (12 C.W.N. 885).] Where an application for review of judgment is not made within 90 days and absolutely no reason is given for the delay except the fact that a special appeal has been pending in the meanwhile, it was held that the pendency of a special appeal would not be "a just and reasonable cause" for the loss of time, such as the Court to which the application is made is bound to arrive at, under the provisions of s. 377 of Act VIII of 1859, before it can entertain the application at all. L.T. LUCAS v. W. STEPHEN, 9 W.R. 301=5 Wym. 195. [F., 8 B.H.C. A.C. 234.]

(35)—Special appeal—Remand order—Legal effect—Subsequent change of law—Review.—The fact that the High Court, subsequently to a remand in a special appeal, takes a different view of the law from that held at the time of the remand, is not in itself sufficient ground for questioning validity of a remand order made by that Court under what turns out to have been a mistaken apprehension of law, or for seeking a review of it after the prescribed time. An application for review of the remand order within the time allowed by the law is the proper course to follow. Failing that, the remand order is a conclusive determination upon the point of law, and its validity cannot be questioned in another special appeal. RAMKUVARBAI v. DAMODHAR NARBHERAM, 6 B.H.C. A.C. 146. [F., 10 O.C. 350.]

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4 and 5, 39 P.R. 1879.

See SPECIAL OR SECOND APPEAL—ERRORS OF LAW OR PROCEDURE, 15 W.R. 143.

——6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 624, 626 (c)—Act VII of 1888, s. 59—Review—Grant of application—Hearing by successor.—An application for review of judgment upon grounds other than those mentioned in s. 624 of the Code (which are the existence of new and important matter or evidence or of some apparent clerical error), if presented to the Judge who delivered it, and who has thereupon directed notice to be given to the opposite party, may be heard and disposed of by his successor. The language used in proviso (c) of s. 626 of the Code is not felicitous, for s. 624 does not provide for the making of any application to the Judge who delivered the judgment; it only forbids the making of certain applications to any Judge other than the Judge who delivered the judgment. The intention, however, of the Legislature in inserting the proviso by Act VII of 1888 is plain. Under s. 623, there are three grounds upon which applications for review can be made:—(1) new and important matter of evidence, (2) mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, and (3) any other sufficient reason. When, therefore, s 624 provides that no application except on grounds (1) and (2) can be made to a Judge other than the Judge who delivered the judgment, while tacitly allowing that, to the Judge who delivered the judgment, applications on all three grounds can be made, it in effect enacts that to him alone shall applications on ground (3) be made. GANPAT v. JIVAN, 16 B. 603. [R., 16 C.P. L.R. 151.]

Review—continued.

— 6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

(2)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 7—Case in progress of trial not within scope of review—Court passing judgment the only Court to grant review.—The Court which has pronounced a judgment is the only Court that can review such judgment. Where, by inadvertence or from design, an application for review of the judgment of a Subordinate Judge has been presented in the Judge's Court, it is the duty of the latter to return the petition to the party in order that it might be put in before the Subordinate Judge. S. 6 of Act VIII of 1859 gives a Judge power to withdraw a case from a Court subordinate to him. It does so, however, solely to enable the Judge to himself try the case so withdrawn or to refer it for trial to some other Court. According to the section, such transfer must take place on the institution of the suit, and it could not have been intended that a case in progress of trial should be taken off the file of the Court trying the same, in order that it should be completed by the Judge himself or some other Court. RAM NATH v. GOWHUR, 2 N.W.P. 230.

(3).—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 627—Application for review— Constitution of Benches—Powers of Chief Justice.—The latter part of s. 627 of the Code provides that no other Judge or Judges of the Court, excepting the Judge or Judges who was or were parties to the original judgment, shall hear the application for review of the Judge or Judges or any one of them is still attached to the Court; so that although the Chief Justice of the High Court has in general the duty cast upon him of appointing the

Review—continued.

—6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

Judges who are to constitute particular Benches for particular business, in cases to which s. 627 applies the constitution of the Bench is taken out of his hands, and is provided for by the Code. AUBHOY CHURN MOHUNT v. SHAMONT LOCHUN MOHUNT, 16 C. 788. [R., 9 C.W.N. 502.]

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 623, 624—Review of judgment—Abolition of Court and transfer of business to another Court.—S. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code must be considered as a priviso to s. 623, and so, when there has been a change of the presiding Judge, no application can be made to the new Judge, for review of judgment whether of the Court which passed the decree or of the Court substituted for it, except on the grounds mentioned in s. 624. SARANGAPANI v. NARAYANASAMI, 8 M. 567. [Appr., 16 B. 603.]

(5)—Transfer of case from one Court to another for purposes of review.—A Judge cannot, by transferring a case to his own file, confer on himself the power to review the dismissal order passed by a principal Sudder Ameen. GOLAM ESHA v. HURRISH CHUNDER MOOKERJEE, W.R. 1864, Mis. 29.

(6)—Review—Appeal heard before two Judges —One Judge leaving Court—Application for review heard before other Judge—Appeal to be heard by two Judges if review granted—Sufficient reason—Discretion of Court.—When an appeal is heard by two Judges of the High Court, one of whom leaves the Court, the Judge who continues in the Court is competent to hear an application for a review of the decree made in the appeal, and also the application for a rule for the review and the rule. If the rule is made absolute, the appeal should be heard by a Bench of two Judges. The discretion of a Court in saying what constitutes good and sufficient reason for an application for review, or what are the proper requisites for the ends of justice to support such an application, is not limited. MAKSUD MAHI v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, 9 Ind. Cas. 532.

(7)—St. 24 and 25 Vic., c. 104 (High Court's Act) s. 15—High Court's powers of superintendence — Review of judgment.—Where a Subordinate Judge rejected an application for review of judgment, on the ground that he had no right to interfere, as the judgment sought to be reviewed was that of his predecessor, held, that the High Court, under the general powers of superintendence vested in it by s. 15 of the Letters Patent, is competent to point out to the Subordinate Court its error and to direct it to reconsider the application presented to it, and to dispose of it according to law. In re MATHRA PRASHAD, I.A. 296. [R., 9 A. 104 = A.W.N. 1886, 309, F.B.]

(8)—Application for review of judgment, succeeding Judge considering and deciding, powers

Review—continued.

—6—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

of.—No distinction is made by law between the power of a Judge who had originally heard the case and subsequently has an application for review before him, and the power of a Judge subsequently succeeding to the same office, who has such an application before him (not being barred, by the circumstances stated in s. 379 of Act VIII of 1859, from considering such application). AMAN ALI CHOWDHRY v. KASIM ALI, 6 W.R. 316.

(9)—Review of predecessor's judgment—Discretion of Court.—A Subordinate Judge has the power under the law to review the decision of his predecessor, although this is a power which should be exercised very sparingly. KANGALEE CHURN JOSH v. DURSUNEE DOSSEE, 18 W. R. 198.

(10)—Review of judgment, application for—Notice—Hearing by successor--Civ. Pro. Code, s. 624.—An application for review of judgment, upon a ground other than those mentioned in s. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, if presented to the Judge, who delivered it, and who, thereupon, directs notice to issue to the opposite party, may be heard and disposed of by his successor. KAROO SINGH v. DEO NARAIN SINGH, 10 C. 80=13 C.L.R. 261. (4 A. 278, Diss.) [F., 13 C. 231; Appr., 13 M. 178. F.B., 16 B. 603; R., 12 M. 509; Cons., 10 C.P.L.R. 62.]

(11)—Review, application for, heard by successor of the Judge that passed the decree—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 624.—Where an application for review is presented to the Judge who made the decree, and he thereupon issues notice to the other side, the application is "made" to him within the meaning of s. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and may be heard and disposed of by his successor in office. FAZEL BISWAS v. JAMADAR SHEIK 13 C. 231. (10 C. 80. F.) [Appr., 13 M. 178. F.B.; R., 16 B. 603, 10 C.P. L.R. 62, 3 O.C. 363.]

(12)—First decree in favour of plaintiff—Appeal to Privy Council—Second decree in plaintiff's favour based on first decree—Payment of money into Court pending result of previous appeal to Privy Council—Reversal of decree by the Privy Council—"New and important matter"—Application for review—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 623, 624.—The proprietor of certain taluqdari villages sold the suit lands, which were described as nakri (rent-free), to the father of the plaintiff under a deed dated 9th May 1858, and covenanted to the effect that, if the Government should, at any future time, levy any assessment and the vendee were compelled to pay the same, the latter would be entitled to recover the same from him. The Government having levied assessment for the years 1872 1876, the plaintiff instituted a suit in 1876 against the taluqdar for the recovery of the amount paid by him. The suit having been decreed in plaintiff's favour in 1883 by the High Court, the defendant (taluqdar) appealed to the Privy Council. The Government levied assessment on the nakri lands again for the years 1877—1882, and a second suit was filed by the plaintiff to recover from the taluqdar the amount levied from him. The defendant not having contested the suit, an ex parte decree was passed against him on the strength of the decree of the High Court in the former suit. When the plaintiff took out execution of this decree, the defendant paid money into Court and applied for stay of further proceedings in execution pending the result of the appeal to the Privy Council in the previous suit. The application was granted. The Privy Council having reversed the decree of the High Court and decided in favour of the defendant in 1887, he applied for a refund of the money in Court's deposit. At the suggestion of Court, the defendant applied for a review of the decree in the second suit. But the District Judge, who was not the Judge who had decided the case, rejected the application, on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to entertain it under the provisions of s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. Held, that it was competent to the District Judge to entertain the application for review, the decision of the Privy Council which reversed the decree of the High Court in the first suit, and which had been passed subsequent to the decree in the second suit, which depended on the reversed decree of the High Court, being "new and important matter" within the meaning of ss. 623 and 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. WAGHELA RAISANGJI v. SHAIK MASLUDIN, 13 B 330 [R., 8 Bom. L.R. 932=31 B. 128, 4 M.L.T. 86.]

Review—continued.

—6—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

(13)—Civ Pro. Code, ss. 624 and 626, cl. (c)—Review of judgment, application for, before Judge other than one who delivered judgment—Jurisdiction.—On the ground that he was not competent to entertain it, an Assistant Collector dismissed an application for a review of the judgment of his predecessor, who had admitted the application, issued notice to the parties, and subsequently partly heard the application. Held, that under clause (c) of s. 626 of the Code of Civil Procedure, where an application for a review of judgment upon grounds other than those mentioned in s. 624 is presented to the Judge who delivered it, and he has thereupon directed notice to be given to the opposite party, the application may be heard and disposed of by his successor; held, therefore, that the Assistant Collector had jurisdiction to hear and dispose of the application for the review of his predecessor's judgment. DUNYAPAT v. GANESHI, 3 O C. 363.

(14)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 624—Review of judgment by another Judge—Clerical error—Minors, application for review of judgment by—Limitation Act, 1877, ss. 7 & 8.—In a declaratory suit, the Judge passed a decree to the effect that the amount due under certain deeds of the plaintiffs had priority over the amount due under the deeds of the defendant. One of the plaintiffs' deeds the Court omitted to mention in the judgment, and consequently it was not entered in the decree. The judgment was dated the 8th January 1897, and on the 21st September 1897, the plaintiffs (all of whom, with the exception of one, were minors) applied, under s. 623, Civ. Pro. Code, for a review of judgment before another judge. On behalf of the defendant, it was contended that the application for review of judgment was beyond time, and that the Judge could not review the judgment of his predecessor. Held, that the application was notbarred by limitation. S. 7, Limitation Act, applies when only some of the judgment-creditors, and not all, are affected by a legal disability. Held, further, that it was owing to an oversight or clerical error that the Court did not grant the relief prayed for in respect of one of the plaintiffs' deeds and the Judge was competent to review the judgment of his predecessor under s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code. A "clerical error" is intended to mean in s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code, an error in recording what, on the face of the record, was the decision which the Court had arrived at. LACHMI NARAIN v. RAM PRASAD, 3 O.C. 316. [F., 9 O.C. 269.]

Review—continued.

——6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case —continued.

(15)—Review—No new evidence—Co-ordinate Court.—It was never intended by the Legislature that one judicial officer should review the judgment of another officer of the same grade, not upon any new evidence or for any error patent in the decision of his predecessor, but simply because it is stated that his predecessor has not taken a right view of the evidence. WOLFUT v. NUSRUTOOLLAH, 25 W.R. 48.

(16)—Review of judgment—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 623, 624—Meaning of term "made" in s. 624.—The term "made" in s. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, does not mean merely "presented" but must be construed to include a hearing and determination of the application for review. Therefore, while applications for review of judgment, when based upon the ground of discovery of new and important evidence, or on account of some mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, may be made to any Judge of the Court that passed the decree or made the order, as being matters not impeaching the essence of the original judgment, or the correctness of the decision, either in law or fact, of the Judge that passed it upon the material before him, those in which "other sufficient reasons" are alleged, attacking the accuracy of his statement of the facts or otherwise assailing the judgment itself on points admissible in review, must be preferred to, and can be heard and determined only by the identical Judge who delivered the judgment. PANCHAM v. JHINGURI, 4 A. 278 = A.W.N. 1882, 26 [Diss., 10 C. 80; Not F., 13 M. 178, F. B.; R., 12 M. 509, 16 B 603 10 C.P.L.R. 62, 3 O.C. 363, 33 C. 1323 = 3 C.L.J. 545, 548, 556 = 10 C.W.N. 986.]

Review—continued.

——6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

(17)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376—Review—Any other sufficient cause—Different conclusion upon same state of facts.—A Judge is not at liberty to review and reverse his predecessor's judgment merely because he happens to arrive at a different conclusion upon the same state of facts. BANEE MADHUB BOSE v. KALEE CHURN SINGH ROY, 24 W.R. 387. [F., 25 W.R. 48.]

(18)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 624—Judgment to be reviewed only by Judge originally delivering it.—Under s. 624 of the Civil Procedure Code, it is not competent to a Judge other than the one who has delivered the original judgment to entertain an application for review of the judgment. The mere fact that the application has been once presented to the proper Judge and notice issued by him, cannot be taken as authorising his successor to proceed with such application. CHERU KURUP v. CHERU KANDA KURUP, 12 M. 509. [F., 10 C.P.L.R. 62; R., 13 M. 178, F.B.]

(19)—Review of predecessor's judgment—Different conclusions from facts.—A Judge is not authorised to admit a review of a judgment delivered by another Judge merely because he thinks that that judgment is not justified by the facts of the case. SHAIKH MUNOOROODEEN v. KADIR BUKSH, 24 W.R. 410.

(20)—Power to review predecessor's judgment—Grounds for review.—A Judge ought not to review his predecessor's judgment except on the grounds specifically mentioned in the Civ. Pro. Code, (VIII of 1859), ss. 376 and 378 = (XIV of 1882), ss. 623 and 624. [F., 24 W.R. 186, 24 W.R. 387, 25 W.R. 48, 2 M. 10; D., 6 C. 236 = 6 C L.R. 549] A review can be granted only on the ground of discovery of new evidence or for the correction of a patent and indubitable error or omission, or any other similar ground justifying a review. ROY MEGHRAJ v. BEEJOY GOBHIND BURRAL, 1 C. 197 = 23 W.R. 438. [F., 24 W.R. 186, 25 W.R. 324, 2 M. 10; D., 1 M. 396; R., 24 M. 1 = 2 Bom. L.R. 771, P.C.]

(21)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378—Review of predecessor's judgment — Legality—Appeal.—One Principal Sudder Ameen ought not to review the judgment of his predecessor except upon grounds of grave importance. Even if there is anything wrong in point of law in granting a review upon the said ground, such decision cannot be reversed on appeal inasmuch as the Legislature has made such decision not appealable, s. 378, Act VIII of 1859, declaring that the order, whether for rejecting the application or granting the review, shall be final. RANEE SURUT SOONDUREE DEBIA v. RAJENDUR KISHORE ROY CHOWDHRY, 9 W.R. 125.

(22)—Review by judge of order made by his predecessor, previous absence of notice not a ground for.—It is not competent to a Subordinate Judge to review an order passed by his predecessor in office in an execution proceeding for striking off the same, on the mere ground, that such order was passed in the absence of the deceased decree-holder and without having given him notice of the day fixed for the hearing of the darkhast. The application for review under such circumstances not being one based on the ground of the discovery of new and important matter of evidence or of a clerical error apparent on the face of the order, could not, by reason of s. 624 of the Civ. Pro. Code, be heard by any other Judge than the one who made such order. KHEMA KANUJI v. DHANJI FRAMJI, 14 B. 101.

Review—continued.

——6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—continued.

(23)—Review of judgment—Application made to successor—Civ. Pro. Code. 1877, s. 624 —An application for review of judgment delivered by a Subordinate Judge who had retired after delivering it, was made by the plaintiff to his successor, upon grounds other than that falling within the exception mentioned in s. 624. Held that such application was rightly rejected by the Subordinate Judge. BHAGMANI KUAR v. RAM NARAIN, A.W.N. 1882, 96.

(24)—Judgment by predecessor — Application for review to successor—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 624. —Where a judgment is passed by a predecessor in office, an application for review cannot be made to a successor on the ground of supposed error of judgment. (Vide s. 624, Civ. Pro. Code). BEHARI LOLL MOOKERJEE v. MUNGOLANATH MOOKERJEE, 5 C. 110=4 C.L R. 371.

(25)—Judgment by predecessor of present Judge—Review—Limitation.—A lower Court Judge is incompetent to admit a review of the judgment passed by his predecessor after the lapse of 90 days, unless there is just and reasonable cause for not having preferred the application within the period fixed. GOSSIE DOSS v. NARAIN DOSS, W R. 1864, 287.

(26)—Judgment passed on compromise—Review—Reversal of predecessor's judgment—Personal grounds.—No review of judgment can be admitted from a decision passed on a compromise. To allow one Munsiff to review and reverse the decree of his predecessor on personal grounds and after eight months' delay, is altogether opposed to the spirit of the law. BABOO PURMESSUREE NARAIN SINGH v. SYUD ROMEEZOODDEN AHMED CAZEE, 5 W. R. 226.

(27)—Review of Small Cause judgment, only on grounds in s. 624 of Act X of 1877—Small Cause Judge, not competent to alter decree by fixing instalments.— The Judge of a Small Cause Court cannot entertain an application for the review of a judgment delivered by his predecessor except upon grounds specified in s. 624 of Act X of 1877, nor could he under s. 210 of the Code alter the decree by fixing instalments except with the consent of the decree-holder which was not given in the present case. The Chief Court, under the circumstances, interfered under s. 622 and set aside the order by which the decree debt was made payable by instalments extending over 2 years, as made without jurisdiction. GOPIMAL v. AHMED NASSAN, 144 P.R. 1879.

(28)—S. 5, Limitation Act—Review—Application to surviving member of—Bench to review judgment of—Bench on plea of limitation—Practice.—Where, after the death of one member of a Bench of two Judges, an application was made to the survivor to review their joint judgment on the plea that the appeal in which the judgment sought to be reviewed was passed had been, at the time of presentation, insufficiently stamped, and when the deficiency was supplied, was beyond time, the Court, under the circumstances, declined to interfere, on the grounds, inter alia, that the objection of limitation was not taken at the hearing of the appeal and that there was nothing to show that the Court would not at that time have granted an extension under s. 5 of the Limitation Act. GANPAT RAI v. IDU, A W.N. 1891, 65.

(29)—Review of predecessor's judgment—Judgment of reviewing Judge erroneous in law—High Court's power of supervision—Jurisdiction.—The High Court may, without the exercise of its powers of supervision, set aside an erroneous decision of a District Judge reviewing the judgment of his predecessor, and setting it aside on a ground involving a misconstruction of the leading facts of the case. GOUR HUREE SHAHA v. RASH MONEE, 20 W.R. 313.

(30)—Resumption of invalid lakhiraj, suit by Government for, under Reg. II of 1819—Intervention of Zemindar—Interlocutory orders, Suitors not obliged to resort to appeal from—Application for review of judgment—Re-consideration by same Judge as contradistinguished from appeal—Causes accounting for delay in applying for review—Exceptional cases of review before another Judge.—In this suit for resumption of invalid lakheraj brought by the Government, under Reg. II of 1819, the zemindar, apprehending that his interest might be affected by the decision of the Collector declaring the lakheraj lands to be more extensive than they really were, intervened by petition. It was held that, in any view of the case, he had an interest which justified him in so doing; for, even assuming it to be true that the Collector's report as to the extent of the land subject to revenue, was not binding on the zemindar, and that he had a remedy against such a proceeding in another Court, still he had clearly an interest in averting an erroneous decree being made to his prejudice, the creation of prima facie evidence prejudicial to himself, and the necessity of resorting to the Civil Courts to remedy an evil already inflicted. There is no law or regulation prevailing in India which renders it imperative upon the suitor to appeal from every interlocutory order by which he may conceive himself aggrieved, under the penalty, if he does not do so, of forfeiting for ever the benefit of the consideration of the appellate Court. Nothing can be more detrimental to the expeditious administration of justice than the establishment of a rule which would impose upon the suitor the necessity of so appealing, whereby, on the one hand, he might be harassed with endless expense and delay, and, on the other, inflict upon his opponent similar calamities. [F., 28 C. 324=5 C.W.N. 509; Appr., 11 W.R. P.C. 19; R., 7 B.H.C. 149, 11 A. 35, 11 C. 232, 23 C. 406, 29 C. 758=5 C.W.N. 617, 12 C.W.N. 590=6 C.L.J. 547; D., 23 C. 279.] An application for review is perfectly distinct from an appeal. From the regulations passed relative to the question of granting reviews, the primary intention of granting a review clearly appears to be to secure a re-consideration of the same subject by the same Judge as contradistinguished from an appeal which is a hearing before another tribunal. There might no doubt be cases in which a review may be had before another Judge as where death or some unexpected cause has prevented the Judge from reviewing it; such exceptions, however, are allowable only ex necessitate. In all practicable cases, the same Judge ought to review and, for the attainment of such object, expeditious presentation of the petition for review is indispensable. The Regulations relating to review by the Sudder Court are applicable to the proceedings of the Special Commissioners granting a review of their own decrees. Also, the causes accounting for the delay and intended to justify the grant of a review ought always to be of grave importance. On a consideration of the proceedings in this case, the Judicial Committee came to the conclusion that the reasons assigned in this case for the grant of the review were wholly insufficient; that the requisites of the Regulations had not been complied with; that no such reasonable cause had been shown for the delay in the presenting of the petition; and that the petition itself did not state any circumstance which, in justice, required the granting of the review. MOHARJAH MOHESHUR SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA. 3 W.R. P C 45=7 M I.A. 283=1 Suther. 325 =1 Sar. 645. [F. W.R 1864, 91. 8 W R. 184; Appl., 8 B.H C.A C. 44; R., 9 W R. 125, 9 W.R 181 F B., 9 W.R. 301, 10 W R. F.B. 1. 2 N.W.P 230, 14 W.R 334, 20 W.R. 313, 14 B.L.R. 373=2 I.A. 58, 4 A. 278, 13 M. 178, 16 B. 603.]

Review—continued.

— 6.—Review by Judge other than Judge in original Case—concluded.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 185, 19 A. 522 =A.W N. 1897, 139.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, sch. II, rr. 16, 20 and 21, 5 O.C. 27.

— 7.—Review when lies.

(1)—Act X of 1859—Provision for review—Principle—Act VIII of 1859.—If it is the case that there is no clause in Act X of 1859 showing how a review should be admitted, it is just possible that the best principles, under which such review should be allowed, are the just and equitable principles stated in Act VIII of 1859. MONEEKURNIKA CHOWDHRAIN v. THE COLLECTOR OF MYMENSINGH. 16 W.R. 159.

Review—continued.

— 7.—Review when lies—continued.

(2)—Act X of 1859—Appeal from Revenue Court—Review of judgment.—The provisions of Act X of 1859 do not define the power possessed by the Judge when cases instituted in the Revenue Court are heard by him in appeal, nor the procedure to be observed in the Judge's Courts in such cases. They do not define the powers possessed by the Collector as an appellate Court and the procedure to be followed. There is no illegality in the order of a Judge admitting a review of his judgment in an appeal from a Revenue Court. KOER HURCHUND SINGH v. MUSSUMAT ROOPA KOOER, 4 N.W.P. 171.

(3)—Decrees by Revenue Courts in appealable cases—Review—Act X of 1859, ss. 151, 154—Review by Revenue Court—Under ss. 151 and 154 of Act X of 1859, the Revenue Courts have no power to admit a review against any decree passed by them in appealable cases. A review in such a case was admitted and its former order was upheld by the first Court; and an appeal presented against such order was rejected on the ground that no appeal lay from an order rejecting a review. On a special appeal having been made to the High Court, the latter Court suspended its final order in the case, in order to enable the appellant to make an application to the lower appellate Court for the re-admission of the appeal and pending an intimation from that Court that sufficient cause existed for extending the time of the appeal, because the appellant was misled by the first Court receiving and entertaining his review, and he would have appealed in time even from the first decree, had the first Court rejected the application for review. SOOKHANUNDAMOYEE DABEA v. BANEY MADHAB MOOKERJEE, 1 W.R. 73. [R., 12 W.R. 489.]

(4)—Act X of 1859, ss. 151 and 154 to 158—Review of judgment.—It is expressly enacted by Act X of 1859, s. 151, that no judgment of a Collector or Deputy Collector shall be open to revision or appeal otherwise than as expressly provided in the Act; and there is in the Act no general provision for a review of judgment though in certain special cases (see ss. 154 to 158) the Revenue Courts are authorized to order a re-hearing. MAHOMED TUCKEE v. MUSSUMAT AHMUDEE BEGUM, 3 N.W.P. 22.

(5)—Judgment of appellate Court, review of—Jurisdiction—Act X of 1859, s. 58 scope of.—The Court of first instance cannot review a judgment passed by the appellate Court. S. 58 of Act X of 1859 applies to the Court of first instance, not to the appellate Court. An appellate Court has therefore no authority to direct the first Court to determine whether there are grounds for admitting for a re-hearing a case in which decree had been passed by the appellate Court. SREENATH DUTT v. RAM GOPAL CHATTERJEE, 11 W.R. 108.

Review—continued.

—7.—Review when lies—continued.

(6)—Act X of 1859, s. 78—Decree for ejectment of ryot—Review of judgment after execution.—There is no section of the law that enables a Collector, after execution has once been taken out against a ryot under s. 78 of Act X of 1859, to review his judgment or put back the ryot into possession of the land. RAM JEBUN DOSS v. DOYALEE DOSSEE, 11 W R. 246.

(7)—Act X of 1859, s. 58—Ex parte decree—Review—Previous notice—Jurisdiction.—A suit which had been decreed ex parte was revived by the Deputy Collector on the application of the defendant that he had no notice of the suit. The Deputy Collector fixed a day for the hearing and the plaintiff was informed that he could make any objection on that day against the revival of the suit. Though the plaintiff asked for the examination of the defendant as a witness to the fact that he did actually receive notice of the suit, he did not put any question to the defendant whether he received the notice or not. Held that the revival of the ex parte decree was not contrary to the provisions of s. 58, Act X of 1859, as previous notice had been given to the plaintiff to show cause against such revival. ALI AZIM v. RAM MANICK ROY, 12 W.R. 195.

(8)—Ex parte decree—Review of judgment—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623.—It is competent to a party against whom an ex parte decree has been passed, to apply for review of judgment. BIBI MUTTO v. ILAHI BEGUM, 6 A. 65.

(9)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376, inapplicability of, to ex parte judgments—Application under s. 119—Procedure.—S. 376 of Act VIII of 1859 applies to cases heard and decided in the presence of both parties, but not to the case of a person who has come in under s. 119 alleging that he had no knowledge of the suit at all. Such a person should be allowed an opportunity of proving that the summons was not duly served on him or that he was prevented from appearing for some good and sufficient cause. MOTEE CHAND BABOO v. RADHA MADUB CHUND BABOO, 2 W R. Mis. 34.

(10)—Act X of 1859, s. 58—Appeal—Review of judgment—Jurisdiction.—After the modification of his decree by the Judge in appeal, a Deputy Collector has no jurisdiction to entertain a petition for review of his judgment under s. 58 of Act X of 1859. SOOBUL CHUNDER GOOHO v. TUMEEZOODDEEN CHOWDHRY, 14 W R. 414.

(11)—Act X of 1859, ss 58, 151—Non-appearance of defendant—Revision, construction of the word—Jurisdiction.—A defendant who has appeared on one or more occasions and contested the suit up to a certain point, is not a defendant who has not appeared, in the sense of s. 58 of Act X of 1859, merely because, at some subsequent stage of the proceedings, he was not present when the suit was heard. The proper construction of the word "revision," as used in s. 151 of Act X of 1859, is not "review," but such revision as the Board of Revenue and Commissioners, as superior officers, exercise over the proceedings of the Collectors and Deputy Collectors, or the High Court over the proceedings of the lower Courts in criminal trials under ss. 404 and 405 of the Crim. Pro. Code. Independently of any provision contained in Act X of 1859, there may be cases in which a Collector has power to admit a party to come in and be heard when a proceeding has taken place in his absence. Every presumption should be made in favour of his having jurisdiction in such cases, especially where, if the review had not been admitted, the party would have been entirely without a remedy. RADHA PERSHAD SINGH v. SANSAR ROY, 14 W. R 27. [R., 16 W. R. 159, 28 A. 554, F.B.=A.W.N. 1906, 101=3 A. L J. 394=1 M.L T. 219.]

Review—continued.

—7.—Review when lies—continued.

(12)—Review by Court without application by party—Jurisdiction—Ex parte decree—Review—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 376.—A Judge reviewing his previous judgment without any application having been made to him by the party aggrieved, acts without jurisdiction. There is nothing in the law which prevents an ex parte decree being reviewed, so far at all events as it relates to matters other than the question of the defendants being served with summons or being unable to appear. PORESH NATH MUNDUL v. KHETTRO MONEE DEBIA, 20 W.R. 284.

(13)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 108, 623—Appearance of parties—S. 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, applies to all cases whether they are disposed of in the presence of the parties, or ex parte in the absence of the defendants. HARIHUR PERSHAD NARAIN SINGH v. BUDDU PERSHAD, 13 C.L.R. 254.

(14)—Review, when inadmissible.—A review is not admissible merely for the purpose of having a point argued again, upon the same materials, by some other counsel. RAMEY v. BROUGHTON, 10 C. 652.

(15)—Act VIII of 1859—Order passed in execution of decree—Review of such order—Power of Court.—Under the New Code of Civil Procedure, 1859, a Judge is empowered to review an order passed by himself in the course of the execution of a decree (Morgan, J., dissentiente). HARADHUN MOOKERJEE v. CHUNDER MOHUN ROY, W.R.F.B. 66=1 Hay 577=Marsh 205.

(16)—Order in execution passed by Judge, power of Judge to review.—The High Court, on rejecting an application for the review of a judgment, amended an error in the decretal order regarding the mode in which the amount of interest was to be calculated and this alteration made a considerable difference in the amount recoverable by the appellant. The money due under the decree, as originally directed, has been deposited in full by the respondent, and the appellant, though aware of the existence of the subsequent amendment by the High Court, applied to the Court below and took away the whole of the money. Under the circumstances, the High Court upheld the order of the Judge requiring the decree-holder, appellant, to refund the sum thus taken away by him in excess. It was of opinion that the Judge had jurisdiction in the matter because the application was capable of being considered as of the nature of a review and, according to the rulings, a Judge has power to review an order passed by him in execution of a decree. SYED LOTF ALI KHAN v. THE COURT OF WARDS, 6 W.R. Mis. 127.

Review—continued.

——7.—Review when lies—continued.

(17)—Civ. Pro. Code, provisions of. for review of judgment—Act XXVII of 1860.—The provisions in the Civ. Pro. Code, for review of judgment are not applicable to Act XXVII of 1860. Where the Civil Court granted a certificate under the Act to S and subsequently made an order granting a certificate to C, the High Court set aside the latter order. SIVU v. CHENAMMA, 5 M.H.C. 417. [Diss., 24 W.R. 376=1 C. 101.]

(18)—Act XXVII of 1860—Review, power to grant.—An application for review might be entertained in proceedings under Act XXVII of 1860 (Certificate of Heirship), notwithstanding the absence of provision therefor in that Act. In the matter of the petition of POONA KOOER, 1 C. 101=24 W.R 376.

(19)—Application under Administrator-General's Act—Res judicata—S. 63, Act II of 1874—S. 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1877.—An application by petition under s. 63 of Act II of 1874 is a suit within the meaning of s. 13 of the Civ. Pro. Code (X of 1877), and is barred by the disposal of a similar former application in the same matter, though the order passed is capable of being reviewed. ELIZA SMITH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE, 3 C. 340.

(20)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 409, 413, 623, 625—Order under s. 409 reviewable under s. 623.—Nothing in s. 413 of the Civ. Pro. Code, affects the right of a petitioner, to whom leave to sue as a pauper has been refused under s. 409, to obtain a review of such order of refusal under s. 623 of the Code. The applicant for review should file a memorandum of the grounds of objections to the order sought to be reviewed and also a copy of such order. ADARJI EDULJI GOLAKHANA v. MANIKJI EDULJI, 4 B. 414. [R., 20 B. 86; D., 17 A. 213, F.B.]

(21)—Review—Chief Court's ruling on case stated by Small Cause Court Judge—"Decree"—Act VIII of 1859, s. 376.—The ruling of the Chief Court upon a reference made by the Judge of a Small Cause Court is not a "decree" in the suit within the meaning of s. 376, Act VIII of 1859, and an application for review of such ruling is not admissible. SIRDAR JULLALUDDEEN v. KALU MULL, 74 P.R. 1873.

Review—continued.

——7.—Review when lies—continued.

(22)—Review—Power of High Court—Judgment passed on reference by Subordinate Judge with Small Cause powers—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 617, 619, 623—Nature of judgment passed by High Court—Not a decree.—The power to review is expressly given to the High Court by s. 623 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, in the case of a judgment on a reference from a Court of Small Causes. But no such power is given in the case of judgment, on a reference under s. 619, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, from a Subordinate Judge exercising the powers of a Small Cause Court. Nor is the judgment in the case mentioned above, a decree or order with in s. 623, cl (b), of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882; but it is simply a statement of the grounds, in conformity with which the Subordinate Judge is to dispose of the case as provided by s. 619 of the Civ. Pro. Code. 1882. RAMACHANDRA BALAJI v. SITARAM VINAYAK, 10 B. 68.

(23)—Application to review order refusing a petition for leave to sue in forma pauperis, High Court—St. 24 and 25, Vic., c. 104, s. 15.—An application to review an order refusing a petition for leave to sue in forma pauperis can be entertained by a Court of original jurisdiction. The High Court has power to set aside an order of a Court of original jurisdiction, refusing to entertain such an application, on the ground that the Court had not jurisdiction to entertain it. In the matter of the petition of RANI UMASUNDARI DEBI, 5 B.L.R. App. 29. [F., 64 P.R. 1896; R., 1 A. 101, F.B.]

(24)—Application for review made in forma pauperis—Petitioner not previously allowed to sue or to appeal as pauper.—An application for review of judgment presented after the prescribed period could not be admitted without stamp, though presented in forma pauperis, where the petitioner had not been admitted at any previous stage of the case to sue or appeal as a pauper. BULDEO DASS v JEEWUN SINGH, 24 P.R. 1870. [Appr., 91 P.R. 1895.]

(25)—Application for, time occupied in—Admission of appeal after time—Limitation—Discretion of Court when liable to review or appeal.—The fact of an application for review having been made is not a good cause for admitting an appeal after time, if the application for review was not made on reasonable grounds. (L.B.R. 1893-1900,) 515, 7 W.R. 529, R.; 5 A. 591, 9 B. 452, 14 M. 81, 18 B. 84, F.) The discretion of a Court is liable to review or appeal where such Court is acting through caprice or prejudice, or where the discretion is exercised without any proper legal material to support it. MAUNG PO LU v. MAUNG KYIN, 1 L.B R. 313. (6 B. 304, 15 C. 242, 183 P.R. 1888, F.)

(26)—Remand on appeal—Reasonable time—Default—Application under s. 376, Act VII of 1859 (Civ. Pro. Code).—On a case being remanded in appeal, a reasonable time was given to the parties to appear and conduct their case. The petitioner not having appeared, the lower Court treated it as a case of default. The petitioner, therefore, made an application under s. 376, Act VIII of 1859. Held, that, as this was not the proper form in which the petitioner had to apply, and as the time for applying had expired, the application should not be granted. In re KALEE MOHAN DOSS, 17 W.R. 70. [Rel. on, 4 N.L.R. 166.]

Review—continued.

——7.—Review when lies—continued.

(27)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 367—Reviews of judgment—Decrees and orders not amounting to decrees.—Proof of arrears of rent before Deputy Collector — Decree for ejectment — Deputy Collector not competent on execution to refuse ejectment under s. 78, Act X of 1859.—It was first doubted in this case whether, with reference to the terms of s. 367 of Act VIII of 1859, an order not being in any shape "a decree," could be made the subject of a review, but, on further consideration and adverting to a Full Bench decision in Sp. No. W.R. 66, the High Court came to the conclusion that although s. 367 of the Code makes mention only of reviews of judgment in respect to decrees of Court, it should be construed as authorising reviews also of orders not strictly amounting to decrees. Under Act X of 1859, a Deputy Collector had decided a suit for ejectment, on proof of arrears due in favour of the plaintiff, but afterwards, however, on execution being applied for, ordered that, as the arrear had been paid up within 15 days of the passing of the decree, the tenant could not be ejected in accordance with s. 78 of the Act. Held that there was no appeal from the Deputy Collector's order which was one passed in execution of decree, and that the proceedings of the Deputy Collector in execution were illegal, and that the party's remedy was by applying to the High Court under its extraordinary powers of revision. DEEN DYAL PURMANICK v. RAM COOMAR CHOWDHRY, 10 W.R. 345.

(28)—Appeal struck off for default--Application for re-admission of appeal dismissed—Review of judgment—Act VIII of 1859, s. 347.—The law does not permit an appellant who has unsuccessfully applied for the re-admission of his appeal, under s. 347, Act VIII of 1859, to apply for the review of the judgment given against him in default. ABDULA v. MORAD SHAH, 52 P.R. 1873.

(29)—Special appeal, application to admit—Rejection of—Review--Grounds.—Where the Court refuses to admit a special appeal, an application for a review of such order cannot be entertained in the absence of some satisfactory explanation. BURRAMOLLAH v. NILCHAND DUTT, 17 W.R. 484. [R., 18 W R. 475.]

(30)—Order admitting appeal to Privy Council, High Court not competent to review.—The rule formerly obtained by the petitioners to show cause why the appeal to the Privy Council preferred by the opposite party should not be rejected, having been thrown out by the High Court, which admitted the appeal to England, the petitioners sought for a review of the High Court's order throwing out the rule and for a revival of the same. The High Court declined to interfere on the ground that the appeal having been once admitted, whether properly or erroneously, it had no further jurisdiction to entertain the present objections of the petitioner and again declare the appeal rejected. AMEERUNNISSA BEGUM v. RANEE INDURJEET KOONWAR, 6 W.R. Mis. 97.

(31)—High Court—Extraordinary powers—Giving right of appeal where law provides none—Superintendence of High Court—Application for execution of decree—Order passed on appeal—Interference to work an injustice—Review.—The High Court should not, in the exercise of its extraordinary powers, interfere with an order of the lower appellate Court, where such interference would be equivalent to giving an appeal, in a case where the law has provided none. Under ss. 378 to 380 of Act VIII of 1859 and s. 38 of Act XXIII of 1861, a District Judge has power to review an order passed by him on appeal, in an application for the execution of a decree. The High Court should not, in the exercise of its extraordinary powers, interfere where the effect of its interference would be to work an injustice. NARAYANBHAI LALBHAI v. GANGAKRISHNA BALKRISHNA, 4 B.H.C.A.C. 87.

(32)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 114, 119, 376—Suit dismissed for default of prosecution—Re-admission of suit under s. 119—Improper dismissal and improper re-admission—Review of judgment—Erroneous procedure--Interference by High Court.—A suit was dismissed under s. 114, Civ. Pro. Code, for default of prosecution in the Court of first instance, as no evidence was produced on the part of the plaintiff who was absent though his pleader was present. The Munsiff re-admitted the suit on the application of the plaintiff under s. 119 and decreed his claim. The lower appellate Court on appeal by the defendants confirmed the judgment of the original Court. Held on special appeal to the High Court, that the terms of ss. 114 and 119 were not strictly applicable, as the suit had not been dismissed for default of appearance, that the plaintiff should have applied for a review of judgment under s. 376, and that the erroneous procedure not having produced error or defect in the decision on the merits, was no ground for disturbing the decrees of the lower Courts. MAHOMED AZEEM-OOL-LAH v. ALI BUKSH, 5 N.W.P. 74. [R., 22 A. 66, F.B.; Appr., 7 N.W.P. 126; D., 34 C. 235.]

(33)—Dismissal of suit—Splitting of causes of action—High Court's power of revision—Review—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 35—Act VIII of 1859, s. 7.—Where a subordinate Court dismisses a suit on the ground that there was a splitting of causes of action, it is not a case of refusing to exercise jurisdiction which would be open to revision by the High Court, the remedy of the aggrieved party being by way of review of judgment. JUSSA SINGH v. NOORA, 36 P.R. 1872.

Review—continued.

——7.—Review when lies—continued.

(34)—Application for review of judgment, discovery of fresh evidence not sole ground to support—"Other good and sufficient reason" in s. 376, Civ Pro. Code.—It could not be contended that a Court had no power to admit a review of judgment merely because no fresh evidence was tendered. Once the Court has admitted a review, the presumption should be that that Court had considered that there was good and sufficient reason for having so admitted it, and that the review was requisite for the ends of justice within the meaning of s. 378. ISLAM KHAN v. MUSST. SABOO KHANUM, 6 W R 248.

(35)—Act VIII of 1859, ss. 110, 119, 376—Dismissal of suit as for 'default of prosecution'—Application for re-admission, whether can be deemed as application for review of judgment.—In this case, the plaintiff having failed to deposit talabana for summonses to witnesses and having omitted to bring forward his witnesses, notwithstanding that time was allowed him, his claim was dismissed on the ground of default of prosecution. Plaintiff subsequently presented an application praying for the re-admission of the suit, because he had been prevented by illness from depositing talabana in time. This petition was opposed by the defendants who objected that the suit had, in reality, been dismissed for want of evidence, that there was no proper ground for application for a review of judgment and the petition for the review was also insufficiently stamped. The Munsiff treated the application as one under s. 119 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and directed the re-admission of the suit. The High Court held that the above application of the plaintiff might fairly be regarded as an application for a review of judgment under s. 376 of Act VIII of 1859, and the Munsif was wrong in having treated it as an application under s. 119 of that enactment. An application under s. 376 was the proper course to adopt, and the misconstruction by the Munsif of the nature of the application was not a sufficient reason for depriving the applicant of the relief which he, not inequitably obtained by the order passed upon it. RAM SUNDAR SINGH v. RAM BANDHAN SINGH, 7 N.W.P. 126.

(36)—Interest—Execution of decree—No provision for interest in decree—Refusal of claim in course of execution—Subsequent claim in execution of same decree.—An application for execution of a decree having been dismissed by the first Court as barred by limitation, the decree-holder appealed to the High Court. The High Court, being of opinion that the application was not barred, made the requisite order for the issue of execution, but coupled it with this qualification, that inasmuch as the decree of which execution was sought did not give interest, no order would be made for interest. In pursuance of the above order the first Court having refused interest, the decree-holder again appealed to the High Court. Held that, if the judgment-creditor was in any way taken at a disadvantage by the previous order of the High Court, he could have got it rectified by a proper application for review. As the former order stood uncancelled, the judgment-creditor could not execute the decree with the term for interest. ENAYET ALI v. MAHOMED ZUHOORUL HUQ, 22 W.R. 534.

Review—continued.

——7.—Review when lies—concluded.

(37)—Judgment passed on compromise—Review—Reversal of predecessor's judgment—Personal grounds—No review of judgment can be admitted from a decision passed on a compromise. To allow one Munsiff to review and reverse the decree of his predecessor on personal grounds and after eight month's delay, is altogether opposed to the spirit of the law. BABOO PURMESSUREE NARAIN SINGH v. SYUD ROMEEZOODDEEN AHMED GAZEE, 5 W.R. 226.

(38)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, ss. 246, 378—Review of claim disallowed—Finality of order granting review.—The Court had power to grant a review of an order, which it had passed under s. 246 of Act VIII of 1859, disallowing a claim made to property attached in execution of decree and the order granting the review, being final under s. 378 of the Code, could not be disturbed on appeal. MR. COCHRANE v. HEERA LAL SEAL, 7 W. R 79. [F., 18 W.R. 475; R., 16 W.R. 59.]

See MAD. ACT VIII OF 1865, ss. 57, 65, 4 M.H.C. 251.

See DECREE—ALTERATION OR AMENDMENT OF DECREE, 6 W.R. Mis. 122, 15 W.R. 414.

Practice in testamentary matters before Act V of 1881—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 5 B. 638.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, MOFUSSIL, JURISDICTION OF—GENERAL, 14 W.R. 442.

——8.—What questions can be raised on review.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 376, 378—Review—Admission of—Principles to be observed.—In dealing with cases of review, the Court is not required to re-adjudicate points which were considered and adjudicated when brought before it by the pleader then employed, although they may be better argued and put in a different point of view by another pleader subsequently. But the Court is to be guided in its admission of reviews by the definite terms of ss. 376 and 378 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1859. CHOONEE MUNDEL v. CHUNDILALL DASS, 14 W.R. 334.

(2)—Review when to be granted—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), ss. 376, 380—Sufficient reasons for grant of review—Hope of change

S. N. Das
Orissa High Court
Cuttack

Review—continued.

——8.—What questions can be raised on review—continued.

of opinion by new points urged by pleader absent formerly.—An applicant for review of a case must show some good and sufficient reason why he should be re-heard. Under ss. 376 to 380 of Act VIII of 1859, a Court should not allow a re-hearing upon the possibility of an alteration of its opinion upon new points being put and new arguments urged, after the decision, by another pleader not present at the first hearing. RAJENDRO PROTAB SAHEE v. BHOWABUL SINGH, 14 W.R. 105.

(3)—Review of judgment—High Court.—The absence of a formal finding on an issue tried and decided by a Court is not an error calling for review of judgment. A party, who not only had an opportunity of raising a question, but who did raise it in appeal and on argument abandoned it, cannot, under ordinary circumstances, be allowed to agitate the question on review. SABAPATHY v. SUBRAYA AND RAMANADHA, 2 M. 58. [F., 3 O.C. 280.]

(4)—Review of judgment — Re-hearing of matter previously argued—Discretion of Court.—Parties applying for a review of judgment are not absolutely debarred from asking for a re-hearing of a matter which has been already argued and considered, nor are they debarred from raising a point which has not, but which might have, been raised previously. But, in every case, it lies upon the party making the application to show the Court some good ground upon which that indulgence is asked for, and it is in the discretion of the Court to allow or to refuse such an application. HUREE PERSHAD MUNDUL v. BABOO NUND KISHORE SINGH, 17 W.R. 479.

(5)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 376—Review—Re-arguing point already discussed.—It cannot be treated as a universal rule that no point can be raised on application for a review which has been already discussed and decided on the original hearing of the appeal, or that no new point which has not been raised on the hearing of the appeal can be agrued on the application for a review. In each case, the Court to which application is made must consider and decide whether a review is necessary to correct any evident error or omission, or is otherwise requisite for the ends of justice. In the matter of the petition of CHINTAMANI PAL. CHINTAMANI PAL v. PYARI MOHAN MOOKERJEE, 6 B.L.R. 126, F.B.=15 W.R. F.B., 1. [F., 17 W.R. 479, 1 B. 543.]

(6)—Of judgment in second appeal—Fresh points not raised at former hearing.—In an application for review of judgment in second appeal, fresh points should not be taken, which might have been raised at the former hearing, unless to exclude them would amount to a denial of justice. U. OKTAMA v. MA BWA, L.B.R. 1893—1900, 575. (L.B.R. 1893—1900, 568, Affirmed; 4 M. 308, R.) [R., 1 L.B.R. 13.]

Review—continued.

——8.—What questions can be raised on review—concluded.

(7)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 374—New grounds in appeal—Review.—A party wishing to be heard in support of new grounds ought to apply under s. 374, Act VIII of 1859, for permission of the Court to be so heard; he cannot be permitted to raise them in an application for review. FUKUROODDEEN MAHOMED ASHAN CHOWDHRY v. RAJAH ANUNDNATH ROY, 9 W.R. 370.

(8)—Review—Permission—Effect.—When a review of a judgment has been admitted, the whole case is thereby reopened. SAINAL RANCHHOD v. DULLABH DVARKA, 10 B.H.C. 360. [R., 7 O.C. 345, 9 Bom. L.R. 789, F.B.=32 B. 111; Diss., 158 P.R. 1889.]

——9.—Miscellaneous.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 626, 629—Review of judgment.—If a Court be of opinion that an application for review should be granted, it shall grant the same, and the Judge shall record, with his own hand, the reasons for such opinion. Such an order must necessarily be quite distinct from the final order made in the matter. BHAIRON DIN SINGH v. RAM SAHAI, 3 A. 316.

(2)—Application for review points that can be considered in.—An applicant for review is limited to the points on which the rule granting the review was allowed. [This judgment was passed on review of 4 C. 380.] DHURONIDHUR v. THE AGRA BANK, 5 C. 86=4 C.L.R. 434. [R., 158 P.R. 1899, 7 O.C. 345.]

(3)—Distinction between questions raised in applications for review and those raised in suit.—The question raised in applications for review are totally different from those raised in the suit. A review can only be granted on special grounds, and it may well be that, although an appeal is not allowed from the final decree in the suit, an appeal is allowable from an order granting a review which would re-open the case after it had been disposed of. GYANUND ASRAM v. BEPIN MOHUN SEN, 22 C. 734. [F., 24 P.L.R. 1902=33 P.R. 1902; Diss., 23 M. 496.]

(4)—Review—Grounds — Court having no jurisdiction to try case.—If a party brings a suit in a Court, which according to his own showing, has no jurisdiction to try the case, it does not lie in him failing in that Court, to ask to have the plaint back in order to file it in the proper Court. In the matter of the petition of TUFANI SINGH, 6 B.L.R. App. 141.

(5)—High Court decision bearing on case—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623.—Where an appellant applied for review of judgment, on the ground that a decision of the High Court on a point of law which arose in the case, was not published till a month after the hearing of the appeal, it was considered that the appellant was not to blame for his omission to bring the decision to the notice of the Court, when the appeal was argued, and the application for review of judgment was granted. ACHUTA v. MAMMAVU, 10 M. 357. [R., U.B.R. 1892—1896, Vol. II, 154, 11 C.P.L.R. 41.]

Review—continued.

——9.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(6)—Review—Application insufficiently stamped—Application not returned to party—Objection at hearing—Making up proper valuation.—Where an application for review is not sufficiently stamped and the applicant is not required by the Court to furnish the additional stamp requisite to make up the proper valuation until the case comes on for hearing, the Court should not refuse to permit him to furnish the additional stamp at the time of the hearing. SHAHAZADA FUKEEROODDEEN AHMED, PETITIONER, 15 W.R. 278.

(7)—Rectification of decree—Limitation.—An application for rectification of a decree which is not different from an application for a review could not be received after 90 days without good reasons made out by evidence for the delay. ASSUR ALI v. WOOLFUTOONISSA, 13 W.R. 33.

(8)—Review of judgment—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623—"Any other sufficient reason"—Act VI of 1882, s. 16—Appeal from order passed in course of liquidation proceedings—Notice of appeal—Power of Court to extend time for giving notice of appeal.—In s. 623 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the words "any other sufficient reason" do not necessarily imply that such reason is to be of a like nature with the other two reasons for review previously stated in that section; but a Court is competent, if it considers any other reason than the first two sufficient, to review its previous order, if it deems it necessary in the ends of justice to do so. In s. 169 of Act VI of 1882, the phrase "in manner in which notices of appeal are ordinarily given under the Code of Civil Procedure" implies that the appeal must first be filed and then notice served through the Court in the customary manner. It is competent to a Court on cause shown to extend the time limited for serving notice of appeal under s. 169 of Act VI of 1882 even after such period has expired, and after notice has in fact been served beyond time. (4 C. 704, R.) Where an appellant under s. 169 of Act VI of 1882 filed his appeal fifteen days after the passing of the order appealed against and the Court did not issue notice to the respondent until after the twenty-one days limited by s. 169 had expired, it was held that no unreasonable delay could be charged to the appellant, and that the Court was justified in its discretion in extending the time allowable for service of notice of appeal. THE HIMALAYA BANK, LD. v. DORA E. JERVIS, A.W.N. 1894, 148.

(9)—Appeal against order granting review, ground of—Appeal on merits against the final order passed on review—Civ. Pro. Code, O. 43, r. 1 (w) and O. 47, r. 7—Held, that an appeal against an order granting review can be made only on the specific grounds mentioned in O. 47, r. 7, Civ. Pro. Code, and no others. The right of appeal granted under O. 43, r. 1 (w), is a right of appeal subject to the restrictions set forth in O. 47, r. 7. Held further, that there is no right of appeal upon the merits against the final order passed on review. INDAR KUAR RANI v. THAKUR BALDEO BAKHSH, 13 O.C. 248.

(10)—Order rejecting review — Appeal—Act VIII of 1859, s. 378.—No appeal lies from an order of a Munsiff rejecting an application for review. JEWUN BIBEE v. BUDDUN MUNDUL, 9 W.R. 489.

(11)—Application for review—Order rejecting application—Appeal.—No appeal lies to a superior Court from an order rejecting an application for review on the ground that the application was made many years after the passing of the original decision, and that no just or sufficient cause for the delay had been made out and that there was no precedent for the adoption of such a course. BANEE RAM v. HOSSEIN ALI, 11 W.R. 184.

(12)—Review, granting of—Appeal—Delay.—Where the plaintiff applied on 12th March for review of a decree passed on 31st January, and the review was granted on 9th April. Held that there was no decree from which an appeal could be preferred, until the order granting the review is set aside. Excuse of delay is a matter of discretion with the Court, and if it had been properly exercised, the High Court will not interfere. RAMASWAMI IYENGAR v. JANAKI AMMAL, 7 M.L.T. 387=6 Ind. Cas. 723.

(13)—Order granting review of judgment, no second appeal from—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 629.—No second appeal lies against an order, under s. 629 of the Civ. Pro. Code, granting a review of judgment. THAN SINGH v CHUNDUN SINGH, 11 C. 296. [F., 12 M. 125, R., 6 C.L.J. 225; D., 13 B. 496.]

(14)—Review of appellate judgment improperly granted — Special appeal. — Although an order granting review cannot be made the subject of appeal standing alone, yet the appellate Court can take notice of it in special appeal, and if the review was improperly granted, can set aside the judgment passed in furtherance of such review. BHYRUB CHUNDER SURMAH CHOWDHRY v. MADHUBRAM SURMAH, 11 B.L.R. 423, F.B.=20 W.R. 84. [Appl., 22 W.R. 183; R., 23 W.R. 438=1 C. 197.]

Revision.

1.—GENERAL.

2.—SMALL CAUSE COURT CASES.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, S. 115.

——1.—General.

(1)—General — Copies of judgment, order or decree sought to be revised, not necessary to be filed.—Held, that no copy of order or judgment

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

sought to be revised is by law rendered necessary as an annexure to the petition of revision. MEHAR SINGH v. GURBACHAN, 74 P.W.R. 1907=146 P.L.R. 1906. (72 P.W.R. 1907=114 P.R. 1907, R.)

(2)—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 622.—Per Pearson, Oldfield and Straight, JJ.—When the High Court has called for the record, under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, in a case in which no appeal lies to it, it may, under the provisions of that section, pass any order thereon which it might pass, if it dealt with the case as a second appeal under Chap. XLII of the Civ. Pro. Code. Per Stuart, C.J.—Under s. 622, the High Court can pass any order, whether in regard to fact or law, which it may think proper, for the purposes of the justice of the case. (By the Division Bench.) Where, therefore, in a case of the execution of a decree in which no second appeal lay, the Appellate Court, on the question of construction of the decree, held that it awarded interest on the principal amount, it was competent for the High Court, in revision, to find that the interest awarded was only on the costs, and to modify the order of the first Appellate Court accordingly. In the matter of the petition of MAULVI MUHAMMAD v. SYED HUSAIN, 3 A. 203, F.B. [F., 3 A. 417; R., 7 B. 341, F.B., 7 A. 345, 8 A. 111, 9 A. 398, 1 C.W.N. 617.]

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 575, 647, Applicability of—Quære.—Having regard to the explanation to s. 647, Civ. Pro. Code, it is questionable whether s. 575 of the Code is applicable when an application is made to the High Court under s. 622 of the Code. MANCHARAM v. FAKIRCHAND, 3 Bom. L.R. 58=25 B. 478.

(4)—When revision lies—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 407, 622 (=s. 115, new Code)—Revisional powers of High Court—Practice.—It is incorrect to state that all orders passed under s. 407 of the Code are excluded from the exercise of the revisional powers of the High Court under s. 622. (7A. 661, Commented on.) In second appeals, it is not the duty of the High Court to enter into the merits of the evidence, a fortiori, in cases of revision. All that the High Court, as a Court of revision, is required to do, is to see whether the requirements of the law have been duly and properly obeyed by the Courts whose orders are subjected to revision, and whether the irregularity as to failure of exercise of jurisdiction is such as would justify interference by the High Court. MUHAMMAD HUSAIN v. AJUDHIA PRASAD, 10 A. 467=A.W.N. 1888, 179.

(5)—Order nullifying provisions of Civ. Pro. Code—High Court's powers of.—The High Court is ordinarily very slow to interfere in revision with an order made by a Subordinate Court in the exercise of its discretion. But when the effect of an order is to nullify the provisions of a section of the Code, the High Court will interfere in setting it aside as an order made in the illegal exercise of jurisdiction. BRAJA BALA DEVI v. GURUDAS MANDAL, 3 C.L.J. 293=33 C. 487. (1 C.W.N. 617, R.)

(6)—S. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Revision—Court below committing error of law in construing s. 108, Civ. Pro. Code.—Where the Court below has committed an error of law in the construction it has put upon s. 108, Civ. Pro. Code, revision lies under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. GANODA PRASAD ROY v. SHIB NARAIN MUKERJEE, 29 C. 33. (20 C. 8, 22 C. 767, F.; 1 C.W.N. 626, D.)

(7)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Revision—Power of High Court to interfere.—Where a Subordinate Judge proceeded upon an erroneous construction of s. 329 of the Code and passed summary orders, the High Court interfered in the exercise of their extraordinary jurisdiction and discharged the rule. SALAMVA v. MARTYAVA, 16 B. 711, Note=P.J. 1887, 52. [R., 16 B. 708.]

(8)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Revisional jurisdiction of High Court.—Where a lower Court fails to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it by law, the High Court can, under s. 622, interfere in revision. VISHVANATH GOVIND DESHMANE v. RAMBHAT, 15 B. 148. [R., 8 O.C. 257.]

(9)—Reg. VIII of 1827—Revision—High Court—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622.—Where a District Judge has illegally exercised his jurisdiction, the High Court has power, under s. 622 of the Code, to interfere in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction. SHRI VISHVAMBHAR PANDIT v. SHRI VASUDEV PANDIT, 16 B. 708.

(10)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Failure to exercise jurisdiction—Returning of plaint—Disclosure of cause of action—Revision.—A Court will fail to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it by law by s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, if, when a plaintiff files a plaint, stating facts, which, if true, constitute in law a cause of action, it rejects such plaint or dismisses the suit merely on the ground that these facts constitute no cause of action. HABIB-UL-LAH v. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BIBI, 75 P.R. 1890, F.B. (206 P.R. 1889, R.) [F., 78 P.R. 1896, 16 P.R. 1910.]

(11)—Framing of issue—Irregularity in—Revision.—A material irregularity in framing the issues and a material irregularity in not deciding the case presented for adjudication by the parties to the Court will make the decree that follows liable to be set aside in revision. MULA SHAH v. NIZAM DIN, 108 P.R. 1890. [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

(12)—Erroneous view of Chief Court's ruling—Ground for revision—Erroneous procedure.—It is a material irregularity in an appellate Court, to decide a case without going into the question on the merits which had been decided by the lower Court and was before the appellate Court for determination, on an admittedly perverse view of a Full Bench ruling of the Chief Court. An error of procedure amounting to a material irregularity may be due to a misapprehension of the law substantive or adjective. DIPU MAL v. GOKAL CHAND, 34 P.R. 1897. (115 P.R 1890, F.B., 11 B. 488, R.)

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(13)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 623—Discovery of fresh authority—Judgment on erroneous view of law.—While the discovery of a fresh authority may not entitle a party to a review of judgment, yet when a Judge is satisfied that his judgment has proceeded upon an erroneous view of the law, he may, under s. 623, Civ. Pro. Code, review his judgment and decide according to law. VELLAYA v. JAGANATHA, 7 M. 307. [R., U.B.R 1892—1896, Vol. II, 287, U.B.R. 1892—1896, Vol. II, 153, 11 C. P.L.R. 41, U.B.R. 1902, Fourth Quarter, p. 3.]

(14)—Omission to consider if instrument is single bond—Application of wrong section or wrong assumption of fact or law—Grounds for revision—Material irregularity — Instances.—The misrepresentation of a fact apparent upon the record or the erroneous assumption of a fact or the applicability of a rule or a failure to appreciate the true points for determination raised by a general issue, such as one of res judicata or limitation, are irregularities which may be material when they result in the dismissal of a suit on a technical ground, apart from the merits, which can be shown to be erroneous. GURDITTA MAL v. PAL SINGH, 26 P.R. 1892 (105 P.R. 1888, 42 P.R. 1889, 130 P.R. 1889, 206 P.R. 1889, 6 P.R. 1890, 108 P.R. 1890, 60 P.R. 1891, 65 P.R. 1891, 15 C. 47, 11 M. 303, 11 M. 220, 12 B. 617, R.)

(15)—Erroneous assumption of fact—Wrong decision—Revision.—A wrong decision by a Court is per se no ground for saying that it has exercised jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. But when the wrong decision arises from an erroneous assumption that a certain fact or view of law actually not existing does exist, the case is quite different and a revision will lie. SARDAR FAKIR MUHAMMAD KHAN v. KASIM, 105 P.R. 1888. (64 P.R. 1885, 22 P.R. 1886, 3 C.L.R. 569, 9 B. 308, 8 A. 531, 532, 15 C. 47, 12 Ind. Jur. N. S. 49, R.; 11 C. 6, Expl.) [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

(16)—S. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 — Wrong assumption of fact or law—Material irregularity.—It is a material irregularity corrigible in revision when the Court below has assumed a fact to exist or has assumed the application of a rule or a section of an Act which does not exist at all or is wholly inapplicable though a mere error in law in the lower Court may not be matter for revision. SHIB DIAL v. JHANDA MAL, 42 P.R. 1889. [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

(17)—Omission to consider important materials on record—Material irregularity on the part of the Court rendering its order subject to revision under s. 70 (1) (a) of the Punjab Courts Act.—Where a Court, having had before it materials for a decision, ignored certain vital portions of those materials, which, if considered, must have led the Court to a different conclusion from that actually arrived at; held, the matter was one analogous to the improper refusal by a Court to admit important evidence and if it could be established that, using all the available materials, the Court should or must have come to a different conclusion, 'the Court must be deemed to have acted with material irregularity' within the meaning of cl. (1) (a) of s. 70 of the Act and its order was consequently subject to revision under that section. CHUNI LAL v. MEHR CHAND, 29 P. R. 1906=97 P.L.R. 1906. (11 C. 6, 60 P.R. 1891, 26 P.R. 1899, R.) [R., 106 P.R. 1908=173 P.L.R. 1908.]

(18)—Revision—Finding of fact—Misinterpretation of evidence of witnesses—Not considering the loss of an important document in the case—S. 70 (1) (a) of Act XVIII of 1884—Long delay in suing.—Held, that an obvious misinterpretation of the testimony of witnesses or other evidence, or not considering the loss of an important document in a case, is material irregularity within the meaning of s. 70 (a) of Act XVIII of 1884, which justifies interference with the finding of fact by the lower Courts. Unnecessary long unexplained delay in suing goes against plaintiff. UMRA v. ILAHI BAKSH, 97 P.W.R. 1910=7 Ind. Cas. 713.

(19)—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884) as amended, s. 70 (1) (a), Revision—Civil cases—Material irregularity—Assumption by Court against evidence on record.—Where the lower Appellate Court reversed the judgment of the Original Court merely on an assumption, and there was no evidence in support of it, the Chief Court, on revision, set aside the judgment of the the lower appellate Court and restored that of the original Court. THAKAR DAS v. BARKHURDAR, 127 P.L R. 1910=8 Ind. Cas. 552.

(20) — Misrepresentation of documentary evidence—Material irregularity—Absence of cause of action in first suit—Res judicata.—Where there is a mis-statement of fact and a misrepresentation of what is apparent on the face of the record, there is material irregularity; where the plaint in the first suit was rejected at the first hearing on the ground of its not showing a cause of action, a fresh suit is not barred. BASAWA SINGH v. SEWA, 130 P.R. 1889. (105 P.R. 1888, R.) [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

(21)—Incorrect issue—Irregularity—Revision—Misrepresentation of documentary evidence—Res Judicata—Erroneous decision.—The framing of an incorrect issue or the making of an incorrect statement of the points for determination in an appeal is an irregularity which may be material. The misrepresentation of documentary evidence, as distinguished from the misconstruction of a document, is an irregularity as distinguished from an errror of law. In 11 C. 6, it was not decided by the Privy Council that a Court, which erroneously decides upon a plea of res judicata does not act illegally or with material irregularity and therefore its decision cannot be set aside on revision. GURBAKSH SINGH v. BALA, 206 P.R. 1889. (11 C. 6, Expl.) [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(22)—Judgment on alleged admission—No evidence of admission—Material irregularity—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—Where a Judge gave the plaintiff a decree on the ground that the defendant admitted the claim when in fact the defendant denied the claim and there was no evidence on record either in support of the claim or to show that the defendant had admitted the same, held, there was a material irregularity for a revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, and the case was accordingly remanded for fresh trial. THAKUR MAL v. RAM NATH, 29 P. R. 1886. [R., 6 P.R. 1901, Rev. =36 P. L.R. 1901.]

(23)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Decree against defendant without admission or evidence, power of High Court to set aside in revision.—A Court has no jurisdiction or power to pass in a contested suit a decree adversely to a defendant, except where there is a balance of evidence or some evidence or admission on the part of the defendant, to support the finding on which such decree is based or where, from the nature of the case, the whole burden of proof was, or continued to be, upon the defendant. Where the Judge, therefore, passes a decree against the defendant in the absence of any admission or evidence supporting the decree, he exercises a jurisdiction not vested in him by law, so that it is competent to the defendant to seek to set it aside in revision under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. SHIELDS v WILKINSON, 9 A. 398 =A.W N. 1887, 44. (3 A. 203, 3 A. 417, R.) [F, 10 C.W.N. 14.]

(24)—Order under Civ. Pro. Code, 1908, O. XX, r. 6—Amendment of decree—Appeal or revision.—A mere order, which directs a decree to be amended, is not a decree and is not appealable and is, therefore, open to revision on the ground of being made without jurisdiction. KHAN SINGH v. NASIR KHAN, 101 P.R 1888.

(25)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 206, 588, 622 — Order amending decree — Revisional powers of High Court.—An order passed under s. 206, Civ. Pro. Code, is a separate adjudication; it is not appealable under s. 588; it is not a part of the original decree and cannot form the subject of appeal with the original decree. Hence a revision of such an order lies under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. RAGHUNATH DAS v. RAJ KUMAR, 7 A. 876, F.B. =A W. N. 1885, 256. (on Letters Patent Appeal from 7 A. 276). [F., 15 A. 121; R., 21 A. 140; D., 14 A. 226.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(26)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Revision—Rejection of application to bring decree into conformity with judgment—Illegal refusal to exercise jurisdiction.—The plaintiff, mortgagees, brought a suit against their mortgagors and the assignees of the property. Three of the defendants appeared and defended the suit, the rest made no appearance. The plaintiffs obtained a decree, which was framed as against the answering defendants only, though the judgment did not indicate any intention of excluding the other defendants. The answering defendants appealed and their appeal was dismissed. Subsequently, the decree-holders applied to the Court which passed the decree to bring the decree into conformity with the judgment by making it applicable to the non-answering defendants. The application was rejected on the ground that it was made after unreasonable delay. The decree-holders then applied to the High Court for revision. Held that it was immaterial whether or not an appeal had been filed by the answering defendants There was nothing to show that the decree-holders had delayed unreasonably in making their application to bring the decree into conformity with the judgment and the Court in rejecting that application had illegally declined to exercise jurisdiction vested in it. DWARKA PRASAD v. GHULAM KAMBAR, A.W N 1891, 114.

(27)—Revisional jurisdiction, exercise of—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—Where no appeal is allowed against an order by the Civ. Pro. Code, and the High Court is convinced that the order sought to be rectified would, if allowed to stand, work an unjust and great hardship in the circumstances of the case, the Court would properly exercise its revisional jurisdiction. BENODE MOHINI CHOWDHRAIN v. SHARAT CHUNDER DEY CHOWDHRY, 8 C. 837.

(28)—Revision—Appellate Court not noticing all important grounds of appeal—Material irregularity.—The Chief Court in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction set aside the appellate judgment of the District Judge and remanded the appeal for retrial, holding that there was material irregularity in the District Judge's judgment inasmuch as he entirely failed to notice some of the grounds of appeal. RAM DITTA v. MAGHI, P.L.R. 1900, p. 200.

(29)— Appeal dismissed for default though date of hearing not fixed—Revision—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 35.—An appeal was entered on the Register but no date was fixed for the hearing. It was brought forward in the absence of the appellant and dismissed for default. Held that, in so dismissing the appeal for default, the lower Court had exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; the order of dismissal was accordingly set aside as illegal and the Court directed to restore the appeal to the pending file and proceed according to the provisions of the Civ. Pro. Code. MUSSUMAT UTTER KOUR v. UTTER SINGH, 60 P.R. 1869.

Revision—continued.

— 1.—General—continued.

(30)—Second petition for revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 622 and 623—Second application for revision—Review.—Held by the Full Bench that the dismissal of an application for revision in default of appearance does not bar the entertainment of a second application, but, in other cases, a second application should not be received, and that an application for review of judgment may be entertained by the Chief Court, where the Court has exercised or declined to exercise jurisdiction on the revision side. UMAR DIN v. ALA BAKSH, 45 P.L.R. 1901 = 54 P.R. 1901. (17 B. 514, Concurred; 75 P.R. 1881, 16 I.A. 104, R.; 23 P.R. 1898, Overruled.) [D. 97 P.R. 1907.]

(31)—Second revision petition— Revision—Review of an order passed on an application for revision.—There can be no review of an order passed on an application for revision filed in the Chief Court. The Court treated the petition for review as a second petition for revision and ordered the petitioners to file distinct grounds on which they asked for revision, and to comply with the directions contained in correction slip No. 154 dated 13th December 1899, regarding the form of applications for revision. UMAR DIN v. ALA BAKSH, P.L.R. 1900, 543.

(32)—Revision—Ground upon which Chief Court will interfere—Res judicata—Whether rule applies to subsequent suit where first suit withdrawn—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), s. 70.—In civil cases, interference on the revision side is permissible only where a final decree or an interlocutory order is so unjust and is likely to put things into so inconvenient a position that irreparable harm would be done to the applicant. Where a suit is withdrawn and the Court has expressly refrained from adjudicating upon any question or issue in the case, the rule of res judicata will not apply to a suit subsequently brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant upon the same cause of action. MUSSAMMAT SAADAT SULTAN BEGAM v. MUHAMMAD MUNIR KHAN, 149 P.W.R. 1911 = 11 Ind. Cas. 831.

(33)—Wrong decision as to res judicata when a ground for—Financial Commissioner when would interfere in.—A wrong decision as to res judicata would naturally be a good ground for revision, if it prevented a case being heard on the merits. The discretion of the Financial Commissioner to exercise revisional powers in any case is quite unfettered, and the broad principle to follow is to interefere only when a refusal would result in injustice or failure of justice. IMAM DIN v. JIWAN, 2 P.R. 1910, Rev. = 6 Ind. Cas. 735 = 101 P.L.R. 1910.

(34)—High Court's power of revision against orders of Revenue Court—Civ. Pro. Code (Act V of 1908), s. 115.—Held that a High Court has power to interfere in revision with the orders of Courts of Revenue exercising jurisdiction under the Rent Act, in those cases in which the course of appeal lies to the Court of the District Judge and to High Court. INDAR PERSHAD LALA v. BABU FATEH CHAND, 14 O.C. 38 = 9 Ind. Cas. 747.

Revision—continued.

— 1.—General—continued.

(35)—Decision by Mamlatdar—Reference by Collector to High Court—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622.—Where in a possessory suit, a Mamlatdar has passed a decision, it is not competent to the High Court to interfere with it on a motion by the Collector by way of a reference made to the High Court. It is the practice of the High Court to decline to interfere in such a matter on the application of the Collector. It is open to the aggrieved party to directly apply to the High Court under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. PANDU v. BHAVDU, 21 B. 806.

(36)—Revision—Practice—Crim. Pro. Code, s. 476—Order passed by Civil Court—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—In this case, the Court entertained, as an application under s. 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure, an application purporting to be one presented in accordance with the provisions of s. 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for revision of an order passed by a Civil Court under s. 476 of the latter Act. EMPEROR v. DURGA PRASAD, A.W.N. 1904, 170.

(37)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Crim. Pro. Code, Act V of 1898, ss. 195, 439, 476—Revision.—An application to revise the order of a Munsif granting sanction for prosecution under s. 476 of the Crim. Pro. Code, should be made to a Civil Bench of the High Court under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and not under s. 439 of the Crim. Pro. Code. KALI PROSAD CHATTERJEE v. BHUBAN MOHINI DASI, 8 C.W.N. 73. [F., 4 L.B.R. 138; R., 1 C.L.J. 161 = 9 C.W.N. 364 = 32 C. 367 = 2 Cr. L.J. 110, 10 C.L.J. 450.]

(38)—High Court—Revision—Power to interfere and quash sanction proceedings of lower Courts.—The High Court has power to interfere on revision with the sanction proceedings of the lower Courts and quash them. ABDUL KHADIR v. SAHIB MEERA, 2 M.L.J. 148 = 15 M. 224.

(39)—Jurisdiction, Question of, decided by Lower Court—Power of Chief Court to consider Lower Court's findings on facts.—The Chief Court may look into the grounds on which a question of jurisdiction has been decided by the lower Court, in order to see if there is ground for interference on the revision side, but, at best, this ought to be done only under very special circumstances. Ordinarily the findings of facts on which jurisdiction is decided ought to be accepted. (Per Chatterji, J.) DEVI DYAL v. HARI CHAND, 79 P.R. 1902. [D., 10 P.R. 1903 = 42 P.L.R. 1903.]

(40)—Question of jurisdiction—High Court's power to go into.—The Chief Court has power to consider the correctness of a lower appellate

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

Court's findings on facts concerning questions of jurisdiction. ASA RAM v. TARA CHAND, 44 P R. 1899. [R., 77 P.R. 1909.]

(41)—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—"Jurisdiction"—"Illegality"—"Material irregularity."—Effect of Amir Hasan's Case (11 C. 6) and 7 A. 336.—In a suit for the recovery of a sum of Rs. 49 due on a bond which was said to have been recovered from the obligor by the defendant, the District Munsiff was of opinion that he had no jurisdiction in the case because the title to a larger sum than Rs. 1,000 was involved in the question whether the plaintiff was entitled to recover the sum of Rs. 49 for which alone the action was brought. He therefore returned the plaint for presentation to the proper Court under s. 57 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Held, by the Full Bench that the Munsiff's view was erroneous, as the only subject-matter of the suit was the Rs. 49, that he had consequently failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in him by law, and that his order was therefore open to revision under s 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. [F., 15 B. 148.] The result of the ruling in (11 C. 6) and 7 A 336 (F.B.) is that the questions to which s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, applies are questions of jurisdiction only. If the Court has jurisdiction to hear and determine a suit, it has jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions which arise in it, either of fact or of law, and that the High Court has no jurisdiction under s. 622 to inquire into the correctness of its view of the law, or the soundness of its findings as to facts; but that when no appeal is provided, its decisions on questions of both kinds are final. BADAMI KUAR v. DINU RAI, 8 A. 111, F B. = A.W.N. 1886, 28 [Diss., 1 C.W N. 633; F., 8 A. 519; Expl., 9 A.104, F.B. = A.W N. 1886, 309; R., 8 A. 519, 10 A. 467, A.W.N. 1888, 148, L.B.R 1872—1892. 487, L.B.R 1872—1892, 509, 17 M. 410, F.B. 1 C.W.N. 617, 25 A. 509, F.B. = A.W.N. 1903, 104, 2 L.B.R. 333.]

(42)—Jurisdiction—Second Class Subordinate Judge—Subject-matter of suit within jurisdiction—Decree amount with interest accumulated exceeding jurisdiction—Application for execution where to be made - Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—No second appeal — Revision.—Where the subject-matter of the suit, which was the sum due on the mortgage sought to be redeemed, was within the jurisdiction of the Second Class Subordinate Judge, being less than Rs. 5,000, held that his jurisdiction would continue whatever might be the result of the suit, in all such matters in the suit, as, by the Civ. Pro. Code, are brought within his cognizance, amongst which are matters in execution in that suit (8 B. 31, R.) The mere circumstance that the amount due under the decree, by process of accumulation, now exceeds Rs. 5,000, cannot oust the Subordinate Judge from the jurisdiction he has hitherto had over the suit. In this case, the Subordinate Judge and the District Judge in appeal both held that the execution application was beyond the jurisdiction of the Subordinate Judge, and a second appeal was preferred to the High Court.—Held that no second appeal lay, but that, however, it may be treated as an application for revision under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and as the Subordinate Judge was wrong in refusing to exercise his jurisdiction the High Court can grant relief under its extraordinary jurisdiction under s. 622, Civ Pro. Code. SHAMRAV PANDOJI v. NILOJI RAMAJI, 10 B. 200.

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(43)—Court acting without jurisdiction—Reopening of question finally determined It may be a ground for revision that that the Judge of the lower appellate Court re opened a question on which his predecessor had already expressed an opinion, final as regards appeal; yet, the High Court would not interfere on revision, where it is not satisfied that the earlier opinion was correct and where it is found that the Court had jurisdiction over the appeal and exercised it. MOHAN LALL v. NANAK CHAND, 16 P.R. 1894.

(44)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Revision—Lower Court exercising jurisdiction not vested in it —In a suit for the issue of an order directing the defendant to close certain windows which had recently been enlarged and which the plaintiff alleged, interfered with his privacy and caused him inconvenience, it was found that there was no recognised right of privacy to house-holders by the custom of Dehra Ghazi Khan. Nevertheless, holding that the defendant should not have anything different from what he had before, the Courts below decreed the demolition of the windows.—Held that the Courts below, having virtually held that the plaintiff had no cause of action, had, in decreeing the demolition of the windows, exercised a jurisdiction not vested in them by law. ASA RAM v. UDAN MAL, 70 P.R. 1886. (64 P.R. 1885, D.)

(45)—Perpetual liability—High Court—Revision.—The High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction in cases where the effect of a decree of a lower Court is to impose a perpetual liability and thus affect the parties to an extent far beyond the mere money value of the suit. BALKRISHNA v. JANARDANA, 6 Bom. L.R. 642.

(46)—Civ. Pro. Code (1882), s. 516 (=sch. II, para 10, new Code)—Notice of filing of award not given to parties—Passing of decree—Material irregularity.—Where the Court passing a decree in terms of an award filed in it, omits to give notice of the filing to the parties as mentioned in s. 516, Civ. Pro. Code, such omission is a material irregularity, and the High Court can exercise its revisional powers in respect of that decree, on the ground of such omission, although the applicant in revision had in fact knowledge of the filing of the award before the passing of the decree and had kept quiet. CHATARBUJ DAS v. GANESH RAM. 20 A 474 = A.W.N. 1898, 132. (11 M. 144. F.) [F., U.B.R. 1897—1901, Vol. II, 24.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(47)—Revision — Alternative remedy being available not necessarily a bar to revision—Arbitration, reference by Court to—Munsarim's power to fix date for hearing—Hearing of case fixed for a date subsequently declared a holiday—Civ. Pro. Code (V of 1908), s. 115—Civ. Pro. Code (V of 1908), sch. II, cl. (8).—Although the practice of the Court has been to discourage applications for revision where other remedies are available to the applicant, yet the existence of an alternative remedy is not necessarily a bar to the exercise of revisional jurisdiction. A suit was referred to arbitration. Several applications were made for extension of the time fixed for filing of the award, and ultimately May 28th was fixed for that purpose. On that date no award was filed and neither party appeared. At the instance of the Court, the plaintiff's pleader applied for further extension of time and the Court then fixed June 20th. On that date also no award was filed and neither party appeared, but the Subordinate Judge was himself unable to attend the Court on that day, and the Munsarim made an order adjourning the case to June 24th. Subsequently this date was declared to be a holiday and the case was taken up on June 25th when the Subordinate Judge made an order superseding the arbitration and dismissing the suit. Held, that the Munsarim had no power to fix a date for the next hearing of the suit. Held further, that, as the case could not be taken up on the 24th on account of the holiday and there was nothing to show who fixed the following day for the hearing of the case, there was no justification for calling the case up on the 25th, the day on which it was dismissed Held also, that the words "and in such case shall proceed with the suit" in cl. (8) of the second schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure do not necessarily mean that the Court shall proceed at once on that same day to examine witnesses. KUNDAN LAL v. CHAINU LAL, 13 O.C. 341 = 8 Ind. Cas. 876.

(48)—Mortgage by conditional sale—Reg. I of 1798, s. 2—Scope—Exercise of jurisdiction not vested by law.—S 2, Reg. I of 1798, limits the functions of a District Judge acting under it to merely ministerial and not to judicial ones. A District Judge has, therefore, no jurisdiction in case of other mortgages, than mortgages by conditional sale in reference to which only he is competent to act under s. 2 of the Regulation, to receive moneys tendered as the amount due on the mortgages and to issue notice to the mortgagee and decide summarily what was actually due. SANWANT v. DYA RAM, 107 P R. 1890.

(49)—High Court's powers of revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code—Reg. XVII of 1806—

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Redemption of mortgage.—When, in the case of mortgage of immoveable property, foreclosure proceedings under Reg. XVII of 1806, were perfected by the expiry of the year of grace without the deposit of the mortgage-money, and the mortgagor's right to redeem is gone, the Judge has no jurisdiction to entertain an application by the mortgagor for redemption, or any objections in support of such application which the mortgagor could only take by way of defence in a suit by the mortgagee for possession. Orders passed by the Judge on such an application, that the mortgage-money deposited by the mortgagor should be paid over to the mortgagee, and that the latter should surrender the property of which he is in possession, would also be without jurisdiction, and would be subject to revision by the High Court under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. HAZARI LAL v. KHERU RAI, 3 A. 576. [F., 119 P.R. 1892.]

(50)—Liability of person other than maker of note—Burden of proof—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 622.—Where a person wants to make a person other than the one who executed a note liable, on the ground that the maker of the note borrowed the amount on the latter's behalf, it is for the plaintiff to prove the latter's liability by showing that the maker had expressed or implied authority to borrow. Where a decree is passed in the absence of such evidence, the High Court will reverse the decree under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1877. ABDUL AZIZ v. JARBANDHAN SINGH, A W N. 1881, 65.

(51)—Suit for refund of fees paid to barrister—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Revisional jurisdiction of High Court.—A client sued a barrister for refund of the fee paid to the latter for professional services which, however, were not rendered, and the lower appellate Court reversed the decree of the original Court and held that the suit would lie. Held, on an application for revision against the decision, by Stanley, C.J., and Blair, J. (Banerji, J., dissenting), that the High Court could interfere in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction. C. ROSS ALSTON v. PITAMBAR DAS, 25 A. 509 = A.W N. 1903, 104. F. B. (11 C. 6, R. & D.; 15 C. 47, 1 M. 220, 18 B. 369, 7 A. 336, 8 A. 111, 3 C.W N. 581, 17 A. 422, 20 A. 78, R.) [R., 2 L B R. 333, 31 C 385, 3 N. L. R. 47, 11 C.L J. 426.]

(52)—House-tax—High Court—Civil Court—House-tax—Municipality — Jurisdiction.—The plaintiff filed a suit in a Civil Court to recover from a town Municipality the amount of house-tax illegally assessed and recovered from him. The Court came to the conclusion that there was an illegality in the assessment and recovery complained of, but the Court by itself went into the question of assessment and fixed the amount of house-tax, and dismissed the plaintiff's suit: Held, setting aside the decree and awarding the plaintiff's claim, that the High Court could interfere under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, inasmuch as the Court in fixing the amount of house-tax exercised the function which the legislature vested elsewhere, and so far exercised its jurisdiction improperly. HAMIRSING v. AMOD TOWN MUNICIPALITY, 7 Bom. L.R. 288.

Revision — continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(53)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Guardians and Wards Act, s. 48.—Orders passed under s. 48 of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, can be revised under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. NAGARDAS v. ANANDRAO, 9 Bom. L.R. 495 = 31 B. 590.

(54)—Revision—Civil cases—Satisfaction of decree out of Court is no bar to revision—Plaintiff can succeed only by strength of his own title. An application for revision is not barred by the mere fact that the petitioner has satisfied the decree out of Court. The plaintiff can succeed by the strength of his own title and not by the weakness of the defendant's case. KANYHA LAL v. NARPAT RAI, 35 P L.R. 1912 = 168 P. W.R. 1912 = 14 Ind. Cas. 793. (16 P.R. 1907 = 127 P.W.R. 1908, R.).

(55)—Failure to exercise jurisdiction—Application to release attached property—Refusal.—A lower Court fails to exercise a jurisdiction, if, upon an application to release certain property from attachment, it declines jurisdiction under the impression that the application is barred by authority and not because it found that the applicant had no case on the merits. MUSSAMMAT CHAND KAUR v. MELA RAM, 8 P.R. 1897. (13 C. 90, 7 B. 341, F.; Unrep. case No. 6 of 1888. R.; 10 A. 119, 15 A. 405, 8 M. 493, 15 C. 446, 11 A. 383, D.) [R., 128 P.R. 1906.]

(56)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, IX of 1887. s. 25, refusal of revision under, by single Judge of High Court—Letters Patent, cl. 10—Appeal.—The order of a single Judge of the High Court declining to exercise the discretionary power given to the Court, by s. 25 of Act IX of 1887, is not a judgment within the meaning of cl. 10 of the Letters Patent, and is not, therefore, appealable. GAURI DATT v. PARSOTAM DAS, 15 A. 373 = A. W. N 1893 122. (14 A. 226, R.) [F., 28 A. 133 = A.W.N. 1905, 218.]

(57)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—Revision—Mistake of Law—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), sch. II, art. 75—Bond payable by instalments.—In the exercise of its Revisional Jurisdiction, under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, the Chief Court is not bound to interfere when a Small Cause Court has erred on a point of law, but it would interfere when a wrong decision on a question of law e.g., question of limitation, has resulted in a failure of justice. The Chief Court cannot decline to decide a law-point raised merely because it is intricate and difficult, if the case itself is such that the Court's revisional action is necessary in the ends of justice. (19 P. R. 1901 = 68 P. L. R. 1901, Consd.; 21 B. 250, 16 A. 476, 7 B. 342, 21 A. 89, R.) When a suit on a bond payable by instalments providing that the whole amount will become payable at once in case of default in payment of any instalment was dismissed by the Small Cause Court as barred by limitation under art. 75 of the Limitation Act and the plaintiff applied under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act for revision of the order of dismissal and contended that art. 75 was not applicable to the case and there was waiver as regards the default of the first instalment. Held, that the Chief Court was competent to consider the legality or otherwise of the order. Held, also, that the order of the Small Cause Court was not contrary to law. (188 P.R. 1883, F.B., F.; 8 B. 561, R.) Per Robertson, J.—The Chief Court should not interfere in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act except where a clear case of injustice resulting from a decree or order clearly not according to law has been made out. Per Chatterji, J.—It is not allowable in construing an Act to refer to the report of the Select Committee and the debates in the Legislative Council on the Bill which subsequently is passed into the Act. In an appeal it is the right of the appellant to obtain an adjudication, and one in his favour, if his grounds are made out, irrespective of the question whether substantial justice is or is not thereby dispensed in the case. A point of law or procedure may, in a particular case, work a great hardship, but in an appeal the Court is bound to give effect to it, without regard to the consequences. In cases of revision, it is quite otherwise. No party has the right to obtain an adjudication, and it is entirely within the discretion of the Court to interfere or not, as it thinks fit. It will not interfere to perpetrate an injustice, but only to promote the ends of justice. S. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code is not a safe guide for the exercise of the revisional powers under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. SAYAD MIR SHAH v. ATAR SINGH, 138 P.L.R. 1903 = 66 P.R. 1904.

(58)—Suit referred to arbitration—Disposal of suit in contravention of s. 508, Civ. Pro. Code, —Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—The Small Cause Court Judge in this case set aside the award of the majority of the arbitrators without showing any ground for so doing, and this was a contravention of s. 521 of the Code. Further, instead of postponing the decision of the case for ten days, after the presentation of the award to his Court, in order to allow the party dissatisfied with it to file his objections, the Judge proceeded to deal with the matter, which had been referred to arbitrators, by taking evidence himself upon the merits of the case Such a course is expressly prohibited by s. 508 of the Code. Held that the decree of the Small Cause Court Judge must be set aside under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The case was accordingly returned to the Judge directing him to fix, in presence of the parties, a date after a period of not less than 10 days, on which the award of the majority should be confirmed unless sufficient cause for setting it aside, under s 521 of the Code, be shown by the plaintiff. DULA v DAUDZAI, 80 P R. 1879.

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(59)—Occupancy rights decreed without reference to tests enunciated in previous rulings—S. 8, Act XVI of 1887—Material irregularity.—A claim to occupancy rights under s. 8, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, should not be decreed on vague grounds without reference to the test enunciated in 4 P.R 1875 (Rev); a breach of this principle will constitute a material irregularity. LEKHA MAL v. MUHAMMAD BAKSH, 17 P R. 1892, Rev.

(60)—Occupancy—Punjab Tenancy Act (Act XVI of 1887)—No reference to—Revision.—It is a material irregularity to decide a claim to occupancy rights without reference to the new Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887) AZIMULLA v. JEHANGIR KHAN, 16 P.R. 1892, Rev. (7 P. R. 1890, Rev. R.)

(61)—Revision—Interlocutory orders—Order made on application for permission to sue as a pauper liable to revision.—Held, that an application for permission to sue as a pauper is in itself a case within the meaning of that term as used in s. 115 of Act V of 1908 Held, further, that orders under Chapter XXVI of Act XIV of 1882 are open to revision under s. 622. Held also, that interlocutory orders are not liable to revision under s. 115 of Act V of 1908. Held also, that the provisions of s. 405 of Act XIV of 1882 are imperative, in requiring the presentation of an application for permission to sue as a pauper by the party in person, except in cases mentioned in ss. 640 or 641. SHAMI UD-DIN v. AMIR HUSSAIN, 12 O.C. 381=4 Ind. Cas. 777.

(62)—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 622, 623, 629, 103—Interlocutory order—Order refusing to deal with appeal under Civ. Pro. Code, s. 629.—Where a Judge declines to deal with an appeal presented under s. 629 of the Civ. Pro. Code from an order granting an application for review of judgment under s. 623, on the ground that the lower Court's order was passed under s. 103 and that no appeal would lie from such order, he refuses to exercise his jurisdiction, and such refusal may be dealt with by the High Court in revision under s. 622 notwithstanding that an appeal lies from the final decree. KALAP NATH MAN TIWARI v. BINDHYA CHAL MAN TIWARI, A.W.N. 1889, 179.

(63)—Revision—Interlocutory order—Material irregularity—S 115 of Act V of 1908—Arbitration—S. 70 (a) of Act XVIII of 1884—Held, that the word "case" should not always be strictly construed, and that interlocutory orders, i.e., orders which do not finally dispose of a case, may form the subject of revision, if the matter they relate to, though part of and connected with a case, stands by itself and is a definite part of a case, and in which the ends of justice would be defeated if the power of revision is not exercised. So, where a claim was based on the award of a private arbitrator and on the merits in the alternative, the defendant attacked the award but not on the ground of misconduct, the plaintiff, seeing the force of the defendant's objection, consented to limit his claim to the award, and the lower Court allowed the defendant at a very late stage of the proceedings to plead misconduct of the arbitrator, but refused to grant the plaintiff's prayer to fall back upon the alternative causes of action originally alleged in the plaint: Held that the order of refusal amounts to a material irregularity within the meaning of s. 70 (a) of Act XVIII of 1884, and the plaintiff is entitled to get it set aside in revision without waiting for the final result of the case. THE DELHI CLOTH AND GENERAL MILLS COMPANY, LD. v. R B. HARDHIAN SINGH, 72 P.W.R 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 939. (60 P.R. 1897, 51 P.R. 1899, F.)

Revision continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(64)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—High Court, Power of—Pauper suits—The plaintiff applied to file a suit in forma pauperis on a claim which required the Court-fee of Rs. 1,775 on the plaint. The Subordinate Judge finding that she had property of the value of Rs. 1,600, determined that she was not a pauper. The plaintiff applied to the High Court: Held, (1) that the High Court had jurisdiction to interfere, under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro Code, 1882, (2) that the determination by the lower Court was erroneous for it was obvious that the possession of Rs. 1,600, even if it could properly be taken into account, would not enable the applicant to pay the Rs. 1,775 which was the fee prescribed by the Court for the plaint. GANGABAI v SHRIDHAR, 8 Bom. L.R. 642.

(65)—Application to prefer appeal in forma pauperis—Rejection by lower Appellate Court—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622.—Where a lower appellate Court rejects under s 592, Civ. Pro. Code, Act XIV of 1882, the application of a person to prefer an appeal in forma pauperis, it is open to the Chief Court to exercise its powers of revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, on the ground that in rejecting such an application, the lower Court has acted illegally, or with material irregularity, as no appeal lies to the Chief Court in such a case. BARKAT ALI v. GHULAM KADIR, 21P.R 1885. (4 A. 91, F.) [D., 125 P.R. 1892.]

(66)—Court taking mistaken and wrong apprehension of facts—Material irregularity—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Revisional powers of High Court—Limitation—Reg. II of 1827, s. 5, cl. 2.—Where a Court, with a full and correct apprehension of the questions which it is necessary for it to decide in any case, errs in law or in fact in its decision of any such questions with which it has jurisdiction to deal, its error can only be corrected in due course of appeal; and, where no appeal is permissible, there would be no remedy under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, or under the provisions of s. 15 of the Statute 24 and 25, Vic. c. 104, whatever remedy there might be in the Bombay Presidency, under cl. 2 of s. 5 of Regulation II of 1827. But it would be otherwise in any case where the Court, having a mistaken and wrong apprehension of the questions at issue, proceeds to determine an issue which does not really arise in the case and bases its decision of the case on its determination of that issue. By so doing, it acts with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction even if it has not failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it. A suit was filed on 29th Nov., 1886, on a bond, dated 29th Nov., 1881, and payable in two years. The plaintiff stated in the plaint that the cause of action arose on 29th Nov., 1883. The lower Court dismissed the suit as time-barred, being of opinion that the cause of action arose on 28th Nov., 1883 and not on the 29th Nov., 1883 as alleged in plaint. The plaintiff having made an application to the High Court under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, held, (1) that the decree of the lower Court must be set aside. The claim was not time-barred, because the cause of action accrued only on 29th Nov., 1883. The period of two years specified in the bond must be held to have terminated on the day of the month corresponding with the day on which the bond was dated. (2) The High Court could interfere in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, because the lower Court had mis-stated and misunderstood the obvious facts of the case. VENKUBAI v. LAKSHMAN VENKOBA KHOT, 12 B. 617. (11 C. 6 P. C., Expl.) [Cons., 2 L.B.R 333; D., 20 A. 299.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(67)—S. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=s. 115, present Code)—Revisional powers of High Court —Limitation.—Where the lower Courts have entertained an application which is, on the face of it, barred by limitation without adverting to the question of limitation, the High Court can interfere under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. Semble.—In dealing with a case under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, the High Court can look into the evidence and itself investigate the facts. KAILASH CHANDRA HALDAR v. BISSONATH PARAMANIC, 1 C.W. N. 67.

(68)—Revision — Question of limitation—Refusal to enquire into—Error of law—Jurisdiction—Power of interference.—Where the lower Court refused to enquire into the question of limitation, held, that the lower Court must be deemed to have held that it had no jurisdiction to go into the question, and that its order is open to revision, by the Judicial Commissioner. HABIBULLAH v. KARANJU, 9 N.L.R. 35=19 Ind. Cas. 425.

(69)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 59 (4)—xtinguishment of right of occupancy by tenant dying without heirs—Effect of extinguishment on mortgage of occupancy rights by tenant—s. 84 (3)—Reference made with great delay and without appeal having been filed—Court of Wards—Revision — Material irregularity.—Held, that a landlord is entitled to recover possession of land from the mortgagee of occupancy right upon the death of the tenant without heirs, and it is not necessary for him to pay off the mortgage-debt. The Financial Commissioner disallowed the contention that the case should be thrown out because the Court of Wards had never appealed. The Deputy Commissioner's want of leisure on account of plague in his district was considered sufficient cause for not filing appeal. Held, that the application of a rule of limitation which in fact does not apply to a case amounts to a material irregularity. S. NARINDAR SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH, 36 P.L.R. 1901=6 P.R. 1901, Rev.

(70)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act VIII of 1859), s. 377—Review—Application after ninety days—Just and reasonable cause for delay—Proof.—An order admitting a review of judgment after the expiration of ninety days from the date of the decree, would be illegal if the party preferring the same fails to show just and sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court for not having preferred such application within the period limited. The order improperly granting the review in the absence of proof of such sufficient cause and all subsequent proceedings under it would be invalid and liable to be set aside. LUCHMUN SINGH v. TIRBANI BUKSH, 14 B.L.R. 373, P.C.=2 I.A. 58=3 Sar. 437.

(71)—Cases where no revision lies—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Revision—Practice—Civil cases.—The Chief Court will not, in the exercise of its revisional powers, minutely examine every phase of the litigation and scrutinize elaborately the authorities on which a party's agents professed to act, in order to determine whether there was any flaw in their acts which might be held to invalidate them. NABI BAKSH v. THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF HISSAR, 132 P.L.R. 1901.

(72)—Revision, when any other remedy open to the applicant—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 622.—Held, that the High Court will not exercise its revisional jurisdiction, as long as there is any other remedy open to the applicant. MUHAMMAD AKBAR ALI v. TAHIR HUSAIN, 12 O.C. 109=2 Ind Cas. 284. (15 A. 405, 11 A. 383, 10 A. 110, R.; 17 A. 222, D.) [Diss. & Expl., 13 O C. 341.]

(73)—Powers of High Court — Revision — Where a suit is open.—The High Court will not interfere with a decision, even where a question has been wrongly decided, when the petitioners have a remedy by suit. A.M. MURUGAPPA CHETTIAR v. NARAYANASAWMY PILLAY, M.W.N. 1912, 956=17 Ind. Cas. 889.

Revision—continued.

—— 1.—General—continued.

(74)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 281, 283 (=O. XXI, rr. 61, 63), 622 (=s. 115, new Code)—Revision —Power of High Court.—When there is any other remedy open to an appellant, the High Court will not as a general rule exercise its revisional jurisdiction under s. 622. Accordingly, the High Court refused to interfere in revision with an order of a Subordinate Judge under s 281 refusing to release property attached before judgment, on the ground that the applicant had a remedy by way of suit under s. 283. J. J GUISE v. JAISRAJ, 15 A. 405=A. W N. 1893. 172 (8 M. 484, 10 A. 119, 11 A. 383, R.) [R., 18 A. 163=A.W.N. 1896, 18, 80 P.L.R 1901, 57 P.L.R. 1903=13 P.R. 1903, 2 A L J. 370, 28 A. 72=2 A.L J. 749=A.W.N. 1905, 191, 12 O.C. 109; D., 1 L.B.R. 180.]

(75)—High Court, interference of—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 281—Revision.—The High Court will not interfere in revision with an order passed under s. 281, Civ. Pro. Code, as the party has a remedy by suit. ITTIACHAN v. VELAPPAN, 8 M. 484, F.B [F., 15 A. 405=13 A.W.N. 172; D., 1 L.B.R. 180]

(76)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 25, 622—Transfer of suit—Revision.—Where the decree in a suit would be appealable, an order under s. 25, Civ. Pro. Code, transferring such suit, is not subject to revision by the High Court. FARID AHMED v. DULARI BIBI, 6 A. 233=A. W.N. 1884. 45. [Diss., 14 C. 768; Appr., 20 A. 395; R., A W.N. 1899, 210, 22 P.L.R. 1900, 76 P.R. 1903=170 P.L.R. 1903.]

(77)—Order appealable—Revision does not lie. —No application for revision can lie to the High Court when the order sought to be revised is capable of being appealed against. GNANA SUMBANDA PANDARA SANNADHI v. DAVID NADAR, 14 M.L.J. 433. [D., 31 M. 24=17 M.L J. 441=3 M L.J. 19.]

(78)—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622. Where a second appeal was based on grounds on which a second appeal is not allowed by Chap. 42 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and such grounds did not relate to the jurisdiction of the Court, such appeal could not, be allowed to proceed under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. MAGNI RAM v. JIVA LAL, 7 A. 336, F B.=A.W N. 1885. 32. (11 C. 6, R.) [F., 7 A. 661, F.B.; Appr., 8 A. 111, F.B.; Cons., 13 C. 225; Expl, 7 A. 345; R., 8 A. 519, 17 M. 410, F B, 1 C.W.N 617, 20 A.W.N. 214, 2 L B.R. 333; D., 25 A. 509]

(79)—Revision — Civil cases—Quantum of evidence—Question of fact.—The Chief Court will generally refuse to exercise its powers of revision in Civil Cases on questions of fact, when there is evidence on record which the lower Court has considered. It cannot be said that the lower appellate Court has committed a material irregularity merely because it may possibly have come to a wrong conclusion in weighing the evidence. AYA RAM v. KARM NARAIN, 208 P.L.R. 1908=220 P.W.R. 1908. (9 P.R. 1894, R.)

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(80)—Civ. Pro Code, 1882, s. 622—Revision —Wrongly rejecting evidence—Error of Law, no ground for interference under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code.—Where the Judge in the lower Appellate Court had jurisdiction to decide the case and decided it wrongly, by failing to admit some evidence which he ought to have admitted, he did not exercise his jurisdiction illegally, and s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, would not apply.—Per Maclean, C.J.—The error of the lower Appellate Court in rejecting the document as unstamped in contravention of s. 34 of Act I of 1879, comes within that part of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, which speaks of a Court's acting with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction. The rejection of the document is more in the nature of a materially irregular act than of an erroneous decision on a point of law. (Per Banerjee, J.) [F., 25 A. 509=A.W.N. 1903, 104, 13 C.W.N. 797=10 C.L.J. 33.] Per Maclean, C.J.—An error of law does not amount to acting, in the exercise of jurisdiction illegally, or with material irregularity within the meaning of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. (11 C. 6, Relied on; 1 C.W.N. 626, 1 C.W.N. 617, R)—Per Banerjee, J. What 11 C. 6 must be taken to have settled is that it is not every error of law that will come within the scope of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code; but it does not follow that no error of law, unless it is also an error of jurisdiction, can come within the operation of that section. Where the error was gross and palpable and was likely to have led to injustice, it is an error such as s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, was intended to correct. ENAET MONDUL v. BALARAM DEY, 3 C.W.N. 581. (11 C. 6, Expl.; 1 C. W.N. 626, 1 C.W.N. 617, 1 C.W.N. 633, R.) [F., 13 C.W.N. 797=10 C.L.J. 33; R., L.B.R. 1900—1902, 142.]

(81)—S. 70-A, Act XVIII of 1884 (Punjab Courts), as amended—Revision—Civil Case—Material irregularity—Hearing of case on merits in the absence of party—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 568—Act V of 1908, O. XLI, r. 27—Evidence—Revision—Production of additional evidence.—Where an appeal was heard on merits in the absence of one of the respondents, who was not served with the notice of the appeal, the Chief Court on revision set aside the judgment of the Appellate Court and remanded the case for fresh decision after hearing the parties. Held, that the Chief Court was not competent to admit additional documentary evidence produced for the first time on revision and to remand the case for re-hearing, as it could not be said that a material irregularity was committed by the lower Courts. NATHU RAM v. NUR ILAHI, 55 P.L.R. 1909=59 P.W.R. 1909 =4 Ind. Cas. 550. (31 B. 381, F.)

(82)—Decision as to inadmissibility of document—High Court's interference under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code—Mistake on question of law—Illegality or irregularity—Per Farran, C J.—When Courts, in the exercise of their judicial functions, decide that a document is inadmissible in evidence, having exercised their judgment upon the question of its admissibility or inadmissibility, the High Court have no jurisdiction to interfere in the matter under s. 622. What the Courts do in such a case, assuming the document tendered to be erroneously rejected, is to make a mistake on a question of law, and it does not appear to me to be material whether the mistake in law is made during the hearing of the case or in the final decision. A mere error in law is not an illegality or a material irregularity within the meaning of s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. MADHAVRAV v. GULA BHAI, 23 B. 177. [Cons., 2 L.B.R. 333.]

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(83)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Misappreciation of documentary evidence, not sufficient ground for revision.—Where the gist of the contention on behalf of the appellant in a petition for revision was merely that the lower Court failed to properly appreciate the effect of a deed of compromise between the parties, such misappreciation on the part of the Court was held not to constitute a sufficient ground for the High Court to interfere by way of revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. DASRATH RAI v. SHEODIN RAI, 16 A. 39 = A.W.N. 1893, 199. [R., 4 N.L.R. 184.]

(84)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 (=s. 115, new Code)—Revision—Wrong decision by Court having jurisdiction.—Where a Court has jurisdiction to decide a question, and does decide it, the High Court cannot, under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, interfere merely because the Court has wrongly decided the question. RAM RAKH NATH v. SUNDAR NATH, 20 A. 299 = A. W.N. 1898, 36.

(85)—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—Where a Court, having jurisdiction in a matter, passes an erroneous order or decision from which an appeal is not given, such order or decision will not be revised by the High Court, if the aggrieved party has a remedy by suit provided by law. SUNDER DAS v. MANSA RAM, 7 A. 407 = A W N 1885, 87. (7 B. 341, 11 C. 6, R.) [F., 10 A. 119.]

(86)—Decision on merits—Wrong decision—Interference with questions of fact—Revision.—However erroneous a decision may be upon the merits, whether it be in conclusions drawn from the evidence, or in the application of the law to the facts, it is not an irregularity to give a wrong decision upon the merits and the High Court would not interfere in revision. HIRA SINGH v. BHANA, 9 P.R. 1894. [R., 13 P.R. 1903 = 57 P.L.R. 1903.]

(87)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—No assumption of fact—Wrong inference—Revision.—Where the Court did not assume any non-existing fact, but only drew a wrong inference from admitted facts, no revision lies, though, if an appeal lay from the order, it could be set aside. CHIRAGH v. PIR BUKHSH, 6 P. R. 1890. [R., 26 P.R. 1892.]

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(88)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Erroneous decision on point of law—Revision.—Where an appellate Court, having jurisdiction to decide an appeal from which no further appeal was allowed, wrongly decided on a question of jurisdiction involved therein, held that such an error could not be made a ground for the Chief Court's interference under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. DOWLAT RAM v. ASA RAM, 46 P.R. 1886. [F., 4 P.R. 1911 = 45 P.L.R. 1911 = 9 Ind. Cas. 674; R., 105 P.R. 1888.]

(89)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622, interpretation of—Chief Court, power of—Erroneous decision as to existence of cause of action.—S. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code does not authorise the Chief Court to interfere with an erroneous decision on the ground that the Court which passed it has acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally; and so long as such Court has jurisdiction over the subject-matter of a suit, the mere circumstance that it decides wrongly is no ground for saying that it has exercised its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. Where it was alleged that a lower appellate Court had decided wrongly on the question whether there was a cause of action for the relief prayed for, the Chief Court refused to interfere in revision, as that Court had jurisdiction to decide whether a cause of action existed or not. RAMA v. JOWAHIR, 64 P.R. 1885. (11 C. 6, F.; The Colonial Bank of Australia v. William, 5 P.C 417, R.) [Rel. on, 22 P.R. 1886; R., 46 P.R. 1886, 1900 P.L.R. p. 137, 33 P. R. 1904, 207 P.L R 1912; D., 70 P.R. 1886, 105 P.R. 1888, 75 P.R. 1890, F.B.]

(90)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 566, 622—Appellate Court's powers of remand—Remand to Court which did not try original suit.—Where an Appellate Court, in remanding a case under s. 566, Civ. Pro. Code, sends it to some inferior Court other than the one which originally tried the suit, it is at most only an error of procedure and not an illegal exercise of jurisdiction not vested in it by law so as to afford in itself a ground for revising the decree subsequently made under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. BHOJAN DAS v. MUSSAMUT MURADDU, 111 P.R. 1886.

(91)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 — High Court's powers of revision—Mamlatdar's decision declining jurisdiction.—In this case, the Mamlatdar had come to the conclusion that the defendant was not in possession of the land under the lavni kabuliyat upon which the plaintiff relied as proving the defendant's tenancy and its termination within six months of suit, and upon such finding, his decision that the defendant could not be dispossessed was correct. Plaintiff applied to the High Court for revision arguing that the Mamlatdar had wrongly admitted evidence, and that, upon the evidence and admissions made before him, he should have come to a different conclusion. Held that the High Court was not competent to exercise, in such a case, its extraordinary powers under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The Mamlatdar had not declined jurisdiction. He had come to a certain conclusion after having considered the materials laid before him. That conclusion, if erroneous, ought to be corrected in a regular suit and not by an application under s 622, especially as no substantial injustice had resulted from it. KASHINATH v. NANA, 21 B. 731. [R., 80 P.L.R. 1901, 13 P. R. 1903=57 P.L.R. 1903, 8 Ind. Cas. 613.]

Revision —continued.

——1.- General - continued.

(92)—Revision — Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Punjab Courts Act, 1899, s. 70-A—Order to furnish copies under s. 6, Act XVIII of 1891.—Held, that the order passed by the District Judge to the Agra Bank, to furnish copies of the entire account of Mr. H, from their books, though not proper, was not open to revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, or s. 70-A, Punjab Courts Act, 1899. The proper course was to allow the inspection of the Bank books of the whole account, and then to permit copies of all entries, which it was considered necessary to have after inspection. THE AGRA BANK v. KASHI RAM, P.L.R. 1900, p. 237.

(93)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 622—High Court's powers of revision--Non-judicial order.—Where an order of a District Judge is not a judicial order, but one of a merely interlocutory and ministerial character, referring to a transaction of a non-judicial nature connected with a surety for a party to a litigation, held that the High Court was not competent to interfere with such order in revision. SUNDAR LAL v. BUDH PRAKASH, A.W N. 1882, 143.

(94)—Revision — Interlocutory order—Ordinarily not open to revision.—Held, that, ordinarily, an interlocutory order is not open to revision. It is only in cases in which irreparable injury would be the result of non-interference that the Chief Court will revise an interlocutory order. NIHALA MALL v. BAGU RAM, 164 P.W R. 1911. (43 P.W.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 647. F.)

(95)—Interlocutory order not open to revision when final order in case appealable.—G L purchased a Court-fee stamp for a certain suit; he never used the stamp, but kept it and did not apply for a refund of the money. Some considerable time afterwards, his daughter C instituted the present suit and engrossed her plaint on the stamp which G L had purchased and which he gave her for the purposes of the suit. The District Judge held that the plaint was not properly stamped within the meaning of s 28 of the Court Fees Act because a damaged or spoilt stamp had been used, and directed the plaintiff to file proper Court-fees within two weeks. The plaintiff applied to the Chief Court to revise this order, but it was objected on behalf of the defendant that the revision could not be entertained because another remedy was open to the plaintiff, namely, to refuse to comply with the order of the District Judge, in which case the plaint would be rejected and the plaintiff could appeal from such order of rejection.

Revision —continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Held, that the objection was sound, and as the ordinary rule of Court was not to interfere on revision with the interlocutory order in a case in which an appeal would lie from the final order of the Court, the revision application must be disallowed. (7 Ind. Cas. 92, Cited.) Obiter :—It is open to an individual to make a gift of a Court-fee stamp to another person. BIBI CHANDOO v. JOWALA PERSHAD, 169 P.W.R. 1911.

(96)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 622, 591—Revision—Interlocutory order liable to question in appeal from final decree - Such order not open to revision.—Held, that in the case of an interlocutory order against which no immediate appeal lies, the remedy is, under s. 591 of the Code, by way of objection in the appeal against the final decree, and not by way of revision. NIZAMUDDIN v. HAJ MUHAMMUD MUSA, A.W.N. 1899. 210. (6 A. 233, 5 A. 293, A.W N. 1898, 73, 18 B. 35, R.)

(97)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 130, 387, 591, 622—Interlocutory orders not subject to revision.—Neither an interlocutory order passed under s. 387 of the Civ. Pro. Code, refusing an application for the issue of a commission, nor one under s. 130 directing the production of certain documents, is subject to revision under s. 622 of the Code. In re THE NIZAM OF HYDERABAD, 9 M. 256. [F., 30 M. 230=17 M.L.J. 79 =2 M. L.T. 88; Appr., 18 B. 35; R., 22 P.L.R. 1900.]

(98)—Practice - Point not raised in the lower Court in an application for review, whether can be raised in revision.—A point, which is not raised in the Courts below even in an application for review, will not be allowed to be raised in the Court of revision. MUNIAPPA CHETTIAR v. BALARANGAYA CHETTY, 8 M.L.T. 85.

(99)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Revision—Order wrong in law but within jurisdiction of Court making it.—Where a Court erroneously decided that a certain suit was, in respect of the valuation thereof, not within the cognizance of a Subordinate Judge but within the cognizance of a Munsif, and made an order returning the plaint for presentation to the proper Court, it was held that no application for revision of this order could be entertained. MUHAMMAD BAQUAR KHAN v. NANDO TIWARI, A W N. 1898, 74. (7 A. 230, 13 A. 320, A.W N. 1894, 55. 16 A. 286, A.W.N. 1896, 203, 20 A. 78, 11 C. 6 and 17 A. 422, R.)

(100)—Chief Court's power to interfere on questions other than that in respect of which application for revision was admitted.—Under cl. 3 of the proviso to s. 70 (1) (b) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, the Chief Court cannot exercise its powers of revision, except in regard to those questions, in respect of which the application for revision was admitted under s. 70 (1) (b) of the Act. SOBHA SINGH v. KISHORE CHAND, 65 P.R. 1907=203 P.L.R. 1908.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(101)—S. 622. Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Objection as to jurisdiction—Disallowed as not taken earlier—Revision.—The refusal of the Court to accept the objection as to jurisdiction on the ground that the allegation upon which it was founded had not been made at an earlier stage and was inconsistent with the oral pleas of the defendant was held to be one not calling for interference by way of revision. MAHTAB RAI v. KAMAN LAL, 51 P.R 1899. (21 P.R. 1898, F.B., R.) [R., 70 P.R. 1910; Cited, 31 P.R. 1902, F B.=8 P.L.R. 1902; Observed, 12 O.C. 405; Disc., 70 P.R. 1910=4 P.W.R. 1910.]

(102)—Civ. Pro. Code, s 622—Power of revision of High Court.—Questions to which s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code applies are questions of jurisdiction only. If the Court has jurisdiction to hear and determine a suit, it has jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions which arise in it, either of fact or of law, and the High Court has no jurisdiction under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, to inquire into the correctness of its view of the law, or the soundness of its findings as to facts; but, when no appeal is provided, its decision on questions of both kinds is final. ABU SAID KHAN v. HAMID UN-NISSA, A W. N 1886, 39. (A.W.N. 1886, 28, F.B. F.) [Diss., 8 A. 519.]

(103)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 13, 43—No irregularity—No revision.—A suit dismissed by the first Court as barred by s. 43, Civ. Pro. Code of 1882, was by the lower appellate Court also held barred but under s 13, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=s. 11 of the new Code). Held, that there was no irregularity either in the Court's conception of the facts or in its method of reasoning and that no revision lay. BARU MAL v. AMIR-UD-DIN, 26 P R 1899. [R., 33 P.R. 1904; F., 121 P.R, 1906]

(104)—Rejection of plaint—No revision.—Where a plaint is rejected on the ground that it was filed by an unauthorised person, no revision lies. THAKAR TARA NATH v. THAKAR JAMNA NATH, 5 P.R. 1899.

(105)—Ss. 622, 560, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Absence of notice at adjourned hearing—Non-diligence of party--Revision.—Where a respondent, though appearing at the first hearing, took no steps to ascertain the date of the adjourned hearing, held that he could not complain of absence of notice to him of such adjourned hearing. KARAM SINGH v. CHANDU, 34 P.R. 1890.

(106)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Small Cause Court granting new trial—Notice to opposite party not given—Irregularity.—However desirable and fitting it may be that a new trial should not be granted until the opposite side has been allowed an opportunity to show cause against it, there is nothing in s. 21 of Act XI of 1865 to prescribe such a course so as to make a neglect to issue such notice an irregularity or illegality within the meaning of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. MAHNA v. HARCHARN SINGH, 102 P.R. 1886.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(107)—Contract relating to badni transaction, Suit on—Compromise—Unlawful agreement—Refusal of Court to decree in terms of compromise—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 375, 622.—An agreement may be unlawful within the meaning of s. 375 of Act X of 1877, if it professes to bind the defendant to pay a sum which could not be lawfully recovered, as well as if the particular terms of the agreement itself are unlawful. Where there was a finding of fact by a Small Cause Court that a suit had been brought on a badni transaction, there being some evidence to support such finding, and the Court, on such finding, refused to pass a decree in terms of a compromise between the parties, the Chief Court refused to interfere as a Court of revision under s 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. JOWALA SINGH v. DITTUMAL, 104 P.R. 1880.

(108)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Failure to exercise jurisdiction.—Where the terms of a contract on which the plaintiff sued were reduced to writing, but the document was not signed by the defendant, and the Judge dismissed the plaintiff's suit on the ground that no extraneous evidence of the contract could be given because it had been reduced to writing, and that the document could not be proved because it was not signed by the defendant. Held that such action on the part of the Judge was not a failure to exercise a jurisdiction vested in him by law within the meaning of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. HASAN SHAH v. RAM RATAN, A.W.N. 1890, 234.

(109)—Signing order forms and receiving bills with head lines as to interest—Liability to pay interest—Discretion of Court—Revision—Act XXXII of 1839 (Interest).—In considering the fitness of allowing interest, Courts in this country exercise the functions of jurors and discretion is vested in them, which should not be interfered with under Act XXXII of 1839 in revision by the Chief Court, except where such discretion has been abused. When ordering goods, a debtor signed order forms headed with the printed words, "Terms one month's credit, interest at 12 per cent. charged on expiry," and the account rendered was similarly headed. Held that this circumstance did not raise an inference that the debtor contracted to pay interest. EDULJI & CO. v. MCDONALD, 55 P R. 1901. (36 P.R. 1894, 23 M. 41 R.)

(110)—Revision, application for —Order of Court directing issue of commission to examine female witness and refusing to decide preliminary issues of law—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 621 —Jurisdiction.—On an application under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, for revision of an order of the Subordinate Judge of Unao, directing the issue of a commission for the examination of a Hindu lady, one of the defendants in the suit, and refusing the prayer of the plaintiff that four preliminary issues of law should be forthwith decided upon the documentary evidence upon the record, held that he exercised his discretion in a proceeding which was not tainted with any irregularity and had jurisdiction to decide the question before him. SUKHDEI v. RAMDEI, 5 O.C. 151.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(111)—Revision—Transfer of appeal by District Judge to Subordinate Judge after remand —Objection as to jurisdiction.— In this case, the defendant's appeal from the Munsif's order was filed in the Court of the District Judge, who, after a remand to the Munsif, transferred it to the Court of the Subordinate Judge for disposal. After several adjournments, the appeal was accepted and the plaintiffs' suit dismissed. The plaintiffs contended in revision that the order of transfer passed by the District Judge was invalid and the decree passed by the Subordinate Judge was without jurisdiction. Held, that the contention raised by the plaintiffs cannot be entertained in revision, for the Subordinate Judge was competent to hear the appeal but for the fact that it was sent to his Court by an invalid order of transfer; and the plaintiffs were precluded from raising the question of jurisdiction by their conduct in the lower Court in not objecting to the validity of the order of transfer. PHUNAN MAL v. ILAHI BAKSH, P.L.R. 1900, p. 354.

(112)—Resumed lakhiraj land—Settlement—Power of Revenue Board—Commissioner.—A settlement of resumed lakhiraj land made by a Collector "subject to the orders of the Board of Revenue," may be set aside by that Board. Under the Board's rules, a Commissioner has authority to set aside such a settlement, and is limited to no time in the exercise of his powers of revision. HARLAL TEWARI v. THE COLLECTOR OF BHAGULPORE, 3 B.L.R. App. 82 =12 W.R. 6.

(113)—Revision—Power of High Court on revisional side—Order of District Magistrate fixing route for procession during Moharram. —The High Court cannot, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction, interfere with a memorandum issued by a District Magistrate for the instruction of his subordinates respecting the route to be followed by a certain procession. In the matter of the petition of BHAGELU, A. W. N. 1891, 178.

(114)—Crim. Pro. Code, Act V of 1898, ss. 439, 476—Civ. Pro. Code, Act XIV of 1882, s. 622—Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere with orders of Civil Courts under s. 476.—The High Court has no jurisdiction to interfere in revision on the criminal side with an order under s. 476 of the Crim. Pro. Code, made by a Subordinate Civil Court. But, it has such jurisdiction conferred by s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, which is exercisable, however, only where the Subordinate Court has acted without jurisdiction or has failed to exercise its jurisdiction or has acted illegally or with material irregularity. (26 M. 98, 8 C.W.N 73, A.W.N. 1902, 202, R.) Per Banerji, J.—The High Court has power under s. 439 of Crim. Pro. Code to interfere with an order made under s. 476 by a Civil or Revenue Court. In the matter of the petition of BHUP KUNWAR, 26 A. 249, F.B. (26 M. 98, 8 C.W.N. 73, A.W.N. 1902, 202, 16 A. 80, 23 A. 249, 16 C. 730, 20 C. 349, 21 M. 124, 13 B. 109, 26 B. 785, R.) [F., 28 A. 554. F.B. = A.W.N. 1906. 103 = 3 A.L.J. 394 = 1 M.L.T. 219 = 3 Cr. L. J. 400 ; R., A.W.N. 1904. 170, U.B.R. 1907, 1st Qr., Cr. P.C p. 1 = 6 Cr. L J. 25, 4 A.L.J. 701 = A.W.N. 1907. 277, 32 M. 49 = 19 M.L J. 42.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(115)—High Court's power of revision of District Judge's order granting sanction to prosecute —Criminal revision—Code of Criminal Procedure, ss 195 and 439—Civil Procedure Code, s. 622, meaning of any case-in-jurisdiction—Penal Code, ss. 109 and 110.—An application purporting to be under s. 622, Code of Civil Procedure, for revision of an order of the District Judge reversing an order of the Subordinate Judge and granting sanction to the respondent to prosecute the applicant for offences under ss. 209 and 210, Penal Code, was made to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner. Held, that the application should not have been made under s. 622, Code of Civil Procedure. The words "any case" in that section are very wide but they must be confined to suits or proceedings governed or at least believed to be governed by the Code of Civil Procedure, whereas applications for sanction to prosecute are not governed by that Code but by s. 195, Code of Criminal Procedure. Held, further, that the Court of the Judicial Commissioner could not interfere with the District Judge's order under cl. (6) of s. 195, Criminal Procedure Code. The words "any sanction given or refused under this section" in that clause mean any sanction given or refused upon an original application and the clause does not provide for interference by a third Court at all. Held, further, that s. 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides for the case of "any proceedings" and expressly authorizes the High Court to exercise the power conferred upon the Court of appeal by s. 195 and that, therefore, the Court of the Judicial Commissioner had jurisdiction under s. 439 to revise the District Judge's order. MUSAJI v. MOHAMMED WALAYATULLAH KHAN, 6 O C. 216.

(116)—*Revision—Civil Procedure Code, s.*622 —Failure to exercise jurisdiction.—Where a Subordinate Judge decided an objection to an attachment on the preliminary ground that the property in question was, as a matter of law, not capable of being attached under the particular decree; held, that the Judge, whether his decision was right or wrong, could not be said either to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in him by law, or to have acted illegally in the exercise of a jurisdiction vested in him by law. RADHA KISHAN v. DILLI, A.W.N. 1890, 233.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(117)—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 622, 310-A, 311.—From an order dismissing an application under s. 310-A, Code of Civil Procedure, upon the ground that the applicant had filed an application under s. 311 of the Code, no application for revision would lie. DEBI DAS v. SAGAR MAL, A.W.N. 1898, 78. (20 A. 78, R.)

(118)—Civ Pro. Code, ss. 310-A, 311, 622—Order dismissing application under s. 310-A because application under s. 311 had been made.—A revision petition under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, would not lie on the ground that a Court had rejected an application under s 310-A of the Code for the reason that the applicant had previously filed an application under s. 311. UGGAR SEN SINGH v BANDHU PRASAD, A.W.N. 1898, 148. (A.W.N. 1898, 78, Appr.)

(119)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Application to set aside order rejecting appeal from order refusing to set aside ex parte decree—'Case' meaning of, in s. 622.—Where a Commissioner rejected an appeal from an order passed by a Judicial Assistant refusing to set aside an ex-parte decree, an application by the defendant to the Chief Court, to set aside the Commissioner's order was held properly not to fall under s. 622, inasmuch as that section only applies to "cases" in which no appeal lies to the High Court, while in the present an appeal would have lain to the Chief Court in the ordinary course if the defendants had chosen to adopt the remedy of appeal which the law allowed to them from an ex parte decree under the general provisions of s. 540 of the Code instead of adopting the alternative remedy allowed by s. 108 by an application to set aside the ex parte decree. The ward "case" in s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, must be construed to mean the whole case, and not a branch of it. GUNDA MAL v. SHIBJI RAM. 114 P.R. 1883. (105 P.R. 1880, R.) [Disappr., 60 P.R. 1897; F., 125 P.R. 1892; R., 51 P.R. 1899=22 P.L. R. 1900; D., 22 P.R. 1897.]

(120)—Review—Order refusing to grant review—Revision—Amendment of decree.—No revision lies against an order refusing to grant an application for review. An application for revision can be made, if the Court has refused to exercise its jurisdiction in the matter of amendment of an order absolute so as to bring it into conformity with the judgment. BALBAHDAR SINGH v. CHUNNI LAL SAHU, 6 Ind. Cas. 707.

(121)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 206, 622—Order amending decree—Miscellaneous appeal—Revision.—Plaintiff, decree-holder, presented an application for amendment of decree to the first Court and that Court, after giving notice to the judgment-debtor under s. 206 of the Civ. Pro. Code, amended the decree in the suit so as to bring it into conformity with the judgment. A miscellaneous appeal brought by the judgment-debtors from the amended decree to the Commissioner having been rejected by him as barred by limitation, the judgment-debtors (applied for revision of the Commissioner's orders. Held that the remedy of the defendants was to bring a regular appeal on full stamp to the Commissioner from the amended decree within the period of limitation; and, since from such appeal a further appeal would have lain to the Chief Court, the present application under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro Code, was barred. Also, the mere fact that the judgment debtors delayed in appealing to the Commissioner's Court till their appeal was barred by time could not give them a right to make the present application or confer any power on the Chief Court to entertain it. ABDUL GHUNNI v. KUNDAN LAL, 71 P.R. 184.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(122)—Award—High Court—Revision.—An application under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code to set aside an award is not allowable. In the case of an award, revision is more objectionable than an appeal. GHULAM JILANI v. MUHAMMAD, 4 Bom. L.R 161=29 C 167=6 C.W.N. 226=29 I.A. 51=12 M.L.J. 77=8 Sar. 154, P.C.

(123)—Suit—Arbitration—Setting aside award for defect in reference—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 521, 622.—In a suit referred to arbitration, after oral and documentary evidence had been taken, the Judge set aside the award owing to certain defects in the agreement for reference and remitted the case to the arbitrators with certain directions. Held, on an application for revision of the order, that the High Court could not interfere at that stage and that there are other remedies by way of appeal after the final decision of the case by the lower Court. LALCHAND v. KISHORI DAS, A.W.N. 1888, 123.

(124)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 521, 622——Misconduct of arbitrators—Apreal Revision.—An order under s. 521 of the Civ. Pro. Code, setting aside an award made under Ch. 38 of the Code on a reference to arbitration in the course of a suit on the ground of the arbitrator's misconduct is not subject to revision under s. 622 of the Code. DAMODAR v. RAGHUNATH, 4 Bom. L.R. 267=26 B. 551

(125)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss 522, 622—Award—Decree on judgment following award—Revision.—An application to set aside an award on the ground of the arbitrator's misconduct was refused by a District Judge, who found in fact that there was no such misconduct and passed a decree not in excess of the award made under s. 522 of the Code. Held, that the Chief Court had no authority to interfere with the decree based on this finding either by way of appeal or revision, as the Court below had not exercised a discretion not vested in it by law, or failed to exercise a discretion so vested, or acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. HANSRAJ v. GANGA RAM, 88 P.R. 1902, F.B.=119 P.L.R. 1902. [R., 1 P.R. 1908=58 P.W.R. 1907, 80 P.R. 1908=138 P.L.R. 1908=12 C.W.N. 585=7 C.L.J. 520=10 Bom. L.R. 581=18 M.L.J. 266=99 P.W.R. 1908=14 Bur. L.R. 146=4 M.L.T. 25=35 C. 648.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(126)—Arbitration—Setting aside an award for arbitrator's misconduct—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 521, 622. — An order under s. 521, Civ. Pro. Code, setting aside an award made on a reference to arbitration in the course of a suit, on the ground of the misconduct of the arbitrator, being and interlocutory order, is not open to revision by the High Court under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. CHATTAR SINGH v. LEKHRAJ SINGH, 5 A. 293=A.W.N. 1883, 39. [Diss., 14 C. 768; F., 31 M. 345=18 M.L.J. 228=3 M.L.T. 315; Appr., 18 B 35, 26 B. 551; R., 9 A. 253, A.W.N. 1899, 210.]

(127)—Ss. 622, 525, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Arbitration—Award—Refusal by the Subordinate Judge to file the award—Appeal—Revision—High Court.—The High Court followed the practice which permits applications under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, in cases where the Subordinate Judge refuses to file an award which has been presented to the Court for being filed under s. 525 of the Code. ABDEALI v. YUSUFALI, 8 Bom. L.R. 570. [R., 1 S.L.R. 86.]

(128)—High Court's powers of revision under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1877—Delay in application.—Where an application by an auction-purchaser, praying the High Court to set aside, under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, an order of a lower Court setting aside a sale of immoveable property in execution of a decree on the ground that such order, was illegal, was preferred seventeen months after the date of such order the Court refused to interfere on account of the long delay. In the matter of the petition of DURGA PRASAD v. SHEO CHARAN LAL, 4 A. 154.

(129)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—High Court's powers of revision—Construction of document.—Where a Court, in a suit in which it had jurisdiction interpreted the plaint bond in a particular manner holding the suit to be within limitation, it was not open to the defendant in revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, to contend that the suit must have been held to be barred by limitation on the ground that the plaint bond was capable of a different interpretation from that put upon it in the lower Court MALLU v. RAM BHAROSE, A.W.N. 1888, 148.

(130)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 (=s. 115, new Code) — Revision — Erroneous decision on point of limitation.—Where a Court having jurisdiction to decide whether a certain matter was or was not barred by limitation under s.230, Civ. Pro. Code, erroneously decided that it was not barred and proceeded to deal with it, held that it was no ground for revision under s. 622. SUNDAR SINGH v. DORU SHANKAR, 20 A. 78=A.W.N. 1897, 168. (11 C. 6, 17 A. 422, R.) [R., A.W.N. 1898, 74, 78, 25 A. 509, 2 L.B.R. 333, 4 N.L.R. 184.]

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(131)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Revision—Question of limitation.—Where a Court having jurisdiction over a suit or other proceeding, has to consider a plea of limitation and does consider and decide it, but erroneously, such error is not an irregularity within the meaning of s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, so as to open a door to revision. HARI SINGH v. DIT MAL, 22 P.R. 1886. [F., 204 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 60; R., 105 P.R. 1888, 207 P.L.R. 1912=213 P.W.R. 1912.]

(132)—Revision—Technical legal error—Discretion—Suit for mortgage-money and rent—Cause of action—Provincial Court of Small Causes (Act IX of 1887), s. 25.—Held, that, where a mortgagor agrees to give possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and executes a separate lease in his favour, it is questionable whether, in the suit for the principal mortgage-money, the mortgagee is bound to include therein the amount of rent due from the mortgagor up to that time. (19 A. 496, D.; 28 P.R. 1907=140 P.W.R. 1907, 53 P.R. 1868, R.) It is discretionary with the High Court to interfere on revision, and it will not exercise its powers, merely because the lower Court has erred on a technical point, if it appears that the lower Court's decision does substantial Justice between the parties. ABDUL, RAHMAN v. BHAGWAN DAS, 59 P.W.R. 1912=120 P.L.R. 1912=13 Ind. Cas. 720. (93 P.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 445=151 P.W.R. 1911, F.)

(133)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Powers of revision of High Court.—A suit on a bond filed in the Small Cause Court was dismissed on the ground that that Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit as by the bond immoveable property was mortgaged and the suit was therefore one for relief in respect of immoveable property. On an application for revision to the High Court under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, held that that was not a case for revision and that the application should be rejected. The Small Cause Court had not refused to exercise its legitimate jurisdiction in respect of the applicant's suit. On the contrary, it received the suit, and, having considered its character and found (whether rightly or wrongly) that it was a suit for relief in respect of immoveable property, it non-suited the applicant. In all this proceeding, jurisdiction had neither been refused nor usurped. The Court had jurisdiction to decide, and was bound to decide, whether the suit was or was not within its cognizance, and exercising that jurisdiction, dismissed the suit. Therefore, there was no case for the

Revision—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

High Court exercising its revisional powers under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. BHAGWANT SINGH v. JAGESAR SINGH, A.W.N 1886, 57 [Diss., 8 A. 519.]

(134)—Revision—Review — Erroneous order set aside on review—Discretion—Interference by High Court.—The revisional powers of the High Court should not be exercised to restore an erroneous order, passed by a Judge of a Small Cause Court but set aside by him on review. It is in the discretion of the Judge to deal in review with an order proceeding on a mistaken view of the law. MAUNG AUNG NUYN v. N. K. A. RAMANATHAN CHETTY, 12 Ind. Cas. 903.

(135)—Rejection of application to appeal as a pauper—High Court's powers of revision—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 592, 622.—The order of a District Judge under s. 592 of the Civ. Pro. Code rejecting an application to appeal as a pauper on the ground that it was presented, not by the applicant himself, but by his pleader, is one of so purely an interlocutory character that it cannot be revised by the High Court under s. 622. HARSARAN SINGH v. MUHAMMAD RAZA, 4 A. 91=A.W.N. 1881, 136. [Diss., 14 C. 768; Disapproved, 99 P.R. 1882; Not F., 21 P.R. 1885; R., 20 B. 86.]

(136)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 401, 407—Application for permission to sue in forma pauperis—Possibility of professing pauper's raising money on his claim no ground for rejecting his application—Revision.—Money which may be borrowed on the strength of the claim in a suit, which a person is seeking permission to institute in forma pauperis, cannot be regarded as property in the possession of such person so as to disentitle him to sue in forma pauperis. An order rejecting an application for permission to sue in forma pauperis is not a decree, and, being unappealable, may form the subject of an application for revision. AZMAT ALI v. KIFAYAT UL LAH, A.W.N. 1893, 11.

(137)—Act XL of 1858 (Minors), s. 3—Certificate of administration—Right of holder of certificate to defend suit against minor—High Court's powers of revision—Civ Pro. Code, s. 622.—A Civil Court has no power to refuse to admit a person who has obtained a certificate of administration under the Bengal Minors Act to defend on a minor's behalf a suit brought against such minor. When the Civil Court does refuse to admit such person to defend the suit, its order is not open to revision. BALDEO DAS v. GOBIND SHANKAR, 7 A. 914=A.W.N. 1885, 294.

(138)—Erroneous decision on question of res judicata—Failure to exercise jurisdiction—Revisional powers of High Court under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882.—The question for decision in this case was whether a Court determining that a particular question in a case is res judicata and thereon declining to try it again, fails to exercise jurisdiction, in the event of its view being wrong, so as to give occasion for the exercise of the power given to the High Court by s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and it was held that the decision of a question of res judicata, as of limitation or the like, raised in a case, is not, even though wrong, a failure, or acause of failure, to exercise jurisdiction, any more than a wrong decision on the whole litigation. Where the law speaks of exercise of jurisdiction, or failing to exercise jurisdiction, it means using or failing to use authority in entering on an inquiry and carrying it to a judicial conclusion. The exercise of jurisdiction is not declined when such a conclusion has been arrived at, merely because, had the decision on a particular point been different, further questions would have had to be disposed of. AMRITRAV KRISHNA DESHPANDE v. BALA KRISHNA GANESH AMRAPURKAR, 11 B. 488. [Appr., 4 N.L.R 184]

(139)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 — High Court's powers of revision—Wrong decision on question of res judicata.—Even where the decision of the lower Court on a question of res judicata happens to be wrong in law, it is not competent to the High Court to interfere with such decision in its extraordinary jurisdiction under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. Where the proceeding is itself within the jurisdiction of the Court, such Court has jurisdiction also to determine whether the defendant's plea of res judicata was made out or not; and assuming that the decision of the Court on the question of res judicata is wrong, it cannot be said that, in passing the decision, the Court exercised a jurisdiction not vested in by law or has acted illegally or with material irregularity within the meaning of s. 622 of the Code. HARI BHIKAJI v. NARO VISHVANATH, 9 B. 432. [F., 11 B. 488; R., 11 B. 596.]

(140)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Misconstruction of judgment and decree—Irregularity—Revision.—In the case of an apparent variation between a judgment and the decree as to costs, the defendant applied to the successor of the Judge who had passed the judgment to bring the decree into conformity with the judgment. The new Judge refused the prayer interpreting the judgment to mean what was expressed in the decree. Held that, though the interpretation may be wrong, it was not an irregularity. UTTAM SINGH v. DHARM SINGH, 60 P.R. 1891. [R., 26 P.R. 1892, 29 P.R. 1906.]

(141)—Revision— Civ. Pro. Code (Act V of 1908), s. 73 (2)—Order of rateable distribution of judgment-debtor's assets among rival decree-holders in execution of decree.—Held, that an order under s. 73 (2) of Act V of 1908, that a certain decree-holder is or is not entitled to share rateably the assets realised from the judgment-debtor's property is not open to revision—it is immaterial whether the order has been actually carried out or not at the time of filing or hearing the revision, (65 P.R. 1905, 82 P.R.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

1905, 128 P.R. 1906, F.) Obiter :—Any decision on the merits in revision by the Chief Court still leaves the aggrieved party to bring a regular suit. The general policy of the law and the usual practice of the superior Courts is not to interfere on the revision side, except in cases where the petitioner has no other remedy or his only alternative remedy is so cumbrous or expensive that to refer him to it would be tantamount to denying him relief. RADHE KISHEN v. BHOLU MAL, 171 P.W.R. 1912 = 146 P.L.R. 1912 = 17 Ind. Cas. 254. (76 P.R. 1902, R.)

(142)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622 — Pre-emption—Decreed pre-emptive price paid into Court by pre-emptor—Subsequent partial withdrawal, by creditor of decree-holder, of money so paid in—Revision—Practice.—The holder of a decree for pre-emption paid the decreed pre-emptive price into Court within the period fixed by the decree. A creditor of the decree holder applied for attachment of the money so paid in, and was allowed by the Court to withdraw it. Held that the decree-holder was entitled to obtain possession of the pre-empted property, and that it was not competent to the Court to allow the money paid in to be withdrawn by an attachment under a decree of a third party. Except under special circumstances, the High Court will not interfere on revision where another remedy was open to the petitioner. SANT SINGH v. GHASITA, 179 P.L.R. 1901 = 21 P.R. 1902. [R., 93 P.R 1902, F.B., 13 P.R. 1903 = 57 P.L.R. 1903, 128 P.R. 1906]

(143) —Revision—Civil cases—Application for revision against decree in a suit under s. 9, Specific Relief Act.—A decree in a possessory suit under s. 9, Specific Relief Act, in favour of the plaintiff is not open to revision by the Chief Court, where the ground for revision is that the Court below has misapprehended and misinterpreted the evidence, oral or documentary on the record BABU SAFDAR JANG v. SARDAR SHANKAR SINGH, 57 P.L.R. 1903 = 13 P.R. 1903.

(144) — Dismissal of appeal for default—Omission to apply for restoration to file—Revision —Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 558, 622. —An appeal having been dismissed for default, the appellant applied to the Chief Court for revision, under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Held that the case was not one for revision, because the appellant had failed to take steps to have his appeal restored to file under s. 558 and the final order of the Appellate Court on appeal would be open to appeal to the Chief Court. KARM BUKSH v. BALMOKAND. 13 P.R. 1881.

(145)—Agent to the Governor of Fort St. George—Order under Agency Rule 18 not open to revision by High Court—Rules 19 and 20.—An order passed, under Rule No. 18 of the Agency Rules, by the Governor's Agent at Vizagapatam, dismissing an appeal preferred to him from a decision of his special assistant, is not open to revision by the High Court under Agency Rule No. 20 Rule 20 only applies to cases in which the Agent has passed a judgment under Rule 19. JAGANNADHA v. GOPANNA, 16 M. 229.

(146)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 ; orders under Madras Act VIII of 1865, not open to revision by High Court —An order under s. 10, Madras Rent Recovery Act, having been reversed on appeal, the appellant applied to the Revenue Officer for being restored to possession of the land from which he had been ejected under the original order and such application was dismissed by that officer. It was held that such order of dismissal by the Revenue Officer could not be interfered with by the High Court on revision, since, s 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure was not applicable to orders passed under Madras Act VIII of 1865. APPANDAI v. SRIHARI JOISHI, 16 M. 451. (9 M. 332, F.) [F., 17 M. 298 ; R., 22 M. 68.]

(147)—Rent Recovery Act, s. 76—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 4, 622 —Orders passed under Madras Act VIII of 1865 by a Collector are not open to revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. VENKATANARASIMHA NAIDU v. SURANNA, 17 M. 298 (9 M. 332, F.)

(148)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 25, 622—Infringement of patent—Suit instituted in Sub-Court—Transfer to District Court—Revision —Act XV of 1859, s 22.—Where a suit for infringement of patent was instituted in the Subordinate Court, but was transferred by the District Judge to his own file, held that the High Court would not interfere in revision with such interlocutory order. PETMAN v. BULL, A.W.N. 1882, 62.

(149) —Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 622—Interest disallowed —Revision.—It cannot be deemed to be a material irregularity that a Court has not seen proper to award interest to a litigant. That cannot be raised as a ground for revision. ABUL HASAN v. QUTUB HUSAIN, A.W.N. 1882, 118.

(150) —Ex parte decree by Appellate Court in favour of appellant —Revisional powers of High Court—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622.—An ex-parte decree passed by an Appellate Court in favour of the appellant, will not be interfered with by the High Court in revision under s 622, Civ. Pro Code, 1882. RAM PRASAD v. RAM LAL, A.W.N. 1885, 261.

(151)—Application to set aside ex parte decree —Second appeal — Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 588, 622. — No appeal lies against an appellate order reversing a refusal to set aside an ex parte decree, nor would the High Court interfere in revision in such a case AUBINASH CHUNDER MOOKERJEE v. MARTIN, 8 C. 832.

(152)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 108, 622—Revision —Order restoring a suit to file of pending suits.—Held that no application would lie for revision of an order under s. 108 of the Code of Civil

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Procedure restoring a suit to the file of pending suits. KALIAN v. BEGAM, A.W.N. 1898, 73. [F., 2 A.L.J. 370.]

The proper remedy on refusal to bring legal representative on record is an appeal and not an application for — See ABATEMENT OF SUITS, 9 O.C. 354.

Proceedings under Act XIX of 1841—Revision when lies—See ACT XIX OF 1841, s. 3, 65 P. L.R. 1911.

See ACT XIX OF 1841, ss. 3, 4, 15, 66 P.R. 1882.

See ACT XIX OF 1841, ss. 3, 5, 8, 24 M. 364 =7 M.L.J. 78.

Order under s. 18 (Act XX of 1863), whether open to—See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 18, 7 M.L.T. 126=5 Ind. Cas. 291= 33 M. 412.

Grant of leave to sue on unverified letter not presented in Court—Material irregularity—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 18, 24 M. 685=11 M.L.J. 326.

Power of High Court to interfere in, in proceedings, against pleader, commenced, but not heard and decided by District Judge—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, ss. 13 and 14, 12 C.W.N. 381=7 Cr. L.J. 252=35 C. 317.

Order under s. 36, Legal Practitioners Act—High Court's power of—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, s. 36, 11 C.L.J. 513=6 Ind. Cas. 327= 11 Cr. L.J. 320.

Judge declaring certain persons to be touts —Application to Division Bench of High Court under ss. 15, 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. civ—Power of Bench to revise such order—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, s. 36, A.W.N. 1908, 279=6 A.L.J. 22=31 A. 59=1 Ind. Cas. 143.

See ACT XVIII OF 1879, s. 36, 21 A. 181= A.W.N. 1899, 15.

Compensation money paid to Hindu widow—Reversioner's application for reference to Civil Court—Order by Judge on reference directing refund of money already paid by Collector—Order not one under s. 32, Land Acquisition Act—Incompetency of Judge to proceed under s. 32—No appeal from order under s. 32—Power of High Court to interfere in revision—See ACT I OF 1894 ss. 32 and 54, 12 C.W.N. 1039 =35 C. 1104.

Powers of Chief Court, for revision under s. 70 (1) (b), Punjab Courts Act, 1884, of order under s. 19, Act IX of 1899—See ACT IX OF 1899, ss. 2 and 19, 144 P.R. 1908.

By High Court—S.15, Charter Act—See BEN. ACT X OF 1859, ss. 109. 110, 151, 15 C.W.N. 863.

High Court's power of revision where aggrieved party has other remedy available, (e.g.) by regular suit—See BEN. ACT VII OF 1876, s. 55, 12 C.W.N. 16=35 C. 120=8 C.L.J. 245.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

An agreement of parties cannot authorize a superior Court to revise a judgment of an inferior Court in any other mode of proceedings than that which the law prescribes—See BEN. ACT I OF 1879, ss. 135, 136, 137, 144, 9 C.W. N. 956=2 C.L.J. 384.

See BEN. ACT I OF 1895, ss. 19, 32, 33, 30 C. 619=7 C.W.N. 433.

Revisional powers of Special Judge under Bom. Act XVII of 1879—See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, s. 3, cl. (u), 14 B. 387.

Contract merged in decree—Decree not subject to—See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, s. 13, 7 B. 330.

Powers of revision of Special Judge—See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, ss. 53, 54, 15 B. 180.

Revisional powers of Special Judge—Withdrawal of suit—See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, s. 54, 12 B. 684.

By Collector—Appealable nature of decision —See BOM. ACT I OF 1880, s. 33, 21 B. 244.

See MAD. ACT I OF 1889, s. 73, 21 M. 363.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 39 (a), 22 P.L.R. 1902=36 P.R. 1902.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 40 (1) (d), 27 P.R. 1895.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, ss. 40, 70, 93 P. R. 1886, 86 P.R. 1896.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 40 (2), 86 P.R. 1889, 68 P.R. 1897.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70, 80 P. L.R. 1901=15 P.R. 1901.

Appeal triable by High Court decided by Lower Court—Powers of revision of the Chief Court of the Punjab—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70, 16 P.L.R. 1907.

Powers of—Exercised by the Chief Court of the Punjab—Orders under s. 295, Civ. Pro. Code—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70, 82 P.R. 1905=199 P.L.R. 1905.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (a), 36 P.R. 1902, F.B.

Misapplication of a ruling—Revisability by Chief Court—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (a), 45 P.R. 1909=66 P.L.R. 1909=68 P. W.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 76.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (a) (b), 12 P.L.R. 1904.

Erroneous decision by appellate Court as to jurisdiction of lower Court—Revision—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), 45 P.L. R. 1911=4 P.R. 1911=26 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 674.

Wrong interpretation of documents, whether amounts to material irregularity—Lower Court completely ignoring terms of a document and placing upon it a perversely erroneous construction — Chief Court's power of revision—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), 173 P.L.R. 1908=106 P.R. 1908=151 P.W.R. 1908.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Erroneous finding as to bar by limitation when precludes—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), 118 P.R. 1906=79 P.L.R. 1907.

Wrong interpretation of words— Material irregularity—Revision—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), 125 P.L.R. 1911.

Execution of decree — Land-suit — Costs allowed to defendants—Right of pro forma defendant, against whom proceedings were held ex parte—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), (b), 196 P.L.R. 1905.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a) (b), 170 P.L.R. 1903.

Order declining rateable distribution under s. 295, Civ. Pro. Code—whether lies from such order—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (a), (b), 65 P.R. 1905=130 P.L.R. 1905.

See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (b), 107 P.L.R. 1903.

By Chief Court of an interlocutory order where an appeal lies from final decree—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (b), 101 P.L.R. 1905=64 P. R. 1905.

Discretion of Divisional Judge—Interference of Chief Court—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (b), 109 P.L.R. 1905.

Civil cases—Question of law—See PUN. ACT XVIII OF 1884, s. 70 (1) (b), 119 P.L.R. 1911.

See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 84 (5), 144 P.L.R. 1903.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 30, 95 (c), A. W.N. 1894, 92.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 183, 199, 12 A. 198=A.W.N. 1890, 59.

Against order of Assistant Collector refusing execution—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, ss. 167, 177, 196, 197, 6 A.L.J. 552=2 Ind. Cas. 377 =31 A. 445.

Order of dismissal of appeal under s. 556 of the Civ. Pro. Code, applicability of—Revision, proper procedure—Application under ss. 556 and 558, Civ. Pro. Code, treated as one for—See APPEAL—GENERAL, 8 O.C. 261.

See APPEAL—ARBITRATION, 92 P.R. 1903.

See APPEAL—CASES WHERE APPEAL LIES OR NOT, 88 P.R. 1902, F.B.

See APPEAL—DECREES AND EXECUTION OF DECREES, 14 A. 520=A.W.N. 1892, 99.

See APPEAL—ORDERS, 75 P.R. 1881, 78 P.R. 1886, 72 P.R. 1902.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Power of High Court to exercise its jurisdiction of its own accord—See ARBITRATION—PRIVATE ARBITRATION, 10 C.W.N. 609, F.B. =3 C.L.J. 450=33 C. 757.

Order rejecting application for filing award in Court under s. 525, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, appeal from—Memorandum of appeal to be treated as application for revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—See AWARD, 1 O.C. Sup. 22.

Arbitration proceedings—Appeal not allowed —Revision whether lies—See AWARD, 1 P.L. R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 385=12 P.W.R. 1911.

See AWARD, 120 P.L.R. 1902, F.B.=89 P. R. 1902, F.B., 5 B.L.R. App. 75=14 W.R. 33.

Order holding portion of claim not sustainable and directing amendment—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 2 (2), 115, 216 P.L. R. 1911.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 2, 11, 96, O. XXVI, rr. 13 and 14, 56 P.L.R. 1902=49 P.R. 1902.

Dismissal of appeal rightly though on wrong grounds—High Court's power of revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 10, 11, 115, 16 M. L.J. 526=2 M.L.T. 40.

Sale of joint immoveable property in foreign territory by order of British Insolvency Court —Suit for refund of portion of sale-proceeds by co-owners, a suit for an interest in immoveable property, not cognisable by British Courts —Proper remedy was by suit in Court having jurisdiction—Not a fit case for revisional interference—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 16, 122 P.R. 1908.

Powers of—Possessed by the High Court—High Court's power to call for records for—Of its own accord—Powers of—Where other remedies are open—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 47, 115, A.W.N. 1905, 191=2 A.L.J. 749= 28 A. 72.

Claim by judgment-debtor as shebait to deity—Appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, r. 58, 8 C.W.N. 353.

Application by owner objecting to sale of property in execution of a decree under s. 88, order in appeal on—Memorandum of appeal to High Court treated as petition in revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, r. 58, A.W.N. 1906, 62.

Partition decree—Execution by Collector—Not subject to revision by Civil Court—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 54, 15 B. 527.

Against Collector's order—Execution proceedings transferred under s. 330, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (=ss. 68, 71, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908)—To whom lies—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 68, 70, 71, 5 N.L.R. 121=3 Ind. Cas. 572.

An order under s. 295, Civ. Pro. Code, whether open to—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 73, 128 P.R. 1906.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Power to interfere in, where other remedy exists—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 73, 115, 5 M.L.T. 125=19 M.L.J. 307=32 M. 334.

Misapprehension of true effect of statutory provision—Refusal to exercise jurisdiction—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 73, 115, 14 C.L.J. 50.

Grant of sanction by Collector for removal of Mohunt—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 92, 93, 104 P.R. 1910.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 99, 65 P. R. 1891.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 115, 54 P.R. 1896.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 152, O. XX, r. 6, s. 115, 24 M. 646.

Refusal to add party—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, r. 3, 11 C.L J. 426=14 C.W.N. 703=6 Ind. Cas. 549.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, O. I, rr. 8 (2), 10 (2), (3), (5), 11, s. 115, A.W.N. 1885, 259.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, rr. 8 (2), 10 (2), (3), (5), 11, O. XXII, r. 10, 5 O C. 91.

Service not effected on a respondent for more than a year—Substituted service—Reason for—Appeal—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. V, rr. 19, 20 (1), O. IX, r. 5, s. 107 (2), O. XXII, r. 11, 46 P.L.R. 1902.

Relinquishment of part of claim—Court-fee—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. VII, rr.1, 2, 4, 5, 6, O. XXXIII, r. 1, s. 115, A.W.N. 1900, 214.

Summons served on Railway servant without sending it through officer—Ex parte decree—Power of High Court to interfere in revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, rr. 6, 13, s. 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, 6 A.L.J. 45=1 Ind. Cas. 163.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, rr. 8, 9, O. XVII, r. 2, s. 115, 12 M.L.J. 473.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 8, O. XV, r. 4; O. XVII, r. 2, s. 115, A.W.N. 1887, 65.

High Court's power to interfere in, with order of restoration—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 9, O. XVII, r. 2, 17 M.L.J. 225=30 M. 274.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 9, O. XVII, r. 3, s. 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, A.W.N. 1893, 44.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XVII, r. 2, s. 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, s. 115, 31 C. 344.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XVIII, r. 8, A.W.N. 1882, 184.

Ordering execution on an application put in more than three years after the last application—Illegality—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, rr. 10, 21, ss. 48, 115, U.B.R. 1905, Civil Procedure 26.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Practice of High Court—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 60, s. 115, 11 Bom. L. R. 754=3 Ind. Cas. 780.

Execution of decree—Delivery of possession of property not specified in sale proclamation or sale certificate—Power of High Court to interfere in—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, rr. 66, 70, 95, 96, 18 A. 163=A.W.N. 1896, 18.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, rr. 88, 90, 5 A. 42=A.W.N. 1882, 146.

Revision petition when may be treated as memorandum of appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 89, s. 47, 13 C.L.J. 467.

Lower Court's order not passed on illegal exercise of jurisdiction or on failure to exercise jurisdiction—Power of High Court to interfere in—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 89, s. 115, A.W.N. 1905, 193=2 A.L.J. 711=28 A. 84.

Application under s. 373, Civ. Pro. Code (1882)—Order—Appeal treated as application for revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, r. 1, 10 Ind. Cas. 346.

Improper order for withdrawal of suit—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, r. 1, 11 C.L.J. 45=5 Ind. Cas. 187.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, r. 7, 37 P.R. 1895.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXXIII, r. 1, O.VII, r. 17, 99 P.R. 1882.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O XXXIII, r. 5, 130 P.R. 1894.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXXIII, r. 5, s. 115, 2 C.W.N. 474.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 4, A. W.N. 1891, 207.

Pleader present but unable to argue case owing to physical disability—Dismissal for default—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, rr. 11, 17, 9 Ind. Cas. 857.

Appeal wrongly dismissed as for default—Remedy, by way of—Not appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 17, s. 104, O. XLIII, r. 1, s. 115, 18 A. 119=A.W.N. 1896, 9.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O.XLI, rr. 17, 19, s. 115, A.W.N. 1884, 167.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 19, O. XIII, r. 1, and ss. 104, 115, 3 C.P.L.R. 166.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 23, s. 115, A.W.N. 1883, 171.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, O XLI, r, 31, 72 P.R. 1890.

Rejection of application for review on the erroneous view that Court had no jurisdiction—Revision—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O, XLVII, rr. 4, 7, 9, 6 A.L.J. 884=31 A. 610=4 Ind. Cas. 23.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLVII, rr. 7, 9, ss. 100, 115, 11 A. 383 = A.W N. 1889, 151.

Decree on award passed without jurisdiction —Appeal—See CIV. PRO. CODE, sch. II, rr. 14, 15, 16, 21, 18 M. 423, F.B.

Suit for declaration—Decree for possession—Material irregularity—Revision—See COMPROMISE—GENERAL, 199 P.L.R. 1911.

See CONTRACT—MISCELLANEOUS, 19 P. R. 1894.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 65, 66 P.R. 1895.

Damages allowed by Small Cause Court—Interference in—See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 73, 9 Ind. Cas. 470.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, ss. 112, 118, 79 P.R. 1888.

For order to pay, ad valorem Court fee—Material irregularity—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, 5 O. C. 319.

See CRIM. PRO. CODE, 1898, s. 145, 6 C.W.N. 882

Nature of High Court's revisional jurisdiction—Initiation of criminal proceedings, under s. 476, Crim. Pro. Code—Considerations for High Court in exercising powers of revision—Stay of criminal proceedings pending civil appeal to High Court, whether justifiable, and when—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—Charter Act, s. 15—See CRIM. PRO. CODE, 1898, s. 476, 35 C. 909.

See CRIM. PRO. CODE, 1898, s. 476, 23 A. 249 = A.W.N. 1901, 59.

See DECREE — ALTERATION OR AMENDMENT OF DECREE, 1 Agra 57; 7 A. 411 = A.W.N. 1885, 256, 7 A. 875 = A.W.N. 1885, 256, 15 A. 121 = A.W.N. 1893, 44, 15 A. 169 = A.W.N. 1893, 78, A.W.N. 1882, 60.

See DECREE — DECREE, CONSTRUCTION OF, A.W.N. 1889, 173.

Rent suits—Powers of District Judge—See DISTRICT JUDGE, JURISDICTION OF, 15 C. 327.

Equitable decision given by lower Court—No revision lies—See EASEMENT, 101 P.L.R. 1909 = 153 P.W.R. 1909.

Execution—High Court's orders in revisional jurisdiction—Procedure—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 583, 647—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—APPEAL, REVIEW, ETC., EXECUTION OF DECREE AFTER, 16 B. 550.

Appeal treated as application for—See EX-PARTE DECREE, 11 M.L.T. 199.

Error in law—Substantial justice done to parties—Whether revision lies—See GUARDIAN—DUTIES AND POWERS OF GUARDIANS, 5 P.W.R. 1910 = 5 Ind. Cas. 590.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Court has no jurisdiction to allow guardian to spend ward's property after termination of guardianship—No appeal against such order—Appeal converted into revision petition—See GUARDIAN—MISCELLANEOUS, 17 M.L.J. 199.

See GUARDIANS AND WARDS ACT, 1890, ss. 12, 25, 47, 13 P.R. 1897.

Jurisdiction— Appeal — Consular Court of Zanzibar—High Court at Bombay—Zanzibar Order in Council, 1884, art. 21—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—BOMBAY, 20 B. 480, F.B.

See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—BOMBAY, 7 B. 341.

Non-compliance with the provisions of Act XIX of 1841—High Court's power of—See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, 34 C. 929 = 12 C.W.N. 65.

Of appellate orders under s. 588, Civ. Pro. Code—See JURISDICTION—CAUSES OF JURISDICTION, 77 P.R. 1909 = 124 P.L.R. 1909 = 125 P.W.R. 1909 = 3 Ind. Cas. 607.

Partition under Reg. XIX of 1814—By Civil Court—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 4 C. 510.

Case in which a petition of appeal was treated as a petition for—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 2 A.L J 18 = A.W.N. 1905, 10 = 27 A. 380.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 4 N. W. P. 7, 5 O. C. 332.

Board of Revenue, powers of—See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS, 6 A.L.J. 164 = 31 A. 279 = 2 Ind. Cas. 32.

Lower Appellate Court ignoring vital facts—Material irregularity— Revision —See LANDLORD AND TENANT—EJECTMENT, 35 P.L.R. 1910 = 8 Ind. Cas. 227.

Right decision—Defect of jurisdiction—Revision whether lies—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—MISCELLANEOUS, 8 Ind. Cas. 733.

Refusal to grant certificate to mukhtar to practise in Criminal Courts—Jurisdiction of High Court—Rules for Kamon and Garhwal districts issued under s. 6 of Act No. XIV of 1874 (Notification No. 45 A, dated the 23rd May, 1879)—Crim. Pro. Code, s. 439—Letters Patent, s. 15—See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—MUKHTEAR, A.W.N. 1892, 236.

See LIMITATION—GENERAL, 6 P.R. 1901.

Delay in filing petition for—Effect—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 5, 140 P.L.R. 1911 = 10 Ind. Cas. 129.

Claim barred by limitation—Oral acknowledgment—Decree given by lower Court—Revision—Interference with order doing substantial justice—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 19, 228 P.L.R. 1911.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Amendment of plaint whether allowed in—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 19, 8 M.L.T. 199=7 Ind. Cas. 797.

Custody of wife—Third person harbouring wife—Continuing wrong—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 23, 14 P.L.R. 1903.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 23, 9 M. L.J. 133.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 164, 7 A. 345=A.W.N. 1885, 73.

Court overlooking relevant provisions of an Act — Material irregularity — Revision— See MAINTENANCE, 157 P.W.R. 1911.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE, 119 P.R. 1892.

See MORTGAGE — REDEMPTION, A.W.N. 1888, 119.

Burden of proof thrown on wrong party—Revision—See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—HUNDIS — GENERAL, 25 P.W.R. 1910=24 P.L.R. 1910=5 Ind. Cas. 891.

Omission to regard the qualification of an obligation created by law and to frame a definite issue in connection therewith—Material irregularity—Revision—See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881, ss. 30, 93, 98 (c), 96 P.W.R. 1911.

Power of High Court to correct a mere error of law--See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881, s. 118, 2 M.W.N. 1911, 253.

See PARTNERSHIP—SUITS RELATING TO PARTNERSHIP, 9 A. 486=A.W.N. 1887, 133.

Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 401, 407—Application for permission to sue in forma pauperis—Possibility of professing pauper's raising money on his claim no ground for rejecting his application—Revision—See PAUPER SUITS, A.W.N. 1893, 11.

Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 407, 408—Application for leave to sue in forma pauperis—Rejection of application on grounds other than those mentioned in s. 407—Revision—See PAUPER SUITS, A.W.N. 1893, 218.

Amendment of pleadings and issues— Discretion—Revision—See PLAINT—AMENDMENT OF PLAINT, 9 Ind. Cas. 267=51 P.L.R. 1911.

Material irregularities justifying interference in revision, what are—See POSSESSION—ADVERSE POSSESSION, 4 Ind. Cas. 314=18 P. W.R. 1909.

Question of abandonment is a question of fact—Revision—See POSSESSION—ADVERSE POSSESSION, 102 P.L.R. 1909=154 P.W.R. 1909.

Order of District Judge that he has jurisdiction to entertain application for letters of administration—Revision—See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, s. 86, 94 P.W.R. 1910=70 P.R. 1910=7 Ind. Cas. 710=123 P. L.R. 1910.

Revision—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Dismissal of first application for maintenance—Whether it is a bar to second application on same facts—Where substantial justice has been done by the lower Court, whether High Court will interfere in revision—See RES JUDICATA—GENERAL, 14 Bur. L.R. 259.

See RES JUDICATA—CAUSE OF ACTION, 1 Agra 152.

Order refusing to grant review—Such order whether can be revised—See REVIEW—GENERAL, 2 M.W.N. 1911, 252.

See REVISION—GENERAL, A.W.N. 1882, 62.

When Chief Court will interfere on—Order allowing claimants the share of their missing brother—Revision—See RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY—GENERAL, 17 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 744.

See RULES OF HIGH COURTS AND SUPREME COURTS—N.W.P., A.W.N. 1903, 12.

See SANCTION TO PROSECUTE, A.W.N. 1892, 242, A.W.N. 1893, 147, A.W.N. 1903, 170, A. W.N. 1903, 172.

Suit under s. 9, Specific Relief Act, dismissed—Another remedy open—Revision does not lie—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 8 A.L.J. 791.

Possessory suit by immediate landlord of dispossessed tenants—Tenants not made parties—Interference by High Court—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 13 C.W.N. 303=1 Ind. Cas. 150.

Dispossession of tenant—Suit by landlord—Refusal to decree in favour of landlord—Revision—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 13 C.W.N. 835=10 C.L.J. 30=3 Ind. Cas. 466.

Other remedies open to aggrieved party—High Court whether will interfere—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 5 A.L.J. 297=A.W. N. 1908, 142=30 A. 331.

Memorandum of appeal insufficiently stamped—Stamp not supplied within time fixed—Dismissal of appeal—Appeal—Revision—See STAMP, A.W.N. 1881, 51.

Powers of—Of High Court—See ST. 24 AND 25 VIC , C. 104, s. 15, 4 C.W.N. 36.

High Court interfering in revision in public interest — See SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1889, s. 4, 13 C.W.N. 966, F.B.=10 C. L.J. 180=36 C. 936=3 Ind. Cas. 492.

Suit in Mamlatdar's Court—Erroneous procedure of Mamlatdar, High Court—Revision—See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 9 B. 97.

Plaint, return of, for presentation to proper Court—Refusal by other Court to entertain plaint—Jurisdiction—High Court's power of—See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 20 B. 50.

evision—continued.

——1.—General—concluded.

Revisional powers of High Court—Acting in the exercise of jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity — See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 1 C.W.N. 626.

No revision in case of erroneous decisions—See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 1 C.W.N. 633.

See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 6 W.R. Mis. 26, 28 C. 680=6 C.W.N. 114, 7 C.L.R. 191, 8 M. 192.

Court overlooking provisions of a Legislative enactment—Material irregularity—Revision—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 107, 11 Ind. Cas. 849.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases.

See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 25.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, MOFUSSIL, JURISDICTION OF.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, PRESIDENCY TOWNS, JURISDICTION OF.

(1)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—Exercise of revisional powers by High Court.—The powers conferred by the section are purely discretionary. It was not intended by the section to give in effect a right of appeal in all Small Cause Court cases, either on law or on fact [A.W.N. (1890), 121, 201, Appr.]. The High Court would not interfere under the section, unless it clearly appeared to them that some substantial injustice to a party to the litigation had directly resulted from a material misapplication or misapprehension of law or material error in procedure in the Court of Small Causes. MUHAMMAD BAKAR v. BAHAL SINGH, 13 A. 277, F.B.=A.W.N. 1891, 81. [R., 13 A. 533, 15 A. 139, 16 A. 476, L.B.R. 1893-1900, 61, 21 B. 250, 11 C.P.L.R. 91, 21 A. 89, 23 B. 334.]

(2)—Revision--Act IX of 1887, s. 25--Erroneous decision on question of limitation.—Under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, the fact that a Court of Small Causes has come to an erroneous decision on a point of limitation is no ground for revision. SARMAN LAL v. KHUBAN, 17 A. 422=A.W.N. 1895, 112. (11 C. 6, R.) [F., 20 A. 78=A.W.N. 1897, 168, 21 A. 89, A.W.N. 1898, 74; R., 21 B. 250, 25 A. 509, F.B.=A.W.N. 1903, 104, 6 A. L.J. 944=3 Ind. Cas. 817.]

(3)—Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—Court's discretion—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622—S. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code should be taken as a guide indicating the lines along which a Judge will do well to exercise his discretion in dealing with an application under s. 25 of the Small Cause Courts Act. This does not mean that the Judge is bound to refuse any such application, under the above s. 25, which could not be admitted under s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The Court's discretion in the matter is left unfettered, and s. 622 of the Code is to be taken as merely indicating to the Court a line which it might well follow, and a general principle which it should apply. VIAS RAM SHANKAR v. RALLA RAM MISIR, 21 A. 89=A.W.N. 1898, 157. (16 A. 476, 17 A. 422, R.) [R., 5 C.L.J. 413, 66 P.R. 1904=138 P.L.R. 1903, 9 Bom. L.R. 466, 5 A.L.J. 295=A.W.N. 1908, 141.]

Revision—continued.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases—continued.

(4)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—Discretion of High Court — Circumstances empowering revision under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code.—In enacting s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), the Legislature could not have intended to practically give an appeal on law and on facts from the decisions of Courts of Small Causes, which were final, subject only to the power given by that section. S. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, should be taken as indicating the line of discretion to be exercised by the Judge in considering whether he should or should not apply s. 25 of the Act. SARMAN LAL v. KHUBAN, 16 A. 476=A.W.N. 1894, 183, F.B. [Diss., 11 C.P.L.R. 91, 66 P.R. 1904, 138 P.L.R. 1903; R., 21 A. 89, 5 C.L.J. 413, 19 P.R. 1901=68 P. L.R. 1901, 113 P.L.R. 1903, 27 A. 192=A.W. N. 1904, 227=1 A.L.J. 697, 6 A.L.J. 944=3 Ind. Cas. 817.]

(5)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s 25—Error of law in Small Cause Court—Power and discretion of High Court to interfere.--This was an application by the defendant Municipality under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, by which they sought for a reversal of a decree passed against them in the Poona Small Cause Court, on the ground that the decree was passed against them on an erroneous construction of their Revised Octroi Rules and a question arose as to the extent and nature of the powers conferred upon the High Court by the said s. 25 and it was held that an error of law or procedure in the Small Cause Court confers jurisdiction upon the High Court to exercise the power committed to it by the section. The powers conferred by the section are purely discretionary and it was not intended to give by that section a right of appeal in all Small Cause Court cases, either on law or on fact. The limits within which such discretionary power of the High Court should be exercised depend on the circumstances of each individual case but, generally it has not been the practice of the High Court to interfere under s. 25 when there are no substantial merits in the applicant's case. It interferes to remedy injustice, but even where technically the plaintiff or defendant may have a legitimate ground of attack or defence, where the Small Cause Court has done substantial justice in the matter the High Court will be reluctant to interfere. The provisions of s. 622 of the Civ. Pro. Code, are not to be taken to afford any safe guide for the exercise of the High Court's discretion under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. The wording of the two sections is wholly different. The provisions of the former section have to be construed in a very restricted and limited sense whereas in the latter, s. 25 of the Act, the Legislature has used the widest words with intention to confer the most ample discretion on the High Court. POONA CITY MUNICIPALITY v. RAMJI, 21 B. 250. [F., 11 C.P.L.R. 91; Appr., 23 B. 334; R., 21 A. 89=A.W.N. 1898, 157, 27 B. 563, 66 P.R. 1904=138 P.L.R. 1903]

Revision—continued.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases—continued.

(6)—Exercise of powers of revision in case of error of law or procedure in Small Causes Court.—An error of law or procedure in the Small Causes Court confers jurisdiction upon the High Court to exercise the power committed to it by s. 25, Small Cause Courts Act, but the exercise of such power is purely discretionary and cannot be claimed as of right. BHAIYALAL WANI v. JAMNADAS POTDAR, 11 C P.L.R. 91. (21 B. 250, F.)

(7)—Act IX of 1887, s. 25—First application for revision rejected—Second application whether barred.—There is nothing in the Code or in Act IX of 1887 to prevent a Court from entertaining a fresh petition for revision under s. 25 of the latter Act, after the dismissal of a previous petition under the same section. KAHAN CHAND v. MUSST. INDAR KUAR, 23 P.R. 1898.

(8)—Revision—Technical legal error—Discretion—Suit for mortgage-money and rent—Cause of action—Provincial Court of Small Causes Act (IX of 1887), s. 25.—Held, that, where a mortgagor agrees to give possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and executes a separate lease in his favour, it is questionable whether, in the suit for the principal mortgage-money, the mortgagee is bound to include therein the amount of rent due from the mortgagor up to that time. (19 A. 496, D.; 28 P.R. 1907=140 P.W.R. 1907, 53 P.R. 1868, R.) It is discretionary with the High Court to interfere on revision, and it will not exercise its powers, merely because the lower Court has erred on a technical point, if it appears that the lower Court's decision does substantial justice between the parties. ADUL RAHMAN v. BAGWAN DAS, 59 P.W.R. 1912=120 P L.R. 1912=13 Ind. Cas. 720. (93 P.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 445= 151 P.W.R. 1911, F.)

(9)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622—Suit maintainable on Small Cause side of Court instituted on original side—Power of High Court to interfere in revision.—A suit maintainable on the Small Cause side of a Court was instituted on its original side. From a decree passed in the suit an appeal was preferred. No question of jurisdiction was raised either in the first Court or in the Appellate Court. The question was whether the High Court should interfere in revision with the decisions of the Courts below. Held that as the Court of first instance and the Court of Appeal had exercised a jurisdiction not vested in them by law, the High Court was bound to interfere and exercise the powers conferred by s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. The plaint was therefore ordered to be returned for presentation to the proper Court. RAMASAMY CHETTIAR v. R. G. ORR, 26 M. 176=12 M.L.J. 264. [Not F., 27 M. 478; F., 36 C. 130; Appr., 6 M.L.T. 121.]

Revision—continued.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases—continued.

(10)—Small Cause Court suit—Provincial Small Cause Court Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—District Court—High Court.—A Subordinate Judge holding Small Cause Courts powers decided a Small Cause Court's suit as one under his ordinary jurisdiction. On appeal, the District Judge also dealt with the suit as such the parties in both the Courts not objecting to the procedure adopted. The plaintiff applied to the High Court contending that the jurisdiction exercised by the District Judge was bad in law: Held, that the character of the suit was not altered by the mode in which the Subordinate Judge exercised his jurisdiction, and that therefore no appeal lay to the District Court. SHANKARBHAI v. SOMABHAI, 3 Bom. L.R. 129=25 B. 417.

(11)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), s. 25—Small Cause Juage not stating points for decision—High Court's pewer in revision to remand suit.—In a Small Cause suit for the recovery of the balance of purchase money due to plaintiff by defendant, the District Court delivered the following judgment—"Plaintiff fails, and the suit is dismissed, but, under the circumstances, each party will bear his own costs." On an application to the High Court under s. 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act to revise the proceedings of the District Judge, held that, as the Judge had not stated the points for decision nor his decision upon them, the decree should be set aside and the suit remanded for hearing. RAMACHANDRAIER v. MUTHUKARUPPA PILLAI, 6 M.L.J. 50.

(12)—Revision of a Small Cause decree—Difference of view among the Judges—Letters Patent, s. 15—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 375. —Where a revision petition to the High Court against a Small Cause decree comes on for hearing before a Bench, and one of the Judges is of opinion that the decree of the lower Court should be set aside and the suit remanded for disposal after evidence, and the other Judge thinks that the case is not a fit one for revision as the defence set up by the defendant has not been raised in the lower Court, the adjudication by the Bench is a judgment within the meaning of s. 15 of the Letters Patent and the case is governed by s. 575, Civ. Pro. Code. NARAYANASAMI REDDI v. OSURU REDDI, 25 M. 548. [R., 16 M.L.J. 27.]

(13)—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, IX of 1887, s. 25, application under, when entertainable—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 622 (=s. 115, new Code)—Erroneous decision as to limitation not proper ground for revision.—In this case there was an application to the High Court under s. 25 of Act IX of 1887. Held that such an application ought not to be entertained except in cases in which a similar application would be allowed under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code. The sole question for determination being whether the lower Court's judgment was right or wrong on a point of limitation: held, the application did not lie. RAGHU NATH SAHAI v. THE OFFICIAL LIQUIDATOR OF THE HIMALAYA BANK, LTD., 15 A. 139 = A.W.N. 1893, 59. (11 C. 6, Appl.) [Appl., 16 A. 39 ; R., 16 A. 476, 21 B. 250, 11 C.P.L.R. 91. 21 A. 89, 2 L B.R. 333, 4 N.L.R. 184, 6 A.L.J. 944 = 3 Ind. Cas. 817.]

Revision—continued.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases—continued.

(14)—Revision—Review—Erroneous order set aside on review—Discretion—Interference by High Court.—The revisional powers of a High Court should not be exercised to restore an erroneous order, passed by a Judge of a Small Cause Court but set aside by him on review. It is in the discretion of the Judge to deal in review with an order proceeding on a mistaken view of the law. MAUNG AUNG NUYN v. N. K. A. RAMANATHAN CHETTY, 12 Ind. Cas. 903.

(15)—Practice—Revisional jurisdiction of High Court over Presy. S. C. Court under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882 (= s. 115, new Code).—The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court over the Presy. S. C. Court, under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, is one exercised in its original side and not on the appellate side. An application for the exercise of such jurisdiction must be made in the usual way by an advocate of the Court instructed by an attorney, and not by a vakil. SARAT CHANDRA SINGH v. BROJO LAL MUKERJI, 30 C. 986.

(16)—High Court—Revision—Power to revise proceedings in the Bombay Court of Small Causes—Practice—Presidency Small Cause Courts Act (XV of 1882), s. 9—Charter Act.—The High Court in the exercise of superintending powers under its extraordinary jurisdiction will not ordinarily interfere except in cases of grave and otherwise irreparable injustice. ISMALJI v. MACLEOD, 8 Bom. L.R. 969 = 31 B. 138.

(17)—S. 6, Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882—*S.*622, Civ.Pro. Code, 1882 (= s. 115, new Code)—High Court's jurisdiction to revise orders passed without jurisdiction.—Having regard to s. 6, Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, the High Court has jurisdiction to revise, under s. 622, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, orders which are said to have been made without jurisdiction in the Presidency Small Causes Court. HALADHAR MAICTI v. CHOYTONNA MAITI, 30 C. 588 = 7 C.W.N. 547.

Power of High Court in a Small Cause suit to exonerate defendant, against whom a decree has been passed, and pass a fresh decree against another—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 22, s. 141, 17 M.L.J. 62.

Revision—concluded.

——2.—Small Cause Court Cases—concluded.

See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—N.W.P. A.W.N. 1892, 160.

See JUDGMENT—FORM AND CONTENTS, 13 A. 533 = A.W.N. 1891, 172.

See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 26, A.W.N. 1897, 138.

See SPECIAL OR SECOND APPEAL—SMALL CAUSE COURT SUITS, 12 A. 581 = A.W.N. 1890, 203.

Revival.

Appeal—Revival of abated appeal—Substitution of new appellant—See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—RESTORATION OF APPEAL, 21 C. 997, P.C. = 21 I.A. 163.

Revival of Attachment.

On reversal of sale in execution of decree—See ATTACHMENT—STRIKING OFF EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS, 2 Ind. Jur. O. S. 1 = 5 W.R.P.C. 7 = Marsh 592 = 9 M.I A. 324.

Revival of Claim.

Application for amendment of plaint—Revival of claim abandoned in excess of jurisdiction—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 1 C.W.N. 32.

Revival of Suit.

(1)—Act X of 1859, s. 58—Decree ex parte—Revival of suit—Notice to opposite party.—Under s. 58 of Act X of 1859, in all cases decided ex parte, if the party against whom judgment has been passed shall appear, either in person or by agent, if a plaintiff, within fifteen days from the date of the Collector's order, and, if a defendant, within fifteen days, after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period, and shall show good and sufficient cause for his previous non-appearance, and shall satisfy the Collector that there has been a failure of justice, the Collector may, upon such terms and conditions as to costs, or otherwise, as he may think proper, revive the suit and alter or rescind the decree according to the justice of the case; but no decree shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the adverse party to appear and be heard in support of it. HURO MOHUN MOOKERJEE v. MOHENDRONATH GHOSE, 16 W. R. 135.

Suit for partition revived, after plaintiff's death on behalf of his minor sons with permission of first Court—Appellate Court not competent to object to—See APPELLATE COURT—POWERS OF APPELLATE COURT, 5 M.H.C. 193.

Revival of suit decreed—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XVII, rr. 2 & 3, 11 C.P.L.R. 94.

See COLLECTOR, 6 W.R. Act X, Rul. 54.

Revival of Suit—concluded.

Original suit when revived—See CONSENT-DECREE, 10 Ind. Cas. 355.

Application for revival of suit—Application in pending suit—Limitation—See PARTIES TO SUIT—SUBSTITUTION OF PARTIES TO SUIT. 3 C.W.N. 756.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 5 C. 726=5 C.L.R. 569.

Revivor.

(1)—Barred claims—Change in the law of limitation, effect of.—A claim, whether for arrears of maintenance, possession of land or anything else, once barred, cannot be revived by a change in the law of limitation. KRISHNA MOHUN BOSE v. OKHILMONI DOSSEE, 3 C. 331. [Disc., 3 C.L.R. 336; Overruled. 6 C. 340=7 C.L.R. 121; R., 4 C. 665, 53 P.L.R. 1901.]

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 38, 39, 41, O. XXI, rr. 4, 5, 22 C. 921.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 28, 4 C. 708.

Application to revive a suit and restore it to the Board--Limitation—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 181, 6 C. 60=6 C.L.R. 345.

Of decree—What amounts to—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 183, 11 Ind. Cas. 216.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 183, 20 C. 551.

What constitutes—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 183, 4 Ind. Cas. 402.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 183, 30 C. 979=7 C.W.N. 793.

See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—MISCELLANEOUS, 16 C. 184=15 I.A. 209, P.C.

Revivor of Judgment.

Law as to—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MODE OF EXECUTION, 9 C.L.J. 271=36 C. 543=1 Ind. Cas. 168.

Revocation.

Of probate—See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, s. 50, 4 Bom.L.R. 637=26 B. 792, 4 Bom.L.R. 979.

Revocation of Agent's Authority.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, ss. 201, 202, 203, 2 Bom. L.R. 778=24 B. 403.

Revocation of Certificate.

See ACT XL OF 1858, s. 16, A.W.N. 1881, 44.

Revocation of License.

Revocation of license to boats—See ACT X OF 1889, 4 Bom.L.R. 773.

Reza Milkiat.

Reza milkiat, meaning of—Grove-holder—Settlement decree—Wajib-ul-arz.—Held, that the term "Reza milkiat" means a proprietary or under-proprietary title in a small plot of land. SHEO DAYAL SINGH v. SURAJ KUMAR, 11 O.C. 164.

Right of Appeal.

See APPEAL.

(1)—Absence of the defendant on the day of trial of appeal—Act X of 1859, s. 58.—Held that s. 58, Act X of 1859 does not take away the right of appeal in cases where the defendant having once appeared is absent on the day of trial. MESSRS. R. WATSON AND CO. v. PORANDHON TEHSILDAR, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 18.

(2)—Dismissal of suit—Defendant's rights.—No opinion which may have been expressed in the judgment of a Court dismissing a suit in its entirety, can affect the defendants' right in any future litigation which may arise between the parties. CHOWDHRY MOHAMED MOMIN v. LUTAFUT HOSSEIN, 13 W.R. 239.

(3)—Act VI of 1871, s. 29—Jurisdiction—Investiture with Small Cause powers—Right of appeal--Principle - Pending suits.—The investiture of a Munsiff with the powers of a Small Cause Court Judge under the provisions of s. 29 of Act VI of 1871 (the Bengal Civil Courts Act), cannot affect pending suits so as to take away any right of appeal which the parties to such suits might have had; the general rule is that, when the law is altered pending an action, the law, as it existed when the action commenced, must decide the rights of the parties in the suit, unless the legislative authority expresses a clear intention to vary the rights of the parties to each other. GHOTAE MUNDUL v. KAJROO, 16 W.R. 227.

(4)—Right of appeal—Appeal by a defendant against whom suit dismissed.—One of the members of a family sued the other members of the family for a partition. A creditor of the family got himself made a party to the suit. The original Court, while he was a party, made some decree which was considered by the creditor to have injuriously affected his claim. On appeal, the decree of the lower Court was set aside in toto in favour of the creditor-appellant and the suit of the plaintiff as against him was dismissed and the case remanded for re-trial. Against the decision, the creditor appealed. Held that the appeal should be struck off the file as having been presented by a person who was no longer a party to the suit. GOKOOL PERSHAD DISCHEET v. BROJO MONEE DEBIA, 24 W.R. 259.

(5)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 73—Appeal by intervenor—Remand—Whole case re-opened—Right of appeal—Evidence.—The plaintiffs sued to recover possession of certain lands which had been leased to him by the defendant. A third party intervened, claiming to hold these lands under a lease previously given to him by the defendant, and he was made a party to the suit under s. 73 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The case was decided in the first instance by the Munsif, but the Judge on appeal remanded it with directions to expunge the intervenor's name from the record, he not being a party interested in the suit. The order of remand re-opened the whole case. On remand, the Munsif again gave a decree in favour of the plaintiff. The Judge on appeal reversed this decision. In special appeal, it was contended that the present defendant had no right to appeal against the judgment of the Munsif, inasmuch as on the first occasion, it was not he who appealed to the Judge, but the intervenor. Held that, if the defendant was satisfied to let the intervenor only appeal against the original judgment, it would by no means follow that he was to be debarred from appealing in his own proper person. Held further that, directly the intervenor's name had been struck off on the ground that he had no interest in the case, all the evidence which he had put in ought to have been removed with him. BUCHA SINGH v. MIRZA MASHOOK ALI BEG, 15 W. R. 572.

Right of Appeal—continued.

(6)—Pro forma defendant—Right of appeal.—A person, who is formally made a defendant and against whom no judgment had been passed, has no right to appeal, even though the finding of the Court is that the land claimed by him belongs to another person. Such finding or expression of opinion carries with it no legal consequences as against him. RAM DASS LUSHKAR v. HUREEHUR MOOKERJEE, 23 W.R. 86.

(7)—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 11—"Party to a suit"—Purchaser of decree—Purchaser entitled to vendor's rights of appeal.—The contention of the judgment-debtor in this appeal was that the appellant below, who was purchaser of the decree had no right of appeal because he was not a party to the suit, within the terms of s. 11, Act XXIII of 1861. But the High Court held that the words "party to the suit" in the section include the heirs, assignees and representatives of such party. Consequently, it cannot be successfully contended that a person who has taken a decree by assignment, a transaction which is distinctly recognised and authorized by s. 208 of the Civ. Pro. Code, is not a party to the suit, and has not all the rights of appeal, and otherwise, that his vendor had. HURO LALL DOSS v. SOOJAWUT ALI, 8 W.R. 197. [Diss., 15 W.R. 283; F., 10 W R. 205; Expl., 3 C. 371=1 C.L.R. 331.]

(8)—Certificate under Act XXVII of 1860—Opposition not to grant of certificate, but to will set up—Right of appeal—Finding as to will.—An application for a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860, in respect of the estate of a deceased person, was made by his widow on the allegation that, under the provisions of a will made by her husband, she was entitled to succeed to his estate. Upon notice by Court, the brother of the deceased came in, not as a claimant of the certificate, but to oppose and impugn the allegation that his deceased brother had made a Will. The Court upon the brother's objection, framed an issue as to the making of the Will in question, and evidence was gone into very fully on the subject, and the result was that the Judge found in favour of the Will and granted a certificate in accordance with it. Against this order, the brother appealed to the High Court. Held that the appeal contemplated by s. 6 of Act XXVII of 1860 should be limited to persons who are in conflict with the original petitioner in claiming the certificate, and that therefore the appellant had no locus standi either in the Court below or in the High Court in opposing the grant of the certificate; that the certificate to that extent, and the order of the Judge to that extent, must be upheld; but that the Judge ought not to have determined that the widow was entitled to the certificate under the Will. All finding as to the making of the Will was declared to be of no effect and the determination of that question was reserved for a Civil Court in a suit to be brought by the person whose interest it was to bring it. RAM LALL MOOKERJEE v. KOMOLA KAMINEE DEBEE, 24 W.R. 92.

(9)—Heirs, Competency of, to proceed with appeal as against co-heirs—Act VIII of 1859, s. 102.—There is nothing in s. 102 of Act VIII of 1859 having the effect of precluding heirs from proceeding with an appeal as against their co-heirs. MUSSAMUT LATEEFOONISSA BIBEE v. SYED RAJAOOR RUHMAN, 8 W.R. 84.

(10)—Suit by widow and her sons jointly—Appeal by sons alone—Right of action.—Where a Hindu widow and her sons sue jointly for confirmation of title, and both the Courts below have found adversely to her title, holding that the property was acquired by the joint family, and was not separate property, her sons, who have no interest in the result of the suit, are not competent to prefer a special appeal without her. DOORGA PERSHAD MOHAPATTAUR v. RADHA MOHUN MYTEE, 15 W. R. 536.

(11)—Mortgage—Sale of equity of redemption prior to suit for foreclosure—Right of mortgagor to appeal against foreclosure decree.—Where the equity of redemption has been sold prior to the institution of a suit for foreclosure, one of the co-mortgagors cannot be permitted to prefer an appeal against the decree for foreclosure passed in the suit, inasmuch as the mortgagors had lost all interest in the property prior to the suit. KOTTALE UPPI v. KALLIYATT PANOLI KUNNI KUTTI, 1 M.H.C. 7.

(12)—Defendant disclaiming any right or interest in suit land—Right of appeal on adverse judgment not affected.—Plaintiff, respondent, contended that one of the special appellants, defendants, had no right to appeal, because, in the Court of first instance, he had disclaimed all right or interest in the land in suit. But the High Court was of opinion that, notwithstanding the disclaimer on his part, the circumstance of a judgment having been given against him in both the lower Courts with costs entitled him to keep the place among the defendants which had been given to him by the plaintiff himself, and to claim therefore to appear as an appellant. NUND COOMAR SINGH v. GUNGA PERSHAD NARAIN SINGH, 10 W.R. 94.

(13)—Act VIII of 1859, s. 246—Declaratory suit by the decree-holder—Execution of decree—

Right of Appeal—continued.

Reversal of executed decree on appeal—Restitution—Claim for wasilat—Appeal against principle of liability for wasilat, though wasilat yet to be ascertained.—A decree-holder having attached a certain tenure as the property of his judgment-debtors, objections were raised successfully under s. 246, Act VIII of 1859. Thereupon the decree-holder instituted a regular suit for a declaration that the said property belonged to his debtors, and obtained a decree in the High Court. In execution of this decree, he brought the property to sale and purchased it himself. But the decree of the High Court having been reversed by the Privy Council, the objector took out execution for costs and wasilat for the period during which the decree-holder was in wrongful possession of the property. The Court in spite of the objections of the decree-holder allowed execution to proceed and deputed an Ameen to ascertain the amount of wasilat collected. Both the objector and the decree-holder appealed, the former contending that there could be no appeal by the latter as the judges' order was not a final one. Held that, as the Judge's decision was in no sense an order prior to decree within the meaning of s. 363 of the Civ.Pro.Code, the decree-holder was fully entitled to appeal against the principle that he was liable to pay back the mesne profits collected by him, without waiting for the result of the Ameen's investigation; that, as there was not a word in the Privy Council's decree declaring the objector entitled to any mesne profits collected during the time of his wrongful dispossession, that decree could not be held to include complete restitution of everything that he would have enjoyed had the property not been sold in execution; and that the objector must bring a fresh suit for that purpose, but could not recover them in execution proceedings. GOPAL CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY v. OODOY LALL ROY, 12 W.R. 411.

(14)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 244, 331, 332—Decree on compromise—Objection by person not party to compromise.—Where a party to a suit, but not to the compromise on which it was decreed, being dispossessed in execution of the decree, objects that the decree is not binding on him, such objection must be investigated and determined under s. 244, Civ. Pro. Code, and the order rejecting such objection is appealable. SANKARAVADIVAMMAL v. KUMARASAMYA, 8 M. 473. [Diss., 6 C.W.N. 10=30 C. 134, 23 A. 346; Appr., 23 M. 361; R., 17 B. 49, 2 O. C. 51.]

(15)—Defendant against whom decree has not been specifically made, right of appeal of.—Where a Court of first instance had given a decree to the plaintiffs as second assignees of a debt, certain defendants alleged to be the prior assignees of the debt, against whom there was nothing specifically mentioned in the decree, were held entitled to appeal against it on the ground that in the result, the decree fully and necessarily implied a finding that their assignment had become void. JAMNA DAS v. UDEY RAM, 21 A. 117=A.W.N. 1898, 201. [Doubted, 57 P.R. 1907=66 P.W.R. 1907; R., 56 P.R. 1904=84 P.L.R. 1904, 9 C.W.N. 584.]

(16)—Appeal—Object.—The object of an appeal is to correct something done which has been injurious to the appellant, and the law points out what that instrument is, which must have been the cause of the injury in order to there being any appeal, and that instrument is declared to be the "decree." If, therefore, the decree of the first Court, so far from being injurious to the appellant, is actually in his favour, the decree cannot be the subject of an appeal on his part, simply because there may have been some expression in the judgment which led to the decree which may be considered prejudicial. SHAMA SOONDUREE DEBIA v. DIGAMBUREE DEBIA, 13 W.R. 1. [F., 13 W. R. 239, 6 N.W.P. 19.]

(17)—Appeal—Rights of, defendant not appealing.—Where the Court has expressly decided that the plaintiff is heir of a deceased person to the exclusion of a defendant who has not appealed, the rights of the latter cannot be asserted by the other defendants in appeal for the purposes of defeating the plaintiff's suit. BHUGOBUTTY MISRAIN v. DOMUN MISSER, 24 W.R. 365.

(18)—Kabooliut, Suit for—Appeal.—There is nothing in s. 77 of Act X of 1859, to bar a right of appeal to the Judge in a suit for kabooleut. GOLAB BEBEE v. RUHMUTOOLLAH MUJEE, 1 W.R. 33.

(19)—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, s. 102—Right to vary rent—Appeal.—An appeal is not taken away by s. 102, Act VIII of 1869, in a case where a question of right to vary the rent of the ryots has been substantially raised. SHETUL SHAIKH v. HILLS, 24 W.R. 184.

(20)—Suit dismissed for default—Non-appearance as witness—Appeal on the ground that appellant should not have been summoned—Appeals under Act X of 1859—Decisions on default—Dismissal after evidence put in—Default of plaintiff—Admission by defendant—Procedure.—Where a case is decided against a party for his non-appearance as a witness, the right of appeal is not lost to such party. Where, in a suit dismissed for default of appearance, the plaintiff appeals, not to show that he was absent and could not attend, but to show that he should not have been summoned at all to appear personally, the appeal would lie. The prohibition to hear appeals against decisions on default appears to apply only to cases of dismissal made before issues are fixed, and not to orders passed after evidence has been put in on both sides. When a defendant admits liability and the plaintiff commits default, the entire claim of the plaintiff cannot be dismissed but the case should be decided according to the admission of the defendant. LAKRAJ ROY v. W. BUCKLAND, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 65.

(21)—Jurisdiction—Right of appeal from decree so far only as it relates to costs.—A Court could in regular appeal review the exercise of the discretion of the lower Court as to the award of costs, but, in special appeal, the Chief Court could not interfere unless the order made as to costs was contrary to law PREMA v. GOBIND LAL, 23 P R. 1880. (6 W.R.F.B., 187, F.; 1 C. 385, 4 B.H.C.A.C. 41, R.)

Right of Appeal—concluded.

(22)—Civ. Pro. Code (1877), ss. 230, 244, 540, 588—Act XII of 1879, s. 2—'Decree'—Appeal.—The question "whether a decree-holder had used due diligence in the execution of his decree within the meaning of s. 230, Civ. Pro. Code., 1877," was one relating to the execution of the decree, and was therefore one of the questions mentioned or referred to in s. 244, Civ. Pro. Code, and the order determining it, not being one of those specified in s. 588, Civ. Pro. Code, came within the definition of a "decree" given in s. 2 of the Code as amended by Act XII of 1879 and was appealable under s. 540, Civ. Pro. Code. BALMOKAND v. MUERJOO, 45 P.R. 1880.

(23)—Decree for part of claim — Decreed amount, acceptance of, by decree-holder—Appeal for part disallowed, if maintainable.—The mere fact that a decree-holder, without executing his decree, has accepted from the judgment-debtor the amount under the decree which allowed him only a part of his claim, does not debar him from appealing for the remainder of his claim. MUHAMMAD HASSAN v. GHOUS BAKSH, 49 P.R. 1880. (82 P.R. 1868, D.) [R., 31 P.R. 1907, F.B.=1 P.L.R. 1908.]

(24)—Act X of 1877, s. 540—Ex parte decree, appeal against, whether maintainable.— As there is no express provision precluding an appeal from an ex parte decree under the Civ. Pro. Code, Act X of 1877, an appeal lies from such a decree under the general provision of s. 540. MUSSAMUT SAHIB DAI v. JAGA SINGH, 105 P.R. 1880. [F., 60 P.R. 1883.]

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ART. 182—JOINT DECREES, 6 W.R. Mis. 18.

See PLAINT—CONSTRUCTION OF PLAINT, 21 W.R. 59.

See RES JUDICATA — RES JUDICATA IN EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS, 5 W.R. Mis. 14.

Appeal against appellate decree by a party who did not appeal against Original decree—See SUPERINTENDENCE OF HIGH COURT, 8 M. 192.

See SURETY — ENFORCEMENT OF SECURITY, 12 B. 71.

Right of Occupancy.

1.—GENERAL.
2.—ACQUISITION OF RIGHT.
3.—LOSS OF RIGHT.
4.—TRANSFER OF RIGHT.
5.—MISCELLANEOUS.

See EJECTMENT, SUIT FOR.
See ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.
See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.——General.

(1)—"Right of occupancy," Meaning of.—A right of occupancy means nothing but the right to live on and cultivate land as one's own. Petheram, C.J., ABADI HUSAIN v. JURAWAN LAL, 7 A. 866, F.B.

(2)—Occupancy right—Definition. — Occupancy right is a right established by a tenant against his superior holder to hold his land in perpetuity conditionally on the payment of the rent from time to time lawfully due by him to the superior holder. RAGHUNATHRAV v. VASUDEV, 1 Bom. L.R. 436=23 B. 769.

(3)—Occupancy tenure, Nature of—N.W.P. Rent Act (XII of 1881), s. 9.—Occupancy tenure itself is the creation of Statute, and as such governed and regulated by the restrictions which the statutory law itself creating the tenure has imposed upon such rights. Those restrictions are contained in s. 9 of the Rent Act of which the last paragraph, whilst laying down that such tenures are to devolve as if they were land, subjects such devolution to the restriction of rendering it available only to lineal descendants of the original occupancy tenant, and, in the case of collateral relatives, to those who take part in the cultivation of the land to which such occupancy right related. DAYA RAM v. UDAI SINGH, A.W.N. 1887, 298.

(4)—"Right of occupancy" and "right to occupy," distinction between.—A right of occupancy must not be confounded with a right to occupy. Those two rights may co-exist in the same person, as when an occupancy-tenant himself or by his servants, cultivates his occupancy-holding. Or, those two rights may be vested in two different persons, the right of occupancy being vested in the occupancy-tenant, and the right to occupy being vested in his tenant during the currency of the latter's tenancy. In the latter case, the position is similar in some respects to the position of a proprietor who lets his land to a tenant, the proprietary right remaining vested in the landlord and the right to occupy the land vesting in the tenant. KHIALI RAM v. NATHU LAL, 15 A. 219, F.B.=A.W.N. 1893, 125. [R., 29 A. 129=A.W.N. 1906, 300=3 A.L.J. 731.]

(5)—Right of occupancy at fixed rates—"Ancestral property"—Act XII of 1881 (N.W.P. Rent), s. 9.—A right of occupancy at fixed rates is "property" within the meaning of s. 9 of the Rent Act; and under Hindu law, the sons take a vested interest in it by birth. MAHABIR PRASAD v. BASDEO SINGH, 6 A. 234=A.W.N. 1884, 47.

(6)—Suit for proprietary rights—Proof as to occupancy rights—Duty and procedure of Court.—If, in an action for proprietary right, the evidence tendered only establishes the plaintiff's right not to ownership but his right to occupancy tenure, the Court should go into that question and decide it, as the claim to proprietary title is one to a permanent title or status of some kind in the land and covers a claim to occupancy rights. NIHAL v. HUSHIARA, 4 P.R. 1882, Rev.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(7)—Occupancy right in Assam—Pykes—Their rights and privileges.—Held that the defendant in the suit—a pyke—was not liable to ejectment; the rights and privileges of such tenants explained and discussed. DINABUNDHU SURMA v. BODIA KOCH, 15 C. 100.

(8)—Luthbundi—What is—Right of occupancy.—The tenure luthbundi had been created by custom in order to induce men to spend their capital in bringing waste land under cultivation which the proprietor could not effect either from want of capital or energy, and the man who supplied the means and had in fact given his money and brought labourers for that purpose was the man entitled to be considered luthbundi. It was immaterial whether he personally used the instrument necessary for the work and carried the mud and stones for the luths or small embankments for the storage of water. Held luthbundi had rights of occupancy in the land which he had reclaimed from waste. MOOSA KHAN v. MAHOMED NOWRUNG KHAN, 24 P.R. 1871. [F., 40 P.R. 1901=93 P.L.R. 1901; R., 6 P.R. 1900.]

(9)—Occupancy tenant—Lease—Right of lessee to hold possession—Absconding of occupancy tenant—Right of Occupancy—Abandonment.—A tenant having a right of occupancy can create a lease and the lessee from him is entitled to hold the land under the terms of the lease. If the zemindar, who is entitled to receive the rents of the land from the ryots having the right of occupancy do eject their lessees, the latter are entitled to recover possession under the terms of their lease, the zemindar being entitled to nothing but the amount of rent which the ryots who hold from him immediately have agreed to pay. [Appr., 15 A. 219=A.W.N. 1893, 125.] Even if the zemindar thinks that the ryot has absconded, that would not give him a right to take possession of the land without the intervention of the law. The mere fact of a man taking his house from one village and going to another is no proof of his having absconded and given up the land, nor would such an act on his part entitle the zemindar to treat the land as if deserted, and allow him to enter into possession of it. JAMIR GAZI v. GONEYE MUNDUL, 13 B.L.R. 278, Note=12 W.R. 110.

(10)—Occupancy-tenant—Proprietor—Right to cut trees.—The plaintiff, a tenant with rights of occupancy, sued for the value of the trees and grass cut and taken away by the defendants, proprietors. The proprietors had on several occasions attempted to exercise their asserted rights, but the result of the litigation that ensued had invariably been favourable to the plaintiff. In the wajib-ul-arz of the village where the land in suit was situated it was recorded that a tenant with rights of occupancy might cut down trees with the consent of the landlord for specified purposes. But there was no mention of the rights of proprietors. Held, that in respect of this suit, the proprietors had not the right, without plaintiff's consent, to enter upon the land occupied by him and take therefrom trees and grass growing on it. Quære:—Whether proprietors, when there is an entry in the wajib-ul-arz limiting the right of cultivators as to felling trees growing on the land they occupy, have as owners, the right to cut trees without the consent of the cultivators? KALIAN DAS v. BUTA, 61 P.R. 1873. [F., 61 P.R. 1881, 9 P.R. 1904, Rev.=45 P.L.R. 1905, 52 P.R. 1906=102 P.L.R. 1906.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(11)—Occupancy rights in land re-appearing after submersion—Relinquishment—Estoppel.—In the absence of a custom to the contrary, a hereditary cultivator of land which is swept away, by, or submerged in, a river, does not lose his rights of occupancy therein, if it re-appears on the same site. And where the tenant is not estopped, he has a legal right to bring a suit to recover the land, if he has lost it involuntarily, within 12 years from his cause of action. A portion of lands held by a hereditary tenant was submerged for about 2 years, and then re-appeared in the same site. The tenant thinking that his rights were lost by submersion, remained quite, while the proprietors entered into possession and arranged for its cultivation by tenants-at-will. The portion that was not submerged became the banjar and pasture ground of the village, but the tenant continued to pay revenue thereon, while the revenue on the submerged portion was paid by the proprietors both during the period of submersion and afterwards. In a suit for the land recovered from the river, brought by the tenant about 8 years after the proprietors took possession of it: held that the fact that the tenant allowed the proprietors to take possession of the land on its re-appearance, without any objection, and had not even made a demand for it for a period of about 8 years, did not amount to a voluntary relinquishment of his claim, inasmuch as the tenant had all along been under the impression that all his rights were gone for ever on the land being submerged. Held also that the circumstances of the case did dot estop the tenant from asserting his claim, and that he was entitled to recover the land. SULTAN KHAN MALIK KHAN AND MAHOMED KHAN v. SYAD MAHOMED SHAH, 59 P.R. 1877. [F., 127 P.R. 1879, 8 P.R. 1901, Rev.=54 P.L.R. 1901, 97 P.R. 1902=121 P.L.R. 1902; Appl., 1 P.R. 1880; Appr., 96 P.R. 1879.]

(12)—Occupancy rights, loss of, on submersion of land—Custom.—According to the custom of Mouza Kachwala, Tahsil and Zilla Shahpur, the rights of a hereditary cultivator are lost by diluvion of the land and are not revived on subsequent re-appearance of the land. MIAN MAHOMED SHARAF v. KHODA BUKSH, 89 P. R. 1877. [R., 152 P.R. 1883.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(13)—Landlord and tenant—Settlement—Forced compromise in respect of occupancy right, whether valid.—Where a tenant who has been influenced by the strong opinion held by the Settlement Officer that occupancy rights should be much restricted, enters into a compromise or agreement with the owners, protesting against it all along and never really accepting it, such agreement cannot be considered sufficient to extinguish his right of occupancy. KRIPA SINGH v. KHAN SINGH, 67 P. R. 1880. (13 P.R. 1874. F.; 77 P. R. 1877, D.)

(14)—Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901), s. 32—Division of occupancy holding—Suit for declaration of right—Suit maintainable.—A suit for a declaration of right to a share in an occupancy holding is maintainable. A declaration as to his rights obtained by one co-sharer against the other co-sharers does not and cannot effect any division of the holding or distribution of the rent thereof. NAJIB ULLAH v. GULSHER KHAN, 6 A.L.J. 343, F.B.=31 A. 348=1 Ind. Cas. 594. (30 A. 90, F.; 29 A. 66, Overruled.) [R., 7 A.L.J. 918.]

(15)—Landlord and tenant—Relinquishment of land by permanent occupancy tenant—Grant of same by zemindar to another such tenant—Inclusion of land granted in tenant's patta—Nature of grant made.—Where a permanent occupancy tenant relinquished the land held by him and the zemindar granted it to another such tenant and caused entry of the land to be made in the same patta as the lands from time immemorial in the enjoyment of such tenant, in the absence of proof to the contrary, the presumption was that such tenant held the land so granted as a permanent occupancy tenant. SRI RAJAH VENKATA NARASIMHA APPA ROW BAHADOOR v. NOOTULAPATE PARVATULU, 13 M.L.J. 81.

(16)—Occupancy holding, if devisable—Raiyati holding, if severable from occupancy right—Non-occupancy holding if heritable and transferable—Conflict of authorities—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), ss. 21, 22, 178 (3) 183, illustrations.—The state of the authorities on the question whether a non-occupancy holding is heritable or not is not satisfactory. The Full Bench in 34 C. 516 leaves the question undecided (24 C. 207, R.). Quære:—Whether an occupancy right may be severed from the tenancy right or whether in no circumstances is such a separation possible except to the extent and in the manner indicated in s. 22 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. UDAY CHANDRA DAS BAIRAGI v. HARI DAS BAIRAGI, 13 C.W.N. 937=3 Ind. Cas. 417=10 C.L J. 608. (4 C.W.N. 569, Doubted.)

(17)—Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Court—Suit by occupancy tenants to recover their holding from the possession of their landlords—Their getting share of the missing brother—Revision—Pleader's fee not to be allowed when new rules are not complied with.—Held, that a suit by occupancy tenants to recover their holding from the possession of their landlords, who are in reality cultivating the land as tenants at will on behalf of the occupancy tenants but are denying the existence of their occupancy rights, is entertainable by a Civil and not a Revenue Court. Held, also, that on the Revision side the Chief Court is not justified in interfering with a decision of the Courts below unless it is substantially an unjust one; so the lower Court's order allowing the claimants the share of their missing brother, although not civilly dead, is not to be interfered with on revision. Held, further, that pleader's fee cannot be allowed where the Rules contained in the correction slip No. 225, page 340, Punjab Chief Court Rules and Orders, Vol. I, have not been complied with. AMIR DIN v. MEGHA, 17 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 744.

(18)—Notice of ejectment—Suit to contest—Claim of tenant to status of proprietor—Competency of Court to decide on questions both of ownership and occupancy rights.—Plaintiff, on service of notice of ejectment, filed the present suit claiming entry of his name in the proprietor's column and also praying that his cultivating possession may not be disturbed. Held that, as the present case had arisen on notice of ejectment, and the plaintiff had sued to contest it, asking also in his plaint that his cultivating possession should be maintained, there was no reason why his claim should not be treated as a claim both for ownership and occupancy rights. SRI RAM v. RAMBHAJ, 105 P.R. 1884. (55 P.R. 1868, 90 P.R. 1882, R.)

(19)—Resident son-in-law—Hereditary tenancy—Succession—Tenancy Act—Custom.—Found that no custom was in force in the village of Dodha, before the introduction of the Tenancy Act, whereby a resident son-in-law was entitled to succeed to the occupancy rights of his father-in-law. BISHEN SINGH v. GULABA, 44 P.R. 1885. (47 P.R. 1877, 64 P. R. 1877, 34 P.R. 1883, F.B., R.)

(20)—Sister of a deceased occupancy tenant subject to Muhammadan Law, whether entitled to a share in the estate of the deceased—Punjab Tenancy Act, s. 59.—On the death of one N, his sister M, sued his widow and another for a third share in her brother's estate as due to her in accordance with the principles of Muhammadan Law. Part of the estate comprised occupancy rights in certain gardens. As regards this, the first Court dismissed the plaintiff's claim holding that the deceased having been an occupancy tenant in the gardens, the succession to his rights therein must be governed by s. 59 of Act XVI of 1887 and not by custom or Muhammadan Law, and that under that section in the absence of male lineal descendants, the widow alone was entitled to succeed. On appeal plaintiff contended that she was entitled to a third share in the trees on the land even though she could claim no right to a share in the occupancy rights in the lands themselves and her contention was upheld by the Divisional Judge on the ground that the said s. 59 of the Tenancy Act related only to the succession to a right of occupancy in land, while the trees were governed by the ordinary rule of inheritance applicable to the parties. (15 P.R. 1892, F.B., 46 P.R. 1893, D.) On second appeal held, the rights in land of an occupancy tenant extend as well to the trees on the land, the rights to such trees being inseparable from the rights possessed by the tenant in respect of the land itself and therefore under s. 59 of the said Act the deceased's widow was alone entitled, to succeed not only to the land but also to the trees growing thereon. MALI MUHAMMAD v. MARIAM BI, 52 P.R. 1906=102 P.L.R. 1906. (61 P.R. 1873, 4 P.R. 1875, 9 P.R. 1904, Rev., R.)

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(21)—Succession to—Presumption from long possession.—In a case of succession to occupancy rights by the collaterals of the last tenant. held that, where the father of the deceased tenant, who was entered in the annual papers as a hereditary cultivator, is shown to have been in possession of the holding for 50 years, it may be presumed that it descended to the father from the grandfather. SIPADAR KHAN v. KADHERU, 101 P.R. 1908=166 P W.R. 1908 =11 P.L.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 691.

(22)—Succession to—Co-mortgagees with distinct specified shares under one deed acquiring occupancy rights on motgagor's failing to redeem within a certain time—Difference between a joint tenant and tenant in common—Right of survivorship — Jus-accrescendi.— By a deed dated 12th March, 1862, land was mortgaged to K. N. and K. S. in specified shares, each mortgagee exercising a third share in the entire property. It provided that, failing redemption within two years, mortgagees will acquire occupancy rights in the land. K died in 1867 and his interest passed to his three sons S, S and H. In the redemption suit of 1878, it was decided that the mortgagees had acquired occupancy rights, and that the mortgagors were entitled to merely redeem the mortgage qua their proprietary rights in the land. N also died about this time, and his sons succeeded to his share. In 1885, the holding was entered in the Revenue papers as joint between the mortgagees. On the death of K. S. in 1905, his brother H. and the descendants of S. and S. sued to succeed to the holding of K. S. Held, that the suit fails, as, under the above circumstances, the tenancy was not joint, but held in common, and though, in the case of a joint tenancy, on the death of one of the joint tenants, his interest does not pass to the landlord, this principle is not applicable in the case of the death of one of the several tenants in common, so as to entitle the other tenants to succeed to his interest by right of survivorship as by jus accrescendi. Difference between a tenant in common and joint tenant explained. Obiter.—The word "occupied" in s. 59 of the

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

—1.—General —continued.

Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), means "actually occupied" and does not include an occupation, which is merely such by implication of law. KHAN SINGH v. HARDIT SINGH, 46 P.W.R. 1907=100 P.R. 1908. (209 P. R. 1894, F.; 2 P.R. 1867, 57 P.R. 1868, 36 P.R. 1870, 159 P.R. 1879, 4 P.R. 1880, 180 P R. 1882, 9 P.R. 1891, Rev., 6 P.R. 1892, R. & D.)

(23)—Kabzadarj without right of transfer—Decree of Settlement Court—Mortgage of occupancy holding—Transfer in breach of terms of decree, validity of—Transfer of Property Act, s. 6—Contract Act, s. 23.—Where the plaintiff, who held certain lands under a decree of the Settlement Court granting "Kabzadarj" without the right of transfer, mortgaged them with possession to the defendant, and subsequently brought a suit to recover possession thereof on the ground that the mortgage being of an occupancy holding was invalid, held, that the mortgage in breach of the conditions of the settlement decree was not a transfer "for an illegal purpose" within the meaning of s. 6 of the Transfer of Property Act, or "for an unlawful object or consideration" within the meaning of s. 23 of the Contract Act. Held further, that the condition forbidding transfer contained in the settlement decree was only for the benefit of the superior proprietor, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to the assistance of the Court in undoing his own act. HIRDAY BEHARI v. PARAG TIWARI, 14 O.C. 144. (7 A. 878, 24 M. 401, D.; 24 B. 62, 26 M. 156, R.; 2 O C. 252, F.)

(24)—Occupancy-holding—Mortgage — Mortgagee sub-letting holding to the mortgagor—Rent, Recovery of.—Where an occupancy tenant, after usufructuarily mortgaging his holding, is put in as a sub-tenant, no rent can be recovered from him. MUSAMMAT MOHAN DEVI v. JAHANGIR MAL, 9 Ind. Cas. 605. (29 A. 327, A.W.N. 1907, 76, 4 A.L.J. 306, Appl.)

(25)—Occupancy-tenant—Mortgage of tenancy by tenant—Relinquishment of tenancy during subsistence of mortgage — Finding — Second appeal—Findings of fact—Practice—Mutation —Evidence of possession.—An occupancy tenant, who has mortgaged his holding, cannot relinquish it during the subsistence of the mortgage and thereby derogate from his own grant. The mortgagee is entitled to remain in possession until the mortgage is redeemed or the tenancy is legally determined. In second appeal the High Court is bound to accept a finding of fact and cannot arrive at a contrary finding. An order as to mutation of names in favour of certain persons is not sufficient evidence of the actual period of possession by such persons. AMIR ALI v. KARAM ALI, 9 Ind. Cas. 456.

(26)—Landlord and tenant—Relinquishment by tenant—Occupancy holding mortgaged with possession.—An occupancy tenant, after mortgaging his holding with possession, has no power to relinquish it in favour of the zemindar. CHHOTE LAL v. SHEOPAL SINGH, 8 A.L.J. 117 = 9 Ind. Cas. 217. (27 A. 82, F.)

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

(27)—Occupancy-holding—Non-transferability, question of, if may be raised by assignee of holding pending mortgage suit—Consent of landlord obtained subsequently to filing written statement—Civ. Pro. Code, (Act V of 1908), O. 5, r. 8.—A purchaser of an occupancy-holding from the raiyat, after a decree for sale has been passed in favour of a mortgagee of the holding but before sale thereof, is bound by the sale, both because a mortgagor and consequently an assignee from him cannot be allowed to deny the mortgagee's title and also by reason of the operation of the rule of lis pendens. The rule of lis pendens is applicable to proceedings to realise the mortgage after the decree for sale. The purchaser cannot be allowed to raise the question of non-transferability of the holding, when in his written statement he stated that his purchase had not been recognised by the landlord, by showing that such recognition on the part of the landlord has been subsequently obtained. An occupancy raiyat is estopped from setting up, as between himself and a mortgagee of the holding the invalidity of the mortgage. SHYAMA CHARAN BHATTACHARYA v. MOKHUDA SUNDARI DEBI, 15 C.W.N. 703.

(28)—Landlord and tenant—Non-transferable occupancy-holding—Mortgage of holding—Subsequent sale of holding in execution of rent-decree obtained by co-sharer landlord—Subsequent private sale—Title—Right of auction-purchaser to dispute transferability of holding.—A non-transferable occupancy-holding was mortgaged to plaintiff. Defendant No. 1, a co-sharer landlord, subsequently purchased, in execution of a money decree for rent, the interest of some only of the tenants. After that, the tenants sold the holding to the plaintiff, the mortgagee. The plaintiff sued to recover possession. Held, that the defendant No. 1, purchased only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtors whose representative he was, and that he could not raise the question of the transferability of the holding which could not have been raised by the tenants. KAILASH CHANDRA v. AKHOY NARAIN SOW, 10 Ind. Cas. 530.

(29)—Occupancy-holding—Mortgage—Possession delivered to mortgagee—Suit by mortgagor to get back possession without payment of money received from the mortgagee—Whether maintainable—Void contract—Refund of consideration.—A usufructuarily mortgaged his occupancy holding to B. and delivered possession. The mortgage of the holding was void in law. The mortgagor sued for recovery of possession without offering to re-pay the mortgage-money: Held, that he could not recover possession of the property without refunding to his mortgagee the money he had taken as the consideration of the mortgage. RAM NIHORA RAI v. MANBODH UPADHEYA, 10 Ind. Cas. 248. (A.W.N. 1888, 128, F.; 19 A. 35, D.)

(30)—Occupancy holding, non-transferable—Usufructuary mortgage by tenant—Tenant remaining on land as sub-lessee of portion of holding and paying rent—Abandonment—Ejectment.—The execution by a tenant of a mortgage of his non-transferable occupancy holding does not by itself amount to an abandonment of the holding, because it is only on the assumption that the tenancy continues in operation that the mortgagee can have any subsisting interest in the land. Where an occupancy raiyat executed a usufructuary mortgage of his holding, but continued to pay rent to the landlord and remained in possession of a portion of the holding as a sub-tenant under the mortgagor: Held—that the landlord was not entitled to treat the raiyat as a trespasser and sue him in ejectment. CHOWDHURY MOHADEO PERSHAD v. SHEIKH PACHKARI, 16 C.W.N. 322. (10 C.W.N. 499, 10 C.W.N. 719, 4 C.L.J. 306, R.)

(31)—Occupancy-holding—Mortgage—Subsequent sale of portion of holding with landlord's consent—Suit on mortgage—Purchaser if may question validity of mortgage—Estoppel—Evidence Act, s. 115.—A raiyat mortgaged his occupancy holding to A; subsequently a portion of the holding was, with the landlord's consent, purchased by B, who, later on took a fresh settlement from the landlord at an enhanced rent: Held (Chitty and Chatterjee, JJ., Coxe, J., contra)—That, in a suit by the mortgagee, B was estopped from questioning the validity of the mortgage. RADHA KANT CHUCKERBUTTY v. RAMANANDA SHAHA, 16 C.W.N. 475. (12 C.W.N. 720, D.; 14 C.W.N. 779, R.)

(32)—Landlord and tenant—Non-transferable occupancy-holding—Sale in execution—Decree for share of rent by co-sharer landlord—Sale whether irregular or null—Legality of transaction—Law as understood when transaction took place.—A non-transferable occupancy-holding cannot be sold at the instance of a landlord who has obtained a decree for rent for his share only. (24 C. 355, 1 C.W.N. 396, 26 C. 937, 3 C.W.N. 742, R.) But if a sale in execution of a decree by one of several joint landlords for his share of the rent takes place in fact, it is not necessarily a nullity but is merely irregular, and till the sale has been successfully impeached by appropriate proceedings in execution, it must be treated as a valid sale and cannot be set aside by a separate suit. KHODA BAKSH v. SADER PRAMANIK, 10 Ind. Cas. 417. (26 C. 727, 3 C.W.N. 586, 9 C.W.N. 972, 35 C. 61, 11 C.W.N. 1011, 6 C.L.J. 320, R.)

(33)—Tank used for rearing of fish—Tank not appurtenant to land—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—Where a tank appears to be used only for the preservation and rearing of fish, and it does not appear to have formed part of any grant of land or that it can in any way be considered as appurtenant to any land, the provisions of Act X of 1859 with respect to acquiring a right of occupancy do not apply to such tank. SIBU JELYA v. GOPAL CHANDRA CHOWDHRY, 13 B.L.R. 423, Note = 19 W.R. 200. [R., 21 W.R. 386 = 13 B.L.R. 416, 8 C.W.N. 804 = 31 C. 937.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(34)—Enhancement of rent—Grounds must be specific.—The grounds of the notice of enhancement must be specific so as to show exactly what the grounds are, on which the plaintiff seeks enhancement. KALI CHANDRA CHOWDHRY v. RATAN GOPAL BHADURI, 4 B.L.R. App. 62, Note = 11 W.R. 571. (9 W.R. 200, F.; 5 W.R. Act X, 10, 6 W.R. Act X, 87, R.) [Appr., 4 B.L.R. App. 61 = 21 W. R. 442, Note.]

(35)—Suit for enhancement of rent—Defendant with occupancy rights under s. 6 of the Tenancy Act—Plea of holding such rights under s. 5, cl. 1—Presumption of holding in succession from long occupation.—In this suit for enhancement of rent, the first Court omitted to make any enquiry whether the defendant's claim to an occupancy status under cl. 1, s. 5 of Act XXVIII of 1868 was well-founded or not, and proceeded only on its finding that he was recorded at the Settlement as holding occupancy rights under s. 6. On appeal to the Deputy Commissioner, the defendant urged that he was entitled to occupancy rights under s. 5, but as he could not say when his grandfather died, it having been long before his memory, though he was fifty years of age, the Deputy Commissioner held that though he and his father appeared to have held rights of occupancy, paying only the land revenue and cesses, the nature of his grandfather's tenure could not be ascertained, and, as the plaintiffs denied that the defendant's grandfather had possession of the land, the Deputy Commissioner considered that the claim to right of occupancy under s. 5, cl. 1 of the Tenancy Act must fail. Held that the Deputy Commissioner had not properly disposed of the appeal to his Court. If the defendant's father were recorded as occupancy tenant in 1842, there being no evidence forthcoming from which it might be concluded that he was the first tenant, there may be a presumption that he succeeded his father in the holding, and that his father, unless the contrary can be shewn, held the land on similar terms; and, if again it was inferable from the evidence that the defendant's ancestor settled with the founders of the village, he might be entitled to a right of occupancy under another clause of s. 5. PALTU v. MUHAMMAD HUSAIN, 62 P.R. 1882. [R., 90 P.R. 1883, 154 P.R. 1883, 56 P.R. 1906 = 101 P.L.R. 1906; Appr., 101 P.R. 1908 = 11 P.L.R. 1909 = 4 Ind. Cas. 691.]

(36)—Tenant by right of occupancy, death of—Possession by tenant's brother-in-law—Acquiescence by landlord—Recognition of association with deceased tenant.—A certain person, the brother-in-law of a tenant with a right of occupancy, was permitted by the landlord to occupy a land, house and grove for nine years subsequent to the death of such tenant. Held in a suit by the landlord to eject such person, that the acquiescence by the former in the latter's occupation of house and land and especially of the garden, must be regarded as a recognition of his having been associated with the deceased tenant. CHATOOR SINGH v. MUSSUMAT HEERA KOOER, 5 N.W.P. 191.

(37)—Patta—Tenant under pattadar—Presumption of occupancy right.—There is no statutory-rule that a ryot holding under a pattadar is a tenant from year to year. The grant of a patta by the Government could not have the effect of destroying the occupancy rights that may exist at the time of the grant. The use of the word "Porakudi" would not in itself denote the absence of occupancy right. With whomsoever the settlement may have been made by the Government, it had no intention whatever to affect the existing right of any class of persons. The bare fact that a man is the pattadar of the land is not sufficient to raise the presumption that the cultivators of the patta lands either originally are tenants from year to year under the mirasidar or subsequently agreed to hold as such. VENKATACHALA GOUNDEN v. RUNGARATNAM AIYAR, M.W.N. 1913, 434 = 13 M.L.T. 450 = 24 M.L.J. 571.

(38)—Joint tenancy— Succession to share of deceased tenant in occupancy tenure—Survivorship.—On the death of a joint tenant, his share of the occupancy tenure passes by survivorship to the surviving joint tenant. The mere circumstance that the name of the widow of the deceased tenant may have been associated with that of the surviving joint tenant when mutation was effected on his death, could not by itself enable the proprietor to come in and claim a resumption of the share of the deceased joint tenant. IMAM DIN v. MUSSAMMAT MAHABO, 180 P.R. 1882. (57 P.R. 1868, 36 P.R. 1870, 4 P.R. 1880, R.) [R., 145 P.R. 1890, 109 P.R. 1894, 6 P.R. 1902, Rev. = 11 P.L.R. 1903, 100 P.R. 1908; F. 9 P.R. 1891, Rev.]

(39)—Joint occupancy holding—Right of survivorship.—The rule of survivorship applies to two widows who were joint tenants of an undivided holding, and the survivor can claim occupancy rights in the whole. MAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT ZEHRO, 9 P. R. 1891, Rev. (36 P. R. 1870, 4 P. R. 1880, 180 P. R. 1882, F.) [R., 100 P. R. 1908, 6 P. R. 1902, Rev. = 11 P. L. R. 1903, 109 P. R. 1894, F.B.]

See ABATEMENT OF RENT, Marsh 325.

Occupier of a factory—See ACT XV OF 1881, s. 14, 10 Bom. L. R. 38.

See BEN. ACT X OF 1859, s. 6, 31 C. 1921 = 8 C.W.N. 860 = 31 I. A. 17, P.C.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Right of Occupancy, abandonment of—See BEN. ACT X OF 1859, s. 6, 3 B. L. R. App. 123.

See BEN. ACT X OF 1859, ss. 6 and 7, 18 C. 349 = 18 I. A. 27.

Ejectment from homestead land — Raiyat with right of occupancy in agricultural land in the village in which he has homestead land —Right of settled raiyat—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 21, 178, 182, 13 C.L.J. 255.

Purchase of — by co-sharer-landlord, effect of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 22, 9 C.W. N. 249, F.B. =1 C.L.J. 1= 32 C. 386.

Transfer of—Transferable by custom—Transferee, Right of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 73, 24 C. 642.

Raiyat holding at fixed rates if acquires occupancy right—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 160, 13 C.W.N. 1025=2 Ind. Cas. 675=11 C.L.J. 98.

Applicability to suits pending when Ben. Act VIII of 1885 came into force—Agreement restricting—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 178, 14 C. 621.

Person entering into possession by permission of tenant—Subsequently claiming title in himself and obtaining recognition from landlord—Adverse possession—Limitation—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, sch. III, art. 3, 10 C.L.J. 89= 3 Ind. Cas. 398.

Occupancy, forefeiture of—See BOM. ACT V OF 1879, s. 56, 1 Bom. L.R. 505, 24 B. 34.

Meaning of—See BOM. ACT I OF 1880, s. 5, 1 Bom. L.R. 436=23 B. 769.

Law governing succession to occupancy holding — See C. P. ACT XI OF 1898, s. 46, 3 N.L.R. 112.

See MAD. ACT VIII OF 1865, s. 12, 16 M. 271.

Pendency of suit in ejectment or appeal at the time of the coming into force of Act I of 1908—Liability of tenant to be ejected—See MAD. ACT I OF 1908, s. 6, 9 Ind. Cas. 160=9 M.L.T. 340.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 5 (3), 94 P.R. 1880.

Alienation of occupancy rights— Right of collaterals of alienor—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, ss. 53, 59, 60, 9 Ind. Cas. 292=52 P.L.R. 1911.

Sale of occupancy land by widow—Void—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 59 (3), 9 Ind. Cas. 339=54 P.L.R. 1911.

See U.P. ACT XVIII OF 1873, ss. 7, 9, 2 A. 735.

—in land sold in execution of decree, mortgage of— See U.P. ACT XVIII OF 1876, s. 25, 7 O.C. 312.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Sale of occupancy right in execution of decree —See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 2, 9, 4 A. 371, F.B.=A.W.N. 1882, 41.

Occupancy tenant and ex-proprietary tenant not same—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 7, 20 A. 219, F.B.=A.W.N. 1898, 47.

Sale of occupancy right in 1888—Sale questioned in 1908—Cause of action—Forum—Limitation—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, 8 A.L.J. 458.

Occupancy tenancy sold as fixed rate tenancy —Effect—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, 8 A.L.J. 404.

Mortgage of—Death of tenant without heir—Lapse of tenancy to Zamindar—Effect on mortgagee—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, 9 Ind. Cas. 51.

Usufructuary mortgage of occupancy holding —Subsequent relinquishment — Effect upon mortgage—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, 8 A.L.J. 695.

Occupancy tenant—mortgage of holding—Suit for ejectment—Cancellation of mortgage before suit—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 9, 93 (b), 149, 7 A. 691=A.W.N. 1885, 205.

Transfer of—Perpetual lease by occupancy tenant—See U.P. ACT XXII OF 1886, s. 5, 2 O C. 292.

Mortgage of occupancy holding—Suit by mortgagor to recover possession—Illegal contract—Restitution of benefit—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, s. 21, 8 A.L.J. 931.

Occupancy holding—Mahomedan widow succeeding to her husband—Relinquishment by widow to the prejudice of the reversioner—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, ss 22, 82, 9 Ind. Cas. 894.

Lease of—Under the N.W.P. Tenancy Act—A sub-lease of occupancy holding for more than five years is not void but voidable—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, ss. 25 and 31, A.W.N. 1905, 53 =2 A.L.J. 156.

Effect of temporary absence of tenant on—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, s. 41, 1 Ind. Cas. 70.

See BURDEN OF PROOF—LANDLORD AND TENANT, 15 M. 95.

Portion of land, in which defendant claimed right of occupancy—Onus—See BURDEN OF PROOF—LANDLORD AND TENANT, 18 C. 349, P. C.=18 I.A. 27.

Transferee of holding, if may apply to set aside execution sale, when holding is not transferable—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, r. 90, 13 C.W.N. 652=3 Ind. Cas. 461.

Occupancy tenant—Mortgage of dwelling-house—Decree for sale of such house unlawful—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 60, 8 A.L.J. 190 =33 A. 136.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——1.—General—concluded.

Suit for possession of—Court Fees Act, s. 3, cl. 11 (e), applicability of—See COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, s. 7, cl. 11 (e), 32 C. 268.

Title by purchase from occupancy raiyat—Purchase at rent sale—Competition between rival purchasers — See EJECTMENT, SUIT FOR, 13 C.L.J. 479.

See ESTOPPEL—ESTOPPEL BY CONDUCT, 1 C.L.R. 293.

See FISHERY, 4 C. 961.

Widow—Succession to an—Whether she can make absolute disposition of tenancy—See HINDU LAW—WIDOW, 5 N.L.R. 172.

Minor Inam—Grant out of Zemindari—Presumption as to nature of grant—Evidence necessary to show landlord's ownership of occupancy right—See INAM, 10 M.L.T. 54=21 M. L.J. 803=11 Ind. Cas. 545.

Usufructuary mortgage of occupancy holding —Relinquishment in favour of zemindar—Ex parte decree against mortgagee declaring him tenant—Effect of decree—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 8 A.L.J. 940.

Sale of occupancy rights with zemindar's consent—Acceptance of rent by zemindar from vendee—Contract Act—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 7 A. 878, F.B.=A.W.N. 1885, 260.

Declaratory suit that occupancy tenants are entitled to cut trees for making agricultural implements only — See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS, P.L.R. 1900, p. 165.

Suit for removal of structures erected by mortgagee of occupancy tenant—Limitation. —See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, arts. 32, 120, 8 A.L.J. 914.

Suit by occupancy tenant against landlord for possession of occupancy holding from which the tenant has been dispossessed—Limitation —See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 142, 133 P.L.R. 1911.

Sale of—See MAHOMEDAN LAW — PRE-EMPTION—NATURE AND EXTENT OF RIGHT, 6 B.L.R. 386=14 W.R. 469.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 106 P.R. 1882.

Homestead land—Right of—See RECORD-OF-RIGHTS, 9 Ind. Cas. 804.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1908, s. 49, 2 N.W.P. 35.

See RES JUDICATA—MATTERS IN ISSUE, 18 C. 647.

See SALE—SALE FOR ARREARS OF RENT—INCUMBRANCES, 5 B.L.R. App. 18=13 W. R. 410.

See TRESPASSER, 1 A. 448.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right.

(1)—Act X of 1859 —Classes of ryots—Ryots holding from Permanent Settlement at changing rates.—Act X of 1859 provides for two classes of ryots and no more, namely, ryots who have held and cultivated the land for a period of 12 years, and ryots who have held at fixed rates from the time of the Permanent Settlement. The Act contains no trace of an intention on the part of the Legislature to provide for ryots who have held since the time of the Permanent Settlement at changing rates. DINOBUNDHOO DEY v. RAM DHONE ROY, 9 W.R. 522.

(2)—Right of occupancy—Acquisition—Occupation to be continuous for 12 years.—To enable a tenant to acquire a right of occupancy by 12 years' occupation, there must have been continuous occupation. DEBIA v. BRIJ LAL, 3 N. W. P. 50.

(3)—Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.), s. 6—Nature of continuous possession for twelve years—Joint at inception becoming sole ultimately.—The continuous possession for twelve years, which is the subject of s. 6 of the Rent Law, must be a possession under the one and the same right. This right might be, in its inception, joint with other persons; for if, by the death of the co-sharers, it ultimately becomes a sole right in a particular person, still it would be continuous throughout in its nature. A. T. FORBES v. RAM LALL BISWAS, 22 W.R. 51.

(4)—Continuous possession—Occupancy right —Execution creditor—Bankruptcy—Act XIV of 1859, s. 21—A right of occupancy can be constituted by continuous possession only.—Where a decree-holder, two years after he obtained his decree, applied to the Bankruptcy Court to be registered as a creditor, the judgment-debtor having been adjudicated a bankrupt meanwhile, and again in the same year applied to the Court for payment of a dividend, held, in an application for execution subsequently made, that the first proceeding was a bona fide one within the meaning of s. 21 of Act XIV of 1859. BILLINGS v. THE BANK OF UPPER INDIA, 4 P.R. 1872. [Appr. 74 P.R. 1873.]

(5)—Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) s. 6—Right o occupancy.—The right of occupancy acquired under s. 6, Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) must be an occupancy of one and the same kind, that is to say, it must be an occupancy by the person pleading it or by his father or some other person from whom he inherits. In this case, the plaintiff and another had held a piece of land for five years under a potta granted to them both. Since the expiry of the term of that potta, the plaintiff had alone been in occupation for seven years. Held in a suit to recover possession of the same on the ground that the plaintiff had acquired a right of occupancy, that he had acquired no such right. SHEIKH MAHOMED CHAMAN v. RAMPRASAD BHAGAT, 8 B.L.R. 338=22 W.R. 52, Note. [R., 22 W.R. 51.]

(6)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Applicability to actual cultivators deriving profits from produce.—The benefits of s. 6, Act X of 1859, are not restricted to those who, with their own hands, till the soil, but extend to those who are bona fide actual cultivators in the sense that they derive the profits from the produce directly and are not middlemen who have no connection with the produce except by receiving the rents in cash or kind from those who do directly derive their profits from the produce. KALEE CHURN SINGH v. AMEEROODDEEN, 9 W.R. 579.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(7)—Occupancy — Presumption — Permanent settlement.—Payment of a uniform jumma for the land in dispute must be clearly found before the defendant can have the benefit of the presumption of occupancy from permanent settlement. ORMON KHATOON v. ROBERT SAVI, 1 W.R. 243.

(8)—Khas possession—Setting up title—Burden of proof—Stamp—Ticcadar.—Where, after the expiry of the lease of a zemindari with all lands annexed thereto, the lessee delivered to the lessor all the properties comprised in the lease with the exception of some lands to which the lessee claimed a right of occupancy under a purchase from third parties who derived their title from the former zemindars, held that it was for the defendant to make out the special plea of occupancy right that he set up in defence. An objection that it was not competent to the lower appellate Court to call upon a party to supply a deficiency of stamp payable on a document which was admitted by the first Court without any objection, was overruled as having been made at a late stage. A ticcadar is bound to restore the lands to his zemindar in the same condition in which they were when the lease was granted. RAM SARUN SAHOO v. VERYAG MAHOTON, 25 W.R. 554.

(9)— Suit by tenant against landlord—Ouster—Onus of proof.—The landlord is the proprietor of the estate ; and before a tenant can oust him by insisting on remaining on his land, without his consent, he must show that he had acquired by law some right to do so. SHEIKH KERAMOOLLAH v. SERAJUL HAQ, 23 W.R. 448. [D., 7 C.L.J. 152].

(10)—Evidence — Admission by pleader—Hereditary holding—Onus of proof—Witness not believed—Documentary evidence.—A statement by the defendant's pleader that L was the previous tenant and that L held the land after her son G, cannot be taken as an admission on the part of defendant of continuous hereditary holding as of right by the plaintiffs. It is for the plaintiffs to make out a continuous holding by them or by the persons under whom they claimed. A Judge who does not believe the evidence of certain mortgagors when they depose to the plaintiffs' hereditary occupancy, is not bound to take into consideration documentary evidence sworn to by the same witnesses. PHODY BISWAS v. FORBES, 18 W.R. 60.

(11)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupancy—Evidence—Dakhilas—Termination of Ijara

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

lease—Tenant's rights if affected—Act X of 1859, ss. 6 and 7—Express stipulation—Tacit understanding.—Dakhilas are not the only papers that can prove a right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act X of 1859. Under s. 6 of Act X of 1859, in order that a ryot may claim a right of occupancy, there must have been a continuous holding by him for 12 years. When this condition is satisfied, the fact that the term of the lease of the ijaradar, under whom the ryot has held, has determined, cannot affect the application of the section in his favour. A tacit understanding between the zemindar and the ijaradar that the latter should give up possession at the expiration of the ijara, cannot be considered an express stipulation under s. 7 such as can prevent the acquisition of occupancy rights by the ryot. GOLAM PANJA v. HURISH CHUNDER GHOSE, 17 W.R. 552.

(12)—Right of occupancy—Transfer—Tacking of possession—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Consent of zemindar.—The right of occupancy stated in s. 6, Act X of 1859, is not a right which can be transferred except as laid down in the Act. Where a jote is transferred, even if the zemindar consented to the transfer, the transferee merely acquired a new jote on the same terms as the original tenure was held. He might in time acquire a right of occupancy, but he is not entitled, to make up his right of occupancy, to add the time during which his predecessor held it. TARAPRASAD ROY v. SURJOKANTO ACHARJEE CHOWDHRY, 13 B.L.R. 281, Note =15 W.R. 152.

(13)—Act X of 1859—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869—Right of occupancy—Land used for dwelling-house.—The provisions as to gaining the right of occupancy formerly contained in Act X of 1859, and now contained in Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, are applicable to that portion of the tenure which is used for the purpose of a dwelling-house in the same way as to the portion which is used for cultivation. MOHESH CHUNDER GUNGOPADHYA v. BISHO NATH DOSS, 24 W.R. 402.

(14)—Ryots with tenures from date of Permanent Settlement—Conditions of their tenure—Enhancement of rent—Acquisition of occupancy rights—Reg. V of 1812—Reg. VIII of 1819, s. 2—Act X of 1859, ss. 13, 19—Special appeal—Facts, Question of.—The condition and rights of those ryots at least whose tenures commenced since the date of the Permanent Settlement depend, not upon status, but upon contract and upon the laws and regulations which have been specifically enacted. The zemindars were in 1793, declared to be the proprietors of the lands and encouraged to cultivate their estates under the certainty that they would exclusively enjoy the fruits of their industry. But from 1793 to 1812, they were prevented from granting pottahs or leases to ryots for terms exceeding ten years and consequently could not, during that period, have created rights with hereditary rights of property in the soil. After Reg. V of 1812, they were entitled to grant leases to all new ryots and to all ryots who were not entitled to demand a renewal of their leases, such as Khoodkhast ryots, at any rent and for any term that might specifically be agreed upon between them and such leases, whether in perpetuity or for any term, were binding upon the zemindars and their heirs or assigns, though not binding upon a purchaser under a sale for arrears of revenue and the Courts were to give effect to the definite clauses of the engagements and to enforce payment of the sums specifically agreed upon. By the retrospective effect of s. 2, Reg. VIII of 1819, leases in perpetuity or for terms, granted prior to 1812 were rendered valid and binding. When there is a fair case for enhancement of the rent and the statutory notice has been duly served, the ryot has an option of quitting his holding under s. 19. There is no authority for the position that a tenant who holds the land as a tenant under a lease, or as a tenant for an uncertain term, and pays rent for it for upwards of twelve years, gains a right by the Statute of Limitations to continue to hold the land after the expiration of the lease or the determination of the tenancy. In such a case, he holds during the tenancy under a contract expressed or implied, and does not gain a title by adverse holding. But for Act X of 1859, the ryot, assuming that he was not holding for a fixed term and that his tenancy commenced since the date of the Permanent Settlement, would have been liable to have his tenancy determined and to be turned out of possession at the end of 1267, if he and his landlord could not agree as to the rent to be paid for the future. But, if he had a right of occupancy, he was entitled to hold at a fair and equitable rate. The construction to be placed upon the expression "fair and equitable" rate of rent does not depend on the status of the ryot but upon the value of the produce and the cost of production. After the Permanent Settlement and before Act X of 1859, a right of occupancy was not acquired by a ryot merely by holding or cultivating land for a period of twelve years. If, when the right was created by the Act, it had been left to the arbitrary discretion of the zemindar to fix his own rent, he might have fixed it at any moment he pleased and might thus have frustrated the intention of the Legislature to give a right of occupancy. But s. 5 of Act, X of 1859, declared that ryots having rights of occupancy should be entitled to hold at "fair and equitable" rates, thus leaving it to the Courts to determine in every case of dispute what is a fair and equitable rate. To be fair and equitable it must be fair and equitable so far as both parties are concerned, not fair and equitable as regards the ryot and unfair and inequitable as regards the proprietor of the land, who, but for the Act, could have determined the old tenancy and relet the land to a new tenant at a higher rate. In cases in which there is no contract and to which the Statute of Limitations does not apply, the ryot cannot by occupying and cultivating, become the proprietor of the soil. Neither can he, by occupying with the consent of the zemindar, and paying rent for the land to him, become entitled to the proprietorship of the soil, even though he should acquire a right of occupancy by virtue of Act X of 1859. Where the Judge in the mofussil (that is, the Judge of the Court below), who is bound to give the reasons for his judgments, finds the facts specially, it being the proper course for him to adopt, his finding is in the nature of a special verdict, and if, in fixing the rent, the Judge had improperly deducted certain items from the value of the gross produce of the land, the High Court have power, on special appeal, to disallow such items. ISSHUR GHOSE v. JAMES HILLS, W.R. F.B. 148.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(15)—Occupancy rights in unalienated land in Berar—Presumption—Registered occupants—Ss. 69, 72 (1),(2),(5), Berar Land Revenue Code.—As regards occupancy rights in unalienated land in Berar, there is no presumption that they remain with the registered occupant until some other man is recognised as the registered occupant, or that a person newly recognised as such occupant is also entitled to the occupancy rights. All the decisions in suits for possession have proceeded on the assumption that no such presumption arises. KISAN v. HIRALAL, 8 N.L.R. 76=15 Ind.Cas. 899. (6 N.L.R. 78, D.)

(16)—Occupancy right by Government ryot in Assam.—An occupancy right in lands cultivated by a Government ryot can be acquired by him under the Assam Rent Law. KONARAM GANSBURAH v. DHATOARAM THAKOOR, 6 C. 196=7 C.L.R. 47.

(17)—Acquisition of—Landlord and tenant—Procedure Act (VIII of 1869, B.C.), s. 6—Act X of 1859—Occupancy holding, submergence of—Rent, non-payment of—Extinguishment—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885).—To enable a raiyat to acquire a right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) or under Act X of 1859, his possession must ordinarily be continuous for twelve years, over the whole of the land, in respect of which a right of occupancy is claimed. (22 W.R. 228, R). The fact that the plaintiff was in occupation of different areas of lands in different years, would not entitle him to a right of occupancy in the whole, unless it was proved that he had a right of occupancy in a portion, and the parties intended that the additional lands also should be impressed with the existing rights in respect of the original lands of the holding. Under s. 6 of Act VIII of 1869, a raiyat retains his right of occupancy only so long as he pays rent. But, although mere non-payment of rent might not be conclusive evidence of abandonment, non-payment of rent taken with submergence of land is sufficient to indicate an extinguishment of right of occupancy (4 C. 894, F.; 13 M.I.A. 407, R.; 18 A. 290, D.) An occupancy holding was deluviated at a time when Act VIII of 1869 was in force, and the lands had continued under water for thirteen years before the present Bengal Tenancy Act was passed in 1885: Held, whatever right was acquired by the raiyat, was extinguished by non-payment of rent during the period of submergence before the Act of 1885 came into force; as he had no subsisting rights in 1885, the provisions of Act VIII of 1885 could create no new rights in his favour, nor revive those which had already been extinguished. SALIGRAM SINGH v. PULUK PANDEY, 6 C.L.J. 149.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(18)—Allegation of uniform rate for 20 years —Acquisition of right of occupancy—Right to pottah at fixed rates.—Even where a ryot has asked for pottah at fixed rates, yet, where his object was not to ask for such pottah in perpetuity on the ground of s. 3 of Act X of 1859 but he had distinctly come into Court alleging that he had held the jote for 20 years, under two different pottahs and so had acquired a right of occupancy, such fact, if proved, would, under s. 5 of the Act, give the plaintiff a right to obtain a pottah for period specified in the plaint, or, if necessary, to be fixed by the Court, at fair and equitable rates. SHAIKH LOTF ALI v. MANICK CHAND CHUCKERBUTTY. 6 W.R. Act X, Rul. 76.

(19)—Ryot having mere right of occupancy—Interest in land—Right to share of rent.—A ryot having a mere right of occupancy and not a right to hold at a fixed rate of rent, has no interest in the land which gives him a right to a share of the rent. He has merely a right to occupy the land in preference to any other tenant so long as he pays a fair and equitable rent. JAMES HILLS v. ISHORE GHOSE, W.R.F.B. 131.

(20)—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court —Tenant—Entry on land essential—Suit for succession to occupancy rights of deceased tenant —Purchase of occupancy rights from deceased tenant's heir—Suit for redemption of occupancy rights—Suit to establish rights of occupancy.—A person does not become a tenant until he has actually entered into possession of the land, though the right to enter upon and possess the land may have accrued to him. A suit by a person claiming to succeed to the occupancy tenure of a deceased tenant is cognizable not by the Revenue Courts but by the Civil Courts, in case the claimant has not entered into possession; upon entry, and not before, the claimant becomes a tenant. (44 P.R. 1891, Rel. on). A, an occupancy-tenant, mortgaged his rights with possession to B, the proprietor of the land. A died and on his death, his rights were mutated in favour of his brother and on the latter's death in favour of his sons, who sold the occupancy rights to C. Neither C nor the successors of A, ever entered into possession: Held, that a suit by C for possession by redemption of the occupancy rights was cognizable by a Civil Court and that C could not sue in a Revenue Court to establish his occupancy rights. RIZA v. GIRDHARI RAM, 14 Ind. Cas. 236=188 P.W. R. 1912.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(21)—Pottah collusively granted by zemindar—Party in possession ejected by zemindar through ryot—Right of suit — Jurisdiction — Transfer assented to by landlord—Effect on ryot's possession.—Where a party in possession has been ejected by a ryot on the strength of a pottah collusively granted by the zemindar, the latter is the real ejector within the meaning of the law, and he alone is liable for ejectment and not the ryot who is only the nominal ejector, and the case is cognizable under Act X of 1859. [R., 10 C. 45.] Where a zemindar consents to the transfer of a tenure and had taken rent without demur from the ryot who was at different times in possession under these transfers, the possession would be considered to be continuous and the right of occupancy to date from the time of the first holder. HURO CHUNDER GOHO v. A. D. DUNN, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 55. [Cons., 15 W.R. 152.]

(22)—Suit to recover land from defendant as trespasser—Plea of tenancy—Limitation—Act X of 1859, ss. 6, 23—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts —Right of occupancy—Prescriptive rights of occupancy—Sale.—Where the plaintiff, denying the relationship of landlord and tenant between himself and the defendants, seeks to recover possession of lands from the defendants treating them as trespassers, and the defendants plead their right to hold as tenants from the plaintiff, held that the defendants cannot urge limitation against the plaintiff in whatever form he asserts his claim. By admitting the right of the plaintiff as owner of the lands and acknowledging themselves to be his tenants, the defendants precluded themselves from making any use of the general law of limitation. [R., 10 C. 45, 21 B. 509, 27 B. 515=5 Bom. L.R. 274; D., 8 W.R. 385, 15 W.R. 232.] Unless the case be one which comes under the provisions of cl. 5, s. 23, Act X of 1859, an action to eject is not barred in the Civil Court. Nor is the Civil Court barred from determining the question of a right of occupancy pleaded in answer to a prayer for ejectment by the plaintiff. It is only when occupancy is inherited that the occupancy of the predecessor is considered as the occupancy of the tenant in possession. The terms of the law, s. 6, Act X of 1859, are distinct on the point. Unless, therefore, the tenant held a transferable tenure, the sale by him of his jote to another party without the consent of the landlord does not transfer to the purchaser any right of occupancy which the seller might have possessed, or enable the present occupant to plead that the period of his own possession, joined to that of the former tenant, gives him a prescriptive right of occupancy. MESSRS. R. WATSON AND CO. v. RANEE SHURUT SOONDUREE DEBIA, 7 W.R. 395.

(23)—Act X of 1859, s. 77—Eviction of occupancy ryot on judgment in favour of intervenor

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

—Suit to establish title to possession—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.—Plaintiff, who was in possession, was suing a ryot when the present defendant claiming to be the person entitled to receive the rent intervened under s. 77 of Act X of 1859; and the defendant having succeeded in obtaining a decree, plaintiff was compelled to bring the present suit to establish his title to be restored to possession under the latter clause of that section. The High Court was of opinion that, as a jotedar or a ryot having a right of occupancy, he had sufficient title to maintain an action under the provisions of the said section. TARANATH BHUTTACHARJEE v. OBHOY CHURN HOLDAR, 7 W.R. 471.

(24)—Special appeal—Right of occupancy—Finding of fact.—Where, in a suit for ejectment, the finding of the lower appellate Court is that the defendant must be looked upon as having acquired a right of occupancy, the Judge must be deemed to have considered that the defendant continued to hold on as a tenant in spite of the litigation that had taken place, and this finding bars the interference of the High Court in special appeal. MAHOMED GAZEE CHOWDHRY v. NOOR MAHOMED, 24 W.R. 324, Note.

(25)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Change of farmers—Right of occupancy, if affected—Rate of rent—Custom—Evidence.—The mere change of the farmer cannot prevent the running of the time required by s. 6 of Act X of 1859 to give a right of occupancy. It is difficult to define what evidence is necessary to prove the current custom of a village as to rates of rent. To prove this, the Judge must require from plaintiff good evidence, both documentary and oral, of what is the general rate in the locality. SHEO CHURN SINGH v. GORA CHAND GHOSE, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 125.

(26)—Act X of 1859, s. 25—Suit to set aside illegal ejectment—Accrual of right of occupancy even during ejectment proceedings.—An application by a landlord under s. 25 of Act X of 1859 to a Collector, for ejecting his ryot, is not of the nature of a suit, so as to cause a term of occupancy to cease to run, and if the ryot, in spite of the landlord's efforts to eject him, nevertheless continues in cultivatory possession and pays rent, he is entitled to count the time towards the 12 years required to found a right of occupancy. A tenant cannot legally be ejected during the currency of the agricultural year. Nor can an application under s. 25 of Act X of 1859, for immediate ejectment be received in the light of a notice to the tenant requiring him to resign his holding at the end of the agricultural year. SYUD MAHOMED SHAH v. SYUD USGUR HOSSEIN, 5 N.W.P. 151.

(27)—Res judicata—Relinquishment of holding by ryot—Right of occupancy—Seer land—Adverse possession—Computation of time.—The decision in a former suit by the present defendant, a ryot, against the present plaintiff, to recover back his holding from which he had been dispossessed, in which the question of relinquishment of the land by defendant was in issue, is no bar to the present suit in which the question in dispute is, whether, as the plaintiff says, the land sued for is the seer land formerly belonging to the defendant's father, which the plaintiff had purchased, and from which he says he is entitled to eject the defendant, or whether, as the defendant insists, the land has been cultivated and held by him for twelve years as ryoti land, and, therefore, that he has a right of occupancy. If the ryot's occupancy of the land was not a peaceable one, but a matter of dispute and contention and the subject of litigation in the Courts, the period during which such contest and litigation occurred should be excluded in computing the period of twelve years' holding which creates a right of occupancy. NAIPAL SINGH v. RAM NARAIN, 2 Agra 93.

(28)—Ejectment of tenant—Procedure—Computation of time in s. 5 (2), Punjab Tenancy Act—30 year's possession—Presumption—Joint possession by members of family.—A landlord desiring to eject a tenant can do so by giving a notice under s. 43, Punjab Tenancy Act or by filing a suit without previous notice under s. 77 (3) (e). The period of 30 years mentioned in s. 5 (2) ought to be calculated from the date of suit and not from the date of the Act. The presumption will be that a tenant proved to be in continuous occupation of land either by himself or through the members of his family for 30 years, without paying rent, except land revenue, rate and cesses chargeable on it acquired occupancy rights in the absence of evidence to the contrary. But this presumption will not hold good, if the landlord proves that, on 1st November, 1887, the tenant had not held for more than 2 generations in the male line or that the tenant then held for a period of less than 20 years or that, before that date, the tenant had paid rent beyond land revenue, rates and cesses. MAULA v. JIWAN BAKSH, 5 P.R. 1896, Rev.

(29)—Tenant with right of occupancy—Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), s. 6—Suit to establish rights of occupancy under s. 5—Presumption as to acquisition of such right.—Where a person who had been recorded as tenant with rights of occupancy under s. 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), sued to establish rights of occupancy under s. 5, it was held that, though a presumption arose that he acquired the land from his father, as he was very old and was recorded maurusi and his possession extended beyond the memory of living man, still it would not be correct to carry the presumption further back, and hold that the father got the land from his grandfather. GIRDHARI v. PIRTHI SINGH, 154 P.R. 1883. (18 P.R. 1876, 62 P.R. 1882, R.)

(30)—Moostajiree rights, purchase of—Suit for possession—Intervenor—Lease set up—Plea

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

not proved—Decree—Possession amounting to right to collect rent—Effect.—In a suit for possession, plaintiff alleging himself to be the purchaser of certain Moostajiree rights pertaining to the suit land, i.e., the right to collect rent from the ryots, the defendant set up a plea of lease from the plaintiff, under which he was to collect the rents from the ryots and pay a certain stipulated sum to the plaintiff. Held that, the lease having been found to be not genuine but fabricated, the plaintiff was entitled to a decree as prayed for. A possession from which an occupancy right may be inferred is different from that which supports a mere right to collect rents. LALLA ISHUR DUTT v. BHAKA CHOWDHRY, 17 W.R. 242.

(31)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—What ryots are entitled to occupancy rights.—Under s. 6, Act X of 1859, only those ryots, who cultivate their lands or sub-let them to other actual cultivators of the soil and thus keep alive their rights of occupancy are entitled to such rights. BINDRABUND CHUNDER CHOWDHRY v. ISSUR CHUNDER BISWAS, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 1.

(32)—Right of occupancy in land.—A tenant cultivating land for more than the statutory period under a landlord who has no title to the land, nevertheless acquires a right of occupancy. The right is not one conferred by any lessor, but is one which, by virtue of the law, grows up in the ryot from the mere circumstance of cultivating land for the statutory period or upwards and paying rent due thereon. ZOOLFUN BIBEE v. RADHICA PROSONNO CHUNDER, 3 C. 560=1 C.L.R. 328. (19 W.R. 388 and 8 B.L.R. 165, F.)

(33)—Possession for 12 years continuously, right of occupancy created by.—Plaintiff, a zemindar, sued to recover the land in question on the allegation that he had been dispossessed by the defendant. Defendant pleaded that he and his predecessors had been in possession of the land though without any pottah and that he had been paying rent to the plaintiff. The first Court gave the plaintiff a decree holding that the plaintiff had been ousted as alleged by him and also that mere possession for 12 years could not give the defendant a right to resist the plaintiff. The High Court observed that the first Court was wrong in law as regards the result of 12 years' continuous possession in respect of conferring a right of occupancy on the defendant, and held that such a continuous possession for 12 years creates a right of occupancy. MR. C. J. PHILLIP v. NUND COOMAR BANERJEE, 6 W.R. 156.

(34)—Farmers, when may acquire rights of occupancy.—Rights of occupancy may be acquired by persons holding as simple ryots for 12 years before or after their holding as farmers. MESSRS. R. WATSON AND CO. v. KOER JOGENDRONARAIN ROY, 1 W.R. 76.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(35)—Nuksun jote—Local custom—Rent not payable when land not culturable— Right of occupancy.—Where, by the custom of a particular locality, rent was payable when the land could be cultivated, and not payable when the land was not culturable, and the ryot paid rent for the period that he could cultivate, and did not pay when he could not cultivate the land, he is to be considered as having held and as having paid the rent sufficiently to come within the meaning of the law which declares that a ryot, who held or occupied land for a period of twelve years, had a right to occupy that land so long as he paid the rent due thereupon. PREMANUND GHOSE v. SHOORENDRONATH ROY, 20 W.R. 329.

(36)—Rights of occupancy—Grazing ground.—A right of occupancy may be gained in land used for grazing horses. FITZPATRIK v. GEORGE WALLACE, 2 B.L.R.A.C. 317=11 W.R. 231. (8 W.R. 251, 9 W.R. 552, 1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 462, 3 Agra, 49. D.)

(37)—Land producing water-nuts by sowing—Right of occupancy whether could be acquired in such land.—A tenant got a lease of land in a holding comprising specific fields bearing distinct numbers. A tank in which water-nuts grew not spontaneously but as the result of sowing or planting was not included in the lease. Held that a right of occupancy could be acquired in such tank by the tenant in the holding. MOOL CHUND v. CHUTREE, 1 N.W.P. 254.

(38)—Neem Howalas—Rights of occupancy—Transferable tenures.—Occupancy-tenures of the well-established and well-known character of neem howalas (even though they may not comprise the right of holding at fixed rent), and all other such rights of occupancy established by the ancient prescription and custom of the country, are transferable tenures. Purchasers from neem howaladars are consequently entitled to rights of occupancy. JUGGUT CHUNDER ROY v. RAMNARAIN BHUTTACHARJEE, 1 W.R. 125.

(39)—Uniform rent for half a century—Tenants contributing for the reclamation of the lands.—Suit in ejectment. The suit lands originally formed part of a zemindari, and were forest lands. They were reclaimed, the defendants contributing the bulk of the expenditure. The lands were held by the defendants and their ancestors for about half a century at a uniform rent. Held, that the Judge, who found that the defendants, had acquired occupancy rights, cannot be said to be legally wrong in coming to that conclusion, in view of the fact that the tenants would have probably had notions about tenure similar to those of the (occupancy) tenants in the surrounding zemindaries. THE BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF INDIA v. HORIAH BEHARA, 7 M.L.T. 201=5 Ind. Cas. 972. (23 M. 318, R.)

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(40)—Presumption of occupancy—Payment of uniform rent—Mokuraree lease, failure to prove in prior suit.—The presumption of occupancy before Permanent Settlement arising from payment of uniform rent for 20 years, is not affected by failure to prove mokuraree lease in a former suit. ISHEN CHUNDER BUTTACHARJEE v. KALEE KOOMAR ROY, 1 W.R. 264.

(41)—Adhlapi custom—Sinking of well—Sinker's rights as cultivator.—Where a person sinks a well under the Adhlapi custom, he becomes the owner of half the well and cultivator of the other half, the proprietary right in which belongs to the original owner of the land, who, however, bears no portion of the expense of sinking the well. As regards the rights of the sinker as cultivator of the other or proprietor's half, in the absence of all evidence of a special agreement, he is entitled to occupancy rights, since he cannot be ousted from the proprietor's half of the well unless the proprietor himself requires it for his own use. SHER BAKSH v. KHUDA BAKSH, 110 P.R. 1885. [R., 6 P.R. 1900, Rev.]

(42)—Goozashta tenure—Bhowlee tenure—Rent in kind—Right of occupancy.—A bhowlee tenure can be a goozashta tenure. A ryot, who has paid rent in kind but who has held or cultivated land for a period of twelve years, has a right of occupancy in the land so held or cultivated by him so long as he pays the rent (though it be in kind) for the same. JUTTO MOAR v. MUSSAMUT BASMUTTEE KOER, 15 W.R. 479.

(43)—Partnership holding a cultivating lease—Acquisition of occupancy rights—Firms—Ryotee lease, Test of.—Where a cultivating lease of certain lands was taken by a firm owning an indigo concern in its collective name, the cultivation being carried on by its servants and subtenants continuously for more than twelve years, held, the lease must be taken to be one to the individuals, who were, at the time of the grant, members of the firm, and that they had secured an occupancy right under the circumstances of the case. (25 W.R. 117 and 4 C. 957, D.) [D., 7 C.L.J. 475.] The test of a ryotee lease is, whether the lease has been originally granted for the purpose of cultivation, and if it has been so granted, it is none the less a ryotee lease, though the lessee may happen subsequently to sublet. Quære.—Whether, in the above case, an occupancy right could have been acquired, if all the original grantees had died before the statutory period of occupation or after acquisition of the right? Or whether the right, if acquired, could be transferred, according to the custom of the locality, to subsequently admitted members of the firm? LAIDLEY v. GOUR GOBIND SARKAR, 11 C. 501. [D., 7 C.L.J. 475.]

(44)—Single family in joint possession—Similar tenancies—Wrong entry—Power of Court.—Where tenancies of the same kind are long held by a single family jointly, only some members of which are wrongly entered in the Settlement Records as occupancy tenants, the Court has power to correct such entries and award to all the members occupancy rights. MUHAMMAD v. YAR MUHAMMAD KHAN, 9 P.R. 1896, Rev.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(45)—Right of occupancy—Undivided share of estate.—A right of occupancy may be acquired in respect of an undivided share of an estate. JARDINE SKINNER AND CO. v. RANI SURAT SOONDARI DEBI, 3 C.L.R 140, P.C. = 5 I.A. 164 = 3 Sar. 847. [F., 8 C.W.N. 751; Rel. on, 8 C.W.N. 192; R., 16 C. 127; D., 1 C.W.N. 521.]

(46)—Suit for occupancy rights—Entry in Settlement of possession for two generations—Presumption of acquisition from father, onus of rebutting.—In the settlement of 1859, the land in dispute was recorded as in the possession of one A as an occupancy tenant and the period of his occupation was stated to be 40 years. From the entries in the settlement papers, the land in suit appeared to have been in A's family for 60 years at the date of his death in 1878, and it had been admittedly occupied successively by A, his son, and lastly by his widow. A's father did not die till 1850 or thereabouts, and was consequently alive when the land was first acquired in 1819. Under these circumstances, as the facts connected with the acquisition of the land had passed beyond living memory, a fair presumption was held to arise that A who was recorded as in possession for 40 years in 1859 acquired it from his father. The onus was therefore rightly held to be on the defendant to rebut the presumption arising in plaintiff's favour from the facts above mentioned. HYAT KHAN v. KARM, 187 P.R. 1882. (18 P.R. 1876, R.)

(47)—Cultivation by tenant for more than 12 years—Several leases—Right of occupancy.—A ryot who has held or cultivated continuously for more than 12 years, but under several original leases or pottahs, is entitled to claim a right of occupancy in that land although those leases or pottahs are for a specific term of years. Any solehnamah alleged to have been executed by the tenant, and purporting to give up his claim to the occupancy right, must be also considered in deciding the tenant's right of occupancy. NARAIN SINGH v. MUNSUR RAOOT, 25 W.R. 155.

(48)—Occupation for 12 years under lease—Suit for abatement of rent.—A right of occupancy may be acquired by a raiyat holding lands for more than 12 years under a pottáh, and he is, therefore, entitled to sue for abatement of rent. SHAM LALL SAHOO v. HADY BUNJARA, 2 Hay 522.

(49)—Who is a middle-man—Rights of occupancy—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—The fact that a person, without cultivating his holding himself, sub-lets it to others, does not make him a middle-man, and, as such not entitled to the privileges of s. 6, Act X of 1859. The real question for determination is whether he was or was not a ryot, or one who held land under cultivation by himself or others who took for him under his supervision as a superior cultivator, or whether he was a middleman because he really did not cultivate in the sense of s. 6, but was a general lease-holder or a speculator in land rent. RAM MUNGAL GHOSE v. LUKHEE NARAIN SHAHA, 1 W.R. 71. [Appr., 7 W.R. 15.]

Right of Occupancy--continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(50)—Right of occupancy—Lease — Ryots—Middleman.—Holding land as a ryot, if for a sufficient period, gives a right of occupancy whether the land has been held under renewed leases or on a continuous lease. A ryot does not become a middleman simply because, instead of cultivating the land, he erects shops on it and receives the profits from the shopkeepers. KHAJURANISSA BEGUM v. AHMED REZA, 8 B.L.R. 166, Note=11 W.R 88. [F., 8 B.L.R. 165=17 W.R. 62.]

(51)—Act X of 1859, ss. 6, 7—Consecutive pattahs—Right of occupancy—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, ss. 6, 7.—A ryot who has held or cultivated a piece of land continuously for more than 12 years, but under several written leases or pattahs each for a specific term of years, is entitled to claim a right of occupancy in that land. Neither the mere fact of a ryot taking a lease for a term of years, nor the mere existence of the right of re-entry on the part of the landlord, amounts to an express stipulation within the meaning of s. 7, Act X of 1859, so as to prevent the right of occupancy being acquired under s. 6. PANDIT SHEO PROKASH MISSER v. RAM SAHOY SING, 8 B L R 165=17 W.R. 62. [App., 25 W.R. 155, 3 C. 560=1 C.L.R. 328, 6 C. 711=8 C.L.R. 189, 18 C. 349, P.C.=18 I.A. 27.]

(52)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Occupancy—Land "held"—Land "cultivated."—A right of occupancy, if claimed under Act X, is acquired by a tenant who for twelve years cultivates or holds land, in the land which he has so cultivated or held. If a tenant does not continuously hold or cultivate the land, then the right of occupancy does not accrue to him. It is to be observed that the terms of s. 6 of the Act apply to land held, as well as to land cultivated. Therefore, although a tenant may not have personally cultivated, but may have made over the land to another to cultivate, assuming that by custom he has such power, he still may gain a right of occupancy if he continues to be recognized by the zemindar as the holder of the land. BUTABEE BEGUM v. KHOOSAL, 2 N.W.P. 24.

(53)—Act X of 1859, s. 6, right of occupancy under, on holding for 12 years under one of several proprietors—Court incompetent to treat defendant as plaintiff—Written statement—Admissibility in evidence.—A holding for 12 years under one of several co-proprietors is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of s. 6 of Act X of 1859, provided the tenant has paid the rent, which payment he may, in the absence of fraud, make to any one of the co-proprietors whom he chooses. It is not competent to the Court to treat as a plaintiff and compel the other parties to accept, as a plaintiff, a party who remains, upon the face of the proceedings, as a defendant. A party making a written statement may, without incurring the penalties of perjury, insert in the written statement, in the form of direct allegations, any fact whatever which he hopes to be able to prove at the trial and which upon the merest rumour, he believes to be true. Statements made with so little security for their accuracy could not be received as evidence in any Court of justice. (Per Bayley, J.—It could not be said that, under all and every circumstance, the uncontradicted statement of a party verified on oath is positively no evidence.) MOOKTA KASHEE DOSSEE v. KOYLASH CHUNDER MITTER, 7 W.R. 493.

(54)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Ryot's pottah declared invalid--Occupancy right not affected—Continuous holding for 12 years.—Where the plaintiff can prove possession by having cultivated or held land continuously for 12 years, he becomes entitled to the occupancy right mentioned in s. 6 of Act X of 1859. Such right cannot be affected by the title of the grantor of the putta having been declared, by a Court, to be null and void. A declaration that an izaradar had no good title would not necessarily invalidate the holdings of all the ryots under the izaradar, and, according to s. 6, a ryot, whether he holds under a pottah or not, acquires a right of occupancy by simply holding or cultivating continuously for a period of 12 years. SHIBNATH ROY v. MESSRS. R. WATSON AND CO., 8 W.R. 374. [Expl., 12 W.R. 80.]

(55)—Khamar land—Occupancy right—Act VIII of 1869 (B C.), s. 6.—Possession by a tenant for more than 12 years gives him a right of occupancy in the land and he is not deprived of this right even though the land is khamar. It is only a tenure held on a lease for a term or year by year that could be brought within the exception to s. 6, Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.). SHAIKH ASHRAF v. RAM KISHORE GHOSE, 23 W.R. 288. [R., 1 C. L. J. 456]; (but see HURISH CHUNDER RAM v. GUNGA DHUR BHUDDRO, 25 W.R. 181, infra)

(56)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupancy in case of holding under Bhagdaree tenure.—Ordinarily, a holding under a Bhagdaree tenure,—that is, upon a rent consisting of a portion of the produce,—would establish a right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act X of 1859, as much as if the holding had been upon payment of rent of any other description. HUREEHUR MOOKERJEE v. BIRESSUR BANERJEE, 6 W.R. Act X, Rul. 17.

(57)—Holding under leases—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Ben. Act VIII of 1869, s. 6—Cultivating raiyat.—From 1824 to 1832 the defendant held certain lands as cultivator; from that year to 1839 he obtained a lease from the zemindar of the village in which the lands were situate; from 1839 to 1843 he continued to hold these lands as cultivator; from that time to 1862 he again obtained a lease of the village, retaining these lands in his own cultivation; and after the expiry of the lease he continued to cultivate the lands. In a suit by the zemindar for possession on the ground that the defendant was holding over after the expiry of his lease, held that the defendant had acquired a right of occupancy under s. 6, Act X of 1859. MUKANDI LAL DUBEI v. L. G. CROWDY, 8 B.L.R. App. 95. [Appr., 25 W.R. 503.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(58)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Possession for 20 years under mourossee lease, inherent right of occupancy on proof of.—In a case in which possession for twenty years has been distinctly found as a fact under a previous mourossee lease, the right of occupancy is inherent under the lease and under the provisions of s. 6 of Act X of 1859, so that no special plea is requisite to entitle the plaintiff to it in a suit brought by him on his title by inheritance. GOUREE KANT BANERJEE v. GOLUCK CHUNDER PAKRASHEE, 4 W.R. Act X, Rul. 49.

(59)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Rights of occupancy—Nij-jote and other lands.—The fact of a land being nij-jote does not per se prevent a cultivator from acquiring rights of occupancy in it. S. 6, Act X of 1859, excludes khamas nij-jote and seer lands from the operation of such rights only when such lands have been let by the proprietor on a lease for a term of years, or year by year. GAURHARI SINGH v. BIHARI RAUT, 3 B.L.R. App. 138=12 W.R. 277.

(60)—Holdings commenced or continued under mortgagee in possession, not within exceptions to general rule in s. 6 of Act X.—Among the exceptions to the general rule in s. 6 of Act X of 1859 that every ryot who has held or cultivated a holding for twelve years, is entitled to a right of occupancy therein, there is no exception in favour of holdings which have commenced or continued under a mortgagee in possession. It may be that a mortgagee cannot, without special power conferred on him by the mortgage agreement, demise any parcel of the mortgaged estate for a term which may exceed the duration of his own interest in the estate. The respondent, in the present case, however, did not rely on any such demise, but, having occupied his holding as a yearly tenant, he claimed a right of occupancy by operation of law and not by grant, and the High Court held that his claim was well-founded and should prevail against the zemindar. HEEROO v. DHOREE, 2 N.W.P. 129. [R., 7 A. 586=A.W.N. 1885, 134, F.B.]

(61)—Occupancy, Right of— Nij-jote—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, s. 6—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—The nij-jote land referred to in Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, s. 6, as land in which a right of occupancy cannot be acquired, is land which is the nij-jote of the zamindar and not that which is merely the nij jote of a sarbarakar holding under the zamindar. OBHOY CHURN MOHAPATTUR v. KANYE RAWUT, 1 C.L.R. 394.

(62)—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, s. 6—Lease for term—Provision for re-entry—Occupancy rights.—The mere fact of a lease being granted for a particular term does not preclude the accrual of the occupancy right given by s. 6 of Act VIII of 1869 to a ryot who continually occupies for more than 12 years. The fact that there is an express provision for re-entry by the lessor would not affect the accrual of the right. (16 W.R. 114, F.) A right of occupancy already acquired cannot be destroyed by the grant of such a lease. MUKHTAR BAHADUR v. BHOJRAJ SINGH CHOWDHRY, 9 C.L.R. 143.

(63)—Act X of 1859, s. 23, cl. 6—Waste lands brought under cultivation—Right of zemindar—Right of occupancy.—If the land in suit was for the first time brought under cultivation by the ryot, it cannot be viewed as the zemindar's seer land, nor can the former be held to be a mere shikmee cultivator incapable of acquiring a right of occupancy in the land. JHUGRO v. LAUTOO PANDEY, 1 Agra, Rev., 32.

(64)—Ryotee lands — Cultivation and ticca lease—Occupancy right—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Merger.—A person held ryottee lands alternately as cultivator and ticca lessee or farmer continuously for about 50 years. Held that his cultivation for broken periods cannot deprive him of his occupancy right under s. 6, Act X of 1859. Held also that, when the person took the lease, his possession as cultivator did not merge in that of the higher title. MOKOONDY LALL DOOBEY v. L.G. CROWDY, 17 W.R. 274. [R., 10 C. 45.]

(65)—Acquisition of occupancy-right in a holding by a temporary lessee of the village-occupancy right--Merger.--When the temporary lessee of a village purchases an occupancy-holding within the village, during the term of his lease, the occupancy, right is not extinguished, but inures to his benefit even on the expiry of his lease. RAMRUP MAHTO v. H. MANNERS, 4 C.L J. 209. [R., 13 C.W.N. 664=4 Ind. Cas. 531.]

(66)—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1865, s. 15—Tenant's right of occupancy—Effect of Act.—The right of occupancy of a tenant was not avoided by the operation of s. 16 of Act VIII of 1865 (B.C.). EMAM ALI MESTORY v. ATOR ALI KHAN, 22 W.R. 133.

(67)—Right of occupancy--Acquisition--Period of possession—Computation — Act X of 1859, s. 6. — Under the provisions of s. 6 of Act X of 1859, a tenant acquires a right of occupancy when he remains in possession for 12 years. In computing the period of 12 years, the tenant is entitled to bring into account the period during which he held the land under the lease or pottah. HOOBA KHAN v. MANSUB ALI, 3 N.W.P. 37.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(68)—Act X of 1859, s. 4, presumption under, applicability of—Reg. VIII of 1793—Suit for enhancement—Infirmity in defendant's title.—It is probable that the words, "whenever in any suit under this Act," in s. 4 of Act X of 1859 are not intended to limit the presumption under the section to cases under that Act only. But even if the presumption does not, in fact, in terms apply to suits other than those under Act X, yet it would not be wrong on the part of a Court, in a suit under Reg. VIII when determining the question from what length of time the payment of a fixed rent should have been made so as to draw the inference that payment at such rate dated back to, or had its origin before, the Permanent Settlement, to follow the rule laid down in s. 4 of Act X of 1859. Assuming that a defendant in a suit for enhancement of rent has failed to prove anything except that he has held the land in question for more than 20 years at a fixed rent, and that he has been recognized in the receipts granted to him as a holder of a fixed tenure, yet, where there is no evidence on the part of the plaintiff, there would be nothing on which a decree in favour of the plaintiff could be based, though there may be some infirmity in the defendant's title. DUKHINA MOHUN ROY v. KUREEMOOLLAH MOOKTEAR, 12 W.R. 243.

(69)—Putnee talook—Sale under Reg. VIII of 1819—Ryotee jote—Ejectment—Fifteen years receipt of rent—Waiver.—The defendant was the purchaser of a putnee talook brought to sale under the provisions of Reg. VIII of 1819, and the plaintiff was an inferior holder whose jote or tenure in its entire terms had been declared not to be valid as against the right of the auction purchaser. On the defendant's application to the Collector under s. 25, Act X of 1859, the plaintiff was ejected on the ground that he had not a right of occupancy against the putnee talookdar. In a suit by the tenant for possession of the jote or the tenure, it was held that, whether the plaintiff's holding was a ryotee jote or an intermediate tenure, he was not liable to eviction, but only to enhancement of rent. If it be a ryotee jote, as defendant's purchase took place 15 years before suit, he was protected by s. 6 of Act X of 1859, and had a clear right of occupancy as against the defendant. If it be an intermediate tenure, then, considering that the defendant for 15 years without objection received rents from the plaintiff at the old rate, he must be considered to have waived any rights which he might have had under cl. 2, s. 11 of Reg. VIII of 1819, to eject the plaintiff at the time of the purchase of the putnee talook. WOOMANATH ROY CHOWDHRY v. ROGHOONATH MITTER, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 63.

(70)—Act XXV of 1857—Confiscation of Zemindar's rights for rebellion—Effects on growth of right of occupancy by tenant.—Confiscation of a Zemindar's rights under Act XXV of 1857, will not operate to interrupt the growth of a right of occupancy claimed by a tenant. SHEO RAJ SINGH v. MR. W. F. LEGGE, 3 Agra 293.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(71)—Acquirement of occupancy rights.—There is nothing to prevent a saranjamdar or inamdar from acquiring occupancy rights during the continuance of the saranjam or inam. GANPATRAV TRMIBAK PATWARDHAN v. GANESH BAJI BHAT, 10 B. 112.

(72)—Claim to status of occupancy tenancy—Predecessor not taking any steps—Effect—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 5.—The fact that the predecessor in title of a tenant took no steps to claim a higher status does not prevent such tenant from claiming the status of occupancy tenant under s. 5, provided he could make out the conditions and requirements of that section for the acquisition of such a status. BAHADUR v. DUL CHAND, 3 P.R. 1893, Rev.

(73)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 5 (1) (a), 11, 22 (2)—Status of tenants under Act of 1868—Rights under the new Act.—Where there are facts to show that the predecessors in interest of a tenant were occupancy tenants under s. 5 (1) of the Act of 1868 on the date of the passing of that Act and nothing happened in the meanwhile to deprive them of such status, he was considered to be a tenant under s. 5 (1) (a) of the Act of 1887. AHMAD YAR v. MUHAMMAD BAKSH, 12 P.R. 1896, Rev.

(74)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 5 (1) (c)—Status of tenant—Old and new Acts.—The new Tenancy Act confers the status of an occupancy tenant as well upon the persons settled by the founder of the village as a cultivator therein as upon his representatives, while the old Act only conferred it upon his representatives. NUR-UL-LAH v. SHARIF MIAN, 7 P.R. 1890, Rev. [F., 2 P.R. 1891, Rev.]

(75)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 5, 6—Right of occupancy—Entry in Settlement record—No sanction of Government—Effect of such entry—Admission as tenant-at-will—No bar to claim.—Where a person had not settled along with, or been settled by, the founder but was paying rent for the land, he or his successor in title could not claim occupancy rights under s. 5, Punjab Tenancy Act. Where an entry as to the status is not made in the record sanctioned by the Local Government, such status could not be claimed under s. 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act. But the entry would operate as an agreement, to confer such rights under s. 111. The circumstance that a claimant had made an admission before 1887 that he was a tenant-at-will will not prohibit him from proving his claim to occupancy rights. CHIRAG v. MIRZA, 4 P.R. 1896, Rev. [Appr., 10 P.R. 1901=44 P.L.R. 1901.]

(76)—Ejectment—Plea of occupancy right—Wrongful eviction—Onus of proof.—In a suit

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

by the zamindar to eject a ryot where the ryot sets up a right of occupancy on the ground that his possession as a ryot extended to a continuous period of twelve years, and it was found that as the result of the litigation between the zamindar and the ryot, the ryot was evicted and then got possession, and thus there was a break of some months in the possession of the ryot during the period, held that, if the eviction by the landlord were wrongful, that would not be such an interruption of the ryot's possession as would prevent him from acquiring a right of occupancy, and that it was for the ryot to show that the eviction was wrongful. MAHOMED GAZEE CHOWDHRY v. NOOR MAHOMED, 24 W.R. 324. [R., 12 C. 82, 25 B. 115.]

(77)—Landlord and tenant—Grant of permanent occupancy-rights to community—Express or implied surrender of the right—Burden of proof — Sub-division of lands by grantees—Variation in extent — Presumption. — Where permanent occupancy-rights have been granted to certain individuals for the benefit of a community to which they belong, the onus of proving an express or implied surrender of such rights lies on the party affirming it. The sub-division of the lands and even the surrender of a portion thereof by the grantees will not be inconsistent with the latter continuing to hold the lands in their occupation on the terms of the original grant, i.e., by right of permanent occupancy, although community of interest may have ceased as between themselves. If the same lands had been held by different persons in different years, this would be prima facie evidence of the tenure being inconsistent with the continuance of the rights under the original grant. Material variation in the extent of the lands held in each year might lead to the same inference, though it might also be explicable on the ground that the pattas for each year were only for the extent cultivated during the year. VELUSAMI TEVAR v. AROKYA UDAYAN, 15 Ind. Cas. 119.

(78)—Hereditary cultivators—Facts and circumstances establishing right and status—Long possession of re-claimed waste land—Payment at revenue rates.—In this case, the question was whether the plaintiffs were entitled to the status of hereditary cultivators. The facts were that they had come to the village along with the proprietary body, that they had reclaimed the land from the waste and occupied it uninterruptedly from generation to generation ever since, that they had paid for a long time at only revenue rates, that afterwards, when the rents of the cultivators were raised, they were assessed at a rate considerably less than those paid by the non-hereditary cultivators of the village, and that one of the lumbardars had accepted a mortgage of a certain quantity of their land. The Chief Court held that these facts proved the hereditary status and rights of the plaintiffs. SOOKHEE RAM v. URJUN, 58 P.R. 1869.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(79)—Long continued possession—Hereditary occupancy—Setting up inconsistent or contradictory claims—On review from 34 P.R. (1867). —Considering the uncertainty and imperfect character of proprietary right in the Punjab before annexation, it is perfectly possible for a person to claim the proprietary right of his land, on insufficient grounds, without any idea of fraud, but only with a wrong conception of his own position. Notwithstanding such a claim, he might still be a hereditary cultivator, and it would be wrong to hold that such a cultivator was precluded from establishing his right to hereditary occupancy on the ground of his being in the position of one allegans contraria. The observation in 34 P. R. (1867) about long possession may also be misunderstood. While it is perfectly true that long possession on the part of a cultivator of itself confers no right of hereditary occupation, still it is often annexed to circumstances which, combined with the long occupation, would afford good and sufficient ground for the right, and the Court accordingly must not be understood to express an opinion that such circumstances do not require notice, or may be disregarded. PURSOTUM DASS v. RYMULL, 81 P.R. 1867.

(80)—Hereditary cultivators—Entry in settlement record not conclusive.—In this suit for ejectment by the proprietors, the defendants pleaded long occupancy. It appeared that they were recorded at settlement as tenants at will. But there was nothing to show that they were aware of such entry. The evidence showed that they were of the same caste or extraction as the plaintiffs and had held the land in suit for several generations without paying any rent i.e., anything more than the bare revenue and cesses. Held that, on these facts, the defendants were entitled to a right of hereditary occupancy. LAB SINGH v. WUZEERA, 114 P.R. 1868.

(81)—Hereditary cultivator—Occupation for more than 20 years—Time cures defect in title.—Suit to be declared the hereditary cultivator of certain land. The lower Court decreed against the plaintiff on the ground that though he had occupied it for more than 20 years, he was not the son of the original owner but was only related to him as a relation five generations removed. . Held, that the Court below was wrong ; the fact that twenty years had elapsed had cured any defect which may have originally existed in his title. NUTHA v. PREM SINGH, 40 P.R. 1868.

(82)—Lessee dispossessed of land—Suit for ejecting the dispossessor—Defendant's plea of being the original ryot of the land—Defendant's right of occupancy to be decided.—Plaintiff sued to recover possession of certain lands alleged to have been leased to him by a sezawal acting under the orders of the zamindar. It was found that the lease was actually granted and the plaintiff who had obtained possession thereunder had been ousted by the defendant. The defendant pleaded that he was the original ryot of the land, that the village was let in farm and that the zemindar had no right to oust him. The High Court held that the lower appellate Court was wrong in having rejected his plea on the mere ground that the defendant had not proved a hereditary tenure, because no such issue had properly arisen; the real question was whether the defendant had any right of occupancy, for, if he had, he could not be turned out by plaintiff. The case was therefore remanded for a distinct finding whether the defendant had any such right of occupancy. MOTEE ROY v. NADUR ALI KHAN, 6 W.R. 180.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(83)—Right of occupancy—Relinquishment—Lease.—A right of occupancy can be acquired by a person in possession under a lease from another having a permanent transferable interest in the land, if the other requirements of law are fulfilled. In the absence of words in the pottah, under which the lessee holds the land leased, prohibiting the acquisition of such a right, the fact that the pottah reserves an annual rent year by year would not be sufficient to deprive him of that privilege. RUGOONATH SONAR v. MOKOOND DASS, 25 W.R. 213.

(84)—Holding for several years by ryot and his predecessor in title—Right of occupancy—Zemindar not competent to oust except by due course of law.—This was a suit by a ryot against his zemindar, and another claiming an intermediate right in the land through him, to recover possession of his holding, from which he alleged himself to have been dispossessed by the third party, and for damages for the pulling down of his house. The lower appellate Court, finding that the plaintiff and his father before him had held this land as their jote for very many years, decided that the Zemindar could not dispossess him by giving his land to a third party and restored him to the possession he sought. It was contended on second appeal that, as the plaintiff had not proved the mourosee nature of his tenure, the zemindar was justified in bestowing the land on another. But it was held that, as the plaintiff and his father had together held the land for many years, a right of occupancy had been created which prevented the zemindar from ousting his tenant, except by due course of law. NIM CHAND BOROOAH v. MOORAREE MUNDAL, 8 W. R. 127.

(85)—Decree between Zamindars—Right of occupancy—Estoppel.—A decree in a suit between Zemindars cannot shut the mouth of the ryot and prevent him from stating the facts as to the time when the formation of the land occurred and when his occupation commenced. The mere fact that the person to whom he for some years paid rent had no title cannot take away from him the character of a ryot or prevent him from counting those years in the time necessary to give him a right of occupancy under Act X of 1859. SYUD AMEER HOSSEIN v. SHEO SUHAE, 19 W. R. 338. [F., 3 C. 560.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(86)—Suit for ejectment—Person succeeding ryot having right of occupancy—Right of such person to acquire right of occupancy.—A ryot who had a right of occupancy to certain land having died, his nephew was allowed by the landlord to retain possession of the land for 11 years. Held, in a suit for ejectment by the landlord against the nephew and his son, that as the defendants were allowed as a matter of fact to succeed to the holding, and were not shown to have acquired it otherwise than as the heirs of their predecessor, they must be taken to have inherited it from him by the consent of the landlord, and to have acquired in it, if they did not inherit, a right of occupancy. MUSSAMAT HUKEEM-OON-NISSA v. BHOORIA, 5 N. W. P. 23.

(87)—Occupancy right—Possession by tenant of excess land—Nature of his right in such land.—Where rent has been received by the zemindar, not the original rent which was fixed by the Jumabundee for the land then held, but for the whole land in the tenant's possession, the whole tenure, which was clearly one tenure and held as such, is subject to a right of occupancy as a whole, or else it is not subject to any right of occupancy as to any part of it. When the whole land is held by the tenant for more than twelve years, he acquires a right of occupancy in it. If, on the other hand, it appears that within twelve years the tenant has been allowed to take possession of fresh lands and the parties intended to create a new tenure by such addition, then, it must be held that, as regards the whole, a right of occupancy has not been acquired, although a portion thereof may have been held for more than twelve years. AMAR CHAND LAHATTA v. BUKSHEE PYEKAR, 22 W.R. 228. [R., 6 C. L.J. 149.]

(88)—Lease for definite time—Possession after expiry of lease—Right of occupancy.—Where, notwithstanding the conditions in a lease that the landlord was at liberty after the expiry of three years to put an end to the lease, and enter into a settlement with others regarding the property leased, the tenant continued in possession even after the expiry of three years by paying rent as before, held, that under the circumstances there was nothing in the stipulation itself which operated to negative or destroy the tenant's right of occupancy. SHAIKH EBADUTOOLAH v. SHAIKH MAHOMED ALI, 25 W.R. 114.

(89)—Cultivators—Right to crops—Right of occupancy.—The lower appellate Court decreed that the defendants should pay the plaintiff the value of certain crops raised upon the lands in suit, merely because it was of opinion that the plaintiff had cultivated the land last year, and by that cultivation, had produced the crops, and that such crops had been taken away by the defendant. Held that the plaintiff would have no right to recover the value of the crops from the defendant, unless he either had good right as against the defendant to occupy and cultivate the land or had been led by the conduct of the defendant to suppose that he had such right. The lower Court was wrong in having declined to enquire into the title by which the plaintiff cultivated the land in suit. If the plaintiff had been cultivating the land even for a year to the knowledge of the defendant, that would give him a right as against the defendant to the produce of the lands, even though he (the plaintiff) might not be able to make out a title to the occupation. OBHOY CHURN SEIN v. RAM HUREE ODHIKAREE, 10 W.R. 300.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(90)—Occupancy-right—Occupation of holding on death of holder by his legal heir—No new arrangement effected—Right to possession as against zemindar.—Where, on the death of an occupancy-holder, his legal heir succeeded and was permitted by the zemindar to hold the land for about six years without any new arrangement, such heir was entitled to recover the land as against the zemindar, his occupation being presumed to have been regarded as a continuation of the right of occupancy already acquired. BRIJBHOOKUN v. BHYROW DUTT, 3 Agra 240.

(91)—Right of occupancy—Limitation—Absence in transportation.—By adverse holding for more than twelve years, a tenant gains a right of occupancy as against his predecessor, even if the latter's absence has been involuntary in consequence of transportation, there being no exception in the Limitation Act with regard to plaintiff's absence from such cause. DOMUN v. SUDUNKOOLAT, 1 B.L.R. S.N. 25 A.

(92)—Pottah with term for fixed rent, whether amounts to evidence against right of occupancy.—The finding in this case was that the tenants held a right of occupancy although their pottahs happened to contain a certain term for which the rate of rent was fixed. It was sought to be contended that the mention of the above term was of itself evidence that there was no right of occupancy, but the High Court held that though, under some circumstances, especially at the commencement of a new contract, a specification of a term may lead to the presumption that the landlord has a right of re-entry at the end of it, yet, in the present case, the tenants having been found to be ancient tenants, the term stated in their pottahs could evidently have reference only to the rate of rent fixed by those pottahs. BABOO NUND LAL SINGH v. RUMUN SINGH, 6 W.R. Act X, Rul. 38.

(93)—Right of occupancy—Long possession—Burden of proof—Landlord and tenant.—Mere length of tenure for any period will not give a right of permanent occupancy to a raiyat, who has been let in as a tenant from year to year. If the tenants rely on a right of occupancy, created after the instrument which let them in possession, then it lies on them to prove the grant, oral or written, of such right, or circumstances from which such grant could be legally presumed. THIAGARAJA v. GIYANA SAMBANDHA PANDARA SANNADHI, 11 M. 77. (6 M.H.C. 164, 5 M. 345, Disc. & D.) [Appr., 8 C. W.N. 545, P.C.; R., 27 M. 291, P.C. = 14 M.L. J. 200; D., 16 M. 137, 16 M. 271.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(94)—Failure to acquire occupancy right—Conditions under which failure happens.—A right of occupancy in certain land cannot be acquired by a person where he himself does not occupy the land for 12 years, nor was it the occupation by him for a like period of land which he had inherited from his father or any other person. KHERODE CHUNDER ROY v. GORDON, 23 W.R. 237.

(95)—Landlord and tenant—Occupancy right, proof of.—When the right of possession, or the right to continue in possession, is proved to have arisen under a written instrument, which does not provide for right of permanent occupancy, then the right to possession must, prima facie, follow the terms of the instrument, in the absence of any subsequent agreement. Mere length of tenure for any period will not give a right of permanent occupancy to a raiyat, who has been let in as a tenant from year to year. THIAGARAJA v. GNANASAMBANTHA, SUBRAMANYA v. GNANASAMBANTHA, 7 M. 374.

(96)—Home-farm lands, Incidents of—Occupancy rights.—If the lands held by the tenants are what are known as "home farm" lands of the zemindari, they are lands which, accordingly to a very general custom of the country, the zemindar reserves for his own cultivation when he thinks fit to resume them and on which a right of occupancy does not accrue. The zemindar, when he lets such lands, has ordinarily a right to resume them at the end of any agricultural year, on giving due notice. VENKATAGIRI ZEMINDAR v. RAGHAVA, 9M. 142.

(97)—Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, s. 181—Ghatwali lands, whether occupancy rights can be acquired in.—The question in this appeal was whether occupancy rights could be successfully acquired in Ghatwali lands. Held, that, upon principle, having regard to the nature of lands under Ghatwali tenure, and in view of s. 181 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the acquisition of occupancy rights in such lands is inconsistent with the incidents of such a tenure. UPENDRA NATH HAZRA v. RAM NATH CHOWDHRY, 33 C. 630. (1 C.L.J. 138, R.)

(98)—Permissive possession—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, s. 6—"Land".—Mere possession of a permissive character, and without any right whatever, cannot confer any occupancy-right. The words "cultivated or held" in s. 6, Act

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

VIII of 1869, would have the effect of excluding lands occupied exclusively by buildings. The occupation intended under that section is occupation of land which is the subject of agricultural or horticultural cultivation, or used for purposes incidental thereto, and does not include land exclusively used for dwelling-houses, buildings, &c. MOHUR ALI KHAN PATHAN v. RAM RUTTUN SEN, 21 W.R. 400.

(99)—Right of occupancy, how acquired—Bengal Act VIII of 1869, s. 6.—Occupation by ryot as malik—Effect.—It is only the holding of the father or other person, from whom a ryot, inherits, that can be deemed to be the holding of the ryot, within the meaning of s. 6 of Bengal Act VIII of 1869; the occupation by the predecessor in title is not such an occupation as will create in the holder of land any right of occupancy. [R., 8 C.L.J. 533.] The period of occupation of land by a ryot as malik cannot count towards the acquisition of occupancy right; such a right must be acquired against somebody else and cannot be acquired against oneself. LAL BAHADUR SINGH v. SOLANO, 10 C. 45 = 12 C.L R. 539. [R., 8 C.L.J. 533.]

(100)—Non-payment of rent—Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, ss. 6, 22—Rent-free holding.—A person who is in possession of land without paying any rent is not entitled to the protection of ss. 6 and 22 of Act VIII of 1869, even on the ground of a right to hold the land rent free. LALEE KRISHNA DEB v. SHASHONEE DASSEE, 25 W.R. 42.

(101)—Occupation or cultivation as trespasser —Act X of 1859—Occupation for twelve years.—An occupation as a trespasser or a cultivation by a trespasser could not confer a right under Act X of 1859 and it could not be taken into account in considering whether such trespasser had occupied as a ryot for twelve years. SHEIKH PEER BUX v. SHEIKH MEAHJAN, W.R. F.B. 146.

(102)—Who cannot acquire—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—Those who had no possession of lands of which they had been dispossessed as ryots, or in any other sense than as middle-men receiving rents from the actual ryots of the land, not coming within the purview of s. 6, Act X of 1859, cannot acquire any rights of occupancy. GOPEE MOHUN ROY v. SIBCHUNDER SEN, 1 W.R. 68.

(103)—Cultivating ryot, sub-tenant of, right of occupancy cannot beacquired by.—The defendant-appellant argued in this special appeal that, if the lower appellate Court had enquired and found that the plaintiff was holding under a higher and better title than a mere right of occupancy, the appellant, though a sub-tenant, would be entitled to plead that he had, by reason of 12 years' occupancy, acquired a right to continue to occupy. The High Court, however, held, that the lands in dispute having been found by the Courts below to be parts of a jote purchased by the plaintiff, and the defendant, being a sub-tenant of that jote holding at will, could not, as a sub-tenant of a cultivating ryot, acquire any right of occupancy. KETAL GAIN v. NADUR MISTREE, 6 W.R. 168.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(104)—S. 6, Act X of 1859—Right of occupancy by sub-lessee.—Under s.6, Act X of 1859, a sub-lessee from a ryot having a right of occupancy acquires no right of occupancy for himself MR. D. N. GILMORE v. SURBESSUREE DASSEE, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 72. (James Hills v. Issur Ghose, W.R. F.B. 148, F.)

(105)—Occupancy right—Sub-letting of—Rights of lessee—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—Where a person has a right of occupancy, another could not acquire the same right by any sub-letting from him, regard being had to the provisions of s. 6, Act X of 1859. Quære :—Under what circumstances will a person forfeit his occupancy right by setting up an adverse title. UNNOPOORNA DOSSEE v. RADHA MOHUN PATTRO, 19 W.R. 95. [Cons., 22 W.R. 520.]

(106)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Sub-lessee under occupancy ryot—Holding over for more than twelve years—Plea of acquisition of occupancy right.—In the case of lands sub-let for a term by a ryot having a right of occupancy, the sub-lessee, who holds over for more than twelve years after the expiry of the term of his sub-lease, cannot plead that he has under the twelve years' rule acquired an occupancy right, under s. 6, Act X of 1859. JUMMEEUTTUNNISSA BEBEE v. NOOR MAHOMED, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 77.

(107)—Occupancy right—Creation by sub-lease from ryot.—No right of occupancy is created by a sub-lease from a ryot having a right of occupancy. MOULVIE ABDOOL JUBBAR v. KALEE CHURN DUTT, 7 W.R. 81.

(108)—Holding for twelve years—Sub-lease—Right of occupancy.—A ryot does not acquire a right of occupancy, if the land which he has been cultivating has been sub-let to him for a term, or year by year, by a ryot having a right of occupancy. NIL KOMUL SEIN v. DANESH SHAIKH, 15 W.R. 469. [F., 19 W.R. 95.]

(109)—Under-raiyat and occupancy right.—An under-raiyat is not a raiyat within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act and therefore cannot acquire any right of occupancy. RABIRAM DAS v. UMA KANTA CHUCKERBUTTY, 2 C.W.N. 238.

(110)—Occupancy right—Ijara by tenant—Doctrine of merger—Adverse possession.—The double character of a ryot and ijaradar is not inconsistent, for the doctrine of merger does not apply in this country. Where a tenant with a right of occupancy took an ijara of the estate from the landlord with a covenant that "on the expiration of the lease I shall not have anything to do with the lands without a settlement," held, that the covenant could be held to apply only to the rights created by the lease, and that there were no words in it importing an intention on either side to deal with pre-existing rights of the tenant as ryot, if there were any. Held, further, that where a ryotee interest co-exists with a farming lease, the co-existing ryoteo interest is the same in extent and quality at the end as at the beginning, and if the tenant has no right of occupancy at the commencement of the lease, he cannot acquire one during its currency. THOMAS SAVI v. PUNCHANUN ROY, 25 W.R 503. [F., 10 C. 45=12 C.L.R. 539.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(111)—S. 6, Act X of 1859—Right of occupancy if can be acquired, under a farming lease.—Under s. 6, Act X of 1859, a person acquires no title to a right of occupancy by holding under a farming lease which has expired. MR. D.M. GILMORE v SREEMUNT BHOOMICK, W. R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 77.

(112)—Suburban lands let for building—Occupancy rights.—There is no authority for the proposition: "that there may be rights of occupancy in suburban lands left for purposes of building, though these rights may not be cognizable under a law intended only for agricultural landlords and tenants." RAKHAL DAS ADDY v. DENOMOYI DEBI, 16 C. 652. (8 C. 960, Expl.; 12 W.R. 404=9 B.L.R. 107 (N), Rel. on.) [R., 25 C. 896, F.B., 9 C. W.N. 141.]

(113)—Intruder into land of absconding ryot—Additions or alterations to the building—Effect of as against zemindar.—Where defendants without any right whatsoever have intruded into a building held by a ryot who had since absconded, they cannot by making additions or alterations to the building acquire any right against the zamindar who is not shown to have assented to such additions or alterations. KUNDHYEE v. SAHEB ZUMAN KHAN, 1 Agra 9.

(114)—Act X of 1859, s 6, occupation for cultivation protected by—Occupation mainly as dwelling house not within section.—The occupation intended to be protected by s. 6 of Act X of 1859, is occupation of land considered as the subject of agricultural or horticultural cultivation, and used for purposes incidental thereto, such as that for the site of the homestead, etc. It cannot therefore be deemed to include occupation, the main object of which is the dwelling house itself, and where the cultivation of the soil, if any there be, is entirely subordinate to that. KALEE KISHEN BISWAS v. SREEMUTTY JANKEE, 8 W.R. 250. [F., 12 W.R. 404, 9 B.L.R. App. 14=15 W.R. 464, Note; Appr., 17 W.R. 151; Cons., 24 W.R. 402; R., 9 W R 552, 11 W.R. 231, 12 W.R. 140, 19 C. 489, 9 Ind. Cas. 804; D., 10 W.R. 403=2 B.L.R.A.C. 92.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(115)—S. 6—Right of occupancy — Occupation for over 12 years by erection of mud house.—Holding either as a Koorfordar (sub-lessee) or as a trespasser gives no right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act X of 1859, and the erection of a mud-house by such a tenant and dwelling there for more than 12 years afford no presumption of acquiescence on the part of the proprietor. ESHAN CHUNDER GHOSE v. HURISH CHUNDER BANERJEE, 10 B.L.R App. 5=18 W.R. 19. [F., 9 B.L.R. 215=17 W.R. 550.]

(116)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupancy—Possession for 12 years—Proof of payment of rent—Servant's possession.—Mere possession for 12 years in the capacity of a servant will not create a right of occupancy under the provisions of s. 6, Act X of 1859. The only way in which a person can take advantage of 12 years' possession will be by showing that he has paid rent during that period to his landlord. WOOMA MOYEE BURMONYA v. BOKOO BEHARA, 13 W.R. 333.

(117)—N.W.P. Revenue Board Circular No. 17 of 1856, construction and effect of—Cultivator with 12 year's possession—Protection from summary ejectment by Revenue Court—Acquisition of permanent right of occupancy—The N.W.P. Revenue Board's Circular No. 17 of 1856, published in Appendix XXVI to directions to Collectors, cannot be taken to lay down as law that, in the N.W. Provinces, at that period, an uninterrupted occupancy of twelve years would carry with it a right of permanent occupancy. Under the Notification, a cultivator who had had possession for twelve years continuously was protected from summary ejectment by the order of a Revenue Court. But the question of his title to a permanent right of occupancy was a question for the determination of the ordinary Civil Courts in accordance with local custom, until the enactment of Act X of 1859. That Act gave fixity of tenure, for some classes of cases, to cultivators who had had twelve years' possession, but it was never in force in the Delhi district, being one enacted after the transfer of that district to the Punjab. JAIMAL v. KHUBI, 39 P.R. 1881. (C.A. No. 290 of 1877, R.) [F., 18 P.R. 1885; R., 12 P.R. 1886.]

(118)—Pottah granted for term—Holding after years—Right of occupancy.—A ryot who has successively held under pottahs granted only for terms of years, cannot, by holding under them for more than 12 years, acquire a right of occupancy. KEBUL MUHTOON v. SHEIKH SUNNOO, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 80. [R., 11 W. R. 556; D., 17 W.R. 62.]

(119)—Lease—Prescriptive right of occupancy—Possession.—Where the lower appellate Court found that after the defendant had held the land under a lease, it came into the immediate possession of the Zemindar who let it to the plaintiff, and gave him possession, the plea raised by the defendant that he had a prescriptive right of occupancy will not avail him unless he be able to get over the fact found by the lower appellate Court, or can show that the Zemindar had illegal possession of the land. KUPRAM KARMOKAR v. JUMEER PORAMANICK, 1 W.R. 167.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(120)—Person holding land without rent as trespasser, no prescriptive right of occupancy can be acquired by.—In this case, the question had to be decided whether the plaintiff's vendor had such right of occupancy as could be transferred by sale. Granting that he held possession of the land for more than 12 years, yet, it was evident that he held it without payment of any rent. The land in question was proved to have been part of the defendants' estate, and the plaintiff's vendor could not plead prescription unless he had paid rent, whereas he had been holding the lands as a trespasser, and, as such, had no rights whatever. SHEIKH GHOLAM HYDER v RAJAH POORNO CHUNDER ROY, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 147. [R., 8 W.R. 238.]

(121)—Khamut lands let for a long term—Lease from year to year—Right of occupancy.—A tenant does not acquire a right of occupancy, in khamut land which has been first let to him for a term of years, and upon the expiration of that term was tacitly let to him from year to year. BHUGWAN BHAGAT v. JUG MOHAN ROY, 20 W.R. 308. [F., 4 C.P.L.R. 55.]

(122)—Rent Law—Kahmar land—Right of occupancy—Presumption.—The word "khamar" mentioned in s. 6 of the Rent Law refers to any parcel of land whether cultivated or uncultivated, belonging to the zamindar, and which the zamindar chooses to keep in his own possession. Long possession in respect of khamar lands does not give a right of occupancy. There is no presumption in favour of a ryot from the fact of his having been more than 12 years in possession of such land. On the contrary, the presumption would be that he was in possession for a term or year by year as a tenant. If he wishes to get rid of the limitation, it will be for him to show that he had made some arrangement with the zemindar, which brought him within the category of ordinary ryots, and gave him a right of occupancy HURISH CHUNDER DAM v. GUNGA DHUR BHUDDRO, 25 W.R. 181, but see SHAIKH ASHRAF v. RAM KISHORE GHOSE, 23 W.R. 288, supra.

(123)—Land held under lease for fixed term—Right of occupancy—Tenant by sufferance—Yearly tenant—Illegal ousting without notice.—No right of occupancy accrues while the land is held under a pottah defining and limiting the period for which the land is to be held. [Not F., 17 W.R. 62] A tenant holding over for a number of years by sufferance without pottah is a yearly tenant and is entitled to recover possession if illegally ousted without notice. But if he held under a lease which has expired, he may be turned out early the following year without being entitled to relief, he being in fact a mere trespasser. SADHOO JHA v. BHUPWAN OOPADHYA, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul. 17=1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 75.

(124)—Acquisition of right—Occupation by virtue of lease for term of years—Beng. Act X of 1859, s. 6.—A right of occupancy could not be acquired by occupation for 12 years under s. 6, Act X of 1859, when such occupation has been by virtue of a lease granting a term of years, and during the whole or part of such occupation the term had not expired. HURRISH CHUNDER KOONDOO v. ALEXANDER, Marsh 479.

(125)—Act X of 1859, ss. 6, 7—Right of occupancy--Leases for fixed terms.—There is nothing in the mere fact of a tenant having been in possession for over 12 years under a series of pottas each for a fixed term only, which gives him a right of occupancy under Act X of 1859. DAMANULLA SIRKAR v. MAMUDI NASHIO, 3 B.L.R. A.C. 178.

(126)—Ticca lease — Assignment—Occupancy right—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—A ticcadar who is an assignee from the Zamindar and who cultivates land covered by the ticca lease, simply because of the opportunity afforded in his capacity of ticcadar, cannot under colour of that character alone, acquire rights adverse to the Zemindar. Such a person is excluded from the benefits of s. 6, Act X of 1859, which gives the right of occupancy to one who occupies as a ryot only. WOOMANATH TEWAREE v. KOONDUN TEWAREE, 19 W.R. 177. [R., 12 C. 82.]

(127)—Right of occupancy—Tenure—Sale—Zamindar's consent.—By the mere receipt of rent from a purchaser from a tenant having a right of occupancy, a zamindar does not sanction the sale to the purchaser, so as to give him a right of occupancy. GAUR LAL SIRKAR v. RAMESWAR BHUMICK, 6 B.L.R. App. 92. [Rel. on, 7 C.W.N. 132.]

(128)—Right of occupancy—Transfer of right—Tacking of possession—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Suit for contribution—Claim for interest—Act XXXII of 1839 (Interest)—Demand.—The possession of the vendor could not be added to the possession of the purchaser so as to give the latter a right of occupancy under s. 6, Act X of 1859. It is immaterial that the Zamindar consented to the transfer. The Interest Act, XXXII of 1839, does not apply to contribution suits, and a demand, as contemplated by the said Act, is unnecessary to support a claim for interest. HYDERBUKSH v. BHUBINDRO DEB COWAR, 13 B.L.R. 276, Note=17 W.R. 179. [F., 22 W.R. 98 ; Appl., 13 C.W.N. 118=4 Ind. Cas. 331.]

(129)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Possession obtained by fraud.—Possession obtained and continued by fraud is not possession within the meaning of Act X of 1859. BHOOBUNJOY ACHARJEE v. RAM NARAIN CHOWDHRY, 9 W.R. 449.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(130)—Suit for declaration—Cause of action—No allegation of injury.—The suit was for a declaration of the plaintiff's right to possession of certain land as an occupancy tenant, and to set aside certain alleged fraudulent talooki pottahs. There was no allegation that the plaintiff was disturbed by any act on the part of the defendant. Held that the suit would not lie. UDAI CHANDRA MUNDAL v. AHMEDULLA, 7 B.L R 616. Note=12 W.R. 467. [R., 7 B.L.R. 614=15 W.R. 421.]

(131)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Land not held under pottah nor paying rent—No right of occupancy claimable.—Defendant claimed a right of occupancy in certain beegahs of land for which it had been found that he held no pottah and paid no rent, but of which he merely alleged he had secured and held possession. Held that defendant did not come within the provision of s. 6, Act X of 1859, which lays down that "every ryot who has held land for a period of twelve years has a right of occupancy in the land so held by him, so long as he pays the rent payable on account of the same." Defendant appeared to have secretly possessed himself of the land and continued without paying any rent for it. He was not, therefore, in a position to claim any right of occupancy in the land. GOREEB MUNDUL v. BHOOBUN MOHUN SEIN, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 85.

(132)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Lease of trees in orchard—Suit by lessor for possession of orchard—Lessee's claim to right of occupancy whether maintainable. — Where a lease entitled the lessee only to the produce of the trees in the orchard, and not to cultivate the land, the possession of the trees by the lessee, for more than 12 years, would not be a holding of the land within the meaning of s. 6 of Act X of 1859, so as to confer on him a right of occupancy in the land. ROOKMIN KOOER v. BUKSHEE, 5 N.W P. 155.

(133)—Act X of 1859—Land under customary grove tenure—Kastkari lands within scope of s. 6.—In this case, the High Court held that the lower appellate Court was in error in having ruled that lands held as a grove upon terms long customary in the country would be subject to the provisions of s. 6 of Act X so that by a occupancy thereof for over 12 years a right of occupancy can accrue. The provisions of the said s. 6 were intended to apply and have always been construed as applying to kastkari land. PIRTUM KOORMY v. BHIKAREE, 2 N. W.P. 364.

(134)—Tank—Lease of land with tank thereon—Right of occupancy—Sale of lessee's tenure—Rights of purchaser.—Where land is let for cultivation and there is a tank upon it, the tank would go with the land ; and if there is a right of occupancy in the land, there would be a right of occupancy in the tank as appurtenant to the land. But where the tank is the principal subject of the lease, only so much land passes with the tank as is necessary for it, namely, for the banks. There cannot be a right of occupancy acquired in such a tank. A lease of such a tank is interminable on the sale of the lessee's tenure for arrears of rent, and then the operation of the law would be to give to the purchaser the property freed of the lease. NIDHI KRISHNA BOSE v. RAM DOSS SEN, 20 W.R. 341. [Expl., 8 C.W.N. 804=31 C. 937.]

(135)—Tank used for rearing of fish—Tank no appurtenant to land—Act X of 1859, ss. 6, 23, cl. 4.—Where a tank appears to be used only for the preservation and rearing of fish, and it does not appear to have formed part of any grant of land or that it can in any way be considered as appurtenant to any land, the provisions of Act X of 1859 with respect to acquiring a right of occupancy do not apply to such tank. SIBU JELYA v. GOPAL CHANDRA CHOWDHRY, 13 B.L R. 423, Note =19 W.R. 200. [R., 21 W.R. 386=13 B.L.R., 416, 8 C.W.N. 804=31 C. 937.]

(136)—Right of tenant-at-will in occupancy of julkur, not preferential to that of lessee of landlord—Inapplicability of Act X of 1859.—This was a suit to recover possession of a certain julkur, the plaintiff alleging that he had obtained a lease of the fishery from the zemindar on the death of the former tenant, and held it until the defendant illegally caught and appropriated the fish, and so ousted plaintiff from possession. The defence was possession from the time of the defendant's great-grandfather at a certain yearly rent. It was objected on second appeal that the question to be determined was, whether the defendant had any hereditary right to hold the julkar, and that not having been decided, the judgment of the lower appellate Court was incomplete, but the High Court held that the defendant was not holding under any lease from the zemindar, and his mere occupancy of the julkur for a series of years would give him no preferential right against his landlord's nominee. He was a mere tenant-at-will and could be ousted at any time by the proprietor of the julkur and the first Court should not have applied the provisions of Act X and decided that he was entitled to retain possession so long as he paid a fair rent. WOOMA KANT SIRCAR v. GOPAL SINGH, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 19.

(137)—Right of fishery—Exercise of—Occupancy right.—The exercise of the right of fishery by a jotedar over two julkars for upwards of 12 years, not as the owner of the jote but as a tenant under a landlord (his rights therein being quite unconnected with his rights in the jote) does not confer on him a right of occupancy. SHAM NARAIN CHOWDHRY v. THE COURT OF WARDS, 23 W.R. 432.

(138)—Jalker—Fishery—Rights of occupancy.—The right of occupancy which accrues to tenants, who have occupied or cultivated land for twelve years or upwards, does not arise in respect of the right called jalkar or fishery. That is a right which may be let out by ijaradars under the landlord, and may be enjoyed under them so long as their ijara continues, but is liable to be determined at the expiration of the ijara. JUGGOBUNDHOO SHAHA v. PROMOTHONATH ROY, 4 C. 767.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(139)—Lease of right to cut spontaneous produce—Right of occupancy—Pre-emption—Act X of 1859, s. 23.—This was a suit under cl.6, s. 23, Act X of 1859, to recover possession of certain plots of land on the ground of plaintiff's illegal ejectment by the defendants. Plaintiffs claimed under a lease from the original proprietor of the estate giving the right of cutting the reed, thatch grass and other spontaneous produce of the land in question. Held that the tenure under which the plaintiffs claimed to hold, was not a holding of a land within the meaning of s. 6 of Act X of 1859, in respect to which a right of occupancy could be acquired by the plaintiffs. Such right should be regarded as held year by year, and determinable each year, unless conveyed by the owner or other persons holding from him in occupation of the estate or tract for an express term of years. Held, further, that no prescriptive right of occupation could be created in such tenure merely by reason of the lengthened enjoyment by the tenant. GOOR DIAL v. RAMDUT, Agra F.B. 15=Ed. 1874, 11.

(140)—Common land of puttee—Occupancy rights, Acquisition of.—Occupancy rights cannot be acquired in the common land of a puttee cultivated by a tenant. MADDAN v. PIRA, 9 P.R. 1876. (49 P.R. 1874, F.)

(141)—Shamilat—Acquisition of occupancy rights in—Agreement of parties.—The Tenancy Act prohibits the acquisition of occupancy rights in shamilat land; but a person may acquire such right by agreement entered into at the time of the settlement, which will, on his death, pass to his heirs. VIR SINGH v. HIRA SINGH, 155 P.R. 1889.

(142)—Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), s. 5, cl. 2—Twelve years' continuous possession—Acquisition of occupancy rights—Custom.—Under s. 5, cl. 2 of the Tenancy Act, if a proprietor who has involuntarily parted with his rights has died before the Tenancy Act of 1868 (without having himself acquired occupancy rights), his representative is not entitled to occupancy rights, because he and his father have been in possession ever since as tenants. Held, also that there was no well established custom in the Delhi Division, while it formed part of the North Western Provinces, whereby twelve years' continuous cultivation ipso facto created an occupancy right. NAHIR ALIKHAN v. KALU. 12 P.R 1886. (39 P.R. 1881, R.) [Appr., 148 P.R. 1888; R., 6 P.R. 1900, Rev.]

(143)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, s. 8—Long possession—Mortgage by tenant—Ground not sufficient for occupancy rights.—Long occupation and mortgage of the holding by the tenant without any objection by the landlord are not sufficient to give the tenant occupancy rights. UDDAM SINGH v. NABIA, 96 P.R. 1889.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(144)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss 8, 5 (1)(c) --Tenant living outside--Grant of rights—Conditions.—A suit for occupancy rights under s. 5 (1) (c), Act XVI of 1887, will fail, if the tenant does not live within the limits of the village or estate where the land is situate. Scope of s. 8 discussed. KHAIRATI v. MANNU KHAN, 6 P.R. 1900, Rev.

(145)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 5 (1) (d)—Muafi partly resumed and partly unresumed—Interruption of possession—Claim to occupancy rights—O. 2, r. 2, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908.—A certain land was originally muafi. Half of the muafi was resumed in 1887. Half was unresumed. In respect of the resumed portion, a suit for possession on the ground of proprietorship was brought by the defendants and decreed in their favour, while the plaintiff's possession was not interrupted. Held, a suit for claiming occupancy rights regarding the unresumed half is untenable and must be dismissed, but will not bar another suit, if the quasi-proprietary possession be disturbed and the plaintiff's title is challenged in course of law. In respect of the resumed half, the plaintiff was entitled to occupancy rights under s. 5 (1) (d), Punjab Tenancy Act. MAHANT SADHU RAM v. LAL KHAN, 13 P.R. 1896, Rev.

(146)—Acquisition of right under s. 5 (2), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887 — One generation—Thirty years --Where full 30 years have not elapsed on the date of suit since the origin of tenancy, or there was only one succession since then, as from father to son, a person cannot claim the benefit of the presumption laid down in s. 5 (2) Act XVI of 1887. PIRBHU v. MOHAR SINGH, 4 P.R. 1897, Rev.

(147)—Hereditary tenancy—Long possession—Settlement record contradicted by evidence.—A Settlement record contradicted by indisputable facts appearing in a case may be held to be wrong. Mere length of occupancy cannot per se confer the status of hereditary cultivator on a party recorded at settlement as a tenant at will. But length of occupancy must certainly be taken into consideration as a matter of evidence affording a presumption of what the status of the cultivator has been from its commencement, and of what it was, in fact, at the time of settlement. HET RAM v. TOORTEE, 42 P.R. 1868. [F., 21 P.R. 1873.]

(148)—Claim to occupancy right—Entry in settlement record—Sufficiency of proof—Material irregularity.—If it is not shown that the Settlement Record, in which there is an entry regarding the status of the claimant, had not received the sanction of the Local Government, such entry would not be sufficient to confer that status on the tenant under s. 6, Act XVI of 1887. The omission to consider the plaintiff's claim under s. 5 (1) (a) or (c) is a material irregularity, being a sufficient ground for revision. SANTA SINGH v. HAZARA SINGH, 8 P.R. 1895. Rev.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

— 2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(149)—Settlement records, evidentiary value of —Long possession, effect of Claim to hereditary cultivation.—Plaintiffs, the lumbardars of a village, sued to eject the defendants from their holdings of land occupied by them as cultivators of shamilat land belonging to the proprietary body of the village. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the defendants had cultivated the land for a long series of years without paying anything but the land revenue, and that, beyond the settlement record of 1864, which was in plaintiff's favour, describing the defendants as tenants-at-will, there was no proof to rebut the presumption arising from long possession. The decree of the first Court dismissing the suit was reversed by the Commissioner on the ground that, as the defendants set up a claim opposed to the settlement records, the burden of proof was upon them. The Commissioner considered that the settlement records constituted a prima facie case for that party in whose favour they stood. Held that this view was wrong. The settlement entry could not have the effect of shifting the burden of proof form the quarter in which, but for that entry, it would have rested. The maxim being melior est conditio possidentis, although, by lapse of years, the cultivator, originally tenant at will, cannot grow into an hereditary cultivator, the fact of such lapse of years would be a weighty element of proof in his favour upon the question whether he or his ancestor was or was not a hereditary cultivator. BULDEO v. HAFIZ ALI, 15 P.R. 1869. [R., 21 P.R. 1873.]

(150)—Non-hereditary cultivators — Long possession—Entry in settlement record—Effect. —Suit by a land-holder to eject a tenant. The tenant pleaded that he had been in possession of the land for more than 27 years prior to settlement, and that the entry in the settlement record that he was only a non-hereditary tenant was erroneous. Held, that the tenant having been recorded as a non-hereditary tenant prior to the settlement, no length of occupancy even for 27 years, could confer upon him the status of a hereditary tenant. NUNDA v. FUTTAH, 91 P.R. 1867. [R., 21 P.R. 1873.]

(151)—Settlement Record— Occupancy right —Tenancy-at-will — Long possession.—Where certain tenants described in the Settlement Record as tenants-at-will, claimed rights of occupancy in the lands in their possession on the strength of their occupation for more than 21 years without payment of any proprietary dues or execution of any leases, held that this of itself was not enough to confer any right of occupancy on them and the landlord was entitled to eject them. HURRIA v. BIKHAREE, 23 P.R. 1868. [R., 21 P.R. 1873.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(152)—Tenants in possession from before settlement — Payment at owner's rates—Such tenants whether entitled to be recorded as having rights of occupancy—Custom—Kukri Kalan, Ferozepur district.—Plaintiffs were washermen by caste recorded as tenants without rights of occupancy at the settlement. On defendants proposing to eject them, they sued to have it declared that they were by mistake recorded as not having rights of occupancy and to have their rights of occupancy declared in the future; the Courts below found that they had been in possession for some years before the Settlement and had always paid at the same rate as the proprietors. Held that, under the rule acted upon at Settlement in the locality in question and its vicinity, a tenant paying at owner's rates, who was of 4 years' standing at the time of Settlement, could not claim to be entitled to be recorded as having a right of occupancy, and that no mistake had been made in recording the plaintiffs, like others in a similar position, as tenants at will. The fact of a tenant paying at owner's rates cannot entitle him to be recorded as an occupancy tenant, without any reference to the duration of his tenure or to other circumstances. LAL SINGH v. SOBHA SINGH, 92 P.R. 1882.

(153)—Right of occupancy—Pottah.—A ryot has no right of occupancy in respect of jotes held by him less than 10 years, but is entitled to a pottah. KISSEN PROSAD v. SHEIKH KARBAREE, 1 W.R. 241.

(154)—Nij-jote lands—Zemindar's claim to rights of cocupancy.—A zemindar cannot lay claim to his own nij-jote lands, on the ground that he is a ryot with rights of occupancy, when his zemindari has passed into the hands of another. A. REED v. SREEKISHEN SINGH, 15 W.R. 430.

(155)—Occupancy rights—Succession— Survivorship—Recognition by landlord of right as heir of deceased tenant.—When a person acquires a right of tenancy and joins with him his wife's brother's son in cultivation, on the latter's death, his agnates do not succeed to the holding as his heirs, for it was not acquired by their and the deceased's common ancestor. They do not acquire the right by the landlord's recognising it against the surviving tenant who was joint with the deceased. SARDAR ALI v. MUHAMMED ALI, 23 P.L.R 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 499. (159 P.R. 1879, 109 P.R. 1894, F.B., 4 P.R. 1880, R.; 76 P.R. 1907=32 P.L.R. 1908, D.)

(156)—Occupancy right—Tenant at will—Inheritance—Civil Court—Jurisdiction—Claim not based on illegal ejectment—Possession—Claim to be maintained in possession—Plaintiff not in possession—Dismissal of suit.—A person cannot claim a right of occupancy as heir of a tenant-at-will. The Civil Court has jurisdiction in the case when the claim is not based upon allegation that the plaintiff has been illegally ejected by the person entitled to receive rent of the land. A claim to be maintained in possession is liable to be dismissed, if the plaintiff be found not to be in possession at the date of suit. BUSHEER-OOD-DEEN v. DAL CHUND, 3 Agra 236.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—continued.

(157)—Acquisition of occupancy rights by firms.—Occupancy rights in lands could be acquired only by particular individuals; a firm or partnership, whose members are changing, could not, by taking a lease of lands, acquire occupancy rights by any length of occupation. RAI KOMUL DOSSEE v. J.W. LAIDLEY, 4 C. 957. (25 W.R. 117, F.) [R., 7 C.L.J. 475.]

(158)—Indigo concern—Corporate or legal existence--Right of occupancy.—An indigo concern or firm has no corporate or legal existence so as to acquire a right of occupancy in lands which can be recognised only in particular individuals. H.H. CANNAN v. KYLASH CHUNDER ROY CHOWDHRY, 25 W.R. 117. [F., 4 C. 957; R., 7 C.L.R. 475.]

(159)—Fixed rates of rent—Right to hold land at such rates—Such right not a corollary from occupancy right.—A right of occupancy is obtained simply by remaining in the land for twelve years. Any squatter, if he can succeed in fixing himself on an estate for that time, is entitled to retain his holding so long as he pays rent for it. But a right to hold at fixed rates of rent is a special privilege, which can only be obtained by a direct permission on the part of the landlord. The mere fact of a grandfather being allowed to hold at a fixed rent is no reason in favour of the grandson, unless there be some special mention in the lease conferring hereditary right. RAMNARAIN SINGH v. HURONATH ROY, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 92.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1869, ss. 59, 60, 66, 9 C.L.R. 449.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 5, cl. 5, and 178, 24 C. 272, P.C.=23 I.A. 158=1 C.W.N. 83.

Acquisition of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 20, 21, 3 C.L.J. 285.

Acquisition of—Agreement between landlord and tenant, validity of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 178 (1) cl. (a) and (3) cl. (a), 33 C. 136=10 C.W.N. 533.

See C.P. ACT IX OF 1883, 4 C.P.L.R. 53.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, ss. 2, 8, 112 P.R. 1880.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 5, cl. (1), 65 P.R. 1877.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 5 (3), 1 P.R. 1874, 49 P.R. 1874, 62 P.R. 1874, 94 P.R. 1880.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 5 (4), 7 P.R. 1887, Rev. 7 P.R. 1887, Rev. Note.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——2.—Acquisition of Right—concluded.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 6, 10 P.R. 1880, 11 P.R. 1880, 17 P.R. 1880, Rev.

See U. P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 8, A.W.N. 1882, 63.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE, 2 N.W.P. 126.

Acquisition of — Resumption of muafi on muafidar's death- Subsequent settlement on his heirs—Their rights—Rights of tenants who are joint owners of the holding as against the heirs—See MUAFI, 3 P.R 1908, Rev.=5 P. W.R. 1908, Rev.=180 P.L R. 1908.

Whether—can be acquired by under-tenants in the case of a service tenure—See SERVICE TENURE, 11 C.W.N. 46=5 C.L.J. 53.

Origin and presumption as to occupancy. See WAZIB-UL-ARZ, cl. 11, 4 N.L.R. 149.

——3.—Loss of Right.

(1)—Lease—Act XI of 1859.—Where, under a howla-lease which provided for the digging of tanks and making homesteads and gardens, the defendant was in possession for 40 years, and had incurred expenses in excavating tanks, making gardens and erecting homesteads, he was held to be protected under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859. GIRISH CHUNDER BANERJEE v. SREEMUTTY GUNGA DOORGA, 25 W.R. 60.

(2)—Cultivating rights unexercised for a series of years—Lapse of rights.—There was no provision for the preservation of cultivating rights when unclaimed and unexercised for a series of years even though the reason of this might be the death of the cultivator and the minority of his son. RUTTUN SINGH v. EASHER SINGH, 5 P.R. 1872. [R., 111 P.R. 1889, 2 P.R. 1901, Rev.=56 P.L.R. 1901, 3 P.R. 1910=157 P. L.R. 1910.]

(3)—Continuous occupancy—Act XXVIII of 1868, s. 36—Cultivation without interruption.—The rights of a hereditary cultivator are not lost by non-continuity of occupation, if the cultivation of the holding has been provided for by him without interruption. If once the proprietor has been let into possession and the cultivation is not provided for by the tenant, there ensues a breach in the continuous occupancy required by s. 36 of Act XXVIII of 1868. Whether of longer or shorter duration, the breach is the only point in question, and the usual law of limitation for 12 years is not at all applicable in such case. SHIAN SINGH v. KHUSHIA, 22 P.R. 1876. [D., 80 P.R. 1876.]

(4)—Joint tenants—Plea of extinction by non-enjoyment not applicable inter se.—The rule that an occupancy right will be extinguished, if the land is not continuously occupied, applies only to the case of landlord versus tenant, and not between tenants jointly cultivating the land. In the latter case, it is enough to show that the right is maintained as against the landlord, though not as between the tenants inter se. KARM DIN v. JIWA, 111 P.R. 1889. (5 P.R. 1872, 12 P.R. 1879, 156 P.R. 1884, D.)

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

—3.—Loss of Right—continued.

(5)—Occupancy tenancy—Quitting of land by tenant—Right of landlord to re-enter.—Where an occupancy tenant quitted the land in favour of a transferee from him and severed all connections between himself and the land, the landlord was entitled to re-enter the land, inasmuch as under the Rent Law an occupancy tenant had no transferable right in the land. RAM CHUNDER ROY CHOWDHRY v. BHOLONATH LUSHKUR, 22 W.R. 200. [F., 25 W.R. 104; App., 9 C. 648.]

(6)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupancy, Abandonment of—Khodkast Ryot.—The right of occupancy given by s. 6, Act X of 1859, is simply what it professes to be, a right to occupy and hold the land. If the ryot, of his own free will, quits and abandons the land, there is nothing in s. 6 to prevent the zemindar from re-letting the land and getting the rent to which he is entitled from a new tenant. HARO DAS v. GOBIND BUTTACHARJEE, 3 B.L.R. App 123=12 W.R. 304. [F., 24 W.R. 344.]

(7)—Hereditary cultivator, Abandonment by—Effect.—Any voluntary abandonment of cultivation by a hereditary cultivator, which entails on the proprietor the necessity of making new arrangements and lead thereby to the introduction of other cultivators, destroys the right of occupation possessed by the hereditary cultivator, and precludes him from afterwards claiming possession. ABDULLAH v. CHIRAG, 78 P.R. 1876.

(8)—Occupancy tenant—Voluntary abandonment of tenure—Absence of arrangement for cultivation—Forfeiture—Occupancy holding devolving on minor abandonment in case of.—A and his brothers were the recorded occupancy-tenants of the land in dispute of which the defendant was the proprietor. It was found by the lower Courts that A went away 14 years ago taking his two brothers, who were then minors, with him, without providing for the cultivation and for the continuance of the occupancy right. Held that the rights of A were lost, since a tenure such as the present one cannot but absolutely determine, if the tenant voluntarily abandon it even for a single harvest without making proper arrangements for its cultivation. Also, when an occupancy holding devolves on a minor, the minor's rights will be absolutely destroyed even while he is still a minor, unless a de jure or de facto guardian comes forward and cultivates for him or arranges for the cultivation, and, consequently, when A went away with his brothers, he destroyed their rights as well as his own. JUMMA v. AHMAD ALI KHAN, 156 P.R. 1884. [R., 111 P.R. 1889.]

(9)—Tenant with right of occupancy—Voluntary relinquishment for a year—Continuous occupation.—The question in this case was whether the voluntary relinquishment of land by a tenant with rights of occupancy for the space of one year avoided the tenant's right in the land. Held that, according to the Punjab Tenancy Act, continuous occupation of the land occupied was one of the essential ingredients constituting a right of occupancy. A man who voluntarily relinquished his rights in the land did not retain the right to re-enter, in the absence of express or implied agreement. ALI MAHOMED v. GAMOO, 38 P.R. 1871. [R., 80 P.R. 1876.]

(10)—Absolute—Occupancy holding to a minor—Surrender of, by a guardian when binding on minor—Absolute occupancy tenant right when might be lost—Absolute occupancy tenant and ordinary tenant—Difference between the rights—Applicability of Tenancy Act to absolute occupancy tenants.—The validity of a surrender, by the guardian of an absolute occupancy holding belonging to a minor, as operating to put an end to the rights of the minor thereto, must be judged by the same considerations as apply to the acts of guardian with respect to ordinary property as laid down in Hanooman Persaud's case. (6 M.I.A. 393, R.) So if the surrender is not a prudent act, and is in excess of the guardian's qualified powers, it cannot so operate as to destroy the absolute occupancy tenant-right. An absolute occupancy tenant-right will not be lost, by reason of the tenant's connection with his land ceasing to exist by means of a transaction not binding on him, unless such severance of the tenant's connection amounts to a dispossession extending over the full statutory period of limitation for suits for land. Although the Tenancy Act incorporates an absolute-occupancy tenant within its sphere of operation and classes him as a tenant along with tenants properly so called, yet in its essence his right to something quite apart from the rights of tenants proper. Mere inclusion in the Act does not subject him to the disabilities of tenants, apart from what the Act specially provides for. RACHO v. SADOO, 6 N.L.R. 6. [R., 6 N.L.R. 69.]

(11)—Abandonment of holding and non-payment of rent by occupancy ryot—Landlord's rights—Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.), s. 22.—S. 22 of the Bengal Act VIII of 1869 could not have intended that, where an occupancy tenant, whatever his rights may be under the section, abandons his holding and ceases to pay rent for five years, his landlord should not be able to put another tenant in possession, without recourse to the formality of a suit. GOLAM ALI MUNDUL v. GOLAP SOONDARY DASSEE, 8 C. 612=10 C.L.R. 499. [Expl. & D., 14 C. 751.]

(12)—Non-payment of rent, effect of.—The mere non-payment of rent will not be sufficient to extinguish a right of occupancy. NILMONY DASSY v. SONATH DOSHAYI, 15 C. 17. (12 C. 115, Expl.)

Right of Occupancy — continued.

— 3 — Loss of Right—continued.

(13)—Non-payment of rent during submersion land—Forfeiture of occupancy rights on its re-formation.—Tenants, with occupancy rights in land, who had not paid any rent at all during the period of the submersion of such land for a number of years, would forfeit their occupancy rights on the reformation of such land. The right of occupancy is one which is to be maintained by regular and punctual payment of the rent payable. HEMNATH DUTT v. ASHGUR SINDAR, 4 C. 894. (13 M.I.A. 467 =5 B.L.R. 521, R.) [Not F., 18 A. 290; Expl., 14 C. 751; F., 6 C.L.J. 149.]

(14)—Suit to recover land by dispossessed occupancy ryot—Non-payment of rent, effect of.—A suit by a dispossessed ryot, who had for some years previous to suit failed to pay rent, for recovery of possession, was held unsustainable, on the ground of his having had no subsisting title at the date of suit, in spite of his prior established occupancy right. HEM CHANDRA CHOWDHURI v. CHAND AKUND, 12 C. 115. [Expl., 15 C. 17; D., 14 C. 751.]

(15)—Landlord and tenant—Occupancy tenancy—Right of tenant to create intermediate tenure—Transfer of non-transferable tenure—Right of purchaser.— An occupancy tenant has no right to create an intermediate tenure between himself and the landlord. If a ryot, not having a transferable tenure, quits possession, makes over his interests and gives over the land to a third person, he may be treated as having abandoned all rights formerly possessed by him in the land. His position is similar to that of a tenant-at-will, whose interest and tenancy at will are determined by his quitting the land. When a purchaser takes possession of a non-transferable tenure, and interposes himself between the Zemindar and the ryots on the land, he, by that act, commits a wrong and it is competent to the Zemindar to redress that wrong by bringing a suit to declare that no interest is vested in such purchaser, or to restrain him from interfering with the collection of rent. HUREEHUR MOOKERJEE v. JODOONATH GHOSE, 7 W.R. 114. [F., 11 W.R. 354; R., 20 W.R. 139.]

(16)—Right of occupancy—Alienation by deed—Possession by transferee—A deed which purports to transfer a mere right of occupancy in land is invalid, or, at any rate, invalid unless possession is taken under it by the transferee. MAHOMED TUMEEZOODDEEN MUNDUL v. LUKHEE NARAIN DEY SIRCAR, 25 W.R. 104.

(17)—Alienation by tenant — Forfeiture — Power to enforce such condition—Delay—Effect.—The terms of the wajib ul-arz provided that, if the tenants alienated their interests to third persons, they would be held to have forfeited their rights of occupancy. This condition was never enforced during a long course of years and was treated as obsolete by the parties. Held that, under these circumstances, a landlord cannot enforce this clause, as it was treated as a dead letter especially when the plaintiff was guilty of laches in bringing the suit. SUKHDEO v. ABDUL RAHMAN, 6 P.R. 1889.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—— 3.—Loss of Right—continued.

(18)—Occupancy ryot—Sub-lessee, rights of—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—Under s. 6 of Act X of 1859, a ryot with a right of occupancy does not lose his right by sub-letting his land; but the lessee thereby gains no right. KALEE KISHORE CHATTERJEE v. RAM CHURN SHAH, 9 W.R. 344.

(19)—Occupancy ryot—Asserting right to transfer land—Remaining in possession—Effect.—A tenant having a right of occupancy is not liable to ejectment by the landlord, merely because he has asserted a transferable right in the lands and has sold that right to a stranger, without abandoning the possession of the holding. SRISHTEEDHUR BISWAS v. MUDAN SIRDAR, 9 C. 648. (13 B.L.R. 274=22 W.R. 22, 22 W.R. 200, D.; 4 C. 925, R.) [F., 33 C. 531=3 C.L.J. 343; Appr., 9 C.W.N. 379, 11 C.W.N. 811=34 C. 689=7 C.L.J. 78; Expl., 30 B. 290=7 Bom. L.R. 941; R., 7 C. P. L.R. 45, 9 C.P.L.R. 101, 2 C.W.N. 63, 13 C.P. L.R. 39, 15 C.P.L.R. 17, 9 C.W.N. 56; D., 24 C. 212, 11 C.W.N. 873=9 C.L.J. 303.]

(20)—Tenancy of ordinary puttahdar—Right of tenant, assignable — Verbal surrender by tenant to landlord with knowledge of assignment—Assignment not rendered void.—The tenancy of an ordinary puttahdar in this Presidency, when properly created, entitles the tenant to the right of occupancy for the purpose of cultivation until default in the payment of the stipulated rent or surrender to the landlord in writing, and the right of the tenant is assignable as a mortgage security. [Diss., 6 M.H.C. 164; R., 1 M. 205, F.B., 210, 211, 4 M. 174, 7 M. 374, 11 M. 77, 13 M. 60, 23 M. 318.] A verbal surrender by the tenant to the landlord after the assignment was known to the landlord cannot be relied on as rendering the assignment void. VENKATARAMANIER v. ANANDA CHETTY, 5 M.H.C. 120.

(21)—Act X of 1859, s. 25—Eviction.—A zemindar cannot eject a ryot having a right of occupancy by giving a patta to another party. In any case under s. 25 of Act X of 1859, the zemindar must have proceeded to the ejectment by due process of law, and not proprio motu. SHEIKH KHOSAL v. SHEIKH SHUKOWDEE, 1 W.R. 119. [R., 14 C.W.N. 297=3 Ind. Cas. 436.]

(22)—Ejectment—Auction-purchaser of a jote—Right of occupancy—Transfer—Remand.—A zamindar sued to eject the defendant on the ground that the Jote which he occupied was not transferable. The defendant asserted that the Jote was a transferable one and that he had purchased it at an auction sale in execution of a decree against one D to whom it had belonged and that the tenure so acquired by him was mowrosee. Both the lower Courts dismissed the suit on the ground that a mere right of occupancy was transferable, the Full Bench decision in 22 W R. 22 not having been published when the case was decided by them. Under the circumstances the High Court remanded the case to the original Court to find whether the defendant was entitled to a higher right than a mere right of occupancy under Act VIII (B C.) of 1869, and to decide the case accordingly. MRS. M. R. HYES v. MOONSHEE MONEERUDDEEN AHUNG, 24 W.R. 6. [F., 15 C. 89.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—3.—Loss of Right—continued.

(23)—Revenue sale of tenure—Suit by auction-purchaser against defaulting proprietor—Proceedings in prior suit at instance of latter, admissibility of.—An auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of Government revenue does not claim through the defaulting proprietor, so as to make proceedings between the defaulting proprietor and third parties, with respect to the title to the land, admissible in evidence in a subsequent suit by the auction-purchaser as against him. RADHA GOBIND KOER v. RAKHAL DAS MOOKHERJI, 12 C. 82 (14 W.R. 283 and 8 W.R. 22, reviewed) [F., 34 C. 868; R.. 13 C.P.L.R. 1, 24 B. 591=2 Bom. L.R. 386, 9 C.W.N. 383.]

(24)—Extinguishment of—On purchase of proprietary rights by occupancy tenant—Effect of the purchase on his sub-tenant's holding.—If an occupancy tenant purchases the entire proprietary rights in a village, the occupancy rights are extinguished and therefore under ordinary circumstances any sub-tenancy which is grafted upon the tenancy is also determined and the sub-tenant can only become a tenant by virtue of a contract of tenancy entered into directly with the members of the proprietary body. (6 C. P. L.R. 74, F.) But, however, though a surrender operates between the parties as an extinguishment of the interest which is surrendered, it does not so operate as to third persons, who, at the time of the surrender, had rights which such extinguishment would destroy and as to them, the surrender operates only as a grant, subject to their right, and the interest surrendered still has, for the preservation of their right, continuance. The sub-tenant, therefore, could only resist the claim for possession by pleading and proving the existence of some equity which would keep the occupancy rights alive, or by establishing a new contract or tenancy subsequent to extinguishment of such rights. SAKARAM SONAR v. MADHO RAO, 2 N.L.R. 29.

(25)—Putni lease—Right of occupancy—Ejectment—Change in proprietary title.—Mere change in the proprietary title of an estate does not entitle a putnidar to eject a tenant if he can prove a right of occupancy in the land. RAM GHOSE v. RADHA CHURN GANGOOLY, 15 W.R. 417.

(26)—Suit in ejectment—Defendant in possession—Right of occupancy—Onus of proof.—In a suit in ejectment, where the defendant in possession derived his right from the zemindar, the plaintiff (a prior tenant) cannot succeed unless he shows that the zemindar was not in a position to give the defendant leave to occupy the land, and that he himself had such a right of occupancy or of some superior nature which controlled the zemindar's power to give the land to the defendant. ANUND CHUNDER MUDDUCK v. RASH BEHAREE DEY, 23 W.R. 59.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—3.—Loss of Right—continued.

(27)—Tenant obtaining right of occupancy—Suit in ejectment—Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.), s. 6.—A tenant who has obtained a right of occupancy under s. 6, Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.), could be ejected only by a suit brought under the Act. MOONSHEE JOWAD HOSSAIN v. MAHABIR SAHEE 23 W.R. 411.

(28)—Act X of 1859, s. 21—Ryot with right of occupancy, Ejectment of, in execution of decree under Rent Law.—S. 21 of Act X of 1859 provides that a ryot with a right of occupancy can be ejected in execution of a decree or order under the Rent Law RAJ MOHUN NEOGEE v. ANUND CHUNDER CHOWDHRY, 10 W.R. 166.

(29)—Occupancy ryot in Assam—Patta—Right to—Government—Loss of right.—The mere fact that an occupancy ryot in Assam does not apply to the Government for a patta so soon as another who is not in possession of the land, cannot constitute such want of diligence on his part as would make him liable to forfeit his right (i e., the right to have a patta). MORA RABHA v. DHEW RABHA, 17 W.R. 158.

(30)—Succession to right of hereditary cultivation of land—Rights acquired under prior wajib-ul-arz—New wajib-ul arz, effect of.—Nephews and nephews' sons of a deceased occupancy tenant have a right to succeed to his holding by virtue of a clause in a wajib-ul-arz giving the right of succession first to brothers, then to cousins and then to near relations respectively; and a new wajib-ul arz would not take away rights which accrued to the nephews under the old one. HARRI SINGH v. RANJIT SINGH, 56 P.R. 1874. [F., 61 P.R. 1875; Cons., 121 P.R. 1883; D., 8 P.R. 1884.]

(31)—Right to hold at fixed rates or of occupancy—Written lease not essential.—Ryots in this country seldom hold written leases, and such ryots cannot lose their right to hold, and to hold even at fixed rates, merely because they could not produce a written lease. DOORGA CHURN MULLICK v. BHOORMON MANJHEE, 6 W.R. 195.

(32)—Contract of tenancy—Personal residence, condition of contract—Breach of condition—Forfeiture of tenancy.—The introductory clause in a contract of tenancy began as follows:—"We tenants live in Mouza M, and have been located there by S, who brought us from other liaquas, now by consent, &c." It was further stipulated that the proprietor was to receive certain fees from the tenants residing in that village on the occasion of marriage occurring either in the houses of the tenants or of the proprietor. R who had received certain land according to this contract omitted to reside in the village, the cultivation of the land having been carried on by his brother. Held that, under the terms of the contract, the personal residence in the village of each contracting tenant was contemplated in the contract; that as non-residence of such tenant would deprive the proprietor of those fees, forfeiture of his tenancy would necessarily follow his failure to reside in the village. SODHI MAN SINGH v. RURA, 78 P.R. 1874.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——3.—Loss of Right—concluded.

(33)—Suit for declaration of occupancy status of superior kind—Facts showing right to lower status—Court's duty—Decision of appeal without reward—Punjab Tenancy Act, ss. 5, 6, 8.—If the facts in a case show that, though the plaintiff may not be entitled to the status claimed by him, he may be entitled to an inferior status, the Court is bound to have the plaint amended and decide the same. The fact that the Collector had to decide an appeal without being able to examine the record is per se a ground for remand. CHINGA v. MANGAT RAM, 3 P.R. 1898.

See ABANDONMENT OF TENURE, 58 P.R. 1876.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1869, ss. 6, 52, 9 C. 304=11 C.L.R. 417.

Occupancy Ryot—Mere non-payment of rent, effect of—Abandonment of tenancy—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1869, s. 52, 14 C. 751.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 19, 21 C. 129.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 22, sub-s. 3, 18 C. 121.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 2, 22 P.R. 1879.

See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 59 (4), 36 P.L.R. 1901.

See JOINT TENANCY, 2 P.R. 1867.

See LIMITATION — MISCELLANEOUS, 54 P.R. 1879.

See PRESUMPTION, 1 P.R. 1871, Rev.

See RES JUDICATA—ADJUDICATIONS, 77 P.R. 1877, 45 P.R. 1879.

See VALUATION OF SUITS, 28 P.R 1879.

——4.—Transfer of Right.

(1)—Right of occupancy—Transfer.—A right of occupancy cannot be transferred, and it is necessary for the defendant to have been in continuous occupation. CHANDRABATI KOERI v. HARRINGTON, 18 C. 349, P.C.=5 Sar. 481 =18 I.A. 27.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(2)—Act VIII of 1869, (B C.), s. 6—Right of occupancy—Transfer—Abandonment—Suit by zemindar in ejectment.—In 1838, a zemindar granted to one K a patta of banjar waste land at a yearly rent to hold the same by raising bunds and excavating tanks in, and by cultivating the said land himself or by means of tenants, from generation to generation as a mukarrari tenure, and there was a stipulation that the rate of rent should never be changed. K held under the patta until December 1859 when his right, title and interest were sold in execution of a decree and purchased by the defendant who obtained possession and was accepted by the zemindar as his tenant under the patta in the place of K. In May 1871, the zemindari was sold for arrears of Government revenue and purchased by the plaintiff; and in September 1871, the plaintiff delivered to the defendant a notice to quit, and on his refusal to do so, brought the present suit to eject him. Held that the right of occupancy which K had acquired under s. 6 of Ben. Act VIII of 1869 was not transferable, and on the facts of this case, it must be taken that K had either abandoned his right altogether so that it cannot be set up in answer to the suit by the landlord for possession, or that his right had ceased, had been put an end to, because it existed only so long as the ryot himself continued to hold or cultivate the land. If a ryot having such a right of occupancy endeavours to transfer it to another person, and in fact, quits his occupations and ceases himself to cultivate or hold the land, he may be rightly considered to have abandoned his right, and nothing is left in him which would prevent the zemindar from recovering possession from the person who claims under the transfer. And not only may he be considered to have abandoned it, but the right which is given by the law is one which exists only so long as he holds or cultivates the land; when he ceases to do that, by selling his supposed right and putting another in his place, his right is gone and cannot stand in the way of the landlord's recovering possession. NARENDRA NARAYAN ROY CHOWDHRY v. ISHAN CHANDRA SEN, 13 B.L.R. 274, F.B.= 22 W.R. 22. [F., 22 W.R. 169, 22 W.R. 200, 24 W.R. 6, 25 W.R. 104, 4 C. 925=4 C.L.R. 130, 15 C. 89, 24 C. 212=1 C.W.N. 163, 2 C.W.N. 63; Cons., 4 C. 925=4 C.L.R. 130; R., 4 C.L.J. 298, 24 W.R. 72, 9 C. 304, 8 A. 467= A.W.N. 1886, 192, 14 C. 382, 17 C. 826, 24 C. 355=1 C.W.N. 396, 7 C.W.N. 572, 2 C.L.J. 369, 12 C.W.N. 899=7 C.L.J. 72, 7 C.L.J. 78 =11 C.W.N. 811=34 C. 689, 8 Ind. Cas. 825; D., 22 W.R. 493, 9 C. 648, 20 C. 590, 1 C.W.N. 160, 7 Bom. L.R. 941=30 B. 290, 3 C.L.J. 343=33 C. 531.]

(3) Act X of 1859, s. 6 (1)—Right of occupancy—Transferable tenure.—The gaining of a right of occupancy, in a non-transferable tenure under s. 6, Act X of 1859, does not make the tenure transferable. Quære:—Per Peacock, C.J.—Whether a right of occupancy gained

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

under the same section is necessarily heritable? AJOODHIA PERSAD v. MUSSAMUT EMAMBANDEE BEGUM, B.L R. Sup. Vol. 725=7 W.R. 528. [F., 11 W.R. 162, 11 W.R. 405; R., 16 W.R. 111, 23 C. 179, 24 C. 207=1 C W.N. 89, 34 C. 516, F.B.=11 C.W.N. 626=5 C.L.J. 457; D., 12 W.R. 110.]

(4)—Occupancy right, a personal right—Transferability—Suit by transferee of a share for joint possession with co-sharers, if maintainable—Estoppel.—The right of occupancy is a right personal to the particular raiyat and cannot be transferred (7 W.R. 28, 22 W.R. 22, 18 C. 353, 24 C. 355, 1 C.W.N. 396, 26 C. 727, 26 C. 937, Rel.; 15 W.R. 152, 17 W.R. 179, R.). The transferee of the share to one of several persons jointly owning an occupancy holding cannot claim joint possession of the holding as against his transferor's co-sharers, there being no room in such a case for the application of the doctrine of estoppel. SREEMATI AGARJAN BIBI v. PANAULLA, 14 C.W.N. 779=6 Ind. Cas. 452=37 C. 687. (2 C.W.N. cclxxix, 13 C.W.N. 630, Expl.; 4 C.W.N. 679, 11 C.W.N. 76, 14 C.W.N. 71, D.)

(5)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupance—Transfer, Mode of—Transfer of jote—Zemindar's consent—Transferee's rights.—The right of occupancy stated in s. 6 of Act X of 1859 is not a right which can be transferred except as laid down in the Act. It is a right which is attended with certain privileges which are stated in the Act; those privileges can only be acquired under the distinct circumstances stated in that Act [F., 14 C.W.N. 779=6 Ind. Cas. 452=37 C. 687.] Where the zemindar consents to the transfer of a jote, the transferee thereby merely acquires a new jote on the same terms as the original tenure was held. He might in time acquire a right of occupancy, but he is not entitled, to make up his right of occupancy, to add the time during which his predecessor held it. TARA PERSHAD ROY v. SOORJOO KANT ACHARJEE CHOWDHRY, 15 W.R. 152. [F., 14 C.W.N. 779=6 Ind. Cas. 452=37 C. 687.]

(6)—Right of occupancy—Transfer of right—Consent of zemindar.—A bare right of occupancy is not transferable irrespective of the consent or otherwise of the zemindar. BUTI SINGH v. MURAT SINGH, 13 B.L.R. 284, Note =20 W.R. 478. [F., 22 W.R. 22.]

(7)—Unauthorised alienation—Recovery of land by landlord—Right of tenant to get back possession.—A tenant alienated his holding without the landlord's consent. The landlord sued for recovery and obtained possession of the land to obtain a re-entry on his holding. Held, that he was entitled to succeed without proving that he is no longer bound for some reason or other by the contract originally made by him. KHUDA BAKSH v. FAZIL DIN, 17 P.R. 1892, F.B. [F., 6 P.R. 1893, Rev.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(8)—Sale of occupancy-rights by tenant with Zemindar's consent—Act XVIII of 1873 (N.W.P. Rent Act), s. 9.—A sale of occupancy-rights when made by a tenant with the consent of the Zemindar is not void under s. 9 of the Rent Act, 1873. And when, after such a sale, the Zemindar receives from the vendee the arrears of rent due from the vendor, and recognises him as a tenant, he would be estopped from questioning the sale and claiming to eject the vendee (1 A. 547, R.)—Olafield, J. The transfer of occupancy-rights being prohibited by law (s. 9 of the Rent Act), such a sale is invalid with reference to the provisions of ss. 2 and 23 of the Contract Act. But when the Zemindar had accepted the vendee as a tenant and received rent from him, a tenancy under the Rent Act was created, and the vendee not being a trespasser, the question of his ejectment would not be cognisable by a Civil Court—Mahmood J. DURGA v. JHINGURI, 7 A. 511=A.W.N. 1885, 135. (1 A. 547, D.) [R., 10 C.P.L.R. 53, 6 O.C. 331.]

(9)—Right of occupancy—Transfer - Tacking of possession—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Consent of zemindar.—The right of occupancy stated in s. 6, Act X of 1859 is not a right which can be transferred except as laid down in the Act. Where a jote is transferred, even if the zemindar consented to the transfer, the transferee merely acquires a new jote on the same terms as the original tenure was held. He might in time acquire a right of occupancy, but he is not entitled to make up his right of occupancy, to add the time during which his predecessor held it. TARAPRASAD ROY v. SURJOKANTO ACHARJEE CHOWDHRY, 13 B.L.R. 281, Note =15 W.R. 152.

(10)—Non-transferable—Purchase by landlord in execution of money decree, whether subject to previous mortgage- Estoppel—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 115.—Where in execution of a money decree, the landlords of a non-transferable occupancy holding purchased the holding after it had been mortgaged by the tenants in favour of a third party, held, that in a suit by the latter to enforce the mortgage, the landlords were not estopped from setting up the defence that the holding was not transferable without their consent. That the sale of the holding by the landlords did not amount to a representation that it was transferable without their consent, but only that it was transferable with their consent. That the landlords did not merely purchase the equity of redemption, the English law of mortgage not being applicable to the case. The law of estoppel in force in this country is contained in s. 115 of the Evidence Act. BIBI ASMATUNNESSA KATUN SAHEBA v. HARENDRA LAL BISWAS, 12 C.W.N. 721=8 C.L.J. 29=35 C. 904. (11 C.W.N. 76, D.)

(11)—Occupancy holding—Sale in execution of decree—Consent of fractional landlord—Sale if legal.—Where a decree-holder's application for sale of an occupancy holding was granted to the extent of 15¼ annas share, upon the finding that co-sharer-landlords to that extent had consented to the sale. Held, that, in the present state of authorities, the order should be maintained, the purchaser purchasing at his peril. SHAKARUDDIN CHOUDRY v. RANI HEMANGINI DASI, 16 C.W.N. 420=13 Ind. Cas. 188.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

— 4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(12)—Occupancy right—Transfer by tenant—Recognition of transfer by zemindar—Equity.—Though a right of occupancy is not transferable, the acts and conduct of the zemindar may take the case out of the purview of the Full Bench ruling in 22 W.R. 22. If it is proved that there has been a clear recognition of the transfer by the zemindar and that the latter has done everything in his power in accepting the transferees as his tenants, he cannot subsequently be permitted to impeach the transfer. SHAIKH AMEEN BUKSH v. BHYRO MUNDUL, 22 W.R. 493. (22 W.R. 22, R.)

(13)—Ryot having right of occupancy—Sub-lease—Mokurruree lease.—A ryot having a right of occupancy can create a mokurruree lease in favour of a third party without the consent of his landlord. The term of the lease granted by him can only be binding as between them both. The landlord is not deprived of any legal right which he possesses, but if he chooses to dispossess the sub-lessee without the sanction of law, he is certainly guilty of trespass. DUMREE SHAIKH v. BISSESSUR LALL, 13 W.R. 291.

(14)—Ss. 53 (10) and 60—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887—"Landlord"—Meaning of—Joint and general rights.—The rights given by s. 53, Punjab Tenancy Act to land-holders are not merely joint rights belonging to all the landlords in a body but are also several by force of cl. (10), if the rights are not exercised jointly by the whole body. "Landlord" in s. 60 means all or some or only one of the owners according to circumstances and with due regard to equitable considerations. BUDH SINGH v MIHAN SINGH, 65 P.R. 1894. (92 P.R. 1887, D.) [R., 7 P.R. 1905, Rev.]

(15)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 5, 6, 53, 55, 60—Sale of occupancy rights without landlord's consent—Acquiescence—Rights of tenants.—A deed of sale by occupancy tenants holding under s. 5, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, was registered on the 27th February, 1899, and mutation was effected in the April following. The alience then continued to pay the rents to the landlord who was accepting them. Hence, a suit filed by him in 1903 to cancel the sale was held to be unsustainable, as he was estopped by his conduct from disputing the sale. BHAGA v. KARISHAN, 8 P.R. 1904, Rev.=60 P.L.R. 1905. (1 P.R. 1898, Rev., 2 P.R. 1898, Rev., R.) [R., 3 P.R. 1907, Rev.=4 P.W.R. 1907, Rev.]

(16)—Sale of occupancy in tenure in favour of landlord—Validity of such transfer.—Held that the sale of an occupancy tenure by a tenant to his landlord is valid. BINDA PRASAD AND OTHERS v. RAJENDRA PRASAD, 10 O.C. 235. (13 A. 396, R.) [R., 11 O.C. 292; Cited, 12 O.C. 267.]

(17)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 53 and 57—Alienation of right to landlord—Effect.—After the sale by an occupancy tenant of his rights to the landlords, the reversioners cannot then sue for a declaration that such sale will not bind their reversionary rights. Scope of ss. 53 and 57 of Act XVI of 1887 explained. DIDARU v. BANNA, 31 P.R. 1896, F.B. [R., 38 P.R. 1909=60 P.W.R. 1907, 115 P.R. 1901=115 P.L.R. 1901, 24 P.R. 1902, F.B., 3 P.R. 1910, Rev., Rel. on, 38 P.R. 1909=60 P.W.R. 1907.]

(18)—Occupancy rights—Alienation of occupancy rights—Sale by tenant to landlord—Reversioners—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 53, 56.—The reversioner of an occupancy tenant is incompetent to dispute the validity of a sale of occupancy rights made by a tenant to one of his landlords. NIHAL SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH, 24 P.R. 1902, F.B. (31 P.R. 1896, F.B., 89 P.R. 1898, F.B., 68 P.R. 1894, 68 P.R. 1900, R.) [Obs., 38 P.R. 1909=60 P.W.R. 1909.]

(19)—Mutation proceedings—Transfer of occupancy right—Landlord's consent not necessary.—Mutation of names relating to transfer of occupancy rights must not be refused, simply because the landlord refuses his consent, or because the provisions of s. 53 or s. 56, Punjab Tenancy Act, have not been complied with, if the transfer has taken place as a matter of fact. HARNAM SINGH v. DHARM DAS, 44 P.L.R. 1903.

(20)—Right of occupancy—Sale—Custom.—The determination of the question whether any particular tenure with right of occupancy is saleable or not, depends upon local custom. SREERAM BOSE v. BISSONATH GHOSE, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul. 2.

(21)—Right of occupancy—Transfer—Custom—Dowl silent re right to transfer—Presumption.—In order to make a right of occupancy transferable it must be shown that it is so transferable according to the custom of that part of the country in which the tenure is situated. The power to transfer a right of occupancy cannot be presumed to exist, simply because the dowl makes no mention of the right to transfer. UNNOPOORNA DOSSIA v. OOMA CHURN DOSS, 13 W.R. 55.

(22)—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), ss. 178, 183—Occupancy rights, transferability of—Usage—Local usage—Custom.—The usage to which ss. 178 and 183 of the Tenancy Act refer is not confined to a usage existing at the time of the passing of that Act. A long period of time must elapse before a custom in respect of the transferability of occupancy holdings can grow up; but this is not necessarily the case with regard to the growth of a 'usage' or 'local usage' in respect of this matter. There is a great difference between a custom and a usage and the latter may be established in a much less period of time than a custom. What is necessary to establish a local usage of the transferability of occupancy holdings is, evidence of purchases or transfers by persons other than the landlords, made with the knowledge, but without the consent, of the latter, and to which no objection was made by the latter. EDWARD DALGLEISH v. SHEIK GOZAFFAR, 3 C.W.N. 21. [F., 6 C.W.N. 861, 6 C.W.N. 181; R., 8 C.W.N. 214, 8 C.W.N. 235, 3 C.L.J. 521.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(23)—Occupancy holding—Transferability—Local usage must be mature—Local usage, proof of, as to transferability.—A transfer of an occupancy holding cannot be justified by local usage which is still "growing up." The usage should have fructuated into maturity. To establish a usage as to the transferability of occupancy holdings in a locality, it is not enough to prove that several cases of transfer of such holdings have actually taken place. It is necessary to prove that such transfers have been made with the knowledge and without the consent of the landlord, and that no successful objection to such transfer has been made by the landlord. RAMHURI SINGH v. JUBBAR ALI MEAH, 6 C.W.N. 861. (3 C.W.N. 21, F.; 6 C.W.N. 181, R.) [R., 8 C.W.N. 235.] See also, RAJENDRA KISHORE ADHIKARI v. CHANDRA NATH DUTT, 12 C.W.N. 878, infra.

(24)—Occupancy holding — Local usage to transfer—Proof of local usage.—Where the question was whether an occupancy holding was transferable and the lower appellate Court found as follows:—"There is abundant evidence on the record to show that such lands are actually sold in the locality, and the Kobalas filed in this case support this fact." Held that this did not amount to finding of local usage. DINO NATH GHOSH v. NOBIN CHUNDER GHOSE, 6 C.W.N. 181. [D., 2 Ind. Cas. 992.]

(25)—Transferability of occupancy holding—Custom and usage, proof of.—To prove a custom or usage that occupancy holdings are transferable in any locality it is not sufficient to show simply that such holdings are sold in the village or neighbouring villages. The essence of a usage of transferability is that transfers made to the knowledge of, but without the consent of, the landlord are valid and must be recognised by him. (8 C.W.N. 172, F.) When occupancy holdings are not transferable by custom, the person who purchases them in execution of a money-decree purchase nothing. They are not transferable as between the judgment-debtor and the decree-holder. PEARY MOHAN MUKERJEE v. JOTE KUMAR MUKERJEE, 11 C.W.N. 83. [R., 2 Ind. Cas. 96.]

(26)—Sale of holding by tenant—Right of purchaser to standing crops—Transfer without zemindar's consent—Whether allowable by custom.—It is undoubtedly the general rule in the N.W.P., that a tenant's holding cannot be transferred without the zemindar's consent, but exceptions to this rule are by no means rare. The purchaser of a tenant's holding was entitled to have a distinct decision on the question as to whether or not tenants with a right of occupancy in the estate in which the holding in suit is situate, are competent by custom to transfer their holdings without the zemindar's consent. MEER HADAYAT ALEE v. BABOO LALL SINGH, 1 N.W.P. 96.

(27)—Non-transferable — Transfer, if may by questioned by transferor's heirs—Transfer by will—Void or voidable—Landlord's option.—The transfer of an occupancy holding which is not transferable by local custom or usage, is not a void transaction. It is binding between the parties, namely, the transferor and the transferee, and all persons claiming through them, and is voidable only at the option of the landlord. The heirs of an occupancy raiyat would therefore be bound by a transfer of the holding made by will HARI DAS BAIRAGI v. UDOY CHANDRA DAS BAIRAGI, 12 C.W.N 1086=8 C.L.J. 261. (4 C.W.N. 679, 2 C.W.N. cclxxix, 6 C.W.N. 624, 11 C.W.N. 76, Rel. on.)

(28)—Absolute occupancy holding—Right of tenant to bequeath holding—An absolute occupancy tenant cannot will away his holding. MT. ANANDI BAI v. HARLAL BRAHMAN, 15 C.P.L.R. 1. (3 C.P.L.R. 167, D.)

(29)—Custom of transferability on payment of fee—Fee not paid.—Where it was found that there was a custom to the effect that the transfer of occupancy rights was not valid except on payment of ordinary fees to the landlord, the transferee who has not paid the same does not acquire the right. SRIMUTHY SIBO SUNDARI GHOSE v. RAJ MOHUN GUHO, 8 C.W.N 214. [F., 2 Ind. Cas. 992; R., 12 C.W.N. 1086=8 C.L.J. 261.]

(30)—Decree for arrears of rent—Fractional co-sharer—Sale in execution—Occupancy holding not transferable by custom.—A fractional co-sharer who has obtained a decree for arrears of rent cannot bring to sale in execution of his decree an occupancy holding which is not transferable by custom or usage. SITA NATH CHATTERJEE v. ATMARAM KAR, 4 C.W.N. 571. [R., 1 C.L.J. 500. 10 C.W.N. 176=4 C.L.J. 68; D., 13 C.W.N. 630.]

(31)—Occupancy holding—Transfer contrary to local usage of portion of holding, if constitutes forfeiture of tenancy—Surrender of portion of holding—Landlord's right to re enter that portion—Encumbrance created prior to surrender, effect of—Act VIII of 1885 (Bengal Tenancy).—Where the entire holding of an occupancy raiyat has not been transferred contrary to local usage and custom, it cannot be said that there has been a forfeiture of the tenancy.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——4—Transfer of Right—continued.

(2 C.L.J. 369, F.) Where a raiyat surrenders a portion of his holding to the landlord, the landlord is entitled to re-enter that portion, notwithstanding any subordinate rights which the raiyat may have created upon that particular portion, and the mere fact that the landlord was aware of the incumbrance created by the raiyat cannot take away his right of re-entry. GAGAN CHANDRA CHOWDRY v. ALAK CHAND SAHA, 17 C.W.N. 698=18 Ind. Cas. 996. (2 C.L.J. 570, 12 C.W.N. 878, R.)

(32)—Act X, s. 6—Khoodkhasht ryot—Right of occupancy—Custom as to transferability of tenure of.—There is nothing unreasonable in the custom by which a khoodhasht ryot, who has built a pucca house upon the land, and has acquired a right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act X of 1859, should have power to put in a new tenant in his place. CHUNDER COOMER ROY v. KADERMONEE DOSSEE, 7 W.R. 247. [D., 11 W.R. 354.]

(33)—Right of occupancy—Zemindar and ryot—Ryot's power to transfer—Trespass—Damages.—A ryot's right of occupancy resting upon legislation and custom alone is not derived from the general proprietary right given to the zemindar by the Legislature, but derogates from and qualifies that right. Whatever the ryot has, the zemindar has all the rest which is necessary to complete ownership of the land; and amongst other rights, he must have such a right as will enable him to keep the possession of the soil in those persons who are entitled to it. The ryots have no power to transfer to a third party their right to have possession of and to use the soil for their own benefit. Where such a transfer has been made, and the transferee is in possession, the zemindar, as owner, has a right to evict him as a trespasser and to claim damages to the extent of so much of his rents and profits as the trespasser prevented him from receiving. BIBEE SOHODWA v. SMITH, 12 B.L.R. 82=20 W.R. 139. [F., 22 W.R. 22; Appr., 15 C. 89; R., 8 A. 467, 17 C. 826, 3 C.L.J. 521.]

(34)—Transfer whether operates as forfeiture.—The mere transfer of a right of occupancy does not work as a forfeiture of the rights and interests of occupancy ryots themselves in the land. GORACHAND MUSTAFI v. MADAN MOHAN SIKDAR, 13 B.L.R. 279, Note=11 W.R. 94. [F., 16 W.R. 111.]

(35)—Transferable—Transfer—Transferor in possession as tenant of transferee—Ejectment.—Where on a transfer of a non-transferable occupancy holding, the original tenant takes a sub-lease under the transferee, and, in a suit by the landlord for khas possession, pleads that the holding was transferable and that he is in occupation as a sub-tenant under the transferee, held, that the landlord is entitled to khas possession by ejecting both the original tenant and the transferee. KALI CHARAN GHOSH v. ARMAN BIBI, 13 C.W.N. 220=5 M.L.T. 276=4 Ind. Cas. 473. (11 C.W.N. 811=34 C. 689, Expl.)

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——4—Transfer of Right—continued.

(36)—Transfer of part of occupancy holding—Ejectment—Suit by landlord.—The transfer, by a raiyat with a right of occupancy, of a part of his holding does not entitle the landlord to recover possession of the land transferred by ejecting the transferee, in the absence of evidence to show that, by custom, such transfer is allowed. DURGA PROSAD SEN v. DOULA GAZEE, 1 C.W.N. 160. (20 C. 590, 3 C. 744, R.; 4 C. 925, 22 W.R. 22, D.) [R., 9 C.W.N. 134, 2 C.L.J. 369; D., 10 C.W.N. 818.]

(37)—Transferable occupancy right—Ejectment—Sale—Bengal Act VIII of 1869, ss. 22 and 59.—A tenant, who has an occupancy right that is transferable by sale, is not liable to ejectment, and the landlord can only sell the holding under s. 59 of the Bengal Rent Act (Mitter, J., doubting) (8 C. 675=10 C.L.R. 399, F.) Quaere.—Whether a tenant, having a right of occupancy or not, and whether such right of occupancy be saleable or not, is not liable, under s. 22 of the Bengal Rent Act, to ejectment, on an arrear of rent remaining due at the end of the year?—Per Mitter, J. FAKIR CHAND v. FOUZDAR MISSER, 10 C. 547.

(38)—N.W.P. Rent Act, XII of 1881, s. 9—Transfer of occupancy holding—Lease.—A lease of an occupancy holding for a period of fifteen years, the effect of which is to place the lessee in possession of the holding and of the right of occupancy is a transfer and is prohibited by s. 9, Act XII of 1881. WALI MUHAMMAD v. RAGHUBAR, A.W.N. 1889, 145. (7 A. 866, A.W.N. 1889, 145, F.; A.W.N. 1882, 80, R.) [Diss., 15 A. 219, F.B., 13 A. 403.]

(39)—Occupancy tenant—Lease in perpetuity of occupancy holding—Act XII of 1881 (N.W.P. Rent), s 9—"Transfer."—A lease in perpetuity of an occupancy holding is a "transfer" prohibited by s. 9 of the N.W.P. Rent Act (XII of 1881). JHARAN SINGH v. SHADI RAM, A.W.N. 1889, 145. (7 A. 866, F.; A.W.N. 1881, 11, A.W.N. 1882, 80, R.) [Diss., 15 A. 219, F.B.]

(40)—Landholder and tenant—Hypothecation of occupancy-right—Transfer—Act XVIII of 1873 (N.W.P. Rent Act), s. 9.—(By the Full Bench, Mahmood, J., dissenting).—The hypothecation, by an occupancy tenant, of his right of occupancy, is not a "transfer" within the meaning of s. 9 of the N.W.P. Rent Act, 1873. GOPAL PANDEY v. PARSOTAM DAS, 5 A. 121 F.B.=A.W.N. 1882, 128. [Exp., 5 A. 103; Cons., 13 A. 28; R., 5 A. 495, F.B., 7 A. 258, F.B., 7 A. 553, F.B., 7 A. 691, 7 A. 511, 10 B. 519, 8 A. 467, 10 A. 130, 14 B. 377, 10 C.P.L.R. 53, 12 C.P.L.R. 26.]

(41)—Act X of 1859, s. 6—Right of occupancy—Sub-letting does not transfer such right.—A ryot, by merely sub-letting his land, does not transfer, nor does his sub-lessee thereby gain, any right of occupancy, the rules laid down in s. 6, Act X of 1859, not applying, as respects the actual cultivator, to land sub-let for a term of years by a ryot having a right of occupancy. HARAN CHANDRA PAL v. MUKTA SUNDARI CHOWDRAIN, 1 B.L.R. A.C. 81=10 W.R. 113. [Appr., 15 A. 219. F.B. ; Expl., 11 W.R. 556.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(42)—Validity of mortgage by occupancy tenant.—A temporary transfer, whether in the form of a mortgage or otherwise, by an occupancy tenant, in favour of his land holder, is valid. MITHAN KUNWAR v. MUSAMMAT BEHSA, 11 O.C. 345. (2 O.C. 204, 6 O.C. 331, R.)

(43)—Mortgage of occupancy rights—Death of occupancy tenant without heirs—Mortgagee's right against landlord.—A mortgagee's interest is neither greater nor of longer duration than the mortgagor's interest in the occupancy tenure ; hence, where the latter's interest entirely ceases by his death without heirs, the interest of the mortgagee also determined even though the mortgage be made with the landlord's knowledge. NARINDAR SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH, 6 P.R. 1901, Rev.=36 P.L.R. 1901.

(44)—Occupancy Right—Transfer by tenants.—In 1887 certain occupancy tenant of a certain land mortgaged a portion of it by unregistered deeds to Subu Ibrahim and Ismail, and, in 1888, their entire holding to Bhagwan Das. In 1891 the landlords sued for cancellation of the mortgage deeds executed in 1887 but the suit was dismissed on the ground of acquiescence ; the occupancy tenant executed several other mortgages subsequently to that in favour of Bhagwan Das On the 6th April, 1898, Bhagwan Das obtained a decree for possession of the land mortgaged to him, against the tenant and the mortgagees, and it was held that Bhagwan Das had priority over the unregistered mortgages of 1887, because his deed was registered, and over other mortgages, because they were of later dates. This was in pursuance of 115 P.R. 1890, which has been overruled by 56 P.R. 1900, F B. Bhagwan Das sold his rights under the decree of 6th April, 1898 On the landlord's suit for dispossession and cancellation of the sale, held, that the mortgages, which were nullities so far as Bhagwan Das is concerned, are not necessarily so as against others not holding any registered deeds entitling them to priority. Held, also, that the decree passed on the 6th April, 1898, though conclusive as between the parties, viz., Bhagwan Das and the tenant and his mortgagees, did not confer on the landlords any rights over and above those which they would have had, if the decree had never been given. The landlords' suit for cancellation of the sale decreed but for dispossession of the mortgagees dismissed. IBRAHIM v. NATHU, 43 P.L.R. 1901=7 P.R. 1901, Rev.

(45)—Transferability — Usage — Growing usage not sufficient—Usufructuary mortgage by tenant—Subsequent relinquishment to landlord —Right of landlord to re-enter—Mortgage or out-and-out sale.—In 1894 an occupancy ryot executed a usufructuary mortgage of the holding, put the mortgagee in possession, and though it was arranged that the tenant would continue to pay rent to the landlord, the tenant left the village and abandoned all connection with the land. In 1901, the tenant executed a deed of relinquishment in favour of the landlord and surrendered the land to him, and it did not appear that he paid any rent since. Brett, J., held, on second appeal, upon a consideration of the terms of the mortgage-bond and the circumstances connected with the transaction, that although the document purported to be a usufructuary mortgage for sixty years, the transaction was really an out-and-out sale and the deed was drawn up in that form in order to evade the provisions of law against the transfer of occupancy-holdings. Held by Rampini, C. J., and Mitra, J.—That apart from such considerations, the moment the deed of relinquishment was executed by the tenant, the landlord became entitled to re-enter. A growing usage of transferability of occupancy holdings is of no effect against the landlord The usage, to be effective, must have already grown up. RAJENDRA KISHORE ADHIKARI v. CHANDRA NATH DUTT, 12 C.W.N. 878. (10 C.W.N. 497, 10 C.W.N. 719, Rel on.)

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(46)—Mortgage by occupancy tenant— Subsequent surrender--Right of mortgagee.—Where an occupancy tenant mortgages his land, which he is empowered by law to do (vide A.W.N. (1882) 126) he cannot defeat the rights of his mortgagee by subsequently relinquishing his occupancy rights. ALTAF HASAN v. DULA RAM, A.W.N. 1882, 138.

(47)—Mortgagee by—Rights of mortgagee, effect of surrender of the mortgaged holding on.—The predecessor in interest of some of the defendants had mortgaged his absolute-occupancy holding in favour of the plaintiff. After his death, his heirs surrendered a part of the holding in favour of their landlord and this suit was instituted by the plaintiff to foreclose the mortgage, making the landlord also a party. In modification of the decree of the first Court, the lower appellate Court substituted a foreclosure decree for the entire holding. On second appeal by the landlord, held, that, where an absolute-occupancy tenant has once validly mortgaged his holding, a subsequent voluntary surrender to the landlord cannot, in any way, operate so as to affect the rights of the mortgagee. BHURAY BRAHMIN v. LALA VISHWANATH, 2 N.L.R. 170. (11 C.P L.R. 5, F.; 18 A. 354, 27 A. 82, 27 M. 401, R.) [Cons., 4 N. L.R. 57.]

(48)—Occupancy, right of—Mortgage of land part of which subsequently transferred by mortgagor to another—Khud-kasht land, Transfer of—Possession, Suit for—Tenant—Rent Act (Oudh), 1886, s. 5.—In 1890, the proprietor of an eight annas share in a village mortgaged it to the plaintiff by a deed, which provided that, in a certain event, the mortgagees should be entitled to possession. The mortgagees sued, and obtained a decree, for possession of the mortgaged property. After the decree, but just before the possession of the share was made over to the plaintiffs by the Court, the mortgagor executed a deed of gift in favour of the defendant in respect of some bighas of land, which was admittedly the khud kasht land of the mortgagor. The plaintiffs sued the defendant for possession of that land. There was no evidence that the mortgagor either as proprietor or as tenant cultivated or held the land in question on August 24, 1866. Held, that s. 5 of the Rent Act, 1886, which was intended to apply only to ex proprietors, who had become mere tenants by August 24, 1866, did not apply to the case at all, and that the transfer of an entire share must be held to include every part of, and everything appurtenant to, that share. Held, therefore, that the plaintiffs were entitled to possession of the land in suit. AKBARI BEGAM v BADRI PARSHAD, 5 O.C. 176. [R., 7 O.C. 312; F., 8 O.C. 353.]

Right of Occupancy —continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(49)—Redemption—Sub-mortgage by a mortgagee—Occupancy-holding—Transfer before the Agra Tenancy Act came into force—Right of mortgagee to redeem—General Clauses Act (I of 1904, local), s. 6.—Rights which accrued before the Agra Tenancy Act came into force are not prejudiced by that enactment. A mortgage of an occupancy tenancy, executed prior to the coming into operation of the Agra Tenancy Act, is valid. Such a mortgagee has all the rights of a mortgagee, including a right to transfer his mortgage and also a right to a sub-mortgage. A mortgagee of an occupancy holding and a transferee from him have a power to redeem the mortgage. RAM PARGAS UPADHIA v. SOOBA UPADHIA, 7 A.L.J. 755=6 Ind. Cas. 837=32 A 623. (26 A W.N. 302, D.)

(50)—Occupancy holding, non transferable—Usufructuary mortgage by tenant — Tenant remaining on land as sub-lessee of portion of holding and paying rent—Abandonment—Ejectment.—The execution by a tenant of a mortgage of his non-transferable occupancy holding does not by itself amount to an abandonment of the holding, because it is only on the assumption that the tenancy continues in operation that the mortgagee can have any subsisting interest in the land. (10 C.W.N. 499, 10 C.W.N. 719, 4 C.L.J. 306, R.) Where an occupancy raiyat executed a usufructuary mortgage of his holding, but continued to pay rent to the landlord and remained in possession of a portion of the holding as a sub-tenant under the mortgagor: Held, that the landlord was not entitled to treat the raiyat as a trespasser and sue him in ejectment. CHOWDHURY MOHADEO PERSHAD v. SHEIKH PACHKARI, 16 C.W.N. 322=13 Ind. Cas. 941.

(51)—Mortgage of occupancy-holding—Suit for recovery of money by mortgagee not maintainable — Contract Act, ss. 23, 24—Illegal contract.—A usufructuary mortgage of an occupancy-holding being illegal, the mortgagee cannot recover even the money paid to the mortgagor. KANHAI v. TILAK, 16 Ind. Cas. 42. (22 A. 205, 7 A.L.J. 330=32 A. 383=5 Ind. Cas. 557, F.)

(52)—Occupancy holding—Mortgage—Subsequent sale of portion of holding with landlord's consent—Suit on mortgage—Purchaser if may question validity of mortgage — Estoppel — Evidence Act, s. 115.—A raiyat mortgaged his occupancy holding to A; subsequently a portion of the holding was, with the landlord's consent, purchased by B, who later on took a fresh settlement from the landlord at an enhanced rent. Held (Chitty and Chatterjee, JJ., Coxe, J., contra)—That, in a suit by the mortgagee, B was estopped from questioning the validity of the mortgage. RADHA KANT CHUCKERBUTTY v. RAMANANDA SHAHA, 16 C.W.N. 475=15 C.L.J. 369=39 C. 513=13 Ind. Cas. 698. (12 C.W.N. 720, D.; 14 C.W.N. 779, R.)

(53)—Act XVIII of 1873, s. 9—Mortgage of cultivatory holding with right of occupancy by widow—Reversioner if entitled to question.—Under Act XVIII of 1873, a usufructuary mortgage of a cultivatory holding with a right of occupancy effected by the widow of the last male holder cannot be questioned by the reversioners as they have no right of succession to it. MUSAMMAT BARANJA v. BASDEO MISSER, 7 N.W.P. 241.

(54)—Occupancy rights—Mortgage by widow in possession — Right of mortgagee to retain possession on her death — Necessity — Assent of landlord, whether binding on the reversionary heir—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), s. 59 (3).—Held, that a mortgage of occupancy rights by a widow, whether or not for necessity, is void under s. 59 (3), Punjab Tenancy Act, even if it receives the assent of the landlord, and a reversionary heir is entitled to take possession of the land, without payment, on the death of the widow. ALLAH DITTA v. HASSAN, 50 P.L.R. 1913=18 Ind. Cas. 623=26 P.W.R. 1913. (39 P.R. 1893, 69 P.R. 1900, F.)

(55)—Occupancy tenants—Mortgage of holdings—Landlord's assent—Revenue decree obtained by proprietor ousting original tenants—Interest of tenants' mortgagees not affected.—Where a zemindar has permitted his original tenants with a right of occupancy to spilt up their holding and make over portions of it to mortgagees charged with portions of the rent, and has accepted from the mortgagees in possession payment of such portions of rent, he cannot, by reason of his having assented to the substitution of the mortgagees for the original tenants, destroy the interest of the former by obtaining, from the Revenue Court, a decree ousting only the latter. GOBERDHUN v. GOKAL CHAND, 7 N.W.P. 31.

(56)—Right of occupancy—Restricted right—Out-and-out sale by heir.—Although the heir

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

of a person would not be competent to transfer out-and-out by sale a restricted right of occupancy which that person, and he as heir to that person, has enjoyed, there is no reason why he should not, during and for her life, make such arrangements for the cultivation of the jote and its management as she thinks fit. MOHANUND BANERJEE v. SHUSHEE SHEKHUR CHATTERJEE, 20 W.R. 132.

(57)—Occupancy right—Purchaser's right to claim to registry in Zemindar's sherishta.—Where the purchaser of an occupancy right in certain land claimed the registry of his name in the Zemindar's sherishta, the purchaser should show that his purchase was of a transferable tenure and that the sale to him did not involve any re-distribution of the rent. MUSSAMUT SHUNKURPUTTEE THAKOORAIN v. MIRZA SAIFOOLLAH KHAN, 18 W.R. 507.

(58)—Agricultural land—Right of occupancy—Transfer—Conversion of land into dwelling-house.—Ryots having rights of occupancy in land for agricultural purposes, may, by custom, have the right to transfer it to any person to hold for the same purpose, but that will not carry with it the proposition that a person who may be desirous of erecting a large house in the midst of an agricultural mehal, can buy up the tenures and rights of several cultivators, and convert the land into a dwelling-house and appurtenances. JUGUT CHUNDER ROY CHOWDHRY v. ESHAN CHUNDER BANERJEE, 24 W.R. 220. [Cons., 2 C.L.R. 294=3 C. 781.]

(59 and 60) — Landholder and tenant — Occupancy holding—Part of occupancy holding converted into a bagh—Transfer of this portion—Act XII of 1881 (N.W.P. Rent), s. 9.—Held that the fact that a piece of land, forming a portion of an occupancy holding, had, with the permission of the zemindars, been converted into a bagh or grove, by the tenants, did not exempt such piece of land from the usual incidents of occupancy tenure, amongst which were the restrictions upon alienation imposed by s. 9 of Act XII of 1881. NAWAL GOBIND RAI v. GANESH GOBIND RAI, A.W.N. 1899, 25. (5 A. 616, R.)

(61)—Occupancy tenant, transfer by, set aside—Suit by landlord against transferee for damages.—Plaintiff sued the defendant for damages in respect of a period during which plaintiff alleged that the defendant was in possession of the land which ought to have been in the possession of her (plaintiff's) occupancy tenant. The plaintiff had already succeeded in a suit against the defendant for his dispossession from the property, on the ground that the assignment under which he obtained possession from the occupancy tenant was illegal and he was therefore not entitled to retain possession, Held that plaintiff had no right to maintain a suit for damages against the defendant, that if she had any claim it must be in virtue of her right against her tenant, i.e., her right to the rent which the tenant should have paid while he, and not the defendant, should have been in possession, and that, as no permanent injury to the plaintiff's rights had been caused by the defendant in the property, plaintiff had no right of suit against the defendant. BANNO BIBI v. MATHURA SINGH, A.W.N. 1886, 72.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(62)—Right of occupancy—Transferable tenure—Suit to recover khas possession—Onus.—A mere right of occupancy derived from a person who had only such a right, gives no title to the transferee against the Zemindar. (7 W.R. 528, F.) [R., 16 W.R. 111.] In a suit to recover khas possession, where the defendant's plea is that his holding is a permanent holding, it is not sufficient for him to show that his vendor had some right; it is upon him to show that it was the exact permanent right at issue between the parties. RANI DURGA SUNDARI v. BRINDABEN CHANDRA SIRKAR CHOWDHRY, 2 B.L R. App. 37=11 W.R. 162.

(63)—Transfer of non-transferable occupancy holding—Sale by purchaser to under-tenant, effect of—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), ss. 22, 49—"Other wise," meaning of, in s. 22.—A non-transferable occupancy holding under the plaintiff belonged to B, who sublet a portion of the same to defendants Nos. 1 and 2 and then sold the holding to a third party who again sold the same to defendant No. 1. The plaintiff sued for recovery of possession, and it was contended in defence that the effect of the transfer of the holding is that of abandonment which should be considered to be a transfer in favour of the landlord, who is bound to sue for evicting the defendants as the original tenant would have been bound to do, that is, after notice under s. 49 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Held, that what had taken place in the present case was not tantamount to a sale by the tenant in favour of the landlord, and was not to be clothed with the same legal effect: Where the plaintiff is not the immediate landlord of the under-tenant, s. 49, Bengal Tenancy Act, has no application. S. 22 of the Act applies only to occupancy-holdings which are transferable. (27 C. 473, 4 C.W.N. 569, R.) The word "otherwise" in that section is used in respect of the transaction, which is ejusdem generis with the co-ordinate words, used in the section, by transfer or succession, and cannot be held to apply to the present case. RADHA NATH v. ADITYA PROSAD DASS, 5 Ind. Cas. 264.

(64)—Right of occupancy—Transfer of right—Tacking of possession—Act X of 1859, s. 6.—The possession of the vendor could not be added to the possession of the purchaser so as to give the latter a right of occupancy under s. 6, Act X of 1859. It is immaterial that the Zemindar consented to the transfer. HYDERBUKSH v. BHUBINDRO DEB COWAR, 13 B.L.R. 276, Note=17 W.R. 179.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(65)—Estoppel—Occupancy holding sold as fixed rate tenancy—No objection by judgment-debtor in suit or in execution proceedings—Possessory title.—Where an occupancy holding mortgaged as a fixed rate tenure was sold at auction, as such, and the decree-holder, having purchased it, remained in possession thereof for eleven years, but was subsequently dispossessed by the judgment-debtor, held that the defendant was estopped from setting up the plea that the holding was an occupancy tenure, and that the defendant having no title at all, the plaintiff was entitled to re-gain possession on the strength of his possessory title. ASGHAR HUSAIN v PAL AHIR, 10 A.L J. 66=34 A. 538 =15 Ind. Cas. 227. (8 A.L J. 404, Reversed.)

(66)—Transfer of occupancy holding—Suit by landlord to eject transferee.—The zemindars of a village brought a suit for ejectment against their occupancy tenants on the ground that they had, by their illegal transfer of the occupancy holding, rendered themselves liable to ejectment, and against their transferees as trespassers. The suit was brought in the Court of the Assistant Collector. The occupancy tenants did not appear to defend the suit. The transferees contended, among other things, that the suit was barred by limitation and that the occupancy tenants were entitled to transfer the holding by the custom of the village. The Assistant Collector decreed the claim. On appeal, the District Judge confirmed the Assistant Collector's decree., On second appeal to the High Court, held that the suit was one properly cognizable in the Civil Court, being to eject the transferees as trespassers in fact, who had been put in possession under an illegal transfer by the real tenants, that the appeal however lay to the Judge and that the defect of jurisdiction was saved under s. 207 of the Rent Act, and that the suit, regarded as one to eject trespassers, was not barred by limitation, and that, as the act of the tenant in transferring his holding to the defendants was illegal under the Rent Act the transferees were mere trespassers, whom the plaintiff as proprietor of the land was entitled to eject. JOKHU RAM v. HAR SHANKAR PRASAD SINGH, A.W.N. 1886, 75.

(67)—Suit to eject defendant treated as trespasser—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Ryot's plea of purchase of mokuraree right—Question of transferability of vendor's title.—The plaintiff in this case sued to eject the defendant, expressly denying that the relationship of landlord and tenant existed between them and treating the defendant as a mere trespasser having no right whatever to the lands in dispute. The allegations were such that, if the plaintiff failed to make out his own case proving the defendant a trespasser, he was to be out of Court. The contention was thus one of title and not one between landlord and tenant and the suit was therefore held by the High Court to have been properly brought in the Civil Court. Held, also, that when a mokururee right by purchase has been set up, it is the duty of the Court to give a substantive finding as to the title and tenure of the vendors, and also, to find distinctly whether from the nature of the tenure it was or was not transferable. RAM CHUNDER MITTER v. RAMZANEE BEBEE, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 4. [F., 4 W.R. Act X, 16.]

(68)—Right of occupancy, if transferable—Act X of 1859, s. 27—Registration by zemindar—Transfer of occupancy holding—Suit for possession against transferee—Jurisdiction—Act X of 1859, s. 23, cl. 5.—A right of occupancy is a perpetual lease, the holder of which cannot be ejected so long as he pays a fair and equitable rent. Such a right is a transferable tenure, the zemindar not being bound to register the transfer under s. 27 of Act X of 1859. [Overruled, 7 W.R 528; R., 2 W.R. Act X, 4, 3 W. R. Act X, 147.] A Court of Revenue has no jurisdiction, under cl. 5, s. 23, Act X of 1859, to entertain a suit for possession against an occupant by transfer, who is not recognised by the landlord as his tenant, and from whom he has never received rent. The mere fact of the landlord suing for enhancement of rent shows that the tenants had at least the right of occupancy; for a tenant-at-will may be ejected at once on his refusal to pay such rent as the landlord deems proper. MUSSAMUT TARAMONEE DASSEE v. BIRRESUR MOZOOMDAR, 1 W.R. 86.

(69)—Non-transferable occupancy holding—Co-sharer landlord's decree for rent—Sale in execution—Purchase by decree-holder--Purchase at mortgage-sale—Rights of purchasers.—In a suit for recovery of khas possession by the plaintiff who had purchased an occupancy holding in execution of a mortgage decree, the defendant claimed under a lease from a co-sharer landlord who also had purchased the holding in execution of a decree for his share of the rent. Held—that the question of transferability of the holding did not arise. AYENUDDIN NASYA v. SRISH CHANDRA BANERJI, 11 C.W.N. 76. [F., 11 C.L.J. 20=5 Ind. Cas. 39 =14 C.W.N. 71, 13 C.W.N. 630; R., 11 C.W. N. 159 N, 12 C.W.N. 1086=8 C.L.J. 261, 2 Ind. Cas. 96; D., 35 C. 904=12 C.W.N. 721= 8 C.L.J. 29, 8 C.L.J. 2, Note.]

(70)—Jote—Sale in execution of decree—Right of purchaser.—In the absence of any custom, a right of occupancy, which is merely a creature of the Rent Law and does not depend upon any custom, cannot be transferred. Consequently, the sale of a jote in execution of a decree does not confer on the purchaser any right of occupancy nor does such a sale prove the right to be transferable. KRIPA NATH CHAKEE v. DOYAL CHAND PAL, 22 W.R. 169. [Cons., 22 W.R. 493.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(71)—N.W.P. Rent Act, XVIII of 1873, s. 9—Transfer of occupancy right.—In a suit by a decree-holder to bring the occupancy rights of the judgment-debtors to sale in execution of a decree, held, that, the present holders of the occupancy right being alive and standing alone, and there being no persons who had as yet become by inheritance co-sharers in such right, there was no person entitled to the occupancy right on whose death in due course such right would devolve as if it were land, and such right not being transferable to a stranger, the decree-holder was not entitled to bring such right to sale in execution of his decree. DURGA PRASAD v. GOKAL CHAND, A.W.N. 1881, 31. (1 A. 353, R.)

(72 & 73)—Sale of occupancy right by landlord in execution of money-decree—Subsequent sale of same for rent.—Where a zemindar, by his own act, had brought the raiyati right of his tenant to a termination by bringing it to sale in executing a money-decree against him and settling the lands with other persons after himself becoming the purchaser thereof, the person who subsequently purchased the same holding in execution of a decree for arrears of rent against the same tenant, could not acquire any title to the holding under his purchase and a suit by him for possession must fail; for there was no subsisting title in the tenant to be acquired by the purchaser. RAM SARAN PODDAR v. MAHOMED LATIF, 3 C.W.N. 62.

(74)—Occupancy holding, sale of, in execution of a money-decree—Holding not transferable by custom or usage—Sale if valid—Voluntary and involuntary sales.—A sale in execution of a money-decree, of an occupancy holding which is not transferable by custom or usage, is effectual if it is held with the consent of the landlord. In principle, there is no difference between the case of a voluntary sale made by the raiyat, and an involuntary sale held by the Court, if such sale is consented to by the landlord. ANANDA DAS v. RUTNAKAR PANDA, 7 C.W.N. 572. [R., 6 O.C. 331, 9 C.W.N. 972.]

(75)—Landlord and tenant—Sale of occupancy holding in execution of money-decree—Question of transferability of holding, who can raise—Co-sharer of raiyat whether competent to take the plea.—The raiyat, whose occupancy holding has been sold in execution of a money-decree, can raise the question of transferability, as soon as he comes to know of the execution-proceedings taken against his holding. (24 C. 355, 1 C.W.N. 396, 26 C. 727, 3 C.W.N. 583, R.) But a third party cannot raise the plea, against a person who had purchased the holding in execution of a decree against the raiyat. (2 C.W.N. 279, 6 C.W.N. 624, F.) Therefore, the question cannot be raised by a co-sharer of the tenant, when the latter himself is silent, and the landlord is not a party to the suit. AMBIKA CHARAN MONDAL v. RAM CHARAN PRAMANIK, 5 Ind. Cas. 385.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(76)—Occupancy holding — Transferability, question of, if arises as between claimants not landlords or original tenants.—In cases between rival claimants of holdings, neither of whom is either the landlord or the original tenant, the question of transferability does not arise, and the one who would have the best title, if the holding were transferable, is entitled to succeed. SAMIRUDDIN MUNSHI v. BENGA SHEIKH, 13 C.W.N. 630=1 Ind. Cas. 114. (6 C.W.N. 624, 11 C.W.N. 76, F.; 24 C. 355, 3 C.W.N. 586, 4 C.W.N. 571, D).

(77)—Zemindar and occupant ryot—Death of ryot—Lease of land to another tenant—Heir of former tenant not entitled to question.—On the death of an occupant ryot, it is open to the Zemindar to let his land to whomsoever he pleased, and when the Zemindar has so let the land to some other person, giving him a pottah, it is not competent to a distant relation of the deceased ryot to claim to succeed by inheritance setting aside the arrangement by the Zemindar. JATEE RAM SURMAH v. MUNGLOO SURMAH, 8 W.R. 60. [F., 2 Agra 366; R., 24 C. 207=1 C.W.N. 89, 34 C. 516, F.B.=11 C.W.N. 626=5 C.L.J. 457.]

(78)—Hereditary cultivator — Succession—Transfer of holding.—A hereditary cultivator adopted his nephew and conferred on him, by deed of gift registered, his hereditary occupancy along with other property. Held that, under the circumstances, the nephew had obtained a good title to the properties under Mahommedan law, and that the proprietor of the village could not, on the death of the cultivator, recover the holding from the nephew. Held further that the transfer by the uncle to the nephew was admissible, because the nephew was a member of the family of the deceased, and dependent on the land. MUTHOO KHAN v. SULTAN, 18 P.R. 1868. (96 P.R. 1867 and 1 P.R. 1868, F) [R., 45 P.R. 1883.]

(79)—Hindu law—Succession to hereditary cultivators—Lineal heirs or collaterals.—The law relating to succession to hereditary cultivators is that lineal male descendants succeed in the first instance, and in their absence, collaterals in the male line who can trace their descent to a common ancestor who held the land, and who reside in the village in which the land is situate. GOPAL SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH, 1 P.R. 1868. [Expl., 34 P.R. 1883.]

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(80)—Hereditary cultivators—Inheritance—Direct line of heirs—The next of kin of a hereditary cultivator will not be allowed to succeed, unless they are in the direct male line of the owner who originally obtained the cultivation. VEROO v. SAHIB SINGH, 43 P.R. 1866.

(81)—Succession—Agreement or custom—Entry in Settlement Record.—A properly attested entry with regard to succession to occupancy rights in the settlement record will be deemed to be a valid agreement, though there may be no proper consent by either party. The rule as to succession laid down in the Tenancy Acts can be modified by agreement but not by custom. PHINA SINGH v. MAHTAB KHAN, 20 P.R. 1896.

(82)—Succession—Survivorship—S. 59, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.—The principle of survivorship among joint tenants of a holding will not apply to the case of an heir claiming a share in an ancestral holding on the death of one of the tenants, even though the deceased was joint in cultivation with some of the family. MOHRU v. MUTSADDI, 109 P.R. 1894, F.B. (56 P.R. 1887, Overruled; 2 P.R. 1867, 57 P.R. 1868, 36 P.R. 1870, 159 P.R. 1879, 4 P.R. 1880, 180 P.R. 1882, 9 P.R. 1891, Rev., R.) [R., 100 P.R. 1908, 76 P.R. 1907.]

8 (83)—Succession—Daughter's son—Adopted son—Rights of—S. 59, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, s. 36.—Under s. 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, a Brahman's daughter's son is incompetent to succeed to the right of occupancy. Quaere:—Whether an adopted son can claim the benefit of the above section. WIR BHAN v. SUBA, 40 P.R. 1894. (1 P.R. 1874, Rev., D.)

(84)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 5, 59—Succession to occupancy—Adopted son—Daughter's son—Objection in appeal.—A daughter's son, who has been adopted, cannot claim to succeed to the occupancy rights of his adoptive father [Vide s. 5 (3), P.T. Act]. Such a plea can be taken even for the first time in an appellate Court. JOWALA SINGH v. KALA SINGH, 22 P.R. 1898.

(85)—Hereditary cultivator — Succession — Sister's son.—As a general rule, no one can succeed to the right of an hereditary cultivator, unless he be a descendant in the direct male line of the person who originally obtained the cultivation. The exception is where relationship exists, and also family dependency is established on the part of the claimant. In this case, there were nearer relations than the plaintiff who was a sister's son of the deceased, but they did not object to the plaintiff's claim to succeed. But it was held that notwithstanding the waiver of their rights by these relations, it was open to the proprietors of the village to bject to the plaintiff's claim. Moreover, rights to hereditary cultivation cannot be transferred and therefore, as against the proprietors, such waiver can have no effect. MAYDA v. HURJUS, 96 P.R. 1867. [R., 18 P.R. 1868.]

(86)—Chela of a deceased fakir—Right to succeed.—A chela of a deceased fakir (Bairagi) has no right to succeed to the occupancy rights of the deceased against the wishes of the proprietary body, as the chela is not a male lineal descendant in the male line within the meaning of s. 59, Punjab Tenancy Act. PUNJAB SINGH v. SANT RAM, 22 P.R. 1896, F.B. [R., 97 P.R. 1909, 2 P.R. 1907, Rev.]

(87)—Succession—Customary adoption, s. 59, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.—No right of succession is acquired under s. 59, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, by a mere customary adoption by a Hindu or Mahomedan. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. MUSST. JIWAN, 43 P.R. 1895, F.B. [R., 60 P.R. 1908, 97 P.R. 1909.]

(88)—Widow—Sale of occupancy right—Remarriage—Extinguishment of right—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 59.—Held, that an occupancy tenant cannot alienate more than his own interest in a holding, and a widow tenant having rights of occupancy does not possess the power to sell her holding—s. 59 (3), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. Held, also, that a widow's right is extinguished by her re-marriage under s. 59 (b), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. HANWANTA v. CHOUTH MAL, 2 P.L.R. 1900, Rev. =3 P.R. 1901, Rev.

(89)—Suit for recovery of possession of occupancy holding acquired by defendant from plaintiff's guardian—Fact of defendant being a landlord not disclosed in plaint—Jurisdiction—Special jurisdiction of revenue officers when to be exercised—Notification under proviso to s. 97, Central Provinces Tenancy Act—Effect—Plaint presented to Civil Court subordinate to District Court—Return for presentation to judge who is also a Revenue officer—Return for presentation to Civil Court—Decision of District Court upholding Revenue officer's order—Effect—S. 35 (4), Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1898—Meaning of words "leaves his holding uncultivated"—Tenants surrendering part of holding—Effect.—The suit was by a tenant to recover possession of an occupancy holding sold to the defendant by plaintiff's guardians during his minority, alleging fraud, undue influence and absence of legal necessity. The defendant was the sole landlord of the village in which the property in question was, but there was no reference in the plaint to the fact of the defendant being the landlord, and the suit was tried by a Subordinate Judge who was not a Revenue officer. Held, that what decides the revenue in a case is the nature of the claim as brought, and that the trial of the suit by the Sub-Judge was not bad for want of jurisdiction. (15 B. 400, 4 N.L.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

—4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

R. 63, F.) It is doubtful whether, when a landlord is sued as alienee, the legislature intended his special position to affect the jurisdiction. An Act by which the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts is taken away must be construed strictly. (8 W. R. 428, R.) Notification No. 586, dated 28-1-1904, which was issued by the Local Administration under the power conferred by proviso (b) to s. 97 of the C. P. Tenancy Act, is not in terms exhaustive in the enumeration of suits which the Administration considered to be suits between landlord and tenant as such. But the special jurisdiction conferred on Revenue officers by that Notification was not intended to be exercised when a landlord is not sued as such, but expressly as alienee by a person impeaching the alienation. The expression "leaves his holding uncultivated" in s. 35 (4) of the Tenancy Act means "omits to cultivate the holding himself or to arrange for its cultivation" (6 N.L.R. 6, R.). Notwithstanding the surrender, by contract, of part of the land demised, the former tenancy of the remainder continues (8 C.W.N. 375, F.; 14 C.P.L.R. 33, D.). A plaint was presented to an ordinary Civil Court subordinate to the District Court, but it was returned for being presented to a Judge who was a Revenue officer. It was accordingly presented to such a Judge who however returned it for presentation to an ordinary Civil Court. On appeal, the District Court upheld the order of the Revenue officer and held that the suit was not one between a landlord and tenant. Held, that this decision in appeal was binding on the Court to which the plaint was first presented, though there was no appeal from its order. GANPAT v. TRIMBAK, 9 N.L.R. 54=19 Ind. Cas. 759. (9 C.P.L.R. 1, D.)

(90)—Occupancy tenancy, Transfer of—Civ. Pro. Code (1908), ss. 102, 115—Small Cause Suit—Second appeal—Revision—Money-bond and lease of holding.—P executed a bond in favour of J for Rs. 400, and on the same day gave him a lease of his occupancy holding in which it was provided that the rent was to be retained by J on account of interest payable under the bond. J having been ejected from the occupancy holding brought a suit for the recovery of Rs. 400 due under the bond. The Munsif dismissed the suit, but the District Judge on appeal decreed the suit. Defendant preferred a second appeal. Held, that the transaction carried out by means of the two documents, viz., simple money-bond and the lease of the occupancy holding, was illegal, and the plaintiff could not sue for the recovery of the money due under the bond. (19 A. 35=A.W.N. 1896, 167, 22 A. 205, 7 A.L.J. 330=5 Ind. Cas. 557=32 A. 383, 8 A.L.J. 826=33 A. 695=11 Ind. Cas. 17, F.; 8 A.L.J. 931=33 A. 779=12 Ind. Cas. 112, D.) That, as the District Judge had decreed the plaintiff's suit in appeal, and as the suit was one of the nature cognizable by the Small Causes Court, no second appeal lay to the High Court; that, as the District Judge had not failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in him nor exercised a jurisdiction not vested in him, nor acted in the exercise of his jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court could not interfere in revision. POORAN SINGH v. JAI SINGH, 17 Ind. Cas. 522.

(91)—Partition—Occupancy-holding—Suit for partition of occupancy-holding, if maintainable—Landlord, whether bound.—Any property held for the time being jointly can be partitioned between joint holders. Therefore, a suit for the partition of an occupancy-holding is maintainable. But the division, unless made with the landlord's permission, would not be binding on him. RAJENDRA NARAIN SAHA v. SATISH CHANDRA PAL, 15 Ind. Cas. 331.

(92)—Party—Necessary party—Person not made party to proceeding, not bound by order—Purchase of occupancy holding in execution—Permanent lease granted to plaintiff by purchaser—Reversal of sale without making plaintiff party—Whether plaintiff bound by order of reversal—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), s. 85, cl. (2)—Lease in contravention of cl. (2), s. 85—Who is entitled to question validity of lease.—An occupancy holding was sold in execution of a money-decree against the defendant and the purchaser obtained possession and subsequently granted a permanent lease to the plaintiff. The sale was afterwards set aside, but in the application for the reversal of the sale, the plaintiff was not made a party. The plaintiff brought this suit for recovery of possession, and the defendant pleaded that the sale, which was the basis of the plaintiff's claim, having been set aside, the plaintiff had no enforceable title as against the defendant. Held, that, as the plaintiff was not made a party to the proceedings for the reversal of the sale, he was not bound by the order. (15 Ind. Cas. 175, F.) The true object of s. 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is to entitle the landlord of a raiyat to question the validity of a sub-lease granted in contravention thereof. Therefore, an under-raiyat, who holds under a permanent lease granted by a raiyat, can successfully maintain a suit for possession or defend his possession against the raiyat or his representatives-in-interest. It is not open to the raiyat in such a suit to question the validity of the sub-lease on the ground that it was granted in contravention of cl. (2) of s. 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. SADHAN SARDAR v. LAKAN MANDAL, 15 Ind. Cas. 255. (10 Ind. Cas. 469, 13 C.L.J. 649, 10 Ind. Cas. 562, 13 C.L.J. 656, Rel. on.)

(93)—Specific Relief Act, s. 27—Evidence Act, s. 115—Estoppel—Rule of Equity—Occupancy holding—Landlord consenting to sale—Subsequent lease to third party—Title—Priority.—The plaintiff was the mortgagee of an occupancy-holding and obtained a decree on his mortgage. He then took a hukunnamah from a co-sharer landlord, defendant No. 6. After purchasing the property at the sale in execution of his mortgage-decree, he settled the amount of nazarana and paid a part of it to the co-sharer landlord, defendant No. 6. He then took the settlement from the other co-sharer landlords, and went to defendant No. 6 to have the settlement from him on payment of the balance of the nazarana, but he was told that the land had already been leased out to the defendant No. 1. Thereupon he brought this suit for recovery of the holding. Held, that s. 27 of the Specific Relief Act did not embody the only rule of equity applicable to this case, and that the rule of estoppel contained in s. 115 of the Evidence Act was particularly applicable to the facts of the case; that the consent of the landlord to the purchase of the plaintiff gave the latter a complete title and he could not be ousted by the landlord by any subsequent action of his. HARI MOHAN DEY SARKAR v. RAM NARAIN DUTT, 14 Ind. Cas. 28.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—continued.

(94)—Transfer to person in possession by the former owner of occupancy right in Berar—Nature of transfer—Burden of proof—Ss 101, 102, Evidence Act.—When it is admitted that there was a transfer of some kind to the person in possession by the former admitted owner of the occupancy right in Berar, there is no presumption one way or the other whether that transfer was by way of sale or by way of lease, the possession being consistent with either alternative. We must fall back on the general provisions as to the burden of proof contained in ss. 101 and 102 of the Evidence Act. The burden of proving the nature of the transfer is on the person whose success depends upon the substantiation of the case set up by him. KASHIBAI v. LADURAM, 8 N.L.R. 185=17 Ind. Cas. 889. (8 N.L.R. 76, 6 B.L.R. 144, R.)

See ACQUIESCENCE, 7 B.L.R. 159=15 W. R. 274.

Sub-letting does not transfer such right—See BEN. ACT X OF 1859, s. 6, 1 B.L.R.A.C. 81=10 W.R. 113.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1869, s. 6, 4 C. 925 =4 C.L.R. 130.

Portion of occupancy-holding, whether transferable—Custom purchaser, position of —See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 88, 26 C. 615 =4 C.W.N. 738.

See BOM. ACT I OF 1880, 20 B. 78.

Transfer of absolute occupancy holding—See C.P. ACT XI OF 1898, s. 41, 15 C.P.L.R. 173.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 34, 92 P.R. 1887.

See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 56, 104 P.L. R. 1901.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——4.—Transfer of Right—concluded.

See U.P. ACT XVIII OF 1873, s. 7, A.W.N. 1882, 20.

See U.P. ACT XVIII OF 1873, s. 9, A.W.N. 1881, 2, A.W.N. 1881, 11, A.W.N. 1881, 129, A.W N. 1884, 160.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 7, 9, 6 A. 54, F.B.=A.W.N. 1883, 207.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, A.W.N. 1883, 7, A.W.N. 1886, 148, A.W.N. 1887, 130, A.W.N. 1890, 3, A.W.N. 1892, 59, A.W.N. 1894, 37.

Landholder and tenant — Usufructuary mortgage by occupancy tenant—Transfer—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 9, 5 A. 495, F.B.= A.W.N. 1883, 89.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, ss. 93, 149, A. W.N. 1886, 145.

See BURDEN OF PROOF—LANDLORD AND TENANT, 83 P.R. 1879.

Suit by a reversioner to restrain alienation of occupancy rights by occupancy tenant—Custom —See BURDEN OF PROOF—MISCELLANEOUS, 98 P R. 1907, F.B.=62 P.W.R. 1907=18 P.L. R. 1908.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 47, 60, O.XXI, rr. 90, 92, 26 C. 727=3 C.W.N. 586.

See CUSTOM—PUNJAB—A LIENATION, 68 P. R. 1894, 12 P.R. 1904.

Transfer of holding by occupancy-tenant—Suit for cancelling transfer—Possession—Ejectment—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts —See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS, A.W.N. 1885, 271.

Mortgage of—Mortgagor denying validity of mortgage of his occupancy-holding against mortgagor—See MORTGAGE—MISCELLANEOUS, 6 O.C. 331.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 196 P.R. 1882, 43 P.R. 1892, 146 P.L.R. 1901 =87 P.R. 1901.

See PRE-EMPTION—SUBJECTS OF PRE-EMPTION, 179 P.R. 1888.

See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE —SETTING ASIDE SALE, A.W.N. 1881, 40, A. W.N. 1881, 60.

Question of transferability of, when can be raised—See TRESPASSER, 2 Ind. Cas. 96.

——5.—Miscellaneous.

(1)—Right of occupancy—Kubooleut at fair rate — Landlord's permission.—A kubooleut is a matter of agreement. If a ryot has a right of occupancy and insists on that right, he impliedly undertakes to give a kubooleut at fair and equitable rates, if his landlord requires him to do so. But if the right of occupancy is absent, the ryot can only remain on the land by the permission of the landlord, viz., on such terms as may be agreed upon between the landlord and himself. RAJAH SUTTO CHURN GHOSSAL v. GOUREE PERSHAD ROY, 13 W.R. 117.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(2)—Permanent settlement, presumption of occupancy before—Rates.—A defendant pleading a mokururee pottah which is found to be a forgery is not entitled to the benefit of the presumption arising from 20 years' occupancy under s. 16, Act X of 1859—part of the finding of fact of the first Court being that the defendant has not such a jote as that on account of which he claims the benefit of the presumption. Notwithstanding the first Court's finding that the rates claimed by the plaintiff were less than those paid by other ryots who settled with the plaintiff amicably, the lower appellate Court should have found distinctly what were in its opinion the proper rates, and whether the principle adopted by the first Court was a correct one. NOBIN CHUNDER SIRCAR v. SHAMASOONDEREE DABEE, 1 W.R. 106.

(3)—Act X of 1859, s. 4, presumption of occupancy under, not claimable by defendant with fictitious pottah—In this suit for rent at an enhanced rate, it was objected on second appeal that the Judge ought to have taken into consideration the fact that the defendant had held for 20 years at a fixed jumma and that the presumption should have been made that he had so held at that rate since the time of the permanent settlement, under s. 4 of Act X of 1859. The High Court decided that the defendant, having set up an alleged mouroosee pottah, which was found, apparently on good grounds, to be fictitious, could not fall back upon the rights which he might have had under that section. PETUMBER SHAHA v. JEBUN SINGH BURMONEE, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 6.

(4)—Non-occupancy ryot—Suit for kubooleut—Rates of rent to be just and equitable.—Where, instead of giving notice to quit to a tenant having no rights of occupancy, a landlord chooses to retain him as tenant, and sues to compel him to enter into an engagement to pay rent, the Court is bound to see that it does not enforce the payment of any rates but such as are just and equitable. Where the rates claimed are not admitted by the defendant to be just, the Court should not give a decree for rent at those rates without inquiring whether they are just or not, merely because the defendant has not questioned them. RAM MOHUN GHOSE v. MODHOO SOODUN CHOWDRY, 11 W.R. 304.

(5)—Suit for enhancement of rent—Right of occupancy — Khas possession. — A right of occupancy by 12 years' possession, even though the defendant had failed to prove his patta, is a sufficient answer to a suit for khas possession. The Court cannot, in such a suit, declare the plaintiff's right to enhancement of rent. MUNSOOB BIBEE v. ALI MEAH, 17 W.R. 357.

(6)—Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), s. 5, cls. 1, 3—Notice of ejectment by proprietor—

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

*Tenant's allegation of fulfilment of conditions required—Non-proof—Effect—*12 years' occupancy, custom of—Allegation in second appeal.—Cir. No. 17 of 1856. N.W.P. Board of Revenue—Whether applicable to land situate in Delhi District.—Where a tenant to whom the proprietors had issued a notice of ejectment, claimed to have fulfilled every one of the conditions required in cls. 1 and 3 of s. 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), by alleging firstly, that his father, grandfather, and great grandfather had occupied the same land; that he had paid nothing to the proprietors beyond the revenue fixed, and that he had rendered no service; and secondly, that he was the representative of people who, at the time the village was founded, had broken up the land and had made it fit for cultivation: and both the lower Courts concurred in finding that he had not proved that he could fulfil the conditions of those clauses, it was held that he could not for the first time, in his appeal to the Chief Court, be allowed to urge that his case should be sent back in order that he might have a chance of proving that he was entitled to occupancy rights under a custom of 12 years' occupancy as he had mistaken his ground all along. The effect of Notification No. 1678 of September 1856, as explained in Circular No. 17 of 1856, was merely to protect a cultivator who has had possession for 12 years continuously from summary ejectment by order of the Revenue Court. After Delhi became part of the Punjab in 1857, it was no longer necessary to discuss the effect of Act X of 1859 which only affected the N.W. Provinces. As no special exception was made in the Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), in favour of the territory annexed from the N.W. Provinces, it could not in any way be said that 12 years' occupancy was by law a sufficient qualification to invest a tenant holding land in the Delhi District with occupancy rights. HANS RAIN v. HAR CHAND, 18 P.R. 1885. (39 P.R. 1881, F.)

(7)—Act VIII (B C.) of 1869, s. 16—Resident cultivator.—Merely because it appears on the pleadings that a ryot resides in one mouzah, and the land is situate in another, he cannot as a matter of law be treated as a resident cultivator, within the meaning of s. 16, Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869. NUBOKISHORE BISWAS v. JADUB CHUNDER SIRCAR, 20 W.R. 426.

(8)—Permanent occupancy right—Proof—"Ulavadai."—The term "ulavadai" as used in the pymash accounts means only the right to cultivate the lands, and it cannot be assumed that the use of the word indicates the existence in the tenant of a permanent right of occupancy. RANGASAMI REDDI v. GNANA SAMBANDA PANDARA SANNADI, 22 M. 264. [R., 25 M. 507.]

(9)—Landlord and tenant—Bastoo land—Ryotwari tenure—Distinction in payment of rent—Operation of Acts X of 1859 and VIII (B.C.) of 1869.—Bastoo lands are those upon which houses stand, inhabited by persons engaged in agriculture; and they are adjacent to the lands which the ryots who inhabit those houses cultivate. Where rent for bastoo lands, attached to a ryotwari tenure, was paid by the ryots to their landlord separately from the rent which was paid for the cultivated lands, as a matter of law, the distinction in the mode of paying the rent did not exclude the bastoo lands from the operation of Act X of 1859 or Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869. POGOSE v. RAJOO DHOPEE, 22 W.R. 511.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(10)—Evidence—Burden of proof—Taraf village—Assertion of occupancy right by purakkudi tenant—Length of enjoyment—Effect.—In a taraf village, a registered proprietor is entitled to both the melvaram and the mirasvaram. In such a case, a claim to an occupancy right set up by a purakkudi tenant as overriding the proprietor's right to cultivate his own land is of a special character and as such it is one which the party seeking to derogate from the ordinary incidents of property is bound to establish. Mere length of enjoyment in the capacity of tenants or purakkudies, irrespective of other circumstances, is not prima facie proof of occupancy right. CHIDAMBARA PILLAI v. TIRUVENGADATHIENGAR, 7 M.L.J. 1.

(11)—Customary right—Farmer of revenue, Occupancy for a long time—Burden of proof.—The principle laid down in Chockalinga Pillai's case (6 M H.C.R 164) is that when a tenancy rests on a contract only, the duration of the tenancy is regulated by the terms of the contract express or implied, and neither the Rent Act nor the Regulations operate to extend its duration. This ruling does not derogate from any customary right. A mere farmer of revenue or proprietary right cannot acquire a right of occupancy. [R., 7 M.L.J. 1, 19 M. 485, 27 M. 291=14 M.L.J. 200=8 C.W.N. 545, P.C.] An occupancy of upwards of seventy years is sufficient to throw upon those who seek to disturb it the burden of showing that the tenancy was not accompanied with a right of occupancy. KRISHNASAMI v. VARADARAJA; VARADARAJA v. VENKATACHALA, 5 M. 345, F.B. [R., 7 M. 374, 13 M. 60; D., 11 M. 77, 16 M. 131, 16 M. 271.]

(12)—Surrender of right for consideration—Revival of right.—Where, in a case in a Civil Court, the occupancy right had been surrendered for a consideration, held that it could not be revived subsequently. SAID MUHAMMAD v. SAHIBZADA, 5 P.R. 1872, Rev. [F., 12 P.R. 1879.]

(13)—Ejectment of tenant—Possession, Confirmation of—S. 23, Act X of 1859—Applicability.—The provisions of s. 23, cl. 6, Act X of 1859, which restricts to the Collector's Court all suits to recover the occupancy of land from which a ryot has been dispossessed by the person entitled to receive rent for the same, must be considered to apply equally to cases in which the tenant words his suit, as for confirmation of possession, and brings the suit against the persons entitled to receive rents, in order to settle the question of right to possession. GOOROO CHURN COOMAR v. KHETTER MOHHUN ROY, W.R. 1864, Act X, Rul. 79.

(14)—Occupancy rights in jalkar—Termination or variation of lease by joint proprietors of jalkar.—A lessee of a jalkar cannot acquire occupancy rights. The lessee of a jalkar could not be ejected by a suit brought by some only of the joint proprietors, with respect to their share in the jalkar. A lease granted by all the proprietors could not be varied or terminated at the suit of one. BOLLYE SATEE v. AKRAM ALLY, 4 C. 961.

(15)—Landlord and tenant—Occupancy holding—Pacca mosque built on the holding—Act inconsistent with the purpose of letting—Ejectment.—At one of the corners of an occupancy holding, there stood some huts which the defendant used for his living and for his cattle and kolhu. In one of these huts, the Mussulmans used to meet for prayers. Subsequently the defendant began to build a pacca mosque on the site of the house in which they used to pray. Held, that the building of pacca mosque was an act inconsistent with the purpose for which the holding had been let, and the defendant was liable to be ejected for so doing. Held, further, that the defendant was liable to be ejected from the entire holding, and not only from the part on which the mosque was built. ALLAH DIA v. SADA NAND, 8 Ind. Cas. 732.

(16)—Arable land—Right of tenant to build on—No landlord's consent—Injury to landlord.—A suit by a landlord for removal of an enclosure and cattle shed erected by a tenant on arable land will be dismissed if the landlord suffers no appreciable injury by the act of the tenant as such erection could not be said to have altered the nature of the holding from arable to building land but was connected with purposes of agriculture. DASWANDHI v. GHULAM, 122 P.R. 1888. [R., 3 P.R. 1904, Rev.]

(17)—Occupancy ryots, power of, to build houses on lands.—Plaintiff sued to compel the defendant who was a ryot with a right of occupancy to pull down a house, on the ground that he had no right to build on it; and the lower appellate Court decreed accordingly. But the High Court held that every man possessed of a right to hold land permanently,—that is, of a right of occupancy,—can do what he likes with the land so long as he does not injure it to the detriment of the landlord. NYAMUTOOLLAH OSTAGUR v. GOBIND CHURN DUTT, 6 W.R. Act X, Rul. 40. [Not F., 16 M. 407=3 M.L.J. 185; R., 10 C.L.R. 25, 8 C.W.N. 754=31 C. 1014.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(18)—Alienation of portion of jote—Diminution in jumma—Ryot if deprived of presumption of occupancy under s. 4 of Act X of 1859.—The defence in this suit for enhanced rent was that the land had been held for generations at a uniform rent and that the ryot was therefore entitled to the benefit of the presumption given by s. 4 of Act X of 1859. On second appeal, the High Court held that the lower appellate Court had wrongly ignored the statement of the ryot, which was not that the jumma was fixed in a particular year, but that, in that particular year, he had parted with a portion of his jote so that a diminished rent was payable. He stated that, in that year, he paid lesser rent than during the former years, the diminution being caused by his having alienated a portion of the jote, and the diminution caused by such alienation could not deprive the ryot of the benefit of the presumption under s. 4 of Act X of 1859. KENARAM MULLICK v. RAM COOMAR MOOKERJEE, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 17.

(19)—Mortgage—Occupancy-holding — Relinquishment of holding by mortgagor in favour of Zamindar—Mortgage not affected.—A mortgagor of an occupancy-holding is not competent to relinquish the holding, so as to impair the security given by him to the mortgagee and in fact to destroy it. JAIGOPAL SINGH v. RAM TAHAL, 6 Ind. Cas. 705. (24 A. 538, A.W.N. 1902, 151, 18 A. 354, R.)

(20)—Plaintiff when entitled to decree—Suit by zemindar to recover possession of occupancy holding against tenant and his alleged transferee —Death of tenant after filing suit but before issue of notice.—A plaintiff is not entitled to a decree in his suit unless, by proof or admission or default of pleading, he shows that when he instituted that suit he was entitled to a decree. A zamindar brought a suit for recovery of possession of an occupancy holding against the occupancy tenant and an alleged transferee of his. Subsequent to the filing of the plaint, but before the time of notice thereof to the defendants, the occupancy tenant died, and his alleged transferee was, in addition to his personal capacity, made a defendant as representing the deceased occupancy tenant. The transfer by the occupancy tenant in this case was inoperative under s. 9 of the N.W.P. Rent Act XII of 1881; and the plaintiff, therefore, at the time of filing of the suit, could not have been entitled to the immediate possession of the holding. Held that under the circumstances the suit must be dismissed, although the zemindar, if he had filed his suit after the death of the tenant against the alleged transferee as trespasser, might have been entitled to a decree; and also that this dismissal should not bar any suit that the zemindar may bring against the transferee as trespasser. GULZAR SINGH v. KALYAN CHAND, 15 A. 399=A.W.N. 1893, 170. [D., 16 A. 325.]

(21)—Suit by landlord to resume occupancy right after the death of widow of late tenant—

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

Plea of adverse possession by one holding under widow, validity of.—In a suit by proprietors to eject a person who set up title as occupancy tenant, immediately after the death of the widow of the previous tenant, the defendant set up adverse possession, based on mutation of names in his favour during the widow's lifetime, on a subsequent possession as occupancy tenant and on an unsuccessful application by the father of some of the plaintiffs, and failure by them to sue in a Civil Court as directed by the Revenue authorities. Held, that the plaintiff was not bound to sue till after the death of the widow and that s. 9 of the Tenancy Act would preclude the acquisition by mere lapse of time of a right of occupancy. The suit was, therefore, not barred by limitation and the defendant could not set up a claim by adverse possession. Held also, that the plea that the defendant's possession was adverse to his adoptive mother, and through her to the plaintiffs, was not valid. GANDA SINGH v. KAIM KHAN, 60 P.R. 1908=109 P W.R. 1908. (43 P.R. 1895, R.; 73 P.R. 1900, 12 C. 484, P.C., D.)

(22)—Succession to—Presumption from long possession.—In a case of succession to occupancy rights by the collaterals of the last tenant, held that, where the father of the deceased tenant, who was entered in the annual papers as a hereditary cultivator, is shown to have been in possession of the holding for 50 years, it may be presumed that it descended to the father, from the grandfather. SIPADAR KHAN v. KADHERU, 101 P.R. 1908=11 P.L.R. 1909=166 P.W.R. 1908=4 Ind. Cas. 691.

(23)—Tenant dying issueless—Provision in wajib-ul-arz. — The provision in wajib-ul-arz that, on the death of an occupancy tenant sonless, the holding should revert to the owners, does not, in the absence of clear express exclusion, exclude male collaterals of the same ancestor, who was himself in possession of the land. CHANGA v. NABI BAKSH, 145 P.R. 1890.

(24)—Landlord and tenant—Occupancy right —Successor to an occupancy tenant—Presumption of occupancy.—Where a Zamindar granted a Rajabhogam right to one B and, at the time of the grant, a tenant cultivated the land under occupancy rights: Held, that the successor of the occupancy tenant should be deemed to be a tenant with occupancy rights. SAPPA KRISHNA PATRUDU v. THELLI MUKUNDA SAHU, 6 Ind. Cas. 586=8 M.L.T. 96. (30 M. 502, 2 M.L.T. 470, D.)

(25)—Occupancy holding—Recorded tenant, whether represents holding—Question of fact —Decree for rent against recorded tenant — Sale—Interest of unrecorded tenant how affected.—The decision in 9 C.W.N. 843 lays down no more than this, that a landlord is not justified in treating the registered tenant, of raiyati holding as the sole tenant, merely because his co-sharers in the holding are not registered. There is nothing in that case to prevent the whole body of tenants of a raiyati holding electing to treat one of their number as their representative in their dealings with the landlord. The fact that only one tenant is registered is merely an item in the evidence, on the question whether he is or is not the representative tenant qua the landlord. (26 C. 677, 2 C.W.N. 172, 27 C. 546, 6 C.W.N. 302, 7 C.W.N. 170, 10 C.W.N. 176, 24 C. 642, 3 C. W.N. 19, 9 C.W.N. 843, R.) The question whether the recorded tenant represents the holding or not is, under the present law, always a question of fact. JAGAT TARA DASSYA v. DAULATI BEWA, 13 C.W.N. 1110 = 2 Ind. Cas. 695 = 37 C 75.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(26)—Act VIII (B C.) of 1869, s. 6—Occupation of land under some person representing landlord — Ejectment before termination of tenancy.—Where a person is occupying land rightfully as a tenant under some one representing the landlord, he could not be ejected before the termination of the tenancy, though he might have failed to prove that he had a right of occupancy under s. 6, Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869. RAMGUT PANDEY v. RADHA PERSHAD SINGH, 22 W.R. 195.

(27)—Landlord and Tenant—Trees, Right to —Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts - Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), s. 77 (3) (i)—Suit by occupancy tenant for share of price of trees against landlord.—The plaintiff, occupancy tenant, sued the defendant, landlord, for a share in the price of trees cut down and sold by the defendant from the land of the plaintiff's tenancy. Held, that the claim was cognizable by a Revenue Court under s. 77 (3) (i) of the Punjab Tenancy Act. Held, also, that although the trees are the property of the landlord, the occupancy tenant has certain rights in the trees growing on his land, and a landlord cannot be allowed to wantonly cut down and sell any trees he likes contrary to the interest of his tenant. GANGA RAM v. MAHNI, 45 P.L.R. 1905 = 9 P.R 1904, Rev. (95 P R 1867, 61 P R. 1873, 4 P.R. 1875, 61 P.R 1881, R.) [R., 52 P.R. 1906.]

(28)—Khodkasht and Khodkasht Kudeemee ryot—Suit for eviction by auction-purchaser—Act I of 1845, s. 26 (3).—A khodkasht kudeemee ryot having a right of occupancy at a fixed rent (but not a mere khodkasht for 12 years) cannot be evicted under cl. 3, s. 26, of Act I of 1845, by the auction-purchaser. SYUD LOTF ALI KHAN v. KASHEE DYAL, 1 W. R. 6.

(29)—Act VIII of 1865, s. 16 — Mokurruree tenure—Auction purchaser, rights of—Rights of occupancy, how affected.—Under s. 16 of Act VIII of 1865, an auction-purchaser of a mokurruree tenure could set aside incumbrances created only subsequently to the creation of the tenure. Consequently, rights of occupancy existing prior to the mokurruree tenure remain unaffected by the purchase. BHOLANATH GHOSSAL v. KEDARNATH BANERJEE, 19 W. R. 106. [R., 22 W.R. 478.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(30)—Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), ss. 5, 6 —Suit to be declared occupancy tenant under s. 5—Judgment on admission by some of the defendants — Plaintiff whether entitled to a decree as against confessing defendants only.—Six out of the fifty-three defendants in this case admitted the truth of the facts upon which the plaintiff relied, as establishing his title to be declared a tenant with rights of occupancy under s. 5, cl. 3 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, in place of being recorded under s. 6. The Lower Courts dismissed the plaintiff's claim against all the defendants, upon the ground that he had failed to establish that his predecessors-in-title had settled in the village with the founders. Plaintiff on appeal contended that he was entitled to the declaration sought by him at least as against the defendants proprietors who confessed judgment. Held that the right of the plaintiff in his holding should be treated as one and indivisible, and he cannot be an occupancy tenant under s. 5 qua some of the proprietors, and a tenant under s. 6 qua the others. BHAGWAN SINGH v. ALLADAD KHAN, 84 P.R 1881. [Appr., 16 P.R. 1887; R., 15 P R. 1884.]

(31)—Suit for occupancy rights—Act XXVIII of 1868 (Punjab Tenancy Act), s. 8.—This was a claim to occupancy rights instituted to contest a notice of ejectment, and the decree under s. 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act passed by the Court of first instance was set aside by the Lower Courts. The plaintiff had previously sued for proprietary rights in the holding and that claim was dismissed by the Appellate Courts as premature; but this was not a claim to proprietary rights and could not be supported by evidence that the original status of the plaintiff was equal to that of the defendants. In a suit for occupancy rights, the plaintiff must be taken to admit that he is a tenant of the defendant, and has to show that he has acquired a right of occupancy. No facts were found to prove the above, and it was held that rights of occupancy could not be decreed merely because the Court thought that the plaintiff's true position was that of the proprietor. MANSUKH v. HAR PERSHAD, 56 P. R. 1884.

(32)—S. 5 (1) (a), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887 —Condition fulfilled with regard to part of holding—Suit to contest notice of ejectment.—A suit by a tenant to contest a notice of ejectment will be decreed, if it is shown that the landlord had permitted the tenant to fulfil the conditions of s. 5 (1) (a) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, in respect of even a part of the land, though not of the whole. HIRDE v. DARBARI, 5 P.R. 1891, Rev.

(33)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 5 (1) (a) —Suit for enhancement of rent—Question of status not raised—Subsequent suit to establish a right of occupancy—Res judicata.—In a suit for enhancement of rent before the Collector, the question of status of the tenants was not raised. Held, that in a subsequent suit to establish an occupancy right under s. 5 (1) (a) of the Act, the question of status was held to be res judicata, as it ought to have been raised in the former suit. NIHAL SINGH v. HIRA SINGH, 5 P.R. 1892, Rev.

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(34)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 5 (1) (c) —Administrative proceeding— Res judicata— Right to occupancy rights.—A tenant found to possess the qualifications required by s. 5 (1) (c) of the Tenancy Act, 1887, would have a right to occupancy rights. The fact that such a tenant was found to be a tenant-at-will in settlement proceeding in 1863 will neither constitute res judicata, nor will in any way affect his rights to occupancy tenure. SARTA v. IMAMUDDIN, 2 P.R.1891, Rev. (7 P R. 1890, Rev. F.) [R., 1 P.R. 1904, Rev.=3 P.L.R. 1904.]

(35)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, ss. 45, 77 (3) (a)—Notice — Suit to establish occupancy rights - Question of compensation.—In a suit to establish occupancy rights under s. 77 (3) (a), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, a question of compensation cannot be determined, without reference to s. 45 of the Act where no previous notice of ejectment had been given. FATTU v. MAHANT SHANKAR GIR, 9 P. R. 1890, Rev.

(36)—Provision for succession in old Wajib-ul-arz—No provision in later one—Rule to follow—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, s. 50 - Civil Courts, Jurisdiction of.—Where the provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the old settlement on a matter of succession to an occupancy tenant, did not find a place in that for the new settlement, a suit brought subsequent to the new settlement must be decided according to the new one and not according to the old and superseded one. A suit by a collateral for possession of a holding from the landlord on the ground of inheritance is cognizable by a Civil Court and is not governed by s. 50 of the Tenancy Act. WAJIRA v HARJALU, 160 P.R. 1890. [R., 43 P.R. 1904.]

(37)—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, s. 112 (3)—Application to partition by majority of tenants—Objection by others—Power of Revenue officer.—If, in an application for partition by the majority of occupancy tenants, the others object to the partition, the Revenue officer has, under s. 112, cl. (3), Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, full discretion to allow or disallow partition. SUBE KHAN v. RAHMAT ALI, 1 P.R. 1895, Rev. (77 P.R. 1883, F.) [R., 3 P.R. 1905, Rev.]

(38)—Grass preserve kept up by proprietors—Hereditary tenants whether entitled to cut and remove grass from—Wajib-ul-arz—Right of tenants to pasture cattle and remove grass in ban banjar. - A plot of land had been formed into a grass preserve, and the grass produced in the preserve having been cut by certain hereditary cultivators, the present suit was brought by a portion of the proprietary body disputing the right of such cultivators to cut the grass, and for damages for loss of profits they would otherwise have made from it. The Administration-paper of the village contained provisions as to the usage of the cattle of the village grazing without distinction of proprietor or non-proprietor in the ban banjar without payment. The question raised in the present suit was whether the hereditary tenants were entitled to share with the proprietors in the produce of a portion of the ban banjar set apart as a grass preserve and not used for grazing. Held, that the plaintiffs, the proprietors, were entitled to a decree, having regard to the provisions of the wajib ul-arz and to the fact found that there was a sufficient grazing for both proprietors and non-proprietary tenants in the portion of the ban banjar which was not enclosed and preserved. There was nothing in the village Administration-paper which gave non-proprietary tenants an absolute right to graze on the whole uncultivated area or which forbade the proprietors from setting aside as a grass preserve a portion of that whole area, provided the portion left formed sufficient grazing ground for all the village cattle. As long as the tenants had sufficient grazing land left, the owners had the right to enclose the rest and use it for building purposes or for growing profitable crops. The defendants, the tenants, had no right to remove or cut the grass of the preserve. NAGINA v. BAGGU, 100 P.R. 1881. [F., 119 P.R. 1889.]

Right of Occupancy*—continued.

——5—Miscellaneous—continued.

(39)—Suit to disprove right of occupancy in a portion of land—Difference in the old and new settlement—Procedure.—The entry in the record of the Regular Settlement in favour of any person is prima facie evidence of his right to hold the land. Where a previous measurement record is perfect and accurate, the fact that a person entitled under it is found to hold a larger area than that shown therein would be evidence of his encroachment on adjacent land. But, if the measurement made long ago is found to be inaccurate, the fact of discrepancy in the old and new measurements would be an unsafe guide in deciding a claim. BAHADUR v. SHER, 5 P.R. 1887, Rev. [R., 5 P.R. 1888, Rev.]

(40)—Actual possession — Wrong entry in settlement record—Effect on one's rights.—A person will be entitled to the fields or land which he actually possessed at the time when the settlement entry is made. The fact that the extent of such land was wrongly entered in the record would in no way affect his rights to the land. DULLA v. MUSST. GHULAM BIBI, 5 P.R. 1888, Rev. (5 P.R. 1887, Rev. F.)

Whether a raiyat taking a zuripeshgi lease construed as a cultivating lease divests himself of his rights to acquire—in the land—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 28, 10 C.W.N. 351.

Presumption of fixity of rent—When arises —See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 50, 106, 6 Ind. Cas. 217=14 C.W.N. 884.

Right of Occupancy—continued.

— 5.—Miscellaneous—continued.

Sale of, by tenant—Right of landlord to eject—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 87, 3 C. L.J. 343=33 C. 531.

Homestead land of raiyat—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 182, 10 C.W.N. 944=4 C.L.J. 332.

See PUN. ACT XXVIII OF 1868, ss. 2 and 8, 3 P.R. 1877.

See PUN ACT XXVIII OF 1868, s. 36, 47 P. R. 1889.

Mortgage of, by tenant—Holding by mortgagee after death of the mortgagor—only of a tenant-at-will not of an occupancy tenant —See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, ss. 9, 57, 8 P.R. 1905, Rev.=67 P.L.R. 1906.

Whether extinguished by non-cultivation by a minor tenant—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 38, 3 P.R. 1910=9 P.W.R. 1910=5 Ind. Cas. 235=157 P.L.R. 1910.

Succession to occupancy—Punjab Tenancy Act, ss. 111 and 112—Right of person to settle, by written agreement, a course of succession different from that prescribed in the Act—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, ss. 111 and 112, 130 P.R. 1907=76 P.L.R. 1908.

See U.P. ACT XVIII OF 1873, ss. 8, 34 (b), 35, 4 A. 157=A.W.N. 1881, 170.

See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 8, 7 A. 586, F.B.=A.W.N. 1885, 134.

Mortgage of—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, s. 20, 3 A.L.J. 691=A.W.N. 1906 302.

Right of succession to—Poor and rich daughters—Preference—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, s. 22, 7 A.L.J. 293=5 Ind. Cas. 584=32 A. 314.

Sale of—Possession of tenant of portion of holding—Rent decree against purchaser—Sale of holding—Right of old tenant to save by deposit of decretal amount—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 89, 5 Ind. Cas. 561.

Custom as to existence of—Nature and proof of usage—See CUSTOM, 6 Ind. Cas. 291.

Succession to—Onus—See CUSTOM—PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 60 P.W.R. 1910=38 P.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 774=182 P.L.R. 1910.

Succession to, not to be restricted to relations within the village of the deceased tenant —See CUSTOMS, PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 128 P.L.R. 1906.

See DECREE—DECREE, FORM OF, 6 P.R. 1891, Rev.

See FISHERY, 11 C.L.R. 9.

Right of Occupancy—concluded.

—5.—Miscellaneous—concluded.

See HINDU LAW—PARTITION, A.W.N. 1895, 143.

See KHOTI TENURE, 17 B. 677.

Mortgage of—Void-mortgage—Rights of mortgagor and mortgagee—See MORTGAGE —GENERAL, 7 Ind. Cas. 738.

Mortgage of—Relinquishment by mortgagor's representative—Right of mortgagee—Declaratory suit—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, 7 A.L.J. 291=6 Ind. Cas. 284.

Registered occupant of holding in Berar —Relinquishment of holding—Surrender—Co-sharer's right of pre-emption—Failure to exercise the right, effect of—See PRE-EMPTION, MISCELLANEOUS, 6 N.L R. 78=6 Ind. Cas. 824.

Temple lands—Use of terms such as "permanent," "you and your heirs" in documents — Effect — See RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS, 7 M.L.T 386=6 Ind. Cas. 7.

See RES JUDICATA—ADJUDICATIONS, 118 P.R. 1876

See RES JUDICATA—MISCELLANEOUS, 54 P.R. 1884.

See REVIEW—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 10 C.L.R. 106.

See REVISION—GENERAL, 16 P.R. 1892, Rev., 17 P.R. 1892, Rev.

Suit to contest—Ejectment — Tenant-at-will—See VALUATION OF SUITS, 11 C L.R. 91.

Suit to establish right to grant of puttah of waste lands—Preferential right to occupancy—See WASTE LANDS, 4 M.H.C. 429.

Right of Reply.

(1)—Giving no opportunity for reply—Ground for special appeal.—When an appeal was dismissed by the lower appellate Court, after hearing the respondent's pleader, without giving the appellant's pleader an opportunity to reply, the High Court on that objection being made a ground of special appeal from an order of the Judge refusing to grant a review on that ground, set aside the order and sent the case back for re-trial. JARDINE v. TARNI MOHAN SEN, 8 B.L.R. App. 44. [D., 8 C. L.R. 23.]

(2)—Rule nisi—Right of reply —When a rule nisi has been obtained and cause has been shown against it, the party obtaining it has a right to be heard in reply, even though the side showing cause has made use of no affidavit. BAMASUNDARI DASI v. RAMNARAYAN MITTER, 7 B.L.R. Ap. 59.

(3)—Appeal—Practice—Appellant's right of reply.—When no new matter of any kind is brought forward by a respondent in his answer to the appellant, the latter has no right of reply ; as such reply ought not to be a reiteration of the arguments in support of the appeal, but should be a refutation of the new matter brought forward by the respondent in his answer. M. S. ROUSSEAU v. NUBOO KISHORE BHUDRO, 12 W.R. 302.

Right of Reply—concluded.

Right of Suit.

1.—GENERAL.
2.—ACCOUNTS.
3.—ACTS DONE IN EXERCISE OF SOVEREIGN POWERS.
4.—ATTACHMENT PROCEEDINGS, SUITS CONCERNING.
5.—AWARDS, SUITS CONCERNING.
6.—BOUNDARY QUESTIONS, SUITS CONCERNING.
7.—BUILDING, SUIT TO RESTRAIN.
8.—CASTE QUESTIONS, SUITS CONCERNING.
9.—CONTRACTS, SUITS ON.
10.—CO-SHARERS, SUITS BY.
11.—COSTS.
12.—CUSTOMARY RIGHTS.
13.—DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.
14.—DECREES.
15.—DIGNITIES.
16.—ENDOWMENTS, SUITS RELATING TO.
17.—ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.
18.—EXECUTION OF DECREE.
19.—FRESH SUITS.
20.—INJURIES BY REPRESENTATIVES OF DECEASED.
21.—INJURIES TO ENJOYMENT OF PROPERTY.
22.—JUDICIAL OFFICERS, SUITS AGAINST.
23.—LANDLORD AND TENANT, SUITS CONCERNING.
24.—MESNE PROFITS.
25.—MUNICIPAL OFFICERS, SUITS AGAINST.
26.—OBSTRUCTION TO PUBLIC HIGHWAYS, SUITS CONCERNING.
27.—OFFICE OR EMOLUMENT, SUITS RELATING TO.
28.—ORDERS, SUITS TO SET ASIDE.
29.—POSSESSION, SUIT FOR.
30.—PRIVACY, INVASION OF.
31.—PUBLIC WORSHIP, SUITS CONCERNING RIGHTS TO.
32.—REGISTRATION OF NAME.
33.—REVENUE, SALE FOR ARREARS OF.
34.—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.
35.—SUBSCRIPTION.
36.—TORTS.
37.—TRUSTS, SUITS RELATING TO.
38.—WITNESS.
39.—MISCELLANEOUS.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 9.

Right of Suit—continued.

—1.—General.

(1)—"Right to sue"—"Cause of action."—"The right to sue" is based upon facts which go to make up what is called the "cause of action." SHAM CHAND GIRI v. BHAYARAM PANDAY, 22 C. 92.

(2)—Plaint—Presentation—Right of suit.—The mere non-acceptance by the Court of a plaint on the date on which it is actually presented does not deprive plaintiff of his right of suit E. YOUNG v. D. MACCORKINDALE, 19 W.R. 159.

(3)—Right of suit — Execution of decree barred — Suit on decree—Maintainability.—Where a decree is barred by limitation, the decree-holder loses his rights under it, and cannot proceed by a fresh suit on the decree to enforce its execution. YAKOOB ALI v. KHAJEH UBDOOL RAHMAN, 3 Agra 383. [D., 13 A. 309=A.W.N. 1891, 117.]

(4)—Judgment of Court, no new cause of action given by—Suit upon decree not maintainable.—The judgment of the Commissioner, in this case, proceeded upon the ground that the plaintiff, having omitted to sue out execution of his decree, could not bring a fresh suit upon that decree without having to establish his claim on the merits. The appeal brought against the judgment was accepted by the Chief Court which reversed the judgment and remanded the case. Since the above judgment was recorded on the appeal by the Chief Court, certain decisions upon which the Chief Court had based that judgment, happened to be overruled by the High Court of Bengal in 9 W.R. 399, wherein it was ruled that a suit cannot be entertained in a mofussil Small Cause Court to recover the unsatisfied balance of a decree. Accordingly, the Chief Court, in review, reversed its previous order in the case. SHEO SING v. ROORA, 14 P.R. 1869.

(5)—Mistake in decree—Separate suit to set aside—Maintainability.—It cannot be broadly laid down that any error in a decree made by a Court may be challenged by a separate suit. CHAND MEA v. SRIMATI ASIMA BANU, 10 C.W.N. 1024. (3 C.W.N. 375, 8 C.W.N. 473, R.)

(6)—Erroneous dismissal of suit by Small Cause Court—Suit cannot be instituted in Munsif's Court.—The erroneous dismissal of a suit for the same cause of action by a Small Cause Court does not warrant the institution of the suit in the District Munsif's Court. PONNAPPA MUDALI v. SRINIVASA MUDALI, 3 M.H.C. 86.

(7)—Suit to enforce liability specifically imposed by decree of Civil Court in the mofussil, not sustainable—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 11.—A suit does not lie to enforce a liability specifically imposed by the decree of a Civil Court in the mofussil, the right of suit in such a case being taken away by s. 11 of Act XXIII of 1861. K. SANJEEVIYAH v. NANJIYAH, 4 M.H.C. 453. [Appr., 2 N.W.P. 382 ; R., 5 M.H.C. 185, 5 M.H.C, 375, 6 B. 7; F., 10 B.H.C. 433.]

Right of Suit -continued.

——1.- General—continued.

(8)—Suit in British India on cause of action arising in foreign territory—When maintainable—Civ. Pro. Code, Act XIV of 1882, ss. 11, 17.—There is no reason for refusing to hear a claim for the price of goods supplied against a defendant residing within the jurisdiction of the Court, when the claim is brought on a cause of action arising in a foreign country, if the cause of action be such that it can be proved that a Court in foreign territory would have taken cognizance: and s. 17 of the Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), which gives the Courts jurisdiction to try cases against the defendants residing within their jurisdiction, must be read with s. 11 which gives Courts jurisdiction to try all civil suits unless specially barred. HARI SINGH v. MAJOR H. TUCKER, 4 P.R. 1885. [R., 35 P.R. 1903=101 P.L.R. 1903.]

(9)—Right of suit—Delegated powers.—A person whose right to represent the nominal plaintiff is challenged by the defendant, must prove that he is authorised to sue as he does and must bring into Court the primary evidence in his possession. GOBIN CHUNDER DUTT v. OODY CHUNDER SEN, 21 W.R. 30.

(10)—Suit to recover debt, nature of right.—The right to sue to recover a debt is in the nature of a common law right, and, unless it is taken away either expressly or by necessary implication, it must be treated as subsisting. KOTHANDAPANI v. SOMASUNDARAM, 15 M. 97.

(11)—Written promise to pay when able, how construed—Limitation.—It seems to have been settled in English Cases that, however vague a condition to pay "when I am able" may be, those words are not to be treated as mere surplusage without meaning, but do in fact form a binding contract, so that the promisee cannot sue till the time when the condition is fulfilled. The promisee's cause of action does not accrue until the promisor is in circumstances to pay. WATSON & CO. v. BLECHYNDEN, 1 W.R. 368.

(12)—Trust—Suit for payment of trust fund into Court—Plaintiff not having actual title to any part of fund—Bill quia timet—Assent of trustee of fund to decree in plaintiff's favour—Maintainability of suit.—Plaintiff, a member of the Armenian community at Madras sued for a decree for payment into the Bank of Madras, with the privity of the Accountant-General of the High Courts, the Government promissory notes mentioned in the plaint, and for a direction that the Accountant-General might pay the interest accruing due on the notes to the Governors of the Madras Armenian Orphan's fund. The trustees of the fund concerned consented to a decree in favour of the plaintiff. Held that the plaintiff had not such interest in the fund as was sufficient to entitle him to require it to be brought into Court. The only interest which he appeared to possess was that he was a member of the Armenian community to which the fund has been endowed. He had no title to any part of the fund in question. As the plaint was in the nature of a Bill quia timet, the plaintiff was bound, in order to support it, to prove a title in possession or expectancy in him and a danger to the fund. The fact that the trustees of the fund did not make any opposition and consented to a decree in plaintiff's favour did not give the Court liberty to pass such a decree. SATOOR v. SATOOR, 2 M.H.C. 8.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(13)—Suit for declaration of title—Plaintiff in possession of all alleged rights—Maintainability of suit.—Where the plaintiff in a suit for declaration of title has all his rights uninvaded and intact and there has been no foundation for an action, the suit for declaration of title cannot be maintained. PADAGALINGAM PILLAY v. SHUNMUGHAM PILLAY, 2 M.H.C. 333. [F., 6 M.H.C. 117; R., 9 W.R. 580, 3 C. 612; D., 6 M.H.C. 307.]

(14)—Wife representing absent and divided husband - Suit by her for his share.—In a suit brought by a woman to procure the delivery to her of a share of land alleged to have been purchased with money subject to the provisions of a partition deed executed by her husband and the undivided members of his family, where it appeared that her husband had been, for six years prior to suit, absent in a foreign country, held that the wife sufficiently represented her absent and divided husband to enable her to sue for his share. PAPAMMAL v. RAMASWAMI CHETTI, 2 M.H.C. 365.

(15)—Accrual of right—Redemption—Constructive payment.—Where an assignee of land covenants with his assignors to repay all the moneys which they have at any time actually or constructively paid to Government for redemption, a suit against him, where money has not been actually paid, is premature, unless there is some definite agreement with Government as to the amount which Government can enforce. WOODROW v. SCHILLER, 1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 90.

(16)—Vendor and vendee—Decree against purchaser on a mortgage previous to the sale, vendor cannot maintain suit to set aside.—Plaintiff, who had sold a shop to certain persons, sued to set aside a mortgage, on which the defendant had previously brought an action and obtained a decree against those persons, and to have the shop exempted from the effect of the decree. It was before the said previous suit brought by the present defendant, on his mortgage, that the plaintiff had made his sale to his vendees and had covenanted with them that he had a good title. In the present action, to which the plaintiff's vendees were not parties, he claimed to set aside the mortgage and decree, on the ground that the mortgage was fraudulent and that, as he was liable on his covenant, he was entitled to maintain this action. It was held that the instrument of mortgage had merged in the decree and this action was not maintainable, unless the plaintiff was entitled to have the decree in the prior suit set aside. By the sale, he had parted with all his interest in the property before the institution of the prior suit, and had no manner of right to the property enabling him to maintain the present action questioning the above decree that had been passed in a properly instituted suit, in a previous litigation and against parties interested at the time. THUNA v. BENI RAM, 9 A. 439 = = A.W.N. 1887, 75.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(17)—Will—Creation of trust—Breach of trust—Parties entitled to sue—Pleadings — Necessary allegations absent — Effect.—The representatives of a testator are entitled to sue for the enforcement of trusts created by him for religious or charitable purposes, even though they may not be personally interested in them. It is necessary for the maintainability of a suit for breach of trust that the plaintiff should substantially allege, in his plaint, a state of circumstances which, if proved, will constitute a distinct breach of trust. BROJO MOHUN DOSS v. HURROLOLL DOSS, 6 C.L. R. 58.

(18)—Right of suit —Interest in subject-matter —Court-fee on plaint.—Plaintiffs as owners of or as persons having an interest in certain land sued to close a door opened by the defendants adjoining such land with a view to assert rights injurious to the plaintiffs' interests. Held, that in order to maintain the suit, the plaintiffs must show some right or interest in themselves which entitled them to complain of the defendants' act, for as mere strangers without any interest, they could not maintain any suit. For the purposes of such a suit, they may prove their locus standi without paying the stamp necessary in case the suit was directly for the land itself. CHUNDUN v. TALIB ALI, 2 N.W. P. 41.

(19)—Lease granted by co-sharer—Pendency of butwara proceedings—Suit to set aside lease —Right of suit.—A suit to set aside a mokurruree lease granted by a co-sharer, is premature if brought before the completion of a butwara which was in course of being effected, as the plaintiff has no locus standi to bring the suit in respect of a mokurruree by which he might never be injuriously affected at all. BHEKDHAREE SINGH v. KISHEN PERSHAD SINGH, 15 W.R. 106.

(20)—Suit by co-sharer for joint possession of one of several properties, maintainability of.—It is competent for a co-sharer, who is debarred from enjoyment in one of several properties owned by him in common with the rest of his co-sharers to sue for joint possession in respect of that property alone without claiming a similar relief in respect of the other joint properties. SURA SINGH v. SANT SINGH, 43 P.R. 1906 = 122 P.L.R. 1906. (77 P.R. 1887, 7 B. 182, 7 B. 272, 11 C. 566, 162 P.R. 1884, D.)

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(21)—Fraud by minor's guardian evading Court's order to render accounts—Person exposing fraud entitled to be heard.—In a case where a gross fraud is being practised upon the Court relating to the matter of a minor, and the object of the fraud is for evading an order which the Court has made directing the guardian of the minor to render certain accounts, any person that appears before the Court, exposes the fraud and undertakes to prove it, has a locus standi in the Court and is entitled to be heard. HOSSEIN ALI KHAN v. SYUD BURKUT ALI, 10 W.R. 372.

(22)—Hindu widow, not representative of husband for purposes of suit, sons being alive—Disclaimer in petition filed by sons, widow's defect in title not cured by—Limitation.—Plaintiff sued to have an order in an Act IV case set aside, and to obtain possession of certain lands. In her plaint, she described herself as widow of one N M, deceased, and she showed no title to the property in question save as being the heiress of N M and his representative according to Hindu law. The defendant pleaded that she had no right to sue, because she was not the representative of her husband, who had left two sons who were still alive, and who were his heirs. Upon this, the sons, more than six months after the suit was instituted, filed a petition in which they declared that the plaintiff was in possession of all their father's property and had, therefore, full right to sue. Before this petition was put in, the claim had become barred by lapse of time, the original plaint having been filed the very last day on which it was not barred. The lower appellate Court held that the declaration of the sons of the 17th December 1862 showed that the plaintiff had the right to sue on the 31st December 1861, the date of her plaint, and that thus plaintiff was not barred by limitation or by absence of right to sue and, finding that plaintiff's husband's alleged purchase was proved, reversed the first Court's decree and allowed the plaintiff's claim. Held that a Hindu widow, whose husband's sons, him surviving, are alive, possesses no legal rights to confer on her the locus standi to sue as the representative of her husband. So, the plaintiff, in this case having had, when she instituted the suit, no title in her on which she could maintain her suit, the High Court was of opinion that the petition subsequently filed by the sons could not be deemed to have removed that defect. RAM KANNYE GOSSAMEE v. MEERNOMOYEE DOSSEE, 2 W.R. 49. [R., 7 W.R. 455; D., 18 W. R. 271.]

(23)—Hindu law—Legal necessity where presumable in connection with alienation of ancestral property—Right of unborn son to sue.—Limitation can be pleaded as a bar to a suit to set aside an alienation by a grandfather, the cause of action in such a case arising not from the date of the grandfather's death, but from the date of alienation. The right of an unborn son to sue does not give a perpetual right of action. Where neither want of enquiry nor mala fides is shown, the existence of legal necessity must be presumed, and the acts of the guardian must be considered to be the acts of the minor. Quære:—Whether the same rule strictly applies to the relation of the head of a family and his descendants' holding, vested rights in his state, in regard to alienations by the head of the family, to which the descendants did not expressly consent. BABOO SEETAL PERSHAD SINGH v. BABOO GOUR DYAL SINGH, 1 W.R. 283.

Right of Suit—continued.

—— 1.—General—continued.

(24)—Custom—Alienation—Gift by widow—Collaterals' right of suit to object in the presence of daughter's son—Hindu Law—Right of suit—Khatris of Multan City.—Held, that no custom to the contrary having been proved, the parties to the suit, Mahrotra Khatris of Multan City were governed by the Hindu Law in the matters relating to succession. Where the widow of a Mahrotra Khatri, of Multan City, made a gift of a house, which was the self-acquired property of her deceased husband, to the Sanatan Dharm Sabha, and a brother and nephews of the husband sued for a declaration that the gift shall not affect their rights after the widow's death, held, that in the presence of daughters and daughters' sons of the deceased, the plaintiffs, who were not joint with the deceased, had no right to sue, unless they could prove that the daughters and daughters' sons, who were heirs, were in collusion with the widow, or did not sue for some improper and insufficient reasons. Held, also, that the daughters being heirs to the whole property, their agreement to the gift was an act of filial piety against their own interest, and was not collusive in the sense in which collusion would give the plaintiffs a right to sue. M. WISHAN DASS v. PANDIT THAKAR DAS, 6 P.L.R. 1902 =119 P.R. 1901. (23 P.R. 1876, 144 P.R. 1882, 4 P.R. 1890, 6 A. 428, 84 P.R. 1898, F.B., 6 C. 764, 143 P.R. 1882, 67 P.R. 1888, 9 P.R. 1884, 108 P.R. 1888, 60 P.R. 1895, 73 P.R. 1896, 4 P.R. 1888, R.) [R., 3 P.R. 1908, 48 P.R. 1908, 51 P.R. 1903=174 P.L.R. 1903, 68 P.R. 1909=1 P.L.R. 1909; F., 54 P.R. 1903, 110 P.R. 1906.]

(25)—Hindu Law—Sale of judgment-debtor's right as reversioner—Suit to set aside sale.—The right and interest of a judgment-debtor as a reversioner, being a mere contingent right depending on his being alive at the widow's death, a suit by the widow to set aside a sale of such right is not maintainable. MUSSUMAT SHIB KOONWER v. SADHO SINGH, 2 Agra 255.

(26)—Debt — Inheritance — Hindu Law—Right of one of several co-heirs to sue for his share of debt.—By the Full Bench Mahmood, J., dissenting.—When, upon the death of the obligee of a money-bond, the right to realize the money has devolved by inheritance in specific shares upon his heirs, each of such heirs cannot maintain a separate suit for the recovery of his share of the money due on the bond. KANDHIYA LAL v. CHANDAR, 7 A. 313, F.B.=A.W.N. 1885, 34. [Appr., 25 M. 26; R., 9 A. 486, 51 P.R. 1894, 21 B. 154, 6 C L.J. 383, 12 C.W.N. 84=6 C.L.J. 558; D., 70 P.R. 1904.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—— 1.—General—continued.

(27)—Hindu widow, if competent to maintain suit for possession, during lifetime of her adopted son.—This was a suit brought by a widow for possession of a share in a fishery, alleging it to belong to her talook of which she was in possession, and that her co-sharers in the julkur had wrongly ousted her. She had an adopted son who was a major, and he first objected to the suit being brought but subsequently withdrew his objection. But it was held that his petition so withdrawing his objection could not cure the defect in the plaint owing to want of title in the plaintiff to bring the suit in the lifetime of her son. JANNOBEE CHOWDHRAIN v. DWARKANATH ROY CHOWDHRY, 7 W. R. 455.

(28)—Insult to female members—Action by male relations.—Male member of a family (whose relationship even was not clearly defined) cannot sue for the injury or insult which they have sustained indirectly in consequence of ill-treatment of certain female members of their family. OODAI v. BHOWANEE PERSHAD, 1 Agra 264. [Appr., 11 A. 104=8 A.W.N. 287; R., 10 A. 425=A.W.N. 1888, 157, 32 C. 1060 =9 C.W.N. 847=2 C.L.J. 396.]

(29)—Judgment—Alteration of legal misapprehension—Effect—Cause of action—Parties to judgment.—The plaintiff and other share-holders in the same family lent to the Rajah of Durbangha a large sum of money on a bond. The Rajah made a payment of two lakhs of rupees which was received by the defendants and appropriated as their share of payments, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the plaintiff. Subsequently, all the share-holders instituted separate suits against the Rajah for the recovery of their separate shares of the money lent. In the separate suits the defendants deducted the sum of two lacs as received to their several receipt; while the plaintiff in his suit, made no such deduction, thereby showing that up to that time he had considered the two lacs as paid to the sole credit and receipt of the other share-holders. The Court ruled in the plaintiff's suit that the sum of two lacs was paid in liquidation of the whole sum due on the bond, not with reference to any particular share or interest in it. Consequently the plaintiff's claim to his share of the two lacs paid was disallowed. Then the plaintiff brought this suit to recover his share of the sum paid by the Rajah to the credit of the defendants. Held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover. The plaintiff's error was a pure error of law and the judgment of the

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Court ruling that the two lacs as between the parties were paid as interest and were to be credited to the joint and not to the separate payments, cannot alter the status of the parties in this suit and cannot give a new right of action. That judgment was, of course, binding on the plaintiff and the Rajah who were the only parties there. It would not bind the defendants, nor would it give the plaintiff a right to start a fresh suit, nor put him in the position in which he would have been, had he never misconceived his correct legal claim. There is no warrant in law for this doctrine that judgments of Courts, altering a pure legal misapprehension as to rights and status, and passed in a suit to which the defendant was not a party, can confer any such right on a plaintiff against a defendant so circumstanced; it is far better to allow parties to abide by the consequences of their own misconception or ignorance where no fraud or deception is even alleged. SYED LOTF ALI KHAN v. AFZUL OONISSA BEGUM, 3 W.R. 113. [Reversed on appeal, 16 W.R. P.C. 20=9 B.L.R. 348.]

(30)—Suit by pre-emptor—Right of mortgagee—Limitation.—Though the law allows a pre-emptor to sue at any time within one year of the transfer of possession, there is nothing to prevent his doing so earlier. The absolute rights of a mortgagee, and the consequent right to claim pre-emption, arise from the time when the sale becomes absolute. MUSSAMUT JANKEE KOER v. MUSSAMUT LEKRANEE KOER, W.R. 1864, 285.

(31)—Suit by trustee—Decree— Benefit of decree.—If a truseee obtains a decree on a bond, the money due on which belongs to another party, he (the trustee) is liable to be sued by the party's son to obtain the benefit of the decree. JUGGOBUNDOO COONDOO v. NIL COMUL SURMAH, W.R. 1864, 190.

(32)—Suit on joint claim—Evidence—Limitation.—Where a joint claim has been put forward in a suit, it will be liable to dismissal unless the joint claim is established as such. It is not enough that one of the several plaintiffs should have made out a title to the property. Also on euquiring into the issue of limitation, the Court should satisfy itself whether or not there has been joint enjoyment by the plaintiffs or their respective predecessors within the period of limitation. RAM COMAL CHUCKERBUTTY v. NUND RAM COOLAL, 10 W.R. 261.

(33)—Landlord and tenant—Repudiation of title—Cause of action.—Where a tenant claims to hold lands on one species of tenure and the landlord under whom he holds repudiates his tenure, and sets up another which is inconsistent with it, this is a dispossession of the tenant by the landlord from the tenure claimed, and may be thus treated as giving a cause of action. Though the repudiation of the tenant's title by the landlord might form a cause of action against him, it can only form one cause of action, however often that repudiation is repeated. NUND KISHORE SINGH v. HUREE PERSHAD MUNDUL, 13 W.R. 64.

(34)—Suit instituted by agent in his own name—Dismissal of—Act X of 1877, ss. 27, 582—Appellate Court whether competent to substitute principal as plaintiff in place of agent.—The practice of a gomashta instituting a suit in his own name describing himself as "gomashtah of a specified firm" is not an uncommon one, but is not a correct practice, as the suit brought should be brought by the person or persons in whom the legal right of suit is vested and not by agents in their own names. The error is an important one as it renders the suit liable to dismissal, even after judgment in the plaintiff's favour in the first Court, unless it be held that the combined effect of ss. 27 and 582 of the Civ. Pro. Code, is to empower an Appellate Court to substitute the principal as plaintiff, on sufficient grounds being shown for such a course. THAKURDAS v. GOLAM MOHYUDDIN, 20 P.R. 1882. [R., 8 P.R. 1886, 156 P.R. 1889.]

(35)—Decree for possession barred by limitation—Effect of such bar by neglect to execute—Fresh suit for possession not maintainable.—Where plaintiffs obtained a decree for possession of immoveable property, but did not apply for execution of the same within the period of limitation and brought the present suit again, for recovery of possession of the same property, held, the plaintiffs having allowed the period distinctly prescribed for execution of their decree to expire, the decree had become a nullity and they had no right to subsequently rely upon that decree and sue again to recover possession of the same land upon the footing thereof, since the mere fact, that there was once in existence an executable decree made in their favour, could not entitle them to institute a fresh suit, upon the same cause of action, upon which the former suit had been founded. OMAN SHEIKH v. HALAKURI SHEIK, 33 C. 679.

(36)—Suit for possession against trespasser—Plaintiff's title, proof of—Possession good title against all but rightful owner.—In a suit by a mortgagee (plaintiff) for possession of the mortgaged property from which the defendant had dispossessed him, the defence was that the original mortgagor had no title to the property and, therefore, could not mortgage it to the plaintiff and, consequently, the plaintiff's suit was not maintainable. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree, unless the defendant was the true owner. Possession is good title against all persons except the rightful owner and entitles the possessor to maintain an action in ejectment against any person other than such owner, who dispossesses him. RAMPAL SINGH v. RAJA MUSTAFA ALI KHAN, 9 O.C. 273. (2 O.C. 3, R.) [R., 11 O.C. 337.]

(37)—Suit for money paid for the use of the defendant, maintainability of—Absence of obligation to pay, express or implied—Payment against the will of the defendant.—Upon a

Right of Suit—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

putni sale under Regulation VIII of 1819, a portion of the surplus sale proceeds, standing to the credit of the defaulter, was withdrawn by an execution creditor of one of them. On a suit by the defaulter, the sale was set aside and the landlord had to refund the purchase money to the auction purchaser. The landlord having sued for the recovery of the amount withdrawn by the execution creditor: Held, that the defaulter whose creditor had withdrawn the money was not liable to pay. It is not in every case in which a man has benefited by the money of another, that an obligation to repay that money arises. To support such a suit there must be an obligation, express or implied, to repay. There is no such obligation in the case of a voluntary payment and still less when money has been paid against the will of the party for whose use it is supposed to have been paid. ROOP CHANNESSA BIBI v. BEJOYCHAND MAHATAP, 3 C.L.J. 288. (15 B.L.R. 208=2 I.A. 143, F.)

(38)—Suit by judgment-debtor to recover money paid to decree-holder under an agreement —Suit before actual execution taken out in spite of the agreement—Maintainability.—A judgment-debtor paid a certain amount to the decree-holder under an arrangement that the latter should certify to the Court that the decree was fully satisfied. Without, however, entering such satisfaction, the decree-holder applied for execution and the judgment debtor immediately on receipt of a notice under s. 248, Civ. Pro. Code, sought, by the present suit, to recover from the decree-holder the sum the latter had received under the above arrangement. Defendant, the decree-holder, pleaded, inter alia, that the suit was not maintainable before actual execution of the decree and realization of money thereunder from the plaintiff and the question was referred to the High Court, whether the plaintiff had a cause of action for the suit and could recover back the sum paid in discharge of the decree-debt due by him to the defendant, although the latter had not executed the decree and recovered the sum again from the plaintiff. Held, that the suit was not maintainable. SRIRAMULU v. DALAYYA, 16 M.L.J. 54.

(39)—Fraud—Judgment, impeachment of, on account of fraud.—A party to an action can impeach the judgment in it for fraud, by means of a fresh suit for the purpose, where the judgment is that of a British Court or of a Foreign Court and that not only where there has been a fraud on the Court by what are called extrinsic circumstances but also where the judgment, which the party seeks to set aside has been obtained by the other party by fraud on the Court by committing deliberate perjury and suppressing evidence. VENKATAPPA NAICK v. SUBBA NAIK, 16 M.L.J. 59=29 M. 179.

(40)—Money due under promissory note, agreement to pay, contained in a subsequent deed of assignment—Right of fresh suit, whether given by such deed.—A promissory note was executed by the defendant to the plaintiff. Subsequently, the defendant executed, in favour of plaintiff, a deed of assignment of certain decrees and it was agreed therein, that the amount which plaintiff might recover from those decrees must be credited towards the amount due to him under the promissory note, and that any balance which might be left due under it, after such deduction, must be paid separately by the defendant. The original promissory note, however, had not been cancelled. The present suit was instituted for the recovery of such balance, as under the agreement to pay the same, contained in the assignment deed. Held, the obligation under the promissory note was the only one on which the plaintiff was entitled to sue and that the provisions in the subsequent deed as to the adjustment of the debt and the payment of the balance, if any, did not operate to extinguish the obligation under the promissory note, or create an independent right of suit in favour of plaintiff. The present suit, therefore, having been brought after expiry of the period of limitation, which would have governed the suit if brought upon the note, the lower Court was right in having dismissed the suit as barred. VENKATARAMIAH PANTULU v. RAMAKRISHNA PANTULU, 29 M. 205.

(41)—Right of suit—Promise in favour of vendor—Right of vendee to enforce promise.—A vendee has no right to sue for the enforcement of a promise made by a third person in favour of the vendor, if the right to sue on it has not been conveyed to her by the sale. MUSSUMAT KISHOREE v. JEY KISHORE DASS, 3 Agra 46.

(42)—Legal Practitioner's Act, ss. 28, 30—Suit by pleader to recover fee—Indian Contract Act, s. 70.—A suit may be brought by a pleader against a client to recover the fees agreed to be paid, though the agreement is not in writing, nor filed in Court, when it is under s. 70 of the Contract Act for work and labour done. Ss. 28 and 30 of the Legal Practitioner's Act, which appear to refer to agreements to pay more than the regular fees prescribed by the High Court under s. 27 of the Act, are no bar to such a suit. RAMA v. KUNJI, 9 M. 375. [Diss., 136 P.R. 1893; F., 12 A. 169, 25 C. 805, 27 M. 512=14 M.L.J. 274; R., 11 M. 220, 14 M. 63, 28 A. 764=3 A.L.J. 579=A.W.N. 1906, 235=1 M.L.T. 242, 3 N.L.R. 47, 1 P.R. 1909.]

(43)—Mooktearnamah impugned as forgery, onus of proving genuineness of Act VIII of 1859, s. 132—Endorsement on exhibits produced in Court.—The question, whether the present suit was validly instituted or not, depended on the question whether the mooktearnamah under which the parties that signed the vakalut claimed the right to do so was genuine or not. It was set forth in answer that it was a forged document brought about by fraud. The Judge, however, proceeded on the ground that there was no question as to the legality of admitting the mooktearnamah because it happened to be attested by two witnesses in the presence of the Munsiff in accordance with the custom and usage of the Court. But the High Court held that, in such a case, when it has been set up that the document is a forgery and that it has been brought about by fraud, it is not sufficient to rely on an attestation in another Court without bringing forward the attesting witnesses and subjecting them to cross-examination. The institution of the proceedings in the Court was by virtue of Vakalatnamah purporting to have been signed under an authority given by means of a mooktearnamah which was impeached as a forged one and the party was therefore bound to come forward to prove the genuineness of the mooktearnamah, which he entirely failed to do. On inferences adverse to the party which it was possible to make, under the circumstances of the case, the High Court sent the case to the Magistrate for investigation directing him to proceed according to law in respect of offences which might have been committed under s. 471 or any other section or sections of the Penal Code. Under s. 132 of the Procedure Act, when a document is received by the Court and admitted in evidence, it should be endorsed, among other things, with the name of the party producing it. Whether the exhibit was filed originally or was only produced at the trial, the above rule ought to be acted upon so that any document produced at the trial, though it may not have been filed as an exhibit in the first instance, ought to be endorsed as directed in s. 132. When a Judge, on a trial, thinks it proper to admit a document which has not been filed as an exhibit, he ought to take care that it is produced by a proper person, and that the endorsement pursuant to s. 132 is made upon it in order that hereafter it may be known who the person is who produced it. BABOO BISRAM SINGH v. MAHARANEE INDURJEET KOONWAR, 6 W.R. 2.

Right of Suit -continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(44)—Contract—Wagering transaction—Delivery of goods not contemplated—Budnee—Payment of differences.—Where the plaintiff agrees to deliver and the defendant agrees to accept certain til on a certain day, but no interchange of commodities and their prices passes between the parties, but mere entries are made in the account books of each, the transaction partakes more of the nature of what is called "budnee," i.e., the intention of the parties was that no effect should be given to the transaction and that each party should recover from the other the difference in the prices of goods according as it fluctuates. Such a transaction is more of the nature of a wagering contract, and as such should not be enforced, being opposed to public policy. KISHNA v. HUSHNAK, 11 P.R. 1866.

(45)—Suit against Secretary of society for rent of premises let--Secretary when and how far liable as agent—Indian Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 230—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, s. 106—Notice to quit prior to ejectment—Sufficiency of the service.—In this suit to recover a house with arrears of rent, defendant pleaded that he was merely the honorary Secretary of an Association which held its school in the premises and that he had hired the premises as such Secretary and not in his personal capacity. Held, even assuming that the owner, when he let the premises to the defendant, knew that the latter was the honorary Secretary of the school committee, still, there was nothing to show that the contract was made on the personal credit of any one except the defendant. Looking at the forms of receipt accepted by the defendant, it appeared that he contracted in his own name, but whether he did so or not, the case would fall under s. 239 of the Contract Act, no principal being disclosed. Plaintiff therefore had a cause of action personally against the defendant who was liable to him for the rent. Question also arose as to whether defendant had received a legally valid notice to quit. The notice had been sent to his solicitors, who handed it over to his brother, who in turn passed it on to him within a few days, so that the notice was in the defendant's hands within the requisite time for compliance with s. 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. The notice was not held bad merely because it had not been placed in his hands by the plaintiff or his agent directly. It could not make any difference whether the notice was given in the first instance to the solicitors and by them conveyed, through a relative or servant, to the tenant, or was given direct to the tenant by the lessor in the first instance. In both cases it was delivered to the defendant personally, either eventually or directly, and that was all that the section required. BHOJOBHAI v. HAYEN SAMUEL, 22 B. 754.

(46)—Land granted by Government to several persons—Defendant in possession of portion granted to a neighbour—Right of Government to sue for that portion.—Where a certain quantity of land was granted by Government to several grantees subject to the condition of resumption if the land were allowed to remain uncultivated for certain years, and it was subsequently found that several grantees were not in possession of the land corresponding in quantity with that originally granted to them, and defendants held more than that included in their original grant, held, in a suit by Government for the recovery of land not included in the defendants' grant, that if the defendants held lands belonging to the neighbouring grantees, the right of suit to recover possession of such land vested in the grantees, not in Government, who, having parcelled out the whole land among several grantees, had no remaining right or interest therein, save that of resumption on the aforesaid condition. GOVERNMENT v. RAM CHARUN MISSER, 2 Agra 74.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

(47)—Maafee grant—Nuzzerana to Government through lambardar—Resumption of maafee—Confiscation for rebellion—Auction sale—Payment of Nuzzerana to lambardar—Suit to enforce payment--Jurisdiction—Act XIV of 1863, s. 1, cl. 4.—A certain sum was during the existence of the maafee grant paid as Nusserana to Government through the lambardar. After the maafee was resumed and a Government jumma assessed upon it this sum as Nuzzerana continued to be paid until the interests of the holder of the resumed maafee were confiscated for rebellion and sold at auction. After confiscation and before the auction-sale the Government allowed the amount to the lambardar by deducting it from the amount of Government revenue paid by him. Held (a) that the Government, in arranging that the payment should be made of this Nuzzerana through the lambardar did, in effect, convey to him (the lambardar), as trustee on behalf of Government, such an interest in the estate as would enable him to sue for and enforce its payment: (b) That under the circumstances, the payment of Nuzzerana appeared to be present in acknowledgment of proprietary title in the nature of a rent charge, and, (c) That a suit to enforce such payment might be brought in the Revenue Court under cl 4, s. 1, Act XIV of 1863. SYUD ZAHOOR HOSSEIN v. ASSUD ALI, 2 Agra 378.

(48)—Reg. XI of 1825, s. 4, cl. 1 (3)—Formation of chur by gradual accretion — Suit by Government—Cause of action—Setting up case different from plaint, effect of—Right of Government confined to assessment of revenue.—A chur which had been formed by gradual accretion was first settled with the putneedar of mouzah B, and then with its zemindar. During the second settlement, another chur formed which, after having been the cause of disputes between the putneedar of B and the putneedar of the adjoining mouza D, was taken possession of by the latter, after it was declared to be an accretion to his mouza in all the three suits brought by him to establish his right, in one of which the Government also was made a party. Subsequently, the Government brought a suit for possession of the second chur to which those suits related, and for setting aside the decrees in the two suits in which it was not made a party, stating the result of those suits to be the cause of action. A suggestion which was not made in the plaint and did not appear in the issues, was made in the lower Courts, that the first chur which had been settled with the Zemindar of mouzah B, and which had been over and over again described in documents to which Government was a party as "contiguous to the bank of the river H," as "adjoining" and as "contiguous" to mouzah B, originally came into existence as an island, and that the Government were entitled, under cl. 3 of s. 4 of Reg. XI of 1825, to take exclusive possession of it with all its accretions. Held that Government was not at liberty to depart from the allegations with which it had come into Court, that, as the right of Government in case of such accretion was limited to its revenue only and not to its actual possession, they were bound to accept the result of the litigation between the owners of the respective mouzahs, and to settle the revenue with that person who had been declared to be the owner. MOOKTAKESHEE DEBIA v. THE COLLECTOR OF BURDWAN, 12 W.R 204.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Suit for damages for breach of contract to sell by the guardian of a lunatic without Court's permission, maintainability of—See ACT XXXV OF 1858, s. 14, 3 A.L.J. 686=A.W.N. 1906, 298.

See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 7, 13 M. 277.

See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 12, 17 M. 143.

Suit by member of an unregistered chit fund, consisting of more than twenty members, for recovery of subscription paid, maintainability of—See ACT VI OF 1882, s. 4, 1 M.L.T. 106.

Separate suit maintainable by owner for damage by the Public Works Department before publication of notice under s. 6, of Act I of 1894—See ACT I OF 1894, ss. 6, 23, 3 L.B.R. 117.

Settlement by revenue authorities—Right of suit—See BEN. ACT IX OF 1847, 4 C. 103=3 C.L.R. 151.

Assignee of purchaser of estate sold under Revenue Sale Law can sue to avoid encumbrances—See BEN. ACT XI OF 1859, s. 37, Exc. 4, 12 C.W.N. 1029.

Suit for, by assignee from an unregistered prorprietor whether maintainable—See BEN. ACT VII OF 1876, s. 78, 11 C.W.N. 141.

See BEN. ACT VII OF 1880, 29 C. 73, F.B. =5 C.W.N. 521.

Suit to cancel an assessment by a municipality—See BEN. ACT III OF 1884, ss. 113, 116, 21 C. 319.

Act VIII of 1885 (Bengal Tenancy), ss. 69, 70 (5)—Order of Collector, finality of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 70, cl. (5), 32 C. 422.

Suit to correct or alter entries in record-of-rights, published under Ch. X, Bengal Tenancy Act, not maintainable—Recourse to be had to special remedy provided in chapter—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 103 (B), 105, 106, 108, 12 C.W.N. 1032=8 C.L.J. 322=35 C. 1013.

Suit for rent—Deposit in Court under s. 149, Bengal Tenancy Act—Notice to third person interested—Omission of such third person to sue—Suit for rent by such third person, maintainability of—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 149, 153, 9 C.W.N. 492.

See BOM. ACT XVII OF 1879, s. 16, 5 B. 614.

Right of Suit—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

Maufi Khiarati — Record by Settlement officer - Suit for declaration that record had been wrongfully made—Maintainability of—See C.P. ACT XVI OF 1889, ss. 72, 74 and 152 (9), 11 C.P.L.R. 129.

Person injured by a felonious act—Right of civil suit without bringing or endeavouring to bring the felon to justice—See MAD. ACT V OF 1884 (LOCAL BOARDS), ss. 162 and 165, 17 M.L.J. 537=2 M.L.T. 461=31 M. 54.

Contract to transport Government salt—S. 87, Madras Salt Act—Suit to recover sums deducted under the terms of the contract—Maintainability—See MAD. ACT IV OF 1889, s. 87, 4 M.L.T. 224.

Plaintiff having no right to sue—Defendant's case weak—Suit must fail—See PUN. ACT XVI OF 1887, s. 59 (3), 9 Ind. Cas. 339=54 P.L.R. 1911.

Maintainability of suit for a declaration that the land in dispute is joint property liable to be partitioned according to revenue holdings and not according to ancestral shares—See PUN. ACT XVII OF 1887, ss. 116, 117, 46 P.L.R. 1906.

Mortgage by disqualified proprietor — Suit brought after cessation of disqualification—Not maintainable—See U.P. ACT XVI OF 1882, s. 8, cl. (1), 4 A.L.J. 696=A.W.N. 1907, 276=30 A. 38.

Powers of Civil Courts to question acts of Municipal Boards within their statutory powers —Ss. 90 and 91 of Act I of 1900—Suit in Civil Court—See U.P. ACT I OF 1900, ss. 90 and 91, 2 A.L.J. 222=A.W.N. 1905, 79.

Decision of Revenue Court on a question of title, adverse to plaintiff—Suit by plaintiff in a Civil Court for declaration of title—See U.P. ACT II OF 1901, ss. 199 and 200, 4 A.L.J. 53=A.W.N. 1907, 6=29 A. 160.

Suit relating to partition - Dispute relating to mode of partition by Revenue Court —Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain suit —See U.P. ACT III OF 1901, s. 233 (K), 6 A.L.J. 744=2 Ind. Cas. 982=31 A. 541.

See BENAMIDAR, 3 C.W.N. 12=25 C. 874, 3 C.W.N. 20=25 C. 98.

Maintainability of suit by real purchaser against benamidar—Sale in execution of decree —See BENAMI TRANSACTION—MISCELLANEOUS, 3 P.R. 1906=109 P.L.R. 1906.

Contract—Execution of bond under misapprehension—Failure of consideration—Suit on bond—Maintainability—See BOND, 7 M.H.C. 85.

Bill or note given by debtor for payment of money on cause of action already arisen—Creditor's right to sue on the original consideration independently of the bill or note—See CAUSE OF ACTION, 15 M.L.J. 484=29 M. 111.

Right of Suit—continued.

—1.—General—continued.

Based on an agreement by judgment-debtor promising to pay interest at a rate higher than that provided in the decree—Sanction of Court not obtained—Agreement void—Non-maintainability of suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1882, ss. 244, 257-A, 9 C.W.N. 1004=32 C. 917.

Suit of a civil nature—Religious rites and ceremonies—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 9, 2 C.L.J. 590=32 C. 1072=10 C.W.N. 505.

First suit for partition—Execution-proceedings struck off for default of parties after appointment of Amin to effect partition—Second suit for partition, whether maintainable—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 11, O. IX, r. 9, O. XVI, rr. 13, 14, 10 C.W.N. 839.

Delivery of formal possession in execution proceedings - Maintainability of suit for actual possession—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 3 A.L.J. 504=A.W.N. 1906, 213=28 A. 722.

One of two joint decree-holders recovering whole amount—Right of the other to sue for his share—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 29 M. 183.

Mortgage decree against member of undivided family—Surviving member brought on record on death of judgment-debtor—Objection by surviving member to sale in execution—Determination of objection by separate suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 12 C.P.L.R. 73.

Surety's right to sue for declaration of non-liability as to portion of decree-amount—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 28 M. 117=14 M.L.J. 430.

Right of decree-holder-purchaser to sue for possession of property purchased in execution—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 28 M. 87=14 M.L.J. 474.

Decree-holder's taking possession of greater area than what was decreed—Suit by judgment-debtor for possession, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 3 A.L.J. 601=A.W.N. 1906, 233.

Decree for sale against Hindu father—Suit by son—Sale of property during pendency of such suit and notwithstanding an injunction therein—Right of father to question the validity of the sale in a separate suit by him—Maintainability of suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 2 A.L.J. 694.

Maintainability of suit, by shebait, of idol, for declaration that property sought to be sold in execution of personal decree against him is endowed property — See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, r. 58, 12 C.W.N. 308.

Objections by legal representative of judgment-debtor that attached property was trust-property in his possession disallowed—Suit contesting such order, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, rr. 58, 60, 63, 3 A.L.J. 370=A.W.N. 1906, 157.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Suit for refund of purchase-money on sale being set aside, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O XXI, r. 90, 32 C. 332.

Surety guaranteeing payment of judgment-debt when judgment-debtor arrested and brought before Court under s. 386, Civ. Pro. Code—Suit by decree-holder on surety's default—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 55, 10 C. W.N. 830=4 C.L.J. 311.

Maintainability of suit by one decree-holder receiving rateable distribution against a rival decree-holder similarly circumstanced for a declaration that the latter's decree is fraudulent—See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, s. 73, 3 C.L. J. 385.

Suit by person having no right to sue—Person having right whether can be joined as plaintiff—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, rr. 1, 10, 11 Ind. Cas. 223.

Suit by one individual to establish a common right to a public religious trust—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, r. 8 (1), ss. 92 and 93, 9 C.W.N. 594.

Infringement of right of worship—Suit by some members of a community on behalf of themselves and other members of the community, not on behalf of the public in general—Maintainability of suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, r. 8 (1), ss. 92, 93, 10 C.W. N. 867=33 C. 905.

Application for adjournment by pleader—Rejection of application — Withdrawal of pleader from suit—Dismissal of suit for plaintiff's default—Whether fresh suit maintainable—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, rr. 3, 4, O. XVII, rr. 2, 3, 9 Ind. Cas. 842.

First suit for partition dismissed for default—Maintainability of second suit for the same purpose—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 9, 3 A.L.J. 379=A.W.N. 1906, 142=28 A. 627.

Suit to set aside ex parte decree on the ground of fraud, such fraud being non-service of summons, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. IX, r. 13, 4 A.L.J. 51=A.W.N. 1907, 31=29 A. 212.

Dismissal of application under s. 232, Civ. Pro. Code—Maintainability of suit to establish right to execute decree—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O XXI, r. 16, A.W.N. 1906, 133=3 A. L.J. 428=28 A. 613.

For declaration on failure to appeal from an order dismissing without enquiry an application under s. 232—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 16, s. 47, 16 M L.J. 27.

Money paid by a person to raise an attachment to clear his own title—Suit to recover such money from the true owner, maintainability of—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, rr. 58, 61, 63, 16 M.L.J. 136=29 M. 225.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Of an auction-purchaser for the recovery of purchase-money from the decree-holder on the ground of judgment-debtor's want of title to the property sold—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 93, 10 C.W.N. 274.

Survival of right—Where in an action of libel, the appellant dies, the right to continue the appeal survives to his legal representative—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXII, r. 1, 4 Bom. L.R. 325=26 B. 597.

Meaning of, in O. 22—Right to obtain probate different from right to be appointed to administer deceased's estate—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXII, r. 1, 36 C. 799=3 Ind. Cas. 995.

Where the plaintiff dies pending a suit to recover possession his legal representative can continue proceedings—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXII, r. 5, 4 Bom. L.R. 980=27 B. 162.

Suit on compromise in respect of matters other than subject-matter of suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, r. 3, 10 C.P.L.R. 56.

Alienation by male proprietor—Next reversioner's right to sue for setting it aside in the presence of minor adopted son—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 23, 56 P.R. 1908.

Competency of son to maintain action for damages for death caused to deceased father by defendant's actionable wrong—See COMPENSATION, 56 P.R. 1905=94 P.L.R. 1905.

Suit to recover money paid to release property from unlawful revenue attachment in a Civil Court, maintainability of—See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 69, A.W.N. 1906, 114=3 A.L.J. 372=28 A. 563.

Interest to pay Government revenue—Subsequent suit to recover money paid from person benefited by payment—See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 69, 3 A.L.J. 665=A.W.N. 1906, 282.

Collection by some of several co-sharers of portions of rent from tenants—Suit by all co-sharers jointly for the whole rent, maintainability of — See CO SHARERS, SUIT BY CO-SHARERS, 10 C.W.N. 787=3 C.L.J. 627.

One sharer suing for whole rent—Other sharers parties to suit—See CO-SHARERS—SUIT BY CO-SHARERS, 3 C.W.N. 225.

Of sharer to sue alone for his share of rent—See CO-SHARER— SUIT BY CO-SHARERS, 3 C.W.N. 214.

Maintenance of suit in Civil Court not withstanding order of Magistrate refusing maintenance—See CRIM. PRO. CODE, s. 488, 32 C. 479=13 C.W.N. 150.

Male proprietor making a gift to his daughter with the consent of a childless son—Right of reversioners to contest the alienation—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB— ALIENATION, 58 P.R. 1908=117 P.W.R. 1908=162 P.L.R. 1908.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Brahmin of Gopalpur in the Amritsar District—Son's right to question the validity of alienation by father—See CUSTOM—PUNJAB—ALIENATION, 58 P.R. 1908=117 P.W.R. 108=162 P.L.R. 1908.

Right of sons born before the adoption of their father to contest alienation by father of his adoptive father's property—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—ALIENATION, 66 P.R. 1908=110 P.W.R. 1908.

See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—ALIENATION, 66 P.R. 1878, 4 P.R. 1890, 68 P.R. 1892, 14 P.R. 1895.

See DAMAGES—DAMAGES, SUITS FOR, 8 M. 175.

Decree incapable of being executed for future mesne profits—Maintainability of separate suit to recover such profits—See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—GENERAL, 1 M.L.T. 69.

Claim for declaring that defendant was not pregnant at her husband's death—Declaratory suit—Not maintainable—See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—WHEN DECLARATORY SUITS LIE, 124 P.W.R. 1908.

Transfer of ex parte decree—Decree set aside subsequent to transfer—Right of transferee to maintain suit on original cause of action—See DECREE — MISCELLANEOUS, 135 P.L.R. 1905=78 P.R. 1905.

Suit to challenge validity of decree—Review—Alternative remedies—See DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 2 C.L.J. 508.

Defamation—Imputation of unchastity to wife—Husband's right to sue—See DEFAMATION, 18 M. 250=5 M.L.J. 89.

Defamation of daughter, suit by father in his own right for—Maintainability of suit—See DEFAMATION, 11 A. 104=A.W.N. 1888, 287.

Demarcation of village boundaries accepted by Settlement authorities and agreed to by defendants—Conduct of parties with reference to and long possession of such land—Suit by Government to impugn correctness of demarcation proceedings, maintainability of—See DEMARCATION, 11 O.C. 30.

Agreement executed under pressure of criminal prosecution—Suit to set aside agreement maintainable—See DURESS, 7 M.H.C. 378.

Of a lessee or a person in lawful possession of a house—Interference with right of privacy—See EASEMENTS ACT, 1882, s. 4, 3 A.L.J. 670=A.W.N. 1906, 283=29 A. 64.

Succession suits for instalments—See EVIDENCE—SECONDARY EVIDENCE, 3 A. 717.

S. 11—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Fact that criminal trial did not result in conviction of the accused is no bar to a civil suit against him—

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Suit against approver—Evidence at criminal trial if admissible—Sessions Court's finding if binds Civil Court—See EVIDENCE—MISCELLANEOUS, 13 C.W.N. 501=4 Ind. Cas. 523.

Declared by decree—Execution of decree barred—Right remains though remedy gone—See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, s. 116, 11 Bom. L.R. 1093.

Suit for damages for false imprisonment—Prosecution after investigation—Acquittal of accused—Maintainability of suit against accused—See FALSE IMPRISONMENT, 3 A.L.J. 650=29 A. 44=A.W.N. 1906, 263.

Right of fishing in navigable river—Property—Grant from Government—See FISHERY, 2 B. 19.

Heirship Certificate Act XXVIII of 1860—Certificate issued by Resident at Cochin—Suit maintainable only in Court of Native Cochin for setting aside — See FOREIGN COURT, JURISDICTION OF, 16 M. 405.

Agreement restricting right to sue—Validity—See HIGH COURT, JURISDICTION OF—BOMBAY, 11 Bom. L.R. 273=34 B. 13=3 Ind. Cas. 837.

One or other of the plaintiffs entitled to succeed—Failure of first plaintiff to make out title—Right of the other plaintiffs—Dismissal of suit—Appellate Court's power to make any orders to meet the ends of justice—See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION, 38 C. 721.

Suit by step-mother against step-son for maintenance based upon a contract between the uterine sons and the step-son—Step-mother not a party to, but acted upon, the contract—See HINDU LAW—MAINTENANCE, 1 C.L.J. 142.

Right of stranger to sue for rights under a contract — Exceptions—See HINDU LAW—MAINTENANCE, 10 M.L.T. 214.

Legal presumption of death—Suit on bond against legal representatives of obligor, supposed to be dead—See HINDU LAW—PRESUMPTION OF DEATH, 4 M H.C. 1.

Alienation of ancestral debutter property by father and uncle in a joint Hindu family—Right of a member to sue to set aside the alienation and for recovery of the property—See HINDU LAW—RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENT, 33 C. 507.

Suit by a presumptive reversioner against a Hindu widow for declaration of title and injunction against waste and alienation—See HINDU LAW—REVERSIONERS, 2 A.L.J. 84=A.W.N. 1905, 6=27 A. 406.

Suit in High Court based on order of the Insolvency Court (in this case the High Court itself)—Order of Insolvency Court is judgment of High Court—See INSOLVENCY—GENERAL, 9 C.W.N. 952=33 C. 560.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Condition limiting time of suit—Validity—See INSURANCE, 11 Ind. Cas. 756.

Suit by Malis attached to a temple to sue the Brahmans for a declaration of their right to receive offerings made by votaries at the temple and for an injunction—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 8 O.C. 339.

Landlord, suing in ejectment, not showing intention to avail himself of tenant's forfeiture and to determine the lease before bringing suit —Suit does not lie before such act showing intention is done—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—FORFEITURE, 4 M.L.T. 221=31 M. 403.

Suit by co-sharer landlord—Co-sharers refusing to join as plaintiffs—Co-sharers consequently made defendants in suit—Whether co-sharer landlord entitled to maintain suit for entire rent—See LANDLORD AND TENANT—TENANT'S LIABILITY FOR RENT, 7 C.L.J. 425 =35 C. 744.

For damages — Defamation of class—Cause of action of individual—See LIBEL, 12 C.W.N. 490=35 C. 495.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, arts. 62, 120, 89, 115, 96 P.R. 1886.

Mahomedan mosque founded by various classes of Mahomedans—Charter of incorporation obtained by a portion of the congregation disregarding the right of the rest—Remedy of the latter—Court will grant relief to aggrieved members of unauthorized religious communities —See MAHOMEDAN LAW—WAKF, 13 C.W.N. 26, P.C.=4 M.L.T. Special, p. 25=1 Ind. Cas. 314.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—WAKF, 2 N.W.P. 420.

Suit for damages for malicious arrest, whether maintainable when arrest ordered by officer having discretionary power to order arrest on facts placed before him by defendant—See MALICIOUS ARREST, 29 M. 208.

Suit by wife for declaration that neither her husband nor another, to whom husband transferred her by deed of repudiation, have conjugal rights against her, maintainability of—See MARRIAGE, 31 P.R. 1908=76 P.W.R. 1908 =152 P.L.R. 1908.

Suit to set aside compromise entered into by pleader engaged by the guardian of the minors against the express wishes of the guardian—See MINORS—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS, 34 C. 83.

Covenant in a usufructuary mortgage—Enhancement of kist—Right of mortgagor to sue for the excess kist paid by him—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, 16 M.L.J. 28.

Prior and subsequent mortgagees—Purchase by each at sale on his mortgage—Right inter se —Suit for possession by prior mortgagee, maintainability of—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, 11 C.W.N. 403=5 C.L.J. 315.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Mortgage of tenant's holding — Decree for rent on suit of landlord—Decree and sale thereunder fraudulent and collusive—Purchase of the holding by the landlord—Suit by mortgagee —See MORTGAGE, SALE OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY, 32 C. 283.

Hundi payable after sight—Presentation for acceptance within reasonable time, when condition precedent to suit — See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS — HUNDIS — PRESENTATION OF HUNDIS, 10 B. 346.

On a pro-note neither barred nor suspended by reason of a collateral covenant not to sue for a specified time—See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—PROMISSORY NOTE—GENERAL, 16 M.L.J. 103=29 M. 212.

Suit for money lent independent of pro-note—Liability of other partners on a pro-note signed by one of the partners—See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—PROMISSORY NOTE—GENERAL, 17 M.L.J. 126.

See PARTIES TO SUIT—GENERAL, 5 C. 445=5 C.L.R. 172, A.W.N. 1881, 23.

Co-owner of estate suing other co-owner for partition of chowkidari chakran lands of portion of estate—Maintainability of suit. See PARTITION—GENERAL, 12 C.W.N. 640.

Right of person, holding permanent interest of inferior grade, to sue for partition persons holding interest of superior grade—See PARTITION—GENERAL, 7 C.L.J. 449=12 C.W.N. 670.

Partners—Promise by one partner to another to pay balance struck, suit maintainable on—See PARTNERSHIP—SUITS RELATING TO PARTNERSHIP, 21 M. 366.

Suit for money paid out of Court—Adjustment of decree — See PAYMENT OUT OF COURT, 1 M. 203.

Suit for money—Objection to maintainability —Defendant's consent while giving evidence to plaintiff's recovering the amount, whether validates suit—See PLEADINGS, 10 Ind. Cas. 351.

Tenant dispossessed by a trespasser—Right of landlord to sue the trespasser—See POSSESSION — ADVERSE POSSESSION, 10 C.W.N. 343.

Suit for possession on possessory title of plaintiff's predecessor, plaintiffs never themselves being in possession—See POSSESSION—SUITS FOR POSSESSION, A.W.N. 1906, 264= 3 A.L.J. 775=29 A. 52.

Sale to stranger with concurrence of co-sharer—Purchase by such co-sharer—Maintainability of suit for pre-emption—See PRE-EMPTION—GENERAL, 3 A.L.J. 794=A.W.N. 1906, 313=29 A. 125.

Suit for pre-emption—Sale not real but sham —Right to enforce pre-emption—See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 9 C.W.N. 874=32 C. 988.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—continued.

Mere proposal to sell does not entitle a person to claim pre-emption—See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 9 O.C. 169 (B).

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 2 A. 884, 3 A. 610, F.B.

Co-occupant in Berar in survey number, whose interest is sold by auction to satisfy mortgage decree, not entitled to sue for pre-emption re shares so sold—See PRE-EMPTION—MISCELLANEOUS, 4 N.L.R. 138.

Authority of agent to sue on behalf of principal—Right of defendant—Right of Court to enquire as to agent's authority—See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT—AUTHORITY OF AGENTS, 19 C. 678=19 I.A. 135.

Suit by surety against administratrix to be discharged from obligation under administration-bond—Suit not maintainable—See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, s. 78, 28 M. 161=14 M.L.J. 482.

Suit against a Receiver—Maintainability of suit without sanction of Court previously obtained—Application for leave to continue suit already brought—See RECEIVER, 9 C.W.N. 247=32 C. 270.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1908, s. 32, 9 B. 63.

S. 12, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Decision by Council of Elders under the Sind Frontier Regulation, III of 1892, bar to a fresh suit—See BOM. REG. III OF 1892, ss. 4, 5 (3), (a), (c), (e), 6 and 7, 3 S.L.R. 100=3 Ind. Cas. 902.

Suit by Vadagalai Dharmakartas (Trustees) for declaration of right of management and for injunction restraining Tengalai Archakars (worshippers) from interfering with former's management of a Tengalai shrine, maintainability of—See RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENT, 16 M.L.J. 150.

See RENT, SUIT FOR, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 91.

Suit compromised by pleader—Application for review on ground of pleader's authority to compromise rejected—Fresh suit to set aside decree, maintainability of—See RES JUDICATA—MISCELLANEOUS, 10 C.W.N. 529=2 C.L.J. 508.

See SERVICE TENURE, 9 B.H.C. 282.

Imputation of unchastity to plaintiff's sister—Suit by plaintiff for damages for slander, maintainability of—See SLANDER, 9 C.W.N. 847=2 C.L.J. 396=32 C. 1060.

Auction-purchaser on obtaining delivery of possession under s. 318, Civ. Pro. Code, dispossessing judgment-debtor's tenant—S. 319, Civ. Pro. Code, not proceeded under—Dispossession of judgment-debtor's tenant not in due course of law—Suit by tenant of judgment-debtor against auction-purchaser, maintainability of—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 9, 12 C.W.N. 694.

Right of Suit—continued.

——1.—General—concluded.

Rectification of sale-deed upon which plaintiff's title rested not made as required by s. 31, Specific Relief Act—Maintainability of plaintiff's suit—See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, s. 31, 11 O. C. 93.

Duty and penalty of insufficiently stamped documents recovered from person filing document by Collector—Proper authority to review Collector's order—Suit by such person against Secretary of State for collecting duty due from third person, maintainability of—See STAMP ACT, 1899, ss. 40, 44, 5 A.L.J. 262=A.W.N. 1908, 130=30 A. 271.

Letters of administration, with copy of will annexed, granted to a legatee in respect of his legacy alone—Right of another legatee to sue for recovery of his legacy—See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, s. 187, 10 C.W.N. 864=4 C.L.J. 523.

See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, s. 190, 18 B. 337.

Letters of administration to estate of deceased Parsi—See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, s. 190, 19 B. 823.

Right of manufacturer to sue for breach of trade mark, when different firm does the business—See TRADE MARK, 13 C.W.N. 82=4 Ind. Cas. 318.

Contract to make testamentary dispositions—Right of assignee from a person in whose favour such a contract exists to sue for declaration of his rights—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 6, 9 O.C. 55, B.

Right to sue for damages for breach of contract is not transferable—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 6 (e), 7 M.L.T. 228=6 Ind. Cas. 290.

Suit not maintainable by usufructuary mortgagee for money, when the mortgaged property is lost by his own default—See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, ss. 68, cls. a, b and c and 73, 3 C.L.J. 220.

Statute creating a special right—Conditions necessary to acquire the right—See TRESPASS, 13 C.W.N. 458=9 C.L.J. 298=36 C. 433=5 M.L.T. 367=2 Ind. Cas 436.

Suit for cancellation of a will does not lie during life of testator—See WILL—GENERAL, 27 A. 14=1 A.L.J. 468.

——2.—Accounts.

See ACCOUNTS.

(1)—Ruzukhata (account adjusted), evidence of existing debt—Suit not maintainable on such account as fresh contract.—By English law, an account stated even though it amounts to nothing more than the totalling up of the items of an account and adding interest and acknowledging their correctness (which a simple ruzukhata usually consists in) could have been directly sued upon. Formerly this was the law adopted by the Courts in Bombay. Where,

Right of Suit—continued.

——2.—Accounts—concluded.

however, an acknowledgment was oral or unsigned, the provisions of the Limitation Act rendered it inoperative as an exception to the plea of limitation, so that, when the Act intervened, such acknowledgment could not be directly sued upon as a new contract. An admission or acknowledgment of a debt ordinarily implies a consent to pay it, but when the admission has not been made in the manner which the law has prescribed for the purpose of its preventing a debt from becoming barred by time, such admission would not at all imply in law a promise to pay such debt if it should become barred by time. The later authorities are clearly to the effect that a ruzukhata cannot by itself be made the basis of a suit. The original transactions form the basis of the suit and the subsequent ruzukhata is only an evidence of the debt due and may serve to prevent the operation of the statute of limitation. SHANKAR v MUKTA, 22 B. 513. [F., 23 A. 502=21 A.W.N. 150; Cons., 26 M. 186=12 M.L.J. 444; R., 14 C.P.L.R. 151, 84 P.R. 1904. 1 L.B R 190, 68 P.R. 1904=123 P.L.R 1904, 32 M. 284=19 M.L.J. 372=3 M. L.T. 351; D., 24 B. 394, 25 B. 397.]

——3.—Acts done in exercise of Sovereign Powers.

See ACT OF STATE.

(1)—Sovereign powers of Government--Government, liability of, for its acts.—Government is not civilly liable for its acts in exercise of sovereign powers. The subject has no right of suit in such cases. NOBIN CHUNDER DEY v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA, 1 C. 11=24 W.R. 309 [F., 3 A. 829; Diss., 4 M. 344. 3 A. 829, 5 M. 273, 7 M. 466, 6 Bom. L.R. 131; R., 27 B. 189=5 Bom. L.R. 30, 1 C.L.J. 355=9 C.W.N. 495.]

(2)—Acts of State—Cognizance by Municipal Courts.—The Acts of State of which Municipal Courts are not authorized to take cognizance are those done in the exercise of sovereign powers, but which do not profess to be justified by Municipal law. Where the act which is the ground of complaint is an act which professes to be done under the sanction of Municipal law and in the exercise of powers conferred by that law, the circumstance that it is an act done by the sovereign power or by the deputy of that power, does not oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA v. HARI BHANJI, 5 M. 273. (7 M. I.A. 476, Diss.) [F., 21 P.R. 1894; R., 7 M. 466, 27 B. 189, 6 Bom. L R. 131.]

(3)—Contract by Government to grant proprietary rights in land—Contract entered into or acts done in the exercise of Sovereign power.—Suit against the Secretary of State and another person for possession of certain land, on the allegation that Government had promissed to confer on the plaintiff the proprietary rights in such land on the condition that he should do certain things, which he had done, and that the Government had refused to perform such promise and had conferred proprietary rights in such land on such other person. Held per Spankie, J., that the suit would not lie, as the contract, if any, was made in the exercise of Sovereign power, and the other acts complained of were also acts done in the exercise of such power. Held per Stuart, C.J., (on the facts) that the Government had entered into the contract alleged by the plaintiff and that the suit would lie, as the contract was not entered into in the exercise of Sovereign power, but in the capacity of a private owner; but that the plaintiff could not succeed as he had not performed his part of the contract. KISHEN CHAND v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, 3 A. 829=A.W N. 1881, 87. (1 C. 11, R.)

Right of Suit—continued.

——3.—Acts done in exercise of Sovereign Powers—concluded.

(4)—Suit against Secretary of State—Illegal levy of import duties by a Collector—Jurisdiction—Excise duty—Import duty—Fluctuation—Liability to pay difference.—A suit lies against the Secretary of State for India, to recover import duties illegally levied by the Collector. [R., 6 Bom L.R. 131. 9 C.W.N. 495=1 C.L.J. 355, 7 M. 466, 27 B. 189.] Persons who export salt at one port and import it in another, are liable to the contingency of the tariff rates being raised between the interval of their paying the excise duty and the levy of the import duty at the port of import. If the contingency happen, they are liable to pay the extra duty. HARI BHANJI v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA, 4 M. 344.

——4. — Attachment Proceedings, Suits concerning.

See ATTACHMENT.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

(1)—Mortgage — Attachment — Mortgagee's suit to raise attachment.—A mortgagee claiming title otherwise than from the execution creditor, can sue on behalf of himself and his mortgagor, to raise an attachment on the mortgaged property in his possession. WAIGANKAR v. WADEKAR, 5 B.H.C A.C. 194.

(2)—Attachment—Suit to raise—Mortgagee.—Two persons borrowed money from a third person with the plaintiff as surety, agreeing that their house should be held by the plaintiff in mortgage, to be his absolutely, if he had to pay the money he was thus surety for, and was not paid other money they owed him personally. The plaintiff had to pay the debt himself. The defendant had, in the meanwhile, attached the same house in execution of his decree against the two debtors. The plaintiff sued to raise the attachment on the ground that the bond passed to him was a sale and not a mortgage. Held that the plaintiff who was but a mortgagee could not institute a suit to raise the attachment. SHIVLAL bin KHUBCHAND v. BULVANTRAV VINAYAK, 2 B.H.C. 70.

Right of Suit—continued.

—4. — Attachment Proceedings, Suits concerning—concluded.

(3)—Cause of action—Attachment of property in execution—Suit for declaration of right.—Where property belonging to a person was attached in execution of a decree obtained in a suit between some others, a good cause of action accrued to that person to institute a suit to declare his claim to the property. MAHOMED GAZEE CHOWDHRY v. SHUMBHOONATH MISSER, 22 W.R. 389. [R., 6 B. 168, F.B.]

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 283 (=O. XXI, r. 63, new Code), essential conditions for suits under.—An essential condition precedent to the institution of a suit under the section is the making of an attachment of some property; of objection being taken to such attachment; of investigation being made into such objection in the manner provided by the Code, and lastly of his being allowed or disallowed. ANGAN LAL v. GUDAR MAL, 10 A. 479=A.W.N. 1888, 189.

(5)—Claim to property attached — Claim allowed — Suit to declare right to proceed against property—Jurisdiction—Small Cause Court—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 246.—Where a claim to property attached in execution of a decree has been allowed by a Small Cause Court, an original suit does not lie in the Small Cause Court against the successful claimant, provided, of course, that the plaintiff has no property general or special in the goods attached by him except such as he claims in virtue of his attachment. NUTHOO MULL v. RADHAKISHEN, 72 P.R. 1868. [Expl., 84 P.R. 1870.]

(6)—Suit to establish judgment-debtor's title to property attached not cognisable by any Court.—A suit by a decree-holder to establish his judgment-debtor's title to the property attached does not lie in any Court. NUTHOO MULL v. RADHAKISHEN, 72 P.R. 1868. [Expl., 84 P.R. 1870.]

See CLAIM TO PROPERTY ATTACHED, 18 A. 410=A.W.N. 1896, 126.

—5.—Awards, Suits concerning.

See ARBITRATION.

See AWARD.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 525—Suit upon an award—Secondary evidence.—A suit upon an award is not barred by s. 525, Code of Civil Procedure, and secondary evidence of its contents will be admissible on proof of its loss. GOPI REDDI v. MAHANANDI REDDI, 15 M. 99=1 M L.J. 591. [F., 20 M. 490; R., U.B R., 1906, 1st Qr., Specific Relief 30, 19 P.R. 1907=46 P.L.R. 1907=134 P.W.R. 1907.]

(2)—Suit to enforce award or for partition—Alternative relief.—Where disputes as to partition of family properties had been submitted to arbitrators and an award had been made and some properties divided in pursuance thereof but the partition was not completed on account of disputes, held, in a suit to enforce the award, that an alternative claim for partition cannot succeed, since there has been already a valid award. SUBBARAYA CHETTI v. SADASIVA CHETTI, 20 M. 490.

Right of Suit—continued.

—5.—Awards, Suits concerning—continued.

(3)—Award—Religious quarrel—Submission to the award by some persons—No representation of the community—Consent—Enforcement—Interference by Court.—In this case an award was sought to be enforced by a few persons of a community. The award was in respect of a religious quarrel relating to a state of things which had been in force at a mosque for fifty years by the common consent of all the worshippers having an interest therein. The award was made under a submission to arbitration entered into by a few persons without the consent of the entire community. Held that the award could not be enforced and the suit was not maintainable. ZAHID v. PEEREE, 3 N.W.P. 92.

(4)—Reg. VII of 1822—Reg. IX of 1833, s. 9—Award on arbitration—Suit to set aside award—Suit for possession.—A suit for a partition of a moiety of certain joint and undivided property by the purchasers of that moiety under Reg. VII of 1822, and for the setting aside of an award by which the purchasers and their vendors were found to have never been in possession, is not barred by s. 9 of Reg. IX of 1833, as the arbitration in course of which the above award was given was not brought about under the provisions of that Regulation. It is unnecessary that the award should be set aside before Courts could adjudicate on the purchasers' claim to obtain possession of the share of the parcel which they purchased by establishing their title thereto. It does not follow that because their vendors were not in possession of their share at the time of the purchase, their claim is barred by limitation. On the contrary if the vendors' dispossession did not take place at a period more remote than twelve years before the commencement of the suit, the purchasers may be entitled to a decree for possession by establishment of their right, even though there may be no sufficient reason for setting aside the award. GANGA BAKSH v. WALI BAKSH, 7 N.W.P. 169.

(5)—Reg. IX of 1833, ss. 6, 7, 9—Suit for cancelment of award—Objection that plaintiff did not consent to it—Proceedings contrary to law.—A suit for the cancelment of an award of arbitrators made under ss. 6 and 7, Reg. IX of 1833, not on the ground that the proceedings had been contrary to law but on the ground that the plaintiff had not consented to the arbitration, is liable to be dismissed under the provisions of s. 9 of that Regulation, as his consent was not necessary. IKRAM OOL-LAH v. SHEO PERSHAD, 2 Agra 340.

(6)—Act XI of 1865, s. 6—Maintenance fixed by award—Suit for arrears not a suit of Small Cause nature—Award passed ultra vires, suit not maintainable on.—This was a suit to recover arrears of maintenance payable under an award of arbitrators at the rate ascertained by award. Preliminary objection was taken on special appeal that this suit was of a nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and that, consequently, no special appeal lay. The High Court overruled the objection and proceeded to dispose of the appeal. The suit was, however, held to be bad on the ground that the determination by the arbitrators of a specific sum as maintenance was ultra vires as the question as to the amount of maintenance to which the respondent would be entitled, was not a question which could have judicially come before the Settlement Officer who appointed the arbitrators, who, therefore, exceeded their powers in having fixed the amount of maintenance. DURJAN SINGH v. MUSSAMAT SIBIA, 7 N.W.P. 329.

Right of Suit—continued.

——5.—Awards, Suits concerning—concluded.

——6.—Boundary questions, Suits concerning.

See BOUNDARY.

(1)—Right of suit—Question of boundary—No allegation of transgression.—The owner of a land has no r ght to bring a suit to compel all his neighbours to agree to a particular line of boundary being marked out between his land and theirs, when he does not venture to say that they have by any overt act transgressed that boundary. AMEEROONNISSA BEGUM v. GOPAL SAHOO, 22 W.R. 134.

——7.—Building, Suit to restrain.

(1)—Right of privacy—Construction of upper part of house.—A house-owner in a street changed the arrangement or the construction of the upper part of his house in such a manner that the alteration gave him a wider range of vision than before, but otherwise consistent with his just rights of enjoyment. A neighbour living on the other side of the road and not adjacent owner complained of loss of privacy. No improper obstruction of light or air was stated to be occasioned. Held that the mere fact that the alteration gives to the defendant a wider range of vision than before does not constitute any legal right of suit in the plaintiff. JOOGUL LAL v. MUSSUMAT JASODA BEBEE, 3 N.W. P. 311. [Cons., 10 A. 358.]

(2)—Right of way—Long silence as to obstruction—Acquiescence.—Where a plaintiff sued to have a dwelling house pulled down, which defendant had erected seven years previously upon a path, whereby plaintiff and others had been accustomed to go across defendant's land to a tank (the path being not the only, but the shortest, way to the tank), it was held that the plaintiff's conduct in allowing the building to be erected, and in keeping silence for so many years, warranted the inference that he acquiesced in what defendant did, and that plaintiff's claim was unreasonable under the circumstances, and such a Court of equity and good conscience ought not to enforce. BENI MADHAB DAS v. RAMJOY ROKH, 1 B.L.R. A.C. 213 = 10 W.R. 316. [R., 12 W.R. 519, 3 C.L.R. 194.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——7.—Building, Suit to restrain—continued.

(3)—Encroachment—No immediate prospect of damage—Pleas—Raising of plea in special appeal—Facts to be set out in plaint.—In a suit for the removal of an encroachment, the plaintiff is not bound to prove that actual damage has occurred, or the immediate prospect of damage, to his property; it is sufficient if he shows that the defendant has made the alleged encroachment and some damage may hereafter possibly arise therefrom. Independently of any damage immediately accruing, a person may be entitled to bring a suit in order to prevent a right being acquired by the opposite party for his neglect to interfere and his remedy becoming barred by lapse of time. [R., 25 W R. 524.] Though a plea may not have been set out in a plaint, it may be raised even in special appeal, provided all the facts necessary to support it have been set out in the plaint and there has been no omission calculated to mislead the Court. JUDDOONATH MULLICK v. KALEE KRISTO TAGORE, 22 W.R. 73.

(4)—Encroachment—Plea of plaintiff—Burden of proof.—In a suit for removal of an encroachment by demolishing a newly built boundary wall, where the defendant himself had obliterated the old boundary mark, it is sufficient for the plaintiff to show the general direction of the old wall, and if any deviation is relied upon by the defendant, it is for him to give precise proof of it. JUDDOONATH MULLICK v. KALEE KRISTO TAGORE, 25 W.R. 524.

(5)—Right of suit—Construction of building—No obstruction or impediment to any other—Ground for removal of building.—A person cannot be liable to a suit because he has changed the state and materials of the construction in front of his shop, if he has not obstructed or impeded the access of the shop of his neighbour thereby. SHEIKH KOODRAT ALI v. SHEIKH GHOLAM ALI, 3 Agra 71.

(6)—Holders of adjoining plots of land for building, liability of, in respect of party walls — Suit not maintainable for declaration of ownership of wall and for injunction — Order amounting to decree within the meaning of s. 2 of the Civ. Pro. Code, right of appeal from.—The defendant in this case was the lessee and the plaintiff, the assignee of adjoining building plots under agreements made with the Secretary of State as lessor. Under the said agreements the plaintiff and defendant were required to erect certain buildings within a prescribed time and it was provided that the buildings to be erected should be "continuous with party walls common to both adjoining houses," and that all disputes touching the party walls should be decided by the Government Surveyor. After the lapse of several years, the plaintiff desired to make openings in the part of the wall which extended beyond the defendant's house. This was objected to by the defendants, and plaintiff instituted this suit claiming either to be paid by the defendants half the cost of the portion of the wall unused by them, or to be declared the owner of that part, with an injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with him in the enjoyment of it. The defendants denied their liability and pleaded limitation, and the first defendant claimed a set-off. A decree was passed declaring that the defendants were severally liable to pay the half of whatever sum the Government Surveyor might certify to be due for the construction of the disputed portion of the wall, and that the defendants were entitled to set off in the calculation of what was due from them, the cost of any work or materials the Government Surveyor might find that the first defendant had contributed towards the erection of the said wall. On appeal by the defendants, they were held entitled to appeal, even though more than twenty days had elapsed from the order, since it was not a decree within the meaning of s. 2 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Another question arose as to whether the Court had power to determine the questions raised by the pleadings in the suit, or whether it could do more than pass a decree on the certificate of the Government Surveyor as to what might be due from one of the parties to the other, and it was held that the real question raised by the suit, viz., as to how the cost of the wall should be borne, was intended by the agreement to be referred to the Government Surveyor. With regard to the plaintiff's claim to make openings in the part of the wall to the cost of which the Government Surveyor had not made the defendants contribute by his certificate, the Court decided that, although the materials of which the wall was built were the plaintiff's, it was still erected under the provisions of the agreement, and that it should be used for a purpose inconsistent with the idea of its being a party wall, would be opposed to what must be understood to have been the true intention of the parties to the agreement whether of Government or the lessees. It would be contrary to such intention that the plaintiff should claim the full right of ownership over the wall as if it had been built on his own ground. COVERJI LUDDHA AND KESSERBAI v. MORARJI PANJA, 9 B. 183. [R.. 13 P.R 1901=137 P.L.R. 1901, 36 C. 493=12 C.W.N. 1102=2 Ind. Cas. 553.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——7.—Building, Suit to restrain—concluded.

——8—Caste Questions, Suits concerning.

(1)—Jurisdiction — Caste question—Suit for damages for withholding customary present to member of caste.—There cannot be any legal right to the funeral presents, which it may be customary for a member of the caste on the occasion of the death of a member of his family to give to the other members of the caste. And the slight, which the omission to give such presents to the plaintiff, might imply, can only be regarded as the result of a breach of etiquette with which the caste alone is competent to deal, and not the Civil Courts. MAYASHANKER v. HARISHANKER, 10 B. 661. [D., 23 B. 122.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——8.— Caste questions, Suits concerning —continued.

(2)—Custom — Caste usage — Expulsion— Audi alteram Partem—Civil Courts—Jurisdiction in caste matters.—The maxim audi alteram partem contains a fixed principle of justice. It prevails in all countries subject to the British rule. It is not confined to public Courts of justice, but applies to all tribunals, public or private, of every kind, which are vested with or assume power to decide on the conduct or rights of parties. Immemorial custom cannot prevail against the principle contained in the maxim. The caste institution is not above or outside the law. The usages and customs of caste exist only under and not against the law. A custom according to which a member may be expelled, although he has had no opportunity of meeting the charge against him, is not reasonable and of no force. [R., 19 B. 507, 23 M. 171.] It is open to a Court of law to determine whether or not an alleged expulsion from caste is valid, also to decide that a caste-man does not ipso facto lose all the rights of a citizen in respect of property belonging to the caste as a body if he be expelled by the tribunal which represents the caste or by a faction in it, provided that such body acts under a mistaken but bona fide belief that the accused person has committed a caste offence, when in fact he has not done so, and to secure to those aggrieved the civil rights of which it is attempted to deprive them. KRISHNASAMI v. VIRASAMI, 10 M. 133. [R., 12 B. 247, 23 B. 122, 26 B. 174.]

(3)—Caste question — Funeral ceremonies—Assistance by fellow members of caste—Custom —Refusal to assist at funerals—Cause of action —Suit for damages and injunction—Maintainability.—The plaintiff, who was a member of the Kharva caste alleged in his plaint (1) that, by a custom of the caste, a member thereof in whose family a death has taken place was entitled to call upon the other members of the caste to come to his house and assist in the removal of the dead body to the burial ground and to take part in performing the customary caste ceremonies incidental to the funeral, (2) that on the death of a child in his family, the defendants not only refused to assist him, but also induced others of the caste to refuse, in consequence of which the plaintiff and his family had suffered in their status and character. He, therefore, prayed (1) for a declaration that the aforesaid acts of the defendant were illegal and contrary to the usages of the caste, and that he was lawfully entitled to exercise and enjoy all his customary caste rights, and (2) for an injunction restraining the defendant from preventing other members of the caste from recognising the plaintiff as a member of the caste and (3) for damages. Held that the suit must be dismissed, as the plaint disclosed no cause of action against the defendant. KANJI BAVLA v. ARJUN SHAMJI, 18 B. 115. [Rel. on., 26 B. 174=3 Bom. L.R. 718.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——8.—Caste questions, Suits concerning —continued.

(4)—Caste question—Excommunication--Civil Court — Jurisdiction — Bombay Reg. II of 1827, s. 21, cl. (1).—A suit brought for a declaration that excommunication of the plaintiffs from their caste by their caste man was illegal and that they were still members of the caste falls within s. 21 (1) of the Bombay Reg. II of 1827, and is not cognizable by a Civil Court. Per Chandavarkar, J.—A suit raising a caste question must fall in one of the three classes: I. It may be a suit brought by a member of a caste complaining of his exclusion from it and asking for a declaration that the expulsion is illegal and that he is still a member of the caste and as such entitled to its social privileges. The Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to entertain such a suit. II. It may be a suit, brought by a member of a caste expelled from it, for a declaration that the excommunication is illegal and that he is entitled to certain rights of property or office as a member of the caste. The civil Courts have jurisdiction to entertain such a suit, if the result of the excommunication is to deprive a man of his civil rights; but even here the jurisdiction is limited; all that the Court can enquire into is whether the order of excommunication was passed bona fide in accordance with natural justice. The enquiry is to be conducted from the point of view of the caste and not of the Court into the reasonableness of the rule for a breach of which the order of excommunication was passed. If these conditions are fulfilled, the Court must hold that the caste acted within its powers as a domestic tribunal with whose discretion it will not interfere. III. It may be a suit brought by an expelled member for damages on account of loss of caste or character. The civil Courts have jurisdiction in such a suit, but the jurisdiction is subject to the law that a libel to a man's position in his caste can give him no right to claim damages from any of his caste fellows if they have acted bona fide for the protection of their caste interests in the discharge of their caste duty. NATHU VELJI v. KESHAWJI, 3 Bom. L.R. 718=26 B. 174. [R., 9 Bom. L.R. 514.]

(5)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 11—Caste matters—Order of the spiritual head of a community restoring a person to caste—Claim for injunction restraining the person restored to caste from entering temple—Civil rights—Cause of action—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.—The first defendant, who was ex-communicated from caste for having married a Numbudri girl, was restored to caste by the second defendant, the spiritual head of the community. The temple moktesars sued for a declaration that the second defendant's order did not bind the temple, and for an injunction restraining the first defendant from entering the temple. Held, (1) that the mere fact of the second defendant having passed the order did not give the temple moktesars any cause of action.—(2) That the right of entry into a temple for worship is a civil right and can be adjudicated on by Civil Courts. UPPANGALA SUBRAYA BHATTA v. BEDRADI SUBRAYA BHATTA, 5 Ind. Cas. 57=7 M.L.T. 190. (13 M. 293, 31 M. 236, 12 C.W.N. 946, 4 M.L.T. 101, 3 C.L.J. 230, 10 Bom. L.R. 781, R.)

(6)—Removal of a trustee by a caste is not a caste question.—The question of the power of a caste to remove a trustee of any of its charitable trusts is not a caste question. A caste has power to do what it likes for the internal regulation of its affairs; and all questions relating to them are caste questions. But where a caste deals with its own property and creates civil rights in others according to law, the rights and obligations arising out of such dealing do not appertain to caste questions as such or the internal regulation of its own domestic or social affairs. They are legal rights and legal obligations enforceable by our Courts as much as if any entity such as a private person had been a party to their creation. The fact that the caste happens to be a party to the creation is merely accidental. Where a trust is created whether by a caste or by an individual, the same law applies to both. CHAPSEY v. JETHABHAI, 9 Bom. L.R. 514.

(7)—Removal of a priest from office—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.—It was resolved by the members of a certain caste that the plaintiff, a priestess, should be dismissed from all the offices connected with the caste and that the same should be performed by the defendant. The plaintiff, thereupon, filed a suit to obtain an injunction restraining the defendant from usurping the said office and from receiving the fees and income thereof: Held, that it was not competent to a Civil Court to question the decision of the caste in the matter. The following principle appears to be the sound one, viz., would the taking cognizance of the matter in dispute be an interference with the autonomy of the caste? And applying that principle, it would be equally clear, whether the question turns upon the obligation of the members of the caste to accord to the holder of the office certain privileges and honours or to pay him fees in virtue of his office. In either case it is one which, if a caste is to be considered in any sense a self-governing body, as is contemplated by the Reg. II of 1827, should be left to be decided and dealt with by the caste according to its customary mode of procedure. KALA v. JUGANATH, 1 Bom. L.R. 711.

(8)—Caste question. — Comaties.—Suit by certain Comaties of the Vaisyas, or third caste of the Hindoos, against the Mantrimahanad (secret assembly, for avenging encroachments upon rules or rights of caste), to establish their right to have performed for them and their tribe certain religious ceremonies, called Soobha and Assoobha (auspicious and inauspicious) by Brahimns in the language of the Vedas; in the enjoyment of which they had been disturbed by the Brahmins refusing to perform such ceremonies. In the answer to the plaint, the defendants denied the right of the Comaties and set forth certain acts, whereby they had forfeited their right to have the ceremonies performed for them by the Brahmins. The Zillah Court, taking that part of the defendants' answer which set forth the acts by which the forfeiture of the rights in question was occasioned, framed it into a statement of facts and law, for the opinion of the Pundit of the Court; and, upon his opinion, declared the plaintiff's tribe entitled to have the ceremonies performed for them by Brahmins. Upon appeal, the Provincial Court remitted the suit to the Zillah Court, to take evidence, and upon such evidence and the opinions of the Pundits, which the Provincial Court took upon the same statement as the Zillah, they affirmed the decree. The Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, upon the whole case, reversed these decisions. Held, by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, reversing the decisions of the three Courts, that the whole proceedings were irregular, and contrary to the express provisions of the Madras Regulation XV of 1816, s. X, cls. 3 and 4, which required the Judge to record the points necessary to be established, before the evidence could be taken; the opinion of the Pundits being also taken upon an assumed statement of facts, not admitted or recorded. But, in consideration of the circumstances, such reversal was without prejudice to bring a fresh suit. NAMBOORY SETAPATY v. KANOOCOLANOO PULLIA, 7 W.R. P.C. 7=3 M. I. A. 359=1 Suther 163=1 Sar. 290. [R., 11 W. R. 457.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——8.—Caste questions, Suits concerning —continued.

(9)—Property purchased by faction seceding from a caste—Possession of property by member of faction—Suit for recovery of possession brought on behalf of caste—Cognizability of suit by Civil Court.—The property in dispute was purchased by a small section of a caste which had seceded from the caste. This section subsequently became reunited with the caste excepting one member of it the defendant, who remained in possession of the property. Plaintiff sued to recover possession of such property for and on behalf of the caste. The lower Courts had decided wrongly that the suit involved a caste question and was not therefore cognizable by the Civil Courts. Held on second appeal that, although, if the lands in dispute had been originally the property of the caste, the question would have been between the caste and a section of it and would form a caste question not cognizable by the Civil Courts, yet, as the lands had been admittedly purchased by the members who had seceded and formed the small section, out of their own funds and for their own purposes, it was for the Civil Court to determine who was entitled to the disputed property, notwithstanding that it might be incidentally necessary for that purpose to inquire into the usages and practices of castes and sections of castes in respect of properties acquired by the sections. MEHTA JETHALAL v. JAMIATRAM LALUBHAI, 12 B. 225. [R., 19 B. 507, 26 B. 174, 9 Bom. L.R. 569, 34 Bom. 467=11 B.L.R. 1014.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——8.—Caste questions, Suits concerning —concluded.

(10)—Inspection of account books—Right of a member of a caste to inspect documents and books of account relating to caste property—Injunction where such inspection refused.—Where a member of a caste, who was also a trustee of the caste property, was refused inspection of books of accounts, documents, etc., by the President of the managing committee of the caste:—Held, that an injunction could be granted restraining the President from refusing such inspection. Every member of a caste, being interested in its affairs, has a right, incidental to his membership, to every information which the books, records, and documents of the caste can give him to enable him to discharge the duties he owes to the caste. It is a right similar to that of a partner in a firm to the partnership books and can be taken away from him only by an express caste rule, resolution, or usage. But a trustee or a member of a caste has such right to inspection only for the bona fide purpose and in the interest of the caste and not for any purpose hostile or injurious to those interests. Though a Court will not interfere with the jurisdiction and discretion of a caste as regards its internal purposes and management with reference to which it is its own master to frame rules and regulations, yet it will interfere in favour of any individual member of the caste as against any other member or members of it, where the Court is asked to give effect to any rule, resolution, or usage, of the caste, if the right claimed in virtue of such rule, resolution, or usage, is a civil right cognizable by the Court. In giving relief in such cases, the Court so far from interfering with the autonomy of the caste, or encroaching upon its jurisdiction as to its internal affairs, recognizes them by giving effect to its rule, resolution, or usage. CHAPSEY v. JETHABHAI, 9 Bom.L.R. 569.

——9.—Contracts, Suits on.

(1)—Contract—Lex loci contractus—Lex fori. —It is the lex loci contractus that determines the validity of a contract made in a foreign state, and if by that law a bond or promissory note requires registration for its validity and is unregistered, it cannot be made the basis of a suit. The question whether a judgment may be given on the consideration of the document is one of procedure governed by the lex fori. PALANIAPPA CHETTI v. PERIA KARUPPAN CHETTI, 17 M. 262. (5 M. 166, Cited & F.)

(2)—Contracts and agreements — Suit for value of goods covered by bill of exchange—Payee for honour.—A payee for honour, though entitled to the same remedies upon the bill as the party for whom payment was made, is not entitled to bring a suit in his own name and in his own behalf for the value of the goods for which the bill was drawn. CARMICHAEL v. BROJONAUTH MULLICK, 1 Hyde 274.

Right of Suit—continued.

——9.—Contracts, Suits on—continued.

(3)—Indian Contract Act (IX of 1872), ss. 10 and 11—Bond in favour of minor, suit on.—A money bond obtained by a minor in his name is good in law and may be sued on. HANMANT LAKSHMAN v. JAYARAO NARASINHA, 13 B. 50. [Diss., 20 C. 508, 19 B 697; R., L.B.R. 1893-1900, 398, U.B.R. 1897—1901, 313.]

(4)—When third person to contract may sue contracting parties—In order to entitle a third person not named as a party to a contract to sue either of the contracting parties, that third person must possess an actual beneficial right which places him in the position of cestui que trust under the contract. LAXMAN BHAT LABHE v. GOVINDA, 11 C.P.L.R. 108. [R., 3 N.L.R. 111.]

(5)—Written contract superseding oral contract—Suit on oral contract—Maintainability.—Where an oral contract has been superseded by a written contract, a suit based on the former and not on the latter was held not to be maintainable. BIRCH v. GAUTIER, A.W.N. 1882, 156.

(6)—Suit for compensation for breach of contract—Contract to be entered into in the future.—No suit for compensation for breach of a contract can be maintained, where the document relied on as the contract evidences only an agreement to enter into a contract in the future. MAUNG SHWE OH v. MAUNG TUN GYAW, 9 C.W.N. 147 P.C.=32 C. 96=31 I.A. 188=8 Sar. 704.

(7)—Agreement to pay remuneration to receiver.—An agreement to pay the remuneration of a Receiver without any leave from the Court, even if it is not conditional, is not binding on the persons promising, as it is made in contravention of the law. A suit cannot be brought on such an agreement. PROKASH CHANDRA SARKAR v. ADLAM, 30 C. 696. (22 C. 648, R.)

(8)—Decree in favour of plaintiff's husband, bond executed by defendant in satisfaction of—Omission to certify satisfaction—Right to sue on bond as on new contract not affected.—Plaintiff sued on a bond executed by the defendant in satisfaction of a decree passed in favour of her husband against defendant. The suit was dismissed by the lower Court with reference to the last sentence in s. 258 of Act X of 1877, on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to certify satisfaction of the decree to the Court, held that the suit was not liable to dismissal on that ground, the decree itself having been superseded by a valid contract between the parties and there being no reason why plaintiff should not sue on the new bond. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN DEVI v. UMAR DIN, 182 P.R. 1882.

(9)—Act XI of 1865, s. 6—Small Cause Court—Jurisdiction—Suit on implied contract—Contribution.—If a man request another to pay money for him, there is an implied contract to repay the amount, for which an action will lie in the Small Cause Court, if it does not exceed Rs. 500. A suit for contribution, not founded on any contract, is not cognizable by the Small Cause Court. SHABOO MAJEE v. NOORAI MOLLAH, B.L.R. Sup. Vol. 691, F.B.=7 W.R. 386. [F., 7 C. 605=9 C.L.R. 90, 9 C. 395=12 C.L.R. 314.]

(10)—'Puchotra'—Assignment—Civil Court—Jurisdiction.—The assignment of 'Puchotra' cannot be enforced in a Court of law. MALUK SINGH v. NUTHA SINGH, 31 P.R. 1872. (16 P.R. 1870, R.) [R., 56 P.R. 1886.]

(11)—Contract by head of caste—Procuring re-admission to caste—Procuring marriage within caste—Contract to pay money in consideration—Validity.—Plaintiff (the head of a caste) sued to recover Rs. 3,149, being the balance due under an agreement entered into between him and the defendant (one of 3 brothers of a family), whose mother had been put out of caste (the Lovana caste) for marrying a man of a different caste. Under the agreement, the head of the caste was to re-admit the brothers into and marry them to girls of the caste, in consideration of a sum of Rs. 5,000. Part of the money had been paid to the plaintiff, who now brought the suit to enforce payment of the balance. Held that the suit was not maintainable for the following reasons:—(1) Since the agreement provided for money payment for the negotiation of a marriage by a third party, it was immoral and opposed to public policy. (ii) The agreement was made with the plaintiff (as head of the caste) in his representative, not in his private capacity. The benefit of the agreement accrued, not to him, but to the caste. It was for the caste to say whether they wished to enforce its terms. Plaintiff (in this particular case) had ceased to hold office since the agreement and as such did not represent the sentiments of the caste. The successor also appeared and told the Court that those of the leaders of the caste with whom he had spoken disapproved of the suit like himself. PITAMBER RATANJI v. RAGJIVAN HANSRAJ, 13 B. 131 Note. [F., 13 B. 126; Appl.; 17 M. 9=3 M.L.T. 132; R., 22 B. 658, 1 C.L.J. 261.]

(12)—Lambardar appointed under cl. 3, s. 10, Reg. VII of 1822—Assignment of share of lambardar allowance—Suit by assignee for share assigned—Suit for damages.—Where a lambardar appointed under cl. 3, s. 10, Reg. VII of 1822, assigns share of his lambardaree allowance, the assignee cannot sue for the share assigned, though he may have an action of damages for breach of contract against the lambardar. HUREE SINGH v. MAHAN SINGH, 16 P.R. 1870. [R., 31 P.R. 1872, 56 P.R. 1886.]

(13)—Contract to deliver cotton—Assignment—Suit by assignee—Sham assignment—Fraud—Demand for delivery of cotton as per terms of

Jammu & Kashmir Srinagar

Right of Suit—continued.

——9.—Contracts, Suits on—continued.

contract—S. 93, Contract Act (IX of 1872).—On 25-12-1886, A contracted to deliver 100 bales of cotton to B on 26-5-1887. The latter became insolvent on 7-3-1887 after having previously assigned the contract to one K on 28-2-1887. Neither the contract, nor its assignment, nor the receipt of consideration therefor was mentioned in the schedule attached to the petition in insolvency. K, the assignee, called on A to deliver the goods. The latter refused and pleaded that the assignment, not being a bona fide one, did not pass the beneficial interest in the contract to K, and that K was not an assignee for valuable consideration. K sued A for damages for breach of the contract, which suit was dismissed on the ground that the assignment to K was fraudulent. B did not press A to perform the contract, although he knew that the suit of K against A had been dismissed. The petition in insolvency presented by B having been dismissed for want of prosecution in 1889, K re-assigned the contract to B, who brought the present suit against A for recovering damages for breach of the contract. The plaintiff urged that the assignment to K was not made to defraud the defendant, and that the parties had been restored to the position which they occupied prior to the insolvency proceedings, in respect of their rights and liabilities under the contract, for the reason that his (plaintiff's) petition in insolvency had been dismissed. Held that the plaintiff was not entitled to the damages claimed. The beneficial property in the contract had not passed to K, although the defendant would be bound to recognise an assignee who could establish his title of full ownership in the contract, he was not under any obligation to do so, when, as a fact, the property in the contract still remained in the person with whom the defendant had originally contracted. Moreover, as K asked for delivery as beneficial owner and not on behalf of the plaintiff, there has been in fact, no demand for delivery by the plaintiff or on his account, as required by s. 93 of the contract Act, which the defendant was bound to recognise. The law in England is that, where there has been an assignment by the deed, the assigned property passes by force of the deed, and it cannot be impeached at law by the assignor or by third parties other than creditors on the ground of its not being a real transaction. Even in England, where the assignment is not by deed, the true nature of it as a sham transaction may be proved. In this country, it is, in all cases, open to third parties to show that such was the case. MULJI GOVINDJI v. NATHUBAI HIRACHAND, 15 B. 1. [Appl., 9 Bom. L. R. 462; R., 16 C.P.L.R. 164, 1 S.L.R. 60, 5 N.L.R. 146, 12 Bom. L.R. 822.]

(13-a)—Contracts for forward delivery—Payment of difference—Sutta or wagering contracts — Assignment — Consent — Endorsement and delivery of contracts, effect of.—The defendant in the suit entered into a series of speculative transactions through a broker for the purchase and sale of produce. His modus operandi was, when he entered into a contract of purchase, to sell again the same quantity in one or more contracts, either to the original vendor or to some one else, so as either to secure the profits or to ascertain the loss before the "Vayda" day; and in a similar way to deal mutatis mutandis, with produce which he sold. This mode of dealing when the sale and purchase were to and from the same person, of course had the effect of cancelling the contracts, leaving only the differences to be paid. When they were two different persons, it put the defendant in a position vicariously to perform his contract. The plaintiffs as assignees of one S sued the defendant for "differences" on certain contracts. The defendant contended that these contracts were in the nature of sutta or wagering contracts. Held that this was, no doubt, a highly speculative mode of transacting business; but the contracts were not wagering contracts, unless it be the intention of both contracting parties, at the time of entering into the contracts, under no circumstances to call for or give delivery, from or to each other. There is no law against speculation as there is against gambling. [F., 1 Bom. L R 263, 25 A. 38, 5 Bom. L.R. 503; Commented on, 9 Bom. L.R. 125; R., 17 M. 480, 18 M 306, 22 B. 899, 5 Bom. L.R 768, 30 B. 83=7 Bom. L.R. 385, 11 Bom. L.R. 997; D., 24 B. 227=1 Bom L.R. 786.] In the above case, the plaintiffs got an assignment of the contracts from one S without the consent of the defendant. The latter contended that the action was not maintainable. Held that the objection was a good one. An assignment of a contract (is distinguished from an assignment of a contract in action) to be effectual, must amount to a novation which requires the consent of the other party to the contract. The Contract Act has no section bearing upon the assignability of a contract, except s. 62 which is confined to cases of novation, and s. 40 which shows what contracts a promisor is bound to perform personally and what he may perform by employing a competent person to carry out. The legal effect of the endorsement and delivery of such contracts considered. J. H. TOD v. LAKHMIDAS PURUSHOTAMDAS, 16 B. 441. [R., 9 Bom. L.R. 114.]

(14)—Putnee taken with notice of agreement with third party, not maintainable in equity—Right of third party to relief against putneedar.—Where a person taking a putnee to the prejudice of another, has at the time of taking the putnee had notice of an agreement existing between that person and the zemindar, he could not, in equity, claim to maintain the lease so obtained by him to the prejudice of the other, but, on the other hand, that other will be entitled to relief against him. DWARKANATH CHOWDRY v. KOMUL LOCHUM DOSS MUNDUL, 10 W.R. 414.

(15)—Partnership—Dissolution—Suit for receipt—Evidence.—Where A obtains through the Magistrate the return of certain goods placed with B, his partner in trade, independent of the partnership speculation, a suit by the latter against the former for a declaration that the goods were the partnership goods, and to obtain a receipt for them as such, is not maintainable. Held, further, that such a suit could not be converted into one for dissolution of partnership, there being neither books, accounts, nor any other evidence. J. C. ELIJAH v. ARATOON BROTHERS, 14 W.R. 47.

Right of Suit—continued.

——9.—Contracts, Suits on—continued.

(16)—Contract—Consideration of discharging decree-debts—Payment towards debts—Successful opposition of decree-holder's claim—Suit for recovery of amount.—The plaintiff took a putnee lease from the defendant, agreeing, among other things, to pay off certain decree debts due to third parties from the defendant. Subsequently, another agreement was entered into between the parties by which the plaintiff paid the decree amounts to the defendant and was released from any liability on that score. The defendant thereafter successfully contested the payment of one of the decrees. The suit was for recovery of that amount. Held that the money in question was paid to the defendant absolutely and that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover the amount, merely because the defendant had escaped paying the amount to the decree-holder. SREENATH CHOWDHRY v. MR. JOHN JAMES GREY, 13 W.R. 114.

(17)—Agreement to grant putnee—Grant to third party in violation of agreement—Grant if can be set aside.—An agreement was entered into between the plaintiff, an ijaradar, and the proprietors of a mehal that, in the event of their granting a putnee to anybody during the term of the ijara, plaintiff should have the refusal. Notwithstanding this agreement, the proprietors afterwards gave a putnee to the defendant, another ijaradar, and the plaintiff sued to have the putnee set aside, and to compel the proprietors to execute a fresh putnee to him. Held that, whatever stipulations were made between the plaintiff and the proprieters, the defendant having been no party thereto was not bound and the putnee granted to him could not be set aside. KOMUL LOCHUN DASS v. DWARKANATH CHOWDHRY, 10 W.R. 254.

(18)—Arbitration—Award prohibiting sale or mortgage to strangers—Award upheld by Court—Hypothecation to stranger in violation of award—Suit by other party for possession of property hypothecated—Such suit if maintainable.—Two brothers, D and N, succeeded to the property left by their deceased father. As they could not agree about its division, the matter was referred to arbitration, and by the award therein it was determined that if either of them desired to sell or mortgage his share, he should make the offer of the transaction in the first instance to the other, and, should that other refuse, then only should he be at liberty to deal with a third party. The arbitrators also fixed the consideration for which the brothers were empowered to alienate to each other. The award was subsequently upheld by the High Court and made binding upon the parties. N subsequently hypothecated his share to one P, a stranger, contrary to the terms of the award. The latter got possession of N's share in execution of his decree obtained on the hypothecation bond. Thereupon the other brother D instituted a suit for possession and establishment of title to that property by payment of the price fixed by the arbitration. Held (by the majority of the Full Bench) that as the mere hypothecation of the property did not give the hypothecatee a title to it as purchaser, the suit as brought must be dismissed and that the terms of the award did not expressly provide that a sale or mortgage, which had been made without a previous offer of the property to the other party, and refusal of it by him, should be liable to be set aside, nor did they confer a right to be substituted for the person to whom a transfer might have been made in breach of those terms. Held contra (per Stuart, C.J.) that the arbitration and award formed a complete contract to be carried out to all its legal consequences, and that when a plaint contained matters sufficient to enable the Court to consider the validity of the claim made by the suit, and on the facts and merits to do justice between the parties, the objection to the form of the suit ought not to stand in the way of the plaintiff being decreed his rights under the award. RAJAH PIRTHEE SINGH v. DYA KISHUN, 5 N.W.P. 226, F.B.

Right of Suit—continued.

——9.—Contracts, Suits on—concluded.

See BETROTHAL, 69 P.R. 1868.

Agreement of compromise, mode of enforcing—Reciprocal promises—Right to sue—Performance of whole contract—Decree—See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, s. 51, 19 B. 546.

Suit to recover fees paid to Barrister—Maintainability of—See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—BARRISTER, 8 C.P.L.R. 13.

Promise to pay subscription—Right of promisee to institute suit to recover same—See SUBSCRIPTION, 13 C.P.L.R. 57.

——10.—Co-sharers, Suits by.

See CO-SHARERS.

(1)—Mortgage by one of two co-tenants of forest—Mortgagee in possession—Licenses from both co-tenants, rights of.—A mortgagor left in possession of a forest might dispose of the annual felling or cutting in any way which could be consistent with good management. As such a mortgagor might properly sell, so a purchaser might properly buy, and should be protected in his purchase against any claims of the mortgagee upon the mortgagor in virtue of his mortgage. In this case, however, the mortgagee had possession—that is, such possession as the mortgagor had previously held for himself, as a tenant-in-common with another, and in the license issued for cutting wood that other co-tenant had also joined. The other co-tenant who was not the mortgagor had herself a right to license a cutting of the wood, not limited to her own share, but extending to the whole forest held by her in common with the mortgagor. So too had the mortgagee. So that the licensee from either would do no wrong to the other in acting on his license. The rights of the co-tenants inter se would be only to an account of the profits realised, and a distribution of them according to their proportions of the ownership. BALVANTRAV OZE v. GANPATRAV JADHAV, 7 B. 336. [R., 32 C. 837=1 C.L.J. 437.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——10.—Co-sharers, Suits by—continued.

(2)—Pre-emption—Offer by plaintiff to pay amount of purchase-money found due—Dispute as to amount of purchase-money, effect of—Claim for specific land at specific price.—Assuming that the plaintiff might have been entitled to a declaration of his right of pre-emption notwithstanding the dispute as to the amount of the purchase-money, if he had offered by his plaint to pay the real amount of the purchase-money whatever it might be, the High Court held that, in the present case, the claim of the plaintiff was to purchase a specific quantity of land at a specific price and such alleged right was found to have no existence, and plaintiff was therefore not entitled to a decree. ACHURBUR PANDAY v. BUKSHEE RAM, 2 W.R. 37.

(3)—Suit by representative of one of several judgment-creditors to recover her share—Proper form of suit one for a declaration as sharer—Suit not barred by wrong form of action.—Plaintiff, as the widow of one of several brothers, sued on her own behalf and on behalf of her minors for a share of certain decretal moneys which had belonged to her husband's estate and had been realised in execution by one of the brothers as the managing member of the family. There having been practically no defence on the merits in the Court below, plaintiff obtained a decree for the whole amount claimed. On special appeal, however, it was objected that the plaintiff could not maintain this action in its present shape and the High Court held that the objection was untenable. It appeared from the record that the plaintiff had endeavoured to be made a party to the original suit in which the decree had been obtained and, failing in that, her only course was to sue for her share of the money received under the decree; in other words, inasmuch as she had been prevented by the defendants from being included amongst the original parties to the suit, it was open to the plaintiff to maintain an action as far as claiming a share of such sums as had been recovered under the decree. MUSSAMUT BUZMOONISSA v. BIBEE ROWSHAN JAHAN, 10 W.R. 397.

(4)—Suit for share in joint property under ekrarnamah—Accrual of cause of action after date of ekrarnamah—Burden of proof—Pro forma defendant, costs of—Co-defendant not liable.—Plaintiff in this case did not sue upon the ordinary allegation that the property, a share of which she claimed, was joint family property hitherto undivided. She had come into Court alleging certain family arrangements in respect of the property that had been reduced to the shape of an ekrarnamah, and she claimed the share to which her husband was entitled under the arrangement which she said had thus taken place, and upon the happening of the necessary conditions. Under the circumstances, the rules relating to onus of proof where a plaintiff sues for a share of joint family property as such could have no application. It was incumbent upon the plaintiff to give some prima facie proof of the particular cause of action upon which she had chosen to come into Court. Until the plaintiff had given some legal evidence of the ekrarnamah and of the happening of the events after the execution of the ekrarnamah, sufficient to entitle her, in the character in which she appeared in Court, to claim a share in the property settled by the ekrarnamah, the defendant ought not to have been called upon to prove his case at all. Where a plaintiff has made a person a defendant without even alleging a cause of action against him, it would be wrong on the part of the Court to order his co-defendant to pay his costs. The proper course would be to dismiss the plaintiff's suit as against the unnecessary defendant and to make the plaintiff to pay his costs. RAM CHUNDER MITTER v. KISTO KAMINEE DOSSEE, 10 W.R. 194.

Right of Suit—continued.

——10.—Co-sharers, Suits by—concluded.

(5)—Suit by purchaser of eight anna share for possession of half of sir and Khud kasht land—Maintainability.—The purchaser of an eight anna share in a village cannot sue for possession of half of the entire sir and Khud kasht land in the village. RATAN TELI v. YADO RAO, 9 C.P.L.R. 81.

See CONTRIBUTION, SUITS FOR—PAYMENT OF JOINT DEBT BY ONE DEBTOR, 5 N.W.P. 215.

See HINDU LAW—PARTITION, 11 B.H.C. 69.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—INHERITANCE, 11 B.H.C. 104.

——11.—Costs.

See COSTS.

(1)—Costs incurred in Revenue Court, when recoverable by fresh suit for damages.—Where a Court has jurisdiction and orders costs, that order is final and binding. Where the Court in which proceedings have been formerly held was not entitled to order costs, and costs have been incurred, they may be made the subject of consideration as to damages in a subsequent suit. In the present case, the Rent Court in the former suits was entitled to deal with the question of costs, and dealt with it, and such costs cannot, therefore, be made the subject-matter of fresh litigation. MAHRAM DASS v. AJUDHIA, 8 A. 452=A.W.N. 1886, 189. (6 M.H.C. 192, 8 B.H.C. 29, 2 B. 360, 1 B. 467, R.) [F., 9 A. 474=7 A.W.N 95, 11 C.W.N. cclxiii, N.; R., 15 C.P.L.R. 129, U.B.R. 1904, 1st Qr., Civ. Pro Code, 283, U.B.R. 1905, 2nd Qr., C.P. 283, 5 A.L.J. 140=A.W.N. 1908, 18.]

Right of Suit*—continued.

——11.—Costs—continued.

(2)—Suit for compensation for costs of prosecution—Suit by Hindu father against abducter of his daughter for damages for loss of her services whether maintainable.—A Hindu father can maintain a suit, against a person who abducted his daughter while under his protection, for the costs incurred in a successful prosecution of such abductor. [Diss., 12 A. 166; Not F., 15 C.P.L.R. 129.] Per Stuart, C. J.—Such a suit is maintainable where the daughter had been deserted by her husband, and was under her father's protection when she was abducted. Per Oldfield, J., contra. RAM LAL v. TULA RAM, 4 A. 97=A.W.N. 1881, 143. [R., 13 B. 126.]

(3)—Suit to recover expenses incurred in prosecuting defendant.—A suit to recover as damages the expenses incurred in prosecuting the defendant will not lie in a Civil Court. This has no analogy to the case of a defendant in a malicious prosecution bringing a suit against the prosecutor and obtaining as damages the expenses he was put to in defending himself at the criminal trial. FAZAL IMAM v. FAZUL RASUL, 12 A. 166=A.W.N. 1890, 19. [Appr., 15 C.P.L.R. 129, 32 C. 429.]

(4)—Costs incurred in defending criminal prosecution, no suit maintainable for—Act IX of 1887 (Provincial Small Cause Courts), sch. II, cl. 35 (c).—There is no cause of action arising by reason of costs having been incurred in defending a criminal prosecution and no suit is therefore maintainable to recover such costs except in the form of damages or compensation in a suit for malicious prosecution which is a suit excluded from the jurisdiction of a Small Cause Court. MAHOMEDALI v. BAYAMA, 14 B. 100.

(5)—Costs incurred in Mamlatdar's Court—Suit for recovery.—No action can lie for the recovery of costs incurred in the Mamlatdar's Court in defending a claim for possession of land under Bombay Act V of 1868. JALAM PUNJA v. KHODA JAVRA, 8 B.H.C. A.C. 29. [R., 8 A. 452, U.B.R. 1905, Civil Procedure 4; D., 2 Bom. L.R. 960.]

(6)—Suit for costs of a suit.—Since by the law of India, a champertous agreement is not a punishable offence, an action founded on an alleged champerty, cannot be sustained to recover losses and costs incurred in litigation, on the ground that a remedy by action accrues where an indictable offence has been committed. RAM COOMAR COONDOO v. CHUNDER CANTO MOOKERJEE, 2 C. 233, P.C.=4 I.A. 23=3 Sar. 654. [R., 8 B. 391, 20 B. 167.]

Right of Suit*—continued.

——11.—Costs—concluded.

(7)—Costs incurred in a suit—Separate suit, if maintainable.—Where costs are incurred in prosecuting a suit but no provision is made in the decree, the proper course is to ask for a supply of the omission, and not to bring a separate suit to recover the same. By the term "costs" is meant the whole of the expenses incurred by either party on account of the suit. In re A REFERENCE BY THE JUDGE S. C. COURT, AMRITSAR, 73 P.R. 1867. [R., 88 P. R. 1868.]

Order as to costs by Court having jurisdiction, separate suit, not maintainable in respect of such costs—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 9 A. 474=A.W.N. 1887, 95.

——12.—Customary Rights.

See CUSTOM.

See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB.

(1)—Dhardhura Reg. XI of 1825, ss. 2, 4 (III).—Whether the custom of Dhardhura, applies to lands gained by gradual accretion only, or also to lands separated from a mauza by sudden change in the river's course, is a question that can be decided on evidence. And although evidence of such custom, in respect of lands long held and enjoyed, being suddenly transferred to another person, must be scrutinized with great care, it cannot be laid down generally that such a custom can in no case be established and given effect to. SIBT ALI v. MUNIR-UD-DIN, 6 A. 479=A.W.N 1884, 185. (N.W.P. 1868, 189, N.W P. 1869, 142 and 20 W.R. 427, R.)

(2)—Marriage fee for use of temple—Custom—Legal obligation.—Where the manager of a temple sued a person to recover the amount of marriage fees which the latter became liable to pay for the use of the temple upon his marriage with a woman residing in the village wherein the temple was situated, by virtue of long-established custom, held (a) that there was no authority in Hindu law making the marriage fee claimed due of common right (b) that a legal obligation to pay a due of this nature would probably be held to exist in a case in which the evidence showed presumptively that it had been customarily contributed from time immemorial by the community residing within a village for the enjoyment of the benefits attached to the right of worshipping in the temple and attendance at its ceremonials and the services rendered to them by the managers and other officers of the temple and that in such a case there would be a consideration of advantage to which to ascribe the origin and continuance of the custom sufficient probably to make it valid and binding, and (c) that, in the present case the existence of the alleged immemorial custom had not been proved so as to be binding upon the defendant. MAADAN v. ERLANDI, M. H.C. 147.

Right of Suit—continued.

—— 12.—Customary Rights—concluded.

(3)—Right to sue aghat for the purpose of collecting religious offerings—Right to the soil.—Where the plaintiffs had no right of any kind to the soil of a ghat, they could not maintain a suit for a declaration that they had an exclusive right by custom to use it for the purpose of collecting alms. HUSAIN ALI v. MATUKMAN, 6 A. 39=A W.N. 1883, 185. (S.A No. 151 of 1871, dated the 15th March, 1871, F.) [F., 20 A. 200.]

(4)—Prescription—Bathing ghat dedicated to public—Easement in gross not recognized by Indian or English Law.—Where a bathing ghat has been dedicated to the public, no person could, by occupation or other user of any part of it establish a right by prescription to the exclusive use of such part, as against the public. (Turner v. Ringwood Highway Board, 9 Eq. 418, 6 A. 39, R.) Such user will amount only to a licensed user. The person has a right to be there, but his right of user cannot carry with it a right to exclude the other persons. [F., 2 O.C. 1; D., 7 P.R. 1899.] Neither the English nor the Indian law recognizes such a right as an easement in gross. Therefore, where the plaintiffs claim the right of exclusive use of portions of a bathing ghat, without alleging any right either in the soil of the ghat or in any other soil to which the user of the ghat was appurtenant, held that such right could not be claimed as an easement, or customary right. THE MUNICIPAL BOARD OF CAWNPORE v. LALLU, 20 A. 200=A.W.N. 1898, 25.

(5)—Mahars—Right to share proceeds of watan.—Though the owner of cattle is not bound by the Mahar's rights, yet, as between themselves, a Mahar has a right of action against his brother Mahars for a share in the proceeds of the watan, such as the carcasses of dead animals, etc. YELLAPPA BHIMAPPA v. MANKIA, 8 B.H.C. A.C. 27. [R., 8 N.L.R. 53.]

(6)—Right to profits from ceremonies at cremation—Jurisdiction.—The obligation on jujmans to employ a particular purohit to perform the ceremonies at the burning of Hindu bodies may be a matter of conscience, and not one which a Court of law can enforce, but the question of the right to enjoy the joint profits accruing from the performance of such ceremonies is cognizable by a civil Court. BECHARAM BANERJEE v. SRIMATI THAKUR MANI DEBI, 8 B.L R. 53. Note=10 W.R. 114. [Not F., 3 B. 9; Appr., 8 B.L.R. 50=10 W.R. 114; R., 12 W.R. 372.]

(7)—Suit to enforce payment to shebait—Custom to contribute Murjada.—A suit does not lie to enforce a payment to a shebait under colour of a custom according to which persons of the Kassary caste having marriage ceremonies or shrads performed in their houses, are bound to contribute "Murjada" (respect money) to the Sheeb Thakoor as representing the Kassary community in general. MADHUB CHUNDER MUNDUL v. NOBEEN CHUNDER DUTT, 5 W.R. 224. [R., 12 C.L.J. 74=14 C.W.N. 1057.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——13.—Debtor and Creditor.

See DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

(1)—Cause of action—Suit by debtor to compel creditor to accept money due.—A suit will not lie by a debtor to compel the creditor to accept payment of an instalment due under a bond, which contains a stipulation, that it is to be paid in instalments, and on failure to pay any instalment, the whole sum then due, should become payable at once A suit, is a demand made judicially for attaining or recovering a right, and it does not lie for the bare performance of a duty at the instance of the person bound to perform it, for the evident reason that, when he is willing to perform it, there is no need for a suit, and that, if he is not, it is for the other party to enforce its performance. KRISTAYA v. KASIPATI, 9 M. 55.

Suit on mortgage bond before expiry of term for re-payment of principal—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, 15 C.P.L.R. 78.

Suit for foreclosure by prior mortgagee—Foreclosure decree made absolute — Puisne mortgagee not made party—Right of puisne mortgagee to foreclose his mortgage — See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE, 11 C.P.L.R. 75.

——14.—Decrees.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

(1)—Execution of decree—Suit to enforce—Interpretation of decree.—A suit will not be entertained to enforce the execution of a decree in another suit. The Courts must be left to interpret their own decrees in execution. TAREKNARAIN SINGH v. PANCHA SINGH, W.R. 1864, 376.

(2)—Right declared, suit for enforcement of.—The decree-holder may sue for the enforcement of the right declared. SABHANATHA v. LAKSHMI, 7 M. 80 [F., 7 M. 83, 1 M.L.T. 69; Appr., 14 M. 396; R., 17 M.L.J. 423, 4 M.L.T. 330; D., 12 B. 65, 12 M. 183.]

(3)—Suit upon decree of High Court.—A suit can be brought upon a decree of the High Court. ATTERMONEY DOSSEE v. HURRY DOSS DUTT, 7 C. 74=9 C.L.R. 357. [F., 33 C. 560=9 C.W.N. 952; D., 6 B. 7, 8 B. 1.]

(4)—Decree pending appeal — Fresh suit—Right of action.—Quære:—Whether a new suit will lie upon a decree pending an appeal? RANEE IMAMUM v. HURDYAL SINGH, 5 W.R. 276.

(5)—Judgment destroyed during the mutiny—Suit—Limitation. — Where the plaintiff sues for the amount due under a decree which was destroyed during the mutiny, held, that the suit would lie, the cause of action accruing from the date on which the decree was lost or destroyed. RANEE ENAMUN v. HURDYAL SING, W.R. 1864, 301.

(6)—Destruction of the records of a case—Former decree, execution of—Fresh suit for the same subject-matter—Maintainability.—Where, the records of a case being destroyed, the plaintiff brought a second suit for the same subject-matter for which he had before got a decree, held, that the suit was not maintainable, but that the plaintiff may prove her first decree and execute the same. MUSSAMUT NUZUR BANOO v. HOSSEIN ALI KHAN, W.R. 1864, 378.

Right of Suit—continued.

——14.—Decrees—continued.

(7)—Decrees—Suit on decree where there are no means of enforcing it by execution.—A decree in a suit upon a bond against the heir of the deceased obligor awarded to the plaintiff the amount of the bond from the property of the obligee, and directed that "the defendant be released from the claim in this suit." An order for execution of the decree was set aside, on the ground that the decree did not warrant the issue of an attachment, since it was not against any person. Held that a suit was maintainable by the plaintiff upon the decree recovered in the former suit, there being no other means of enforcing the former decree or recovering his debt. ANUND ROY v. MUNORUT SINGH, Marsh 611.

(8)—Decrees—Suit for balance after execution of decree for rent—Suit under Rent Act to recover sum due after sale in execution of decree under Ben. Reg. VII of 1799.—A suit was held to be not maintainable under the Rent Act to recover a sum due under a decree for rent obtained under Regulation VII of 1799, and remaining unsatisfied after sale of the tenure. DHEERAJ MAHTAB CHAND v. DENO NATH ROY, Marsh 340=2 Hay 445.

(9)—Judgments of Courts of Native States, suits not maintainable in British Courts on.—A suit will not lie in any of the British Courts in India, on a judgment passed by a Court in a Native State. The administration of justice in the Courts of Native States does not generally command that amount of confidence which is necessary to raise the implied obligation upon which the action on a foreign judgment rests, and which is therefore a condition precedent of English Courts entertaining an action on one of their judgments. HIMMATLAL v. SHIVAJI RAV, 8 B. 593. [D., 24 B. 86.]

(10)—Decrees—Suit on decree of Small Cause Court—Decree unsatisfied by execution.—Where plaintiff had obtained a decree in the Small Cause Court, and execution had been issued, but defendant had not moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree.—Held that a suit in the High Court, on the decree of the Small Cause Court, would lie for the balance, but costs will not be given to the successful plaintiff in such a suit, nor interest on the judgment be obtained in the High Court. MOHENDRONATH ASH v. BEEDOBODUN DUTT, 1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 220.

(11)—Suit on decree of P.S.C. Court.—A suit may be maintained in the High Court on a decree of the Presidency Small Cause Court. KHOBLALL BABOO v. RAMCHUNDER BOSE, 2 C. 434. [Overruled, 5 C. 294; R., 8 B. 1.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——14.—Decrees—continued.

(12)—Small Cause Court decree, right of suit upon.—No suit would lie in the High Court on a decree of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes. MOONSHI GOLAM ARAB v. CURREEM BUX SHAIKJEE, 5 C. 294=4 C.L.R. 477. (2 C. 434, Overruled.) [R., 6 B. 7, 8 B. 1.]

(13)—Decree barred by limitation, suit not maintainable on—Judgment of Court of Small Causes in Bombay, suit in High Court on—Pleadings—Evidence.—No Court can entertain a suit based on a decree the execution of which is barred by limitation. Suits upon decrees of the Bombay Court of Small Causes can be instituted on the original side of the High Court. The ground of interference of the High Court by way of entertaining such suits being, practically, that the judgment-creditor could not recover his debt except by process against the immoveable estate of the debtor, the plaint, in a suit of the kind, must contain the averment, and the plaintiff must establish, to the satisfaction of the High Court, that there is not any sufficient moveable property of the defendant against which the decree of the Court of Small Causes can be fully executed and that he has immoveable property situated within the jurisdiction of the High Court against which execution can be had. The execution of the High Court's decree obtained in such a suit should be confined to immoveable property within its jurisdiction. FAKIRAPA v. PANDURANGAPA, 6 B. 7 (5 C. 294, R.) [F., 8 B. 1; R., 7 B. 467, 25 M. 300.]

(14)—Presidency Small Cause Courts Act (XV of 1882), ss 1, 94—Suit on judgment of Small Cause Court, whether maintainable in that Court.—In this case, the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, referred to the High Court the question whether before the 1st of July, 1882, the day on which the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act came into operation, a judgment-creditor in the Small Cause Court had a right to sue in that Court upon his judgment; in other words, whether before the Act of 1882 came into operation, a judgment of the Small Cause Court was a good cause of action in that Court, and the High Court answered the question as follows:—that a judgment-creditor in the Court of Small Causes had not before the 1st July, 1882, the right to sue in that Court on his judgment. MERWANJI NOWROJI v. ASHABAI, 8 B. 1. [R., 27 M. 243, F.B.=14 M.L.J. 84.]

(15)—Decree for possession—Failure to execute decree—Fresh suit on same cause of action.—Where a party brings a suit for possession and obtains a decree which he neglects to execute, no subsequent suit on the same cause of action will lie. GOPI MOHUN DASS v. TINCOWRI GUPTA, 1 C.L.R. 254.

(16)—Res judicata—Decree in a prior suit barred by limitation—Subsequent suit on same cause of action.—The plaintiffs relying on their proprietary title got a decree for possession in a former suit. But they allowed the period of limitation to pass without issuing process of execution. They then brought the present suit based on their old title and again seeking substantially the relief which was sought and obtained in the first suit. Held that they had lost this remedy by their own neglect and could not be permitted to revert to the possession which they had held prior to the institution of that suit, and to ask for a remedy by suit. SHEIKH GOLAM HOSSEIN v. MUSSAMUT ALLA RUKHEE BEEBEE, 3 N.W.P. F.B. 62. [Not F., 11 A. 386; F., 4 A. 481=2 A.W.N. 114, 19 A. 202=17 A.W.N. 24; R., 21 A. 251=19 A.W.N. 50, 25 M. 300, F.B.; D., 8 M. 478, 13 A. 309=11 A.W.N. 117, 24 A. 44, F.B.=21 A.W.N. 194.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——14.—Decrees—continued.

(17)—Res judicata—Suit for declaration of right to share—Partition.—In a suit against the vendor to decree plaintiff's right to a share of the property alleged to have been sold, the plaintiff obtained a decree directing his share to be taken out of a certain puttee. Pending the suit, he became a party to a certain partition proceedings before the Collector, but omitted to include his claim or to withhold his consent till it was ascertained what he was entitled to. Held that he could not bring a second suit against the same parties to establish the same right. SHEIKH HOSSEIN BUKSH v. SHEIKH MUSUND HOSSEIN, 18 W. R. 260.

(18)—Decree for possession barred by limitation—Fresh suit—Res judicata.—A party failing to execute a decree for possession cannot bring a second suit against the same defendant in respect of the same property, unless the second suit is founded on a cause of action which has risen since that decree was passed, and which is not itself barred by limitation. MOHUNT NUR SINGH DOSS v. MOONSHE KUMROODDEEN, 20 W.R. 412.

(19)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 13—Suit for maintenance—Prayer for future maintenance, res judicata.—When a person entitled to maintenance not contented with asking for a declaratory decree has asked for a decree relating to future maintenance, he cannot thereafter bring a separate suit to recover arrears of maintenance even though the former decree omitted to specify any fixed date for the annual payment of such maintenance. VENKANNA v. AITAMMA, 12 M. 183. [F., 22 M. 175; R., 4 M.L.T. 330.]

(20)—Suit on decree capable of execution—Maintainability of—Execution barred by Limitation.—Where the object of the plaintiff in a suit was to enforce the title that had accrued to him under a previous decree and to obtain possession which also had been awarded to him by that decree, held by a majority of the Court that the suit would not lie as what a decree-holder could enforce by execution in the ordinary way after obtaining his decree he could not recover in a subsequent suit founded on that decree. When a decree is merely declaratory and does not require to be carried into effect by process of execution, the right thereby declared and ascertained exists independently of any process for enforcing it. But when the nature of the decree requires that it should be executed, a decree-holder cannot, after allowing the limitation period to elapse without issuing process of execution, seek by a fresh suit on the decree to obtain that which he should have sought by execution. Turner, C. J., held that the plaintiff by his failure to execute his decree did not thereby lose his right although he may be barred of his remedy under the decree, and, as a new cause of action accrued to the plaintiff by reason of the continued trespass of the defendant, it could not be said that the suit brought in respect of that cause of action was a suit for the determination of a question arising between the parties relating to the execution of the former decree within the meaning of s. 11 of Act XXIII of 1861. RAM JUS RAE v. RAMNARAIN, 2 N.W. P. 382.

Right of Suit—continued.

——14.—Decrees—continued.

(21)—Decree obtained by fraud—Judgment-debtor's remedy—Act VIII of 1859, s. 90—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 11.—The case of a judgment-debtor who alleges that a decree was obtained by fraud and false personation, does not fall under s. 90, Act VIII of 1859, which refers to attachments before judgment, nor under s. 11, Act XXIII of 1861, which relates to disputes as to the way in which decrees not contested ought to be executed. The debtor's remedy is by suit to set aside the decree as fraudulent and collusive, or he may apply to the lower Court to review and rehear the case on the ground of deep and designing fraud and to direct an inquiry, not into the real outward regularity of the proceedings, but into the substantial regularity of the suit. MUSTAUNT RAJBAUSEE KOOMEREE v. BHUGWATTEE KOOMAREE, 1 W.R. Mis. 29. [F., 14 W.R. 299; D., 22 B. 267.]

(22)—Execution of decree—Process of execution—Bar of limitation—Omission to execute.—Where a decree is merely declaratory and does not require to be carried into effect by process of execution, the right thereby declared and ascertained existed independently of any processes for enforcing it. But when the nature of the decree requires that it should be executed, a decree-holder cannot, after allowing the limitation period to elapse without issuing process of execution, seek by a fresh suit on the decree to obtain that which he should have sought for by execution. DOBEE SINGH v. JOWKEE RAM, 3 Agra 381=Agra F.B., Ed., 1874, 172. See also YAKOOB ALI v. UBDOOL-RAHMAN, 3 Agra 383=Agra F.B. Ed., 1874, 172. See also JUGURNAUTH v. BALGOBIND, 1 N.W.P. 115=Ed., 1873, 154. [F., 3 N.W.P. 62; R., 2 N.W.P. 382, 24 A. 44=21 A.W.N. 194, 25 M. 300, F.B.; D., 13 A. 309=11 A.W. N. 117.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——14.—Decrees—concluded.

(23)—Right of suit—Breach of duty by a third person—Equity with respect to property received as belonging to another.—Where the plaintiff (reversioner) was ordered by the lower Court to repay Rs. 400 the amount of the purchase-money received from the widow as a condition precedent to recovering possession from the defendant (purchaser) from the widow, the sale being invalid for want of necessity beyond the life-time of the widow. Held, there was no equity in favour of the defendant and as against plaintiff entitling that defendant to the amount of the purchase-money. An action will not lie at the suit of A for the breach by B of a duty which B owed to C, because in order to support an action there must be either a contract with the person sued or some other relation establishing a duty on his part towards the plaintiff. Where a party receives from another goods or their value in money as belonging to a third party with notice of that party's ownership, that third party can sue the receiver therefor. JANKI v. MAHADU, 9 Bom. L.R. 710.

(24)—Suit to set aside decree—Res judicata—Review.—Where a suit seeks the reversal of a former decree between the same parties on the allegation of the falseness of a fact which the former decree establishes as true, the suit cannot lie. The plaintiff's remedy is by way of review of judgment in the previous suit. MALAKSHAHBAZ v. MOWAZ, 31 P.R. 1868.

Suit on judgments—Courts in Native States—Foreign judgments—Judgment of British Indian Court—Suit in High Court on judgment of Court of Small Causes—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 434—See FOREIGN COURT, JUDGMENT OF, 6 B. 292.

——15.—Dignities.

(1)—Jurisdiction—Civil Court—Marks of honour—Religious festivals.—A suit for a declaration of a right to receive, at the hands of a Poorohit of the village idol, at certain festivals, malla and telok and other marks of recognition and honor, and to obtain damages from the priest for withholding these marks of respect, is not cognizable by a Civil Court. GOSSAIN DOSS GHOSE v. GOOROO DOSS CHUCKERBUTTY, 16 W.R. 198. [R., 23 B. 122.]

(2)—Right to mere dignity—Suit to vindicate right—Maintainability.—A suit to vindicate plaintiff's right, not to any office, but to a mere dignity unconnected with any fees, profits or emoluments, is not maintainable. (3 M.I.A. 198, F.) Accordingly a suit by a Lingayet for a declaration of his right to take a cupola to a Lingayet temple and to place it upon the car of the idol, and to take a nandicola (bamboo) with tom-toms from his house to the temple, and to offer the first cocoanut to the idol at the annual festival held in honour of a certain Lingayet saint, was held not to fall within the cognizance of a Civil Court. SANGAPA bin BASLINGAPA v. GANGAPA bin

Right of Suit—continued.

——15.—Dignities—continued.

NIRANAJPA, 2 B. 476. [F., 6 B. 116, 10 B. 233; Appl., 7 M. 91; R., 14 B. 25, 11 M.L.J. 215, 3 N.L.R. 131, 33 B. 278=11 Bom. L.R. 58.]

(3)—Suit for declaration of rights of mere dignity, not cognisable by Civil Courts.—Plaintiffs in this case sued for a declaration of their right to take their bullock first in the procession of the Pola day in alternate years. The lower Courts entertained the suit and decreed for the plaintiffs on the ground that the right claimed was not one relating to a mere dignity so as to be beyond the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, but related to an office and vatan, and the annual procession of the bullocks on Pola day was the most prominent non-official recognition of the plaintiffs' status as vatandars in the village. The High Court, however, held that the suit was not maintainable because it was one to establish a mere dignity unconnected with any fees or profits and that even the fact that such dignity was connected with an office could not make any difference. Civil Courts are not to be permitted to involve themselves in the determination of trivial questions of dignity and privilege, which would be much better left to the decision of the society in which they arise. RAMA v. SHIVRAM, 6 B. 116. [F., 3 N.L.R. 131; R., 10 B. 233, 14 B. 25, 33 B. 278=11 Bom. L. R. 58=1 Ind. Cas. 331; D., 11 M. 450.]

(4)—Chief priests of different sects—Dispute relating to adavipalki right, whether within jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Action if maintainable for damages and injunction.—The appellant, as the chief priest of the Smartha sect of Brahmins, claimed, under a grant from the supreme power of the State, the privilege of adavipalki, i.e., of being carried on solemn ceremonial occasions and processions in a palanquin borne crossways so that the poles traversed the line of march. The respondent who was the chief priest of Lingayats claimed the like privilege. And on his exercising the same at a religious festival at Hoobli in Bombay, plaintiff-appellant filed this plaint in the Zillah Court asserting his own right, complaining of the usurpation by the respondent, claiming damages, and praying for an order in the nature of an injunction that, in future, the respondent should not be carried crossways in a palanquin. On appeal, it was pressed for the respondent that the Judicial Committee should take upon itself to decide that the action was not maintainable, and, on that ground, should affirm the judgment of the lower Courts, whatever miscarriages there might have been in the conduct of the suit; but such ground of objection not having been taken before and considered by the Judges below, the Committee refused to give effect to it. The Committee, however, observed that the right in question, namely, that of adavipalki, was one of a substantial nature and could not be treated with levity, being marks of distinction conferred by the sovereign authority and highly valued in the East, but held that, for the above reasons, they could not advise that the judgment should be affirmed. The evidence actually adduced in the Zillah Court was insufficient to establish the right of the appellant or to negative that of the respondent. The case was therefore remitted to the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut for a new trial. Their Lordships directed that the Judges of the Court will, in the first instance, consider whether the action was maintainable at all, and that, if their opinion should be in the affirmative, the Judges should use the necessary means for having witnesses of high rank, who would object to taking an oath, examined without oath according to the regulation in force upon that subject and having the interrogatories so framed as to elicit the truth from them without offending their dignity. SRI SUNKUR BHARTI SWAMI v. SIDHA LINGAYAH CHARANTI, 6 W.R. P.C., 39=3 M.I.A. 198=1 Suther. 142=1 Sar. 266. [F., 2 B. 470, 6 B. 116; Appl., 7 M. 91; R., 2 B. 476, 33 B. 278=11 Bom. L.R. 58.]

Right of Suit —continued.

——15.—Dignities—concluded.

(5)—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Questions as to dignity and privilege—Suit for right to mans, if maintainable, and for injunction.—The Civil Courts ought not to be involved in the determination of trivial questions of dignity and privilege, although connected with an office. In the present suit, the plaintiffs and the defendants as members of the family of Ganvkars claimed to be entitled to certain mans, consisting of the right to be the first to worship the deity on certain occasions and to receive gifts of rice, cocoanut and vida and venison made by the priest on certain religious ceremonies and other occasions. The plaintiff being obstructed by the defendants in the enjoyment of the mans, sued for a perpetual injunction against the defendants. Held that the suit was not maintainable, as the mans were mere dignities to which no profits or emoluments were attached. The trifling gifts made by the priest, of rice, a cocoanut and vida on the occasion of worshipping the deity and of a piece of venison on other occasions, could not be regarded as emoluments, being merely symbols of recognition of and marks of respect to the holders of the mans. NARAYAN VITHE PARAB v. KRISHNAJI SADASHIV, 10 B. 233. [R., 14 B. 25, 21 C. 463, 11 M.L.J. 215, 3 N.L.R. 131, 7 A.L.J. 529; D., 11 M. 450, 13 B. 548, 13 B. 429, 17 C. 906.]

(6)—Suits for precedence at religious festival—Cause of action.—A suit will not lie for a mere honour or dignity not conferred by the King. KARAPPA v. KOLANDHAYAN, 7 M. 91. [R., 23 B. 122, 11 M.L.J. 215; D., 11 M. 450.]

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, S. 92.

(1)—Idols, Suits concerning—Mahant—Mortgage—Suit to redeem by the Mahant's successor.

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

—G was a Mahant of an order of Bairagis and in that capacity was trustee and manager of certain temples at Ajodhia. He dedicated a large portion of his property to the temples: and by a tamliknama provided: "During my life-time I shall myself manage and deal with all these villages as a trustee and manager—after my death one Bishambhar Das, my disciple, shall be trustee and manager." G during his life-time lent to the defendant Rs. 19,000 (from the charity funds) on two mortgage bonds. G died in 1892. The plaintiff, Bishambhar Das, who succeeded D to the Mahantship, sued the defendant to recover the amount due under two mortgages executed by him. The defendant denied plaintiff's title to sue upon the mortgages: Held, that as the plaintiff was appointed by G to succeed, and did in fact succeed, him as trustee and manager of the temple property under the tamliknama, he was, as such trustee and manager, entitled to maintain the suits and to recover the moneys due by the defendant to the trust estate under the mortgages. MAHANT BISHAMBHAR v. THAKUR DRIGBIJAI, 7 Bom. L.R. 869=9 C.W.N. 914=2 C.L.J. 182=8 O.C. 297, P.C.=27 A. 581=15 M.L.J. 323=32 I.A. 172=8 Sar. 849.

(2)—Idols—Right to deal with—Civil Court.—Hindu idols are property, in the eye of law, and the right to deal with such property must, in the event of disputes arising, be determined by a Civil Court. SUBBARAYA v. CHELLAPPA, 4 M. 315. [R., 11 M.L.J. 215, 30 M. 158=17 M.L.J. 1=2 M.L.T. 69.]

(3)—Holder of inam for offering food to idol—Suit for damages for omission to make offering—Whether could be maintained by temple servant.—Plaintiff, a temple servant, claimed damages from the defendant on account of his omission to offer food to the idol, which he was bound to do as the holder of an inam for the purpose, and the consequent loss by the plaintiff of the perquisites which he would otherwise have received. He was held to be not entitled to maintain such a suit. The defendants' obligation, if any, was towards the idol. He was under no direct legal obligation to the plaintiff or to any similar other temple servant; and though the result of the defendant's omission to supply food to the idol might involve loss to the plaintiff, it would be damnum absque in juria not giving plaintiff any cause of action. DHADPHALE v. GURAV, 6 B. 122. [R., 12 B. 247, 27 M. 435=14 M.L.J. 105.]

(4)—Joint right to profits from idol—Enjoyment in rotation—Prayer by one party to remove idol to her place, when can be granted.—In this case the lower appellate Court had decreed the plaintiff's right to take an idol, in which she had an interest jointly with others, to her own house, for the period for which she was entitled to the profits from that idol. The defendant urged that the idol had always remained in the temple, which was his (defendant's) property. It appeared that the defendant was taking advantage of his being the sole proprietor of the temple to obstruct the use and worship of it by the plaintiff, and the plaintiff, therefore, claimed a separation of the rights which she had, up to the time, enjoyed jointly with defendant, and the right of removal of the idol to her own house on rotation. The Judge had therefore rightly ordered the separation and removal sought by the plaintiff, the more so, as the defendant had been the cause of the plaintiff's requiring the same. DWARKANATH ROY v. JANNOBEE CHOWDHRAIN, 4 W.R. 79.

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(5)—Public charitable or religious institution, trust not necessary under Hindu Law for purpose of creating—Offerings at idol's shrine, recipients of, responsible as trustees—Property belonging to idol, liability of persons in charge —Trust for Hindu idol and temple—Trust "for public charitable purposes"—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 539.—Plaintiffs came forward in the character of relators as persons interested in the religious foundation of the temple at Dakor, praying that the Court will make the defendants, as recipients of the offerings at the idol's shrine, accountable, as trustees, for the right disposal of the property so acquired. Plaintiffs alleged that the income of the temple was being wrongly and unduly appropriated by the defendants (styled shevaks or ministers) to their personal purposes, and sought for the appointment of a receiver for the exaction from the defendants of accounts of management, for the delivery up by them of all property appertaining to the temple and for the construction of a scheme of future management. The suit was rejected by the lower Court on the ground that the plaintiffs had no direct interest in the charity so as to entitle them to sue under s. 539 of the Civ. Pro. Code. This decision was reversed by the High Court which held that the plaintiffs who were priests taking part in the worship at the temple were persons directly interested in its due performance and its maintenance. They were clearly among those who would be benefited by the execution of the trust, if there was one. They had thus an undeniable locus standi as relators enabling them to maintain the suit. Questions also arose whether the defendants, the shevaks, took the property and the revenue from the offerings to the idol, as their own, without any trust or annexed duty, or, whether, if they enjoyed by a kind of agency or representation of the idol conceived as a personality, they had to fulfil any obligation owed by them to such ideal person, the deity. Held that, though the defendants might not have consciously accepted any trust, they were yet liable as trustees, and remedy could be sought against them for mal-administration by a suit open to any one interested. The Hindu Law recognizes not only corporate bodies with rights of corporation vested in them apart from their individual members, but also judicial persons or subjects called foundations. According to the Hindu Law, a Hindu desiring to establish a religious or charitable institution may do so by merely expressing his purpose and endowing the institution leaving it to the Ruler to give effect to the bounty, and a trust is not required for this purpose as it is by the English law. Apart from the creation or acceptance of any trust, therefore, those who take charge of gifts made to a religious or charitable institution, incur a legal responsibility for their due application to the purposes of the institution. The High Court, in the result, decreed for the plaintiffs directing (1) that the District Judge should take steps either by appointing a receiver or otherwise for guarding the property of the temple without disturbance of its services, (2) that he should take an account of the property and of the receipts and disbursements, (3) that he should make the requisite orders for recovering property misappropriated and sums due to the foundations as well from others as from the shevaks or any of them and (4) that he should draw up a scheme for the future management of the temple and its funds, giving due consideration to the established practice of the institution and to the position of the shevaks and of other persons connected with it. The question of the jurisdiction of the Civil Court in matters of the nature involved in this suit had to be discussed, and it was held that the religion of the Hindu population being jurally allowed, the duties and services connected with it must be deemed objects of public concern, and, at least as to their physical and secular elements, enforceable like other obligations. MANOHAR GANESH TAMBEKAR v. LAKSHMIRAM GOVINDRAM, 12 B. 247. [F., 33 B. 387=11 B.L.R. 389; Appr., 15 B. 309, 15 B. 625, 23 C. 645, 24 C. 418, 25 C. 112; R., 11 A. 18=8 A.W.N 276, 23 B. 659, 28 B. 215, 27 M 435=14 M.L.J. 105, 2 C.L.J. 460; R., 8 Bom. L. R. 756, 37 C. 128=10 C.L.J. 355=14 C.W.N. 18; D., 33 M. 75=19 M.L.J. 651=6 M.L.T. 199.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(6)—Suit by worshippers to set aside mortgage of property of shrine—Person interested—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 30.—A suit will lie by worshippers at a shrine (Bbabras of Jagraon) to have a mortgage by the manager of the property belonging to it set aside, as the former have an interest in seeing that such property which ought to be used for its due up-keep is not diverted to private objects; and a public advertisement under s. 30 of the Civ. Pro. Code, should be put out to notify the other interested parties so as to prevent defendant from being harassed by a succession of suits by different worshippers in case of failure of the plaintiffs' suit. RAM PARTAB v. KALU MAL, 27 P.R. 1885. (75 P.R. 1884, Appl.; 6 A. 284, D.) [F., 94 P.R. 1885; R., 9 P.R. 1904.]

(7)—S. 539, Civ. Pro. Code (1882), scope of —Interest required to enable person suing under s. 539 must be existing and must not be a mere contingency—Possibility of interest or possibility of succession only—Act XX of 1863 —There is no reason to suppose that the Indian Legislature under s. 539, Civ Pro. Code, intended to provide for a non contentious case, leaving contentious cases wholly unprovided for. If s. 539 were restricted to non-contentious cases, a large number of trusts of a public, charitable and religious nature, not covered by Act XX of 1863, would be left wholly unprovided for. So, s. 539 applies not only to non-contentious cases but also to contentious cases. (12 C. 546, Appr.) The mere possibility of an interest or the mere possibility of succession to the Managership of certain trust properties, with regard to which the suit is instituted, does not and cannot give a right to sue for those properties under s. 539. The interest for enabling a person to bring a suit under that section must be an existing one, and not a mere contingency. MOHIUDDIN v. SAIYIDUDDIN, 20 C. 810. [F., 20 A. 46=17 A.W.N. 210, 24 C. 418, 2 C L.J. 431: R., 17 M. 462, F.B., 21 B. 48, 2 C.L.J. 460, 6 A.L.J. 632.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(8)—Act XX of 1863 (Religious Endowments), s. 14, 'misfeasance and breach of trust' meaning of in—Duty of trustee to utilize voluntary contributions—Suit for breach and neglect of duty, maintainable by persons interested.—In the case of religious institutions such as temples, even in the absence of any special endowments as such, it is part of the proper functions of the trustees thereof to receive and utilize voluntary contributions made towards processional or other religious worship and like purposes in the institution. It is the trustee's duty to accept such contributions, and apply them for the specified purpose, unless there are proper grounds for rejecting such offers. If, therefore, the trustee from corrupt or improper motives refuses to allow voluntary contributions offered for purposes not inconsistent with the principles, rules, or usages of the institution to be applied for those purposes, persons interested in the institution will have the right to proceed against the trustee. The words "any misfeasance or breach of trust, etc." in s. 14 of the Religious Endowments Act ought not to be construed otherwise than in its ordinary sense, and they unquestionably cover any misfeasance, breach of trust, or neglect of duty with reference to the trust. Also, though Courts cannot be called upon to decide questions of ritual and worship unconnected with civil rights, it is perfectly competent to them to adjudicate upon such questions also when the adjudication is necessary for the determination of civil rights. ELAYALWAR REDDIAR v. NAMBERUMAL CHETTIAR, 23 M 298=10 M.L.J. 86. [R., 15 M.L.J. 458, 30 M. 158=17 M.L.J. 1=2 M.L.T. 69, 2 M.L.T. 94.]

(9)—Civil Procedure Code, s. 539—Suit to remove a trustee.—A suit to remove a trustee to a charitable trust does not lie under s. 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Per Shephard, J.—

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

The language of s. 539, Civ. Pro. Code, is in part borrowed from the Statute of George III known as Sir Samuel Romilly's Act and the decisions upon it are in a measure reproduced in the section of the Code. S. 539 must be construed in the light of the decisions on that statute, so far as they are applicable to the language of the section, and the statute having been from the first held to be inapplicable to cases in which the hostile removal of a trustee is required, s. 539 is likewise inapplicable to such cases. RANGASAMI NAICKEN v. VARADAPA NAICKEN, 17 M. 462, F.B. (12 M. 157, F.) [Diss. 24 C 418, 20 A. 46, 21 A. 200, 5 O. C. 110, 2 C. L. J. 431, 2 C.L.J. 460; R., 21 M. 406, 23 M. 28=7 M.L.J. 281, 9 M.L.J. 93, 33 C. 789=10 C.W.N. 581.]

(10)—Act XX of 1863—S. 14—Removal of trustee.—The terms of s. 14 of Act XX of 1863 (Religious Endowments Act) are so general as to empower any person, interested in a temple etc., to sue the trustee, manager or superintendent or the members of a committee appointed under the Act for misfeasance. [Diss., 19 C. 275.] Darga is a religious institution within the meaning of the Act. S. 14 of the Act empowers the Civil Court to remove trustees for misfeasance, breach of trust or neglect of duty, though they be hereditary trustees. FAKURUDIN SAHIB v. ACKENI SAHIB. 2 M. 197. [F., 34 C. 587; R., 17 M. 95, 26 M. 166.]

(11)—Jurisdiction—Civil Courts—Wrongful alienation of temple property—Suit by worshippers to set aside.—The plaintiffs who sued, as residents in the Mohulla in which the temple in dispute was situate, and, as supporters of the worship, to set aside a sale executed by the defendants of a certain house forming a portion of the premises of the temple were entitled to a decree. Held that the allegations in the plaint showed that the plaintiffs sued as persons interested in the maintenance of the temple and its worship, and that, being so beneficially interested, there was no reason for holding that a suit not relating to property which could have come under the control of Government under Reg. XIX of 1810 and Act XX of 1863, must be brought under the provisions of the latter Act; or that, apart from that Act, the plaintiffs could have no right to sue to set aside the improper alienation of the temple property. SUKH RAM v. SUNDARMAL, 75 P.R. 1884. (81 P.R. 1869, Cited) [R., 27 P.R. 1885, 95 P.R. 1900=6 P.L.R. 1901.]

(12)—Religious Endowments Act (XX of 1863), s. 12—Suit by the dharmakartha of a temple to recover possession of a temple property.—S. 12 of Act XX of 1863 relates only to the rents of property transferred by the Board of Revenue or local Agents of Government to the Committee of a religious endowment. The right to bring suits for the recovery of the property of a religious or charitable institution is vested, as an ordinary incident of his office, in the Trustee or Manager of such institution, unless he is precluded, by any special law, from exercising it. There is nothing in the Act to take a way such right from the Trustee appointed by the Committee. SANKRA MURTHI MUDALIAR v. CHIDAMBARA NADAN, 17 M. 143.

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(13)—Suit to recover property as sebayet—Statements made by ancestors of parties, evidentiary value of.—Plaintiffs sued to recover property claiming as sebayets lately in possession and wrongfully ousted therefrom by the defendant. Certain statements made by the ancestors of the plaintiffs and by the ancestors of certain of the defendants on a previous occasion were taken into consideretion by the Lower Appellate Court, which thereon came to a conclusion adverse to the plaintiffs. Plaintiffs on special appeal contended that they had a right in law to recover possession assuming only that they had previously been in possession in the capacity of sebayets. Held that possession and user in the apparent capacity of sebayet might, if unrebutted by any other evidence at all, be sufficient as evidence of title to make out a prima facie case in favour of the plaintiffs. In the present case, however, the Lower Appellate Court had considered the statements of the ancestors as affording evidence over-balancing the prima facie case, and if those statements were made by the plaintiff's and the defendant's ancestors, they were indubitably receivable as evidence in the suit. NUND PANDAH v. GYADHUR, 10 W.R. 89.

(14)—Alienation of devasom property by trustee—Suit to set aside alienation by successor.—Where property is dedicated to religious purposes, it is, as a general rule, inalienable, and although, for some purposes, the manager or trustee, for the time being, represents the estate, his successor in office may recover, for the trust, property improperly alienated by him. He may insist on the restoration of the property to its intended uses. VEDAPURATTI v. VALLABHA, 13 M. 402. (12 M. 387, Dist.) [R., 6 M.L.J. 270.]

(15)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 539—Suit to enforce performance of duties conencted with shrine—Suit maintainable only in District Court—Necessity of Advocate-General's consent in writing.—This suit in which the plaintiff sought for an injunction to enforce the defendants to perform their duties connected with the worship at a shrine and the revenues arising from offerings made by worshippers as it was held to be a case contemplated by s. 539 of the Civ. Pro. Code, the trust for a Hindu idol and temple having to be regarded as one "created for a public charitable purpose." The Court of the Subordinate Judge in which the suit was instituted had no jurisdiction in the case. The suit was not one that could be instituted in a Court inferior to the District Court, nor was it competent to the plaintiff to bring the suit by himself or without the consent, in writing, of the Advocate-General. MANOHAR v. KESHAVARAM, 12 B. 267, Note = P.J. 1878, 252. [R., 6 B. 42, 2 C.L.J. 460, 37 C. 128 = 14 C.W.N. 18, 10 C.L.J. 355.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(16)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 539—Suit for declaration of land as endowed property and for removal of trespasser, not a suit falling within s. 539.—Where the plaintiffs asked for declaration that the land in question was endowed property, for the appointment of a mutawalli of the property with a scheme framed for its management, and for ejectment of the defendant from the land, such suit was held not to come within the purview of s. 539 of the Civ. Pro. Code. That section contemplates the existence of an express or constructive trust created for public, charitable, or religious purpose, whereas in this case it was merely alleged that certain land was endowed property from which it was sought to eject the defendant, and there was no allegation of any express or constructive trust in favour of any one. The section cannot cover the case of endowed property from which it is sought merely to remove a trespasser. MUHAMMAD ABDULLAH KHAN v. KALLU, 21 A. 187 = A.W.N. 1899, 18 (8 B. 365, 16 M. 31, R.) [F., 33 C. 789 = 10 C.W.N. 581; R., 2 C.L.J. 431.]

(17)—Enforcement of religious or charitable trusts--Testator's representatives with no personal interest therein—Security for costs in such a suit—Decree for account in such suit—Distinct breach of trust.—A testator's representatives, who are not personally interested in the religious or charitable trusts created by him, may institute proceedings for the rectification of abuses in the trusts, as there is no officer in India corresponding to the Attorney-General in England, by whose information at the relation of some private individual they are enforced there. Such a suit by the testator's representatives cannot be admitted except on sufficient security for costs being given. To entitle the plaintiffs in such a suit to a decree for an account, there must be a substantive allegation of what must be a distinct breach of trust and it is not sufficient to make out a case of mere suspicion or to rely upon particular passages in the defendant's written statement. BROJO MOHUN DOSS v. HUROO LALL DOSS, 5 C. 700.

(18)—Property dedicated to religious purposes—Restraint of use for other purposes—Right of suit.—Where the defendant used for the purpose of landing goods certain buildings, which were erected by the plaintiff's father for the removal of the bodies of Hindus just before death and for the performance of certain religious ceremonies, held, the plaintiff was entitled to sue to restrain the defendant from so using them, certainly if the grantor's intention was to create a right of easement in favour of the Hindu community, and probably even if there was an intention to transfer the ownership

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

therein to the community, in the apparent absence of any sevait or trustee. JAGGAMONI DASI v. NILMONI GHOSAL, 9 C. 75=11 C.L.R. 502. [R., 33 C. 1290=4 C.L.J. 343=10 C.W.N. 1044; D., 27 C. 793.]

(19)—Removal of worshipped property from temple—Suit for injunction against manager.—Where a sacred book was kept in a temple and worshipped by the votaries with great veneration, a suit would lie at the instance of worshippers for an injunction against its removal to any other place as against the Superintendent of the temple. DHURRUM SINGH v. KISSEN SINGH, 7 C. 767=9 C.L.R. 410. [R., 12 B. 247, 17 M.L.J. 1=2 M.L.T. 69=30 M. 158.]

(20)—Endowment—Sale—Purchaser.—The plaintiff was one of the two widows of the eldest of the three sons of the deceased ancestor who created charges on his estate for the worship of idols and for certain other religious ceremonies. After the death of his ancestor, the share of the husband of the plaintiff was sold for his debts without notice of these incumbrances. The plaintiff brought a suit for the management of the endowments. Subsequent to this but prior to the sale of the share of the youngest brother, without disclosure of these charges, a trustee for one of the endowments obtained a decree that one-third of the expenses allowed for the service of the idols was a charge on the share to be sold. Held that if the plaintiff was entitled to act as the shebait as the widow of the eldest son, she could not usurp the claim of her co-wife, but could only ask to be shebait to the extent of one-sixth of the estate of her father-in-law. Held also that the purchaser of the rights and interests of her husband was not bound by a decree to which he was no party. KHEMUNKERY DOSSEE v. JUGGUT CHUNDER SHOME, 1 W.R. 357.

(21)—S. 11—Suits cognizable by Civil Court—Suit to enforce right of worship in a temple—Right to make offerings at a particular place—Right to require idol to be stopped in front of plaintiff's house—Plaint—Amendment.—The right to worship in a temple is enforceable in a Civil Court, but that right can be exercised only during hours of public worship. Where the plaintiff in his suit merely alleges an immemorial custom to make offerings to an idol at a particular place, but does not prove that he has acquired any right thereunder, no relief can be given to him in respect of such a claim. The plaintiff, in such a case, may be permitted to amend the plaint by inserting the necessary averments. The right to enforce the stopping of an idol in front of a person's house is not part of the right of worship by a member of the community for whose benefit the temple has been dedicated, and such a right is not cognizable by the Civil Courts. SRI KRISHNASWAMI IYENGAR v. RANGASWAMI IYENGAR, 5 Ind. Cas. 76=19 M.L.J. 743=7 M.L.T. 248. (11 M.L.J. 215, 6 M. 151, R.; 15 M.L.J. 458, Expl.)

Right of Suit—continued.

——16.—Endowments, Suits relating to—ctd.

(22)—Will by Khaleefa of endowment—Appointment of successor—Interference by committee—Legality of—Act XX of 1863.—The Khaleefa of an endowment made a will appointing a successor according to old legal usage. The document was declared to be null and void by the members of the committee appointed under Act XX of 1863 to whom a copy of this document was sent for their information. The Khaleefa brought a suit to prevent the committee from illegal interference and to reverse their order respecting the will. Held that, as they had in no way obstructed or hindered him, the mere opinion of the committee could not affect the validity of his act nor could it form the basis of a suit, and their so-called order being an expression of opinion in answer to his communication, was not of a kind to be reversed by suit. HAKEEM HISAN-OOD-DEEN KHAN v. KHALEEFA UNWAR-OOL-LAH, 2 N.W.P. 400.

(23)—Habitual worshipper—Trespasser—Right to sue.—Every Mahomedan who has a right to use a mosque is competent to maintain a suit against any one interfering with the exercise of his right or committing an injury upon property devoted to the support of the mosque. MUHAMMAD UMAR v. RAM CHAND, 87 P.R. 1892.

See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 2, 14 M. 1.

See ACT XX OF 1863, s. 14, 9 C. 133=11 L.R. 333.

Suit between private individuals claiming to be Muttuwallis—Wakf property—Necessity for sanction of Advocate-General—Maintainability of suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 92 and 93, 9 C.W.N. 151=32 C. 273.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. I, r. 8 (1), 21 M. 10.

Endowed property—Cause of action during Shebaits minority—Limitation—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 6, 8. 32 C. 129. P.C.=31 I. A. 203=8 C.W.N. 809=7 Bom.L.R. 765=1 A. L.J. 585.

See RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENT, 22 M. 117.

——17.—Enhancement of Rent.

See ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.

See RIGHT OF SUIT—LANDLORD AND TENANT, SUITS CONCERNING.

——18.—Execution of Decree.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

(1)—Attachment of property—Dismissal of claim for default—Suit to establish right—Suit for damages for wrongful attachment—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 278, 283.—Where an objection under s. 278 of the Civ. Pro. Code, to the attachment of property in execution of a decree, on the ground that such property belongs to the objector and not to the judgment-debtor, is struck off for want of prosecution, such order is not conclusive as regards the right of the objector to the property claimed by him, within the meaning of s. 283 of the Civ. Pro. Code. Orders having such conclusive effect are only those passed under s. 283 after an investigation of the claim preferred. Therefore, a person whose claim has been dismissed for default can sue the decree holder for damages for wrongful attachment of his property, without suing to establish the right which he claimed to such property. KALLU MAL v. BROWN, 3 A. 504. [F., 1 C.W.N. 24, 13 C.P.L R. 69, 87 P.R. 1904; Appr., L.B.R. 1893-1900, 234; Appl., 6 C.L.J. 362; Discussed, 19 A. 253, F.B.; R., 62 P.R. 1894.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(2)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 244, 278—Attachment of trust-property under personal decree against trustee—Order on claim presented by trustee—Appeal.—When a person against whom there is a personal decree claims property which has been attached under such decree, on the ground that he holds it as trustee for persons not parties to the suit, such claim falls under s. 278 and not under s. 244 of the Civ. Pro. Code, and no appeal lies against any order passed on such claim by the Court executing the decree. The suit not having been brought nor the decree passed, against such person in his persona, as trustee, he is, as such trustee (in which capacity he makes the claim to the attached property) not a party to the suit. If the decree had been passed against the judgment-debtor, as trustee, or he had been sued as such, the case would be different. RAMANATHAN CHETTIAR v. LEVVAI MARAKAYAR, 23 M. 195, F.B.=10 M.L.J. 64. [F., 10 M.L.J. 85; R., 31 M.125=18 M.L.J. 21=3 M.L.T. 325; D., 30 M. 215=17 M.L.J. 377=2 M.L.T. 31, 8 C.L.J. 20.]

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 280 to 283—Suit by judgment debtor to establish title to property the subject-matter of claim in execution proceedings—Limitation.—A judgment debtor is not necessarily a party to an investigation under s. 278, Civ. Pro. Code, so as to preclude his instituting a suit, after the lapse of one year from the date of the order referred to in s. 283 of the Code, to establish his title to the property, which has been the subject-matter of a claim in execution proceedings. KHEDAR NATH CHATTERJEE v. RAKHAL DAS CHATTERJEE, 15 C. 674. [F., 3 C.L.J. 381; R., 13 M. 366, 17 B. 629, U.B.R. 1892—1896, Vol. II, 458, 22 B. 875, 25 M. 721=12 M.L.J. 411.]

(4)—Sale of mortgaged property in execution of money decree—Purchaser of mortgagor's equity of redemption, order rejecting claim preferred by—Suit by purchaser to establish title—Limitation.—Where an unsuccessful claimant under s. 246 of the Civ. Pro. Code of 1859, or the corresponding sections of the Code of 1882, fails to assert his title to the property within one year from the date of the order against him in the summary proceedings, he is precluded from asserting it against the auction-purchaser, whether as plaintiff or as defendant. In the present suit, the plaintiff was held to rightly claim that the defendants, the purchasers of the equity of redemption from the mortgagor, could not rest their right to possession on their purchase, their title as such purchasers not having been established by a suit within one year from the date of the order disallowing their objection to the attachment of the property. Though such order was conclusive as against the defendant's claim to the equity of redemption, it was held that it would be contrary to equity, justice and good conscience were the Court to assist the plaintiff in obtaining possession without paying to the defendants what they might have paid to the mortgagee of the property for freeing the same from incumbrance and recovering possession. NILO PANDURANG v. RAMA PATLOJI, 9 B. 35. [Appr., 14 B 372; R., 14 B. 222, 7 C.P. L.R. 3, 22 B. 640; D., 20 B. 270, 1 C.W.N. 701.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(5)—Hindu law—Decree against father—Execution against family property—Sons' intervention and release of their shares—Suit to contest release.—Where the property belonging to an undivided Hindu family was attached in execution of a decree against the father upon a hypothecation bond, but the shares of the sons were released on their intervention, a fresh suit is maintainable by the decree-holder against the sons to have it declared that their shares are also liable in execution of the decree against their father. RAMAKRISHNA v. NAMASIVAYA, 7 M. 295, F.B. [R., 16 M. 99, 7 M. 328; D., 8 M. 376, 10 M. 117, 10 M. 316, 11 M. 408.]

(6)—Act X of 1859, s. 78—Imperfect decree—Execution—When a wrongful act—Commission of wrongful act under decree of Court—Maintainability of action.—The execution of an imperfect decree involves what is unlawful, or the doing of a wrong, only when the decree is incorrectly interpreted. An action could be maintained in a Civil Court where a wrongful act is committed under color of the decree of another Court. DALMIAH v. RADHA PERSHAD SINGH, 19 W.R. 188.

(7)—Execution—Cause of action—Res judicata—Part satisfaction.—A co-sharer (A) of an estate paid the arrears of revenue due by the other co-sharer (B) to save the estate from sale and obtained a decree for the amount against him. The decree was transferred to C and the whole estate came subsequently into the possession of D. C got an order for execution against B's property and transferred the decree to the Calcutta High Court and proceeded against the properties in the possession of his (B) widow and son. An arrangement was entered into between C and D that other properties of B than his interest in the estate were to be proceeded against, in consideration of which E was granted a patni lease of a portion of the estate. In a suit by the widow and the son of B against C, D and E for the ascertainment of B's share in the estate and for a decree against D personally and against B's instalment in the estate, held, (1) the matter was res judicata as between the plaintiffs and C; (ii) The question of treating the patni to E as a part-payment could only be decided in execution-proceedings; (iii) The existence of the agreement between C, D and E did not entitle the plaintiffs to join them as co-defendants; and (iv) So far as D was concerned, the suit could be regarded only as trying to establish a lien on the estate, which, being out of Calcutta, the Court had no jurisdiction to try it. KRISTO MOHINEE DOSSEE v. KALIPROSONO GHOSE, 8 C. 402. [Appr., 14 C. 809, F.B.; Cons., 11 B. 313; R., 13 A. 195 =10 A.W.N. 228, 26 B. 437, 26 M. 686, F.B.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(8)—Execution of decree—Agreement to give time—Suit on agreement, whether maintainable.—A suit is not maintainable on an agreement between a judgment-debtor and the decree-holder presented to the Court executing the decree, whereby the latter gives time to the former for the payment of the amount of the decree, and it is agreed that in default of payment of interest as therein stipulated, the whole amount should be realised by execution of the decree. The decree-holder's only remedy, on default occurring, is by execution of the decree. CHAMPAT RAI v PITAMBAR DAS, 6 A. 16 = A.W.N. 1883, 174. [F., 6 A. 228; R., 12 A. 571; D., 61 P L R. 1907=71 P.W.R. 1907= 29 P.R. 1908, F.B.]

(9)—Decree—Uncertified payment of money out of Court—Suit, whether maintainable for recovering money so paid.—A suit for the recovery of money paid to a judgment-creditor out of Court, and not certified, would be barred by s. 244 (c) Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, and also by the of the last para of s. 258 as amended by Act XII of 1879. PATANKAR v. DEVJI, 6 B. 146. [Overruled, 11 B. 6, F.B; Diss., 7 A. 124=4 A. W.N. 277, 17 C.P.L R. 61; F., 10 B. 155; R., 9 C. 788=12 C.L.R. 390, 10 C. 354, 10 B. 288, 11 B. 724, 32 B. 463; D, 15 C. 187.]

(10)—Execution of decree—Disallowance of assignee's application for execution—Suit for decretal amount—Declaratory decree, Suit for.—Where an application for execution of a decree by its transferee was rejected owing to the opposition of the judgment-debtor, and he was referred to a regular suit, and he instituted a suit for the amount of the decree, held, that the amount of the decree could only be recovered by execution, and not by separate suit; but that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree, declaring that the assignment of the decree to him was valid, that he had a right to execute it, and that the rejection of his application under s. 232 was improper. A suit for such relief must be maintainable, for there is no other remedy, as orders under s. 232 are not appealable. Per Mahmood, J.—Such a suit would be maintainable, because, the plaintiff never having been accepted on the record, as holder of the decree, the questions which were disposed of by the Court executing the decree, as between the assignee (plaintiff) and the judgment-debtor, cannot be regarded as questions within s. 244 of the Civ. Pro. Code. RAM BAKHSH v. PANNA LAL, 7 A. 457 = A.W.N. 1885, 72 [F., 20 A. 539; Cons., 16 A. 483; R., 3 O.C. 32, 15 C P.L.R. 69.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(11)—Execution of decree—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 244—Excess money collected in execution—Separate suit.—Excess money unduly collected, as due under a decree, is recoverable by application to the Court executing the decree and not by separate suit. PARTAP SINGH v. BENI RAM, 2 A. 61, F.B., (1 A. 388, Diss., 1 B. L.R. A.C. 138, 4 B.L.R. A.C., 111, D.)

(12)—Execution of decree—Fresh contract—Fresh suit.—Where, by a petition put in Court, the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor come to an agreement by which the execution of the decree is to be postponed in consequence of arrangements made by the judgment-debtor for the payment of the decree, the decree alone can be executed on failure of payment, and a suit on the agreement would not lie. MAKUND RAM v. MAKUND RAM, 6 A. 228. (3 A. 781, 4 A. 40. A.W.N. 1883, 93, 6 A. 16, F.) [R., 12 A. 571.]

(13)—Reversal of decree on appeal—Money taken under decree previous to reversal—Suit to recover whether maintainable—Question arising in execution—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 11.—On the reversal of a decree on appeal, the present defendant became bound to restore the money received by him in execution of the decree and the present suit was for recovery of that money. Held that the suit was not maintainable. The terms of s. 11 distinctly show that such a matter is not to be the subject of a new suit, but must be enquired into by the Court passing the decree, as a question arising relating to the execution of such decree. NURSING CHURN SEIN v. BIDYADHUREE DOSSEE, 2 W.R. 275. [F., 4 B.L.R. App. 64; R., 10 W.R. 130, 3 C. 720=2 C.L.R. 75.]

(14)—Decree for enhancement—Decree for arrears of rent—Sale in execution of decree—Suit to set aside sale—Act X of 1859, s. 58.—Suit to set aside a sale of an estate in execution on the allegation that plaintiff had no notice of a previous suit for arrears of rent by the defendant in which he had obtained a decree at an enhanced rate. The lower Courts were held to have rightly dismissed the suit. Plaintiff had his remedy under s. 58 of Act X of 1859 to apply to set aside the judgment within fifteen days after the process for enforcing the judgment was executed. Although the defendant was not in the position of a purchaser without notice of the proceedings in the suit, he had a perfectly valid title to the property he had bought. DOORGA PERSHAD PAL CHOWDHRY v. JOGESH PROKASH GUNGOPADHYA, 4 W.R. Act X, Rul. 38.

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(15)—Instalment bond, empowering execution of bond as decree—Regular suit still maintainable.—In this suit on an instalment bond to pay arrears of rent, it was contended that the terms of the bond gave a right to execute it as a decree, and, therefore, plaintiff had no power to bring a suit to recover its amount, but should have taken out execution under the terms of the bond which was equivalent to a decree. But it was held that, though it was open to the plaintiff to have done so and saved himself the trouble of a suit, yet the term in the bond was not sufficient to deprive the plaintiff of a separate right of action, should he elect to exercise it. RAMKOMUL CHOWDHRY v. MODHOO SOODUN PAUL CHOWDHRY, 4 W.R. 81.

(16)—Money realised in execution of decree—Decree set aside—Recovery of money—Suit—Execution.—Money realised in execution of a decree may be recovered by suit, if the decree is set aside as regards the party seeking to recover. Where the party seeking to recover money realized under a decree which is set aside is not a party to the original decree, he is not restricted to the Court executing the decree, but is at liberty to seek his remedy in a separate suit. SHEO COOMAREE DABEE v. SHITARAM HAZRA, 21 W.R. 346.

(17)—Decree for possession—Execution—Duty of decree-holder—Limitation.—When a plaintiff obtains a decree for possession of immoveable property, it lies upon him to take steps to obtain actual possession, and to assert that possession by taking rents or the like; and if he omits to do so, and suffers twelve years to elapse without any actual possession, he loses the benefit of his previous decree and is not entitled to maintain a suit. SREEMUTTY NUBO DOORGA v. SREEMUTTY SEETA MONEE, 23 W.R. 407. [R., 24 W.R. 418.]

(18)—Zuripeshgee mortgage—Some of mortgaged properties sold for Government revenue—Mortgagee in possession of the remaining lands—Suit for mortgage money.—H executed a Zuripeshgee deed in favour of N, and one of the conditions of the deed was that, should H contravene any of the terms of it, N would be entitled to recover the amount advanced with interest from H, or by the sale of the mortgaged properties. Subsequently, H executed a deed of sale in favour of N and R in respect of several properties including those mentioned in the Zuri-peshgee deed. Notwithstanding this sale, H again sold the same properties to B. Thereupon N and R brought a suit to have their rights upheld against B. That suit was eventually decided according to the award of certain arbitrators, that the properties were to be divided in equal shares between R and B. Then R paid off amicably his share of the debt to N; but B not having done so, but on the contrary having dispossessed N, the latter brought this suit against H and B to recover one half of the principal sum advanced with interest. B contended that the suit was not maintainable on the ground that the plaintiff while in possession of all the mouzah mortgaged, did not pay the Government revenue of some of the mouzahs and allowed them to be sold for arrears of Government revenue and that he was still in possession of the remaining mouzahs. Held that if it be found that the mouzahs when they were sold for arrears of Government revenue, were in the possession of B, and it was on account of his laches that they were so sold, and if it be further found that the plaintiff was still in possession of the remaining mouzahs, then the plaintiff would be entitled to maintain this action notwithstanding his possession. BISHEN DYAL SINGH v. HURUCK NARAIN SINGH, 24 W.R. 17.

(19)—Auction sale—Suit to set aside.—A suit to set aside an auction-sale in execution of decree is maintainable. RAM PRASAD v. NAFAILI KUARI, A.W.N. 1882, 5.

(20)—Adjustment of decree out of Court, suit upon—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 257-A. and 258.—Since the amendment made in s. 258 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, by s. 27 of Act VII of 1888, a private agreement made out of Court in satisfaction or adjustment of a decree without the sanction of the Court which made the decree, may be recognised by a Civil Court except when executing the decree. And therefore, a suit based upon such payment or adjustment is maintainable. And, the concluding clause of s. 258 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, as amended, has no direct bearing on s. 257-A, as it relates to a different subject-matter. In the present case, plaintiff held a decree for Rs. 315 against the defendant, and the latter paid a portion thereof to the plaintiff and for the balance executed a bond in plaintiff's favour. These transactions took place without the knowledge of the Court. The present suit was by the plaintiff for recovery from the defendant of the amount due under the bond executed in adjustment of the said decree. The defendant contended that the agreement to pay the amount of the decree at a deferred date was void for want of sanction of the Court making the decree according to, s. 257-A of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. Held on a reference to the High Court, that the plaintiff was entitled to maintain the suit, as such adjustment cannot be recognised under s. 258 of Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, only in executing the decree, and not for other purposes. SWAMI ROW NARAYAN DESHPANDE v. KASHI NATH KRISHNA MUTALIK DESAI, 15 B. 419. [F., 16 B. 589; Cons., 21 C. 437, 25 B. 252; R., 19 B. 204, 18 A. 479, U.B.R. 1897—1901, Vol. II, 252, 20 P.L.R. 1900=16 P.R. 1900.]

(21)—Right of suit—Decree unsatisfied by execution.—In a suit to recover Rs. 177 due on a decree of the Small Cause Court, which decree had been obtained by the plaintiff against the defendant as executor of the estate of one R, deceased, the defendant had appeared in the Small Cause Court and denied assets of the deceased, and the decree was wholly unsatisfied as appeared from the certificate of the first Judge. The plaintiff proved by the evidence of the defendant himself that he was in possession of immoveable property of the deceased out of which the decree could be satisfied. The plaint prayed that the defendant as executor might be ordered to pay the amount with interest and costs, and if he should deny assets, then, for administration of the estate of the deceased. The defendant did not enter appearance. The Court granted a decree for the amount with interest and costs on scale No. 1, in default of payment for six months from date of decree, the estate to be administered in due course. MODOOSOODUN PAUL v. DOYAL CHUND MULLICK, 10 B.L.R. App. 35.

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(22)—Execution — Agreement to pay larger sum by instalments— Right of suit.—Where, after a decree had been passed, the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor came to some arrangement, under which it was agreed that the amount of the decree should be paid in instalments at a very large rate of interest from year to year, for eight years swelling the amount of decree from Rs. 5,500 to nearly 20,000, and subsequently about Rs. 15,000 had been paid under the arrangement, and the decree-holder took out execution for the balance, it was held that, under the circumstances, it would not be proper in execution of the decree to direct payment by the judgment debtor of a sum beyond what was stated in the decree. KANHYALAL PUNDIT v COLLECTOR OF CUTTACK, 14 B. L.R. 291, Note=16 W.R. 275.

(23)—Execution of decree — Agreement for payment of decree amount with interest by instalments— Agreement acted upon—Objection to execution.—Where an agreement was come to between a decree-holder and a judgment-debtor that the amount payable under the decree should be paid by instalments with interest, and the parties had treated and acted upon the kist-bundee as if it had become part of the decree; and they moved the Court to credit the payment which was made as a satisfaction of the instalments due according to it, held that, under the circumstances, the judgment-debtor was precluded from saying that the judgment-creditor was bound to execute the original decree, and, if he could not execute, that he was bound to bring a regular suit upon the kistbundee. The decree-holder was entitled to take proceedings upon the kistbundee as if it were a part of the original decree. DINONATH SEN v. GURUCHURN PAL, 14 B.L.R. 287=21 W.R. 310. [D., 23 W.R 129, 24 W.R. 205.]

(24)—Execution of a decree—Symbolical possession — Second suit for actual possession. maintainability of. — Where a person has obtained only symbolical possession in execution of a decree previously obtained by him, there is nothing in the law precluding him from maintaining a fresh suit to obtain real possession from the same defendants, and, in such a case, the Court is not bound to take into consideration the averments that the plaintiff might have made in his plaint to the effect that he was seeking to recover the possession, which the original decree in his favour had awarded him. SHANKAR v. NARSINGRAV, 22 B. 667. [F., 25 B. 358 ; R., 25 B. 275, 16 C.P.L.R. 109, 17 M.L.J. 598.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(25)—Subsequent Kistbundee for payment—Act VIII of 1859.—Where the judgment-debtor executed a kistbundee in favour of the decree-holder for the money due under the decree, as well as for other sums of money due (but not under the decree) and pledged certain properties, and the kistbundee was not incorporated into the decree and made part and parcel of it, there is no procedure under Act VIII of 1859 amounting to a warrant of attorney under the English law, according to which execution may be taken out upon the kistbundee without first resorting to a regular suit. MADHUB CHUNDER DUNDPUT v. MADHUB LAL KHAN, 14 B.L.R. 288, Note=15 W.R. 542.

(26)—Payment of decree amount out of Court —Payment not admitted owing to its not having been certified—Right to recover money paid.—There is no prohibition against a suit for the recovery of money which a judgment-debtor has paid to the decree holder out of Court, but which could not be admitted by the executing Court owing to the payment not having been certified. ATMARAM PATEL v. KISAN KIRAD, 17 C.P.L.R. 60 (3 A. 538, 1 B. 6, 10 C. 354, 21 M. 409, F.)

(27)—Uncertified payment towards decree—Suit to recover money paid, not precluded by s. 258, Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882).—The question referred to the Full Bench in this case was substantially whether the change in the language of s. 258 of the Civ. Pro. Code, which was made by Act XII of 1879, the language of which is repeated by the present Code, takes away the jurisdiction of the Court trying a subsequent suit, to try the question whether a decree-holder has received any payment from a judgment-debtor, intended to be applied in satisfaction of the decree, but which he failed to certify to the Court executing the decree, in consequence of which the judgment-debtor was not given credit for the payment in the execution proceedings. Held, that the last clause of s. 258, Civ. Pro. Code, is no bar to the maintenance of a suit by a judgment-debtor to recover from the decree-holder monies paid by the former to the latter out of Court, in order to be applied in discharge of the decree and that the words "any Court" are to be construed as restricted to the Court executing the decree and the Courts having jurisdiction over the execution proceedings as such. MULA MAL v. RAHMAN, 83 P.R. 1884, F B. (47 P.R. 1881, Overruled; 11 P.R. 1883, 66 P.R. 1877, R) [R., 90 P.R. 1909, 7 P.R. 1885 (Cr.), 79 P.R. 1892.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—18.—Execution of Decree—continued.

(28)—Payment out of Court in satisfaction of decree—Payment not certified to Court—Suit to recover money paid—Civ. Pro. Code (Act X of 1887), s. 258.—A judgment-debtor cannot sue to recover money alleged to have been paid by him out of Court in satisfaction of a decree on the ground that the judgment creditor has refused to credit the amount towards the payment of the decree. S. 258, Civ. Pro. Code, as amended by Act XII of 1879, provides that payment out of Court shall not be recognised by any Court (not merely the Court executing the decree), unless it has been certified. The only remedy of the judgment-debtor is to apply under s. 258 within 20 days to have his payment certified. ALA BAKSH v. MUHAMMD SHAH, 11 P.R. 1883. (47 P.R. 1881, F.) [Overruled, 83 P.R. 1884.]

(29)—Decree not executed—Execution barred by limitation—Second suit for same relief not maintainable.—A decree for a share in an occupancy tenure was obtained against the present defendant by the plaintiff which he never executed, and, admittedly, the defendant had not allowed him to take possession of the land. Plaintiff instituted the present second suit after the period within which the previous decree could be executed had expired: and it was held that, since the decree was unconditional and gave a relief which the decree-holder could enforce by taking out execution, if the judgment-debtor did not give up possession out of Court, the decree-holder was bound to follow the procedure prescribed by law to enforce the right created by the suit, and could not again proceed by action. DASONDHA SINGH v. WARIAM SINGH, 78 P R. 1882. [R., 91 P.R. 1883.]

(30)—Act IV of 1872, s. 29—Insolvency—Breach by insolvent of conditions of discharge—Execution Court whether can enter into question of breach—Remedy of creditor.—It is not open to a Court in execution, with a view of reviving the execution of a decree stayed during the proceedings in the insolvency of the judgment-debtor, to enter into and decide the question whether the judgment-debtor broke the conditions of his discharge granted by the Insolvent Court under s. 29 of Act IV of 1872. An agreement signed by an insolvent under s. 29 of Act IV of 1872 must be viewed in the light of a new contract, and if the insolvent has broken the conditions of his agreement, the remedy of the creditors lies in the Civil Court by a regular suit on the breach of contract. AMI CHAND v. F. WILLIAMS, 44 P.R. 1877.

(31)—Act XXIII of 1861, s. 11—Question arising in execution between parties to suit, to be determined by executing Court and not by separate suit—Appealability of order passed in execution.—Where the question raised in a subsequent suit happens to be identical with that which occurred in the course of the former suit, it constitutes "a question arising between the parties to the suit in which the decree was passed and relating to the execution of the decree," and it is, therefore, by s.11 of Act XXIII of 1861, "a question to be determined by the Court executing the decree, and not by separate suit," and the order passed by the Court in execution is open to appeal so that a second suit relating to the matter is not maintainable. MEHTAL SINGH v. BELA SINGH, 32 P.R. 1879. [R., 38 P.R 1898.]

(32)—Decree-holder attaching debt due to judgment-debtor—Suit to realize decree-amount out of attached debt, if maintainable.—Where the plaintiff a decree-holder, in execution of his decree against his judgment-debtor, attached a debt alleged to be due to the judgment-debtor from a third person, and without bringing the debt to sale nor getting a Receiver appointed by the Court to realize the debt sought to recover the amount of his decree out of the attached debt by filing a suit against such third person, held that the suit was not maintainable. TRIBENI SAHAI v. RAMAN LAL, 11 P.R. 1880.

(33)—Decree—Absence of provision regarding interest—Subsequent arrangement for payment of interest—Whether valid.—A decree having been passed without interest, an arrangement was entered into between the parties subsequently, by which it was provided that, in default of regular payment of the instalments fixed, the decree-holder might recover the whole amount due with interest. The judgment-debtor having failed to fulfil his engagements, the decree-holder applied to execute his decree with interest. Held that, as the arrangement was not incorporated in the decree, nor was it recognized by the Court as the mode in which the decree was to be satisfied, the decree holder could not claim to recover his debt with interest by summary proceedings in execution of his decree, and that he must bring a separate suit if he wanted to recover the whole amount with interest. SIRDAR AMIR SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH, 48 P R. 1880. [Appl., 190 P. R. 1882; R., 29 P.R 1908, F.B.=61 P.L.R. 1907.]

(34)—Execution of decree—Claim not adjudicated — Regular suit to establish right —Act VIII of 1859, s. 246—Limitation. — Where the claim preferred by an objector in execution of decree has not been adjudicated upon by the Court executing the decree, and no opportunity has been given to the objector to produce evidence in support of his claim, the limitation of one year prescribed for a suit to set aside an order under s. 246, Civ. Pro. Code, does not apply, the order passed not being such an order as is contemplated by that section. MUSSAMUT RAM KOUR v. RAI BHAG SINGH, 73 P.R. 1880.

Right of Suit—continued.

——18.—Execution of Decree—concluded.

See ACT XXIII OF 1861, s. 11, 5 B. 382.

See BENAMI TRANSACTION — MISCELLANEOUS, 6 W.R. Mis. 122.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1877, 6 M. 41.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1882, s. 257, 18 A. 479 =A.W.N. 1896, 160.

Exonerated defendant in former suit, whether could maintain suit to recover his property taken in execution—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, 23 M. 361=10 M.L.J. 123, F.B.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 47, O. XXI, rr. 58 to 63, 15 C. 437.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 63, 7 C. 608=9 C.L.R. 8.

See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE, MISCELLANEOUS, 13 C. 326.

——19.—Fresh Suits.

(1)—Suit for possession by auction-purchaser, when maintainable—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 318.—An auction-purchaser can bring a suit to obtain possession of land, the subject-matter of his purchase, when it is shown that an unsuccessful attempt was made to obtain possession in execution proceedings. In 10 C. L. R. 258, the Court did not intend to lay down that no such suit could be under any circumstances maintainable, but that, so long as the means provided by s. 318 are open to a purchaser, he is bound to have recourse to that section, rather than bring a fresh suit. ISWAR PERSHAD GURGO v. JAI NARAIN GIRI, 12 C. 169. [Cons., 14 C. 644.]

(2)—Application for possession by a purchaser from auction-purchaser—Subsequent suit for possession.—An auction-purchaser is not confined to the remedies provided by ss.318, 319, Civ. Pro. Code, but he may sue without proceeding under those sections at all, or if the possession he obtained under them prove to be infructuous. SERU MOHUN BANIA v. BHAGOBAN DIN PANDEY, 9 C 602 [F., 12 C. 169, 30 A. 72=5 A.L.J. 20 =A.W.N. 1908, 12; Cons., 14 C. 644; R., 11 C. 93, 10 M. 53, 15 M. 331, 4 A.L.J. 434=29 A. 463=A.W.N. 1907, 131; D., 31 A. 82=6 A.L.J. 71=5 M.L.T. 185.]

(3)—Act XXII of 1872—Dismissal of appeal—Original Court not competent to receive plaint—Institution of fresh suit before Act XXII of 1872, legality of.—No provision of Act XXII of 1872 sets aside decrees passed by appellate Courts before the date on which it came into operation, or restores decrees of the Court of first instance which have been annulled by the appellate Court; nor is there any provision which debars the plaintiff whose suit had been dismissed on the ground of its institution in a Court incompetent to receive it, from re-instituting his suit in a competent Court. CHOONEE LALL v. KUDHIRA, 6 N.W.P. 34.

Right of Suit—continued.

——19.—Fresh Suits—continued.

(4)—Suit on decree capable of execution—Maintainability of—Execution, barred by limitation—Fresh suit.—Where the object of the plaintiff in a suit was to enforce the title that had accrued to him under a previous decree and to obtain possession which also had been awarded to him by that decree, held by a majority of the Court that the suit would not lie as what a decree-holder could enforce by execution in the ordinary way after obtaining his decree he could not recover in a subsequent suit founded on that decree. Where a decree is merely declaratory and does not require to be carried into effect by process of execution, the right thereby declared and ascertained exists independently of any process for enforcing it. But when the nature of the decree requires that it should be executed, a decree-holder cannot, after allowing the limitation period to elapse without issuing process of execution, seek by a fresh suit on the decree to obtain that which he should have sought by execution. Turner, C.J., held that the plaintiff by his failure to execute his decree did not thereby lose his right although he may be barred of his remedy under the decree, and, as a new cause of action accrued to the plaintiff by reason of the continued trespass of the defendant, it could not be said that the suit brought in respect of that cause of action was a suit for the determination of a question arising between the parties relating to the execution of the former decree within the meaning of s. 11 of Act XXIII of 1861. RAM JUS RAE v. RAMNARAIN, 2 N.W.P. 382.

(5)—Ex parte decree—Execution sale—Ss. 108, 311, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, rejection of applications under—Effect—Fresh suit to set aside ex parte decree on ground of fraud.—The rejection of applications to set aside an ex parte decree, on the ground of insufficiency of service under s. 108, Civ. Pro. Code, and sale in execution of such decree, on the ground of irregularity under s. 311, Civ. Pro. Code, relates only to specific matters in that suit. So a separate suit to set aside the ex parte decree, on the ground that the whole suit was fraudulent, lies, notwithstanding that the plaintiff has been unsuccessful in his applications under ss. 108 and 311, Civ. Pro. Code, and has preferred no appeal against the order of refusal passed on those applications. KHAGENDRA NATH MAHATA v. PRAN NATH ROY, 29 C. 395, P.C.=29 I.A. 99 =6 C.W.N. 473=4 Bom. L.R. 363=8 Sar. 266. (28 C. 475, R.) [F., 9 C.L.J. 367=13 C.W.N. 493; R., 34 C. 241=5 C.L.J. 385; D., 29 A. 212 =4 A.L.J. 51=A.W.N. 1907, 31, 29 A.608=4 A.L.J. 668=A.W.N. 1907, 191, 4 A.L.J. 233, Note.]

(6)—Suit originally brought against one defendant—Defendant found not liable—Addition of another person as defendant—Procedure whether legal—Government, liability of, for acts done by its servants.—In a suit against the Secretary of State for India for recovery of money alleged to have been advanced by him on the credit of Government, the Court, after finding that the defendant was not liable, permitted the plaintiff to make H a defendant and the plaint to be amended. Held that the Court had no power, after virtually deciding the suit, to permit the plaintiff to make a new defendant against whom he had a different cause of action, and that the plaintiff should have been referred to a new suit. Because a servant of Government borrows money and applies it to the purposes of Government, it does not necessarily follow that the lender can maintain a claim against Government. In this respect, there is no difference between the Government and a private individual. To make either responsible for the acts of an agent, proof must be afforded that the agent was acting within the scope of his authority. SETH DHUNRAJ v. MAJOR J. C. HANKIN, 1 N.W.P. 204.

Right of Suit—continued.

——19.—Fresh Suits—concluded.

(7)—Fresh suits—Delivery of possession in execution—Subsequent dispossession by judgment-debtor—Right of decree-holder to bring fresh suit.—Where the decree-holder in execution of a decree for possession obtained delivery of the property but was subsequently dispossessed by the judgment-debtor, he could maintain a suit for possession and was not bound to execute the decree again, inasmuch as the unlawful possession of the judgment-debtor gave him a new cause of action. BHAIRAO PRASAD v. SANGRAM SINGH, 1 C.P.L.R. 143.

Dismissal or withdrawal of suit—Right to bring fresh suit—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. II, r. 2, 14 C.P.L.R. 104.

See RES JUDICATA—GENERAL, 1 N.W.P. 154.

——20.—Injuries by Representatives of Deceased.

(1)—Act XII of 1855—Wrong committed by deceased person.—Wrongs committed by a deceased person survive to his heirs. Act XII of 1855 relates only to wrongs which do not survive to the representatives of a deceased person. SREEMUTTY CHUNDER MONEE DASSEE v. SANTO MONEE DASSEE, 1 W.R. 251. [R., 4 B.L.R. F.B., 134=13 W.R., F.B., 21.]

(2)—Act XII of 1855, right of action surviving against representatives of deceased, not within scope of.—Act XII of 1855 relates to suits for wrongs which, according to the law then in force, did not survive to or against executors, administrators or representatives. In the present case, however, it was clear that the wrong complained of was not of such a nature that a right of action in respect of it would not survive against the legal representatives of the wrongdoer. Plaintiffs alleged that the deceased, who was the agent of the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Debtors Court at Calcutta, and whom the defendants represented, had misappropriated a large sum of money and sued to recover such amount; and, inasmuch as, by the alleged wrong, property was acquired which benefited the estate of the deceased, the right of action was not such as expired on the death of the wrong-doer, but was such as could survive against his representatives, and the lower Court was wrong in having rejected the claim as barred by Act XII of 1855. NUJUF ALI v. PATTERSON, 2 N.W.P. 103.

Right of Suit—continued.

——20.—Injuries by Representatives of Deceased—concluded.

(3)—Act XII of 1855, s. 1—Adoption by Hindu widow—Right of adopted son to maintain suit under Act—Son adopted by widow, if entitled to portion of damages awarded—Measures of damages in suits under Act XII of 1855, mode of assessing discussed.—Where no probate, or letters of administration or certificate of heirship was granted in respect of the estate of a person, who met his death in consequence of the negligence and default of the defendant Railway Co., the person adopted on his death by his widow was entitled to maintain a suit for compensation under the Act in the Presidency of Bombay inasmuch as, under the law prevailing in that Presidency, an adoption by a widow is valid. [R., 28 M. 479=15 M.L.J. 363.] A posthumously adopted son is not entitled to any portion of the damages awarded in such a suit. It could not have been the intention of the Legislature to confer upon the widow of a deceased Hindu the power of imposing upon persons sued under the Act a greater liability than existed at the death of her husband. VINAYAK RAGHUNATH v. THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULAR RAILWAY CO., 7 B.H. C.O.C. 113. [R., 4 M.L.T. 238.]

——21.—Injuries to Enjoyment of Property.

(1)—Suit for removal of trees—Contingent damage—Present cause of action.—A suit is not maintainable for the removal of trees planted on defendant's land adjoining, on the ground that they had been planted so near plaintiff's land that when they grow up they would injure his crops, as the plaintiff could not have a cause of action until his enjoyment of his own land is directly and immediately interfered with by the growth of the trees, and the defendant would be entitled to have them there so long as he does not thereby injure the plaintiff. RAM LAL v. DALGANJAN, 5 A. 369=A. W.N. 1883, 58.

(2)—Interference by one mortgagee with another—Opening of shut-up door in common party wall—Duty of mortgagee—S. 76, Transfer of Property Act.—A mortgagee has a possessory title in the mortgaged premises and, on the strength of such title, he has the right to maintain an action with the view to restrain others from trespassing upon it. The re-opening by a mortgagee of a door of communication between the portion of the house mortgaged to him and the portion mortgaged to another, which door had been closed before the mortgage, would constitute an interference with his enjoyment and an act of trespass which the latter could proceed to prevent. He could maintain an action, not only for the above reasons, but also on the ground that, as a mortgagee in possession, it was his duty to preserve the mortgaged property from destruction. LACHMI NARAIN v. JETHU MAL, 16 A. 386 = A.W.N. 1894, 129.

Right of Suit*—continued.

——21.—Injuries to Enjoyment of Property —concluded.

(3)—Superior and lower riparian owners—Embankment erected by the superior owner for self-protection—Loss to the lower owner—Right of suit.—Where a superior riparian owner fortified and raised the bank of a jungle stream to protect his lands from being flooded, and thereby caused loss to the lower riparian owner, there being no reasonable means of protecting his lands without injuring his neighbour lower down, he could not be sued for damages by the lower riparian owner, as no actionable wrong can be said to have been committed. GOPAL REDDI v. CHENNA REDDI, 18 M. 158 = 4 M. L J. 244. [D, 27 M. 409 = 14 M.L J. 162, 28 M. 15 ; 1 N.L.R. 182.]

(4)—Obstruction to light and air by trespasser on adjoining land—Easement by prescription not necessary in plaintiff.—Where the defendant has, by constructing a balcony on land next to the plaintiff's house, interfered with a balcony belonging to the latter and with the light and air of one of his windows, if such defendant is a mere trespasser, it is not necessary, for the plaintiff to maintain an action, to establish that he has acquired an easement to the light and air in question by prescription. Where, however, the defendant is not a mere trespasser or wrong doer, but is himself the owner of the adjoining land or has built with the permission of such owner, the plaintiff will be entitled to the relief sued for only where he has acquired an easement by prescription, as against the defendant or against the owner who has permitted the defendant to build. DHUMANKHAN v. MUHAMMAD KHAN, 19 A. 153 = A.W.N. 1897, 22. (5 M.L.J. 25, D)

See PARTIES TO SUIT—SUITS BY REPRESENTATIVES OF A CLASS, 18 B. 699.

——22.—Judicial Officers, Suits against.

(1)—Obstruction—Removal by Magistrate—Liability of Magistrate—Right of suit against Government.—The plaintiff was building a chabootra and obstructing the thoroughfare. The Magistrate ordered the plaintiff to remove the chabootra, and the order was carried into effect. The plaintiff then sued the Government to recover possession of the ground covered by the chabootra. Held that the Government was in no way liable to be sued in respect of such matters even assuming that the Magistrate exceeded his jurisdiction. BAGAISHREE DYAL v. GOVERNMENT, 2 Agra 81.

(2)—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Order of Magistrate for removal of building from public place—Suit to establish right—Maintainability— ss. 308 and 311, Crim. Pro. Code—The provisions of the last para of s. 311, Crim. Pro. Code, have no further effect than to bar a suit to prevent a Magistrate from carrying out an order made under s 308, or a suit for damages on account of anything done by the Magistrate or any other person in carrying out such order in the manner provided by law. It does not prevent a person against whom such an order has been carried into effect, from instituting a suit to prove that land declared by the Magistrate to be public thoroughfare is his private property. LALJI UKHELA v. JOWBA DOWBA AND THE COLLECTOR AND MAGISTRATE OF KHANDESH, 8 B.H.C.A.C. 94 [Appr., 15 C. 460]

Right of Suit*—continued.

——22.—Judicial Officers, Suits against—ctd.

(3)—Cause of action—Entry in Revenue register—Title—Action against Collector.—The mere fact that the Collector has entered in the Revenue books the name of one parcener in a certain property as the occupant or owenr thereof, cannot give the plaintiff a cause of action to sue the Collector. The Collector's book is kept for purposes of revenue and not for purposes of title. But if the Collector issued species of injunction against the plaintiff drawing his share of the profits, then an action may be maintained against the Collector. THE COLLECTOR OF POONA v. BHAVANRAV BALKRISHNA, 10 B H C. 192. [10 B.H C. 187, F.) [F., 13 B. 75 ; R, 10 B.H.C. 194, 5 Bom. L.R. 956, 6 Bom. L.R. 983.]

(4)—Pleadings—Defect—Suit for damages—Malis—Jurisdiction — Cause of action—Act XXVII of 1850—Actions against Judicial officers —Extent of liability — Protection — Wrongful seizure of property.—A suit was instituted for recovery of damages, against an Assistant Judge for "knowingly and maliciously issuing illegal orders." The plaint alleged no act on the part of the Assistant Judge by which he transgressed his jurisdiction, though it ascribed evil and unworthy motives to him. Held, that the plaint was defective and must not be received by the Court of first instance. If the plaintiff really meant to say that the Assistant Judge had acted without jurisdiction and without reasonable grounds for supposing that he had jurisdiction, then he should have so stated it in the plaint. The plaint as framed was held not to disclose any cause of action. A Judge exercising the functions of adjudication and those immediately ancillary to it, represents the State. He is appointed by it, and while acting within the province assigned to him, is responsible to the State alone for any abuse of the powers it has assigned to him. The State may prosecute and punish him for a gross dereliction of duty, at the same time that it will not allow him, so long as he sits as its representative, to be harassed by actions brought by disappointed suitors to whom, except mediately through it, he is under no legal obligation. [R., L.B.R. (1872-1892), 83.] A suit to recover damages caused by wrongful deprivation of property is governed by the six years rule under s. 1, cl. 16 of Act XIV of 1859, and not by the one year rule under cl. 2, s. 1, of the same Act. PRAHLAD MAHARUDRA v. A.C. WATT, 10 B. H C. 346.

Right of Suit—continued.

—22.—Judicial Officers, Suits against—cld.

(5)—Cause of action—Suit against Collector—Entry in Revenue register—Parties to suit Jursidiction—Objection—Appeal.—It must be taken as the settled doctrine of the Court that the entry by a Collector of a particular person's name as "occupant" in the revenue books, kept for the purpose of determining to whom the duty or the right attaches of settling for the Government revenue, affords, however mistaken, no ground for an action against the Collector. But if the Collector proceeds further and interferes with the plaintiff's rights by an order placing him in an appreciably worse legal position than that to which he is entitled, the Collector at once becomes liable to an action. A suit was instituted against a Collector and another person and a decree against them was passed. The Collector did not appeal from the decree. The other defendant appealed against it. He contended that the plaint disclosed no cause of action against the Collector and therefore the District Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. Held that the appellant could take the objection as to jurisdiction, because it was a ground common to all the parties affected by the judgment, even though the Collector did not prefer an appeal. SANGAPPA MALAPA v. BHIMANGOWDA MARIAPA, 10 B.H.C. 194.

——23—Landlord and Tenant, Suits concerning.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

(1)—Receiver duly appointed by Court—Right to maintain suits for rent due—Interest—Right to property and right to rent, inseparable.—Where a muchalka is executed by the tenant to a person who was then considered to be the owner of the land and afterwards, owing to disputes about the ownership, a receiver is appointed by the Court to represent the rightful owners of the estate, the receiver can maintain a suit against the tenants to recover the fair rent payable for the use and occupation of the land under the muchalka, which is good evidence of what is the fair amount of rent. But the right of suit does not extend to recover anything as interest on the rent due. When a muchalka was executed by a tenant to a person who then claimed to be the owner of the land but who has since been held to possess no title to the property, such a person could not afterwards maintain an action for the non-payment of the rent of a portion of such property due according to the terms of the muchalka. The right to the property and the right to the rents payable by the tenants occupying portions of it are inseparable. C.L. MORRIS, v. MUTHUSAMI PILLAY, 6 M.H.C. 363.

Right of Suit—continued.

——23.—Landlord and Tenant, Suits concerning—continued.

(2)—Arrears of rent paid to Government under certificate, suit to recover—Maintainability.—Where arrears of rent of a zemindari, due by the plaintiff to the zemindar, were paid, on the issue of a certificate, under s. 19 of Act VII of 1868 (B.C.), by the Settlement Officer, who had entered into khas possession after cancelling the original lease to such officer after objection and waiver by the plaintiff, he could not sue subsequently for the recovery of the amount on the ground that it was really payable to the zemindar and not to the Government. Quaere.—Whether, if the plaintiff be compelled to pay the amount again to the zemindar, it would be recoverable by suit BEPIN BEHARI SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT, 5 C. 325.

(3)—Landlord and tenant, suit concerning—Suit for excess payment—Omission to make deductions from rent.—Where a person has a right to make deductions of rent payable to the surburakar under his kabuliat on account of rent due from raiyats or others, and pays his full rent without making any deduction, his not doing so gives him no right of action against the zemindar or his representatives. CHUNDER SEEKUR ROY v. GHOLAM SHURREEF alias LOOPAN MEEAH, 1 Ind. Jur., N.S. 146.

(4)—Suit for rents collected by unauthorised person without title—Cause of action.—Where A without title has collected rents due to B, B may sue A for the recovery from him of the rents so received. RAM CHURN BANERJEE v. MUDDUN MOHUN TEWAREE, Marsh 269=2 Hay, 198.

(5)—Rent—Excess payment to landlord—Suit against payee—Right of suit.—Where A, a landlord, has received money from his tenants which B has a right to receive, B is entitled to recover those moneys directly from A by a civil suit, and he need not sue the tenants who made the payments. GOOROO CHURN NAG v GOBIND CHUNDER GOOHO, 24 W.R. 352.

(6)—Patta—Right to enforce—Regular suit.—A suit to enforce the acceptance of a patta is maintainable on the regular side. KARIM v. MUHAMMAD KADAR, 2 M. 89. [F., 13 M. 361, 14 M. 441, 12 M. 134.]

(7)—Actionable wrong—Dissuading tenants from paying rent.—It is no actionable claim to dissuade the tenants from paying rent to their landlord. EDWARD DALGLEISH v. JEEBAN MAHTO, 25 W.R. 230.

(8)—Suit for arrears of rent—Exemption from rent—Validity of.—A suit to recover the "balance of two years' rent with interest" is not the appropriate mode for testing the validity of exemption claimed by the defendant by virtue of some rent-free grant, which could be settled only by a suit for the assessment of the land. HUREE CHUND v. BRIJ KOMAR SINGH, 1 Agra, Rev. 35.

Right of Suit—continued.

— 23.—Landlord and Tenant, Suits concerning—continued.

(9)—Tenant refusing to resort to well-irrigation — Suit to eject — Suit for enhancement of rent — Tenancy Act, ss. 11, 19.— Plaintiff claimed to eject the defendant on the ground that he refused to resort to cultivation by well-irrigation and this entitled the plaintiff to cause his ejectment in accordance with a previous order of the Financial Commissioner that, if the tenant should leave the land waste, the landlord might at his option give over the land to other cultivators. It was held per Boulnois and Lindsay, JJ. (Campbell, J., dissenting) that the suit was not maintainable either on the Financial Commissioner's order, or under the terms of s. 19, Act XXVIII of 1868, and that the plaintiff must therefore fail. S. 19 of the Tenancy Act restricts the grounds upon which a tenant with rights of occupancy may be ejected, and a decree for ejection can only be made as therein laid down and the proper course for the landlord would be to sue his tenant for enhanced rent under grounds 2 and 3 of s. 11 of the Act. JODAR v. SODHI INDAR SINGH, 54 P.R. 1875.

(9-a)—Enhancement, notice of—Suit to set aside notice of enhancement—Act X of 1859, ss. 13 and 14.—Where notice of enhancement of rent has been served under s. 13, Act X of 1859, upon a raiyat who has no right of occupancy, and whose rent has not been fixed by agreement with his landlord, such raiyat cannot maintain a suit to set aside the notice of enhancement. His remedy, in case the rent is excessive, is under s. 14. MOHEEM v RAHEEMOTOOLLAH, Marsh 341=2 Hay, 433.

(10)—Unassessed jummai land, suit for rent relating to, maintainable under Act X.—One of the grounds taken for this special appeal was that as no rate of rent had been fixed or arranged between the parties, as respects the land in question, the plaintiff could not recover rent for the land and that no suit would lie under Act X of 1859. The High Court held that, under the circumstances, the plaintiff was entitled to rent for the land and that the suit was therefore maintainable as for arrears of rent under Act X of 1859 in respect of the jummai lands on which no rent had been assessed, and that the rate should be calculated in accordance with the rates prevailing for similar land. MIRZAN BISWAS v. MR. R.T. HILLS, 3 W.R. Act X, Rul., 159.

(11)—Act X of 1859, s. 23, cl. 6, s. 25—Illegal ejectment--Right of suit.—The order of a Deputy Collector passed under s. 25 of Act X of 1859 is not a judicial, but is a mere ministerial act; consequently, any person aggrieved by it can have recourse to a regular suit under cl. 6, s. 23 of the Act, whether he was illegally ejected by the direct act of the landlord or indirectly by him through the Deputy Collector. GOLAM KOODSEE CHOWDHRY v. KISHOREE BEWAH, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul., 46.

Right of Suit—continued.

— 23.—Landlord and Tenant, Suits concerning—concluded.

(12)—Proprietary talook under zemindar, rent or revenue assessed upon, suit maintainable for, under Act X.—In this case, the lower Appellate Court threw out the suit upon the ground that it could not lie under Act X of 1859, because defendant was not a ryot or tenant but a proprietor. The defendant was liable to pay to the plaintiff, and the plaintiff was liable to pay the Government revenue, the money receivable from the defendant being part of the assets of his estate and the whole estate being liable for default of revenue. The High Court was of opinion that, under the circumstances, the defendant stood in the position of a tenant towards the plaintiff and that the definite rent or revenue assessed on the whole talook and payable to the plaintiff might be the subject of a suit under Act X of 1859. CHUNDER KANT CHUCKERBUTTY v. MOULVIE MAHOMED HOSSEIN, 6 W.R. Act X, Rul., 1 [Appl., 38 C. 278=15 C.W.N. 266=9 Ind. Cas. 394.]

(13)—Ejectment—Right of suit—Jurisdiction—Act X of 1859.—A plaintiff, if ousted by the real defendant, is entitled to sue in a Civil Court and it is no answer to his case to say that until the real defendant and the zemindar defendant settle any dispute between them by a suit under Act X of 1859, the plaintiff must be out of Court. For, failing any such suit between the zemindar and the real defendant, the plaintiffs would be literally left without redress. TARA CHAND DUTT v. OAFUNISSA BIBEE, 5 W.R. Act X, Rul., 52.

Suit against agricultural tenants for arrears of rent—Conditions for maintenance of suit—See U.P. ACT XII OF 1881, s. 93 (a), 2 A.L.J. 1.

— 24—Mesne Profits.

See MESNE PROFITS.

(1)—Mesne profits—Suit for mesne profits.—The party in possession is the only person legally competent to sue for mesne profits. KHETTER MONEE DOSSEE v. GOPEEMOHUN ROY, 1 Ind. Jur. O.S. 83=1 Hay, 178.

(2)—Fraudulent sale by debtor—Subsequent assignment by debtor—Assignee not competent to sue previous vendee for mesne profits.—C L, who was opposed in executing a decree obtained by him against G, instituted a suit for a declaration that a deed of sale that had been executed by G in favour of her husband was false and fraudulent. In the judgment in that suit, it was declared that C L, was entitled to sell in execution of his decree only the two-annas share possessed by G, his judgment-debtor. A subsequent assignee from B having sued G's vendee for mesne profits, during the pendency of the previous suit, it was held that the plaintiff had no right to sue for the mesne profits, since no such right had accrued to G, his assignor. MONOHUR DASS v. SHAIKH DUTAFUT HOSSEIN, 4 W.R. 8.

Right of Suit—continued.

——25.—Municipal Officers, Suits against.

(1)—Madras Act X of 1865—Assessment unlawfully levied—Suit, maintainability of.—A person cannot maintain a suit for the recovery of assessment unlawfully levied from him by Municipal Commissioners under Mad. Act X of 1865. BHIMAVARAPU BALARAMAYA v. G.R. HODSON, 3 M.H.C. 370.

(2)—Act XXVI of 1850—Order of Municipal Commissioner—Course open to person aggrieved by order.—Where an order was passed by the Municipal Commissioners of a town in respect of a matter within their jurisdiction, the person aggrieved by such order was bound to exhaust all the remedies open to him according to the rules prescribed under the Act, before he instituted a suit in the Civil Court in respect thereof. SAKHARAM SHRIDHAR GHADKARI v. THE CHAIRMAN OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF KALYAN, 7 B.H.C A.C., 33. [R., 10 B. H C. 194, 22 B. 384.]

(3)—Bom. Act II of 1865, ss. 4, 11, Act IV of 1867—Action against Justices of the Peace for alleged wrongful distress—Municipal Commissioner.—An action against the Justices of the Peace of the City of Bombay in respect of an alleged wrongful distress for unpaid rates levied by the Municipal Commissioner of that City either under Bom. Act II of 1865 or under Act IV of 1867, is not maintainable. In such actions, the Municipal Commissioner himself or the actual tort-feasor is the proper defendant. SHIRSHANKAR GOVINDRAM v. THE JUSTICE OF THE PEACE FOR THE CITY OF BOMBAY, 5 B.H.C.O.C. 145.

(4)—Act III of 1864 (B.C.), s. 67—Prosecution under—Suit for damages by person prosecuted.—A suit is not maintainable against a Municipal Corporation for the value of goods sold and damages in consequence of attachment and sale of plaintiff's moveable property under a prosecution instituted by the Municipality under Act III of 1864 (B.C.). MOTEE LALL BOSE v. HOWRAH MUNICIPALITY, 23 W.R. 227.

See BOM. ACT VI OF 1873, ss. 17, 33, 12 B. 490.

——26.—Obstruction to Public Highways, Suits concerning.

(1)—Suit for obstruction of highway — Special damage.—The rule of English law, that no action can be maintained by an individual against another for obstruction to a highway, without proof of special damage, should be enforced in British India as a rule of "equity and good conscience." ADAMSON v. ARUMUGAM, 9 M. 463. [Appr., 14 M. 177; R., 7 C.P.L.R. 97, 2 N.L.R. 110, 31 M. 54=17 M.L.J. 537 =2 M.L T. 461.]

(2)—Obstruction of public lane—Suit by one person without special damage for a declaration and an injunction.—The plaintiff by himself, and without permission under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code, sued to remove a gate put up by the defendant in a lane with the permission of the Municipal Council and to declare his right to draw water from a well on the other side of the gate and for an injunction to compel the removal of the gate. No special damage was alleged and proved. Held, the English rule,—that no action can be maintained by one person against another for obstuction to a highway, unless special damage or injury beyond what is sustained by the general public is proved—applied, and the suit was to be dismissed. SIDDESWARA v. KRISHNA, 14 M. 177=1 M. L.J. 321. [D., 103 P.L.R. 1901=64 P.R. 1901.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——26.—Obstruction to Public Highways, Suits concerning—continued.

(3)—Obstruction to public road—Proof of Special damage—Right of Zemindar.—In a road which is a public thoroughfare, unless the plaintiff proves special damage from the obstruction, he is not entitled to bring a suit. This equally applies whether he is a Zemindar or any ordinary member of the community. RAJNARAIN MITTER v. EKADASI BAG, 27 C. 793. (9 C. 75, D)

(4)—Procession along public highway—Right of private persons to stop procession — Liability for damages for obstruction.—The right to make use of a public highway for conducting a procession can only be questioned by a Magistrate who, for preservation of the peace, may, if he sees sufficient grounds, interdict the procession. Private persons have no such authority. An action in damages will lie against a private person obstructing a procession conducted on a public highway, though it is not usual for persons of the plaintiff's caste to conduct such procession. SIVAPPACHARI v. MAHALINGA CHETTI, 1 M.H.C. 50. [R. 6 M. 203.]

(5)—Suit to enforce right to conduct religious procession, maintainability of—Personal damage—What constitutes special damage—Loss of sentimental gratification.—A suit to enforce a right to conduct a religious procession along a public road will not lie without alleging any personal loss or damage. [F., 9 M. 463, 10 A. 498, 18 B. 693, 5 C.W.N. 285, 11 Bom. L.R. 372=2 Ind. Cas. 494; Appl., 14 M. 177; R., 12 Bom. L. R. 274 = 5 Ind. Cas. 213; D., 1 Ind. Cas. 716=32 M. 478=19 M.L.J. 617.] The mere loss of the religious or sentimental gratification, arising from obstruction to carrying tabuts along a public road, is not such special loss or damage as would sustain a civil action. SATKU valad KADIR SANSARI v. IBRAHIM AGA valad MIRZA AGA, 2 B. 457.

(6)—Public obstruction — Right of suit — Special damage.—In order to sustain a civil action for the removal of a public obstruction, the plaintiffs are bound to show that they themselves have suffered some particular inconvenience by the conduct of the defendants. GEHANAJI bin KES PATIL v. GANPATI bin LAKSHUMAN, 2 B. 469, Note. [R., 2 B. 457; D., 9 A. 434=A.W.N. 1887, 82, 22 C. 551.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—26.—Obstruction to Public Highways, Suits concerning—continued.

(7) — Public way — Obstruction — Special damage.—A suit to remove an unlawful obstruction from a public thoroughfare is not maintainable, when the plaintiff fails to show that he has suffered special damage. NATHU v. JAGRAM DAS, A.W.N. 1881, 3.

(8)—Public way, obstruction of—Right of suit —Special damage—Mere inconvenience.—An action for obstructing a public way is not maintainable if no damage peculiar to the plaintiff is proved. Mere inconvenience or remote danger will not make such an action maintainable. MAHOMED ALAM v. DILBAR KHAN, 5 C.W.N. 285. (2 B. 457, F.)

(9)—Public road or highway, action for obstruction to, maintainable only on particular damage personally to plaintiff.—Both according to the English decisions as well as by those of the Indian Courts, it is settled law that a Civil suit does not lie for an obstruction to a public road or highway unless the plaintiff can show some particular damage to himself personally in addition to the general inconvenience occasioned to the public. MALUK SINGH v. BELA SINGH, 134 P.R. 1882. [D., 218 P.L.R. 1910.]

(10)—Suit to remove obstruction to a public way—Proof of special damage by person suing.—No suit will lie in a Civil Court to remove an obstruction to a public way unless the party suing suffers special damage. HOSEIN SHAH v. HABIBULLA SHAH, 73 P.R. 1877.

(11)—Public nuisance, suit for removal of—Special damage to be proved.—A brought a suit to compel B to close a drain through which the water from the latter's mosque flowed on to the street in front of A's premises. The street was admittedly a public thoroughfare. Held that the special damage required to sustain an action of this sort must be damage differing not merely in degree but in kind from that sustained by the rest of the public. NUR ALI v. RAM GOPAL, 10 P.R. 1878. [F., 134 P.R. 1882; R., 4 P.R. 1895.]

(12)—Injury caused to inhabitants of a village —English Law—Special damage.—According to the English Law, in order to entitle a plaintiff to maintain an action for obstruction of a highway, he must show a particular damage suffered by himself over and above that suffered by all the Sovereign's subjects. Where this is shown, a suit for damages or for an injunction, would lie. (Winterbottom v. Lord Derby, L.R. 2 Exch., 316; Ricket v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., L.R., 2 H.L., 175; Cook v. Mayor and Corporation of Bath, L.R., 6 Eq., 177, R.) The same rule has been substantially followed in this country. (12 W.R. 160, 12 B. 469 and 3 C. 20, R.) The injury caused to the inhabitants of a village, by the obstruction of a public highway leading from the village where they lived, to that in which they had their fields and pasture, was held to be peculiar to them, so as to entitle them to bring an action for the removal of the obstruction. ABZUL MIAH v. NASER MAHOMMED, 22 C. 551. [R., 2 L.B.R. 134.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—26.—Obstruction to Public Highways, Suits concerning—continued.

(13)—Powers of Municipal Committee—N.W.P. & Oudh Municipalities Act, ss. 27, 32 and 38 —Infringement of rights by the exercise of such rights—Relief.—By s. 38 of the N.W.P. and Oudh Municipalities Act, the property in all public highways is vested in the committee, and by s. 27, the committee can, with the sanction of the Local Government, sell any portion of land, referred to in that section, which is not required for the purposes of the Act, and shall keep roads in repair, and may do all acts and things necessary for purposes of general utility. But there is nothing in the Act which debars the Civil Courts from entertaining suit and giving relief in respect of any Civil right which may be shown to have been infringed through the exercise by the Municipality of its powers under the Act. FAZAL HAQ v. MAHA CHAND, 1 A. 557.

(14)—Rights of rival sects—Religious procession.—Persons of all sects are at liberty to erect buildings and conduct public worship on their own land, provided they neither invade the rights of property enjoyed by others, nor cause a public nuisance. They are also entitled to conduct religious processions through public streets without interfering with the ordinary use of such streets by the public, subject to any lawful directions of the Magistrate. PARTHASARADI v. CHINNA KRISHNAN, 5 M. 304. [Appr., 26 M. 376, 26 M. 551, F.B. = 1 Weir 279; R., 12 M. 356, 19 M.L.J. 617, 9 Bom. L.R. 663, 32 M. 478.]

(15)—Removal of nuisance—Orders by Magistrates and Sessions Judge—Suit in Civil Court —Jurisdiction.—Where, in respect of the removal of a nuisance caused by the defendant encroaching on a public road, a Magistrate issues no specific order but only a general prohibition against him, and the Sessions Judge passes no order on the matter either in appeal or otherwise, but simply gives his opinion, on a reference made to him that the matter is one for the Civil Court, held that a subsequent action by the plaintiff in a Civil Court was maintainable. SOOKMOY MITTER v. PERTAB CHUNDER SEIN, 1 W.R. 14.

(16)—Suit to contest order under s. 133, Crim. Pro. Code, 1882.—A suit to call in question the order of a Criminal Court under s. 133, Crim. Pro. Code, 1882, will not lie by reason of the penultimate clause of the same section. KHAIR-UD-DIN v. KARAM BAKSH, 94 P.R. 1889. [Overruled, 34 P.R. 1892, F.B.]

(17)—Order under ss. 133 and 137, Crim. Pro. Code, 1882—Suit to contest—Declaration of right in Civil Courts.—In spite of the penultimate clause of s. 133 in Crim. Pro. Code, 1882, a person claiming to be the sole owner of land as regards which the Magistrate has made a conditional order under s. 133, treating it as a public place, which order has been made absolute in due course of law under s. 137, Crim. Pro Code, may sue the opposite party in the Civil Court for a declaration of his rights in such land. MEGHA AND JASSA v. SHADI, 34 P R. 1892, F B. (50 P.R. 1888, Cited and F.)

Right of Suit—continued.

— 26.—Obstruction to Public Highways, Suits concerning—concluded.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 10 A. 553 = A.W.N. 1888, 213.

See PROCESSION, 18 B. 693.

— 27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to.

(1)—Village joshi, hereditary right of, to officiate at marriages in yajman's house—Invasion of right of joshi, liability of yajman for.—A person who, as the village joshi, is entitled by hereditary right to officiate at and perform all religious ceremonies in the yajman's house can claim to recover his usual fees, no matter whether such ceremonies have been performed by another Brahmin or by any one else of the caste to which the yajman belongs, because, in either case, there has been an invasion of his privileges, as the village priest, against which he is entitled to be protected. WAMAN JAGANNATH JOSHI v. BALAJI KUSAJI PATIL, 14 B. 167. [Diss., 14 C.W.N. 1057 = 12 C.L.J. 74 ; R., 3 N.L.R. 47.]

(2)—Obstruction to public highway—Action for interfering with right of performing ceremonies—Right of yajmans to select purohits.—An action is not maintainable by a purohit against another purohit for interfering with an alleged exclusive right of performing religious ceremonies at a particular place, there being no legal obligation upon the yajmans to abstain from employing another. DAMODUR MISSER v. ROODURMAR MISSER, Marsh 161 = ROODURMAN MISSER v. DAMOODUR MISSER, 1 Hay 365.

(3)—Declaration of right—Pujari—Mandir.—A suit lies to obtain a binding declaration that the plaintiff is entitled to perform the duties of pujari and to receive the proceeds of the mundir. PRANSHANKAR v. PRANNATH MAHANAND, 1 B.H.C. 12. [F., 13 B. 548.]

(4)—Hereditary right to office—Right of suit—S. 11, Civ Pro. Code.—Under s. 11 of the Civ. Pro. Code, a suit lies for establishing a right to the hereditary title of musicians to a satra though the right is one which brings in no profit to those claiming the same. MAMAT RAM BAYAN v. BAPU RAM ATAI BURA BHAKAT, 15 C. 159. [F., 13 B. 429; Disc., 3 N.L.R. 131; R., 11 M. 450.]

(5)—Agreement among village Brahmins recollection of offerings—Validity.—An agreement among the Maha-brahmins of a village that some of them should collect offerings in certain months and should not be disturbed by the others, and that, in certain other months, the others of them should have a like right, is a valid agreement capable of enforcement and is not against public policy. WOCHI v. ULFAT, 20 A. 234 = A.W.N. 1898, 23. [R., 5 O.C. 225.]

Right of Suit—continued.

— 27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(6)—Questions of religious tenets—Duty of Courts.—It is not the duty of a Civil Court to pronounce on the truth of religious tenets, nor to regulate religious ceremony ; but, in protecting persons in the enjoyment of a certain status or property, it may incidentally become the duty of the Civil Court to determine what are the accepted tenets of the followers of a creed, and what is the usage they have accepted as established for the regulation of their rights inter se. A Civil Court may take cognisance of the claim of plaintiffs to the offices to which they assert an exclusive right, may secure them in the enjoyment of that right, and may award them damages for the invasion of their right in so far as such damages are not too remote and too uncertain. KRISHNASAMI v. KRISHNAMA, 5 M. 313. [Appr., 11 M. 450 ; R., 23 B. 122, 26 M. 554.]

(7)—Right of administering Purohitam to Rameswaram pilgrims, suit to establish exclusive exercise of—Privilege, effect of alienability of, in rendering it a proprietary right.—The subject of litigation in this case was the right of administering what is called Purohitam to seventeen classes or castes of the numerous pilgrims, resorting to the pagoda and other temples in the Island of Rameswaram. The issue settled in the suit threw upon the appellants the burden of proving, first, the hereditary and exclusive right of the Arya Brahmins to administer Purohitam to all castes of people frequenting Rameswaram as pilgrims and their ancestors' enjoyment accordingly. The proofs adduced in support of the issues consisted of extracts from one of the old Puranas. Even taking the authority of the Purana texts at the highest, their Lordships of the Judicial Committee were of opinion that they did not more than enjoin upon pilgrims who wished to have the fullest spiritual benefit of their pilgrimage, the duty and necessity of resorting to the Aryas for their offices. They do not show that the duty was universally recognised as imperative, or that the enjoyment of the privilege as it then existed, was exclusive. Further, the value of the texts as evidence, was in their Lordships' opinion much diminished by the consideration that the privilege now claimed was admitted to be capable of alienation or delegation. They would be of far more weight if the case made were that, by positive ordinance or by traditionary usage, the privilege of administering certain religious rites had become vested in a particular class of priests. The principle of alienation or delegation being admitted, texts to the effect that the efficacy of the rite depends on the character of the ministering priest necessarily lose their force. The privilege of exercising the function, when alienable for money, ceases to be the subject of religious sentiment, and becomes a mere proprietary right. Moreover, this quality of the privilege must greatly increase the difficulty of proving its continued enjoyment, supposing that it ever existed, because every long continued enjoyment of the privilege by others is capable of being ascribed to a presumed grant or alienation of which the direct evidence is lost In the result, their Lordships were of opinion that the evidence, though it might establish that the Arya community had existed as part and a principal part of the hierarchy of the Rameswaram Pagoda and its dependencies from a period of remote antiquity, and that the appellants might be taken to be the actual representatives of that community, failed to show, either by documentary proof of its origin or by such proof of long and uninterrupted usage as in the absence of a documentary title would suffice to establish a prescriptive right, the existence at any time of the original and exclusive privilege which the appellants had made the foundation of their title. The appellants had on all points failed to relieve themselves of that burthen which the necessities of their case, and the particular issue directed in the cause, imposed upon them. RAMASAMY AIYAN v. VENKATA CHARI, 2 W R. P.C 21=9 M.I A. 344=1 Suther. 492=2 Sar. 1. [Appr., 5 M.H.C. 6; R., 2 M H.C. 330.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(8)—Suit to establish exclusive right to receive fees paid to purohits—Necessity for proof of contract or usage.—Plaintiffs sued to establish their exclusive right to receive fees paid to certain purohits by the pilgrims resorting to a temple, and to recover a certain amount received by the defendants in that capacity. Held that in the absence of any contract between the parties or of any proof of long and uninterrupted usage, as, in the absence of a documentary title, would suffice to establish a prescriptive right, the suit was not maintainable. KRISHNA AIYAN v. ANANTARAMA AIYAN, 2 M H.C. 330 [R., 7 M. 424, 3 N.L. R. 47; D., 5 O. C. 225.]

(9)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 11—Infringements of rights connected with office—Suit, maintainable—An action lies in respect of infringements of rights connected with an office. SRINIVASA THATHACHARIAR v. SRINIVASA AIYANGAR and SRINIVASACHARIAR v. SRINIVASA THATHACHARIAR, 9 M.L.J. 355. [R, 32 M. 291=5 M.L.T. 33.]

(10)—Civ.Pro.Code, 1882, *s.*11--Dignities and emoluments appertaining to office in temple—Dignities and emoluments not separable—Suit for dignities and emoluments—Maintainability.—Plaintiff had bought the right to certain dignities and emoluments under the name of Malji Dharmakarta Miras in the Conjeevaram Devastanam. The emoluments consisted of money and food given on periodical occasions, and the dignities were honours without any appreciable money value. Both these rights had been accorded to the plaintiff and his predecessors in title by the trustees of the temple. Plaintiff instituted a suit for a declaration of his right to the said rights and for recovery of arrears of incomes and swotantrams unlawfully withheld from him. It was contended on behalf of the defendants that the rights claimed were of a religious nature of which the Civil Courts had no cognizance. Held that the emoluments claimed possessed a money value and as such was cognizable by a Court of law. Held also that, as the right to the dignities was inseparable from the other right and as both had been mortgaged, bought and sold and recognized and enforced by the decrees of Civil Courts, it was cognizable by such Courts. KRISHNASAWMI THATHACHARIAR v. APPANAIYANGAR, 7 M.L.J. 23.

Right of Suit—continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(11)--Right of receiving offerings at a public Tal.—Held, that no person can appropriate to himself any particular spot on the banks of a public Tal (tank), or claim the exclusive right to receive offerings from the persons who resort to the Tal to bathe. SHEO DIN v. JAI RAM SINGH, 2 O.C. 1.

(12)—Suit for share of fees obtained by joint members of a family as Purohit—Jurisdiction.—A suit by the widow of one of the members, for her share of the fees obtained by the joint members of a family as Purohits is cognizable in a Civil Court. KHEDROO OJHA v. MUSSAMUT DEO RANEE KOOMAR, 5 W.R. 222. [Appl., 8 B.L.R. 50=15 W.R 531.]

(13 & 14)—S 11, explanation, Civ Pro. Code, 1882—Right to offerings, suit for establishment of—Offerings being of substantial value as emoluments.—A suit for the regular offerings made out of the funds of a temple, which are not the voluntary offerings made by pilgrims, but which are of a substantial value as emoluments, being a suit of a civil nature as explained in s. 11, is cognizable by the Civil Court. KALI KANTA SURMA v. GOURI PROSAD SURMA BARDEHRI, 17 C. 906. (2 M. 62, R.; 10 B 233, D.) [F., 27 C. 30.]

(15)—Custom—Suit for a declaration of a right to 'Dharat' (weighman's fees), whether enforceable by custom.--Plaintiff sued for a declaration of his right to one-fourth seer per maund on all foreign grain weighed within the Kasba in lieu of service as chowdry according to ancient custom. Held that no custom sanctioning such a right was established, that it was only with the consent of the shop-keepers that the chowdhry was enabled to levy the fees, and that unless with such consent or as remuneration for services actually rendered at the request of the parties, he was not entitled to levy the fees. DEVI DAS v. NARAINA, 45 P.R. 1878, F.B. (8 P.R. 1872, R.)

(16)—Office of Grunthee in Sikh temple at Umritsar—Succession—Offerings or ardass—

Right of Suit—continued.

——27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

Joint family property—Evidence of separate enjoyment of ardass admissible though family joint.—M, who was formerly grunthee of the Sikh temple at Umritzar, died leaving behind him the plaintiffs, grand-sons by his elder son and the defendant, grandson by his younger son. Defendant was performing the duties of the office both before and after M's death, receiving no extra share in the profits of the office for so doing, but dividing what he received with his cousins. Defendant also shared with his relations the special offerings called ardass which a grunthee receives. Disputes subsequently arose and the defendant refused to share these offerings with the plaintiffs. Held that the office of grunthee or Guddee nusheen was not a descendible inheritance devolving on all the members of the family, to which the Guddee nusheen belonged, and that the ardass belonged separately to the guddee nusheen though he happened to be the member of a joint and undivided Hindu or Sikh family. The sharing of the offerings by the defendant with the plaintiffs was not either obligatory as a matter of law or custom. What had been thrown into the family funds only need be divided equally, and the profits made by the defendant as Guddee nusheen cannot by general law be treated as joint family property. NOWRUNG SINGH v. BHUGUT SINGH, 4 P.R. 1870. [R., 49 P.R. 1892.]

(17)—Suit for confirmation of possession—Vague intention to set up claim—Cause of action—Possession of hill and places of worship.—A plaintiff sued that his possession of a certain hill, the places of worship appertaining thereto, and the idols set up thereon by virtue of proprietary right, might be confirmed, alleging that the defendant was intending to lay claim to the offerings made to the idols and at the places of worship, and purposed to call into question his (plaintiff's) possessory right to the hill and places of worship. Held that the plaint disclosed no cause of action whatever, as the allegation against the defendant was a vague intention on his part to set up a claim. POORUM CHAND GALEECHA v. PARESHNATH SINGH, 12 W.R. 82.

(18)—Suit by holder of office of village priest.—A suit by the holder of the office of a village priest for damages against an intruder who deprives him of his rights and benefits will lie. VITHAL KRISHNA JOSHI v. ANANT RAMCHANDRA, 11 B. H. C. 6. [F., 3 B. 232, 3 N.L.R. 47, 8 N L.R. 133; Appr., 2 B. 470; R., 3 B. 9, 12 C.L.J. 74, 5 S.L.R. 107.]

(19)—S.11, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Suit of a civil nature—Shankaracharya—Dispute as to setting up a claim as a Shankaracharya—Injunction.—The plaintiff, the Shankaracharya of the Sharada Math at Dwarka, sued for a declaration that the defendant was not entitled to the style, title and dignities of a Shankaracharya, and that he was not entitled to call for or receive any offerings from the people of Ahmedabad or other places in Gujerat either in his assumed capacity of a Shankaracharya or of a Shankaracharya of the Jotir Math or of a branch of that Math, and for an injunction restraining the defendant from styling himself as a Shankaracharya in Gujerat or from claiming or receiving offerings in Gujerat as a Shankaracharya or as a Shankaracharya of the Jotir Math or of a branch of that Math:—Held, that the suit was not of a civil nature such as the Court would entertain. The office of Mohunt of the Sharada Math is in no way endangered by the defendant's action in claiming to be a Shankaracharya of the Jotir Math, nor are voluntary offerings made to Shankaracharyas in Gujerat fees claimable as of right by the holder of the plaintiff's office. For interference with a mere dignity or for voluntary offerings no suit can be maintained. Civil Courts will not decide disputes as to precedence or privilege between purely religious functionaries, nor will they grant injunctions to prevent preachers from preaching where they like, under any title they please, provided no office or property is disturbed or interfered with. MADHUSUDAN PARVAT v. SHREE MADHAV TEERTH, 11 Bom. L.R. 58 = 33 B. 278 = 1 Ind. Cas. 331.

(20)—Exclusive right to act as khatib—Suit for declaration and injunction when maintainable.—A suit by a person for a declaration of his exclusive right to act as Khatib in a certain locality and for an injunction restraining others from acting as such is not maintainable without allegation of disturbance of the plaintiff in the exercise of his office. MIRA MOHIDIN v. ASAN MOHIDIN, 17 M.L.J. 421. (15 M. 355, 19 M. 62, 2 M.L.J. 83, R.)

(21)—Act XXIII of 1871, ss. 3, 4, and 6—Suit for declaration of right to officiate as patil.—Act XXIII of 1871 should receive a strict construction, as being in derogation of the right of the subject to resort to the ordinary Civil Courts. (1 B. 523, R.) The Act does not prohibit a Civil Court from entertaining a suit merely for a declaration as to the eligibility of a person to officiate as patil of a village. GURUSHIDGAVDA BIN RUDRAGAVDA v. RUDRAGAVDATI KOM DYMANGAVDA, 1 B. 531. (1 B. 75, D.) [R., 10 A. 396, 14 B 395, 16 B. 537, 29 B. 480 = 7 Bom. L.R. 497.]

(22)—Suit for declaration of right to officiate as priest and receive offerings—Maintainability—Declaratory decree, Specific Relief Act, s. 42.—A Civil Court has jurisdiction to entertain a suit for a declaration of one's right to officiate, in alternate years as priest in a certain temple and to receive the offerings of worshippers of the idol. A Court of appeal must not dismiss a suit, because it is one praying only for a declaratory decree without any consequential relief

Right of Suit – continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

where the defendants had not taken that objection, but must allow the plaint to be amended. LIMBA Bin KRISHNA v. RAMA Bin PIMPLU, 13 B. 548. [F., 14 M. 46; R., 15 M. 15. U.B. R. 1897-1901 Vol. II, 231, 5 Bom. L. R. 329, 12 C.L.J 74=14 C.W.N. 1057; D., 15 M. 255, 19 A. 429, 26 C. 845.]

(23)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 11—Suit for office with no emoluments—Maintainability—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Reg. II of 1827—If applicable to suits between Mahomedans.—A suit for a declaration of one's right to hold a religious office, even though no fixed fees are attached to it, will lie under s. 11 of Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. A dispute as to the right to an office, as for example the office of Khatib among the Mahomedans, is not a caste question within the meaning of the term as used in s. 21 of Reg. II of 1827, which has no application to suits between Mahomedans. SAYED HASUN SAHEB v. HUSSANSHA, 13 B. 429. [R., 12 C.L.J. 74=14 C.W.N. 1057.]

(24)—Religious office—Suit for injunction restraining defendants from officiating in temple—Jurisdiction—Civil Courts—Kangra Bhojkis of Bhowan shrine—Right to officiate in temple—Custom.—A suit by the plaintiffs, the Bhojkis of the Bhowan shrine at Kangra, for an injunction restraining the defendants from officiating in the Bhowan temple on the ground that by custom the defendants were disqualified by descent for performing the services of the shrine, was held cognizable by a Civil Court. By the custom obtaining among the Kangra Bhojkis of the Bhowan shrine, only the sons of Kangra Bhojkis by wives who were the daughters of Kangra Bhojkis were entitled to officiate in the temple, and not sons of Kangra Bhojkis by daughters of Bhojkis of Jawala Mukhi or Naina Dai. BHAG MAL v. SANT, 27 P.R. 1880.

(25)—Suit to establish right to personal office, nature of.—Where the object of a suit is to establish a right to a personal office, the suit is of a personal character. SHAM CHAND GIRI v. BHAYARAM PANDAY, 22 C 92.

(26)—Cause of action—Pecuniary benefit—Performance of religious services.—A claim for pecuniary benefits in respect of the performance of religious services is one cognizable by a Civil Court. [R., 11 M. 450, 17 C. 906, 30 M. 158, 3 N.L.R. 131, 17 M.L.J. 1.] If, for the determination of such claim, it becomes necessary to determine incidentally the right to perform the services, the Courts must try and decide that right. KRISHNAMA v. KRISHNASAMI, 2 M. 62=6 I.A 120. P.C.=3 Ind. jur. 322=3 Suther 620=6 C.L.R. 201=4 Sar. 28.

(27)—Dharmakartha—Dancing girl—Mirasi.—Where it is alleged that honours and perquisites are appurtenant to the hereditary office of dancing girl of a pagoda, the question of their existence ought to be inquired into. KAMALAM v. SADAGOPASAMI, 1 M. 356. (1 M. 168, D.) [Appr., 14 B. 90; R., 4 B 545, 11 M. 393, 19 M. 127, 3 N.L.R. 47.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(28)—Dancing girl — Immoral custom.—Granting that the devadasis of a pagoda have, by the custom of that pagoda, a right to vote the introduction of any new dasis, such a right cannot be countenanced by Courts as it would be recognizing an immoral custom and encouraging the association of women to enjoy the monopoly of the gains of prostitution. (HINNA UMMAYI v. TEGARI CHETTI, 1 M. 168. (2 M. H.C. 56, 5 M.H.C. 161, D.) [R., 4 B.545, 11 M. 393, 19 M. 127; D., 1 M. 356.]

(29)—Suit for wasilat in respect of certain turn of worship, maintainability of—Offerings to idol and profits of shebait.—A suit for wasilat does not lie in respect of profits derived from a turn of worship, the offerings constituting the profits being in their nature uncertain and voluntary. If offerings are intended for an idol, there can be no personal claim to them. If they are intended for the shebait of the idol, they being voluntary and uncertain, must be taken to have been intended for the person performing the worship, at the time the offerings are made, whether rightfully or wrongfully, as against any other person who might have had a better title to perform the worship during the same time. KASHI CHANDRA CHUCKERBUTTY v. KAILASH CHANDRA BANDOPADHYA, 26 C. 356=3 C.W.N. 279. (10 W.R. 457, F.) [D., 27 C. 30; Diss., 17 M.L.J. 493.]

(30)—S. 11, Civ. Pro. Code. 1882—Suit for declaration and enforcement of right to officiate as shebait and to share offerings—S. 211, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882.—When a member of a family brings a suit against another for the declaration and enforcement of a hereditary right to officiate as shebait or priest, at the worship performed by votaries at the foot of a certain tree, and to share the offerings made at such worship, such a suit is maintainable, having regard to s. 11, Civ. Pro. Code. (13 S D.A. Part I, 362. 26 C. 356, D.; 17 C. 906, F.) There cannot be a decree for possession in such a case. Quaere.—Whether s. 212, Civ. Pro. Code, applies to such a case, and whether the question of the amount of these profits should be determined in execution of the decree. DINO NATH CHUCKERBUTTY v. PRATAP CHANDRA GOSWAMI. 27 C. 30=4 C W.N. 79. [F., 17 M.L.J. 493.]

(31)—Claim to be Chalvadi of Lingayet caste at Bagalkot—Caste question— Reg. II of 1827, s. 21—Claim to caste office—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.—A claim by a certain person to be Chalvadi of the Lingayet caste at Bagalkot is a caste question within the meaning of so much of Reg. II of 1827, s. 21, cl. (1) as remains unrepealed by Act X of 1861. [Appl., 6 B. 725; R., 15 B. 599, 18 B. 115, 19

Right of Suit—continued.

——27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

B. 507, 26 B. 174=3 Bom. L.R. 718; D., 11 M. 450, 13 B. 548, 23 B. 122.] A claim to a caste office, to be entitled to perform the honorary duties of that office, and to enjoy certain privileges and voluntary offerings at the hands of the members of the caste, is a caste question and is not cognizable by a Civil Court. (3 M.I.A. 198, R.) [Appl., 6 B. 725; R., 15 B. 599, 18 B. 115, 19 B. 507, 11 M. 450, 13 B. 548, 23 B. 122.] If a person usurps the office of another and receives the fees of the office, he is not bound to account to the rightful owner for them if the payments are merely voluntary. SHANKERA Bin MARAHASSAPA v. HANMA BHIMA, 2 B. 470.

(32)—Fees attached to Office—Suit to recover—Voluntary payments—Hereditary offices—Alienation of.—If a person usurps the office of another, and receives the fees of the office, he is bound to account to the rightful owner for them. Where the payments are merely voluntary, the case is different and no suit can be brought. [R., 11 B.H.C 6, 2 B. 470, 14 C. W.N. 1057=12 C.L.J. 75=6 Ind. Cas. 864.] Where the purchasers of an hereditary office were the grand-children of the then holder who would eventually succeed to the office as heirs, and the grandfather did nothing more than relinquish his right in their favour, held, that the alienation was valid. SITARAMBHET v. SITARAM GANESH, 6 B.H.C.A.C. 250. [R., 6 B. 293, 23 C. 645, 23 B. 131, 5 S.L.R. 107, 13 C.L.J. 449=16 C.W.N. 347=10 Ind. Cas. 41; D., 34 C. 828=11 C.W.N. 782.]

(33)—Office, right to—Right undefined and indefinite—Voluntary payment—Declaration.—Plaintiffs sued for the establishment of their right to an office without stating the exact rights and duties pertaining to that office, on the mere allegation that the defendants had obstructed them in the collection of the dues or profits. Both the lower Courts dismissed the suit. Held that, as those who made payments to a person in the plaintiff's position were under no legal obligation to render them to any particular individual in preference to another, nor to any person against their will, the plaintiffs were not entitled to an exclusive right and that the suit was not maintainable. RAM DEEHUL v. CHUKHOO, 1 N.W.P. 291. (Pooran Mull v. Khedoo Sahoo, S.D.A. 1846, F.)

(34)—Archaka kept out of office by co-archaka—Loss of voluntary contribution—Suit for damages.—A claim by an archaka of a temple against his co archaka to recover what might have been received as voluntary contribution, if he had not been kept out of office, is maintainable. BHIMA CHARYULU v. RAMANUJA CHARYULU, 17 M.L.J. 493. (27 C. 30, F.; 26 C. 653, Diss.)

(35)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1908, s. 9—Suit for declaration and injunction—Right to perform

Right of Suit—continued.

——27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

Ram Lila—Not connected with shrine or temple—Office—Voluntary payments—Suit of civil nature.—The plaintiff, a minor, sued for a declaration that he had the right to hold a certain Ram Lila and claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from interfering with that right. It was admitted that the Lila used to be held by means of voluntary subscriptions of the Hindu community. The expenses of the Ram Lila used to be paid out of these subscriptions, and the balance was appropriated by the plaintiff. Held that the suit was not maintainable under s. 9, the pageants not being connected with any temple, shrine or sacred spot, and the plaintiff not holding any office or receiving any emoluments. CHUNNU DAT VYAS v. BABU NANDAN, 7 A.L.J. 529=6 Ind. Cas. 223=32 A. 527. (19 M. 62, 11 M. 450, R., and Disc.)

(36)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 11, questions of religious ritual whether cognisable by Civil Court under—Emoluments for the ritual, effect of.—In this suit relating to a contest as to the right to recite certain mantras in a temple and to receive the emoluments given, on an objection raised that the matter could hardly be considered as the subject of a Civil suit, their Lordships of the Privy Council observed that there was a question of emoluments which could be preceded by questions of purely religious rituals without being barred by them. VENKATAVARATHA THATHACHARIAR v. ANANTHACHARIAR, 16 M. 299=3 M.L.J. 150, P.C.=6 Sar. 364. [R., 30 M. 158=17 M.L.J. 1=2 M.L.T. 69.]

(37)—S. 9, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908—Maripora Brahmin, suit by—Claim to officiate as priest at the cremation ceremony—Custom, valid, essentials of—Agreement with Municipality to officiate as priest, is specifically enforceable—Bengal Municipal Act (III of 1884, B.C.), s. 260-A—License to employ cremation priest, if can be granted.—Where the plaintiff claims a hereditary right to officiate exclusively as a priest on the occasion of the cremation ceremony of all dead bodies brought for funeral to a particular place, the suit is maintainable as one of a Civil nature. A claim for a declaration that the plaintiff is entitled, to the exclusion of all other Brahmins of the class to which he belongs, to officiate as a priest at the cremation ceremony, is not maintainable under Hindu law, or under any customary right. A custom, to be valid, must have four essential attributes; first, it must be immemorial; secondly, it must be reasonable; thirdly, it must have continued without interruption since its immemorial origin, and fourthly, it must be certain in respect of its nature generally, as well as in respect of the locality where it is alleged to obtain and the persons whom it is alleged to affect. In order to ascertain whether a particular custom is reasonable or not, one must look to the possible period of its inception. A voluntary consent of the people to the employment of the plaintiff or his predecessors as cremation priests cannot confer upon him any exclusive right, and the continuance of this state of things, even for generations, cannot confer upon him a legally enforceable right. An agreement with the Municipal Corporation that the plaintiff alone would officiate as a priest at the cremation ceremony is not specifically enforceable. S. 260-A of the Bengal Municipal Act does not contemplate that the commissioners should create a monopoly in favour of any person, even in respect of fuel shops. More than one person can get licenses to keep fuel shops for the sale of the necessary articles at the prescribed rates. The Municipality and the licensee from them are not entitled, by the grant of the license under s. 260-A of the Bengal Municipal Act, to compel any person to employ a particular cremation priest, and they have no authority to levy any fee for this purpose. GOURMONI DEBI v. CHAIRMAN OF PANIHATI MUNICIPALITY, 12 C.L.J. 75=6 Ind. Cas. 864 =14 C.W.N. 1057.

Right of suit—continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(38)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1908, s. 9—Stotrapatam office—Suit for declaration of right to recite stotrams, and injunction—Whether cognizable by Civil Court—Voluntary offerings—Refusal of right to participate in—Damages.—A suit for a declaration of the right of Vadagalais to recite stotrams, on certain occasions in the Conjeevaram temple, and also for an injunction to restrain Tengalais from interfering with their stotrapatam by themselves reciting the prabandham or in any other way is one cognizable by a Civil Court. (5 M. 313, R.) Where the offerings are voluntary, damages cannot be awarded, but when voluntary offerings have been actually contributed, then the refusal of a person's right to participate in the fund causes damage, which is a natural consequence of the refusal, and the Courts are entitled to award damages in such cases. BASHIAKAR v. VENKATA VARADA THATHACHARIAR alias CHINNASAWMI THATHACHARIAR, 20 M.L.J. 530=8 M.L.T. 137=7 Ind. Cas. 148.

(39)—S. 11, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882—Suit for honours attached to religious institutions and offices—Competency of Civil Courts to entertain such suits—Whether Civil Court can declare rituals and regulate them—A suit for honours will lie in the Civil Courts if they are claimed as attached inseparably to an office, as parts of its emoluments, and not simply accorded to its holder as marks of respect, which might be excluded to any other person to whom the decree of respect is due. A Civil Court can declare the rituals to be followed in any case where it is necessary to protect and preserve to the plaintiff the enjoyment of his office. SRIRANGACHARIAR v. RANGASAWMY BUTTACHARIAR, 5 M.L.T. 33=32 M. 291=3 Ind. Cas. 881. (9 M.L.J. 355, R.).

(40)—Hereditary village office—Emoluments of office—Enfranchisement—Suit by dismissed

Right of suit—continued.

—27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

holder.—A suit does not lie by a dismissed hereditary village officer, for the recovery of land, which formed the emoluments of his office and which has been enfranchised and granted to his successor in office. SRINIVASA v. LAKSHMAMMA, 7 M 206.

(41)—Hereditary village office—Severance of office from emoluments — Enfranchisement — Suit, by member of the family of office holder, for a share in the lands—Where lands which were appurtenant to a hereditary village office were severed from it and allowed to be enfranchised by the office-holder for the time being, a person who never held the office, though a member of the family of the office holder, could not have a claim on the emoluments. BADA v. HUSSU BHAI, 7 M. 236. [Expl., 10 M. 1; R., 17 M.L.J. 101=2 M.L.T. 101=30 M. 434.]

(42)—Reg. VI of 1831 — Madras Act IV of 1866 — Lands forming emoluments of hereditary office—Enfranchisement — Title to emoluments of office — Village office — Incapacity—Held by the Full Bench, Hutchins, J., dissenting.—Where the lands, forming the emoluments of a hereditary village office, having been separated from the office by Government, were enfranchised and granted by the Inam Commissioner to a person who had been appointed to, and at the date of enfranchisement, was holding, the office, though he had no hereditary claims to the same, a member of the family of the hereditary office-holders cannot claim such lands from him. [F., 15 M. 234, 21 M. 47; Cons., 26 M. 339; R., 20 M. 454, 7 M.L.J. 248, 27 M. 16, 17 M.L.J. 101, F.B.=30 M. 434=2 M.L.T. 101, 4 M.L.T. 282, 18 M.L.J. 603=31 M. 526; D., 22 M. 204.] In the case of permanently settled estates, inability, by reason of age or sex, to discharge personally the duties of the office, is a sufficient disqualification. VENKATA v. RAMA, 8 M. 249, F.B. [F., 9 M. 214; D., 10 M. 226.]

(43)—Enfranchisement of Inam lands in favour of two persons — One solely appointed to office — Right to recover the other's lands.—Where inam property attached to a hereditary office is separately enfranchised in favour of the two persons entitled by hereditary right to that office, and pattas are issued to each of them for a moiety of the lands, the subsequent appointment of one of them solely to the office does not entitle him to recover the other moiety of the lands. SANKARA SUBBAYYAR v. RAMASAMI AYYANGAR, 20 M. 454. [R., 27 C. 242.]

(44)—Enfranchisement, effect of—Grant to member of undivided family — Succession.—The effect of enfranchisement was to free the lands from their inalienable character, and to empower the Government to deal with them as they pleased. The grant of the enfranchised land to a member of an undivided family, and the issue of a title deed to him in respect of that land is not a grant to the undivided family, but to the grantee personally, and the future succession and transmission of the land was placed in the same position as any other private property. Members of the undivided family who were neither holders of the office at the time of enfranchisement, nor in possession of the lands, cannot maintain a suit to establish their right to the land on the death of the grantee without male issue VENKATARAYADU v. VENKATARAMAYYA, 15 M. 284.

Right of suit—continued.

——27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—continued.

(45)—Enfranchisement of inam — Grant to person not in office—Validity. — If, on the enfranchisement of a service inam, the Government grants a portion of the inam lands to a person who, though a member of the family of hereditary office-holders, was himself not actually in office at the time of enfranchisement, such a grant is not illegal on the ground that he was not the office-holder, and the Civil Court cannot refuse to recognise his title. TARIA GOWDU v VONAMO GOWDU, 22 M. 204. [R., 26 M. 359.]

(46)—Civ. Pro. Code., 1882, s. 11—Declaration of right to recite sacred texts in a temple on processional and other occasions—Suit of a Civil nature — Maintainability of suit—Right to office — Jurisdiction of Civil Courts. — Plaintiffs, some of the members of the Vadagalai community, sued for a declaration that they were entitled to recite certain sacred texts at a certain temple on processional and other occasions and for damages in the shape of value of betel-nut, tulsi, etc., which they might, otherwise, have received but for the obstruction of the defendants, the Tengalais. The suit was laid by plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and other members of the Vadagalai community, wherever residing. Held, the suit was unsustainable, the dispute being one relating to a mere matter of ritual or ceremony in a religious matter, with which a Civil Court can have nothing to do, there being no claim to any office or right to property and the claim for damages being nominal and imaginary. There could, in this case, be no claim to any particular office in the temple, the suit being one on behalf of untold thousands of people of an ill-defined community. SUBBARAYA MUDALIAR v. VEDANTACHARIAR, 28 M. 23 = 14 M.L.J. 171. [R., 30 M. 158 = 17 M.L.J. 1 = 2 M.L.T. 69, 3 M.L.R. 47.]

(47)—Incapacity of next heir—Nearest male sapinda —Right to sue for office — Regulation XXIX of 1802, s. 7. —Under s. 7 of Regulation XXIX of 1802 the heir of the preceding Karnam should be chosen by the landholders concerned for the vacant office of Karnam, and on proof of incapacity of the heir, the landlord may exercise his discretion in the nomination of persons, so that though the heir may be incapacitated, a sapinda of the deceased

Right of suit—continued.

——27.—Office or Emolument, Suits relating to—concluded.

Karnam is not entitled to the office against the will of the landholder. CHANDRAMMA v. VENKATRAJU, 10 M. 226. [R., 12 M. 188.]

See DECLARATORY DECREE, SUIT FOR—MISCELLANEOUS, 8 B.H.C., A.C., 35.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 12 B. 614, 2 Agra 80.

See KAZI, 1 B.H.C. App. 18.

See POSSESSION—ADVERSE POSSESSION, 2 M.I.A. 479.

——28.—Orders, Suits to set aside.

(1)—Suit to set aside order passed under Ben. Act VIII of 1869, s. 63.—A suit will be to set aside an order passed under s. 63 of Ben. Act VIII of 1869. WOOMA CHURN CHATTERJEE v. KADAMBINI DABEE, 3 C.L.R. 146.

(2)—Orders, suit to set aside —Order in contested application—Improper procedure.—A has no right of suit against B to set aside an order of Court on an application in a suit, which application has been contested between them and decided in favour of B. Such a mode of procedure for the purpose of getting an order of Court reversed is not allowed by law. NORROTOM SIKDAR v. JUGGERNATH SHAW, Bourke, O.C. 371.

(3)—Decree for lands with mesne profits—Endowed lands—Lands and mesne profits held as shebait—Personal decree—Decree—Interpretation.—A decree for lands with wasilat, where the defendant had held and claimed those lands as shebait of an endowment, and the profits of those lands had wrongly gone into the treasury of the shebait of the idol, is not a decree against the defendant personally but against her as the shebait of the idol to whose benefit the lands were endowed. The interpretation put upon a decree in execution is final until it is modified or reversed on review. No suit will lie to obtain a different interpretation. RANEE SHIBESHUREE DEBIA v. MOTHOORANATH ACHARJEE, 5 W.R. 202. [R., 18 W.R. 226.]

(4)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, ss. 256, 257—Act XXIII of 1861, s 14—Sale of property in execution of decree—Claim of pre-emption—Cancelment of sale—Suit by pre-emptor to maintain sale.—An order setting aside a sale in execution of decree, solely on the ground that a claim of pre-emption under s. 14 of Act XXIII of 1861 had been preferred in collusion with the judgment-debtor, is not warranted by the provisions of ss 256 and 257, Act VIII of 1859, and is liable to be contested in a regular suit by the pre-emptor whose legal rights have been injuriously affected by it. AMRIT MISSER v. GURDA PARDAN, 7 N.W.P. 183.

(5)—Minor widow. Property of—Management—Order of competent Court vesting—Suit to set aside, if maintainable—Suit for order directing widow to adopt, if maintainable—Declaratory decree.—Where a Court, having jurisdiction to determine who should have the management of the property of a minor widow, decides that the Will under which the plaintiff claimed to have the management was not sufficiently proved, and consequently ordered that the management should be in the defendant as guardian of the minor widow, held that no suit to set aside the order would lie. A suit for obtaining an order directing a minor widow to make an adoption is not maintainable. Nor can the Court, in the exercise of its discretion, grant a decree declaring the validity of such direction. It would be of no use to the plaintiff to establish a right under it, the management of the property of the widow having been vested by a valid order in some person other than the plaintiff. MUSSAMAT PEAREE DAYEE v. MUSSAMUT HURBUNSEE KOOER, 19 W.R. 127.

Right of Suit—continued.

——28.—Orders, Suits to set aside—continued.

(6)—Act XXVII of 1860—Grant of certificate—Remedy open to person affected.—An order granting a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 is conclusive as to the right to the certificate, and the remedy of any person affected by the certificate lies in a regular suit to recover any sum received by virtue of that certificate. A suit merely to set aside the certificate will not lie. RUGHOOBAR DYAL SINGH v. RAM NARAIN KOLYO, 22 W.R. 312.

(7)—S. 272, Act XIV of 1882 (Civ. Pro. Code, suit to set aside an order contemplated by the proviso to—Ss. 278 to 283, Civ. Pro. Code, providing for the mode of investigation, etc., to be made under s. 272.—A regular suit will lie for setting aside an order such as is contemplated by the proviso to s. 272 of the Code of Civil Procedure, that is, an order determining any question of title or priority as between the decree-holder and any other person in respect of money in deposit in a Court of Justice. The mode of investigation, the nature of the order to be made under s. 272, and the extent to which such an order is final are provided for in ss. 278 to 283, Civ. Pro. Code. TIKUN SINGH v. SHEO RAM SINGH, 19 C. 286.

(8)—Act XXI of 1841, and s. 308 of Act XXV of 1860—Magistrate's order for removal of local nuisance—Suit not maintainable in Civil Court to set aside order.—The object of this suit being to get cancelled two orders of the Magistrate, the one passed under Act XXI of 1841, and the other under s. 308 of Act XXV of 1860, restraining the plaintiff from closing a public pathway, the High Court dismissed the appeal without entering into the merits of the case, on the ground that the suit was one which no Civil Court has jurisdiction to entertain. KADERNATH MOOKERJEE v. PARBUTTY PEISHKER, 2 W.R. 267. [D., 7 W.R. 95, 15 C. 460, F.B.]

(9)—Order absolute for foreclosure obtained by fraud—Suit to set aside order, maintainability of.—An order absolute for foreclosure

Right of Suit—continued.

——28.—Orders, Suits to set aside—concluded.

may be set aside on the ground of fraud by means of a regular suit. KALOO SINGH v. MT. LACHMI BAI, 12 C.P.L.R. 82. (25 C. 133, F.) [R., 16 C.P.L.R. 111.]

(10)—Crim. Pro. Code, s. 185, sale of property under—Civil suit not maintainable to reverse.—Property belonging to plaintiff had been attached and sold under s. 185 of the Crim. Pro. Code. Plaintiff having been subsequently discharged from the offence of which he had been accused, instituted this suit to get back the property sold, making both Government and the purchaser of his property defendants in his action. The first Court gave him a decree. The Judge reversed that decision, holding that the suit could not be maintained under s. 185 of the Crim. Pro. Code, according to which the property had been sold. The High Court upheld the Judge's view of the law. The plaintiff might have availed himself of his right to appeal against the orders of the Magistrate, but he had no right to institute a civil action seeking to reverse a sale of property legally carried out under proper provisions of law. BUKHOOREE SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT, 8 W.R. 207. [R., 19 B. 668.]

(11)—Cause of action—Resumption proceeding—Jurisdiction of Special Commissioner.—Certain resumption proceedings were going on between the Government and a third party, wherein some lands, alleged to be the property of the plaintiff, were included in the lands to which the proceedings related. The plaintiff thereupon preferred an objection to the Collector which was disallowed. The Special Commissioner, on appeal, rejected the claim, holding that he had no jurisdiction. Held that the order would not constitute a cause of action either against the Government or against the third party. SHIBOOSOONDUREE DABEA v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE, 7 W.R. 373.

——29.—Possession, Suit for.

See POSSESSION.

(1)—Suit for declaration of right to and confirmation of possession—Possession obtained without aid of Court—Suit for dispossession of such possession maintainable.—If a person in whose favour a decree for possession is passed, obtains possession peaceably without the aid of the Court and is subsequently dispossessed, he can maintain an action against the persons who have dispossessed him, although he has not taken out execution of his decree. RAM NEWAZ SINGH v. KISHUN RAI, 6 N.W.P. 137.

(2)—Suit for possession—Land taken in execution of decree—Boundary suit.—A person has no right to bring a civil suit for recovering possession of land taken in execution of a decree passed in a boundary suit. RANEE SHAMASOONDERY DEBEA v. BEJOY GOBIND BURAL, W.R. 1864, 331. [F., 14 W.R. 39.]

(3)—First and second mortgage—Dispossession of second mortgagee—Cause of action—

Right of Suit—continued.

——29.—Possession, Suit for—continued.

Limitation—Interest.—There were two mortgages on the same property, the condition in each being that, on failure to re-pay the amount within a fixed time, the mortgagee should be put in possession ; the second mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage and, in execution of it, took possession ; the first mortgagee then sued on his mortgage, obtained a decree, and in execution of it ousted the second mortgagee, and finally the heirs of the mortgagor discharged the debt of the first mortgagee and resumed possession. In a suit by the representatives of the second mortgagee against the heirs of the mortgagor for possession of the lands and recovery of interest on the mortgage-debt, the Court of first instance decreed the plaintiff's claim. The High Court on appeal reversed this decree-holding that no right of action accrued to the plaintiffs by reason of the satisfaction of the debt of the first mortgagee, and the recovery of the estate by the mortgagor or his heirs. SHIMBHOO v. NARAIN SINGH, 5 N. W.P. 153. [Reversed, 1 A. 325, P.C.=4 I. A. 51.]

(4)—Suit for separate possession of share.—A suit will lie for partition of the lands of a certain talook, in order that the plaintiff may obtain separate possession of his share of those lands. GOLOKE CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY v. KALEE KINKUR CHUCKERBUTTY, 1 W.R. 164.

(5)—Formal possession in execution proceedings, sufficiency of, to maintain suit for possession—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 316, 318. — Plaintiffs sued to obtain possession of a garden, alleging that they had previously been put in possession of it by order of Court under a purchase made by their father in execution of a decree against the defendant, and that they had sufficiently been ousted by the defendant. Defendant contended that the plaintiffs never obtained possession of the garden, and that the sale proceedings were not regularly conducted. On the first ground the Chief Court held that even assuming that the possession given to the plaintiffs was only formal, it would sufficiently perfect the title of the plaintiffs or rather that of their father, acquired by purchase at the sale in execution so that it could be taken to have operated against the defendant as a complete transfer of the possession to the plaintiffs, who were therefore entitled to sue for possession. KARAM BAKSH v. NUND LAL, 103 P.R. 1884.

(6)—Suit for possession by purchaser at execution sale—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, ss. 11 and 318—Concurrent remedies.—The remedy for obtaining possession of property, given by s. 318 of the Civ. Pro. Code to the purchaser at an execution sale, does not preclude him from bringing a regular suit therefor, before exhausting the remedy under the section ; the remedies are concurrent. KISHORI MOHUN ROY CHOWDHRY v. CHUNDER NATH PAL, 14 C.

Right of Suit—continued.

——29.—Possession, Suit for—continued.

644. (9 C. 602. 12 C. 169, Cited.) [F., 4 A. L J. 434=29 A. 463=A.W.N. 1907, 131, 3 M. L.T. 306=31 M. 177 ; D., 3 Bom. L R. 94, A. W.N. 1908, 12=5 A.L J. 20=30 A. 72 ; R., 2 L.B.R. 140, F.B., 16 C.P.L.R 135, 74 P.R. 1907=16 P.L.R. 1908, 5 A.L.J. 285=A.W.N. 1908, 122, 31 A. 82=6 A.L.J. 71=5 M.L.T. 185.]

(7)—Dur-putneedar of part of patni estate—Person holding under kaimee patta from, right of, to sue for possession of share.—This suit related to a putnee estate which the plaintiff stated was the inheritance of five brothers of whom two had appropriated the whole of it. Plaintiff, as holder of a kaimee patta from the dur-putneedar of the three ousted brothers, instituted the present suit to obtain possession of his share of the estate. The decision of the Principal Sudder Ameen that such a suit was not maintainable as not having been preferred by the ousted brothers, was held by the High Court to be wrong in law. Under the circumstances, plaintiff was the sole person who could bring a suit to recover the portion of the estate covered by his patta, as he represented the original owners, the three brothers. TARA SOONDERY DEBYA v. SHAMA SOONDERY DEBYA, 4 W.R. 58.

(8)—Bengal Rent Act (VIII of 1869), s. 26—Ejectment of unregistered purchaser of tenure—Right of suit for possession — Unregistered transferee — Disadvantages — Shareholder in zamindari—Sale of tenure under rent—Decree —Effect — Suit by unregistered transferee for possession — Burden of proof.—None of the decided cases under the Bengal Rent Act show that an unregistered transferee of a tenure takes no title or has no locus standi to bring a suit complaining of an ejectment. But an unregistered purchaser takes subject to many disadvantages by reason of the want of registration, e.g., he cannot come in and object to a sale—proviso to s. 63 of the Act. And if a sale takes place in a rent-suit brought by and against proper persons, and the sale be of the tenure, the unregistered transferee has no title as against the purchaser. The holder of a rent-decree, in execution of which the tenure is sold, assuming that he is only a shareholder in the zamindari right, has no right, under s. 64 of the Rent Act, to sell the tenure, but only the interest of the person against whom the decree is passed, so that the onus would be on the purchaser, in a suit against him for possession of the tenure by the ejected, unregistered transferee, to show that the sale under the rent-decree was such as to give him priority over the unregistered transferee (plaintiff). KRISTO CHUNDER GHOSE v. RAJ KRISTO BANDYOPADYA, 12 C. 24. [D., 26 C. 677 ; R., 4 C.L.J. 68=10 C.W.N. 176.]

(9)—Suit under kobala—Plea that plaintiff was mere benamidar—Onus on plaintiff to prove not only title but also possession within 12 years of suit.—In this suit for possession, plaintiff rested her title on a kobala by which the property was sold to her. Defendant, while admitting the factum of the kobala, pleaded that the purchase was really hers though made by her in the name of the plaintiff who was a mere benamidar; she also pleaded that the plaintiff was never in possession. Held that the defendant, having from the first pleaded that the plaintiff never had actual possession, was entitled to a distinct decision upon this point; for, the kobala under which the plaintiff claimed, bore date more than 12 years prior to the institution of the suit, and she could not get a decree unless she proved, not only her title, but also that she had been in possession within 12 years of the filing of her plaint. KEDAR NATH MAHATAH v. KADUMBINEE DEBEA, 10 W.R. 239.

Right of Suit—continued.

——22.—Possession, Suit for—concluded.

(10)—Suit to recover land with arrears of rent, cognizable only in Collector's Court under Act X of 1859.—This was a suit to recover possession of lands and arrears of rent, although in the plaint it was stated to be one for possession and wassilat. The suit was, therefore, held to have been wrongly brought in the Civil Court; for, the plaintiff's remedy, if any, should have been sought in the Collector's Court under Act X of 1859. ISSUR CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY v. ASSAN SIRDAR, 10 W.R. 134.

(11)—Suit--Survey award--Possession—Limitation—Act XIV of 1859, s. 1, cl. 12.—Where a plaintiff sued not only for the cancelment of a survey award, but also to be restored to possession of land wherefrom he had been subsequently dispossessed, his suit was held not to be barred because not brought within three years of the award, the latter claim being a different cause of action, to be governed by the limitation of twelve years in cl. 12, s. 1, Act XIV of 1859. An appellate Court can suo motu raise the question of limitation for the first time, where it appears on the face of the plaint that the suit is barred. MOZAFFUR ALLY v. GIRISH CHANDRA DAS, 1 B.L.R.A.C. 25=10 W.R. 71.

(12)—Crim. Pro. Code, s. 320—Possession—Title—Jurisdiction.—Where, as regards the right of use of a piece of land, the Magistrate on enquiry under s. 320, Crim. Pro. Code, forbade the opposite party to retain possession until the decision of a Civil Court adjudging his title to do so, and the opposite party subsequently brought a Civil suit in which his title was decreed, held that the order of the Magistrate was not a final adjudication, plaintiff's right of suit being reserved by law. MOHESH CHUNDER MOOKERJEE v. RAMMOOTUN PALIT, 14 W.R. 163.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 2 N.W.P. 85.

Right of Suit—continued.

——30.—Privacy, Invasion of.

See PRIVACY, RIGHT OF.

Easement—Privacy—Injunction.—The invasion of privacy by opening windows is not a wrong for which an action will lie. SAYYAD AZUF v. AMEERUBIBI, 18 M. 163.

——31.—Public Worship, Suits concerning, Rights to.

(1)—Public mosque—Rights of worshippers to sue mutwalis or superintendents.—People who use a public mosque for the purpose of worship are entitled to sue the mutwalis or superintendents in charge of it to restrain them from acts believed by them to be contrary to the intention or purpose for which the mosque and its appurtenances were built, or which are likely to obstruct or impede worshippers in their entrance to or exit from the mosque. ABDUL RAHMAN v. YAR MUHAMMAD, 3 A. 636=A.W.N. 1881, 34.

(2)—Civil Court—Cognizance—Suit to establish claim by worshipper to have procession of idol carried along his street.—Per Sir Arnold White, C.J.—A suit by an individual worshipper to establish a claim to have the procession of an idol carried along his street is not cognizable by a Civil Court. Per Davies, J.—Such a suit is cognizable by the Civil Court. The right of public worship if infringed is remediable in a Civil Court. NAGIAH BATHUDU v. MUTHACHARRY, 11 M.L.J. 215. [R., 32 C. 1072=2 C.L.J. 590=10 C.W.N. 505, 17 M.L.J. 1=30 M. 158=2 M.L.T. 69, 19 M.L.J. 743=7 M.L.T. 248=5 Ind. Cas. 76.]

(3)—Liberty to erect places of worship.—In India, members of one sect are at liberty to erect a place of worship on their own property, although it is more or less contiguous to a place already occupied by a place of worship appertaining to another sect. The people of any sect are at liberty to erect, on their property, places of worship, either public or private, and to perform worship provided that, in the performance of their worship, they do not cause material annoyance to their neighbours. SESHAYYANGAR v. SESHAYYANGAR, 2 M. 143 [F., 7 C. 694; Appr., 5 M. 304=2 Weir 73.]

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 92, 93 O. I. r. 8, 11 A. 18=A.W.N. 1888, 276.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—WAKF, 5 A. 497=A.W.N. 1883, 19.

——32.—Registration of Name.

(1)—Plaint — Parties — Collector—Entry in Revenue register—Title—Effect.—In a suit for the recovery of a share in land in right of heirship, the plaintiff cannot make the Collector a party defendant, simply because he has entered in his Revenue register only the name of one person as occupant of that land. The proper prayer for relief should be for an award of his share in the property of the deceased or for a declaration of his right to such a share and not for the entry of his name in the Collector's book. The fact that another person's name has been entered in the Collector's book, as occupant of the land, does not necessarily of itself establish that person's title or defeat the title of the plaintiff. The Collector's book, is kept for purposes of revenue and not for purposes of title. FATMA KOM NUBI SAHEB v. DARYA SAHEB, 10 B.H C. 187. [F., 13 B. 75; R., 10 B.H.C. 192, 10 B. H.C. 194, L B.R. 1892—1900, 181, 6 Bom. L. R. 988, 5 Bom. L.R. 956, 13 Bom. L.R. 879 = 35 B. 487.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——32.—Registration of Name—continued.

(2)—Plaintiff in possession suing for change of registry—No allegation of refusal by proper authorities—Proper authorities not impleaded—Suit liable to be dismissed.—Where a person alleges that he is in possession of property and prays the Court to cause the registry to be altered into his name, without any allegation that the proper authorities have improperly refused to make the entry, and without joining as defendant the only person who has power so to do, his suit ought to be dismissed. IBRAI BYARI v. REVD. H. A KAUNDINYA, 2 M H.C. 363.

(3)—Chota Nagpur—Registration by Collector.—There is no law in force in Chota Nagpur province by which the Collector can be compelled to register the plaintiff's name as the proprietor of an estate. LALLA BISSEN PERSHAD v. THE COLLECTOR OF HAZAREEBAGH, 13 W.R. 397.

(4)—Purchase of share in transferable tenure—Zemindar still treating owner of share as full owner—Suit in Civil Court against zemindar and vendor—Absence of registration in sherista—Court bound to consider undue advantage to zemindar by reason of his fraud.—Where a person had purchased, with the knowledge of the zemindar, a share in a tenure transferable by sale, the zemindar is bound to act as against that person in good faith; and if, with that knowledge, he chooses to treat the actual owner of 8 annas as if he still remained the owner of 16 annas, with a view of injuring and avoiding the rights purchased by the new tenant, the Court, notwithstanding that the formal act of registration has not been gone through, will take care that the zemindar gains no advantage from an act which, on the supposition, is a fraudulent one in itself. In such a case, a suit will lie in the Civil Court against the zemindar as well as against his vendor. Because, if two parties collude to do any act injuring the rights of a third party, that party has an action against them of some sort or other. MOHESH CHUNDER SHOMADDAR v. HURONATH ACHARJEE, 6 W.R. 179.

(5)—Suit for maintenance of possession of lands—Misjoinder of parties—Trial of portion of suit on merits—Procedure, whether regular—Correction of error in register, Settlement paper.

Right of Suit—continued.

——32.—Registration of Name—concluded.

—A suit based on the allegation that the lands in suit, which were in the possession of the plaintiffs, had been wrongly recorded in some settlement papers, as belonging to the defendants, was brought by the plaintiffs for maintenance of possession by correction of the error which threatened to disturb their possession. The defendants pleaded that the plaintiffs, not being joint owners of the lands claimed by them, were not competent to sue for them jointly, and that they were not warranted in impleading them (the several defendants) in a single suit, as they were not in joint possession of those lands. Further, there was no allegation in the plaint that the lands in question or any portion of them had been recorded as jointly belonging to the defendants. The Court of first instance and the lower appellate Court decreed a portion of the plaintiffs' claim. Held, on special appeal, that the suit as brought should have been dismissed on the ground of misjoinder, without adjudication on the merits as the plaintiffs had no common cause of action in the matter of the suit against the defendants, such as to justify suing them all together, and as the irregularity by which the suit was brought before a Court other than the one which would otherwise have had cognizance of it, was calculated to produce error or defect in the decision on the merits. GANGA RAI v. MUSSUMAT SUKEENA BEGUM, 5 N.W.P. 72.

——33.—Revenue, Sale for arrears of.

See SALE— SALE FOR ARREARS OF REVENUE AND CESS.

(1)—Sale of immoveable property by Revenue Court—Objections by third party—Title of latter—Right of suit—Act XXXII of 1860, s. 184.—Where a third party objected to the sale of certain immoveable property by a Revenue Court, held that s. 184 of Act XXXII of 1860 did not prohibit the institution of a suit by him to declare that the property was his, although he had not deposited the money demanded by Government or filed security. SHEO PERSHAD SINGH v. GOPAL LALL, 14 W.R. 276.

(2)—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 83—Payment of Government revenue by mortgagee in possession to save property—Payment of mortgage money into Court by mortgagor—Mortgagee drawing the money and relinquishing deed and possession of property—Subsequent suit for recovery of revenue paid by sale of mortgaged property.—A usufructuary mortgagee had paid arrears of Government revenue on the mortgaged property to prevent its being sold in auction therefor, but on payment by the mortgagor into Court under s. 83 of the Act of the amount of the mortgage-debt only, the mortgagee took out the amount and deposited the mortgage-deed in Court to be handed over to the mortgagor, and also quitted possession of the property in his favour. After thus having lost his lien and rights as mortgagee, he brought a suit to recover the payment made by him on account of arrears of revenue paid by him, by sale of the mortgaged property. Held that, although he could have added these payments to the principal money due under the mortgage while the mortgage was in existence, and could have recovered them as part of the mortgage debt, yet, he was not entitled, after the mortgage has been extinguished, to proceed against the mortgaged property on account of such payments. Held also that he might, under such circumstances, bring a simple money-suit for the money paid, subject, however, to the law of limitation applicable to the case. ANANDI RAM v. DUR NAJAF ALI BEGUM, 13 A. 195 =A.W.N. 1890, 228. [R., 22 M. 332.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—33.—Revenue, Sale for arrears of—concld.

(3)—N.W.P. Land Revenue Act (XIX of 1873), ss. 185, 186 —Revenue sale—Surplus proceeds—Payment by Collector to two mortgagees of defaulter—Suit by one mortgagee, against the other, if maintainable.—A certain estate which had been mortgaged separately to the plaintiff and to the defendant, on being sold for arrears of revenue, fetched a much larger sum than was necessary to discharge such arrears. The Collector, disregarding the provisions of ss. 185 and 186 of the Land Revenue Act, refused to pay the surplus proceeds to the defaulter, and handed it over to the two mortgagees of the defaulter one of whom, alleging that his mortgage had priority over the other's mortgage, brought the present suit against that other, whose debt the Collector had paid in full to recover money sufficient to pay off the balance of his own debt. Held, that such a suit was not sustainable, the plaintiff having failed to show any cause of action. The voluntary and unauthorised payments by the Collector in violation of his duty under the provisions of the Land Revenue Act did not create any right of action in the plaintiff as against the defendant for having the balance of his mortgage-debt made good by the defendant because of its priority over the debt due to the latter. KUNJ BEHARI LAL v. PARSOTAM NARAIN, 21 A. 137=A.W.N. 1898, 210.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 8 P. R. 1872.

—34.—Sale in Execution of Decree.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

(1)—Limitation Act, XIV of 1859, s. 3, cl. 1 —Suit by judgment-debtor to set aside execution sale—Fraudulent sale under satisfied decree—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859, s. 256.—The limitation of one year provided by s. 3, cl. 1 of Act XIV of 1859 is not applicable to a suit brought by a judgment-debtor to set aside an execution sale, on the ground that the decree-holder fraudulently got the property sold in execution of a previous satisfied decree. S. 256, Act VIII of 1859, did not bar such a suit. BUDREE v. LOKEMUN, 3 Agra 89.

Right of Suit—continued.

— 34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

(2)—Execution—Proceedings without judgment-debtor's knowledge—Act VIII of 1856, s. 257, order under—Sale in execution—Suit by judgment-debtor against purchaser to set aside—Effect of making decree-holder party to suit—Act XXIII of 1861—Fraud.—There can be no order under s. 257, Civ. Pro. Code, where the judgment-debtor has not been aware of the proceedings in execution and has not made his objection till after the sale has been confirmed. A suit by a judgment-debtor against an auction-purchaser to set aside the sale in execution, to which suit the decree-holder is made a party in order that he may be made liable for the costs of all the parties, is not barred by s. 11, Act XXIII of 1861. Where, in execution of a decree for a sum of three rupees, landed property of the judgment-debtor was attached and sold, and the sale was conducted by a common peon of the Nazir's office, and the moment the judgment-debtor heard of what had happened, he went to the Court and deposited the money due under the decree, held the circumstances gave rise to the inference that what was done was done behind his back, and were sufficient to raise a case of fraud. SREEMENTO PURAMANICK v. OBHOY CHURN MANNA, 11 W.R. 297.

(3)—Execution of decree—Attachment of property—Private sale of property to pay decree amount—Subsequent Court sale for interest and costs due to decree-holder—Purchaser at private sale objecting to confirmation of execution-sale—Suit to set aside sale—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, s. 246.—A decree-holder who had two decrees against his judgment-debtor, one against the landed property, and the other a simple money-decree, proceeded to execute the former decree by attachment and sale of the property, the amount of the latter decree being also entered in the execution petition. Before sale of the property, the judgment-debtor having sold the property privately to the plaintiff, paid the total amount of the two decrees except interest and costs. The decree-holder after six months brought the property to sale for interest and costs and it was purchased by the defendant. The plaintiff after having unsuccessfully objected to the confirmation of sale, sued to set aside the order confirming the sale. Held that the Court had no alternative but to sell the right of the judgment-debtor, in the absence of objections, that the law which allowed the parties to object to the confirmation of the sale, on the ground of irregularities, was not wide enough to cover an objection of the nature contemplated by s. 246, Civ. Pro. Code, but brought at the wrong time, and that the suit as framed did not disclose any cause of action, inasmuch as the order which he sought to set aside did not at all concern him, and as his rights under the private purchase had not been touched by the auction-sale. MIRZA HOOSEIN BEG v. JEEWA RAM, 5 N.W.P. 139.

Right of Suit—continued.

— 34.— Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

(4)—Rent—Sale of tenure—Previous private sale without notice—Rights of such purchaser—Right of suit—Bengal Act of 1869, s. 26—Civ. Pro. Code. s. 311— Execution sales under Civ. Pro. Codes, 1859 and 1877—Difference.—Where a zemindar, who had no notice of a private transfer of his registered tenant's interest in the land (such as is described in s. 26 of the Bengal Rent Act), brought a suit for rent against his tenant and sold the whole tenure in execution, which he himself purchased, and an application by a prior private purchaser from the tenant, to set aside the sale under s. 311 of the Civ. Pro. Code, was (wrongly) rejected, held, such purchaser might have satisfied the rent decree and so prevented the sale, or might have appealed from the order refusing to set the sale aside; but could not, in the absence of fraud, treat the proceedings in the rent-suit as a nullity on the ground that he was not a party thereto and sue the zemindar and the tenant to set aside the rent sale. [R., 20 C. 418, 22 C. 802, 9 C.W.N. 134; D., 4 C.L.J. 68=10 C.W.N. 176.] Obiter.—An execution-sale under the Civ. Pro. Code of 1877 is different from one under that of 1859; what was sold under the older Code was "the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor"; but under the later, the property of the judgment-debtor, i.e., the thing itself was sold. PANYE CHUNDER SIRCAR v. HURCHUNDER CHOWDHRY, 10 C. 496.

(5)—Decree for arrears of rent—Sale in execution—Right of judgment-debtor to set aside sale.—A judgment-debtor cannot sue to set aside a sale in execution of decree for arrears of rent. RUTHUN MONEE DASSEE v. KALEE-KISSEN CHUCKERBUTTY, W.R. F.B. 147.

(6)—Act X of 1859, ss. 107, 110, 111, 151—Sale in execution of under-tenure—Suit to set aside sale—Limitation.—A party who objects under s. 111 of Act X of 1859, to a sale, in execution of a Civil Court's decree, of a saleable under-tenure other than that from which arrears of rent are due, and whose objection is overruled, is entitled under s. 107 to bring a suit in a Civil Court to set aside the sale, and s. 151 of the Act is no bar to such suit. The provisions of s. 110 are applicable to the case. JUGGESSUR SUHAYE v. GOPAL LALL, 11 W. R. 260.

(7)—Lands outside District—Suit to set aside sale by Collector—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.—Where a Collector proceeds to sell lands not lying within his district, he acts without jurisdiction; in such a case, a suit can be maintained in the Civil Court to set aside as illegal that which has been done by the Collector without jurisdiction. KHOONOO v. AOODAL SINGH, 8 W.R. 511.

(8)—Execution of decree for rent—Collector's order for sale made without jurisdiction—Suit

Right of Suit—continued.

— 34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

maintainable in Civil Court to set aside.—Plaintiffs, the judgment-debtors under a decree for arrears of rent, had applied to have their rights and interests in the tenure which had fallen into arrear, sold and then, if the arrear were not realised, that their other immoveable property might be sold. The Collector rejected this petition. The present suit was brought to set aside the above order as illegal. The lower Courts held that, under the provisions of s. 105, Act X of 1859, the tenure upon which the arrear accrued must be first sold, and that the decree-holder was not entitled to proceed against other landed property till this be done; and they accordingly set aside the sale. The defendant, on special appeal, urged that s. 105, Act X of 1859, did not restrict the power of a decree-holder to select such property as he pleased for sale in liquidation of his decree; and that the terms of the section were permissive and not peremptory. But it was held by the High Court that the permissive words in s. 105 have reference not to the immoveable property, but to the person and moveable property of the debtor, and that s. 105 clearly lays it down that, till the tenure on which the arrear has accrued be sold, other landed property cannot be brought to sale, and concurred in the opinion of the lower Courts, that the order of the Collector was wholly without jurisdiction and that the sale of the suit estate could not be made according to law till the tenure on which the arrear accrued was sold. JOKEE LAL v. NARSING NARAIN SINGH, 4 W.R. Act X, Rul. 5. [R., 8 W.R. 511, 14 C. 14.]

(9)—Execution of decree—Sale in execution—Suit to set aside sale on grounds which could have been taken in appeal against decree—Suit not maintainable—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 244, scope of.—A party to a decree and subsequent execution proceedings, allowed execution to proceed and property to be sold, without appealing. He subsequently brought a separate suit to recover the property so sold on grounds such as (i) that he was wrongly impleaded personally instead of as a representative; (ii) that the Court had wrongly reinstated execution proceedings after dismissing them for default in payment of deficient Court-fees ordered by the Court, &c. Held that a separate suit was not maintainable because these grounds could have been taken in appeal from the original decree or orders in execution. Questions arising between the decree-holder and the representative as to whether the attached property has come to the representative as such and so is liable to be taken in execution, or is the representative's own property derived from some other source, and therefore not liable to be taken in execution, must, under s. 244, Civ. Pro. Code, be decided in the execution proceedings and not by a separate suit. BENI PRASAD KUNWAR v. LUKHNA KUNWAR, 21 A. 323=A.W.N. 1899, 104. (16 C. 1, 12 A. 313, 11 B.L.R. 149, R.)

Right of Suit—continued.

——34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

(10)—Sale in execution of a decree—Suit to set aside order setting aside sale—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 256, 257.—By the Full Bench, Oldfield, J., dissenting—Where an order setting aside a Court-sale is illegally passed, that is, passed in the absence of objections permissible under ss. 256, 257 of the Civ. Pro. Code, it cannot be either valid or final; and, though an appeal against such an order is prohibited, there is nothing to prevent the auction-purchaser from filing a suit to set it aside. DIWAN SINGH v. BHARAT SINGH, 3 A. 206, F.B. (1 A. 374, R.) [Appr., 20 A. 379, F.B.; R., 3 A. 701.]

(11)—Auction sale set aside—Suit for confirmation of sale—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, ss. 311, 312, 588—Finality of order setting aside sale.—(By the Full Bench, Oldfield, J., dissenting)—Where a sale of immoveable property in execution of a decree has been set aside under ss. 311 and 312 of the Civ. Pro. Code, the auction-purchaser can maintain a suit for the confirmation of the sale on the ground that there was no irregularity in the publication or conduct of the sale. It is not barred by the last clause of s. 312, for, it is not a suit to set aside a sale, nor is it barred under the last clause of s. 588 which declares that "the orders passed in appeal under this section shall be final;" for this only means that there shall be no second appeal. AZIM-UD-DIN v. BALDEO, 3 A. 554, F.B. [Not F., 18 A. 437; F., 9 A. 602; R., 19 B. 216.]

(12)—Sale in execution of decree—Order of attachment and sale-notification not signed by Judge, but by Munsarim—Sale set aside—Suit to set aside order and confirm sale—Subsequent bona fide purchase—Equitable estoppel.—S. 222 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, requires that warrants for execution shall be signed by the Judge. Therefore, an order of attachment and notification of sale of immoveable property in execution of a decree, not signed by the Judge, but by the Munsarim, can have no legal effect, and a sale of such property held after such attachment and in pursuance of such notification will be void. And even though such a sale may be irregularly set aside by the Court executing the decree, a suit to set aside the order setting aside the sale is not maintainable, as the sale itself was ab initio void. [Affirmed, 7 A. 507, P. C.; R., 12 A. 96.] Where, subsequent to the setting aside of such sale, the properties were privately purchased bona fide and for value by a person who discharged previous incumbrances on it, the auction-purchaser would, in any view of the case, be estopped from suing after a long delay, for confirmation of his sale and for the avoidance of the private sale, and thereby taking advantage of the circumstances which have considerably enhanced the value of the property. RAM DIAL v. MAHTAB SINGH, 3 A. 701=A.W.N. 1881, 62. [Affirmed. 7 A. 507, P.C.; R., 12 A. 96.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

(13)—Execution of decree—Sale in execution—Objection to sale by third party—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 311, 244, 278, 283—Suit for confirmation of sale in execution—Declaratory decree—Specific Relief Act, s. 42.—A sale in execution of a decree cannot be set aside at the instance of persons who are neither the holders of the decree executed nor the owners of the property sold. [D., 15 A. 318.] Where a sale of property in execution of a decree was wrongly set aside at the instance of persons who had no locus standi to object to it, and the property was attached in execution of another decree against the judgment debtor (owner), held, in a suit by the purchaser to cancel the order setting aside the sale, to confirm the sale, and for a declaration that the property was not liable to be sold in execution of the latter decree, that such a suit could only be maintained under s. 42 of the Specific Relief Act, but that, reading s. 244 with ss. 278 and 283 of the Civ. Pro. Code, it was evidently intended by the Legislature that such questions should be decided in the execution department, and was premature and not maintainable. MAN KUAR v. TARA SINGH, 7 A. 583=A.W.N. 1885, 124. [Diss., 23 B. 266; Cons., 18 A. 410=16 A.W.N. 126.]

(14)—Decree of High Court—Execution-purchaser, rights of—Suit for partition before conveyance—Rules 415, 431 of High Court.—The position of a purchaser in execution of a decree of the High Court with a certificate from the Registrar, is that of one clothed with a right to a conveyance by virtue of a contract; he does not, save as regards the parties to the contract of sale, hold the position of an owner. All that passes to him, as against the defendant in the suit, is an equitable estate and a right to the conveyance of the property. And he would not be entitled, before actual conveyance of the property, to maintain a suit for partition. JOHUR MULL KHOORBA v. TARANKISTO DEB, 10 C. 252.

(15)—No suit or appeal for refund of sale proceeds paid to wrong party.—No suit or appeal will lie for refund of proceeds of sale in execution of decree paid to wrong party under s. 270, Civ Pro. Code, 1859. HURISH CHUNDER SIRCAR v. AZIMOODEEN SHAHA, W.R.F.B. 180.

(16)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 295, Proviso (c) (=s. 73, new Code)—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 80—Execution of decree—Sale in execution of decree enforcing mortgage—Priority.—B's hypothecation was intermediate between two hypothecations of the same property made to A. A obtained two decrees on his mortgages, and the whole of the sale-proceeds, realised in execution of his decree, was paid to him. B on obtaining a decree in his mortgage, sued A for having his decree satisfied out of the sale-proceeds under A's decree after discharging the amount due to A under his first incumbrance. Held that:—

Right of Suit—continued.

——34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—contd.

(a) The suit was maintainable. (b) The words "when immoveable property is sold in execution of a decree ordering its sale for the discharge of an incumbrance thereon" could not mean sale ordered for the discharge of more incumbrances than one. (c) Such construction would frustrate the object the Legislature had in view, not only in s 295, Civ. Pro. Code, but also in s. 80 of Act IV of 1882, and would be to apply a principle to the distribution of proceeds which would give priority to a subsequent incumbrance. (d) If A's second mortgage incumbrance be also treated as incumbrance within the meaning of s. 295, proviso (c), for the discharge of which the sale was ordered, B would come neither within the third nor within the fourth category of distribution, inasmuch as his decree was a decree for enforcement of a lien, and not a decree for money within the meaning of that proviso. MITTHU LAL v. KISHAN LAL, 12 A. 546 = A.W.N. 1890, 77.

(17)—Sale in execution of decree—Order setting aside sale—Suit to set aside order—Suit for possession—Civ. Pro. Code, 1859, ss. 256, 257.—An order setting aside a sale in execution of decree is final and not liable to be set aside by means of a separate suit, only when it is regularly made under the provisions of s. 257, Civ. Pro. Code. Therefore, when the same property was sold on the same day to two persons in execution of two different decrees, and the sale to one of them was, at the instance of the other, set aside on the ground that the decree of the former had been satisfied prior to the sale, a separate suit to set aside the order of the Court was maintainable, as the order setting aside the sale was not passed under s. 257. The plaintiff in the above case could only sue for a declaration that the sale to him should be confirmed; he could not sue also for possession, as that remedy must be sought in the Court executing the decree, which would, after confirming his sale, put him in possession of the property. SANGAM RAM v. SHEOBART BHAGAT, 3 A. 112.

(18)—Decree enforcing sale of immoveable property—Sale of such decree by Court without jurisdiction—Sale in execution—Fraudulent representation by decree-holder—Suit to set aside sale.—The sale of a decree enforceable by sale of immoveable property, by a Court which has no jurisdiction over such property, is illegal and invalid, and liable to be set aside. [R., 34 C. 576.] When a decree-holder makes a fraudulent representation that a decree in favour of his judgment-debtor, which is attached and sold at his (the decree-holder's) instance, subsists and that the judgment-debtor has a subsisting interest in it, the auction-purchaser purchasing such decree on the faith of such representation, will be entitled to sue for the setting aside of the sale; and this, notwithstanding the rejection of his application under s. 313 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, for the cancelment of such sale. RAGHUNATH DAS v. KARKAN MAL, 3 A. 568.

Right of Suit—continued.

——34.—Sale in Execution of Decree—concld.

(19)—Declaratory decree — Decree ordering sale of property by Court—Second order—Decree of Revenue Court—Refusal of Collector to sell property in execution—Second application to Collector—Right of action—Suit to establish lien—Sale to discharge lien.—Where a person has got a decree of a Civil Court ordering the sale of certain property by one Court or the other, he cannot come to the Civil Court for a second order, or rather for the Court to repeat its former order, in the absence of any cause shown. If a person whose application to the Deputy Collector to sell certain property in execution of the decree of a Revenue Court is refused, fails to bring a suit within the proper time for a declaration of his right to have the property sold, he cannot procure for himself more time by simply making a second application to the Deputy Collector for execution, and getting the refusal repeated. A suit brought for declaration of right to have certain property sold by a Deputy Collector in execution of a Revenue Court's decree, cannot be treated as a suit brought in the Civil Court to establish the lien which the plaintiff has got by virtue of the kubooleut on the property, and to bring the property to sale in the Civil Court in order to discharge that lien. RAJAH RUGHOONUNDUN SINGH BAHADOOR v. GOPAL CHUND CHOWDHRY, 20 W.R. 17.

(20)—No saleable interest in judgment-debtor at time of sale—Right of purchaser to sue to recover purchase-money.—Where it was found that at the time of a sale the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold the purchaser was entitled to institute a suit to recover the purchase-money from the decree-holder. DHANNOO JINGAR v. ANTOBA JANNARDAN KALAR, 12 C.P.L.R. 49.

(21)—Registration—Sale of immoveable property—Loss of sale deed before registration—Subsequent sale to another with notice of first sale—Right of first purchaser.—A deed of sale of immoveable property for more than Rs. 100 was lost before registration. The vendor subsequently resold the property to another who had knowledge of the first sale, and put him in possession. Held that the first purchaser could sue the vendor to compel the execution of a fresh deed of sale and for possession of the property. NALLAPPA REDDI v. RAMALINGACHI REDDI, 20 M. 250. [R., 5 N.L.R. 70; D., 1 L.B.R. 293.]

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 92, 12 W.R 41.

See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, ss. 60, 68, 72, 74, 75, 95, 22 M. 332.

——35.—Subscription.

(1)—Suit to recover money collected as subscriptions for building debera—Person collecting subscriptions, trustee for community—Suit for recovering of subscriptions—Suit entertainable by Subordinate Judge's Court and not on small cause side.—The father of the defendants had been collecting certain subscriptions for the purpose of building a dehera (temple) over a dargah at Broach as authorized at the meeting of the community of that locality for the purpose of raising such subscriptions. This suit was instituted against the defendants after the death of their father for recovering the subscription moneys collected and received by him and left in their hands. On the question whether the suit could be brought in the Court of Small Causes or was entertainable only by a Subordinate Judge as a suit connected with a trust, the High Court held that the defendants' father, after receiving the subscriptions, held the amount in the capacity of a trustee for the community for the purpose of expending it upon the dargah and the suit was entertainable, therefore, only by the Subordinate Judge and not by the Small Cause Court. The Subordinate Judge, therefore, was directed to accept the plaint which the plaintiff was ordered to amend by suing (with the permission of the Court) on behalf of the community under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. MAHOMED NATHUBHAI v. HUSEN, 22 B. 729.

Right of Suit*—continued.

——35.—Subscription—concluded.

——36.—Torts.

(1)—Injury to civil rights—Action in respect of—Prior prosecution not necessary—High Court, Original side.—Within the original jurisdiction of the High Court of Madras a person who is injured in his civil rights by an act which is also a non-compoundable offence is not bound to institute criminal proceedings in the first instance, before maintaining a civil action. ABDUL KAWDER v. MUHAMMAD MERA, 4 M. 410. [R., 14 C.P.L.R. 123.]

(2)—Attached property made away with—Suit for recovery—Criminal prosecution not launched—Act VIII of 1859, s. 81.—Where a peon of the Court executing the process under s. 81 of Act VIII of 1859 attached certain property belonging to the plaintiffs during their absence from home, and in collusion with the other defendants made away with it, a suit will lie for its recovery or its value without a criminal prosecution being previously instituted. CHOITUNNO PARAMANICK v. ZUMMEEROODDI SHAIKH, 18 W.R. 27. [Rel. on, 14 C.P.L.R. 121.]

(3)—Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Award of compensation by Magistrate no bar to suit.—The compensation which a Magistrate who dismisses a complaint as frivolous or vexatious is empowered in his discretion to award to an accused person, does not deprive the latter of any right of suit in the Civil Court which he may possess. The section of the Code which gives the Magistrate the power does not (like s. 79, Civ. Pro. Code), provide that the award of compensation shall bar a suit for damages. ADRAM v. HURBULLUB, 2 N.W.P. 58.

(4)—Right of suit—Cause of action—Imprisonment in default of fine—Suit to recover fine realized—Maintainability.—An accused person was punished by the Magistrate both by imprisonment and fine, and was sentenced in default to further imprisonment. The accused, after he had undergone both the principal punishment and the additional imprisonment, was released, and after his release, the fine was also realized. In a suit by him to recover the amount of fine which was unlawfully taken from him, held that as the additional imprisonment was not in lieu of fine but as a punishment for non-payment of it, no cause of action accrued to him out of the proceedings of the Criminal Court, and the suit was consequently not maintainable. MANOOLLAH alias MANOO v. GUNES KULWAR, 3 Agra 390.

Right of Suit*—continued.

——36.—Torts—concluded.

See SLANDER, 16 W.R. 83.

——37.—Trusts, Suits relating to.

(1)—Trust property in wrongful possession of defendants—Suit by trustees to recover—S. 539, Civ. Pro. Code (1882)—Applicability.—The trustees of a temple sued for possession of certain trust property which was wrongfully enjoyed by the defendants. The defendants challenged plaintiff's title to sue and claimed ownership of the suit property. The Subordinate Judge in whose Court the suit was filed, returned the plaint for presentation to the District Court, holding that the suit was of the character contemplated by s. 539, Civ. Pro. Code (1882). He also found that the defendants were the trustees of the temple. The High Court held that the suit was rightly instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge. The suit not being one against trustees, but by trustees against persons who were alleged to be wrongfully in possession of the trust property, it did not fall within the terms of s. 539, Civ. Pro. Code (1882). VISHVANATH GOVIND DESHMANE v. RAMBHAT, 15 B. 148. [F., 24 B. 170=1 Bom. L.R. 649, 33 C. 789=10 C.W.N. 581; Rel. on, 16 M. 31; R., 21 B. 257, 3 O.C. 299.]

(2)—Trust property—Trespass—Suit in ejectment—Set-off by trespasser—Equitable defence—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 539.—On the death of the manager of certain trust property called Chinchvad sansthan, the disputes which arose between two persons B and C (each claiming the management) were terminated by a compromise, in 1881. Under the compromise, B was appointed trustee with all rights and privileges and a portion only of the trust property was assigned to C. B was afterwards removed from his office as trustee and the plaintiffs who were appointed in his stead filed the present suit for setting aside the compromise of 1881 and for recovering the trust property in the possession of C. The defendant pleaded by way of set-off or equitable defence that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover the trust property unless and until they restored to him the private property which belonged to him and which he had given up under the compromise. He further contended that he was the adopted son of the original manager of the trust estate and that the property which he claimed to recover by way of set-off belonged to him by virtue of the adoption. The adoption was however denied by the plaintiffs. Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover possession of the trust property and that it was not open to the defendant to claim, as a set-off or as an equitable defence, to recover from the plaintiffs the private property in question in this suit in which the trustees sought to eject him from the properties of which he obtained possession under the compromise with the late manager. B's action was ultra vires in putting the defendant in possession of the trust property. Held, also that s. 539 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, was no bar to the suit, which was brought by the trustees to recover trust property from the possession of a trespasser. SHRI DHUNDIRAJ GANESH DEV v. GANESH, 13 B. 721. [R., 20 B. 250, 24 B. 170 =1 Bom. L.R. 649, 2 C.L.J. 431, 33 C. 789= 10 C.W.N. 581.]

Right of Suit—continued.

— 37.—Trusts, Suits relating to—continued.

(3)—Public charitable and religious trust—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 539—Suit for removal of trustee and appointment of new trustees—Right of suit by devotees and worshippers—Persons having "direct interest" meaning of—Trustees claiming trust property as their own—Breach of trust.—The words "direct interest" in s. 539 of the Civ. Pro. Code, include the interest which the worshippers and devotees of the diety naturally have in the management of the temple. Much more therefore does it include the interest of persons who happen to be also the descendants of the original founder of the endowment. Such persons, therfore, are entitled to bring a suit under s. 539 for the removal of the trustees and for the appointment of new trustees. [R., 20 B. 250, 21 B. 48, 22 B. 475, 20 A. 46, 24 C. 418, 1 S.L.R. 155, 13 Bom. L.R. 49, 28 M. 319=15 M.L.J. 133.] Where the trustees of a charitable endowment assert that they have a right to treat the trust property as their own private estate, and that they can apply the trust funds to their private purposes, this constitutes a breach of trust, and will be a good ground for their removal from the trust. CHINTAMAN BAJAJI DEV v. DHONDO GANESH DEV, 15 B. 612. [R., 28 M. 319= 15 M.L.J. 133, 15 B. 625, 22 B. 493, 21 B. 556, 2 C.L.J. 460.]

(4)—Act XL of 1858—Certificate under—Suit by manager—His rights.—In a suit by T as manager of an estate and trustee of the son of the Raja against an official for an account of various expenses, etc., the defendant pleaded that the certificate granted to the plaintiff under Act XL of 1858 having become inoperative on account of the minor attaining majority, the plaintiff had no right to sue. Held, upholding the contention of the defendant, that the suit was not maintainable. T's locus standi in the suit was only as one of the members of a committee of guardianship and management appointed by the Raja which provided that all affairs should be conducted according to the decision of the majority of the committee. He had no authority from the other members to bring the suit. GIBBON v. BUKHTAR TEWAREE, 23 W.R. 242.

Right of Suit—continued.

——37.—Trusts, Suits relating to—concluded.

(5)—Mahomedan Law—Religious endowment—Place used as cemetery—Form of suit—Permission of Court under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. —This was a suit brought by certain members of the Mahomedan community against the defendants to recover possession of the suit property, alleged by the plaintiffs to have been used as a public burial ground for the Mahomedans. The defendants set up their title to the lands, denying that they were wakf property as alleged by the plaintiffs and alleging their purchase of the same from T who was the owner of the property. The lower appellate Court dismissed the suit for want of permission from the Court under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code, 1882. The plaintiffs preferred a second appeal to the High Court. Held that, under the Mahomedan Law, the plaintiffs, as representing a Mahomedan endowment in the shape of certain lands used for certain religious purposes, were competent to maintain the suit which related to wakf property and that permission under s. 30, Civ. Pro. Code, was not necessary. N.B.—The case was accordingly remanded to the lower appellate Court for decision on the merits. FAZL-UL-RAHMAN v. MUHAMMAD YUSUF, A.W.N. 1885, 219.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW—WAKF, 3 B. 84.

——38.—Witness.

See WITNESS.

(1) — Witness though served, absent — Suit decreed against summoning party—Suit for damages against witness.—In a suit to recover damages sustained by plaintiffs on account of the non-appearance of the defendant, to give his evidence as a witness in a former case instituted against them, though the usual process had been served upon him, the onus is on the plaintiffs to prove that they were endamaged by the omission of the defendant to appear. The mere fact of the defendant's non-attendance as a witness cannot of itself be a good ground for the plaintiffs to come against the defendant and to recover damages from him. DWARKNATH KOOREE v. ANUNDO CHUNDER SANNAL, 5 W.R.S.C.C.R. 18.

See WITNESS—EXPENSES OF WITNESSES, 5 W.R. S.C.C. Ref. 6.

See WITNESS—PRIVILEGES OF WITNESS, 15 C. 264.

——39.—Miscellaneous.

(1)—Suit for recovery of doctor's fees—Limitation—Act XIV of 1859, s. 1, cls. 2, 9.—A doctor is competent to bring a suit for recovery of his fees although he has treated the patient before he is paid. A claim for doctor's fees is founded on contract which is of two kinds, expressed or implied. Express contracts are where the terms of an agreement are openly uttered and avowed at the time of making. Implied contracts are those where a person engages another to do any business for him or perform any work and impliedly undertakes or contracts to pay the latter as much as his labour deserves. Where the doctor's services are engaged by implied contract, the article of limitation applicable is cl.9, s. 1 of Act XIV of 1859, and not cl. 2. A suit for recovery of such dues can therefore be brought within three years from the time when the cause of action accrues. HURIS CHUNDER SURMAH v. BROJONATH CHUCKERBUTTY, 13 W.R. 96.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(2)—Doctor—Suit by doctor for his fees.—In an action by a medical practitioner to recover the amount of his fees it is open to the defendant to lead evidence to show that he treated the patient ignorantly or improperly, which plea, if proved, furnishes a good defence to the action. PARREIRA v. GONSALVES, 8 Bom. L.R. 93.

(3)—Suit for performance of services by barbers.—A suit for the performance of certain services by barbers will not lie. RAJ KRISTO MAJEE v. NOBAEE SEAL, 1 W R. 351.

(4)—Club—Contract—Liability of the Secretary of a club on a contract entered into on behalf of the club.—Held, that the Secretary of a club could not, unless he specially accepted a personal liability, be sued personally on a contract entered into on behalf of the members of the club by his predecessor in office, nor could the members of a club collectively be sued through their secretary as their representative. G. B. GOYDER v. SADULLAH, A.W.N. 1898, 138=20 A. 497.

(5)—Erection of public building from subscriptions—Suit for subscription—Right of suit.—Where a subscriber is aware that an obligation to a contractor, for erecting a town hall from out of the subscribed funds, is to be incurred on the faith of such subscriptions, a suit would lie for the recovery of the subscription so promised. Such an action may, under the provisions of the Civ. Pro. Code, be brought by a person on behalf of himself and others jointly interested with him. KEDAR NATH BHUTTACHARJI v. GURIE MAHOMED. 14 C. 64. [F., 13 C.P L.R. 57.]

(6)—Subscription to charitable institution—Suit—Suit for subscription—Secretary whether competent to sue.—The extent of a subscriber's obligation to a charitable institution must depend upon the nature of the charity or other object for which the subscription is given, and in some cases, upon what the subscriber actually said or did at the time when he engaged to subscribe. Thus, for instance, where a number of persons undertake to give various sums for the building of a Church or Hospital, and the church or Hospital is accordingly built by a committee or other managing body upon the faith of the subscriptions promised, each subscriber would be legally responsible for the sum which he promised to provide. On the other hand, there are cases where, from its very nature, the engagement of the subscriber is purely voluntary; as where people give subscriptions or donations towards providing from time to time for the poor of a parish. And there are other cases again, where the subscription is so far voluntary, that the obligation, if any, only continues until the subscriber declares his intention of discontinuing his subscription. It is therefore quite impossible to lay down any fixed rule or rules which would be applicable to all such subscriptions; each case must be governed by its own circumstances and the question of liability will generally be one of fact. Quære.—Whether assuming the liability of a subscriber for unpaid subscriptions, the Secretary of a charitable institution with the consent of the committee of management, is entitled to sue a subscriber for the amount of his contribution? KEDAR NATH MITTRA v. ALISAR ROHOMAN, 10 C.L.R 197.

Right of Suit—continued

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(7)—Ferry rights—Right to restrain another from starting ferry—An owner of a ferry, granted under a Government settlement, who plied it for hire, could restrain by suit another from running his ferry over the same spot, though that other levied no tolls on his ferry, if he did not use it exclusively for the conveyance of his own servants and ryots. LUCHMESSUR SINGH v. LEELANUND SINGH, 4 C 599=3 C.L R. 427. (16 W.R 281, R.) [R., 18 C. 652.]

(8)—Registration of name—Suit to compel registration of another person's name—Lessee holding as agent of others.—A Collector may register as farmer a person to whom a farming lease has been given, notwithstanding he holds it in reality as the agent of another, and a third person has no right to sue to compel the registration of such other person. COLLECTOR OF MIDNAPORE v. RAMDHONE DUTT, Marsh 65=1 Hay 133.

(9)—Judgment creditor's right after attachment to protect judgment debtor's property from wrong doers—S. 91, Transfer of Property Act—A judgment-creditor has, after attachment, no greater interest to protect his judgment-debtor's property from wrong-doers than he had before the attachment nor has he a right of suit against the wrong-doers. (27 A. 378, R.) The Court, however, can interfere without a suit and the creditor's remedy is to move the Court executing the decree to do so. The right given by s. 91 (f), Transfer of Property Act, is not one given to attaching judgment-creditors by the Civ. Pro. Code, the law which regulates their rights. KARUPPAN CHETTI v. KANDASAMI THEWAN, 17 M L.J. 84=30 M. 207. (6 C. 663, Compared.) [Reversed, 30 M. 413=17 M.L.J. 334=2 M.L.T. 365.]

Right of Suit —continued.

——39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(10)—Deposit of money, to the credit of a decree-holder under protest, by a person interested in preventing a sale in execution—Suits to recover the money.—In order to save a family estate about to be sold, under a decree of Court made in a suit against one member of the family, other members, interested in the property, being entitled to dower charged on the estate, paid the amount decreed into Court to be handed over to the decree-holder under protest of their respective rights in the estate, and subject to a suit to be brought by them to set aside a summary order rejecting a claim to their charge on the estate. The money so deposited was taken out of Court by the decree-holder. In an action to recover back the amount, it appeared that the decree-holder had no right to proceed against such part of the estate as belonged to the parties paying the money into Court. Held, that an action would lie against the decree holder to recover the amount so paid into Court and handed over to him, as it was a deposit under protest to prevent an injurious sale. Aliter.—If the money has been a voluntary payment into Court. FATIMA KHATOON CHOWDRAIN v. MAHOMED JAN CHOWDHRY, 10 W.R. P C. 29=1 B.L.R. P.C. 21=2 Suther. 145=2 Sar. 380.

(11)—Judgment-debtor, suit by, to get adjustment out of Court recognized by decree of Court —Civ. Pro. Code, s. 258.—Where a judgment-debtor desires to have out of Court an adjustment of the decree held by his creditor against him recognized, he must take proceedings under s. 258, Civ. Pro. Code, as amended by Act XII of 1879, and cannot institute a suit for such purpose. KARM SINGH v. AMIN CHAND, 47 P R. 1881. [Overruled, 83 P. R. 1884; F., 11 P.R.1883.]

(12)—Claim to attached property—Order disallowing claim—Appeal—Separate suit.—Where a claim to properties attached in execution of a decree is dismissed, no appeal lies against the order of dismissal, the remedy being by separate suit. BUDREE DOSS v. TOOLSEE RAM, 9 P.R. 1866.

(13)—Sheriff, incompetency of, to relax on his own authority the imprisonment of the debtor—Permission to debtor to reside out of jail—Sheriff liable to damages on debtor's escape—Consent of creditor to debtor's residence out of prison, Sheriff not bound by, in the absence of rule of Court. —Where a sheriff, upon the representation that the judgment-debtor was suffering from severe illness, had taken upon himself to relax the imprisonment and suffered the debtor, accompanied by ever so many of his own officers, to go and reside in a house of his own, it would amount to an escape in the eye of law, for which the Sheriff would be liable for damages. The plaintiff in all cases, in order to be barred from continuing his execution, and from having the benefit of his judgment, must voluntarily discharge the defendant out of custody. If he does discharge him out of custody, even if it be only for a week, he cannot by any agreement which he may have made with the defendant, afterwards re-take him, although the defendant may possibly have agreed that, if he does not pay the money within a week, he shall be re-taken. The creditor may, under certain circumstances, or if he feels it to be material and important to the debtor, change the place of imprisonment, and relax somewhat the rigour of imprisonment, without at all discharging the debtor from his debt; it clearly not being the meaning of either party that any such discharge should take place. Where the Court has thought it fit in a case that, for the benefit of the health of the debtor, he should be allowed to be taken from prison and put into some other place under the custody of a Sheriff's officer, and has made a rule of Court to that effect, and the debtor, having been removed under such rule, is being kept in the charge of a Sheriff's officer, in a private house, there is no doubt that he is then to be deemed to be in the custody of the Sheriff. Whenever the plaintiff communicates to the Sheriff that he is inclined to grant the above indulgence to the prisoner and to consent to his going to another house in the custody of the Sheriff's officers, the Sheriff may, in the absence of any rule of Court, refuse to consent to do so, but where the Sheriff and the parties have all consented to do it and the debtor has been kept in custody in a private house, an action for escape may be maintained against the Sheriff on proof that he had not used proper care and surveillance. STAFFORD BETTESWORTH HAINES v. THE EAST INDIA COMPANY, 4 W. R.P.C. 99=6 M.I.A. 467=11 Moo. P.C. 39= 1 Suther. 274.

(14)—Crim. Pro. Code, ss, 88 and 89—Property of alleged absconding offender attached and sold under an illegal warrant—Suit for recovery of such property.—Held that where the property of an alleged absconding offender is attached and sold by a Court purporting to act under s. 88 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and it turns out that the proclamation of sale is irregular and illegal, there is nothing to bar a suit by the owner of the property so sold to recover such property in the hands of a purchaser. ABDUL v. KAZIM BEGAM, A.W N 1904, 159=27 A. 573, Note.

(15)—Instigating proceedings, suit for—Suit against party for instituting proceedings in false name—Form of suit.—The plaintiffs sued for the reversal of a summary award and for restitution of the money they had paid under it, alleging that the proceedings before the Collector had been promoted entirely by the defendant using the false name of B, a person never in existence, and obtained a decree in the lower Courts. The point taken in special appeal was that, the defendant not being a party on the record of those proceedings, the plaintiffs could not recover in this form of action. Held that, though the proper and more prudent course would have been to sue the defendant for damages, yet, this being a mere matter of form, the Court refused to interfere with the decision of the Courts below. KHELARAM DOSS MISTREE v. DHUREE DOSS, 1 Hay 4.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(16)—Offer of money to avoid litigation.—The Court cannot decree the plaintiff a sum of money which defendant had merely offered as a matter of grace and without acknowledgment of liability (but merely to avoid litigation), and which offer the plaintiff had refused to accept. GRAY v. FIDDIAN. 15 M. 73.

(17)—Suit upon razinama—Act XVI of 1864, s. 13—In a suit upon a razinama, the execution of which was admitted by the defendants, which purported to create an interest in immoveable property, and which was not registered in accordance with s. 13, Act XVI of 1864, held that as the existence of the agreement was not disputed, its production was not necessary, and that the plaintiff was entitled to whatever relief the effect of the plaint and answer taken together would entitle him on the admission of the defendant. CHEDAMBARAM CHETTY v KARUNALA YAVALANGAPULY TAVER, 3. M. H C. 342 [F., 24 C. 20; R., U. B. R 1897-1901; 371, 19 M. L. J. 228=4 M. L. T. 354; D., 4 M. H. C. 120; 3 N. L. R. 72.]

(18) — Postpone — Petition — Suit. — Where parties put in a postpone-petition after decree, which made the amount adjudged by the decree, payable in instalments, and the process of execution to issue in case of default, and no intention existed between them to create new rights enforcible by suit in supersession of those under the decree, a suit on the postpone-petition is not maintainable. DARBHA VENKAMMA v. RAMA SUBBARAYADU, 1 M. 387, F.B. [F., 4 A. 240.]

(19)—Suit to declare what the law is cannot be maintained.—The Courts should not give decrees declaring merely what the law is. If a plaintiff has any cause of action and seeks for relief the Court will give it him, but it is not the province of the Court to lay down the law with a view to preventing a mistake, if a question of law is raised in a subsequent suit between the parties. HIRALAL PATEL v. JAISINGH KIRAD, 2 C.P.L.R. 156. [F., 6 C.P.L.R. 51.]

(20)—Recovery of money paid in consideration of marriage which had not been performed, suit for.—Held, that an action would lie for recovery of money paid in consideration of a marriage which had not been performed. RAMAI v. CHEDI, 3 O.C. 241.

(21)—Contract for sale of land—Payment of consideration—Sale deed not delivered—Suit for fresh document—Right of suit.—Where A has contracted to sell to B a certain piece of land and received in advance a sum of money as part of the consideration money and kept the sale-deed with him for the purpose of registering the same, but has not got it registered, B can sue A to recover the document, or to compel him to execute a similar document. TRIPOORA SOONDUREE v. RUSSICK CHUNDER KANOONGOE. 15 W.R. 189.

(22)—Partnership—Common member of two firms—Suit by one firm against the other—Practice.—Where an individual is a common partner in two firms no action can be brought by one firm against the other upon any transaction between them while such individual is a common partner. KASHINATH v. GANESH, 4 Bom. L.R. 525=26 B. 739

(23)—Suit by a secured joint-creditor of a partnership business against the other joint-creditors and the partners and their separate creditors—Suit for declaration of the right of plaintiff and other joint-creditors to priority over separate creditors and for injunction against payment of certain money in Court deposit to the latter—Maintainability of suit—Joinder of parties.—Certain premises were acquired by Government and compensation money was paid in Court. The present plaintiff alleged that the premises and, in consequence, the money to which they were converted belonged to certain partnership business and the plaintiff was one of the joint secured creditors over the premises. It also alleged that one of the separate creditors of the individual partners applied for, and obtained, an order for payment to him of his debt out of the compensation money in Court. There were attachments on the fund by some other separate creditors. The suit was for a declaration that the plaintiff and the other secured creditors were entitled to priority of recourse against the fund in Court over the separate creditors and for an injunction against the payment to the latter. The other secured creditors, the separate creditors and the alleged partners were defendants in the suit. In consequence of a doubt as to its maintainability, the suit came on for settlement of issues. Held a plaintiff can ordinarily sue to establish his own right. But, when, in order to give the plaintiff the appropriate relief to which he is entitled, it is necessary to declare the rights of the defendants, those rights might be declared. Such is not the case here. The plaintiff claims to be a joint-creditor of the alleged partnership. The claims of these creditors amount to less than the fund in the Court, and so no question of priority arises as between the joint creditors themselves. Consequently, the claims of the other joint-creditors need not be entered into in this suit. The question to be determined is whether the plaintiff is a joint-creditor of the alleged partnership and whether defendants are separate creditors as alleged and whether they rank after the plaintiff. The suit must be strictly limited to the ascertainment of the plaintiff's rights and the plaintiff cannot be allowed to fight the cause of the other joint-creditors. Holding that the portions of the claim, which are not maintainable, are severable from those which can be maintained, the Court framed the issues necessary for the ascertainment of the plaintiff's right as against the alleged partners and separate creditors. WOOPENDRA NARAIN SEN v. AGHORE NATH CHATTERJEE, 9 C.W.N. 498.

Right of Suit—continued.

——39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(24)—The rule of Hindu law is that a joint family is represented in all transactions or concerns with the outside world by its Karta (manager) provided they are for the benefit or necessity of the family: and that any co-parcener, who does not occupy that position of manager, can represent and bind the family in such transactions or concerns, provided he was either previously authorised to represent it, or, in the absence of such authority, the other co-parceners subsequently by words or conduct ratified his acts. VISHNU v. BABAJI, 10 Bom. L.R. 505.=32 B. 375.

(25)—Where there are one or more members of a joint Hindu family filing a suit in respect of the property of that family it is essential that all the persons who compose the family should be joined as party-plaintiffs. NARANJI v. MOTI, 9 Bom. L.R. 1126.

(26)—Joint Hindu family — Parties.— A member of a joint family has no right to sue in his individual capacity to recover a debt due to the family. SHIVJIRAM v. VISHNU, 2 Bom. L.R. 121.

(27)—Joint Hindu Family—Minors—Parties.—As a matter of practice suits are not filed in Courts by managers representing their minor co-parceners; the practice is to join all persons interested but it would seem that even if on the face of the plaint there were an allegation of a sole plaintiff that he sued as manager on behalf of a co-parcenary the minor co-parceners would not be bound by the proceedings unless by judicial sale under the decree rights had been created in innocent third parties and no prejudice were shown to the absent co-parceners. KASHINATH v. CHIMNAJI, 8 Bom. L R. 268=30 B. 477.

(28)—Joint family, member of — Lending money—Benamidar—Debtor objecting to creditor's power to lend.—A member of a joint family, who was at liberty to use the funds in his hands, whether they belonged to the joint family or not, is not a benamidar for the family when he lends money in his own name to some body else. Even if he were a benamidar, he would be entitled to sue in his own name the person to whom he lent the money. Such suit need not be brought by all the members of the joint family. HARA GOBINDA SHAHA v. PURNA CHANDRA SAHA, 11 C L.J. 47=1 Ind. Cas. 522. (24 C. 644, Appl., 30 C. 265, D.)

(29)—When some only of the members of a joint Hindu family carry on and manage a business on behalf of themselves as well as the joint family and a contract is entered into with them alone, they not disclosing the names of the other members of the family at the time of the contract, it is competent for them alone to sue on the contract without joining the other members of the family. GOPAL DAS RAI CHAUDHRI v. BADRI NATH, 2 A.L J. 3=27 A. 361=A. W.N. 1904, 282. (Referring to, 7 C. 739 and 14 MOO. P.C. 160). [F., 7 A.L.J. 161=32 A. 183.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(30)—Suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to collect debts due to a deceased person's estate —Previous grant of a succession certificate to defendant—Maintainability of suit—Act VII of 1889, s. 18, cl. (e).—Plaintiff, alleging that he was the undivided paternal uncle of a deceased person, sued for a declaration that he was entitled to collect the plaint mentioned debts due to the deceased's estate. Defendant, the widow of the deceased, had already obtained a certificate under Act VII of 1889 entitling her to collect the debts due to her deceased husband's estate. The Munsiff dismissed the suit, holding that the suit was not maintainable, as it was brought with the object of practically cancelling the certificate granted to the widow under Act VII of 1889, entitling her to collect the very debts specified in the present plaint. On appeal, the Subordinate Judge held that the suit was unsustainable as it contravened the provisions of s. 18, cl. (e) of the Act VII of 1889. Held, reversing the decrees of the Courts below, that the suit was not brought under Act VII of 1889 and s. 18, cl. (e) did not in any way govern or affect it. That act in no way interferes with the rights of any one to bring any suit, which he otherwise is by law entitled to bring and this suit for a declaration that plaintiff was entitled to collect debts in question is maintainable irrespective of the previous grant to the defendant of a certificate under the Act to collect the very same debts. CINNAPPA CHETTIAR v. THULASI AMMAL, 15 M.L.J. 399.

(31)—Suit by Hindu father for declaration of his right as guardian and for custody of minor —Guardians and Wards Act, VIII of 1890, Ss. 10, 25, 45.—No regular suit lies for the custody of a minor, the only remedy being an application under Act VIII of 1890. Hindu father is, therefore, not entitled to sue, as guardian of his infant child, for the establishment of his right as such guardian, and for the custody of the child, detained by the defendant who is the maternal grandmother of the child. SHAM LAL v. BINDO, 26 A. 594=A W.N. 1904 135=1 A.L.J. 266 (32 P.R. 1896, Appr.; 9 M. 31, 25 B. 574, D.; 8 C. 266, B.L.R. F.B. 1866, 67, 630, 4 B.L.R. App. 36, R.) [R. A.W.N. 1907, 24=4 A.L.J. 22.]

(32)—Life-interest in property—Allegation of waste—Proof of waste threatening corpus.—Suit brought on the allegation that, as the defendant has only a life-interest in the property in dispute, the money which represents that property ought to be so tied up, either by deposit in the Bank, the defendant drawing the interest thereof, or by the defendant giving security, so as to prevent her from wasting the same. Held that the suit would not lie unless some act of waste threatening the corpus of the property is proved. MUSSAMUT BUDHUN v. MOULVIE FUZLOOR RUHMAN, 9 W.R. 362.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(33) — Hindu law—Widow — Compensation awarded to widow under Land Acquisition Act —Claim by reversioner for apportionment—Civ. Pro. Code., s. 43—Suit brought for wrong remedy—Distinct causes of action—Waste.— Plaintiff, a reversionary heir of the husband of the defendant, a Hindu widow, sued for a share in the sum awarded to the defendant as compensation for a house which had been taken up under the Land Acquisition Act. During the proceedings in the Collector's Court, the plaintiff had applied for a share of the compensation, but the Collector refused to entertain the application. The plaintiff then brought a suit in the Civil Court claiming (1st) that the widow should be restrained from making the alienation, and (2ndly) that the money that was to be awarded to her for compensation should be invested, lest she should waste it, and that she should be entitled to receive only the income from the investment for her life. The suit was finally dismissed by the Chief Court, on the ground that the plaintiff had no cause of action for the relief sought, and that Court observed in its judgment that that suit was no bar to his commencing a suit for the apportionment of the compensation if so advised In the fresh suit for apportionment accordingly brought by the plaintiff, both Courts concurred in overruling the defendant's plea that it was barred under s. 43. On second appeal to the Chief Court, it was again urged that the claim was barred under s. 43 of the Civ. Pro. Code. The Chief Court held that, if a person entitled to one remedy only, by mistake does not sue for that, but for another remedy to which he is not entitled, he cannot be barred by the rule in s. 43 prohibiting persons who have in fact alternative remedies and have elected to sue for some or one of the alternatives omitting others, from bringing a suit for the omitted alternative relief. What the plaintiff asked for in the former suit was not a remedy to which he was entitled, and it was therefore not one of the alternative remedies between which the plaintiff could have chosen, and consequently the former decision could not be a bar to the hearing of the subsequent suit. Further, the interest of the plaintiff in this case was merely a contingent interest, so that the foundation of any suit by him against the widow with reference to her husband's estate must be either that her acts were such as to interfere with his interest in an unauthorised manner, or that her conduct amounted to waste of the estate. Consequently, if there had been any allegation that she was wasting the money, or by her conduct manifested an intention of wasting it, this might give rise to a cause of action to restrain her from waste, and possibly in a suit founded on such a cause of action, if the allegations were proved, such directions might be given as to the custody and investment of the money as to protect it from waste ; but, in the absence of such allegation, the plaintiff could have no cause of action. MAT PRAB DEVI v. HARKISHAN DAS, 47 P.R. 1884. [Appr., 32 P.R. 1910=57 P.L.R. 1910=50 P.W.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 655 ; R., 35 P.R. 1885, 146 P.R. 1890.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(34)—Reversion—Right of suit—Limitation. —A party, desirous as a reversioner to obtain a declaration of his right affected by a sale or gift by a Hindu widow, must bring his suit within 12 years of the alienation. After the death of the widow, the remedy open is one of a different description. BISHONATH SURMA v. SREEMUTTY SHOSHI MOOKHEE, 11 B.L.R. App. 1=20 W.R. 1.

(35)—Civil Court—Jurisdiction to compel the head of a mutt to do certain acts.—Civil Courts have jurisdiction to compel the head of an Adhinam to invest a properly nominated disciple to the headship of a mutt, with arukattu, sundara vadam, and cloth, according to the custom and usage of the institutions. GIYANA SAMBANDA PANDARA SANNADHI v. KANDASAMI TAMBIRAN, 10 M. 375. [Appr., 19 M. 127; R., 19 M.L.J. 772, 18 M.L.J. 205=31 M. 212.]

(36)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 539—Suit in respect of charitable trust—Sanction to persons at different times to institute suit.—A suit having been instituted, with the sanction of the Collector, to compel the performance of a charitable trust, another person was subsequently joined as plaintiff on his getting a similar sanction. The sanction given to the latter relates back to the date of the institution of the suit. RAMAYYANGAR v. KRISHNAYYANGAR, 10 M. 185. [Diss., 26 A. 162 ; Not F., 21 B. 351 ; F., 7 M.L.J. 281=23 M. 28].

(37)—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 539—Removal of a hereditary trustee—Power of District Court.— Though the power to remove a hereditary trustee is not, in express terms, given by s. 539, Civ. Pro. Code, it is a power which, from the nature of the case, may reasonably be held to have been given under the wide words 'such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.' SUBBAYYA v. KRISHNA, 14 M. 186=1 M.L.J. 95. (12 M. 157, Cons.) [F., 16 B. 626, 21 B. 48, 24 C. 418, 20 A. 46, 2 C.L.J. 431, 33 C. 789=10 C.W.N. 581 ; Appr., 20 C. 810 ; R., 17 M. 462, F.B., 3 O.C. 299, 33 C. 905=10 C.W.N. 867, 32 M. 131=4 M.L.T. 345.]

(38)—Legal representatives of deceased debtor, suit maintainable against, without allegation of receipt of assets.—When a creditor sues certain defendants as legal representatives of a deceased debtor without alleging that they have received assets, such suit will lie and a decree may be given against such persons, in their representative capacity, without proof that they have received assets of the deceased. The question of assets will be one to be enquired into when the decree-holder attempts to execute his decree under s. 252 of the Civ. Pro. Code. BIRJA v. KISHEN JIVAN, 11 P.R. 1881.

Right of Suit—continued.

—— 39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(39)—Suit in forma pauperis—Cause of action—Agreement by guardian of minor to give ward in marriage for money consideration—Validity.—The plaintiff had been maintaining a girl for a number of years. The defendant agreed to marry the ward on payment of a sum of Rs 2500 to the plaintiff, and also promised to pay her Rs. 2,000 after marriage. Before the marriage took place, the defendant induced the girl to quit her guardian's house in order to have illicit intercourse with him. The plaintiff thereupon sued to recover Rs. 2,500 damages, and also prayed for leave to institute the suit in forma pauperis. Held that the action was not maintainable, as the agreement sued on was immoral and opposed to public policy under s. 23 of the Indian Contract Act. Held also that, in disposing of pauper petitions, the Court is bound to exercise a measure of caution, because the pauper is often without the advantage of the aid of Counsel. Where the facts are clear and the law evident, the case might be decided on the petition for leave to sue as a pauper. DULARI v. VALLABDAS PRAGJI, 13 B. 126. [F., 20 A. 299; R., 22 B. 658, 1 C.L.J. 261, 91 P. L.R. 1909; D., 13. M.183, 16 B. 673.]

(40)—Lessee of Municipal Committee—Octroi dues, suit for—Civil Court—Act XV of 1867, s.19.—A lessee on the part of a Municipal Committee could not sue in a Civil Court for the recovery of money which should have been paid as octroi. MUHAMMAD SULTAN v. KHAZAN SINGH, 60 P.R. 1873. [R., 55 P.R. 1876]

(41)—Suit by Head Constable of Police against Inspector of Police for pay received by the latter—Police Act (XXIV of 1859)—Estoppel by conduct.—In a suit by a Head Constable of Police against an Inspector of Police to recover his pay which the Inspector had received but failed to give to the Head Constable, the defendant could not plead limitation under s. 53 of the Police Act (XXIV of 1859) as the act alleged to have been done had nothing whatever to do with police duties. People are not estopped from standing on their legal rights by mistaking them, and, as in this case, giving a notice as if required by the Act when it is not. GUNDAM VENKATASAMI v. CHINNAM PURUSHOTTAMA, 5 M.H.C. 466.

(42)—Limitation Act, s. 1, cl. (6)—Order of Settlement Officer—Limitation—Suit by zemindar—Right to cess.—The order of a Settlement Officer on a proceeding which was of the nature of an enquiry made by the Collector at the instance of the zemindar and for the purpose of the preparation of the record of rights, in the course of which information was given both in support of and against the zemindar's claim to certain cesses, is not an award of the nature contemplated by cl. (6) of s. 1 of the Limitation Act, and the 3 years' limitation is inapplicable. The right of the plaintiff to recover zemindaree cesses which long existed unquestioned could not be summarily extinguished by the refusal of the Settlement Officer to sanction and record such cesses at a recent Settlement, and he is entitled to a hearing before a Court, and the fact that the Settlement Officer rejected his claim could not be a bar to such a suit. MAHOMED ALI KHAN v. OOM RAO SINGH, 2 N.W.P. 425.

(43)—Act X of 1859, decision by Deputy Collector passed subsequent to, in suit brought before commencement of Act—Regular suit not maintainable to set aside decision.—This suit for setting aside the decision of a Deputy Collector dated 25th January 1860, had been instituted on the 28th June 1859, before the passing of Act X of 1859, but decided on the 25th January 1860, subsequently to the passing of the Act. Under the above circumstances and with reference to ss. 151 and 160 of Act X of 1859, the High Court held that the party dissatisfied with the decision of the Deputy Collector should have appealed to the Judge as he had the power to do; but could not have maintained a regular suit for the purpose of reversing such decision. JANKEE RAM MISSER v. LUDHIRA PANDAY, 2 W.R. Act X, Rul. 27.

(44)—Act VIII of 1859, Civ. Pro. Code, s. 180—Commissioner—Right to remuneration—Amount not deposited in Court—Recovery by suit.—Where a party moves the Court for the appointment of a Commissioner under s. 180 of Act VIII of 1859, there is an implied undertaking on his part to pay a fair remuneration to the Commissioner and the omission by the Court to require a sum to be deposited in Court, does not debar the Commissioner from recovering his remuneration from the party at whose instance he was engaged. GOPALA RATNAMAYYAR v. B. NARASIMMA NAYUDU, 4 M. 399.

(45)—Act XIII of 1868—Suit against King of Oudh—Consent of Governor General, necessity for.—Act XIII of 1868 renders a suit against the King of Oudh, commenced without the consent of the Governor General in Council, null and void, though the suit may have been instituted and judgment pronounced before the passing of that Act. BEGUM BIBEE v. THE KING OF OUDH, 11 WR 116.

(46)—Compromise of suit brought by Official Assignee—Sum payable to insolvent's estate wrongly received by defendant's ancestor, suit by Official Assignee for recovery of—Fraud as originally specified in pleadings, party Bound to prove—Amendment of pleadings, when permissible.—This suit was instituted by the respondent, as assignee of the estate and effects of one R.S. an insolvent, against the defendants, the heirs and legal representatives of one Z, to recover a sum of money which had been paid over to Z under the compromise of a certain previous suit. In the first instance, the plaintiff alleged that Z had compromised the suit as the agent and confidential adviser of the then Official Assignee, that the payment to Z was fraudulently concealed by Z and his sons from the Court and also from the Official Assignee before and after the passing of the consent decree. A portion of the money payable to the insolvent's estate under the compromise had been paid to the said Z for his having rendered assistance in taking the account. From the representatives of Z, the present Official Assignee now claimed re-payment of the sum to the insolvent's estate. Their Lordships concurred in the opinion of the first Court that Z never acted as the agent of, or in a fiduciary relation to, the Official Assignee either at the commencement of the former suit or in the conduct of it. He was not in any way connected with the Court; he owed no duty to the Court, and he was under no obligation to the creditors. He was, therefore, not guilty of of any improper concealment. The decree of the first Court dismissing the plaintiff's suit was confirmed by theirLordships of the PrivyCouncil who were, however, of opinion that the suit ought to have been dismissed on the merits and not on the ground that it was barred by limitation. The main charge against the defendants as originally laid down in the plaint was the fraud said to consist in their concealment from the Official Assignee of the payment under the compromise. In the plaint, after its amendment, the fraud was alleged to consist in that the payment of money to Z was itself a fraud upon the Court which the Official Assignee had no power to consent to. With reference to the amendment of the plaint by introducing a new and distinct charge of fraud after allthe evidence had been given and the case closed, their Lordships remarked that the allowance of it was contrary to every principle of justice; it was wholly unprecedented, and did not exhibit a sound exercise of judicial discretion as it contravened, the well-known rule that a charge of fraud must be substantially proved as laid, and that, when one kind of fraud is charged, another kind of fraud cannot, upon failure of proof, be substituted for it. ABDUL HOSSEIN ZANAIL ABADI v. CHARLES AGNEW TURNER. 11 B. 620, P C.=14 I.A. 111=5 Sar. 25. [R., 1 O.C. 63, 16 C.P.L.R. 133.]

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(47)—Suit for declaration that certain unexecuted decree of insolvent belongs to Insolvent Court—Insolvency Court or Official Assignee as plaintiff—Maintainability of suit—Procedure—Act IV of 1872, rules.—A suit was brought by the Insolvency Court of Ludhiana through its Official Assignee, or in the alternative by the Official Assignee, for a declaration that a decree obtained by an insolvent K then remaining unexecuted, was the property of the Insolvency Court. Held that the suit as framed was not maintainable as the plaintiff in either case had no locus standi to institute the suit. The Insolvency Court could not maintain the suit by itself or through the Official Assignee because it was not the legal owner of the decree as trustee for the Official Assignee. Secondly, the Official Assignee could not maintain the suit, for under the rules made under Act IV of 1872, the proper procedure was for the Court to attach the insolvent's property not then within its jurisdiction and not to sue to be declared a decree-holder. KIDAR NATH v. OMAN PERSHAD, 118 P.R 1886.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(48)—Insolvent.—The right of suit pertaining to an insolvent does not pass at his insolvency to the Official Assignee as it is not enumerated in s. 7 of the Insolvent Act. DATTOOBHOY v. VALLU, 1 Bom. L.R. 828.

(49)—Government schools—Rules as to admission and retention of pupils—Suit to recover money paid for retention of pupil—Jurisdiction.—The Government has a right to make rules and regulations as to the terms on which pupils should be admitted into and allowed to remain in their schools. Where, according to the rules, the payment of a certain sum is necessary in order that a boy may remain as a pupil in a Government school, and the sum is paid, and the boy is allowed to remain in the school, a suit cannot be maintained in the Small Cause Court to recover back sum as having been extorted. HURRO MOHUN GAEN v. BONOMALEE MITTER, 11 W.R. 359.

(50)—Attachment of money deposited in Collectorate — Unsuccessful opposition by third party—Interest.—In execution of a decree for money against one H, plaintiffs attached certain money deposited in the Collectorate to which she was entitled, and they were opposed for some time in obtaining possession of that amount by the present defendant who alleged that H's right in it had been transferred to him. Plaintiffs finally succeeded in obtaining the money, and they now sued the defendant for the interest upon it for the time during which he prevented their obtaining the money. Held that the suit was maintainable. PARBUTTY CHURN SOOR v. PROMOTHONATH GHOSE, W.R. 1864, 174.

(51)—Usufructuary mortgage — Possession withheld by mortgagor—Suit for money.—A deed of mortgage and conditional sale contained a covenant for possession by the mortgagee during the mortgage term. Possession was withheld, though the mortgagor received the mortgage-money. Held, that an action would lie by the mortgagee against the mortgagor for recovery of the principal and interest money advanced. RAJA OODIT PURKASH SINGH v. MARTINDELL, 4 M.I.A. 444=1 Sar. 384.

Advocate High Court Jammu & Kashmir Srinagar

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(52)—Suit on hundi not presented and dishonoured, cause of action.—A suit cannot be brought to recover upon a hundi until it has been presented and payment has been objected to or refused. MALORI MAL v. BUTA MAL, 148 P.R. 1883. [R., 72 P.R. 1885, 19 P.R. 1888; D., 60 P.R. 1903=120 P.L.R. 1903.]

(53)—Court Fees Act, s. 7, cl. iv (c)—Consequential relief—Covenant not to alienate—Subsequent alienation—Suit to set aside alienation.—The defendant executed a mortgage in favour of the plaintiffs and also covenanted with him not to alienate the property till his debt was discharged. But subsequently in contravention of this agreement he mortgaged the property to C. In a suit by the plaintiff for a declaration that the mortgage in favour of C was invalid, held, that the prayer for the cancellation of the mortgage to C was one for consequential relief within the meaning of s. 7, cl. iv (c) of the Court Fees Act, and that the plaintiff must therefore value the same accordingly; held further that the suit as framed was not maintainable inasmuch as the latter liens created by the mortgagor did not affect injuriously or encroach upon the rights of the plaintiffs as prior mortgagees. CHUNI LAL v. BODAR MAL, 2 P.R. 1886. (10 P.R. 1879, R.) [R., 56 P.R. 1895, 121 P.R. 1907; D., 131 P.R. 1888.]

(54)—Suit by owners for sum realised by sale of ship—Abandonment of French ship to French consul—Principal and agent.—The Captain of the French ship C, which had been wrecked, abandoned her to the French Consul for the benefit of all concerned. The owners assented to this arrangement, but afterwards sued the Consul as their agent, for the sum realised by the sale of the ship. Held that, when the owners of a foreign ship abandon her to their consul for the benefit of all concerned, they cannot afterwards sue him as their agent. Semble—That the owners of a foreign ship, when abandoning to their Consul, cannot legally enter into a private agreement with him with reference to the funds realised by the sale of the ship. ROBERT v. JAQUEHIM, Bourke O.C. 112.

(55)—Income-tax, illegal assessment of—Suit for refund if maintainable, Act XXXII of 1860, s. 137.—S. 137 of Act XXXII of 1860, which authorizes a party seeking a refund of income-tax illegally assessed upon him to apply to the Collector or Commissioner, is not imperative in its terms, and does not preclude any such party from suing in a Civil Court to obtain the refund. THE COLLECTOR OF FURREEDPORE v. GOOROO DASS ROY, 11 W.R. 425.

(56)—Costs incurred in criminal prosecution and damages for assault and wrongful confinement, suit to recover—Costs disallowed and damages allowed.—The plaintiff had prosecuted the defendants in the Criminal Court for assault and wrongful confinement. Most of the defendants were convicted. The present suit was to recover from the defendants the costs incurred by the plaintiff in carrying on the prosecution and also for damages for the assault and wrongful confinement. The lower Courts disallowed the plaintiff's claim for costs and allowed her damages for the assault and wrongful confinement. Held, the ratio decidendi in the case was that the prosecution of the defendants in the Criminal Court was a voluntary act on the part of the plaintiff. She was not bound to prosecute and, therefore, she could not recover her cost in that case. The lady was not under any necessity to proceed against the defendants in both the Courts, Civil and Criminal. CHURAMONI DASI v. BAIDYA NATH NAIK, 32 C. 429. (12 A. 166, Appr.)

(57)—Tolls—Damages—Practice—Loss owing to plague regulations—Toll farmer.—Where a toll contractor suffers loss in his revenue, by reason of the discontinuance of traffic through plague regulations of Government consequent upon the outbreak of plague in the locality, he has no right of action against Government to recover damages, either as on a breach of contract or commission of tort. SECRETARY OF STATE v. ABDUL RAHIM, 4 Bom. L.R. 874.

(58)—Tort merging infelony, principle of—Whether applicable to moffusil Courts of India—Suit for value of ornaments stolen—Civil Court—Jurisdiction.—The principle that tort merges in a felony, although recognized in the English Courts as suspending the right of civil action until the party guilty of the felony shall have been prosecuted, it has long been held that no such principle applies in the moffusil Courts in India. Consequently, a suit brought to recover the value of certain ornaments which it was alleged by the plaintiff that the defendant had stolen, being one relating to the value of personal property wrongfully taken out of the plaintiff's possession, is undoubtedly a suit of a civil nature, and its cognizance is not barred by any enactment in force in India. MUSSAMUT BEGAM v. MT. UMRAO, 26 P.R. 1883. [F., 13 P.R. 1888.]

(59)—Action of trover.—Suit in the nature of an action of trover, by the plaintiff, to recover Company's paper, as heir, such notes being part of his deceased mother's estate, against a purchaser without notice, and the vendor, his brother, alleging first that the dealing with the notes on the part of his brother was illegal and contrary to the plaintiff's rights as heir and secondly, that in a previous suit against his brother, regarding the notes, he had obtained a decree against him in respect of one of the notes sued for, but had not enforced judgment. The suit was dismissed by the Courts in India on the grounds (1) of limitation, under Act No. XIV of 1859, and (2) as barred by the previous suit. On appeal, such decree reversed, as it appeared that the real point in issue—the validity of the transfer of the notes—had not been heard, and the suit remitted back to the Judicial Commissioner at Lucknow to give directions to the Court of First Instance to re-hear the case, with liberty to either party to amend the pleadings. IKBALOODOWLAH v. SAH BUNARSEE DOSS, 12 M.I.A. 507=2 Sar. 463.

Srinagar.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(60)—Action for false imprisonment, when maintainable—Art. 19, Limitation Act, 1877.—Nothing short of actual detention and complete loss of freedom will support an action for false imprisonment. A person who is released on bail cannot be regarded as under imprisonment so long as he is on bail. Time begins to run from the date on which the plaintiff was enlarged on bail. Hence a suit for false imprisonment must be brought within one year from the date on which his imprisonment ends. MAHAMMAD YUSUFUDDIN v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA, 30 C. 872, P.C.=30 I.A. 54 =7 C.W.N. 729=5 Bom. L.R. 490=8 Sar. 503.

(61)—Right of suit — Suit for damages for wrongful obstruction of right to weigh and collect weighment-fees in respect of goods sold in bazaar — Right exercised by landholder in lieu of rent, and leased to plaintiff.—The Maharajah of Dumraon and his predecessors exercised from time immemorial a right to exclusively weigh the goods and produce sold at a bazaar held upon their land, and to claim all the weighment fees in respect of such transactions as took place there, in lieu of charging rent to the traders for the use of the land. The Maharajah leased to the plaintiff the exclusive right to weigh and receive the weighment fees in the bazaar. Held that a suit brought by the plaintiff for damages for wrongful obstruction of the right of weighing and making the collections, and to have the defendants restrained from offering such wrongful obstruction, was maintainable. BHIKHI OJHA v. HARAKH KANDU, A. W.N. 1889, 89. (N.W.P.H.C. Rep. 1869, p. 208, 11 C. 175, D.)

(62)—Misrepresentation—Suit for damages—Wrong information bona fide given—Cause of action.—Plaintiff who intended to buy coal from the defendant, asked him to ascertain from the Railway Company the cost of carriage of coal from station A to station B. The defendant obtained the information and communicated the same to the plaintiff. It turned out, however, that plaintiff had to pay a larger amount for the carriage of coal purchased and sent by him. Held that this gave plaintiff no cause of action to sue defendant. Held further that the cause of action for such a suit arise on the date when the misrepresentation was made. THE BENGAL COAL CO., LD. v. THE ELGIN COTTON CO. LD, 2 N.W P. 13.

(63)—Security bond for appearance of judgment debtor at insolvency inquiry, attesting witness to, whether liable for misrepresentation as to solvency of surety.—Where, in a security bond executed for the appearance of the plaintiff's judgment-debtor, an attesting witness had made a statement as to the solvency of the surety, who, however, happened to be an insolvent, held, in a suit by the plaintiff against the attesting witness, that the latter was not liable for the amount of the decree. If the suit be looked upon, as one upon a covenant or promise, it would fail, inasmuch as the defendant, who was a mere attesting witness was not a co-obligor in the bond given by the surety. If it be looked upon as one founded on misrepresentation (if there were misrepresentations), such misrepresentation should be regarded as having been made by the defendant to the public officer of the Court and not to plaintiff, nor was there any allegation or proof that such misrepresentation had been acted upon by the plaintiff. NAGO MAHADEO APTE VAKIL v. NARAYAN RAMCHANDRA PATWARDHAN, 4 B. 465.

Right of Suit—continued.

—39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(64)—Purchase from vender out of possession —Misstatement in sale-deed as to receipt of consideration money—Transaction, whether champertous or gambling in litigation— Suit by purchaser to recover property from trespasser in possession, maintainability of—Adoption, evidence of.—Certain property was sold by a person, who was out of possession. The sale deed recited receipt by the vendor of a portion of the consideration money and stipulated for payment of the balance on the purchaser recovering possession of the property sold. The purchaser brought a suit to recover the property from the defendant in possession. It was objected on behalf of the defendant that the sale to the plaintiff was void as being champertous and a 'gambling in litigation' contrary to public policy. It was also contended that the vendor had no title to the property sold. The vendor's title depended upon the fact of an adoption at a remote time. Held, that the statement in the sale deed to the effect that one lakh had been paid to the vendor was not in accordance with the fact. It is unlikely that the plaintiff would pay down, without any security, so large a sum to a man confessedly without means. If it were so, there would have been no occasion to provide a monthly allowance for the vendor's personal expenses. These circumstances throw suspicion on the whole transaction. But it is no concern of the defendant that the vendor may have a grievance on the score of a misstatement in an instrument, to which he is no party. The vendor had taken no steps to impeach the deed. On the other hand, there were circumstances which showed that he had stood by it. It is not enough for the defendant to show that the sale-deed is voidable at the vendor's option. He must show that it was absolutely void. There was nothing extortionate or unreasonable in the terms of the bargain. There was no gambling in litigation. There was nothing contrary to public policy. Consequently, the transaction was a present transfer of the vendor's interest in the estate, giving a good title to the plaintiff, on which it was competent for him to sue. Held, further, that the evidence in favour of the adoption was preponderating. Their Lordships agreed with the Judicial Commissioner and decreed for plaintiff. LAL ACHAL RAM v. RAJA KAZIM HUSSAIN KHAN, 9 C.W N. 477, P C =8 O C. 155 =27 A. 271=32 I.A. 113=15 M.L J. 197= 8 Sar. 772. [F., 2 Ind. Cas. 385, 35 C. 420 =12 C.W.N. 393=35 I.A. 48=7 C.L.J. 335= 18 M.L.J. 100=5 A.L J. 184=10 Bom. L.R. 230, P.C.; D., 12 C.W.N. 409 ; R., 13 C.W.N. 44.]

Right of Suit—continued.

——39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(65)—Dismissal of suit for land against donors for non-production of deed of gift—Suit against another for damages for having made over deed to donors—Presumption as to validity of deed—Measure of damages.—A suit for certain land against the donors thereof having been dismissed on the ground that the deed of gift on which the plaintiff based his title was not forthcoming, the plaintiff therein brought the present suit against one M. for damages on the ground that he had failed in the previous suit because M had kept back the deed of gift and had made it over to the donors. M pleaded that he had returned the deed to the donors, first, because it was on insufficient stamp and worthless, and secondly, because he was angry with the plaintiff for having prosecuted him criminally. Held, that M, by making over the plaintiff's instrument of title to a third party, whose interest was clearly adverse to plaintiff, had committed a wrongful act, and was liable for damages; that there was no necessity for proving that the possession of the document originated in a crime, or to enquire how M got possession, that the question was whether, after M had got possession of the deed, he could possibly justify his making over plaintiff's title-deed to a party whose interest was adverse to plaintiff, and in this he utterly failed. Held also, that there was no proof at all that the stamps on the deed was insufficient, or that the deed was unregistered or that it was in any way inadmissible as evidence, and as the defendant by his own act had put it out of the power of the plaintiff to produce the deed, which was admitted as a deed of gift under which the plaintiff's father held the land, it must be presumed to have been a valid document, and in calculating the damages the same presumption will arise, and the plaintiff would be entitled to the full value of the land by way of damages. KHAN MUHAMMAD v. MORAD BAKSH, 116 P. R. 1883.

(66)—Payment of money on account of wager —Whether suit will lie to recover such money.—There is nothing in the Contract Act to show that an action will lie to recover money which has actually been lost and paid on a wager. Where a bet has been paid by a person allowing another credit in his books, the former cannot sue to recover it as he is in the position of a person suing to get back a sum of money which he has actually given over to another in payment of a bet. KANDARI MAL v. SAVANT MAL, 89 P.R. 1883. (101 P.R. 1868, Cited.)

(67)—Owner of property—Damage not caused by his acts—Liability—Cause of action.—An owner of property is under no legal obligation to incur expense upon it for the benefit of his neighbours, where such property has not been altered in character by his acts or with his permission, in such a way as to expose them to any injury. A person is under no legal obligation to drain his garden so as to prevent water from collecting there and injuring the adjoining properties when it is not alleged that he has reduced the level of his garden, or has done anything which has caused water to accumulate there, so as to render him liable for the consequences to his neighbours; and the principle of the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non leadas has no application in such a case. BALDEO DAS v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, 30 P.R. 1883.

(68)—Wajib-ul-arz—Clause providing condition for partition—Suit for cancellation of clause.—A clause in a wajib-ul-arz clearly provided that the kinds of land last specified therein shall be divisible either with the mutual consent of all the proprietors or by order of the competent authority bahhukm sarkar.—Held, with reference to the terms of the administration paper, that the present suit was not maintainable for the object of cancelling the provision in that document, because it was not competent for the Civil Court to decide in the first instance whether the land ought to be divided or not, the hukm sarkar not being the order of a Civil Court. MEDU v. NIKKA, 100 P.R. 1884.

(69)—Resumption, Suit for unlawful—Suit for damage for unlawful resumption by Government.—Government may be sued by any person injured by its acts of unlawful resumption. RAM NARAIN MOOKERJEE v. MAHTAB CHUNDER, 1 Ind. Jur. O.S. 48.

(70)—Landlord and tenant—Right of suit—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 28.—A suit is not maintainable by a tenant to have it determined which of two defendants, both of whom claimed rent from him, is his landlord. KOYLASH CHANDRA DUTT v. GOLUK CHUNDER PODDAR, 2 C. W.N 61. [D., 5 C.L.J. 34, Note.]

(71)—Common land — Suit to demolish a kotha erected by a Kamin—Special damage.—One of the proprietors of a village sued for demolition of a kotha built by defendants Nos. 1 and 2 who were non-proprietary residents on one marla of the gora deh. The other proprietors who did not join in the suit were made pro forma defendants. It was found that previously the site under the kotha was used by certain proprietors as a cattle pen who allowed the defendants to build the kotha. Held, following 52 P.R. 1892, that in the absence of special damage the suit was not maintainable. RAM v. PIR BAKHSH, 71 P.L.R. 1901=33 P R. 1901. (9 A 661, 12 A. 436, 18 A. 115; 78 P. R. 1897, 7 P.R. 1885, 54 P.R. 1886, 187 P.R. 1889, R.) [R., 91 P.R. 1901=113 P.L.R. 1901.]

Right of Suit —continued.

——39.—Miscellaneous—continued.

(72)— Act X of 1859, s. 107—Suit under—Party entitled to sue.—The expression "the party against whom a decision is given" in s. 107 of Act X of 1859, refers to either of the parties, viz., the decree-holder and the claimant, and it is one of these two parties only who has the right to bring a regular suit under the section. PROSUNNO MOYEE DOSSEE v. RAM GOBIND GHOSE, 19 W.R. 106. [R., 22 W.R 478.]

(73)—Act XIV of 1863, s. 1, cl. 1—Lumbardar—Suit to recover arrears of revenue.—Cl. 1, s. 1, Act XIV of 1863, provides for a suit for the recovery of arrears of revenue from sharers who are liable to pay revenue and whose quota of revenue is fixed. Suit under cl. 1, s. 1, Act XIV of 1863 for the recovery of arrears of Government revenue alleged to be due from the defendants. The plaintiff was a lambardar. He represented that, according to the village custom, the surplus remaining, after defraying from the income of the seer lands and the rents, realised from the tenants of the common land, the Government revenue, the village expenses, the 5 per cent. charge, etc., is divided among the co-sharers in proportion to their shares. In appeal, the Judge considered the real point at issue to be whether the defendants ought to pay on their holding at a fixed rent, and let such payment remain as their contribution to a common stock to be applied to expenses, and to giving them and their co-sharers rateable dividends out of the balance, or whether the defendants are only liable to pay a portion of the Government demand; and he determined this question against them. He observed that "the so-called sharers, of whose body the defendants are members, appear to be a sort of cultivating tenants of the plaintiffs with a beneficiary interest. The proportion of the Government demand corresponding to their shares is irrelevant, the Government demand not being paid by way of quota from each. The administration paper recorded at settlement shows that the plaintiffs have to pay the revenue, and the defendants and other sub-sharers are chargeable to them according to the rent-roll; the nett profits after the Government demand and other payments have been made, being ultimately divisible among them." In the result, however, he decreed the claim against them. Held, that, on the facts as found by the Judge, the suit as brought was not maintainable under the section. MUKHUN v. JUSRAM, 4 N.W.P. 165.

(74)—Suit against person of unsound mind—Procedure to be adopted.—No suit could be instituted against a person of unsound mind, without first obtaining an adjudication that he is such, and having a curator appointed for him under Act XXV of 1858 or some other law for the time being in force. NARAYANA v. KRISHNA, 8 M. 214. [R., 24 M. 504.]

Right of Suit —concluded.

——39.—Miscellaneous—concluded.

Right of Support.

(1)—In pre-emption.—The right of support is not an appendage to the property but is included in the incident of neighbourhood. RANCHHODDAS v. JUGALDAS, 2 Bom L R. 41=24 B. 414.

To a proof by a party-wall.— See DEED—CONSTRUCTION OF DEED, 2 B. L. R. 214.

See EASEMENTS, 21 P.R. 1877.

Right of Way.

See EASEMENT.

See EASEMENTS ACT, 1882.

See PRESCRIPTION—EASEMENTS.

(1)—Classes of rights of way and other rights.—By the common law of England there are three distinct classes of rights of way and other similar rights. First, there are private rights, in the strict sense of the term, vested in particular individuals or the owners of particular tenements, and such rights commonly have their origin in grant or prescription. Secondly, there are rights belonging to certain classes of persons, certain portions of the public, such as the free men of a city, the tenants of a manor, or the inhabitants of a parish or village. Such rights commonly have their origin in custom. Thirdly, there are public rights in the full sense of the term, which exist for the benefit of all the King's subjects; and the source of these is ordinarily dedication. These three classes of rights exist in England as well as in India. The remedies for infringement of the above rights discussed. CHUNI LALL v. RAM KISHEN SAHU, 15 C. 460, F.B. [R., 2 L.B.R. 134.]

(2)—Easement—Inference from user—English Law.—In a suit to establish a right of way, it would not be right in this country to draw the same inference from user as would be proper in a case arising in England. The English rule that user must be presumed to be as of right must not be applied without reference to the habits of the people of this country and the particular circumstancess of each case. SHAIKH KHODA BUKSH v. SHAIKH TAJUDDIN, 8 C.W. N. 359.

(3)—Easement—Right of way—Acquisition—User.—A right of way need not have its origin in an express grant made in favour of the party claiming the right. A grant, no doubt, is one of the modes in which a right of way may be established, but a continued user for a certain period of time which would constitute adverse possession in one ordinary suit might also be, and is often deemed, sufficient to establish a right of way. RAM GUNGA DOSS v. GOBIND CHUNDER DOSS, 16 W.R. 284.

Right of Way—continued.

(4)—Easement—"Right of way," how created—What must be proved.—A right of way may be created either by grant, by immemorial custom or by necessity. It is necessary for a party, to establish a right of this kind, to prove its existence and that it is ancient and has been exercised without interruption. No specific time has been held to be sufficient to establish a right of user. The determination of the existence of the right is a question depending on the evidence in each case, the right being inferred from that evidence. Where the right is proved for a period which would give the claimant a right by prescription, the Court would not interfere in special appeal; and where there is evidence showing a long and continued user, it is sufficient for the Court to find whether it has or has not lasted long enough to confer the right to it without particular reference to a specific number of years. IMAMBUNDEE BEGAM v. SHEODYAL RAM, 14 W.R. 199.

(5)—Possession—Right of way—User—Prescription—Burden of proof.—Where the plaintiff who had been out of possession for a longer period than six months, sued the defendant who was in possession, to establish a right of way, held, that the plaintiff must prove his title. In order to establish his right of way, he must prove either thirty years' user, or a grant by the power of the ground. The defendant need not prove his title, because his possession is in itself sufficient to constitute a title against any person failing to prove a better title. SAVALGIAPA VIRBASAPA v. BASAVANAPA BASAPA, 10 B.H.C. 399. [R., 1 B. 592.]

(6)—Right of way — User—Prescription—Proof.—In order to give a right by prescription or presumption of a grant, a right of way in this country need not be shown by user for exactly and fully 20 years. Proof of well established and fixed user has been generally regarded as sufficient. BHUGWAN CHUNDER CHOWDHRY v. SHAIKH KHOSAL, 7 W.R. 271. [R., 14 W.R. 199.]

(7)—Easement — Right of way—Nature of user—Evidence.—To constitute a right of way, there must have been an uninterrupted user as of right, and not one exercised at the mere will and favour of the other party. FUTTEH ALI v. ASGUR ALI, 17 W.R. 11.

(8)—User—Right of way —Presumption.—Where a claim to a right of way is supported by evidence of user only, the Court must satisfy itself whether or not the user was founded on actual right; the guiding principle being that open use of another's land for the purpose of a road or pathway, if continued without interruption for a long time and not attributable to permission or sufferance, induces the presumption that the user was of right. MAHOMED ALI v. JUGAL RAMCHANDRA, 5 B.L.R. App. 84=14 W.R. 124.

(9)—Right of way—Uninterrupted user—Cause of action—Right of driving cattle over whole property.—In order to establish a right of way, the person claiming it must prove uninterrupted user for a certain length of time; if his right is interrupted, he must go into Court at once if he wishes to maintain the right. [D., 16 W.R. 277.] A right of way or easement must not be so large as to extinguish or destroy all the ordinary uses of the servient property. No length of time would give a party such a right, as for instance, a struggling right to the promiscuous use of the whole property for the purpose of driving his cattle over it. JOY DOORGO DOSSIA v. JUGGERNATH ROY, 15 W.R. 295. [D., 16 W.R. 277.]

(10)—Easement — Continuous enjoyment—Permission.—A person claiming a right of easement over another's property is bound to prove that he has had the continuous enjoyment of that easement without interruption, and not merely by the permission of the opposite party, but as of right. HEERA LALL KOOER v. PURMESSUR KOOER, 15 W.R. 401.

(11)—Right of way—Use of pathway for over twelve years—Right to the path as against owner.—Defendant was occupying a certain plot of ground where he had his house and was using the pathway in dispute to proceed to his house without any opposition on the plaintiff's part; that pathway was also the only mode of access which he had to his house. The lower Courts had found that previous to the defendant's occupation of the plot it was occupied by other persons who as a fact were using the same pathway for over twenty years antecedently to the defendant. Held on these facts, that the defendant had a right of way along the pathway in question as against the owner. MOHIM CHUNDER CHUCKERBUTTY v. CHUNDEE CHURN GOOHO, 10 W.R. 452. [Appr., 11 W.R. 522.]

(12)—Easement—Right of way—User—Act IX of 1871.—Where a person sues to establish a right of way, he must prove not only user for a period of 20 years, but also that the user was within two years next before the institution of the suit. GOPEE CHUND SETIA v. BHOOBUN MOHUN SEN, 23 W.R. 401. [R., 7 C. 132=9 C.L.R. 281.]

(12-a)—Easement—User—Prescription —Act IX of 1871 (Limitation), s. 27.—Where the owner of a dominant tenement, with the intention of preventing the use of a way, creates an obstruction of a permanent nature rendering such use impossible, the way cannot be said, during the continuance of the obstruction, to have been "openly enjoyed" within the meaning of the section. SHAM CHURN AUDDY v. TARINEY CHURN BANERJEE, 1 C. 422=25 W.R. 228.

(13)—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), s. 26—Acquisition of easement under—Knowledge of servient owner—English law different.—A right of way or other easement is not acquired under s. 26 of the Limitation Act, necessarily with the knowledge of the servient owner. In this respect there is a difference between the Indian and the English law. ARZAN v. RAKHAL CHUNDER ROY CHOWDHRY, 10 C. 214. [R., 25 M. 457, 8 C.W.N. 425=31 C. 503, P.C.]

Right of Way—continued.

(14)—Indian Limitation Act, s. 26—Special damage—Public and private rights of way.—The distinction between public ways and private ways is important, because the remedies for obstruction to them are not the same. The acquisition of a private right-of-way by prescription is in Burma determinable by reference to s. 26 of the Indian Limitation Act. To acquire such right there must have been a peaceable and open enjoyment of the way by the person who claims it as an easement and as of right without interruption and for twenty years up to some date within two years of any suit brought to contest the claim. A person to whose property the direct route is by a public path has a sufficient interest to enable him to bring a civil suit to have an obstruction to the path removed. No one can sue for the removal of an obstruction to a public way or for interference with it unless he can show that he has sustained or sustains special injury by reason of the obstruction or interference. MAUNG THA ZAN v. U SAN WIN, 2 L.B.R. 134. (15 C. 460, 6 C.L.R. 282, 22 C. 551, R.) [R., 4 L.B.R. 246.]

(15)—Right of private way, Suit for—Special damage, proof of, whether necessary.—In a suit where a right of way is claimed which is not a right of way by the public but a private right of way, and an easement of right by prescription, the question as to whether or not there has been proof of special damage is immaterial. BAIJ NATH SINGH v. TETAI CHOWDHRY, 6 C.W.N. 197.

(16)—Road, Obstruction of—Special damage, facts to establish—Transfer of case—Court failing in a marked manner to do justice—Case sent to another Court on remand.—Where the road, which the defendant is said to have obstructed, is a road leading from the plaintiffs' village to their fields, and also to the public bazar and ghat, and there was no other convenient road for them to use: Held, that the facts are sufficient under the law to constitute special damage and to entitle the plaintiffs to a decree. (22 C. 551, F.) Where a Court failed in a marked manner to do proper justice between the parties, the High Court in remanding the case directed that it should be heard by another Court. GOPAL CHANDRA NASKAR v. GADADHAR MONDAL, 1 Ind. Cas. 110.

(17)—Right of way by sufferance.—A right of way over another's land by sufferance cannot create a permanent right in his favour. ASHOTOSH CHUCKERBUTTY v. TEETOO HOLDAR, W.R. 1864, 293. [R., 4 M.L.J. 192.]

(18)—Specific Relief Act, s. 9—Immoveable property.—A right of way is not immoveable property within the meaning of s. 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877. MANGALDAS v. JEWANRAM, 1 Bom. L.R. 167=23 B. 673.

(19)—Crim. Pro. Code, Ch. XX, application of, to public thoroughfares, and not to private roads

Right of Way—continued.

—Owner of land suffering neighbour's cows to pasture—Easement, if created—S. 311 of the Crim. Pro. Code, and the other sections of Ch. XX of the Code refer to public thoroughfares, and cannot apply to private roads over which a right of way may have been established. It cannot be contended that, because an owner of a patch of waste land between a village and the public road allows his neighbour's cows to stray over it on their way to pasture, he thereby creates over such land a right of easement having the practical effect of depriving it of all value by rendering its cultivation impossible. GEROO CHURN GOON v. GUNGA GOBIND CHATTERJEE, 8 W.R. 268.

(20)—User of right of way prior to partition—No evidence of subsequent right of way over land falling to another's share on partition.—The lower Court was held to be wrong in having considered that anything which took place before the partition was evidence of the plaintiff's right of way over lands which became those of the defendant by virtue of that partition. Because the lower Court had based its judgment mainly on consideration of the lengthened user, which it thought had taken place before the partition, the High Court reversed the decision and remanded the case for retrial, observing that, although user before the partition must not be taken into consideration in the decision, yet, any user which may have taken place since the partition as of right by the plaintiff and his family would be good evidence, as far as it could be of such a right having been given to him by the defendant. OBHOY CHURN DUTT v. NOBIN CHUNDER DUTT, 10 W.R. 298.

(21)—Right of way—User.—The mere use of the word "formerly" with respect to the enjoyment of a right, without any expression to indicate the length of time for which the right had been exercised is insufficient to prove legally a right of user. So, the finding that a right of way had been "formerly" exercised is not a sufficient finding to indicate the length of time for which the right had been exercised and is therefore insufficient for proving a right of user. KRISHNA CHANDRA CHUKERBUTTY v. KRISHNA CHANDRA BANIK, 3 B.L.R. A.C. 211. (2 B.L.R. A.C., 323, 11 W.R. 285, D.; 7 W.R. 1, 9 W.R. 91, R.)

(22)—Act IX of 1871, s. 27—Right of way—Contract—User—Proof.—User for twenty years need not be proved, under s. 27, Act IX of 1871, by a person who claims under a contract the reopening of a way. KALLARAM DHUR v. JOOGUL KISHORE SURMAH, 23 W.R. 290.

(23)—Right of way—Use of way during particular season every year.—There is nothing to prevent the creation of such a right of way as would merely consist in the right of passing over particular lands of another at particular seasons of the year. Such right can be acquired by use of the way for a number of years at a particular season. OOMUR SHAH v. RUMZAN ALI, 10 W.R. 363. [R., 14 W.R. 199.]

Right of Way—continued.

(24)—Easement—Pathway over waste land—Right of user.—A right of user over a pathway can be established even where that path passes over waste land, and a temporary interruption during the rainy season does not affect the right. SHAIKH MAHOMED ANSUR v. SHAIKH SEFATOOLLAH, 22 W.R. 340.

(25)—Suit for right of way—Necessity of proof as to particular right of way claimed.—In this suit brought by the plaintiff for the right of way by a particular road, the defendant denied the right, stating that there were two other roads over defendant's land by which plaintiff had convenience and permission to pass. The first Court found that the plaintiff's right of way for the particular road claimed was proved. The lower appellate Court, not going into that question, held that, as defendant gave plaintiff the option of passing by two other lines of road, the plaintiff could not have a decree for the particular right of way in question. The High Court held that the lower appellate Court was wrong and it should have found specifically whether the plaintiff had the particular right of way claimed by him or not, and if plaintiff had such a right, it should have been decreed to him. GOLUK CHUNDER CHOWDHRY v. TARINEE CHURN CHUCKERBUTTY, 4 W.R. 49. [F., 3 B L.R. App. 118.]

(26)—Easement acquisition of, by time and user—Right of way, not affected by existence of another pathway.—Both the lower Courts in this case had found that plaintiff had exercised the right of way claimed by him from time immemorial, that defendant could not interfere with such right and that, consequently, the wall of the defendant sought to be removed by the plaintiff must be removed. On special appeal, defendant urged that user on sufferance never, by any length of time, grows into a right. And moreover there was another pathway by which access to the main road was possible from plaintiff's house. The High Court, however, held that, where time and user together have created in the plaintiff a right of easement over the property of the defendant, the latter could not, however inconvenient the exercise of such right may be to him, put an end to it, nor can the fact of there being a pathway in any other place affect the right of way which has accrued to the plaintiff over the property of defendant. SHAM BAGDEE v. FUKEER CHUND BAGDEE, 6 W.R. 222.

(27)—Easement— Pathway— Another pathway in existence—Right of user.—The right of user of a pathway is not affected by the existence of another pathway, by which access may be gained to the same premises. MOKOONDONATH BHADOORY v. SHIB CHUNDER BHADOORY, 22 W.R. 302.

(28)—Right of way for particular purpose—Extent of user.—Where a right of way for a particular purpose is proved, the number of occasions on which it may be enjoyed need not be limited to the number of occasions on which it can be shown to have been exercised; it is exerciseable at all convenient times for the particular purpose. GOPAL CHUNDER MUKERJEE v. JUDDOO LALL MULLICK, 9 C. 778. [Affirmed, 13 C. 136, P.C.]

(29)—Suit for declaration of right of way over land of another by particular route—Onus.—In a suit for a declaration of a right of way over certain lands, the property of the defendants, the plaintiffs claiming to have that right by a particular line, held that the plaintiffs must prove the right set up by them. Mere proof of a right to pass over the land without proving the particular route will not entitle the plaintiffs to a decree. RADHANATH SUGRACHARJI v. BAIDONATH SEAL KABIRAJ, 3 B L.R. App. 118. (4 W.R. 49, F.)

(30)—Easement—Right of way—Right to pass from one point to another.—If any person has a right of way from one place to another over a particular line, if he and his ancestors have been accustomed to use that way for a long time, he has a right to go over it and cannot be compelled to use a different and substituted way. But where the right is simply to pass from a point A on the north to point B on the south, the pathway between these two points must be kept open and the party desiring to exercise his rights cannot claim to pass in a particular tortuous and indirect course between the two points. SYED HAMID HOSSEIN v. GERVAIN, 15 W.R. 496. [R., 14 C. W.N. 15.]

(31)—Easement—Right of way—Rights of purchaser.—The purchaser of a house acquires the right to the use of the way which has been enjoyed with the house by the person who sold it, where the right claimed is not merely a right to what is called a way of necesssity, but a particular right of way over a defined path. NUBEEN CHUNDER BULLUB v. BHOOBUN CHUNDER MUNDUL, 15 W.R. 526.

(32)—Thoroughfare—Right of way—Marriage processions — Evidence.—A general right of thoroughfare includes a right to take a marriage or other procession unless the original grant, when made, was in such restricted and limited a form as to exclude all processions whether on foot or not. The mere fact of processions not having passed for a number of years would not, of itself, be sufficient or conclusive to prove that the original grant contained a restriction that no processions even on foot should pass over this way. RAJ MANICK SINGH v. RUTTEN MANICK BOSE, 15 W.R. 46.

(33)—Right of way—Right to pass with processions.—A general right of way includes a right to pass with marriage and funeral processions. LOKENATH GOSSAMEE v. MONMOHUN GOSSAMEE, 20 W.R. 293.

(34)—Obstruction — Exercise of right. — A person who has a right of way cannot claim anything more than that the reasonable exercise of his right shall not be obstructed. It is only ownership of the land that carries with it the ownership of everything usque ad cœlum. TOOLSEEMONY DEBEE v. JOGESH CHUNDER SHAHA, 1 C.L.R. 425.

Right of Way —continued.

(35) —Road —Right of user—Private right. — Where there is a road, the privilege to use which is enjoyed only by one particular section of a community, it is absurd to say that that road is a public one. It is to all intents and purposes a private road, although the number of people who have the privilege of using it may be great. SHAM SOONDER BHUTTACHARJEE v. MONEE RAM DOSS, 25 W.R. 233.

(36) —Right of way -User—Easement—Act XIV of 1859.—A right of passing freely over another's land requires to be kept up by constant use ; if not exercised for a considerable period, e.g., 6 years, it cannot be re-established by suit. HARIDAS NANDI v. JADUNATH DUTT, 5 B.L.R. App. 66 = 14 W.R. 79. [R., 16 A. 390; D., 16 W.R. 277.]

(37)—Joint family—Joint doorway -User—Easement—Obstruction.—Plaintiffs, as members of a joint family, filed this suit to enforce their right to a pathway through a door (which had been blocked up) leading to a joint Thakoorbaree. The first Court found that the obstruction took place nine years ago and held that the plaintiffs' rights were barred by acquiescence. On appeal, held that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree. They did not claim a right of user. They complained of the obstruction of a passage which belonged to them jointly with the defendants. The non-user of a pathway either for nine years as stated by the defendants or for four years as admitted by the plaintiffs does not necessarily constitute an abandonment of any right which the plaintiffs may have possessed. CHUNDER KANT CHOWDHRY v. NUND LALL CHOWDHRY, 15 W.R. 277. (15 W.R. 295 & 402, 14 W.R. 79, D.)

(38)—Right of way -New way substituted for old one—Consent -Non-user —Right of resumption.—Where a new way is substituted for an old one with the consent of the person entitled, and the non-user of the original way is accompanied by acts which warrant the Court in inferring an intention to release, the right of resumption is lost, and the non-user need not extend over any defined period. RAJ BEHARI ROY v. TARA PERSHAD ROY, 20 W.R. 188.

(39)—Closing right of way—Substitution of another way.—The owner of the land over which there is right of way by an ancient pathway cannot, without the consent of the parties entitled to the right, substitute another path and shut up the ancient pathway. TARINEECHURN CHUCKERBUTTY v. TARINEECHURN CHUCKERBUTTY, 1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 6.

(40) —Change of purpose for which the way was used.—The plaintiff and defendants were owners of adjacent fields ; and one mode of approaching the defendants' field was by a way which passed through plaintiff's field. The defendants' field was used for agricultural purposes, but lately they converted their field into a timber yard, and the dispute between the parties was whether the defendants could claim to use the way for the new purpose. Held, that the defendants could, not by merely altering the dominant heritage, substantively increase the easement. "The use" must be the reasonable use for the purpose of the land in the condition in which it was while the user took place, so that if the user is for a field devoted to agricultural purposes, the right cannot be claimed for a timber depot into which the field was converted. DESAI BHAOORAI v. CHUNILAL, 1 B. L R. 658 = 24 B. 188.

Right of Way —continued.

(41) —Landlord and tenant—Dedication to public by owner of land—Encroachment -Right of way—Easement—Suit for injunction—Presumption of covenant or grant.—The parties to the suit were occupiers of houses which stood opposite to each other in a lane There was an open space in the lane on which a cross on a pedestal had stood for many years. The plaintiff alleged that the said vacant space was originally used by the occupants of the plaintiff's house and the residents in the said lane in common for purposes of recreation, except where the cross was erected, that, in addition to the general use of the said open space, he and his predecessors-in-title had enjoyed the use of the said open space as a footway and a way for carriages and other vehicles to approach his house, and to stand and be able to turn there. The plaintiff complained that the defendant had wrongfully removed the cross and enclosed the greater part of the open space by building walls thereon, and prayed for a declaration that he and the occupants of his house were entitled to the uninterrupted use of the said space for purposes of recreation and as a footway and carriage way, and for an injunction. In his written statement, the defendant alleged that the whole of the open space originally belonged to a Portuguese confraternity who were the fazendars of the property both of the plaintiff and of the defendant, and who erected the cross for purposes of worship, and that the same was removed, the Portuguese having left the locality. He denied the allegations in the plaint in respect of the use of the lane as a place for recreation, and as a footway or carriage way, and pleaded that the part of the open space which he had enclosed belonged to him, the religious confraternity having sold the same to him in 1887. Held that the evidence adduced in the case was insufficient to establish that the open space in dispute was dedicated to the public. Held also that the Court would be justified in presuming and ought to presume, a covenant on the part of the fazendari owners to keep the lane including the upper end of it open for the use of the owners of the houses abutting upon it. Such a covenant should be presumed equally in the case of a land-owner granting land for building purposes to fazendari tenants on a perpetual tenure at a quit-rent, and in the case of one selling land out and out for building purposes. RANCHORDASS ANTHA BHAI v. MANEKLAL GORDHANDASS, 17 B. 648.

Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir

Right of Way—continued.

(42)—Public path, when dedication of, to be presumed—Right of one sect to take their idol in procession.—The plaintiffs, Vellalars, sued for a declaration that the defendants, Kaikkalars (weavers) were not entitled to carry their idol in procession along a certain path. It was found that the path was used by all members of the public, including the Kaikkalars, who desired to use it, without any objection or interruption of any kind. There was no evidence as to the origin of the user or that the dedication by the Vellalars as found was subject to any conditions. Held, that the Kaikkalars had the same right to conduct religious processions as the Vellalars, as the street was a public path. (26 M. 376, 30 M. 185, P.C., F.; 26 M. 555, D.) Continued user of a way by the public, raises a presumption that the way belongs to the public, that it has been dedicated by the owner for the public use for which it has been used. It does not lie upon the public to show by what particular owner the road has been dedicated. MANNADA MUDALI v. NALLYA GOUNDAN, 6 M.L.T. 285=19 M.L.J. 467=32 M. 527=4 Ind. Cas. 870. [R., 20 M.L.J. 884 =9 M.L.T. 44=8 Ind. Cas. 175; D., 8 Ind. Cas. 682.]

(43)—Right of way—Easement of necessity—Evidence Act, s. 114—Failure to produce title-deed—Presumption—Way as easement of necessity, what is—How it arises as an incident of property.—When two adjoining compounds belonged to one individual, the resident of one was using a way over the compound of the other, for access to a well, but subsequently, the first compound being purchased by the plaintiff and the second by the defendant, the latter obstructed the former from using the way and the plaintiff sued for a declaration of his right, held that the plaintiff was not entitled to any right of way over defendant's land either as an easement of necessity or otherwise, because there was another and a public way to the well, although it was less convenient and more expensive. (8 C. 956. Cons.: 7 A. 240, R.) [R., 16 C.P.L.R. 156; F., 28 M. 495=15 M.L.J. 255.] When a person claiming a way refuses to put in evidence the conveyance to him, the Court may act on the principle of ill. (g) to s. 114 of Act I of 1872, and presume that evidence which could have been and was not produced, would have been, had it been produced, unfavorable to him. A right of way arising on a grant or lease of land as an easement of necessity, is a way which in law is necessarily implied to be granted, or reserved on the severance of land when the property, whether it be land simply or land with a building upon it, granted or leased, or the property reserved out of a grant or lease cannot be enjoyed by a way over the land of the grantee or lessee in the one case, or over the land of the grantor or lessor in the other. A way of necessity would in the former case necessarily pass as incident to the grant or lease, and, in the other case, arises as incident to the reservation. WUTZLER v. SHAUPE, 15 A. 270=A.W.N. 1893, 151.

(44)—Easement—Right of way—Purchase of land adjoining purchaser's land—Way of access—Way of necessity—Sale-deed, construction of—Circumstances existing at time of sale.—A person purchasing a plot adjoining his own land and having access to the plot through his land, cannot acquire a way of necessity over his vendor's land of which the plot formed a part. The fact that if the plot had been sold to a third person, he would have acquired a way of necessity, does not affect the question. Where a portion of an estate is sold, a right of way leading to such portion may be created by the use of general words, provided that the circumstances existing at the time of the sale were such as to justify the belief that such was the intention of the parties. In this case, the words used were "sarva hakk wa sambandha" which, in themselves, apart from the circumstances at the time of the sale, do not specify a right of way over the vendor's property as conveyed along with the portion of land sold. But, if it were found that there was an old path leading across C to B (the plot sold), and that the purposes for which the plot was sold and the conduct of the parties were such as to justify the inference that by the use of the words "hakk wa sambandha," "rights and accompaniments" it was the intention to convey the right to use the path, it would be open to the Judge to find as a fact that such was the intention. In the case of a claim to a right of way, the question of convenience can be legitimately considered. MUNICIPALITY OF THE CITY OF POONA v. VAMAN RAJARAM GHOLAP, 19 B. 797. [Not F., 28 M. 495; R., 16 C. P.L.R. 156.]

(45)—Right of way—Partition.—The fact of the public having a right of way over property sought to be divided is not a reason in law against such division. RAM PERSHAD NARAIN TEWAREE v. THE COURT OF WARDS, 21 W.R. 152.

(46)—Infringement of—Street—Occupant of the street—Right to sue.—Where the occupants of a street are shown to have a right of passing over the street way, every occupant of the street entitled to the right of way can sue for an infringement of it just as he was solely entitled to it. NARAN v. LALLUBHAI, 2 Bom. L.R. 116.

(47)—Railway—Acquisition of land—Right of way—Representation and conduct of Railway Company—Act VI of 1857, s. 8.—Where a Railway Company, with the assistance of Government, acquired certain land under the provisions of Act VI of 1857, the land vested in the Company absolutely and free from every right or interest therein, of whatever description, possessed by the former proprietors or by other persons. All rights before existing cease upon the acquisition. No right of way can afterwards arise or be continued merely because

Advocate's Library Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

Right of Way --continued.

there remained no mode of access to the land otherwise than by crossing the line. The express provisions of the law are not consistent with the existence of such a right. But if the Railway Company have, by their representations and conduct, laid themselves under legal obligation to provide a road or crossing, then such obligation may be enforced. COLLECTOR OF THE 24-PERGUNNAHS v. NOBIN CHUNDER GHOSE, 3 W.R. 27. [D., 4 W.R. 83; R., 24 B. 600.]

(48)—Exchange of land—Release of rights and interests in land exchanged—Right of way over land not lost.—Plaintiff instituted this suit for the opening of a certain road. Defendant pleaded that, by a certain exchange of land between the parties the plaint-mentioned land came into defendant's possession, that there was a distinct agreement that the plaintiff should relinquish all right in the transferred land and that consequently his claim to open a road over such land could not be admitted. The lower appellate Court held that the plaintiff did not prove his claim in respect of the roads that he sued for. The main contention of the defendant on second appeal was that in the papers of the land exchanged, there was a remark that the party exchanging gave up all rights and interests in the land exchanged, and that, by such remark the party compensated, lost all right of way. The High Court however held that the words relied on by the appellant were general and such as did not waive previous rights of road over the lands. KALEE KISHORE ROY v. DEEN DYAL SINGH, 4 W.R. 83.

(49)—Easement—Imposing a greater burden on the servient tenement.—The defendant set up a cotton press upon a survey number which was used before for agricultural purposes only, and wished to use the previously existing right of way through the adjoining field of the plaintiff for the purposes of the press: Held, that the test to be applied in cases like these was to see whether any additional burden had been or would be imposed on the servient heritage of the plaintiff by the use made or sought to be made of the way by the defendant; and that s. 13 of the Easements Act governed the present case. Held, further, that the fact that the Land Revenue Code allowed agricultural lands to be used for other than agricultural purposes, did not permit of a right of way being used for all purposes allowed by the Land Revenue Code. JESANG v. WHITTLE, 1 Bom. L. R. 37=23 B. 595.

(50)—Wrongful possession of dominant tenement, effect of—Cessation of user of way.—Where the defendant wrongfully took possession of the dominant tenement and the plaintiff ceased to use the way, which led to it over the defendant's land, it cannot be said that, during the period of dispossession (a period of more than three years), the plaintiff had an open, peaceable and uninterrupted, enjoyment of the way as of right, or that the defendant suffered such an enjoyment, although there was no attempt to exercise it. JANHAVI CHOWDHURANI v. BINDU BASHINI CHOWDHURANI, 26 C. 593 =3 C.W.N. 610.

Right of Way—concluded.

(51)—Right of way—Cause of action.—In a suit to remove certain bunds by which an existing channel between the plaintiff's and defendant's tanks was obstructed, the plaintiff has a good cause of action if he has by long user acquired a right of access to his tank and granary for himself and those who come by that passage to remove the rice which he has to sell, and if the defendants have obstructed that passage so as to prevent access to the tank. KALEE MOHUN MUNDUL v. NOBIN CHUNDER MOOKERJEE, 25 W.R. 225.

Long silence as to obstruction—Acquiescence —See ACQUIESCENCE, 1 B.L.R.A.C. 213= 10 W.R. 316.

Settlement Officer's jurisdiction to decide Civil disputes between landlord and tenant—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ch. X, 4 C. W. N. 127.

Settlement Officer's jurisdiction—Dispute as to right of way—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ch. X, 27 C. 364.

See Bur. ACT V OF 1880, L.B.R. (1872—1892), 550.

See AWARD, 5 C.L.R. 338.

See BURDEN OF PROOF—EASEMENTS, 2 C.L.R. 555.

Right of way is immoveable property—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. II, rr. 4, 5, s. 115, 13 C.W.N. 451=9 C.L.J. 336=4 Ind. Cas. 116.

Easement—Interference with private right of way actionable without special damage—See DECREE—DECREE, CONSTRUCTION OF, 9 A. 434=7 A.W.N. 82.

Decision against mortgagor in possession—Mortgagee not estopped—See ESTOPPEL—ESTOPPEL BY JUDGMENT, 4 C. 692.

See INJUNCTION—SPECIAL CASES, 9 B.L. R. 328=18 W.R. 379, 10 B. 390.

Right of way—Suit for removal of obstruction—Limitation.—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 23. 26, arts. 37, 144, 2 Ind. Cas. 410.

Easement—Limitation Act 1877, s. 26—User as a right of way up the ladder, one end of which rests on the property of another and along the platform which overhangs it—See POSSESSION—ADVERSE POSSESSION, 68 P.R. 1899=5 P.L.R.1900, Notes of judgment.

See RES JUDICATA—PARTIES, 59 P.R. 1879.

Right, Title and Interest.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, Act VIII of 1859—Right, title and interest of judgment-debtor—Construction.—In all cases where the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor in certain property is purchased in Court-auction in execution of decree, the question what interest has been purchased must be determined by what, under the circumstances, the purchaser understood to have bought. And this is a question of mixed law and fact. ABDUL AYIZ KHAN v. APPAYASAMI NAIKER, 8 C.W.N 186, P.C.=31 I.A. 1=27 M. 131=6 Bom. L.R. 7=8 Sar. 368. (17 I.A. 11, 14 I.A. 77, 14 I.A. 84, R.) [R., 6 C.L.J. 490]

Right, Title and Interest—concluded.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 65, O. XXI, r. 94, 25 M. 454.

Right, title and interest of judgment-debtor, attachment of — Claim — Proper Order — See CLAIM TO PROPERTY ATTACHED, 4 B. L. R. F. B. 175=13 W. R. F. B. 63.

Attachment of—Possession—Right to have property released—See CLAIM TO PROPERTY, ATTACHED, 2 Ind. Jur. N. S. 339.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION, 12 C. L. R. 104.

See HINDU LAW—DEBTS, 12 C.L.R. 169, P.C.=6 M. 1=9 I.A. 128, 3 Bom L.R. 322.

Of judgmen-debtor—Sale of – Parties – See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, 11 C.L.R. 263.

Description of property sold as – Of judgment-debtor—See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, 17 C. 584, P.C.= 17 I. A. 11.

Sale of, of judgment-debtor — See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, 7 C. L. R. 465.

Sale in execution of—Of member—Power of remaining co-parcener to ratify sale—Effect of ratification—Gift of his share in property sold by remaining co-parcener in favour of another member of family—Suit by purchaser for general partition, if necessary—Right of donee to recover portion gifted —See HINDU LAW-JOINT FAMILY, 13 M. L. J. 477.

See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, 18 B. 147.

Execution sale of – Of Mortgagor or his heir, what passes at – See MORTGAGE – SALE OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY, 5 B. 8.

See SALE – SALE FOR ARREARS OF RENT – UNDER TENURES AND PORTIONS OF. SALES OF, 3 C.L.R. 561, P. C.=6 I A. 47.

See SALE — SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE – DECREES AGAINST REPRESENTATIVES, 2 Hay 8.

Decree against father – Sale of "—" of father in family lands — Evidence—Service vatan lands—Fraud—See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE – JOINT PROPERTY, SALE OF, 15 B. 13.

Of judgment-debtor – See SALE—SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE—JOINT PROPERTY, SALE OF, 9 C.L.R. 350.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER—POSSESSION, 6 B. 193 (F.B.).

Right to appear.

See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS – PLEADER.

See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS – ADVOCATE, 13 W.R. 60.

Right to begin.

(1)—General rule.—The rule is that the party holding the affirmative has the right to begin at the hearing before the High Court. LALL MOHUN MULLICK v. PEARY CHAND MITTRA, 1 Ind Jur. N S. 383.

(2) –Practice—Suits under Civ. Pro. Code, 1859. — It was held under the Civ. Pro. Code of 1859 that the common Law practice in respect of the right to begin ought to prevail in cases under that Act, that practice having been followed up to that time, and the Procedure Code making no distinction between suits in the nature of Common Law actions and those in the nature of equity suits. RUNGUNMONEY DOSSEE v. BRIJO LALL DEY, Cor., 25.

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1877, s. 179—Suit for partition.—In a suit for partition of certain properties and trading business, alleged to be the joint property of the plaintiff and the defendants, the latter admitted that there had been a nucleus of joint property, but alleged that the greater portion of the properties claimed to be joint were their self-acquired properties. Held that the plaintiff had the right to begin, unless the defendants admitted all the allegations or all the material allegations in the plaint. AGHORE NAUTH NEOGHY v. PREM CHUND NEOGHY, 7 C.L.R. 274.

(4) –Practice—Appeal—Respondent denying right of appeal.—Where the respondent denies the right of appeal in a case, and this preliminary objection is set down for argument, the appellant has the right to begin. RUSTOMJEE BURGORJI v. KESSOWJI NAIK, 8 B 287.

(5)—Civ. Pro. Code., 1882, s. 623—Application for review—Notice to show cause—Right to begin.—The party opposing an application for review of judgment has the right to begin, where a notice to show cause why the application should not be granted has been issued to him GHANSHAM SINGH v. LAL SINGH, 9 A. 61, F.B.

(6)—Preliminary issue—Hearing—Right to begin.—When a case is argued on a preliminary issue, the party by whom the issue is raised has the right to begin. FATMABAI v. AISHABAI, 12 B. 454.

Right to begin—Burden of Proof—Irregularity not affecting merits—Powers of Appellate Court—See APPELLATE COURT — MISCELLANEOUS, 3 A. 824=1 A.W.N. 86.

See BURDEN OF PROOF – CLAIM TO PROPERTY ATTACHED, 2 B.L.R. F.B. 91=11 W. R. F.B. 8.

Right to sue.

See RIGHT OF SUIT.

Right to Use of Water.

See EASEMENT.

See EASEMENTS ACT, 1882.

See PRESCRIPTION—EASEMENTS.

See RIPARIAN PROPRIETORS.

See WATER COURSE.

Right to use of Water—continued.

(1)—Surplus water of tank—Channel—Easement.—A right of easement may be acquired in the surplus water of a tank flowing through a defined channel, whether natural or artificial. RAYAPPAN v. VIRABHADRA, 7 M. 530. [R., 14 C.P.L.R. 145, 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

(2)—Right to take water from common canal, established usage regarding—Additional water not to be taken to the injury of neighbours.—According to law, the right to take water is governed by established uses and no man can open a new conduit to take additional water to the injury of his neighbours. The proper issue in the present case was not, as framed by the lower appellate Court, whether the disputed water-course should be called a bagla or a karba but whether the defendant had an old-established right to the use of the water-course or not. Both baglas and karbas were private water-courses by which water was taken from the common canal. The case was, in the result, remanded to the lower appellate Court to be tried on the above proper issue whether or not defendant had an established right by user of the disputed water-course. ATHUR ALI KHAN v. SEKUNDER ALI KHAN, 4 W.R. 28.

(3)—Right of water—Irrigation by tapping another's canal.—A person has no right to abstract water for his own land from a canal belonging to another, unless by grant or prescription. RUN BAHADOOR v. POODHEE ROY, W.R. 1864, 319.

(4)—Riparian owner—Right to deal with stream—Extent of right.—A riparian proprietor may deal with the stream as freely as with any other portion of his land, provided only that he must not, by so doing, sensibly disturb the natural conditions of the stream as it exists within the limits of other proprietors, whether above or below or on the opposite side. SHEIKH MONOOUR HOOSSEIN v. KANHYA LAL, 3 W.R. 218. [R., 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

(5)—Water-course artificially constructed, not subject to rule of riparian proprietorship.—Riparian proprietors have a right to the use of the water of a natural water-course under certain restrictions. But these rights have no application to a water-course artificially constructed, and the mere fact of riparian proprietorship gives no rights whatever over such a stream. BHOOP NARAIN SINGH v. KAZEE SYUD KERAMUT ALI, 6 W.R. 99. [F., 14 W.R. 349.]

(6)—Riparian ownership—Proprietorship of tidal unnavigable stream—Obstruction to stream—Easement.—The plaintiff who was the proprietor of lands and premises on one side of a tidal, but unnavigable Khal, the proprietorship of which was vested in the Government, sued the defendant the proprietor of lands on the other side, for the removal of a wall which the latter had constructed and which encroached upon the stream, on the ground that damage might result to his lands and premises by reason of such encroachment upon the stream. It was not shown that the flow of the stream had been sensibly altered, or that the plaintiff had a right or easement to have the waterflow in its accustomed manner. Held, reversing the decision of the High Court, that the suit would not lie, the encroachment having been on the soil of the Government without any sensible injury to the plaintiff. (Bickett v. Morris, L.R. 1 H.L. Scotch App. 47, D.) KALI KISSEN TAGORE v. JADOO LAL MALLICK, 5 C.L.R. 97, P.C.=6 I.A. 190=4 Sar. 61.

(7)—Water-course—Right to use of water—Origin.—The proprietor of a pyne has a right to allow or not to allow the use of water flowing through it to other persons accept where they have also a clearly defined right to control the water and convert it to their own use. It will not do to say that "all along" or "for a long time," such persons have been accustomed to use the water. It must be clearly found that the right originated in some grant or some valid contract, or that the right had been exercised for so long a period that such title may be presumed. MAHARANEE INDURJEET KOOER v. LUCHMEE KOOER, 14 W.R. 349.

(8)—Right of drainage—Easement.—A person may have a right to have the water falling on his lands in a higher level run off from it over his neighbour's land in a lower level. KOPIL POOREE v. MANICK SAHOO, 20 W.R. 287. [Rel. on, 12 C. 323.]

(9)—Easement—Right to drainage of surplus surface water.—The owner of high land in India has an inherent right to drain off its surplus surface water through the adjacent power grounds. Where such owner of lower ground erects a dam interfering with the right to such drainage of surplus water, the owner of the superior land would not be entitled to have the whole dam removed, but only so much of it as might interfere with his right. ABDUL HAKIM v. GONESH DUTT, 12 C. 323. [R., 1 N.L.R. 182, 16 M.L.J. 582=29 M. 539=1 M.L.T. 333.]

(10)—Easement—Natural course—Right to stop flow of water by embankment.—Where water flows in a defined channel through one's land from the land of another, the former cannot, by an embankment placed across it, stop the flow lower down to the land of a third person, unless he can make out some special right to do so. He can only make a reasonable use of the water as it passes. The onward flow of water is a natural incident to the land in the condition in which it is. BABOO CHUMROO SINGH v. MULLIK KHYRUT AHMED, 18 W.R. 525. [R., 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

(11)—Natural river—Right to erect bund—User—Onus of proof.—Where a bund is erected in a natural flowing river, and it is alleged by the plaintiff and admitted by the defendant that it entirely cuts off the water from the plaintiff, it lies upon the defendant to prove his right to erect the bund. HEERANUND SAHOO v. MUSSAMUT KHUBEEROONISSA, 15 W.R. 516. [R., 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

Right to use of Water —continued.

(12)—Tort—Deprivation of right to rise of water—Injury—Right to repair bund—Tender of another bund.—Where, owing to a new bund raised by the defendant on low ground and the obstruction by defendant to plaintiffs repairing their old bund, there is deprivation of plaintiffs' right to some rise of water which they previously enjoyed, such deprivation is an injury. Where the plaintiffs have a right to repair a certain bund for the purpose of securing a right to a rise of water, it is no answer to a claim of such right to say that the party can have another bund quite as good. SHUNKER SAHOO v. GURBHOO SAHOO, 15 W.R. 216.

(13)—Right of irrigation—Suit for removal of embankment obstructing right—Obstruction not proved—Mere denial of plaintiff's right, effect of.—In a suit for damages and for the removal of an embankment newly erected by the defendant on his own lands, on the ground that the embankment infringed the plaintiff's right of irrigation by a certain channel; held that, in order to entitle the plaintiff to a decree there must have been some infringement of his right by the defendant, and that, as all that the defendant, did was to question or deny the plaintiff's right without in any way obstructing or interfering with it, the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree. SHAMA CHURN CHATTERJEE v. BOIDONATH BANERJEE, 11 W.R. 2.

(14)—Infringement of right—Action, when maintainable.—Where there has been an infringement of right, it is not necessary, to maintain an action, to show that there has been any subsequent injury consequent upon such infringement. RAM CHAND CHUCKERBUTTY v. NUDDIAR CHAND GHOSE, 23 W.R. 230.

(15)—Right of easement—Onus of proof.—Generally, where a plaintiff complains of the act of the defendant founded on an alleged right of easement, it would be for the defendant to prove that right existed. But, where a plaintiff alleges that subsequent to his purchase of a tank, at a specified period, the defendants commenced to take water from the tank for their own purposes and had opened a channel for the discharge of the water, and had thus asserted what was a new right, the onus is on the plaintiff to prove the assertion of the new right on the part of the defendants. BUNSHEEDHUR THAKOOR v. KHETTUR MONEE DEBIA, 11 W.R. 15.

(16)—Butwara—Rights reserved by agreement—Interference by co-sharers.—Where the parties have, by agreement in a butwara, restricted their rights by a condition that the plaintiff was to have full use of the water in a reservoir, the parties who obtained the lands lying on different sides of that reservoir are not at liberty to put up an embankment round it, and to diminish very materially the flow of water into it, thus rendering nearly or quite nugatory the rights reserved to the other co-sharers. GOUR SAHOY SINGH v. SHEO SAHOY SINGH, 15 W.R. 94.

Right to use of Water—continued.

(17)—Easement - Right to water— Right to erect bund—The fact that water which falls into one's land is collected in a reservoir there and used to flow into the neighbour's land cannot give the latter a prescriptive right to have the water flow from the reservoir into his land, so as to prevent the former from erecting on his own land a bund to prevent the water flowing into the neighbour's land. BUNSEE SAHOO v. KALEE PERSHAD, 13 W.R. 414. [D., 15 W.R. 94, 18 W.R. 525.]

(18)—Riparian owners—Right of villagers whose lands about on a stream to conserve water by erecting a dam.—The plaintiffs and other co-villagers (the riparian holders of the villages of Mitrapur and Bijoypur) whose lands abutted on a stream, are entitled by custom and immemorial user, to the right to conserve water, for agricultural purposes, by building up a dam in the river, during the rainy season, and to allow the surplus water to run out by the sides of the dam. KALUR KHABIR v. JANMEAH, 29 C. 100. (24 C. 865, P.C., D.) [R., 35 C. 851; D., 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

(19)—Right of water—Troughs.—The owner of two properties may conduct the rain water falling on one property through troughs over a water course to the other property. RAMRUTTUN NEOGEE v. PHOOL SINGH, W.R. 1864, 147.

(20)—License—Permissive use—Revocation—Use of water.—Where the plaintiff who enjoyed a permissive use of the water of the defendant's tank, has not used it for the last 4 years from the date when it was further excavated, it may be taken that the permission was revoked. GOOROO CHURN SOOR v. SREE CHURN GHOSE, 15 W R. 303.

(21) — Water-course over another's land, extent of right to discharge water through—Abandonment of right.—Plaintiff alleged that the water of a considerable area of his land drained into a water-course and used to find exit in a certain direction over the land of the defendant, but that the latter had erected a bund across the water-course whereby plaintiff was injured, and he therefore prayed for a decree that the bund might be removed. Whether or not the water-course was a natural or an artificial one was not found, but in either view of the case, the plaintiff's suit was held to fail, for it was found that the exercise of the alleged right had been continually interrupted by the defendant. The lower appellate Court, therefore, might and ought to have inferred an abandonment of such right on the part of the plaintiff. Plaintiff's right to discharge the water on his land through the water-course over the defendant's land did not exist, and consequently no right could be made out on the part of the plaintiff to have the bund removed. KHETTURNATH GHOSE v. PROSUNNO GHOSE GOWALAH, 7 W.R. 498. [Cons., 12 W.R. 519; F., 12 C 323.]

Right to use of Water—continued.

(22)—Water-way, right of user of—Abandonment.—The rule that a "prescriptive right when once acquired, is liable to be lost only by the operation of the law of limitation," is subject to an exception, which is, where the right in question may have been abandoned. Where a person, after having allowed a khal (water-way) over which he had a right of way, to be filled up, and another to be dug up in its place without any objection, and having used the new water-way, for two years, subsequently sues for the use of the old water-way, he must, under the above circumstances, be deemed to have abondoned whatever right of user he might have had over it. JUGUTBUNDHOO CHUCKERBUTTY v. JAGUT CHUNDER CHOWDHRY, 12 W.R. 519.

(23)—Right of raiyat under Government to sufficient water for irrigation—Opening of new irrigation channels, whether Collector can sanction.—The diversion of water caused by the defendant's opening a new irrigation channel, in pursuance of an order made by the Sub-Collector, caused a material diminution in the supply of water necessary for the cultivation of the plaintiff's lands Plaintiff, who sustained actual damage in consequence, was given a decree for damages, and an injunction was issued to the defendant to close the channel newly opened by him. The order of the Sub-Collector was held to have been in excess of the power possessed by him for the regulation of the supply of water for irrigation purposes among raiyats holding lands under Government. RAMCHANDRA v. NARAYANASAMI, 16 M. 333=2 M.L.J. 279. [R., 24 M. 36, 28 M. 72=15 M.L.J. 32, 14 M.L.J. 350, 31 M. 171=18 M.L.J. 178=3 M L.T. 273, 5 M.L.T. 143.]

(24)—Water rights—Respective rights of riparian proprietors above and below—Quantity of water which can be abstracted by riparian owner—Reparian owner's right to construct dam and take water for irrigation.—A riparian owner, where a stream flows in a channel down from a property higher up, is entitled to the flow of water without interruption and without substantial diminution caused by the upper proprietor, who may, for legitimate purposes, withdraw so much only of the water as will not materially lessen the downward flow on to his neighbour's land. What quantity of water can be abstracted and consumed, without infringing the rights of the lower riparian proprietors, must, in all cases, be a question of circumstances depending mainly upon the size of the river or stream, and the proportion which the water abstracted bears to its entire volume. The plaintiffs, upper riparian owners, claimed the unrestricted right of constructing a dam and of taking, for irrigation purposes, as much water as they liked, without any proof that they had ever done so before, or that they had enjoyed the right by prescription or custom. The Privy Council held that in the absence of such right acquired by contract with lower proprietors, or by prescriptive use, the law conceded no such right. DEBI PERSHAD SINGH v. JOYNATH SINGH, 24 C. 865, P.C. =24 I.A. 60=1 C.W.N. 401. [F., 28 M. 236; Appr., 11 C.W.N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370; R., 3 L.B.R. 23, 35 C. 851, 32 M. 141=5 M.L.T. 149=19 M.L.J. 131=2 Ind. Cas. 325; D., 29 C. 100.]

Right to use of Water—concluded.

Rioting.

See PENAL CODE, ss. 153, 296, 26 M. 554, F.B.=13 M.L.J. 171.

Riparian Owners.

See RIPARIAN PROPRIETORS.

Riparian Proprietors.

See ALLUVION.

See EASEMENTS.

See PRESCRIPTION—EASEMENTS—WATER, RIGHT CONCERNING.

See RIGHT TO USE OF WATER.

See WATER COURSE.

(1)—Water in a stream flowing through separate estates, use of—Upper and lower proprietors, respective rights of, to the use of water — Suit for injunction by one riparian owner against another, maintainability of, without proof of damage.— A riparian owner, where a stream flows in a channel down from a property higher up, is entitled to the flow of water without interruption and without substantial diminution caused by the upper proprietor who may, for ligitimate purposes, withdraw so much only of the water as will not materially lessen the downward flow on his neighbours's land. (24 C. 865, R.) The owner of a tenement adjoining a natural stream has no right ro divert water to a place outside the tenement and there consume it even though he does not thereby diminish the flow of water to the lower riparian tenement. To sustian an action by one riparian owner against another restraining the latter from diverting the water beyond his riparian tenement, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove any damage or diminution in the water flowing to his riparian tenement. AIYAVU MOOPPAN v. SAMINATHA KAVUNDAN, 28 M. 236. [D., 32 M. 141 =19 M.L.J. 131=5 M.L.T. 149.]

(2)— Upper and lower, rights of— Stream, natural, waters of—Ordinary and extra-ordinary uses, natural and artificial wants, distinction between—Irrigation, if primary use of stream water.—Riparian owners have equal rights to a usufruct of the waters of an adjacent natural stream, and no proprietor has the right to use the water to the prejudice of other proprietors above or below, unless he has a prior right to diversion. There is a distinction between the ordinary and extraordinary uses of water, or uses for the purpose of satisfying natural and artificial wants. Every riparian proprietor has a right to the ordinary use of water, without regard to the effect which such use may have, in cases of a deficiency, upon proprietors lower down the stream. But, in the case of extraordinary use, he must not interfere with the rights of other proprietors. (6 I.A. 33, F.) A user, which is extraordinary in one place or at one time, may be ordinary in another, owing to the surrounding circumstances, or to changes in the locality. Under the English law, irrigation is not a primary use, and whether a riparian owner may use the water of a natural stream to irrigate his land, depends upon the quantity of water he requires and the injury he inflicts upon other riparain owners. Under the American law, the balance of authority is in favour of the view, that the relative importance and necessity of the several uses of the water of a particular stream must depend upon the circumstances of each case, and that all the circumstances are to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the use for irrigation. One proprietor cannot, under any circumstances, divert and consume the entire flow of a stream for irrigation purposes to the exclusion of lower proprietors. This rule ought to be applied for India. BALABHADRA PERSAD SINGH v. NAJIBAN alias BASMATIA, 4 C.L.J. 370=11 C W.N. 85. (24 C. 865=24 I.A. 60, Appl.) [R., 32 M. 141=5 M.L.T. 149=19 M.L.J. 131.]

Riparian Proprietors—continued.

(3)—Riparian proprietors—Changes in bed of river—Boundary—Custom.—There may be a fluctuating boundary (viz., the course of a river), between two zillahs, which by no means affects the rights of proprietors. A custom to the effect that, where land which had been once alluvial lies between two branches of a river, or between two rivers, and from time to time the water shifts so that alternately one of these channels is deep and the other is fordable, then the whole of such intermediate land belongs to the land-owner on the side of the channel which at any given time is fordable—in short, that the ownership and the right possession of the whole intermediate tract of land shift with the volume of the water always attaching to the riparian proprietors on the side of the channel which happens, for the time being to be fordable—must be established by very clear and distinct evidence, since the operation of such a custom must be to render the rights of property fluctuating and precarious. An ikrarnamah between two zemindars as to the mode of determining the boundaries of their estates according as a river becomes fordable on the side of one or other of such estates, whatever may be its effect as between the parties thereto, is not a covenant which will run with the land into the hands of any possessor of it by any title. BABOO BISSESSURNATH v. MAHARAJAH MOHESSUR BUX SINGH BAHADOOR, 11 B.L.R 265, P C.=18 W.R. 160=I. A. Sup. Vol. 34=3 Sar. 147. [R., 19 W.R. 219.]

(4)—Riparian rights—Prescriptive right—Erection of bunds—Cause of action.—The right of a riparian proprietor to have the water of a stream allowed to come down to him substantially in its natural state, not materially diminished by the user and acts of proprietors above him, is not a prescriptive right; it is a right naturally incident to his. property in the land through which the stream passes and he can have no claim to remove bunds situated in the stream upon land which is not his except so far as the removal may be necessary to prevent them from interfering with his natural right to the water. Where bunds had been erected in a river by the upper riparian owners, for taking an excessive quantity of water from the river to the prejudice of a lower riparian owner during a long course of time whenever there was need, and there was no continous maintenance of the bund, each one of the acts of setting up a bund constituted a separate cause of action. THE COURT OF WARDS v. RAJA LILANAND SINGH BAHADUR, 4 B. L R. App. 30=13 W.R. 48. [R., 10 M.L.J. 136, 11 C.W. N. 85=4 C.L.J. 370.]

(5)—River—Private property in banks—Public right of easement.—The bank of a river may be, and constantly is, private property. There may be public rights of passage over the banks for the purposes of navigation. They are in the nature of easements belonging to the public. ROOP LALL DOSS v. THE CHAIRMAN OF THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF DACCA, 22 W.R. 276.

(6)—Bed of flowing stream—Private property—Survey map—Thak map—Evidence.—The bed of a flowing stream may be the property of a private person. Survey maps as well as thak maps are admissible as evidence. JUGDISH CHUNDER BISWAS v. CHOWDHRY ZUHOOR-UL-HUQ, 24 W.R. 317. [R., 9 C.L.R. 305.]

(7)—Water rights—Riparian owners, rights of—Injunction restraining the riparian owner from erecting a dam across the river—Rights of such owners to the flow of water not absolute and exclusive but relative—Injunction allowable only so far as to stop the flow of the stream or cause material injury to the other owners.—The respondents owned a village on the bank of the river Sai, and the appellants some other villages about 12 miles higher up the river. The appellants built a dam across the river, and the respondents, thereupon, sued to obtain a permanent injunction restraining them from hereafter building a dam across the river which would prevent the water from flowing down to the respondent's village or materially reduce the amount of the water that flows down. The Courts below granted an injunction restraining the appellants altogether from erecting a dam of any kind in future: Held, that the terms of the injunction granted were too wide. According to the ordinary law, each owner has a right to the usufruct of the river or stream which passes through his land. That means not an absolute or exclusive right to the flow of the water, but subject to the similar right of all the proprietors of the banks on each side to the reasonable enjoyment of the same; in short, a riparian owner has a right to use and consume the water for irrigating the land abutting a natural stream, provided that he does not thereby cause a material injury to other like owners. The decree of the Courts below was, therefore, modified, and an injunction granted restraining the appellant from damming up the river in such a way as to stop the flow of the stream or cause a material injury to the respondents. SHEO NARAIN SINGH v. CHANDRABHAL, 10 Ind. Cas. 181. (29 B. 357, 7 Bom. L.R. 265, 24 C. 865, 24 I.A. 60 P.C., R.)

Riparian Proprietors—continued.

Disputes between--Suit in Mamlatdar's Court —Jurisdiction—See BOM. ACT III OF 1876, 23 B. 47.

Law in England and in India—Disturbance of riparian rights—Jurisdiction of Mamlatdar —Party dissatisfied with decision—Remedy—See Bom. ACT III OF 1876, 23 B. 506.

See ALLUVION—CHANGE IN COURSE OF RIVERS, 2 Hay, 541, 3 Agra 18.

See ALLUVION—FORMATION OF CHURS OR ISLANDS, 6 B.L.R. 255, F.B.=14 W.R. F.B. 25, 6 B.L.R. 261, Note=13 W.R. 366.

See ALLUVION—LAND INUNDATED AND REFORMED, 5 B.L.R. 521 P.C.=14 W.R.P.C. 11=13 M.I.A. 467.

Rights of, to the usufruct of the stream—See EASEMENTS ACT, 1882, s. 7, ill. (j), 7 Bom. L.R. 265=29 B. 357.

Claiming right to irrigate his lands from river must not interfere with lower riparian owner's right—Upper riparian owner entitled to acquire easement to irrigate his land independently of s. 26, Limitation Act—Proof required from upper riparian owner relying on custom—See EASEMENT, 35 C. 851.

Rights and duties of—Use of water flowing in natural channel—See EASEMENT, 3 L.B.R. 23.

Natural stream—Rights of upper riparian owners—Natural right—See EASEMENT, 18 M. 320=4 M.L.J. 248.

Duty of—See EASEMENT, 8 A.L.J. 640.

Riparian owners, upper and lower, rights inter se—Rights of Government as upper riparian owner—Right of riparian owners to sue in representative capacity—See GOVERNMENT, 5 M.L.T. 149=19 M.L.J. 131=32 M. 141=2 Ind. Cas. 325.

Right of higher—To pass water on to lower —So as to increase the burden upon the lower land—See INJUNCTION—SPECIAL CASES, 1 N.L.R. 182.

Riparian Proprietors—concluded.

Erection of bund throwing water on land of proprietor on opposite bank—Injunction to prevent erection—See INJUNCTION—SPECIAL CASES, 27 M. 409.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, s. 26, 1 M. 335.

Right of, in a natural stream — Suit for contribution among—See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1887, s. 25, 7 M.L.T. 74=5 Ind. Cas. 742=33 M. 258=20 M.L.J. 722.

Superior and lower riparian owners—Embankment erected by the superior owner for self-protection — Loss to the lower owner—See RIGHT OF SUIT — INJURY TO ENJOYMENT OF PROPERTY, 18 M. 158=4 M.L.J. 244.

Riparian Rights.

See RIPARIAN PROPRIETORS.

Right to the unimpeded flow of water—Diverting the course of the river— Damages.—A riparian owner may put water that flows through his land to certain uses connected with his land and for that purpose he may be entitled to divert its course: but it must be done in such a manner as not to inflict any material injury on the lower riparian proprietor. WAMAN v. CHANGU, 8 Bom. L.R. 87.

Risk Note.

Signed by consignor—Exemption from liability—See ACT IX OF 1890, ss. 54, 72, 17 B. 417.

Effect of—See ACT IX OF 1890, s. 72, 30 C. 257=7 C.W.N. 370.

Risk-note by consignor, enforceability of stipulations in—See ACT IX OF 1890, s. 72, 18 A. 42=A.W.N. 1895, 150.

See ACT IX OF 1890, s. 72 (2) (b) 5 O.C. 153.

Liability of Railway Company—Contract to contrary—See BURDEN OF PROOF—MISCELLANEOUS, 14 M.L.J. 396.

Rival claims.

See BUR. ACT II OF 1876, Ss. 6, 55, 56, L.B. R. 1893—1900, 429.

Rival Sects.

Rights of—See WORSHIP, 5 M. 304.

River.

See ALLUVION.

See FERRY.

See FISHERY.

See RIGHT TO USE OF WATER.

See RIPARIAN PROPRIETORS.

(1)—River, what is.—Where a stream has a perennial source, a bed and well-defined banks on either side, the flow in it of water for a part of the year, and discharges itself in a continuous flow into another river, it has all the elements which constitute a river to which riparian rights attach. It is not necessary that water should flow in it continually; it may dry up and the bed may remain dry for several months in a year. BALBIR SINGH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, 22 A. 96 = A.W.N. 1899, 194.

River—continued.

(2)—Bed of—, right to.—The East India Company, as representing the Indian Government, have a freehold in the bed of navigable rivers in India and to the land between high and low water mark. DOE DEM SEEBKRISTO v. THE EAST INDIA COMPANY, 6 M.I.A. 267 = 10 Moo. P C. 140 = 1 Sar. 540.

(3)—Rivers and River-beds—Ownership of riverbeds—Ordinarily vested in Government—Plaintiff claiming ownership therein must prove it by clear evidence.—In this Presidency, the beds of rivers are ordinarily vested in Government. In a suit by the Shrotriemdar of a village for a declaration that a portion of a river-bed belongs to him and for an injunction, it is for the plaintiff to make out that the river-bed belongs to him. When the evidence on which the plaintiff relied in proof of his title was (1) that the grant of the shrotriem to his predecessor in title in 1802 was described as the grant of the "village" and (2) that in the margin of the Inam title-deed issued in 1879 the words "beside Poramboke" are used in setting out the grant. Held, that there being no specific grant of the river-bed, these general words should not be construed as involving such a grant. The conservation and control of works and sources of irrigation have from the earliest times been the especial function and duty of the Government in India. PAPALA NARAYANASWAMY NAIDU v. KANNIAPPA NAIDU, (1912) M.W.N. 496. (1912 M.W.N. 119, 34 M. 296, 1 I.A. 364, 5 M.H.C. 6, 28 M. 539, R.)

Tidal or non-tidal—To whom accretion belongs—See ALLUVION—GENERAL, 2 C.L.J. 185 = 2 A.L.J. 623, P.C. = 9 C.W.N. 889 = 8 O. C. 293 = 15 M L J. 349 = 7 Bom. L.R. 872 = 27 A. 655 = 32 I.A. 165.

Claim for land subject to river action—Decree in respect of land under water—See ALLUVION—CHANGE IN COURSE OF RIVERS, 152 P.L. R. 1906.

River, changing its course and giving rise to formation of a new channel—See ALLUVION—CHANGE IN COURSE OF RIVERS. 7 Bom. L.R. 872 = 2 A.L.J. 623 = 2 C L.J. 185 = 9 C. W.N. 889 = 8 O.C. 293, P.C. = 15 M.L.J. 349 = 32 I.A. 165 = 27 A. 655.

See ALLUVION—FORMATION OF CHURS OR ISLANDS, 6 B.L.R. 343 = 14 W.R. 352.

Dried up bed of a—Ownership—See BOUNDARY, 12 C.L.J. 216 = 7 Ind. Cas. 140.

See EASEMENT, L.B.R. 1872-1892, 233.

See FERRY, 1 Hay 426.

Public navigable river—Arm of the river being cut off from the main river, effect of, upon fishery right—See FISHERY, 12 C.W.N. 559.

River—concluded.

Navigable river—Jalkar or right of fishing in—River changing its course—See FISHERY, 17 C. 963.

Exclusive fishery rights in tidal navigable rivers—Grant by the crown—See FISHERY, 11 C. 434, F.B.

Right of fishing in navigable river—Property—Grant from Government—See FISHERY, 2 B. 19.

Tidal river—See FISHERY, 8 M. 467.

Private rights of fishery in tidal rivers—Jalkar—Presumption—See FISHERY, 4 C. 53.

See FISHERY, 22 C. 252, 12 M. 43.

Shifting its course and forming dobas or lakes—Right of fishery in such dobas—See JALKAR, 33 C. 15 = 9 C.W.N. 934.

Difference between lands temporarily inundated and those becoming part of a river-bed — Rights of owner—See LEASE—MISCELLANEOUS, 2 S.L.R. 1.

River-bed.

Presumption of land re-appearing from—Wajib-ul-arz—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, Arts, 142, 144, 158 P.L.R. 1906.

Riwaj-i-am.

Bujwa Rajputs—Riwaj-i-am—Adoption of nearest relative whether imperative—Factum valet.—In a case of adoption between Bujwa Rajputs of Sialkot district, the riwaj-i-am was to the effect "that among Bujwa Rajputs a proprietor may, having regard to near relationship, adopt a son from collaterals descended from the same common ancestor, but may not adopt a person from another caste or a daughter's son or a sister's son or a son-in-law." Held that the proper construction to be put upon it would be that, a descendant from the same common ancestor in the male line must be chosen, that preference should be given to a near relation over one more remote, but that, if a relation otherwise eligible were adopted, the adoption must not be held to be invalid on the ground that there were relations in existence at the time of the adoption who were nearer in order of relationship to the adoptor than the adopted son, and that, in such a case, the doctrine of "factum valet" would apply. CHANNU, NAR SINGH AND LABHA v. DEVI SINGH, BALWANT SINGH AND MUSSUMMAT BHAGAN, 47 P.R. 1878. [R., 34 P.R. 1883, F.B.]

Correctness of entry in Riwaj-i-am not supported by instances—Effect—See PUN. ACT II OF 1905, 90 P.R. 1908 = 157 P.W.R. 1908.

See CUSTOMS PUNJAB—ADOPTION, 51 P.R. 1881.

Entry of special custom in the—Effect—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—ADOPTION. 198 P.L.R. 1911.

Riwaj-i-am—concluded.

Unsupported by instances — Evidentiary value—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—ADOPTION, 196 P.L.R. 1911.

Entry in, unsuported by instances—Value—See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB — ADOPTION, 85 P.W.R. 1911.

See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB — ADOPTION, 81 P.R. 1891.

Evidentiary value of--See CUSTOMS--PUNJAB —ALIENATION, 60 P.L.R. 1911=9 Ind Cas. 453=23 P.R. 1911.

See CUSTOMS--PUNJAB--GIFT, 39 P.R.1876.

Arbitrary rule in—Effect—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 50 P.L.R. 1912.

Riwaj-i-am Rule laid down in—Proof of the contrary—Onus of proof—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 27 P.R. 1912.

Unsupported by instances — Evidentiary value—See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB — INHERITANCE, 57 P.W.R. 1912.

See CUSTOMS — PUNJAB—INHERITANCE, 108 P.R. 1900, 117 P.R. 1901.

Value of, when supported by the opinions but not by instances—See CUSTOMS—PUNJAB —INHERITANCE, 94 P.L.R. 1911=29 P.L.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 608.

Value of, as evidence of custom stated therein—See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, s. 32 (5), 8 Ind. Cas. 728.

Interpretation and value of —Value of—Entry of custom in, unsupported by instances—See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE, 84 P.W.R. 1910 =7 Ind. Cas. 352.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT TO PRE-EMPT, 17 P.R. 1905=43 P.L.R. 1905.

Road.

(1)—Public road, right of District Board over—Poramboke, right of zemindar over—Reg. XXV of 1802—Addition of a party to the suit, direction for, in second appeal--Practice.—There is a distinction between a road and a public road. The latter alone is vested in the District Board. It is not all kinds of property that is poramboke which is vested in the zemindar. Under Reg. XXV of 1802, he would not be entitled to any Lakiraj property. The addition of a new party, for the final determination of a question in the suit, was directed by the High Court in second appeal. SRI RAJA BOMMADEVARA VENKATA NARASIMHA NAIDU BAHADUR ZAMINDAR GARU v. GOVINDARAJULU VENKATA SUBBARYADU, 5 M.L.T. 225.

(2)—Ownership of road site between two properties.—When a road has been, for many years, the boundary between two properties, and there is no evidence that the owner of either property gave up the whole of the land necessary for it, it must be presumed that each party was content to sacrifice one-half of the Road—concluded.

site for the benefit of the public. MOBARUCK SHAH v. TOOFANY, 4 C. 206=2 C.L.R. 446. [F., 15 C.P.L.R. 93.]

(3)—"Road" in Bengal Municipal Act (V of 1876), s. 32, construction of.—The word "roads" in s. 32 of the Bengal Municipal Act does not include the soil beneath the roads. CHAIRMEN OF THE NAIHATI MUNICIPALITY v. KISHORI LAL GOSWAMI, 13 C. 171. [R., 20 C. 732, 25 M. 635, 4 C.L.J. 343=10 C.W.N. 1044=33 C. 1290.]

(4)—Opening and closing of roads—Trespass. —In a suit for the re-opening of an old road which defendants had closed, and for the closing of a new road which they had opened on land alleged to belong to plaintiff, the lower appellate Court made a decree declaring the new road to be within plaintiff's premises, and directing that it should be closed, and the old road restored. Held that the decree was only in the nature of a declaration that the act of the defendants in making a new road was a trespass, and that, upon this question it was conclusive in point of fact and good in law. HIRA CHAND BANERJEE v. SHAMA CHARAN CHATTERJEE, 3 B.L R.A.C. 351=12 W. R. 275. [F., 1 A. 249; Appr., 7 B L.R. 184.]

Dedication of, to public—See ACT I OF 1894, s. 23, 10 Bom. L.R. 931.

Calcutta—Property in — Duty of Commissioners of the Calcutta Corporation with respect to them—See BEN. ACT IV OF 1876, ss. 189, 191, 213, 252, 10 C. 445.

Necessary consequences and implications arising from the duty cast on Local Boards of maintaining roads—See MAD. ACT V OF 1884, 18 M.L.J. 91=31 M 117.

Non-repair of—liability of a corporation for —See CORPORATION, 6 Bom. L.R. 75=28 B. 340.

Roads and Bridges, Tolls on.

See BOM. ACT III OF 1875.

Road-cess.

Public Works Cess—Ben. Act III of 1877—Public cess—Income-tax—See BEN. ACT X OF 1871, 11 C.L.R. 140.

Public Works cess—See BEN. ACT X OF 1871, s. 3, 7 C.L R. 373.

See BEN. ACT IX OF 1880, s. 106, 28 C. 637 =6 C.W.N. 128.

Road-cess, District.

See BEN. ACT X OF 1871.

Road-cess returns.

Evidentiary value of—Suit for enhancement —See BEN. ACT IX OF 1880, s. 95, art. 2, sch. III, 30 C. 1033, P.C.=30 I.A. 177=8 C. W.N. 1.

Admissibility of—See EVIDENCE—MISCELLANEOUS, 3 C.W.N. 343.

Admissibility of—Absence of recital—Effect—See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, ss. 130, 90, 15 C.L. J. 7.

Robbery.

Liability of Railway Company for goods plundered from train—See ACT XVIII OF 1854, 3 B. 109.

Rokar Accounts.

Books, admissibility of, when Khata books are not produced—See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, s. 34, 9 C W.N. 421=32 C. 582.

Roman Catholic Christians.

Of Indian domicile—Marriage with deceased wife's sister, valid, when—See MARRIAGE, 32 C. 187=9 C.W.N. 323=1 C.L.J. 55.

Roman Catholic Church.

Dharmakartas or headmen of a—, Powers of —See CHURCH, 17 M. 447.

Roman Law.

Set-off — Principles of English Courts of Equity or of Roman Law of compensation applicable—No weight given to statutes of set-off.— The High Court would deal with the questions as to set off on the principles of English Courts of Equity or of the Roman Law as to compensation and would give no weight to objections derived from the peculiar language of the statutes of set-off. RAMGOPAL v. MAJETI MALLIKHARJANUDU, 1 M.H.C. 396. [F., 7 N.W.P. 157.]

Roots.

Owner may chop off penetrating—No notice necessary, if he does not trespass on the other's land—See TREES, 31 C. 944=8 C.W.N. 710.

Rope.

Contract to purchase— See CONTRACT—CONSTRUCTION OF CONTRACTS, Cor. 62.

Royal Family.

Attachment of pension payable in British India to descendants of former Royal family in Ceylon—Validity of attachment—See ATTACHMENT—SUBJECTS OF ATTACHMENT, 26 M. 423.

Royalty.

Suit for recovery of, on registered document —Art. 116 and not art. 110 of Limitation Act governs suit--See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, s. 103, cl. (j), 12 C.W.N. 724.

Rozina Allowance.

See BOM. ACT III OF 1874, s. 13, 19 B. 250.

Rule against Perpetuity.

Rule against perpetuity—See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, s. 101, 8 Bom. L.R. 268=30 B. 477.

Wills—Gift for indefinite time carried absolute estate—Charge on testator's estate for payment of annuities—Vesting of contingent interest—Infringement of rule against perpetuity—Effect not to be given to such intention of testator—See WILL—CONSTRUCTION, 1 M.H.C. 17.

Rule in Pigot's case.

Rule in Pigot's case—See DEED—ALTERATION IN DEEDS, 3 Bom. L.R. 213=25 B. 616.

Rule in Shelly's case.

(1)—Applicability of the rule in India.—The rule in Shelly's case is based on feudal considerations and is unsuitable to the people of this presidency and has not been adopted in framing ss. 80, 81, 83 and 84 of the Indian Succession Act. ANTAO v. ARDESHIR, 1 Bom. L.R. 303.

Rule Nisi.

Rule nisi to show cause against the addition of person as defendant—No grounds set out therein—Discharge of rule—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 9 C. 735.

See RIGHT OF REPLY 7 B.L.R, App. 59.

Rules.

Thus circular prescribes Rules for Examination of Candidates for employment as Mofussil Ministerial officers. Cir. No. 17, dated 24th August 1865, 3 W.R. Civil Circular Orders. p. 5.

Rule 220 of Small Cause Court (Presidency) effect of—Restraint upon anticipation—See ACT III OF 1874, s. 8. 17 M.L.J. 363=2 M.L.T. 322=30 M. 378.

And orders of local government (N.W.P.)—Kumaun division—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, s. 8, 24 A. 348, F.B=A.W.N. 1902, 86.

Suit pending in Agent's Court, High Court not competent to transfer to District Court—Agency Rule No. XXII—See MAD. ACT XXIV OF 1839, 23 M. 329.

Framed by Municipal Board of Mussoorie as to building within Municipal limits—Order for demolition of building erected in contravention of such rules—See U.P. ACT XV OF 1883, s. 55, A.W.N. 1900, 8.

Government servant —Acquisition of property in contravention of departmental—Right to maintain suit against benamidar in respect of said property—See BENAMI TRANSACTION—MISCELLANEOUS, 7 M.L.J. 268.

Local Government Rules under s. 320 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1877—Notification No. 671 (Judicial Civil Department), dated 30th August, 1880—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 68, 4 A. 116, F.B.=1 A.W.N. 178.

Made by the High Court under powers conferred by the Code of Civil Procedure have the force of law—See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, ss. 122, 129, 130 and 131, 5 Bom. L.R. 394.

See DARKHAST RULES, 26 M. 742=12 M. L.J. 417.

Local Government—Under s. 320, Civ. Pro. Code—Delivery of possession — Jurisdiction—See EXECUTION OF DECREE—TRANSFER OF DECREE FOR EXECUTION—EXECUTION OUT OF COURT'S JURISDICTION, 7 A. 407=A.W.N. 1885, 87.

Rules—concluded.

Rule 3, Ch. II—Rules of High Court, Appellate side—See GUARDIAN—APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN, 26 C. 133=3 C.W.N. 91.

Power to make—See JUDGMENT—FORM AND CONTENTS, 9 A. 93, F.B.

Kumaon Rules, 1894, 17—"Final decree"—Arbitration—Retirement of some of the arbitrators before expiry of time fixed for filing award—Award presented by umpire—See KUMAON RULES, 1894, A.W N. 1904, 49.

See KUMAON RULES, 1894, r. 17, 1 A.L.J. 29=A.W.N. 1904, 49.

Rule 19, Small Cause Court Rules—See LIMITATION—QUESTION OF LIMITATION, 1 B.L.R. O.C. 49.

Of procedure—how far to be followed—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 7 M.H.C. 387.

Of the Board of Revenue for the settlement of the Gorakhpur and Basti districts—See PRE-EMPTION—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ, A.W.N. 1901, 115.

Of the Board of Revenue for the settlement of the Gorakhpur and Basti districts—See PRE-EMPTION—MISCELLANEOUS, A.W.N. 1901, 115.

See REVIEW—JURISDICTION TO REVIEW, 23 C. 339.

See SETTLEMENT RECORD, 17 P.R. 1887.

Voluntary Benefit Society—of Society, whether could be altered—See SOCIETY, 22 B. 451.

Mutual Benefit Society—Alteration of rules by majority of subscribers—See SOCIETY, 7 C. 1=8 C.L.R. 577.

Privy Council—issued under 2 and 3 Will. IV, c. 51—See STATUTES, 2 and 3 William IV, Ch. 51, 17 C. 337.

Rules, Construction of.

(1)—Rules—Bombay Cotton Trade Association—Agreement to pay differences—Closing the contract—Rules in restraint of legal proceedings—Reference to arbitration of disputes as to the quality of cotton sold.—One of the rules of the Bombay Cotton Trade Association runs: "If, before the maturity of any contract, either party thereto shall suspend payment or become bankrupt or insolvent the other party or parties to such contract shall be bound to forthwith close the contract and when the contract is thus closed the measure of damages shall be the difference between the market price current at the time of closing for similar goods for delivery at the time named in the contract so closed, and the rate named in the contract. Such market price shall be ascertained either by re-purchase or re sale or shall at the option of the party closing the contract be that fixed by the daily quotation committee subject to the right of appeal to the Board of Directors on payment of the usual appeal fee of Rs. 50 or that quoted by the Board at their usual monthly meetings. The damages ascertained as a foresaid shall become at once payable to or by the party closing the same." Held, on a construction of the above rule, that to close the contract is to pay differences and nothing else, and that is a contract by way of wager and void and none the less because it is agreed that under other circumstances the contract is to do that to which no exception can be taken. Some of the rules of the Cotton Trade Association provided for a reference to arbitration (whose award was to be final) in cases of disputes as to quality between buyer and seller: Held, on construction of those rules, that the rules are in no way in restraint of legal proceedings, but they are so framed as that legal proceedings do not become necessary. CHAPSEY v. GILL & CO., 7 Bom. L R. 805.

Rules made under Acts.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 320—Framing of rules by Local Government (Bombay) under—Amendment by s. 30, Act VII of 1888—Rules not retrospective in their operation—Decree referred to Collector for execution—Sale—Confirmation and setting aside of—Collector's powers in respect of.—The rules framed by the Local Government of Bombay in 1890 in exercise of the powers conferred by s. 320 of the Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, as amended by s. 30 of Act VII of 1888, cannot have retrospective effect given to them. So, where certain property was sold in 1889 by the Collector in execution of a decree referred to him under s. 320, and the Collector confirmed the sale acting under the powers given to him by the rules (of 1890) above mentioned, held that the action of the Collector was ultra vires, because the rules in question had no application to the present case the sale having been held before the promulgation of the rules. It is only the Civil Court that passed the decree, which is competent to confirm the sale. Under the rules, the Collector has no power either to set aside the sale or to extend the time given to the judgment-debtor by the decree to comply with the provisions thereof. GANPATRAM MOTIRAM v. ISAAC ADAMJI, 15 B. 322. [F., 15 B. 694; R., 23 B. 531.]

(2)—Act XV of 1882, s. 69, r. 428 of rules of Procedure of Presidency Small Cause Court—Stating case for opinion of High Court.—Rule 428 of the Rules of Procedure of Presidency Small Cause Court is not ultra vires, nor is it in conflict with s. 69 of Act XV of 1882. The rule and the section proceed on different lines, the rule providing for cases in which the Judge is in doubt and not for cases covered by the section. MAHOMED KHUMARALI v. RENGA RAO, 24 M. 654.

See ACT IV OF 1869, s. 7, 19 B. 293.

See ACT I OF 1878, s. 4, 19 B. 626.

Rules framed under Act, rr. 31, 35—Civil Rules of Practice, Rule 282—Vakil's fees—Suit for declaration—Mode of calculation—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, 26 M. 654, F.B.

Rules made under Acts—continued.

Rules made by the High Court under Act XVIII of 1879—Several pleaders engaged in a case—Division of fees—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, ss. 27, 28, 7 C.W.N. 300.

See ACT XVIII OF 1879, cls. 31, 35, 4 M. L.J. 181.

See ACT IX OF 1890, 23 A. 367=A.W.N. 1901, 107.

Responsibility of railway company as carriers —Rules framed under the Act —Reasonableness —Non-granting of final receipt—See ACT IX OF 1890, ss. 47, 54, 72, 31 C. 951=8 C.W.N. 725.

Rules framed by Board of Revenue in furtherance of Act I of 1894, not ultra vires—See ACT I OF 1894, s. 55, 30 C. 36=7 C.W N. 249.

Board's rules of 1859, Rule I —See BEN. ACT XI OF 1859, s. 3, 8 C.W.N. 826.

See C.P. ACT XII OF 1898, s. 16, r. 30, 15 C.P.L.R. 153.

Ganjam and Vizagapatam Agency Courts Act XXIV of 1839--Rules Nos. XX and XXXI framed under the Act—Reversal by agent of decree passed by senior Assistant Agent—Power of High Court to direct Agent to review his decision—See MAD. ACT XXIV OF 1839, rr. 20 and 31, 24 M. 345.

Agency Rules No. XXXI—Order of Agent in execution—Decree—Appeal to High Court—Review—See MAD. ACT XXIV OF 1839, r. 31, 26 M. 266.

See MAD. ACT I OF 1886, s. 24 (e), 26 M. 430.

See PUN. ACT XVII OF 1887, 71 P.L.R. 1903=5 P.R. 1902.

See U. P. ACT XVIII OF 1876, Ch. II, s. 9, 4 O.C. 365.

Rules framed by Municipal Board of Mussoorie as to building within municipal limits—Order for demolition of building erected in contravention of such rules — See U. P. ACT XV OF 1883, s. 55, A.W.N. 1900, 8.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 68, A.W.N. 1882, 12.

Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 320 (=s. 70, New Code)—Transmission of decree for execution by Collector— Power of Local Government to provide for appeals from orders of Collector—Rule 17, cl. (19) of 12th November 1883, if ultra vires—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, ss. 68, 70, 71, 12 A 564=10 A.W.N. 185.

Sale by Collector—Rule XII of rules made by Local Government under s. 320, under notification No. 671 of 1880, dated 30th August 1880—See CIV.PRO.CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r.90, s 68, A.W.N. 1882, 61.

See COSTS—SPECIAL CASES, 4 M.L.J. 280.

Rule IV—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, s. 7, (IV) (d), 118 P.L.R. 1904.

Rules made under Acts—concluded.

Stamps bearing names of different attorneys and different dates—Indulgence in respect of the same—Practice—See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, ss. 28, 30, 6 C.W.N. 785.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE—APPLICATION FOR EXECUTION AND POWERS OF COURT, 14 B. 369.

Local Government Rules under s. 320, Civ. Pro.Code--Delivery of possession--Jurisdiction--See EXECUTION OF DECREE—TRANSFER OF DECREE FOR EXECUTION, ETC., EXECUTION OUT OF COURT'S JURISDICTION, 7 A. 407=A. W.N. 1885, 87.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE — MISCELLANEOUS, A.W.N. 1885, 319.

Excise Act, Appendix No. 20 of the Excise Rules—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 1 O.C. 121.

Rules under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887—Rules Nos.177 (III) (b), 179—See LAMBARDAR, 7 P.R. 1904, Rev.

Legal Practitioners Act, rules framed under —Fees paid to pleaders to examine witnesses on commission cannot be allowed — See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS— PLEADER'S REMUNERATION, 6 M.L.J. 124.

Refusal to grant certificate to mukhtar to practise in Criminal Courts—Revision—Jurisdiction of High Court—Rules for Kumaon and Garhwal districts issued under s. 6 of Act No.XIV of 1874 (Notification No.XLV A, dated the 23rd May, 1879)—Crim. Pro. Code, s. 439 —Letters Patent, s. 15—See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS, MUKHTAR, A.W.N. 1892, 236.

See MAFIDAR, 10 P.R. 1886, Rev.

Rule IV framed under s 9 of the Suits Valuation Act, 1887—See MORTGAGE—GENERAL, P.L.R. 1900, p. 135.

Bye-laws of Port Trust, r. 59—See SALE OF GOODS, 17 B. 62.

Rules of Governor-General, 3rd March, 1882, 5 (e)—See STAMP ACT, 1879, 7 M 176, F.B.

See STAMP ACT, 1899, s. 37, sch. I, art. 1, 23 A. 213=A.W.N. 1901, 24, F.B.

See ST. 11 AND 12 VIC., C. 21, ss. 50, 51, r. 20, 17 B. 313.

See VALUATION OF SUIT, 56 P.R. 1892, 6 P.R. 1904.

Rules of Board of Revenue.

This circular deals with a Nota Bene to Table in cl. 12, Board Rules, page 43. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular deals with additions in the list of returns, at page 262, Board Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular deals with alteration in statement No. 20, Board Rules, page 302. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

Rules of Board of Revenue—continued.

This circular supersedes ch. X of the Board Rules, except ss. 1 and 4 and cl. 5 of s. 8. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 2.

This circular cancels cl. 18, page 189 of Board Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 3.

This circular makes an addition and correction in Board Rules, pp. 119 and 225. Rev. Cir. No 7, 20 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 9.

This circular makes an alteration in Board's Rules, s. 5, p. 345.—Rev. Cir. No. 1, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 1.

This circular deals with corrections in s. 4, page 176, Board's Rules, consequent on Board's no longer having to countersign Commissioner's contingent bills. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 2.

This circular makes an addition to Board's Rule 28, p. 7 of the Salt Manual. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 9.

This circular substitutes a New Rule for cls. 3, 3-A, 6, and 7, s. 3, ch. VIII, p. 852 of Board's Rules regarding revenue. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 5.

This section deals with the alteration in cl. 12, s. 2, Ch.XXV, page 341, Board's Rules, regarding converting securities into a book-debt in the Bank of Bengal. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

This circular deals with an addition to Ch. XIII, (Division III), p. 213 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p.9.

This circular deals with alteration in cl. 5, s. 7, Ch. XIX, p. 268 of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 10.

This circular substitutes new form of application for the one subjoined to cl. 3, Ch. VI, s. 10, p. 127 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 11.

This circular deals with addition to cl. 3-A, s. 12, Ch. VIII, Board's Rules, regarding transmission by post of covers containing transfer receipts for payment of land revenue. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 21 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 11.

This circular deals with heading for "Kharcha Hisabs" under Khas Tehsil to be added to the Appendix to Ch. XIII, p. 213 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 21 W. R. Rev. Cir. p. 12.

This circular makes an alteration in the Bengalee translation of Form No. 20, page 302, Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 1.

This circular makes certain alterations in Board's Rules regarding settlements, consequent on a Government of Bengal Resolution. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 3.

This letter circulates reprint of Ch. XVIII of Board's Rules relating to "Returns." Rev. Cir. No. 2, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 7.

Rules of Board of Revenue—continued.

This circular prescribes Monthly Return in substitution of Form B, page 46 of Board's Rules, and makes alterations in Rules in consequence thereof. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 7.

This letter adds 3 clauses to Ch. XXV, s. 1, p. 341, Board's Rules, regarding expenses contingent on filing appeals in wards' cases. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 10.

This circular dealing with reference to recent Government orders, authorizing the Board to confirm permanent settlements in certain cases, substitutes new clause for cl. 1, and makes an addition to cl. 3, s. 9, Ch. VIII of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 8, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 13.

This circular adds a 4th column to Register No. 69, s. 4, Ch. XIV, p. 225 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 9, 22 W.R. Rev. Cir. 14.

This circular substitutes new rules regarding estimates for local improvements for those in cls. 1 to 10, s. III, Ch. VII, p. 150 of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 23 W.R. Rev Cir. p. 9.

This circular calls attention to correspondence with Government, explanatory of a previous order of Government regarding Settlements, and makes alterations in s. II, Ch. VII of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 14.

This circular cancels first part of statement prescribed by Board's Circular No. 1 of 1874 regarding establishments. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 16.

This circular makes an addition to Board's Rules, cl. 1, s. VI, Ch. XVIII. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 18.

This circular makes additions to cl. 23, s. IX, Ch. II, p. 30, and to cl, 10, s. XIV, Ch. V, p. 74 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 18.

This circular requests that the several classes of estates enumerated be accurately distinguished, and that alterations be made in s. IV, Ch. XXV, Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 32.

This circular deals with corrections in Rule 8 of Board's Rules published with Circular Order No. 1 of December 1874. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 34.

This circular draws attention and makes addition to cl. 9, s. XIII, Ch. XI, p. 188 of Board's Rules regarding the withdrawing of money from a Government treasury under a power of attorney. Rev. Cir. No. 7, 23 W. R. Rev. Cir. p. 34.

This circular substitutes new form of store-book for that referred to in cl. 4, s. III, p. 305 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 10, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 35.

Rules of Board of Revenue—concluded.

This circular adds cl. 12-A, s. VI, Ch. XVIII, p. 260, Board's Rules, regarding Commissioners noticing working of fund for improvement of Government and temporarily settled estates. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 36.

This circular substitutes rules for cl. 10, s. IX, Ch. XX, p. 284 of Board's Rules, regarding allowances to settlement-holders, &c. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 36.

This circular expunges certain words from cl. 3, s. VI, Ch. III (p. 44) or Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No 2, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 39.

This circular substitutes new rules for Ch. XI, s. VI, p. 179 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 3, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 39.

This circular makes an addition to cl. 6, p. 49 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 23 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 40.

This circular makes alterations in the form of Registers D and E, appended to s. VI, Ch. XIII of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 2.

This circular makes additions to Ch. XXV of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 5, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 5.

This circular cancels cls. 1 to 5, s. VI, Ch. XII of Board's Rules, and alters cls. 1 and 2. Rev. Cir. No. 6, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 5.

This circular makes an addition to Board's Rules, Ch. XVIII, s. VI, cl. 4. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 6.

This circular enjoins an addition to cl. 3, s. VI, Ch. XVIII of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 4, 24 W R. Rev. Cir. p. 7.

This circular issues an amended version of the Rules for the supply of copies of, and information respecting, papers and documents in Collectors' Offices, circulated with G. O. No. 2 of January 1875, to be substituted for s. VI, Ch. XIII, of the Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 8.

This circular cancels Rule 3 of Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 24 W.R. Rev. Cir. p. 25.

This circular adds a clause (4) to Board's Rules, Ch. VIII, s. 9. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 7.

This circular substitutes Rules 3 to 10 for cls. 3 to 5, s. VI, Ch. III, Board's Rules. Rev. Cir. No. 2, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 7.

This circular deals with counterfoils of excise papers in Form 15. Rev. Cir. No. 10, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir 23.

This circular deals with corrections of cl. 4, s. IV, Ch. XXV, page 342, Board's Rules-Attached estate manager's agreement. Rev. Cir. No. 1, 25 W.R. Rev. Cir. 27.

See SETTLEMENT—MISCELLANEOUS, 3 B. L.R. App. 82.

Rules of Chief Court—Punjab.

(1)—O. LVII, r. II (i)—Surety under, liability of, only restricted to the performance of the order under revision—When and how such liability can be enforced.—The decree-holders transferred their decree to one M and R, and the transfer was duly recognised by the Court. Subsequently, one B applied for execution of that decree, alleging that M and R had transferred it to him. Judgment-debtors objected that B had no right to execute the decree. The District Judge, holding that B had a right to execute the decree, passed the following order "Let execution proceed." Then the judgment debtor applied in revision to the Chief Court, and A executed the necessary surety bond required, under R. II (i), O. LVII, of the Chief Court's Rules and Orders. On the revision petition being rejected, B, without taking any steps against the judgment-debtor, applied for and got A arrested, held, that the order of arrest was illegal. The only security that could be demanded under the rules was for the performance of the order under revision, within a reasonable period. The liability of the surety could not be more extensive than the liability of the judgment-debtors, no matter in what terms the security bond was worded. Before any steps can be taken against a surety, the decree-holder must show that he has endeavoured, without success, to enforce performance of the order under revision, as against the judgment-debtor. No liability could attach to the surety, unless and until the decree-holder had failed to satisfy his decree by sale of the properties of the judgment debtor. AGIA SINGH v. BALLA MAL, 66 P R. 1909=99 P.W.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 959=134 P.L.R. 1909.

See MINOR—CUSTODY OF MINOR, 10 P.R. 1897.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts.

1.—BOMBAY.

2.—CALCUTTA.

3.—MADRAS.

4.—NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

——1.—Bombay.

(1)—S. 17, 18, 25 — Certified copies required by the rule—Limitation Act (XV of 1877)—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 652—Presentation of memoranda of second appeal, etc.—Accompaniments.—An appeal, etc., if presented in time is validly presented for the purposes of the Limitation Act if it is accompanied by copies required by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882. The accompaniments directed under Rule 25 of the High Court Rules are extraneous to the memoranda of appeals, applications or appeals in execution, and the rule does not fix any time within which they are to accompany the memoranda, etc. Per CHANDAVARKAR, J. —No rule of the High Court can add to or modify the conditions and limitation of the law laid down in the Limitation Act. It is true that the Court has the power of making certain rules given it by s. 652 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and those rules must be "consistent with " the Code. But there is no power given to frame a rule modifying any rule or mode as to computation of limitation prescribed expressly or by necessary implication, in the Limitation Act. CHUNILAL v. DAHYABHAI, 9 Bom. L.R. 1138=32 B. 14.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts—continued.

——1.—Bombay—continued.

(2)—High Court Rules (Original side)—Rule 80 (a) (1)—Pauper, petition to sue as—Prothonotary's decision—Application to judge in Chambers.—Under Rule 80 (a) (1) of the Bombay High Court Rules, it is the right of a party dissatisfied with the Prothonotary's decision to apply to the Judge to have the matter adjourned to him; and the Judge in Chambers is bound to take up the matter and decide it for himself. MEGHBAI v. POONJABAI, 9 Bom. L.R. 475=32 B. 163.

(3)—Rules 111, 112—Ex parte decree—Suit set down for hearing before the date fixed in the summons—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 68, 69, 96, 100, 101, 112, and 113.—The plaintiff is not entitled to have a suit set down for an ex parte decree before the date fixed in the summons for the hearing of the suit, even though the defendant has not filed his written statement within four weeks from the date of the service of the summons as required under Rule 111 of the High Court Rules. DHIRAJLAL PANACHAND v. HORMUSJI EDULJI BOTTLEWALLA, 10 Bom. L.R. 301=32 B. 534.

(4)—Rule 122—Civ. Pro. Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 491—Arrest before judgment—Damages for wrongful arrest—Damages for arrest cannot be tried by counterclaim—Practice.—Pending a civil suit against him, the defendant was arrested before judgment but was afterwards released. He then made a claim of Rs. 25,000 against the plaintiff as damages for his wrongful arrest and applied to include in the suit his counterclaim of Rs. 25,000. Held, that the question which the defendant desired to be tried was not one which ought to be tried by counterclaim. MAGOOMAL JETHANAND v. HAMID BIN ALI, 10 Bom. L.R. 1002.

(5)—Rule 131—Third party notice—Application to be before filing written statement—Practice and Procedure.—An application for a third party notice, under Rule 131 of the Bombay High Court Rules, must be made before the written statement is filed, unless special leave has been obtained from the Court. NIPPON MENKWA KABYSHIKA KAISHA v. GURMUKRAI SUKHANAND AND CO., 10 Bom. L.R. 1024.

(6)—High Court Rules, No. 183—Attorney—Costs—Order against heirs or representatives of client, if enforceable.—Rule 183 of the High Court Rules provides that an attorney, when he has taxed his bill of costs against his client may obtain an order in Chambers for payment of the sum allowed on taxation, and such order may be executed under Chapter XIX of the Civ. Pro. Code. There is nothing in the words of Rule 183 expressly authorizing the enforcement of the attorney's claim against any one other than the client himself. It is a well established principle that where a law creates a special privilege it is to be strictly construed. Therefore an attorney's claim cannot, under Rule 183, be enforced against the heirs or representatives of his client. ASSUR PURSHOTAM v. RUTTONBAI, 16 B. 152.

(7)—Rule 195—Witness—Expenses—Court's jurisdiction to award after he has given evidence—Subpœna to produce documents—Personal presence—Witness not examined by the party summoning.—Under Rule 195 of the High Court Rules the Court has jurisdiction to allow reasonable sum to a witness for his expenses, even after he has given his evidence. When a witness has been summoned to produce documents, whether he should produce them himself or by one of his servants is a question which must be left to his discretion, unless the summons distinctly tells him that he should depute one of his servants with the documents. It does not lie in the mouth of a party summoning a witness to produce a document or documents to say that if the witness had no documents to produce he was bound to tell them instead of attending the Court in obedience to the summons. A witness subpœnaed by a party to a cause does not lose his right to be paid the reasonable expenses of attendance at the Court by that party merely because he has not been examined for the party and the circumstance that he is examined by the other does not make any difference and extinguish the right which the witness had against the party who subpœnaed him, if the witness attended the Court on that subpœna. PREMCHAND v. BURDITT & CO.; In re BULLOCK, 6 Bom. L.R. 1025=28 B. 647.

(8)—Rule 361—Suit against a firm—Names of members of the firm—Practice.—Rule 361 of the Rules and Forms of the Bombay High Court does not extend the jurisdiction of the Court; it merely sanctions the use of the firm's name as a convenient description of its several members and exempts a plaintiff from the obligation of setting forth their names at length. SHAW, WALLACE & Co. v. GORDHANDAS, 8 Bom. L.R. 56=30 B. 364.

(9)—Rule 544 — Taxation—Bill of costs—Practice.—Rule 544 of the Rules of the Bombay High Court does not empower a Judge to make an order on an attorney's application for taxation of his bill of costs for business not transacted in Court, unless such order be by consent, and the Court has not any inherent power on which the jurisdiction can be rested. In re FRAMJI COWASJI MARKER, 10 Bom. L.R. 76=32 B. 428, reversing on appeal, 9 Bom. L.R. 1014.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

——1.—Bombay—concluded.

(10)—Rule 544 of the High Court Rules, not exhaustive.—Rule 544 of the High Court Rules is not exhaustive. It gives a party chargeable with the bill power to apply to have his attorney's bill of costs taxed but it makes no corresponding provision enabling the attorney to apply to have his bill taxed without the consent of the party chargeable therewith. Apart from the Rule the Court has inherent jurisdiction to make any order that seems to the Court reasonable and necessary in the interests of justice, when one of its officers applies to the Court for an order for taxation of his costs due to him by his client. In re FRAMJI COWASJI, 9 Bom. L R. 1014=32 B. 428 reversed on appeal, 10 Bom. L.R. 76.

See ACT VI OF 1882, s. 134, 18 B. 65.

Rules made by the High Court have the force of law—See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ss. 122, 129, 130, and 131, 5 Bom. L R. 394.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 41, 17 B. 514.

See COMPANY—ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION AND LIABILITIES OF SHAREHOLDERS, 3 B. 439.

Rule 577—See COSTS—TAXATION OF COSTS, 9 Bom. L.R. 983=32 B. 262.

Rule 859—See COSTS—TAXATION OF COSTS, 9 Bom. L.R. 508=32 B. 1.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4, 5, 18 B. 84.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 84, 1 B. 253.

Time within which application to vary—Commissioners' report should be made—Bombay High Court Rules, ch. VI, r 6—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 13 B. 368.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 1 B. 158.

See PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1882, ss. 38, 71, 12 B. 408.

See SECURITY FOR COSTS, 13 B. 458.

See SEQUESTRATION, 8 B.H.C., O C. 135.

——2.—Calcutta.

(1)—Rules for conduct of business, cannot alter period of limitation.—The rules of the Court, prescribing certain hours for the receipt of petitions and hearing of motions, cannot operate to alter the period of limitation, prescribed by law so as to exclude urgent applications made at any time in the day. DESPUTTY SINGH v. DOOLAR ROY, 1 C L.R. 291.

(2)—Calcutta High Court Rules 1, 3 and 4, ch. XII—Necessity for affidavits.—Where the facts necessary to be proved by affidavit in connection with an application to the High Court are matters of record and are contained in copies of public records produced along with an application to the High Court, affidavits may be dispensed with, so far as those matters are concerned. ZAMIRAN v. FATEH ALI, 32 C. 146. [F., 8 C.L.J. 308.]

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

——2.—Calcutta—continued.

(3)—High Court rules, Appellate Side, Part II, Chap. IV, Rule XX—Security for respondents' costs in Privy Council appeal—Government securities of the nominal value of Rs. 4,000, if sufficient.—The deposit of 3½ per cent. Government securities of the nominal value of Rs. 4,000 as security for the costs of the respondents in an appeal preferred to His Majesty in Council is sufficient within the requirements of rule XX of chap. IV of the Part II of the rules of the Appellate Side, High Court. BIBI GOLAB KUMARI SHAHEBA v. GONESH CHANDRA MITTER, 13 C.W.N. 629=9 C.L.J. 560=36 C. 653=2 Ind. Cas 844.

(4)—Practice—Appeal — Failure to deliver paper book—Dismissal of appeal costs—Rule 49, Original Side.—Where, at the hearing of an appeal, the appellant does not appear and no paper books have been delivered for the use of the Judges either by the appellant or by the respondent in accordance with r. 49 of the Rules of the High Court, Original Jurisdiction, the appeal will be dismissed without costs. HURROSOONDERY DOSSEE v. CALLYPUDOO DUTT, 14 B. L. R. App. 11=23 W. R. 136. [Not F., 17 C. 289.]

(5)—Rule 515-A (10)—Registrar, power of, to dismiss a suit for want of prosecution.—In a case where the Registrar had made a peremptory order that the plaintiff should file her affidavit of documents within a certain time, and, in default, the suit to stand dismissed for want of prosecution: Held, that the effect of the Registrar's order was to fix a date peremptorily within which the affidavit must be filed and that, in default, the suit is liable to be dismissed on an application made to the Court. If, by the new Rule 515-A (10), it is intended to give the Registrar power to pass a decree, the Rule is ultra vires. The Court also can pass an order dismissing a suit, and an appeal lies from such an order. KAMALAKHY DOSSEE v. JOTINDRA MOHUN BANERJI, 6 C.L.J 374. (19 B. 307, F.)

(6)—Rules of Supreme Court—Rule 176.—Rule 176 of the Rules and Orders on the plea side of the Supreme Court is still in force. This rule does not apply to a suit on the equity side. KAILAS CHANDRA BOSE v. BHUBAN CHANDRA BOSE, 8 B.L.R. App. 18.

(7)—Rule 12, Rules of the High Court—Delay in second summons.—Rule 12 of the 1st of May 1875 is merely declaratory of what had been the previous practice. A Judge at Chambers, under this rule, is bound to exercise a discretion with regard to the granting of a second summons. He is bound to enquire into the circumstances under which it is applied for, and if he finds that a plaintiff has placed himself in a difficulty by his own laches he is quite right in saying that the Court will not help him out of that difficulty. GOURCHURN SOOR v. PEARY LALL PAUL, 15 B.L.R. App. 12.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts—continued.

——2.—Calcutta—continued.

This circular draws attention to High Court Rules under the Court Fees Act published in "Calcutta Gazette" of 25th February 1874. Civ. Cir. No. 10 of 7th March 1874, 21 W.R. Rules and Ors., 17.

This circular states that a portion of Circular Memo. No. 3 of 1st February 1873, is rescinded. 25 W.R H.C. Rules General Letter No.3, dated 17th February 1876, p. 5.

Under this circular specimens of all registers kept in subordinate Courts are called for. 25 W R.H.C. Rules General Letter No. 5, dated 25th March 1876, p. 8.

Government order, allowing Small Cause Court clerks to draw cheques on head treasury cancelled. 25 W.R.H C. Rules General Letter No. 6, dated 29th March 1876, p. 8.

This circular deals with applications for repairs or construction. 25 W.R.H C Rules Cir. Or. No. 6, dated 24th April 1876, p. 9.

R. 25, ultra vires—See ACT XVIII OF 1879, ss. 7, 12, 14 C W.N. 415=1 Ind. Cas. 334.

See ACT XVIII OF 1879, s. 32, 8 C.W.N. 401.

R. 10 (1)—General Rules and Circular Orders of High Court—Applicability to the case of deposit of rent by tenant—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 61 (b), 62, 14 C.L.J. 116.

Rules of Court, Belchambers Rules and Orders—R. 436—Meaning of conveyance—See BELCHAMBER'S RULES AND ORDERS, 16 C. 330.

General Rules and Circular Orders (Civil), ch. VI, rr. 36 (b), 37 (b)—See COSTS—SPECIAL CASES, 11 C.L.J. 217=5 Ind. Cas. 770.

See COURT-FEES ACT, s. 20, 26 C. 124=3 C.W.N. 82.

S. 515 A—See DECREE—MISCELLANEOUS, 13 C.W.N. 787=3 Ind. Cas. 999.

R. 748—Power-of-attorney executed before, and authenticated by, a Notary—Court may call for further evidence to prove execution and authentication—See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, ss. 85 and 114, 9 C.W.N. 986=33 C. 625.

R. 3, ch. II, Rules of High Court, Appellate side—See GUARDIAN—APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN, 26 C. 133=3 C.W.N. 91.

Rr. 50, 52 of High Court of Calcutta dated 6th June, 1874—See INSPECTION OF DOCUMENTS, 1 C. 178.

Nos. 111 to 118 and 132—Attorneyship examination—Discretion of Board of Examiners—

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts—continued.

——2.—Calcutta—concluded.

Jurisdiction of the High Court to interfere—See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—ATTORNEY, 12 C.W.N. 873=4 M.L.T. 157=35 C. 915.

R. 515-A—Authority to Registrar or master to grant leave to sue—Ultra vires—See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865—CALCUTTA, cl. 12, 5 C.L.J 405=11 C.W.N. 649=34 C. 619=2 M.L.T. 406 and 11 C.W.N. 663.

See MANAGER—MANAGER OF ATTACHED PROPERTY, 8 B.L.R. App. 23=16 W.R. 273.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 24 C. 437=2 C.W.N. 57, 17 C. 289, 15 C. 706.

R No. 70—See PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1882, s. 38, 3 C.L.J. 199.

(1) R. 740, whether overrides s. 87, Probate and Administration Act—See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, s. 87, 37 C. 224=5 Ind. Cas. 1003.

See REFERENCE TO FULL BENCH, 2 C.W.N. 405, F.B.

See REVIEW—JURISDICTION TO REVIEW, 24 C. 350, F.B.=1 C.W.N. 21.

High Court, Original side—Revisional jurisdiction over Presy. S C. Court—Practice—Appellate Side Rules, R. IV (a)—See SANCTION TO PROSECUTE, 14 C.W.N. 806=6 Ind. Cas. 473=37 C. 714.

See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882, s. 104, 4 C.W.N. 474.

——3.—Madras.

(1)—Attorneys—Vakils—Appearance, etc., on the Original side of High Court.—The 4th and 5th Rules of Court of 1866 are within the powers conferred on the High Court by the Letters Patent of 1865, and the provisions of the Letters Patent "relating to the admission and powers of advocates, vakils and attorneys" are authorized by 24 and 25 Vic., Chap. 104. In the matter of the petition of the ATTORNEYS, 1 M. 24, F.B.

(2)—Rule of Court—Table of fees—Appeal from order—Court fee.—Under art. 20 of the Rule of Court, dated 24th July 1874, an appeal against an order should bear a Court-fee of fifty rupees. GANAPATHI v. BALASUNDARA, 7 M. 540.

(3)—Rules of Practice (Madras High Court), paras 9 and 10—Para 9 not laying down a condition of sale—Application of para 10 to a party failing to comply with para 9—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 312.—Para 10 in Form No. 56 of the Civil Rules of Practice, which lays down that, if a purchaser at a Court sale fails to comply with any of the conditions of sale set forth in the form, his deposit shall be forfeited to Government does not apply to a case of failure to comply with

F. N. Das
Advocate High Court

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

—3.—Madras—continued.

the directions given in para 9 in the above form, requiring the purchaser to produce, within a fixed time, two copies of his sale certificate for the approval of the Judge. This provision in para 9 is merely directory and cannot be said to be a condition of sale in the ordinary acceptation of the term and if it was intended to be anything more than directory it would be ultra vires as inconsistent with s. 312 of the Civ. Pro. Code. SYED ABDUL RAHMAN SAHIB v. GOVINDA PADAYACHI, 15 M.L.J. 406.

(4)—High Court (Madras), r. 105 — Two appeals to lower appellate Court and one decree —Plurality of second appeals to High Court—Practice—Procedure.—There were two appeals to a District Court from the original decree of a District Munsiff. The District Court passed only one decree on both appeals. It was now contended that there should be two second appeals to the High Court on the ground that there were two appeals to the lower appellate Court. Held, that High Court R. 105, lays down the practice, that, when there are two appeals from the same decree, they should if possible, be heard together and only one decree passed, that only one second appeal should be entered and that even if two appeals had been entered, the proper course would be to hear them together and pass one decree. GANGULAKURTI SANYASI LINGAM v. MIDUGONDA GAVARAMMA, 16 M.L.J. 411. (26 M. 97, R.)

R. 27—Violation by pleader — See ACT XVIII OF 1879, ss. 13, 14, 8 Ind. Cas. 677.

Application of R. 3 No. 2 — See COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, s. 7, IV C., 1 M.L.T. 412 = 30 M. 18.

Change of attorney by client, leave of Court necessary for, under Rule 320 of the High Court—Non-payment of costs to previous attorney, ground for witholding leave—See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—ATTORNEY AND CLIENT, 23 M. 134.

Rr. 154 and 155 of the Original Side rules —Application to set aside dismissal for default —See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, art. 163, 17 M. L.J. 215.

Madras High Court Rules (in original side), 1902, R. 47—Counter claims—Whether could be set up against each plaintiff—Court's discretion—See PARTNERSHIP—GENERAL, 8 M.L. T. 73 = 7 Ind. Cas. 267.

Rules of High Court of 21st June 1882—See PAYMENT INTO COURT, 7 M. 211.

Rules of the original side of High Court of Madras — R. 533—Right of Advocates to appear and plead instructed by vakils—See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 3 M.L.T. 322.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 21 M. 490.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

—3.—Madras—concluded.

See PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, ss. 6, 18, cls. (a) and (c), 33, 18 M. 236, F.B. = 5 M.L.J. 114.

High Court (Madras), Original side rules, r. 470—Application by sureties to vacate administration bond—Legality—See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, s. 256, 7 M.L.T. 160 = 5 Ind. Cas. 311 = 33 M. 373.

—4.—North-West Provinces.

(1)—Civ. Pro. Code, ss. 36, 37, 39, 635—Pleader handing over brief to another—Rule of Court.—The High Court is fully within the powers conferred upon it by s. 635, Civ. Pro. Code, in making a rule authorising legal practitioners in certain cases to appoint other legal practitioners to hold their briefs and appear in their place, as the rule is passed to facilitate the work of the Court and for the convenience of the public. MATADIN v. GANGA BAI, 9 A. 613, F.B. = 7 A.W.N. 152. [F., 9 A. 617; R., 22 B. 654, U.B.R. 1902, 2nd Qr., Power of Attorney 1, 9 O.C. 65.]

(2)—Letters Patent, High Court, N.W.P., s. 10 —Appeal—Rules of pratice—Limitation.—Rule I of the Rules of Practice adopted by the High Court for the N.W.P. which provided ninety days for the admission of appeals under s. 10 of the Letters Patent had a legal origin and was not ultra vires of the Court. NAUBAT RAM v. HARNAM DAS, 9 A. 115 = A.W.N. 1886, 306. (5 B.L.R. 47, 2 A. 192, R.) [R., 32 B. 14 = 9 B.L.R. 1138 = 2 M.L.T. 410.]

(3)—Civ. Pro. Code, 1882, s. 575—Rules of High Court—"Judgment".—The word "Judgment" in Rule II of the Rules of the High Court, N.W.P., to regulate references under s. 575 of the Civ. Pro. Code, must not be construed literally, but must be taken to mean an expression of opinion containing reasons for a contemplated or proposed judgment. ROHILKHAND AND KUMAON BANK. (LD.) v. ROW, 6 A. 468. [R., 9 A. 625, F.B.]

(4)—Rules of Court of the 4th April 1894, r. 461—Costs—Fees allowable on the withdrawal of a case under s. 373 of the Civ. Pro. Code—Revision—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 622.—Held, that the possibly erroneous decision by a subordinate Court of a question of law which that Court had jurisdiction to decide can form no ground for the exercise of the High Court's revisional jurisdiction under s. 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure. (11 C. 6, 1 C.W.N. 617, R.). Semble that R. 461 of the Rules of Court of the 4th of April 1894, does not apply to cases where a suit is withdrawn under the provisions of s. 373 of the Code of Civil Procedure. LACHMAN DUBE v. BASANTI BIBI, A.W.N. 1903, 12.

(5)—Rules of Court of the 18th January 1898, r. 221—Costs—Affidavit as to payment of fees of respondent's counsel not filed before delivery of judgment—Order allowing counsel's fees for special cause.—A certain outstanding balance of the fees of counsel retained for the respondent was not paid until the day upon which the appeal came on for hearing. On that day the person before whom affidavits are usually made in the High Court was absent at the time when the respondent's agent wished to make the affidavit required by Rule 221 of the Rules of Court of the 18th January, 1898, and such affidavit was not made before the appeal was heard and judgment delivered. Under these circumstances the Court permitted the fees paid to the respondent's counsel to be certified for after judgment, and allowed such fees to be entered in favour of the respondent in their decree dismissing the appeal. SAMUNDAR LAL v. ASHARFI KUNWAR, A.W.N. 1899, 216.

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

——4.—North West Provinces—continued.

(6)—Practice—Rules of Court of the 30th November, 1889, r. 45—Process fees—Extension of time for payment of process fees.—It is competent to the Court upon sufficient cause shown to extend the time limited by r. 45 of the Rules of Court of the 30th of November, 1889, for payment of process fee. RAM LAL v. JAMNA DAS, A.W.N. 1897, 157.

(7)—Rules of Court, 11*th June*, 1887—Powers of single Judge—Security for costs of appeal—Civ. Pro. Code, s. 549—Under the Rules of Court of the 11th June, 1887, a single Judge of the High Court has no power to make an order under s. 549 of the Civ. Pro. Code, requiring an appellant to give security for the costs of the appeal. Where an appeal has been filed and admitted, and the respondents have appeared and are represented, and there is no danger of any further extraordinary costs being incurred, the Court will not make an order calling upon the appellant to give security for costs under s. 549 of the Civ. Pro. Code. FARKHANDATUNNISSA v. THE COLLECTOR OF MEERUT, A.W.N. 1889, 147.

(8)—4*th April*, 1894, No. 80 (1)—Certificate and affidavit of Legal Practitioner's fee filed subsequent to judgment.—Where no certificate or affidavit as to the fees of a legal practitioner under r. 80 (1) of the Rules (High Court) of the 4th April, 1894, was filed until after delivery of the judgment. Held, that the amount of the fee should not have been included with the other costs, but that, had their Lordships been satisfied that the fee was in point of fact paid prior to the delivery of the judgment, it is possible that they would not have exercised their discretionary power to interfere under s. 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure. BISHUN SINGH v. RAJA PATESARI PARTAP NARAIN SINGH, A.W.N. 1906, 169.

(9)—R. 80 (1)—Provise — Fee paid after first hearing—Allowance on taxation—Discretion—Certificate received after commencement of hearing.—R. 80 (1) of the rules of High Court, dated 4th April, 1894, prescribes that the

Rules of the High Courts and Supreme Courts*—continued.

——4.—North West Provinces—concluded.

Court shall be satisfied that the fee is paid to the pleader at or before the commencement of the hearing of a suit, as also of the delivery to the Munsarim of a certificate signed by the legal practitioner certifying the amount of the fee actually paid to him. Where, therefore, the fee was not paid to a legal practitioner till after the commencement of the hearing, the Court was justified in refusing to allow the fee so paid on taxation. The proviso to r.80 only gives a Court a discretion to accept a certificate for fees filed after the commencement of the hearing but it gives him no discretion as to allowance of fee, on taxation, which was not paid on or before the first hearing. THE BANK OF BENGAL, CAWNPORE v. KALKA DAS, 8 A.L.J. 109=9 Ind. Cas. 422.

Application for amendment of decree—Costs incorrectly assessed by the ministerial officers of the Court in drawing up the decree—Rules of Court of the 18th January 1898, r. 212—See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XX, r. 6 and s. 152, A.W.N. 1901, 94.

See CIV. PRO CODE, 1908, O. XLI, r. 19, A.W.N. 1898, 155.

Rules Nos. 89 and 205—See COSTS — SPECIAL CASES, A.W.N. 1905, 83.

See JUDGMENT—FORM AND CONTENTS, 9 A. 93, F.B.

Rules of the High Court of the 18th January, 1898, Rules 2, 180, 182, 183 and 197—Advocate — Misconduct — Removal from the roll of Advocates — See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, N.W.P., 3 A L.J. 592, F.B.=1 M.L.T. 252=A.W.N. 1906, 226.

Rule 197 of — Suspension of Advocate — Disciplinary authority of High Court—Counsel guilty of contempt—See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, N.W.P., 4 A.L.J. 34=9 Bom. L.R. 9, P.C.=17 M L.J. 74=11 C.W.N. 273 =5 C.L.J. 130=2 M.L.T. 1=5 Cr. L. J. 152= 29 A. 95.

See LETTERS PATENT, HIGH COURT, 1865 N.W.P., ss. 10, 27, A.W.N. 1887, 199.

Rules of Court of the 18th January 1898, Rule 8-D — Appeal against a representative of a party deceased since the passing of the lower Courts decree—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908, ss. 4 and 5, art. 181, A.W.N. 1901, 46.

Rule 12—See MUNSARIM, 2 A.L.J. 55= A.W.N. 1905, 12=27 A. 411.

Rules for Presidency Small Cause Court's Act.

(1)—R. 98—Civ. Pro. Code, 1908, s. 115 — Suit in Presidency Small Cause Court—Appearance of defendant at one hearing—Evidence recorded in part—Failure to appear subsequently —Decree ex parte—Legality—Proper course—Revision—Interference by High Court.—Where, in a suit before the Presidency Small Cause Rules for Presidency Small Cause Court's Act—concluded.

Court, in which the defendant had previously appeared and some evidence on both sides had been recorded, the Judge dealt with the suit ex parte as if the defendant had never appeared at all and passed a decree. Held, that the Judge ought to have proceeded under r. 98 of the rules framed by the High Court for the guidance of the Presidency Small Cause Court of Madras, (12 M.L.J. 473, R.) and that the present case was a proper one for the interference of the High Court under s. 115, Civ. Pro. Code, 1908. A. P. PATCHAPERUMAL CHETTY v. G. E. SAMPATHU CHETTY, 10 M.L.T. 163. (18 M.L. J. 566, R.)

Rules—Rules of Privy Council.

See APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE, 1 B.L.R. O.C. 39.

Admission to practice in Privy Council—High Court Vakil—Ss. 2, 3 of the Rules of 31st March 1871—See PRIVY COUNCIL, PRACTICE OF—MISCELLANEOUS, 16 C. 636, P.C. =16 I.A. 163.

Rules of Practice.

See PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.

Rules of practice, original side, No. 292—Commission to examine accounts—Commissioner's report, correctness of.—Where a Commissioner is appointed in a suit to examine certain accounts and he sends a report which the Court does not vary, it is unreasonable that the appellate Court should go into particulars in the accounts in regard to which both the Commissioner and the Judge have come to the same conclusion. According to r. 292 of the Rules of Practice on the original side, the appellate Court cannot question the correctness of the various items in the accounts. THIRUVENGADASAMI MUDALIAR v. RAGHAVACHARY, 8 M.L.J. 133.

Small Cause Courts—Notes of Judgment—Copy of decree—See COURT FEES ACT, sch. I, art. 7, 6 M.H.C. App. 23.

Of Calcutta Small Cause Court—Time for service of summons — See PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT. 1850, ss. 26, 41, 9 B.L.R. 256.

Rule to show cause.

(1)—Rule obtained by person not party to suit—Practice.—The Court will not make a rule absolute obtained by a person who is not a party to the suit. GRANT, SMITH & CO. v. STEEL, 1 Ind. Jur. N.S. 60.

(2)—Ex parte application—Contents—Duty to state all facts fully—Issue of rule.—Parties who come to Court on statements of facts, in the absence of the other side, praying for the issue of rules which interfere with the rights of persons executing decrees, are bound fully and fairly to state all the circumstances within their knowledge which it is necessary for the Rule to show cause—concluded.

Court to consider in grantig the rule. BROJO COOMAR MULLICK v. MON MOHINEE DEBEA, 16 W.R. 55.

(3)—When High Court will grant rule—Rule nisi.—The High Court can grant a rule to show cause only where the arguments are such that, if not displaced by the opposite party, the rule would be made absolute. OMRAO BEGUM, PETITIONER, 13 W.R. 310.

(4)—Against review of High Court's decree—Discharge—Discovery of fresh evidence—Admissibility.—A rule to show cause why the decree of the High Court should not reviewed, on the ground of the discovery of new evidence was discharged; as the applicants failed to show that the document brought forward was admissible as evidence, and that it was not within their knowledge, or could not be adduced by them at the time when such decree was passed. KOKDI v. JAGTAP, 3 B.H.C. A.C. 49.

(5)—Rule to show cause—Affidavit.—A rule to show cause must be supported by an affidavit. The affidavit must be sufficient, so that if no cause is shown, the rule could be made absolute on the affidavit. In re COMPTOIS D'ESCOMPTE DE PARIS v. CURRIE AND CO., 3 B.L.R. App. 153.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, O. XXI, r. 2, 11 C. 166.

See CONTEMPT OF COURT, 7 B.H.C. O.C. 172.

See SEQUESTRATION, 8 B.H.C. O.C. 236.

Ruling Chief.

See CIV. PRO. CODE, 1908, s. 85, A.W.N. 1886, 133.

Raja of Poonch is a—Suit against—Want of consent under s. 433, Civ. Pro. Code—Suit along with other defendants—See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT, 21 P.R. 1909=32 P.L.R. 1909=27 P.W.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 604.

Taluqdar of Kathiawar, whether a — See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS, 8 B. 415.

Suit by contractor against—See LIMITATION ACT, 1908 s. 19, art. 56, 14 P.L.R. 1909=43 P.R. 1910=79 P.W.R. 1909.

See NAWAB OF TANK, 30 C. 843, P.C.=67 P.R. 1903=112 P.L.R. 1903.

Rulings of High Court.

—Practice—Different rulings by different High Courts—Duty of subordinate Courts—Practice.—Where there are different rulings by different High Courts on the same point, a Judge must follow the ruling of the High Court to which he is subordinate. BALAJI GANESH v. SAKHARAM PARESHRAM ANGEL, 17 B. 555. [Cons., 27 B. 1; R., 8 C.W.N. 66=31 C. 83.]

Rural Police, Hazaribagh Lohardugga.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1878.

Advocate High Court Jammu & Kashmir Srinagar

Rural Police Rate.

Rural Police rate, suit by proprietor against under-proprietors for recovery of—Implied contract of maintenance of chowkidar—N.W.P. and Oudh Act V of 1894, ss. 13 and 14—Wajib-ul-arz, admissibility in evidence of.—The respondent was the superior proprietor of a village and the appellants were the under-proprietors. The respondent sued the appellants for a certain sum which he had paid to Government on account of the Rural Police rate imposed upon the village under s. 13 of N.W.P. and Oudh Act V of 1894. He contended that the appellants were, within the meaning of s. 14 of the Act, "bound by contract" to provide for the maintenance of the chowkidar. It was conceded that if the wajib-ul arz of the village was admissible in evidence there was evidence upon the record, facts from which the existence of a contract between the talukdar and the under-proprietors should be inferred whereby the latter were bound to provide for the maintenance of the chowkidar but it was contended that the word "contract" in s. 14 of Act V of 1894 means an express contract and not an implied contract. Held, that the Legislature did not intend that the word "contract" in s. 14 of N.W.P. and Oudh Act V of 1894 should be confined to an express contract between the superior and inferior proprietors, that the wajib-ul-arz was admissible as evidence of the arrangements made for the maintenance of the chowkidar. KUSHARI DIN v. RANI CHANDAR KUAR, 7 O.C. 35.

Ruthusanti.

Griha-Pravesam and—Expenses of daughter defrayed by widowed mother—Suit to recover amount expended from husband's undivided brother—Right to maintain suit—See HINDU LAW—MARRIAGE, 26 M. 497=13 M.L.J. 25.

Ryot.

See RAIYATI INTEREST.

See RAIYATI LAND.

See RAIYATWARI ESTATE.

Ryoti Holding.

See RAIYATI HOLDING.

Ryoti Kadimi Tenure.

See ENHANCEMENT OF RENT, 12 B.L.R. 229, P.C.=19 W.R. 353.

Ryotwari Settlement.

(1)—Ryotwari Settlement of Government estate as khas mehal—Permanent grant, presumption of.—The ryotwari settlement for a period of 30 years (from 1247 B. S.), as a khas mehal, of an estate that was atone time Government property, and the record in such settlement of a person as tenant at a certain rent, would not compel the presumption that the origin of the tenant's title was a grant to continue in permanent possession. ARUT SAHOO v. PRANDHONE PYKURA, 10 C. 502. (3 C. 696, F.; 13 B.L.R. 417=17 W.R. 383, R.)

Ryotwari Tenure.

(1)—Right to Government to construct calingula so as to flood a ryotwari holder's lands—Continuing injury—Limitation Act, s. 23.—Plaintiffs sued for a mandatory injunction directing the defendant (the Secretary of State) to block up a calingula or "bye wash" in a certain channel. The calingula was constructed by Government, in 1882, for the purpose of reducing the flow of water into a tank through the channel. Plaintiffs contended that the necessary effect of the calingula was to cause the water diverted from the channel to flood their lands and render them unfit for cultivation. The contention for the defendant (Secretary of State) was that the damage to the plaintiffs was caused by the floods of 1895 and not by the construction of the calingula. The question for decision was whether the Government were acting within their rights when, in 1882, they erected a calingula, which caused water from the channel to flow over the plaintiff's land. Held, per Arnold White, C.J.—Though it may be taken as settled law that Government have the right to distribute the water of Government channels for the benefit of the public, subject to the right of ryotwari, (7 M.H.C. 60, 16 M. 333, R.) land-holders, to receive such supply as may be sufficient for their accustomed requirements it cannot be said that the rights of Government, in connection with the distribution of water, include a right to flood a man's lands because, in the opinion of the Government, the erection of work which has this effect is desirable in connection with the general distribution of water for the public benefit. The fact that the opening of the calingula was necessary for the protection of the tank, and the fact that there was no negligence in its construction—so for as the calingula was concerned—did not deprive the plaintiffs of their right to have the property protected. For the defendant, Government, to succeed, it would be necessary to show that they could not exercise their statutory powers without injuring the lands of the plaintiffs. Statutory powers authorizing the construction of works are granted "on the condition sometimes expressed and sometimes understood—but if not expressed always understood—that the undertakers shall do as little damage as possible in the exercise of their statutory powers. (27 B. 344, R.) Held further, that the injury complained of by the plaintiffs was a continuing injury within the meaning of s. 23 of the Limitation Act, the cause of action accruing de die in diem as long as the injury continues. (6 C. 394, 6 B. 20, 1 M. 335, R.) Per Subramania Ayyar, J.—The imperativeness ascribable to the maintenance of irrigation works once lawfully brought into existence must be confined strictly to the conservation of the work as originally designed and executed and cannot be extended to any material alterations and additions made in, or to, any existing old work. Such alterations and additions should, in reason, be held to stand on the same footing as that of perfectly new works and thus subject to the restriction applicable to the case of new works, viz., there should be no invasion thereby of the rights of others. In this view, it is clear that the 'bye-wash' in question was essentially a new work and that, so long as such work is made, the instrument of throwing water on the plaint lands without the consent of the owners, they (plaintiffs) have a ground of complaint, unless it be that a different conclusion has to be arrived at with reference to the character of the tenure under which those lands are held by them; and there being nothing in the nature of the tenure of the plaintiffs (ryotwari tenure) to support the contention of the Secretary of State, the plaintiff had a cause of action against Government. On the question of limitation, his Lordship agreed with the Chief Justice that the injury was a continuing wrong and that plaintiffs' suit was not barred. In the result, an injunction was granted to the plaintiffs restraining the defendant from throwing the water on plaintiff's lands. SANKARAVADIVELU PILLAI v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE. 15 M.L.J. 32=28 M. 72. [R., 28 M. 539=15 M.L.J. 251, 32 M. 141=5 M.L.T. 149 =19 M.L.J. 131, 31 M. 171=18 M.L.J. 178=

Ryotwari Tenure—continued.

Ryotwari Tenure—concluded.

3 M.L.T. 273, 32 M. 423=5 M.L.T. 143; D., 31 M. 117=18 M.L.J. 91.]

Tenant with undivided share in a holding may be a—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 45, 3 Ind. Cas. 350.

Definition of—See BEN. ACT, VIII OF 1885, s. 19, 21 C. 129.

See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, s. 85, 29 C. 148.

Status of the ryots dealt with in the decision of Settlement Officer—Order of Special Judge on appeal from Settlement Officer's decision—Second appeal—See BEN. ACT VIII OF 1885, ss. 104 (2), 106, 107, 108, cl. 2, 21 C. 776.

Ryotwari Village.

Right of the public in public streets—See MAD. ACT V OF 1884, 9 Bom. L.R. 663=4 A.L.J. 333=11 C.W.N. 585=17 M.L.J. 240= 2 M.L.T. 204=5 C.L.J. 565=30 M. 195, P.C.

See RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY—ACQUISITION OF RIGHT. 6 C. 196=7 C.L.R. 47.

S. N. Dar
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

(END OF VOLUME VIII)

J & K UNIVERSITY LIB.
K. DIVISION
Acc. No. 76117
Date 25. 2. 70

PRINTED AT THE LAW PRINTING HOUSE, MOUNT ROAD, MADRAS.

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY
LIBRARY.

DATE LOANED

Class No. [redacted] Book No. [redacted]

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. [redacted]